Altoonita (p), 2:25, was driven by James Dwin and adds one to Altoona's list, besides putting Dolly, her dam and the dam of Bruno, 2:19, into the great brood mare table.

SECOND DAY, TUESDAY, OCT. 1.

The attendance at the races yesterday was noticeably larger than on Monday, and Monday showed a larger attendance than Tuesday, the opening day of last year. Hence it is now an assured fact that the gate receipts will be the largest in the history of the Association. The day was pleasant in the earlier hours of the afternoon, but later a heavy fog and raw wind came up, and made fast time impossible. The races, however, were high-class, and while the finishes were not so close generally, as on Monday, they were sufficiently so to keep up a lively interest.

The judges and timers were the same as on Monday, except that Charles G. White of the Del Monte Stables was in the judges' stand instead of S. N. Matthews.

The yearling trotting stake, mile dash, was a cake-walk for George E. Shaw's sorrel colt, Uncle Johnny, by Benton Boy, dam by Brown Jug. J. D. Carr's Boodle filly, out of an Electioneer mare, finished second, Silvan, by Electricity, third, and L. W. L., by Bay Rum, fourth. Ivaneer did not start, Time, 3:07. The winner was an even-money favorite over the field.

The 2:24 class trot for a purse of $600 was won by the favorite Lady O., she taking the first, third and fourth beats. Maud H. landed the second heat. The summary was as follows: Lady O., 1-5-1-1; Maud H., 4-1-2-4; Letter B., 5-2-5-2; Lady Thornhill, 2-4-3-3; Flora G., 3-3-4-5; His Royal Nibs distanced in first heat. Time, 2:21, 2:21, 2:21½, 2:24½. In this race Maud H. lowered her record three seconds.

May B. landed the special trot in three straight heats, Lara E. a close second in each heat. Abe Waltham got third money and Minnie B. fourth. Sea Breeze finished behind the money. Time, 2:31, 2:28½, 2:27.

In this race both the contesting fillies are by Altoona 8850. May B. in the last heat lowered her record three seconds, and Lara E. finished only a neck behind.

CHARLES BOOTS, of the Elmwood Stock Farm, has secured second call on the services of Donahue and Donnelly, the Burns & Waterhouse jockeys. Under the terms of the contract Donahue will ride all the Boots horses at 105 pounds or over, Donnelly doing the lighter riding. Of course they will only ride the Elmwood Stock Farm horses when the big mining folks have no entry in a race.

TURF AND TRACK

THE SULKY.

AZOTE has won nearly $8,000 in races this year.

Do not forget to make entries for the horse show.

WOVEN WIND, 2:25½, is the latest sensational two-year-old.

It is "descendants" of Electioneer this year. Thus time flies.

SPHINX's latest 2:30 trotter sports the charming name of Swinx.

WALTER MABEN will not be able to drive a horse this season.

DEL MAR, 2:16½, sire of Copeland, 4, 2:20½, is Electioneer's latest producing son.

THE bay mare Anthelia, 2:18, by Anteeo, dropped dead September 20th at Evansville, Ind.

KERINS, a bay horse by Sphinx got a record of 2:27 at Lansing, Michigan, September 25th.

WALDO J., 2:09, and Rex Gifford, 2:14 (as a four-year-old), are both out of A. W. Richmond mares.

NOAVARD, a bay horse by Norval, got a record of 2:19½, pacing, at Dubuque, Iowa, September 24th.

KLAMATH was shipped from the Hedrick, Iowa, meeting to his home in Santa Ana, Cal., last Monday.

ALOHA, by A. W. Richmond, is the dam of King Buzz, 2:23½, Miss Monroe, 2:27½, and Directress, 2:28½.

WOVEN WIND is the name of a two-year-old by Sphinx that got a record of 2:25½ at Sturgis, Mich., Sept. 17.

NELLIE CLOUD, by Hawthorne, trotted a race to wagon at Cleveland, September 21st, and won in 2:27½ and 2:27.

PRINCE G. is a new one to the credit of Othello, 2:29½; he got a mark of 2:23½ at Elktion, Indiana, September 12th.

G. MORRISON, by Anteros, is a new comer to the list; he got a record of 2:26½ at Logansport, Indiana, September 20th.

THE great race meeting at Hollister commences next Monday, October 7th. Elaborate preparations are being made for it.

JESSE D. CARR, of Salinas, has five splendid yearlings by Boodle, 2:14, and two by Hambletonian Wilkes, out of first-class mares.

F. I. HANSON, a chestnut horse by Hambletonian Wilkes, won a good race at Davenport, Iowa, Sept. 19, and got a record of 2:22½.

TILTON THORN, by Hawthorne, out of a mare by Tilton Almont, has a record of 2:24, which he made at Wahash, Indiana, September 20th.

JACK W., a bay gelding by Waldstein, 2:22½, won a good race at the Rohnerville County Fair last week, getting a record of 2:19½ in this heat.

MENLO PRINCESS is a three-year-old filly by Anteros, out of a mare by Princeton. She got a record of 2:26½ at Timonium, Maryland, September 17th.

ALBERT C. is the name of a bay gelding by Clay, 2:25, dam by Signet, that got a record of 2:25½ at Timonium, Md., September 18th, defeating a big field.

THE gentlemen who used to make the quitting habits of the Electioneers the burden of their "evening orison and early matin song" are singing low just now.

THERE has not been a sign of sickness among the horses at the San Mateo Stock Farm this year. The mares, colts and fillies never looked as well as they do at present.

MISS RUSSELL, by Pilot Jr., dam of Maud S., 2:08½, and Nutwood, sire of Lockheart, 2:08½, is the only mare that has produced a 2:10 trotter and a sire of a 2:10 trotter.

THERE are a number of yearlings by Norris, 2:22½, at the Palo Alto Stock Farm that are surprising the kindergarten trainer by the remarkable speed they are showing.

ELLA T.'s record is 2:11½, made in the second heat of a race in which she got second money at Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 19th. Dan Lawrence held the ribbons over her.

CH. HUGHES, Mabel H., by Alex Button, out of Winnie, won a good race at Vienna last month, defeating ten others. Mabel H. was bred by J. H. Hoppin, of Yolo, Yolo county, Cal.

THE pacing mare Smilax, by Sidney, owned by Alex. Newburger, of New York, stepped a mile at Fleetwood Park recently in 2:15½. She will not be started in a race until next year.

KANSAS ELECTIONEER, by Campbell's Electioneer, 2:17½, has been sold by J. E. Ford, Newton, Kan., to Harry Giddings, Vienna, Austria, and has been shipped from New York.

DR. H. SPENCER and his son Hume are the leading veterinarians in Santa Clara county. Their work is commended most highly by horsemen; hence they have a splendid practice.

VISALIA received a five heat workout in San Jose a few days before her race with Boodle, and consequently "lost her speed." Many a race has been lost by this preparatory system.

A STATISTICIAN figures out that nearly 300 two, three and four-year-old trotters have beaten 2:30 in 1895 so far. It is not so long since the entire annual "new 2:30 list" numbered less.

IN a race at Providence, R. I., September 18, the following named California-bred horses appeared: Sebina, San Pedro, Vina Belle and Richmond Jr. None of them won a heat, however.

CHEHALIS, 2:07½, came very near equalling the 2:07 record made by that other fast pacer Will Kerr; both wearing hobbles. We look for Chehalis to retire to winter quarters with a mark of 2:05.

THERE will be five youngsters by the great sire, Palo Alto sold in New York next December. They are to be disposed of at auction together with a number of other trotters from the famous Palo Alto farm.

LOCKHEART's three heats in 2:09, 2:08½, 2:09, at Hedrick, Ia., last Thursday, are the fastest three consecutive heats ever trotted by a stallion, replacing Trevillian's three in 2:10½, 2:08½, 2:09½, at Nashville last year.

SILVER CHIMES, a three-year-old gelding by Almy Chimes, out of the dam of Alti, 2:11½, took a pacing record of 2:24½, a couple of weeks ago. Almy Chimes is the first son of Chimes to sire a standard performer.

FROM a racing standpoint the San Jose meeting was a great success, but from the standpoint of patronage it was almost a failure. More people attended the Napa and Petaluma fairs than in this populous place.

HENRY NUTWOOD, the handsome bay stallion that got a record of 2:29 at San Jose, is by Henry Patchen (brother to Big Lize, 2:24½), out of Lady Weeks (dam of Ethel Downes, 2:14½), by Nutwood; second dam by Williamson's Belmont.

R. D. FOX, of San Jose, has a colt by Sable Wilkes, 2:18, out of a sister to Chancellor, 2:16, that he calls Mt. Eden, and with but five weeks' handling trotted a mile in 2:30 last week. He is a little fellow, but a prettier gaited horse would be difficult to find.

THE leading money-winners of the season are as follows: Azote, $5,600; Bright Regent, $5,250; El Rami, $5,000; Larabie, $1,950; Klamath, $4,750; Beuzetta, $4,700; Bouncer, $4,500; Bumps, $4,500; Fred Kohl, $4,450; Iron Bar, $4,150; The Corporal, $4,000.

COLUMBUS S., Jasper Paulsen and Our Lucky were as lame when they finished the third heat of the 2:27 class trot at San Jose. The track was hard and "dead" and it did not help their lameness, but Columbus S. had the most gameness as well as lameness and won.

FRENCH mutuels in France pay a tax to the State and consequently a record of the bettings is kept. Last year Paris bet $37,800,000 in this form alone on horse races. There is no account of how much passed through the hands of the bookmakers and private agencies.

THERE were eighteen heats paced at the San Jose meeting and the average was 2:13½. Of the trotting heats there were twenty-seven, and the average was 2:17½. This is a showing that speaks volumes for the excellence of the course and the class of horses that appeared there.

EYRAUD, by Eros, and Alco, by Alconeer, two young stallions that recently appeared on the California circuit, were gelded last week; their owner, H. W. Crahh, of Oakville believing they will be easier kept and much faster if they are "on the list" with so many other fast campaigners.

IMPETUOUS, the sensational young trotter belonging to E. McHenry's string, has been operated upon by the veterinary surgeon in the hope of benefiting her throat. She has had considerable trouble in breathing when going a fast mile. The doctors opened her throat and inserted a silver tube.

THE great harness and horse hoot manufacturer, John A. McKerron, is busily engaged in making a number of sets of double and four-in-hand harnesses. His work in this line surpasses anything ever before attempted on this Coast, and every week he receives Eastern orders for this class of work.

ENGLISH horsemen call four horses a team, while we have two-horse teams, four-horse teams, six or eight-horse teams. They "turn to the left when they drive right." We "turn to the right as the law directs." They pride in short tails with hairy legs; we prefer long, flowing tails and clean legs.

NO HORSE has ever started against the record with fairer prospects of success than Azote. He has shown his speed and stamina in a great many races, and he has obtained his high reputation not in efforts against the watch, but in hard conflicts with the best campaigners of the country. He is no carpet knight, but a genuine race horse.

JOHN DICKERSON, of the San Mateo Stock Farm, has Lesa Wilkes, Burlingame, Oro Wilkes, Fred Kohl, F. S. Moody and a number of other famous horses at the Lexington race track. We understand that Mr. Corbett has made arrangements to sell a number of his very choicest campaigners, broodmares, stallions, colts and fillies in New York this winter.

THE yearling filly by Norris, 2:22½, out of Elaine, that showed such phenomenal trotting speed in California last spring, has been sold by the Palo Alto Farm to J. Malcolm Forbes. At Boston, recently, though still under the depressing influence of the climatic change, she worked an easy half in 1:19½, and may yet be asked to step a full mile for a yearling record.

IF the admirers of Directly believes that he can defeat all of the three-year-old pacers in sight, they may be a trifle surprised to learn that they can get a race with Miss Rita. The parties controlling this pair race for the coin of the realm, not glory or notoriety, and the public would be pleased to see them come together just once, now that special pacing races have become so fashionable.

LOCKHEART, 2:08½, is one of the grandest-looking and purest-gaited trotters in training. He is a good actor and trots on his courage. He carries a six ounce shoe, and a two-ounce weight in front and wears scalpers, shin and quarter hoots. He served sixty-five mares this year and was placed in Shuler's hands the first of July. Mr. Shuler attributes most of the improvement in speed to the fact that Lockheart is carrying a much longer toe than he ever carried before. The Simmons gelding, Greenleaf, 2:10½, was a winner in Shuler's hands and he carried the longest toe of any fast trotter of his day. Lockheart took his present record at Hedrick with the wind blowing a gale and was pulled up at the finish. He has trotted a half in 1:02 and as he can go a turn as fast as he can a stretch, I predict that a mile in about 2:06 will just fit him when he strikes Terre Haute.

CARRIE BLACKWOOD, by Blue Bull, is now a member of the very select list of dams of four 2:20 performers. At the close of 1894 she was credited with Atlantic King, 2:09½, by Atlantic, 2:21; Mary Centlivre, 2:12, by R. C. Brown, and Carrie Strathmore, 2:17½, by Strathmore, and last week her son, Major Centlivre, 3, by Electric King, 2:24, took a record of 2:17½. All four of these are pacers, and, as will be noticed, all are by different sires.

SUTHERLAND & BENJAMIN's sterling son of Electioneer, Sphinx, is making his influence felt nowadays, through his trotting progeny. Eight of them have entered the list this season, including the great two-year-old winner Woven Wind, 2:25½, and the three-year-olds Sandy Boy, 2:16½, and Swinx, 2:30. Sphinxetta has reduced her record to 2:12½, Baker to 2:15½, and the new-comer, Senate, has a maiden mark of 2:16½. Michigan horsemen are proud of the showing made by the Saginaw sire.

FOR the Transylvania Stake, for trotters eligible to the 2:15 class, at the Kentucky Horse Breeders Association meeting at Lexington in October, the following are likely to start: Altas, 2:10½; Cephas, 2:11½; Athanio, 2:11½; Reussalaer Wilkes, 2:11½; James L., 2:11½; Lollie Wilkes, 2:11½; Baron Rogers, 2:11½; Lynne Bel, 2:11½; Bouncer, 2:12; Oscar William, 2:12½; Iron Bar, 2:12½; Baron Dillon, 2:12½; Northier, 2:13; Lady Wilton, 2:13; Lady Robert, 2:12½; Piletta, 2:14½; The Conqueror, 2:15½; Adra Belle, 2:15½; Queechy, 2:15½.

IF James Gordon Bennett should be successful in his determination to organize an international circuit to include the best tracks in France, Germany, Austria and Italy, there will be a grand shipment of western New York horses over the ocean next winter. Village Farm, Jewett Farm, William Simpson and Edward Appel would consign stables of the highest class of performers at both pacing and trotting gaits, while many other gentlemen—representative American horsemen—would be enrolled upon the export register. It seems reasonably certain that the new European enterprise will be a go.

MR. JOHN SEELY, the gentleman who broke and taught Joe Patchen to pace, says Joe never showed any inclination to pace until after he was broken to drive. As he couldn't trot fast enough to get out of his own way, John thought he must be a pacer, so he shod him light, and, by careful driving, induced him to strike that gait and he made speed very fast. He was brushed until he could go an eighth in 0:14, and was then driven an easy mile, which he paced in 2:20. This is the most remarkable account of rapid development ever recorded and any horse that can go the first mile of his life in 2:20 ought to learn to pace quite well with a season's handling.

VILLAGE FARM has shipped the stallion Golden Gateway, brother of Rupee, 2:11, etc., to E. F. Geers at Fort Wayne. Golden Gateway is now seven years old and has not been worked until this season since his four-year-old form. Hem, probably one of the fastest horses ever owned at Village Farm but was practically useless for racing purposes. However, this season with careful handling he has shown splendid form and a disposition that is almost perfect. Mr. Croy, who has succeeded in bringing the horse to his present shape, left for Fort Wayne with him and will travel with Mr. Geers for the balance of the season. Before leaving, the horse trotted a mile in 2:23, last quarter in 33½ seconds on the poor track at the farm.

AT the State Fair Grounds at Springfield, Ill., last Friday, in the presence of 40,000 people another world's record was made in the polo-team pacing event for a special purse. Effie Powers and Prestoria Wilkes, owned by Breneman Brothers of Decatur, were sent against the world's record of 2:13½, made by them here Tuesday. They made the mile to-day without a skip in 2:12½. Houston, the driver, received $100 for lowering the record. Alix was sent against the world's trotting record of 2:03½, but cast a hoot at the first quarter, making her lame, and finished in 2:13½. McDowell, her driver, pulled her up at the three quarters, finishing slowly. The time by quarters was—0:33½, 1:05½, 1:38½, 2:13½. McDowell, the driver of Alix, says that in casting her hoot Alix dislocated her whirl bone, and that by reason of the injury she will be unable to race again this year.

THERE is a very great stallion in Kentucky that was at one time the butt of a great deal of ridicule, says the Kentucky Stock Farm. His sons and daughters did not show the speed that was expected of them for a long time after people thought he had had a fair opportunity in the stud. It was the subject of universal comment, and he was, without much hesitation, pronounced a failure. Now he stands without a peer among horses of his age, and is the sire of many of the fastest and gamest performers on the track. He is the sire of the greatest four-year-old filly that the world has yet seen. The people who talked against Onward when he was ten or eleven years old and had not sired a trotter in the list were often honest. It did seem that he should have done better, but it is now admitted by every one that there is no more uniform sire of speed or a horse that "breeds on" with more certainty or sires better race horses. This fact shows how much mistaken people are liable to be and the necessity of thorough knowledge before condemnation.

A DISPATCH from Wichita, Kans., states that five young men, scions of aristocratic families in England, arrived there about a week ago, with thirty trunks, and took up quarters at the best hotel. Next day they applied for work at several of the stock farms in the vicinity, offering to work for nothing in order to learn the American methods of handling trotting stock. The story continues that thirty-two of them in all have come to the United States (though it does not state whether each of the arrivals was limited to six trunks, like the Wichita detachment) and have scattered themselves promiscuously through New York, Kentucky, Nebraska and California. Two of the Wichita colony have secured work, it is said, on stock farms, one being a valet to Ashland Wilkes, and the remaining three are working in livery stables. After their day's work is done, they go to their hotels, dress up elegantly, and live like the lords that they are. There is a good deal more to the story, but this is enough to give it a very fishy smell. The English horsemen are as well up in the art of handling stallions and breeding stock as the Americans, and when it comes to training trotters, they can import as many capable trainers as they need, with much better results, and at far less expense than sending thirty-two scions of noble houses, with one hundred and ninety-two trunks, to America for a two years' trip.

THE SADDLE.

IRVING, Hankins and Johnson's jockey, is under a cloud at Oakley.

REY ALFONSO has been turned over to Trainer Frank Van Ness.

LOTTIE MILLS won a seven-furlong race at Oakley Monday in 1:28½.

SEVERAL caught the time in the Sir Richard race last Saturday at 1:06½.

LA FIESTA and Sinaloa III, both by Emperor of Norfolk, won last Saturday at Windsor.

FELIX CARR could not ride less than 114 pounds on Don Carillo the other day at Oakley.

LIZA has been stopped in her work and will be sent to the Rancocas Farm at Jobstown, N. J.

ETHER, by imp. Charaxus—Ethie, by Polus, won a $7,000 stake at San Jose de Guatemala recently.

LOS ANGELES and Miss Ford have yearling colts at Santa Anita by the dead Australian sire, The Hook.

WILBER F. SMITH's small but select string arrived Saturday from Sacramento. Gilead is looking in grand shape.

MATT BYRNES has purchased from J. B. Haggin a yearling chestnut colt by Salvador, out of imp. Oron, by Bend Or.

GREEN B. MORRIS will ship Sir Play, Sallie Clicquot and the balance of his string from Oakley to California inside of two weeks.

JOCKEY BOB CAIRNS, who was suspended on account of his drinking propensities, has been reinstated upon his solemn promise to reform.

SI MODREDS ran first and third in a seven-horse race at Brighton Beach on September 20th. They were Shelley Tuttle and Annie Bishop.

THE Palo Alto and Winters sale catalogues will be out in a few days. There are twenty-six head in the former sale, twenty-nine in the latter.

MATTIE DYSON, a four-year-old mare by imp. Cyrus, out of Aurelia II., by Wildidle, ran second in a big stake race in San Jose de Guatemala recently.

MYRTLE HARKNESS beat Ed Corrigan's Mohaloska at Oakley yesterday and Janus ran second to Basso in a mile and three-sixteenths race, run in 2:02½.

CICERO, Salonica and Happy Day arrived in the city from the East Thursday night, consigned to Trainer Frank Taylor. The horses got here in good shape.

NOTWITHSTANDING the division of dates, the local racing associations will vie with each other in securing attractions, and horsemen will greatly benefit by the friendly rivalry.

WM. L. APPELBY, the Santa Clara turfman, has arrived at Bay District track with a string composed of Thelma, Amida, Raphael, Raindrop, Corona, Lady Carmel, Lotta and Arundel.

CASH SLOAN (brother to Tod) was reinstated last week, and on Saturday was ruled off again at Oakley. The chances are favorable for his non appearance in silk again for a long, long time.

TWO TWO-YEAR-OLDS by imp. Sailor Prince won at Brighton Beach on the 20th of September—Predicament and Volley. The latter ran five furlongs in 1:02 and was at 20 to 1 in the betting.

THE racing qualities of the following horses have been leased by Dave Gideon to J. J. Hyland from September 17th to October 14, 1895: Waltzer (3), Sufficient (3), Requit (2), Hazlet (2), Annie Barron (2).

H. W. LAUGENOUR, the Woodland politician, who has been missing for a couple of months past, has turned up here with a big string of race horses from the East. J. H. Magee, a well-known trainer, was in charge of the flyers.

THERE is a colt by His Highness, out of Retribution, at Brookdale, that Col. Thompson expects to play a star part on the turf some day. An offer of $1,500 was made and refused for the baby thoroughbred before he was many hours old.

THE racing game in San Francisco will "pick up" steadily from this time on, as new arrivals (horses and horsemen) will be chronicled nearly every day now until next December. J. G. Brown & Co.'s string of nine are the latest flyers to get in.

DONAHUE is certainly a superb rider. If more jockeys would throw away their whips and hand-ride their horses, as Donahue does, they would get a good deal more out of their mounts, beyond doubt. Not one jockey in thirty knows when use a whip or how much.

UNCLE GILES showed that he was a race horse last Saturday when he took up 106 pounds and ran a mile in 1:42. Donahue is a vast improvement over Peoples, who has been riding the colt. There is a great resemblance between Uncle Giles and the dead De Bracy.

PHYLLIS, the winner of the first race on Friday at odds of 60 to 1, is trained by Tom Bally, who has been waiting for Dame Fortune's smiles for many a long day without getting any. The filly is by imp. Trade Wind (sire of Blizzard) out of Daisy S., dam of Little Bob.

M. S. NURICH—You can't think, Caleb, what an expense it's been to us learning Amelia to play the pianer.

Brother Caleb (dolefully)—It can't compare with what I had to pay out when George was learning to play the races. And he didn't learn much, either—Puck.

MR. BELMONT has been spending a small fortune on his stable and farm of late, and is anxious to have both second to none in the country. A look over his farm yesterday showed everything to be in first-class shape, and bright prospects for the foals of this year. The stallions, Rayon d'Or, Magnetizer, Fiddlesticks and Badge, look the picture of health, and are worthy of the fame that they are gaining.—Lexington Cor. N. Y. Mercury.

EDWIN F. SMITH, the genial Secretary of the State Agricultural Society, made his debut as a professional judge at Bay District track Monday, and presented a dignified and distinguished appearance. There were several close decisions during the afternoon, but all met with general approval. Mr. Smith should make a model judge.

CLIVE, by imp. Clieveland out of what was always considered an inferior mare, won the Bank and Moorfield Handicaps in one day, total value $3,500. He carried 123 pounds and ran one and a quarter miles in 2:09½ over a turf course with a long hill to it—the one at Moorfield, near Sydney. In all Clive has won fifteen or sixteen races this season.

JOCKEY JOHN DUNN, the crack English jockey that recently arrived from India, should be seen in the pigskin at an early date, as it is not right that such talent should go to waste in our hospitable country. Dunn can easily ride at 110 pounds. He learned the business under that famous horseman, Matthew Dawson, of England, and Dawson has developed some great riders and trainers in his time.

A THIRTY days' racing meet will be inaugurated at Kansas City, October 8th, under the auspices of the Kansas City Jockey Club. Already 150 horses, most of them from the Council Bluffs track, are here, and the list will be swelled to 500. E. J. Bird of St. Louis is here with Roy, Schuykill and Southerner, while L. Connelly has a string, including King Mack, Frank C. B., Smile and Liberty Bell, on the ground.

FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND dollars will have been expended by the Pacific Coast Jockey Club before the gates are thrown open to the public in November. It is understood that this club will race a month, then the California and the Pacific will alternate every two weeks during the season. In a month from now the Ingleside track will rank with the best on the continent, and will be a monument to the enterprise and pluck of the promoters.

A CROWD of horsemen were speaking of the large number of famous horses whose names commenced with "V." Voltigeur, Vandal, Voucher, Valedictory, Velocipede and others were mentioned, and then came a halt. A Tenton in the assemblage was suddenly inspired, and springing up, he cried: "And Vagner. You haf vorgotten the createst one of all." Wagner could not be denied—even if his name didn't commence with "V."

THE grand stand at the new Ingleside track slants fifteen feet in every hundred, so that every foot of the course can be seen from any part of the stand. The majority of grand stands on Eastern tracks only slant ten in every 100 feet. The seats are arranged a good deal after the theatre style, but there is more of a slope, which will doubtless be enjoyed by race-goers who have missed seeing many a race by having some one get in front of him. There will be a ladies' grill room under the main stand, besides several reception parlors.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer of recent date contains the following: "Ed. Corrigan, the master of Hawthorne, will close his racing in this part of the world with the close of the Oakley meeting. He will not ship to Latonia. On or about the 10th of October he will send twenty of the best of the seventy horses he has in training to California. Jockeys Martie Bergen and Jimmy Brown will go with them. Mr. Corrigan said yesterday that the racing trouble in California had been patched up, and that the two tracks will race on an amicable basis without a conflict of dates."

THERE arrived on the steamer Alameda from Sydney Thursday of last week, consigned to R. E. deB. Lopez, Merriwa Stock Farm, Pleasanton, Cal., the following, which will be added to the already splendid list of brood mares on that farm: Ladybird, by First Water—Ladyship; Lady Muriel, by First Water—Ladyship; Camilla, by Eastley—Creole; two fillies by First Water from Camilla; Vindex, by Excelsior—Vixen (Excelsior is a son of Yattendon); chestnut filly by First Water—Secret; chestnut filly by First Water—Vindex. R. E. deB. Lopez's son, H. S. deB. Lopez, came on the steamer and reports a rather rough voyage. He will make a visit to New York and London before returning to his home in Sydney, N. S. W.

BIG JOHN FIELDS is the proud possessor of a brown yearling colt by Captain Al out of Lady Overton, by imp. Partisan. The more one looks at this youngster the more he is impressed that he ought to make a race horse. The colt has his daddy's game-looking, bony head and handsome neck, a wonderful pair of shoulders, great girth, a harrel well ribbed up and substantial enough now for a four-year-old, clean-looking limbs that set well under him, immense width across the loins and exceedingly muscular stifles and gaskins. His back is so broad that he will be able to pack a small-sized house thereon. If this colt isn't a racer there is nothing in good points. We would suggest that he be named Capt. Al Overton, combining the names of sire and dam.

THE injuries sustained by Foxhall Keene in the polo game at Prospect Park on Saturday are not so serious as at first supposed. He was thrown from his pony in collision with F. Blockwood Fay of the opposing team and dragged a considerable distance before the pony was caught. When picked up he was unconscious, but revived sufficiently to walk off the field in about fifteen minutes. Mr. Fay was also unhorsed and stunned, but his injuries were not at all serious. James R. Keene, father of the injured polo player, said to-day that his son was stopping with Mr. Alexander in Staten Island, where he went in a carriage after the accident. The physician who made the examination last night said he found no broken bones, but the polo player's legs were both badly bruised.

TRAINER J. H. MAGEE is the latest arrival from the other side of the Rockies at the Bay District track. He brought a carload from Chicago, but stayed over three weeks for the Council Bluffs meeting. In the string are Alien, Amy Lee, Viscon and Ida Sauters. Alien is a two-year-old by Esterling and ran second in a maiden two-year-old race at Harlem this year. Vishun is a three-year-old by Sir Dixon. Ida Sauters is a California filly, being by Joe Hooker. In the same stable are Brown Dick, Josephine, Moss Terry, Wyandotte, Julia C. and Maggie Mitchell. These horses were leased by H. W. Laugenour, of California, who also returned to the State on the same car as the horses. Moss Terry is a chestnut gelding by Powhattan. Wyandotte is a jumper. All the horses arrived in good condition, except Julia C., who was ailing before a start was made for California.

AT GRAVESEND Monday California-bred horses won the second and third races right in a row. Nanki Pooh, by Sir Modred, won a mile and a sixteenth race in 1:49, with Lucania (also by Sir Modred) second and the once great Gotham third. Waltzer, by imp. Darebin, won a six-furlong race from Applause and Nick.

J. J. RORPHURO, who painted a number of the Spreckels horses last summer at the Napa ranch, has just finished a picture of Joe Harvey's grand three-year-old filly, Wheel of Fortune. The painting is exceedingly life-like and shows the mare standing in a grassy paddock with little Eddie Jones in the saddle and the colors of Harvey up. The Wheel is all excitement, and so true is the picture to life that one can but compliment the artist highly on this piece of work.

It is pretty generally conceded now that John Hyland has in his charge the best colt and filly of the year in Requit and O. e I Love, something that rarely falls to the lot of one trainer nowadays. Both have shown themselves far above the average, and it looks as if the three-year-old stakes of 1896 were pretty well at their mercy, if they stand training. There is no doubt among horsemen that they will both train on, and that Requit will be a distance horse, even if he does seem to come from a family of sprinters. His mile in 1:40 2/5 seems to warrant that belief.

A. J. JOYNER will leave Mr. Belmont's employ at the end of the season. He will be succeeded by J. J. Hyland. It is more than likely that Mr. Belmont's strong stable will be further augmented by his purchasing Requit, and probably some other horses, out of Mr. Gideon's string. As there are at Babylon about a score of the most promising yearlings ever raised at the famous Nursery Stud, John Hyland will have lots of material to show his handiwork on, and with anything like ordinary luck Mr. Belmont's popular colors are bound to be prominent in most of the big events of 1896.

SATURDAY, at Alexander Island, Belisarius won his eighth turf victory. This is a record unequaled in the annals of racing in this or any other country, unless Kingston beat it. Belisarius, chestnut gelding by St. Blaise, dam Bella, bred by the late August Belmont, is now nine years old. For a period of two or three years he held undisputed sway at Gloucester as the king of sprinters. Belisarius was a gift from Mr. Belmont to James McCormick. McCormick fitted him for a race at Guttenburg, which he lost, and then, in disgust, sold him to Frank Weir for a song. He runs in Weir's name now.

Now that John Huggins, trainer for Pierre Lorillard, has agreed to go across the water, Mr. Lorillard is busy laying out plans for his campaign. He has already leased training grounds. His stable will be made up almost entirely of two-year-olds, as he has no aged horses of any account, Bloomer being about the best he has among his two-year-olds, and she is only a selling-plater. But it is pretty well understood that he has among his yearlings some that have been highly tried and that if they keep the promise of their youth will make things lively for the English youngsters, unless they are of the best class. Stories of fast trials have leaked out regarding some of them, and the fact that Mr. Lorillard is so very anxious to go abroad is pretty good evidence that the stories have some foundation in fact. Mr. Huggins is a sufferer from rheumatism of the hip, and is so much of a cripple that he cannot get around without the aid of a walking stick. He has about abandoned riding horseback, as he has so much trouble in mounting and dismounting. His consent to go abroad was only obtained by Mr. Lorillard after Mr. Huggins' physicians had advised such a trip with a trial of the waters of some of the German springs as a remedy for his trouble.

RILEY GRANNAN, the world's greatest plunger in the horse-racing line, was a looker-on at Oakley Monday, having arrived from the East in the morning, says the Cincinnati Tribune. He kept out of the betting ring, as he will not remain here, going to-night to French Lick Springs, where he will rest up ten days and then return East to take in the Gravesend meeting. He says he won something over $165,000 at Saratoga and Sheepshead Bay, and he actually beat $44,000 on Henry of Navarre, when he beat Domino and Rey El Santa Anita. He is in love with the East, for he says he beat them out of a big wad of money and he never heard a kick, whereas whenever he wins a bet or two in the West he is accused of owning a stable of jockeys and fixing the races to suit himself. "They gamble with you East," he concluded, "and when you out-guess them they pocket their losses like true sportsmen, and instead of crying fraud give you a chance at their bank rolls the next day. They know what an impossibility it is to fix an ordinary race, and are well aware I am not infallible and play as many dead ones as I do those that try for the coin. All the big money I have made has been in the East. I have only fattened the West. Then why should I not be partial to the game?"

WHEN Colonel W. P. Thompson's filly One I Love made her first appearance last June at Sheepshead Bay critics pronounced her a beauty. Since that time her performances have proved her to be a race horse as well as a beauty. She is beyond question the best of her sex that has appeared since the days of the peerless Firenze. By winning the Golden Rod Stakes last Thursday, seven furlongs on the turf, in 1:28, she gave indisputable proof of her ability to go a route. By winning the Great Eastern Handicap yesterday, the last of the Sheepshead Bay meeting, she stamped herself not only the best of her sex, but made a good bid for distinction as the best of her age. If any one of the crack colts can beat her at even weights he will justly be entitled to the title of champion. In her race yesterday she had none the best of the weights. The long delay at the post did not do her any good, and at several points in the run through the chute she was at a disadvantage. Yet at the end she challenged the light-weighted Margrave (who has shown himself a sterling good colt), and in a furious drive outgamed him and won by a head. Doggett rode her well, saving every inch of the ground possible at the turn into the stretch. And when he called on her for a final effort she responded in the gamest possible manner, running as true as a die under punishment. Perkins rode Margrave desperately and beat Hazlet, on whom the Gideon contingent made a big plunge, half a length for the place. When she returned to the scales One I Love did not display any signs of distress, while both Margrave and Hazlet were clearly blown. It is to be hoped that Colonel Thompson will not give the filly many more races this season. If he does not the chances are that he will develop into the best three-year-old in this country.—N. Y. Advertiser.

The Horse Show.

Preparations for the great horse show which is to take place in this city December 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th are being rapidly made. The committees in charge of prizes and premiums are working hard, while the agents who are visiting the various cities of the interior, enlisting the interests of horse-breeders, are meeting with great success. Over $15,000 will be given away in cash prizes, and over $2,000 worth of silver trophies will also be awarded. The Mechanics' Pavilion will be fitted up in magnificent style, and thousands of incandescent lights will be introduced, so that "the night will be like the day," and the immense vacant spaces that were noticeable on the main floor of the building will be transformed into box stalls and wide promenades. The elite of the city consider this the society event of the year, consequently the harness dealers and carriage makers are now engaged in getting their wares in readiness, while the horses are being exercised and groomed. Many have been purchased since last December, and the display of thoroughbreds, trotters and polo ponies, hackneys, draft and coach horses, besides saddle horses, will be a spectacle worth seeing. There will be two large sales after the show ends, and entries for these, as well as for all that are to be exhibited, will close November 9th. Send at once for entry blanks.

THERE has been a great improvement in the racing and in the attendance at Bay District track during the past week. The bookmakers have had quite a shade the best of the argument on the financial question, it is true, but new arrivals of horses and the rejuvenation of others has added greatly to the interest in racing in San Francisco. And with the arrival of horsemen and bettors from the other side of the Rockies the game will get better until, within a short time, it can with truth be said that San Francisco is the greatest racing point in the country.

THE meeting at Hollister next week promises to surpass any ever held at this thriving place. The President and Board of Directors have been attending the district fairs and getting horsemen interested in the meeting, and from what we can learn there will be no vacant stalls at the track. The grand stand will be filled every day, fast time will be made over the track, and a royally good time is anticipated by all who intend to be there.

The San Jose Fair.

The San Jose race meeting which took place last week was notable from the fact that the time made in nearly every event was very fast, and a number of records were made. In the pacing races there were seventeen heats, the slowest being 2:18, the fastest 2:07½, the average being 2:13, a showing that redounds to the credit of those who had the track in charge and those who brought their speedy sidewheelers to the post in the pink of condition.

There were twenty-seven heats trotted inside of 2:23 averaging 2:17½, the fastest being 2:14, the slowest 2:22½, averaging 2:17½. There were three heats 2:29, 2:36 and 2:30½, one (2:29) a time record, 2:36, a record which was lowered more than thirteen seconds by the same filly, Cressida in the same heat, and the 2:30½ was the last heat trotted during the meeting, and was made by Columbus S. when he was very lame.

With such extraordinary good racing it was very unfortunate for the association that the attendance was so small. There was no band of music at the grounds. This may have had something to do with keeping people away, but we doubt it. There was a lack of enthusiasm about the meeting which was caused by a feeling of depression which emanated from a knowledge on the part of those who formerly were liberal patrons of the track that the times were hard, money scarce and no demand for the grain that they harvested, the fruit that they picked or the horses and cattle they raised. The feeling of uncertainty which prevailed found an ally in the strong disposition of all to save every penny.

While the Board of Directors worked hard to make the fair a success, a heavy debt of long standing was ever before them, and although the desire to advertise this meeting more extensively was strong, the exchequer was very weak. The local press, especially that excellent journal "The Mercury," devoted columns of space to the meeting, but the people would not or could not come.

There is a good future for the Santa Clara valley and San Jose in particular when the train from Los Angeles passes through it and the new railroad to Alviso, which will connect with a line of steamboats to San Francisco, are in operation (which is now a certainty), the farmers orchardists and everyone interested in this splendid valley, will notice a marked revival in business and a stronger and healthier tone to their export market will be observed. This has been an off-year for our neighbors, but in 1896 a remarkable change for the better will take place and the next fair, if as good races are given, will be attended by crowds of people who will feel like enjoying a little sport when prosperity and good times are knocking at their doors.

Death of Joe Hooker.

News was received by telegraph yesterday from the ranch of Theodore Winters, near Washoe, Nev., of the death Wednesday night of the renowned sire of racers, Joe Hooker. The telegram was to the manager of the Nevada Stable, J. W. Grant. The world has lost a wonderful sire.

Joe Hooker was a chestnut horse, standing sixteen hands high, both hind legs white to hocks, blaze face and with a white patch on one side. He was foaled in 1872 on the ranch of A. Maillard, in Marin County, and was consequently, 23 years old at the time of his death.

The great race horse sire, who was a son of Monday and Mayflower, by imp. Eclipse, made his reputation in the stud and not on the race course. Although possessed of phenomenal speed as a youngster, he developed an uncontrollable temper that spoiled his usefulness as a race horse. It is said of him that he would stop perfectly still in the middle of a race, and then suddenly taking the notion into his head to run again, would close up a great gap on his field as though propelled by some wonderful unseen mechanism.

Among the many fine performers sired by the chestnut horse were Jim Renwick, Fred Collier, the peerless Yo Tambien, C. H. Todd, an American Derby winner; Sorrento, Dan McCarthy's great stake-winner; Tormen-tor, the crack sprinter, Don Jose, Surinam, Ed Corrigan, Dolly McCone and hosts of lesser lights in the turf world. He was also the sire of La Scala, dam of Sir Walter, the great son of imp. Midlothian; of Filena, dam of Arnette, and of Tricksey, the dam of Ed Corrigan's speedy filly Mobalaska, a good winner East this season.

We sympathize with Mr. Winters in his misfortune, and thousands will be sorry to hear of the death of his great horse.

EVERYTHING will be in readiness for racing at the new track on the day set for the opening of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club's meeting—Saturday, November 2d. While there is a world of work before them, a night force of 200 men, if necessary, will be put on, rather than disappoint the public. Stables are springing up as if by magic south of the backstretch, and they are so well built as to make the horsemen enthuse over the new quarters that are to belong to their favorites. The grand stand is rapidly nearing completion. The principal work to be done is on the main track, and here there will be men laboring like so many bees to make it second to no race course in the country. The drainage is unexcelled anywhere and the course, in the words of Dan Dennison, is "threatened with speed." From the list of entries received a race meeting is sure to result never approached in this part of the world. Many of America's most noted horses have their names enrolled on the stake book, the best officials obtainable will have charge of the various departments, and everything points to a wonderfully satisfactory season of sport.

Palo Alto as a Sire.

Rio Alto (2).....	2:23¼	(3).....	2:16¼
Palatine (2).....	2:23½	(3).....	2:18
Fillmore.....		(3).....	2:21¾
Cressida.....		(3).....	2:22½
Iran Alto.....		(3).....	2:29½
Avena (2).....		(3).....	2:19½
Palita (2).....		(3).....	2:16½

The average time for the performers by Palo Alto at three years old and under is 2:20 4/7. With two exceptions these are race records—Avena and Iran Alto trotted against time but both have trotted faster in races than their records against time. Iran Alto was second to La Belle in the Occident Stake at Sacramento in 2:19½. Avena was fourth and third in the Representative Stallion Stake at Lexington in 1893, the third and fourth heats in 2:15 and 2:16½ in a field of eleven starters.

This is a remarkable average of speed, and I do not know of any sire that excels it where all the produce are trotters.

The success of Palo Alto as a sire of early speed is established. His list of performers could be increased materially if owners would develop those that have been sold from the Palo Alto Stock Farm. They all showed speed either in the kindergarten, leading or in harness.

Of those worked at Palo Alto that have not been trotted this year are: Erastus C. (5), has shown a mile in 2:23½; Pasonte (2), a mile in 2:28½, a quarter in 0:32½ to a high wheel sulky. Mr. Robert Bonner owns Alviola (3), purchased at the last Palo Alto sale in New York. He writes that he has driven her a quarter to skeleton wagon over his track in 0:35½, and that no road is too long for her. Day Bell (3) is reported to be a fast young horse. Palo Alto Sprite (3) stepped a mile at Fleetwood recently the fourth time hitched to a sulky in 2:36.

The chestnut filly Jessica (5), sold in 1893 as an undeveloped two-year-old, is reported by her owner as stepping quarters in 35 seconds. While the latter performances mentioned are not records or events that have been witnessed by the public, they are authentic beyond doubt, and are mentioned simply to show how prolific Palo Alto was as a speed producer.

"Iconoclast," a gentleman of rare attainments as a writer on the horse, whose ideas when presented in writing are read and thought over by a large majority of the breeders and horsemen of the world, seems backward in accrediting the half-thoroughbred sire with the success he has achieved.

From Clarabel, by Abdallah Star, one of the great broodmares, he has produced her fastest performer in Cressida (3), 2:22½, and Clarabel has had foals by Gen. Benton, Electioneer, Norval and Azmoor. From Elaine he has produced her fastest foal, Palatine (3), 2:18, and Elaine has been bred to Gen. Benton, Piedmont, Ansel and Norval. From Elsie, by Gen. Benton, he has produced her fastest foal, Palita, (2), 2:16½, and Elsie has been bred to Piedmont, Norval and Azmoor. Fillmore (3), 2:21½, is the fastest foal of Addie Lee II. A showing of this nature would naturally attract the attention of a breeder, but writers may not have the data at hand and only know the greatness of a sire through his list in a year book.

I believe now that after the performance of Palita, the two-year-old filly by Palo Alto, who won the Capital Stakes at San Jose on Wednesday, September 25th, in 2:16½, that Iconoclast will admit that Palo Alto has some pretensions to recognition as a great sire.

This filly has now trotted five races, is as yet unbeaten, has usually trotted the second beat the fastest, and all have been in 2:25 or better. Her mile in 2:16½ was not a heart breaking record, as all who saw it say that it was the easiest mile then ever saw trotted. The first quarter in 0:35, the second in 0:34, the third in 0:33½, the last in 0:34 is really but a glimpse at this wonderful two-year-old.

As Palita is very heavily engaged as a three-year-old, being entered in the Kentucky Futurity, Occident, Stanford and Mount Hamilton Stakes, her record as it now stands will remain as her two-year-old mark, the management of Palo Alto having decided that she has done well enough. The son of Electioneer and Dame Winnie was a great race horse. He died wearing the stallion crown. He is a great sire even if his dam was the thoroughbred mare by Planet out of Liz Mardis, by imp. Glencoe.

RIO ALTO.

ED. CORRIGAN heads the list of winning owners at Oakley, his earnings being $2,811. Green Morris comes next with $2,235; Fleischmann & Son, $1,758; J. E. Pepper, $2,160; Kendall Stoble, $778; Ireland Bros., $600; H. B. Lauder, $300.

THERE are two pacing mares named Phenol racing this season, both grays, and both in the 2:12 class. Phenol, 2:11½, by Jersey Wilkes, is in George Starr's stable, while Phenol, 2:11½, by Judge Waller, is racing in this State.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

RACE COURSE AND TRACK IN OAKLAND.—In the "near future" there will be two first-class race tracks in Oakland, or, to be more correct, a race course in one part of the township, a trotting track in another section. The improvements, which are now under way, on what has heretofore been known as the Oakland Trotting Park, have been commented upon, and a cut of the grand stand published in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of last Saturday. That is only the commencement. In addition to the stand, which will compare favorably with the best of the Eastern, there will be all the other adjuncts of a modern race course. The California Jockey Club has leased all the ground between the railway and the eastern line of the property so that there are nearly one hundred acres available, and that so admirably adapted for the purposes that it would be difficult to equal the opportunity for both practical and ornamental purposes.

In addition to the buildings which are to be erected, the high fence will be moved to the boundary lines, the course widened fifteen feet on the stretches and twenty feet on the turns; the drainage perfected so that after the heaviest rains the course will soon dry. The facilities for drainage could not be excelled. Temascal creek has dug a deep channel, which crosses the track about midway, so deep that the lowest part, near the three-quarter pole, will be several feet higher than the water in the creek, unless when the water is at its very highest stage.

Readers of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN have some knowledge of what is to be done on that ground, but there is a new project, only broached the past week, which is of peculiar significance, and likely to be of great benefit to the harness-horse interests of the coast. And "fall in," too, to an ounce with the projects of the C. J. C. As is well known, that is a racing association, though anxious to favor harness horses, and should the trotting meeting in November, which will be held on the Bay District course, prove fairly successful, two such meetings in each year will be given, and, perhaps, more. There will be times, however, when the training of harness horses will be in the way of race horse, and, consequently, with a track only a few miles away, "devoted" to trotting and pacing that difficulty will be overcome.

The East Oakland grounds will be used for harness horses and athletic sports. The managers of the steam and electric roads have signified their willingness to do the most of the work, only requiring the co-operation of the Alameda Driving Association so as to broaden the interest in the undertaking. The Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association can well afford to join in the scheme. In place of a peripatetic institution holding its meetings, now here, now there, it will have, practically, its own grounds, and with the assurance of steady support.

The only way that harness racing can be made to pay in country towns is in combination with fairs, whereas "centers of population" furnish a good attendance, when the "hill of fare" meets the approbation of those who are partial to that kind of sport.

The construction of the speed drive in Alameda awakened an interest beyond sanguine expectations. Notwithstanding that the straightaway course gave such a poor opportunity for witnessing the contention, without seats or any conveniences for the spectators, there was a big crowd when the "opening day" was the attraction. In proximity to the ground, on which the new track will be built, there are a half million, or more, of actual residents. The transient population is increasing rapidly, and with the combination of harness racing and athletic contests of all kinds, there is little question of it being a "paying property."

Breeders of harness horses are greatly dependent on the cities for markets. Drives like that at Alameda, a first-class trotting track so handy to the metropolis, will foster a desire to own good horses, and, as in the days past, there will be a demand for them.

The ground on which the new track will be located is similar to that of the Alameda drive. Pumped from the bottom of the creek and distributed in a semi-fluid state it is nearly a dead-level, the only variation being due to the settling near where the pipes were laid being more rapid. Never ground on which a track could be made more cheaply. Turns thrown up, stretches rounded so that the water will run to either side, ditches and a couple of culverts to carry the water to the outside and the job is accomplished.

I will visit the location as to give a fuller description in the paper of next week. The railway companies have signified their willingness to build whatever kind of a track is decided to be the best, and that will also be a topic for consideration. I am greatly impressed with the idea that the "regulation" shape can be improved upon, hugely bettered when the wants of the spectators are the main factors to be taken into account.

"Dollars at the gate," as I have often times stated, should be the first motive. Subsidiary sources of revenue will not be lacking when the people are there in full force.

THE OLDEST RACE REPORT.—Iconoclast copies a portion of Homer's description of the races on the plain of Troy, and adds some very pleasing and appropriate comments.

About fifteen years ago I took the same report for the basis of an article for the Daily Morning Call, and attempted to prove that, from some passages in the description, the horses may have trotted. It was so long ago, however, that my recollection is not very clear, although I distinctly recall that there were good reasons for claiming that the horses trotted.

Iconoclast brings in John Splan and I introduced Dan Mace as giving similar instructions to the driver as those which Nestor urged on his son Antilochus.

A grand race report is that of the "grand old man from Scio's rocky isle," though I prefer Lord Derby's translation to that which Iconoclast quotes. But Homer is not the only distinguished author to try his hand at race-reporting. Lord Beaconsfield has presented a description of the Derby of 1837, which the forty to one shot Phosphorus won, and the following paragraphs, describing the race, will prove that "Dizzy" had a "happy knack" in depicting turf scenes.

"They are off!"

As soon as they are well away Chifney makes the running with Pocket Hercules. Up to the rubbing house he is leading; this is the only point the eye can select. Higher up on the hill, Caravan, Hybiscus, Benedict, Mahometan, Phosphorus, Michel Fell and Rat-Trap are with the grey (Caravan) forming a front rank, and at the new ground the pace has told its tale, for half a dozen are already out of the race. The summit is gained; the tactics alter; here Pavis brings up Caravan with extraordinary severity—the pace round Tattenham corner terrific; Caravan leading, then Phosphorus a little above him, Mahometan next, Hybiscus fourth, Rat-Trap looking badly, Wisdom, Benedict and another handy. By this time Pocket Hercules has enough, and at the road the tailing grows at every stride. Here the favorite is hors de combat, as well as Dardanelles, and a crowd of lesser celebrities.

There are now but four left in the race, and of these, two, Hybiscus and Mahometan, are some lengths behind. Now it is neck and neck between Caravan and Phosphorus. At the stand Caravan has decidedly the best, but just at the post, Edwards, on Phosphorus, lifts the gallant little horse, and with an extraordinary effort contrives to shove him in by half a length."

There is little question had the Prime Minister that was to be a regular turf reporter, he would have taken first place in the race, and that no small honor, as the old-time reports will testify. The scenes before and after the race are admirably portrayed, that in the betting ring, just previous to the start, intensely graphic.

Monometallism
Does the business.

I am not much taken with the sort of chattering such as the above, but for once forego my dislike for the "naked truth" contained.

I found it in the Call of last Tuesday, and if generally copied by the press of the United States will bring many votes to the cause of bimetalism. The scarcity of money has a greater influence in depreciating the value of light harness horses than all other causes combined.

There has been "overproduction," it is true, electric cars and bicycles have wrought some mischief, but with money enough to carry on the business, or rather, with not only double the amount, but two different kinds of metal in place of one, overproduction would not be so marked, those who have been forced to economize by changing horse for bicycle, would not have been so straightened, and the same kind of pressure compelled riding on cars when horses would be preferred.

With good times old preferences will be resumed, and when the grasp of John Bull is loosened, good times will surely come.

PEDLAR.—This son of Electioneer and Penelope was separately timed in a race at Mystic Park in 2:17½, 2:19½, 2:18½, and Robert Steel writes to the present owner: "The yearling by Pedlar is the best I ever had a harness on, and if she does not make a star performer I am no judge."

Very gratifying to me, on several accounts, is this commotion. I selected him for Mr. Steel, to take the place of Antevolo when he sold him, and then he is a grandson of Planetia, by Planet, the third dam being La Henderson, by Lexington, and the fourth the famous Kitty Clark, by imp. Glencoe.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

It was a great day for California-bred horses last Tuesday at Gravesend. Salvable, by Salvator, beat Merry Prince, Volley and others at five and one-half furlongs; Sir Excess, by Sir Modred, won a mile and a furlong race, with Sir Walter, by Midlothian, second; Manchester, by Sir Modred, ran third in the Greenfield Stakes to Harry Reed and Irish Reel; Candelabra, by imp. Kyrle Daly, ran third to The Swain and Adelbert in a mile and a quarter race, while in the Culver Stakes, Rey del Carrera, by Emperor of Norfolk, was first, Crescendo, by Flambeau, second. Verily this is a wonderful showing.

CAPT. THOS. B. MERRY ("Hidalgo") has taken the position of press agent for the Pacific Coast Jockey Club. The genial Captain is one of the most graceful, learned turf writers in the country, and has had an experience of over forty years. He will be a valuable acquisition to the new club.

Revival of Old-Time Three-Mile Racing.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept.—There is one race down for decision this fall at Oakley, set to be run October 3, which has nearly as much interest to patrons of the turf as a Futurity or a Realization. It is the aptly named Endurance Stakes, in which will be demonstrated what high-class horses of to-day like Simon W., the double Derby winner Halma, Faraday, Prince Carl, Orinda, Service, Cash Day, the Decoration Handicap victor, George Beck, and Flying Dutchman can do over a long course, inasmuch as the distance is three miles. It will be the first time a race three times around the course has been decided in the West for nearly a dozen years, and save at the old Buckeye course back in the seventies no such an event has ever been decided in the State of Ohio. The longest race ever run at Latonia was two miles and a quarter, no race over that distance was ever run at Washington Park, Hawthorne or Harlem tracks, Chicago, while nearly two decades have elapsed since St. Louis turf patrons saw such a contest.

In the South the history of racing of late years reads about the same, the last race of such a character in that section being decided at Louisville in 1884. In the East the Maturity Stakes died out as a three-mile race before the eighties were reached, while the Autumn Cup at Sheepshead Bay had a short life, dying out in 1885. The Baden-Baden Handicap was last run as a three-mile race at Saratoga over ten years ago, while the Bowie Stakes at Baltimore, after being reduced from four to three miles, died with the Pimlico Club years ago, but was shortened in distance before it became a stake that had been, being last run as a three-mile race in 1886. California Clubs for a while tried to keep up the long distance events, but a walkover or so settled them in that section of the country.

Along in the seventies three-mile races were quite common, and in 1878 and 1880 there was each season an event of this distance in heats, but since then no such contests have taken place. In 1874 there were seven dashes and five three-mile heat races run in America, while eight dashes and three heat events were decided in 1875. In 1876 the dashes numbered five and the heats three, while in 1877 there were no heats, but seven dashes. In 1878, 1879, 1880 and 1881 five, four, five, four dashes each year respectively, while there was also four in 1882 and 1884, but only two each in the years of 1883 and 1885. In 1886 one three-mile race was run on American soil, and then sport of their character ceased until now once more revived by the Cincinnati Jockey Club. In 1855 Brown Dick ran a second heat of three miles in 5:28, which stood as the best record over ten years, when Norfolk scored the distance in the first heat of a three-mile race in California in 5:27½.

The latter held his record just even eleven years, when in a race against time, at Louisville, Ten Broeck took a mark of 5:26½. Thora, in 1881, at Saratoga, reduced this to 5:25½, a record which stood a year lacking one day, Lida Stanhope scoring 5:25 over the same track. Two years later, in 1884, at Sheepshead Bay, Drake Carter ran the distance in 5:24, which is the country's record yet, having now stood for eleven years. If the latter mark is beaten in the big Oakley race this fall Drake Carter's record will have stood the same length of time as Norfolk's mark remained at the head of the list. The table below gives the best performances at three miles on record, covering a period of over thirty-five years' racing.

Horses.	Age.	Weight.	Date.	Time.
Drake Carter.....	4	115	Sept. 6, 1884	5:24
Lida Stanhope.....	4	100	Aug. 26, 1882	5:25
Elkwood.....	3	103	Oct. 22, 1886	5:25
Thora.....	3	99	Aug. 27, 1881	5:25½
Ten Broeck.....	4	102	Sept. 23, 1876	5:26½
Eole.....	4	120	Sept. 9, 1883	5:26½
Norfolk.....	4	100	Sept. 23, 1865	5:27½
Brown Dick.....	4	86	April 10, 1885	5:28
Elias Lawrence.....	3	98	Aug. 25, 1880	5:28½
Mollie Jackson.....	4	101	May 25, 1861	5:28½
Norfolk.....	4	106	Sept. 23, 1865	5:29½
Frogtown.....	4	106	Sept. 21, 1872	5:29¾
Drake Carter.....	4	115	Oct. 17, 1884	5:30
Helmhold.....	4	108	July 20, 1880	5:30

Mollie Jackson's performance was in the third heat of a race, and stands as the best third heat on record, while Brown Dick's mark is the fastest second heat ever run. Norfolk scored both his performances in the same heat race, which is the best three-mile heats on record, as well as the best first heat. Drake Carter scored his best record at Sheepshead Bay, and his 5:30 performance at Baltimore; Elkwood's race also being run at the latter place. Thora, Lida Stanhope, Elias Lawrence and Helmhold all scored their triumphs at Saratoga, Ten Broeck and Mollie Jackson at Louisville, Eole at Sheepshead Bay, Norfolk at Sacramento, Cal., Brown Dick at New Orleans, La., and Frogtown at Lexington, Ky.

Other good performances at three miles are: Vauxhall's 5:30, at Saratoga, in 1869; Tom Ochiltree's 5:35½, in 1876, with 118 pounds up; Monarchist's, 5:35½, when he beat Harry Bassett, while Pilgram ran the distance in 5:33½, Parole in 5:39, Cateshy in 5:36, Ten Broeck in 5:31, Long Taw in 5:32, Checkmate in 5:36, Oliver in 5:38½, Hubbard in 5:34, Ten Broeck in 5:34½, Vandal in 5:33, Whisper in 5:35½, Frogtown in 5:39½, General Monroe in 5:36½, Blarney Stone in 5:37, Carrie Atherton in 5:36½, Morgan Scout in 5:38 and Granger in 5:39½.

Many turfmen of to-day hold to the opinion that the horses of the present day are not deficient in staying powers, as many suppose, and properly fitted can go any number of times around the track. Oakley's three-mile race will, in a great measure, settle the fact whether our thoroughbreds now are merely a race of sprinters or performers that in condition could give such stayers as Ten Broeck, Drake Carter, Eole and others named above a race for the money over a distance of ground.—N. Y. Mercury.

At the Buffalo meeting in 1894, the chestnut horse S. R., by Almonarch, bred and raised in Springfield, N. Y., but owned by the Hon. J. D. Yeamans, Buffalo, broke a small bone in his leg while speeding. He was attended by Dr. Wende, and after months of nursing was pronounced all right. In the meantime Philip Groebn, of East Buffalo, purchased S. R., but the wise ones laughed at the idea of his ever being much account as a race-horse. At Portland, Maine, recently, the Erie County pacer won the greatest race of his career, defeating a field of seven in a four heat race, and taking a record of 2:09½.

THE Australian mail which arrived last Thursday brought a record of the amounts won by the descendants of Colonial-bred sires during the past year. Grand Flaneur heads the list. Twelve of his progeny proved winners and annexed twenty-five races, aggregating in value $46,000. Trenton is second on the list with $38,000. No less than seventeen Trentons gained winning brackets, while thirty-seven races were won in all. Sheet Anchors won forty-four races, no less than twenty-one of his get proving winners. Robinson Crusoe, Nordenfeldt, Splendor, Marvelous, Chester, Grandmaster and Abercorn are next on the list. Somnus, who has a representative in this country, had eight winners. Idaliun, now owned by A. B. Spreckels, had four winners on the Australian turf, who won nine races in all. Nine Cheviots were returned winners during the year. Cheviot is the sire of Paramatta, and must not be confounded with Cheviot, the sire of Rey el Santa Anita. Six races were won by the progeny of Clieeden, now in America. Suwarrow also had a like number of winners on the Australian turf.

It is not generally known, but it is a fact, that young Peoples is an adopted son of the Nevada millionaire, Hon. Theodore Winters. The boy, whose parents are dead, wandered from his home in Texas, landing one day at Reno, Nevada. He got acquainted with some of the little boys in the town, who told Stable Manager Grant that he ought to engage Peoples—that he would make a good rider some day, he being light and very intelligent. Grant engaged the lad, and he was so honorable and attentive to his business that he endeared himself to every one around him. Mr. Winters and his family became very much attached to the little fellow, and adoption followed. Peoples rode an excellent race on Malo Diablo yesterday. The colt was as good as 50 to 1 in the betting at one time.

MAGIAN, who was fired some time ago by Dr. Sheppard, is doing nicely. It has been decided, however, to send him to Kentucky and let him run out until next spring.

Coming Events.

October 6-7—Tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association at Oakland Race Track.

October 23-26—Tournament of the Washington State Sportsman's Association, Seattle, Wash.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

The headquarters of the tournament will be at the Occidental Hotel.

Chas. Sutton killed a fine buck at San Pedro on Sunday, also a seven-pound rooster.

Daniels and Cate will shoot Hazard Smokeless at the Tournament. Lookout for them.

Otto Feudner broke 61 out of 65 blue rocks shot at San Jose Sunday with Dunont Smokeless.

Duck shooting has fairly commenced in Oregon, bags of from 75 to 100 birds are quite the rule.

It is stated that the deer are so plentiful a few miles out of Gilroy that they are destroying the apple trees.

For fall and winter camping no outfit is complete without the Kenwood sleeping bag. They can be obtained of E. T. Allen Co.

Duck shooting promises to be very good the first of the season. Large numbers have been seen at Teal station, Alvarado and even at the Bridges.

The Placerville, Oakland and Sutter City Gun Clubs joined the Association last week. This makes sixteen clubs that have joined the association up to date of our going to press and insures a splendid attendance at the coming tournament.

We notice that Selby's factory loads smokeless powders by weight in grains and so labels the cartridges that the factory loads, E. C. Dupont, U. S. Hazard or Schultze Powders in special shells to order with such wadding as may be desired. The loading is uniform, the pressure on powder even and the crimping is solid and perfect.

For a month past campers on the beach near Tobin Lake have been killing young ducks and quail. The Italians stretch nets across the canyons and then go up the hill and drive the quail down into the net. Here is a chance for a deputy Fish Commissioner to exert himself.

Don't wait until the last minute, but purchase your decoys before the season opens. A small flock of birds will decoy to a small flock of decoys, but the large flocks decoy only to large flocks. One can scarcely have too many if they be properly arranged. Before purchasing look at those offered by Clabrough, Golcher & Co.

The next tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association will probably be held in Stockton in May next. Stockton has certainly a prior claim. The Stockton Clubs were the first country clubs to join, and have worked hard for the success of the present tournament.

Game Warden Donovan, of Alameda county, seems to be very much alive. We hear of him constantly, following suspected shooters, visiting the camps of the campers, the stalls of the game dealers and at the club houses of the duck shooters. He has made several arrests and is doing the sportsmen of his county more good than they dream of.

In another column will be found a letter from Crittenden Robinson again calling for a change in the Fish Commission. Unquestionably the public would like to see the commission do more for the protection of game, but unless Mr. Murdoch can be succeeded by a better man than the one proposed, we would far rather not see any change made.

Practicing for the Tournament.

Nearly forty local blue rock shooters were at Clabrough, Golcher & Co.'s grounds on Sunday practicing for the tournament over the new traps. Some excellent scores were made, but the quattering birds when trapped low fooled the best of them. The new traps are in front of the old live bird stand, and are admirably situated. Though the crowd will unquestionably be large, there will be accommodations for all. Some of the scores of the principal events follow:

The San Pablo preserve will be well guarded this season and trespassers will be punished to the full extent of the law. We earnestly advise all duck hunters to keep off of all preserved land that is properly fenced. We believe the law will protect all private property despite the "except saltwater marsh land" clause, but unless properly fenced we do not believe that any intelligent justice or jury will convict any man for trespass under the present law. There is every prospect of a red hot war this coming season over this question. We believe that the rights of personal property should be respected. We do not think that a man has any more right to hunt on a piece of marsh land that we own and have properly enclosed than he has to hunt in our back yard. On the other hand there is marsh land that belongs to the State alone, and there are navigable streams that have been illegally fenced in, where every man in California has a perfect right to shoot.

OPEN LETTER FROM CRIT. ROBINSON

The Depletion of Our Forests and Streams of Game and Fish Due to Bad Appointments of Game and Fish Commissions—Enormous Sums of Money Wasted.

To Hon. James H. Budd, Governor of California:

"For the restoration and preservation of game and fish, twenty thousand dollars."
"For the support and maintenance of State hatcheries, fifteen thousand dollars."
"For costs and expenses of suits for violation of fish and game laws, four thousand dollars."

Such is the reading of the General Appropriation Bill passed at the last session of the Legislature, and the amounts indicated are placed at the disposal of the Game and Fish Commission of the State for the ensuing two years. Add to these sums the license fees, etc., annually collected, running up into an indefinite amount, into the thousands, also placed at the disposal of the commission and some idea of the vast sums of money appropriated by liberal legislative enactment, session after session, to foster, encourage and protect our game and fish interests, may be had. These sums thus set aside by the liberal policy of the State reach into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. And to what end? The most casual observer may answer. Year by year our game and fish are growing scarcer; year by year the laws for their protection are less observed, and year by year do we find the purely "honorary" office of Game and Fish Commissioner of the commonwealth more eagerly sought after by men of "varied degree," utterly unfitted to administer the duties of the office either intelligently or honestly.

Forced upon your unwilling attention is the fact of which every citizen of the State is practically aware, that now and at all times during the close or breeding season the game and fish laws have been and now are being openly, notoriously and flagrantly violated in every country of the State, and upon your own shoulders rests all and every vestige of responsibility for this outrageous condition of affairs.

That the power to enforce our wholesome State laws upon these subjects rests with the commission named, and that that power is full and ample, none will deny, but upon you devolved the duty—an imperative, sworn duty—of appointing and giving to the people of the State who honored you with the high office you hold, to the people who "knew you well—too well, but not too well enough," a Board of Game and Fish Commissioners, practical, earnest, intelligent and energetic men, who would perform the duties of the office as they should be performed, and render some good and substantial return for the enormous sums of money the liberal policy of the State has seen fit to place within their keeping and under their control.

Did you conscientiously perform, untrammelled and unhampered, this important official duty—this duty in which the sanctity of your official oath was involved? Did you appoint men to these important offices—more important if conscientiously and wisely administered than that of the governorship itself—who were conversant with the work in hand and who would carry it forward energetically and practically, successfully and unselfishly, men who assumed the responsibility of the duties of the trust because it involved at their hands a labor of love, and in whose practical knowledge, honesty and steadfastness of purpose, the people of the State had confidence? The record will disclose.

Since the organization of this Commission in the early seventies, with here and there an individual exception, there has been an unbroken succession of appointments that were matchless in their utter uselessness and worthlessness, made because of a political pull, or personal claim, or other equally frivolous and unsubstantial reason. Have you departed from this custom "more honored in the breach than the observance?" The answer is obvious. You have not. It is true, you, too, have noted an individual exception in the person of Mr. Morrison of Sacramento, but the control of the Board is wholly lost for useful and practical results in the people's interest. The work of no Board that has existed since the law creating this Commission was passed, was more barren of results than the one preceding the present, and yet in the face of this fact—a fact that was fully known to you, as well as to the humblest citizen of the State who takes an interest in the subject—you saw fit to transfer the dominating spirit of that Board in the person of Mr. W. C. Murdoch to the present Board by reappointment, thus again committing to a policy of uselessness, if not worse, this most important branch of the State Government. Read again this appeal from members of the last Legislature that you do not commit so flagrant an error.

"To Honorable James H. Budd, Governor:
"The undersigned, members of the Senate and Assembly respectfully request that you remove from the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners, Mr. W. C. Murdoch, or request his resignation from said Board. His administration as secretary and practically controlling spirit of the Board has been fruitful only of waste of State funds, neglect of enforcement of the laws, and generally an utter disregard of the objects and purposes for which the Commission was created. In making this appeal to you, we feel assured that the usefulness and practical results of the Commission will be obstructed and impaired by Mr. Murdoch's retention on the Board of Commissioners."

And, again, if you will read this petition from the State Sportsmen's Association, which includes in its membership leading sportsmen from every section of the State:

"To the Honorable James H. Budd, Governor of California:
Dear Sir:—The State Sportsman's Association, through its officers, respectfully asks you to appoint some citizen of the State with a practical knowledge of, and conversant with its game and fish interests, in place of W. C. Murdoch, now a member of the Board of Game and Fish Commission. This request, we assure you, is in accord with the wishes of the people of the State who desire to see some good resulting from the large appropriations expended by the Commission."

And, as you know, letters, petitions and appeals of like tenor from clubs and from leading citizens of the State, urging that you do not make this unfit appointment, cumber the files of your office. An unusual spectacle this. For the first time in the history of the State do we find the Legislative branch of the State government petitioning and pleading that the Executive do not reappoint to office (a purely "honorary" office), a man who has proven himself so notoriously unfit to discharge its duties. Why this scandalous appointment at your hands? The regrets you have expressed and do now express over the wrong you have committed are idle and meaningless. All the lights you now have were before you prior to the making of the appointment. And so, again, why was it made? Were you not compelled to make it? Did not circumstances that you could not control force you to that which was contrary to your oath, your duty, and manifestly wrong from every standpoint? With the interest of the people at stake on the one hand, and the effort of Mr. Murdoch on the other, reaching out to that place so purely "honorary," what potent influence was this that crowned his efforts with such signal success? Light must come, for a vast interest is at stake—one dear to the heart of every sportsman, and directly affecting every citizen of the State, its game and fish, as a food supply, and as a source of healthful recreation and amusement. We are passing through a critical period in the history of game and fish preservation of the State, and unless our laws are more rigidly enforced and the worse than wasteful methods pursued by the worse than useless Game and Fish Commission are amended, California will soon take a place among the old settled Eastern States, and her once veritable sportsman's paradise will be but a memory of the past.

True it is, some return has been made for the outlay by the State. Our streams are populated with carp and catfish to an unlimited extent, and trout of various kinds are hatched and turned loose in unprotected streams to be destroyed by dynamite and every other unlawful method in season and out of season, known to our too numerous craft of game and fish law violators.

You were relied upon to give some force and effect to this commission, that, along with the Forestry, Railroad, and one or two kindred festering sores upon the body politic, stinks in the nostrils of the people, but that this confidence was misplaced and your course herein a keen disappointment, does not admit of denial. You cannot remedy the wrong you have done in thus rendering nugatory the work of this commission, that, properly officered, was capable of such infinite usefulness, and long after you have retired to your village law practice, and the memory of California's first Penney Governor shall have passed away, long after the title "Governor" shall sound as a hollow mockery and a rebuke to the fitness of things, your name will be associated with the depletion and destruction of game and fish in the forests and streams of California.

CRITTENDEN ROBINSON,
President State Sportsmen's Association

The Tournament.

The greatest tournament both in number of entries to the different events and in the value of the prizes offered, that has ever been held west of Chicago will commence to-morrow at Oakland Race Track at 9 p. m.

The arrangements are very complete and the matches should be worked off like clock-work. Competent men have been selected as judges, referees and scorers—the three most important positions of all.

The traps are now in splendid working order and should work well to-morrow.

It has been decided that all the matches with the exception of the twenty-bird events shall be shot out before the shooter leaves the score.

The 20-bird matches will be shot in two divisions of ten birds each. The ties for the diamond medals will be shot off at twenty birds each. All ties in the matches on the first day will be shot off after the close of the fifth event.

In the contest for the Association's Championship Team trophy the members of the winning team will receive gold blue rock buttons, inscribed "California Inanimate Target Association Cup Winners 1895."

The fifth event on Sunday will be at unknown angles.

The Association dinner will be held at the Occidental Hotel on Monday at 7 p. m. The cost of the dinner will be $1.50 a plate. The trophies and medals will be distributed at the dinner. Orders for the other prizes will be delivered on the grounds.

The headquarters of the tournament will be at the Occidental Hotel. On Saturday evening the sportsmen will all be found there picking out the prizes that they are going to win on Sunday and Monday.

Tickets for the dinner may be obtained of A. A. Martin on the grounds or at E. T. Allen Co.'s, Clabrough, Golcher Co.'s, or R. Liddle, Co.'s stores to-day.

There are now sixteen clubs that have joined the association, and the attendance to-morrow and Monday is estimated at from 125 to 200 shooters who will participate, besides their numerous friends.

Kindergartens vs. Veterans.

The match between two sections of the Pelican Gun Club of Sacramento for a dinner was won on Sunday last by the Kindergartens with a score of 51 to 47. Four of the younger members of the club calling themselves the kindergartens challenged four of the veterans of the club. The birds were good flyers. The score was as follows:

H. E. Skinner of E. T. Allen Co. has just introduced a new No. 3 Emeric Spinner. It is all copper and is one of the best spinners on the market.

Quite a number of local anglers have had good success in Pieta creek the past week. The trout average about eight inches in length.

Garden City vs Olympics.

The Olympic Club's team were defeated at San Jose on Sunday last by the Garden City Cyclers Gun Club team by a score of 178 to 175. The Olympic team was captained by Phil Bekeart and was well handled, but the San Jose men made a better average. Race Coykendall officiated as captain of the Garden Citys.

After the shoot the Garden City Club entertained the Olympics to a sumptuous repast at the Lamolle House. The Olympics are loud in their praise of the hospitality shown them by the San Jose sportsmen.

Len D. Owens officiated as referee. The score was as follows:

THE KENNEL.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

There were 219 entries at the recent Omaha show.

The collie Southport Perfection was recently sold in England for $5,000.

Nine dogs have been declared out of the Eastern Derby, leaving thirty-one possible starters.

Hugh McCracken will kindly accept our thanks for a fine photo of his kennel of St. Bernards.

Dr. D'Evelyn's fox terrier bitch Langtry B., that went from this city to the Omaha show recently, won first in open bitch class. John Davidson was the judge.

J. H. Perigo's Longfellow was beaten in the second ties at Aberdeen, S. D., on Tuesday last. He defeated Russell's Nancy in the first series after a long grueling course.

The Providence, R. I. show, held on September 17-20, was not quite as large as formerly, but the quality of the entries was very good. H. W. Lacy, Jas. Mortimer and Louis Conit were the judges.

The Pacific Kennel Club have finally succeeded in securing a quorum and has decided to open a club room. We have advocated this plan for over three years and believe that it will be the means of making the club much more popular.

E. R. Smith's rough coated St. Bernard bitch Gundred by Baron Cardiff—Cameo, died on the 1st at the Presidio Kennels of heart disease. She had been ailing for a long time. Gundred was a very fair show bitch but an indifferent breeder. She was a little over eight years old.

W. H. Collins' Lady Bute whelped five dogs and one bitch to Barker's Bernardo on the 23d. Two dogs and the bitch have since died. The remaining dogs are doing nicely. They are all orange and white and all nicely marked. We wish friend Collins the best possible success with them. They certainly should be good, coming from the best rough-coated dog and bitch on the Coast.

Wm Dormer's Bruce had a close call recently. A soldier at the Presidio was about to shoot this most excellent field dog for trespass. It seems General W. M. Graham has issued an order to shoot on sight every dog seen on the reservation, and but for Mr. Dormer's acquaintance with an officer that happened to be near, his favorite would have gone to the happy hunting grounds, provided, of course, that the soldier could shoot straight enough to hit him. Such an order is a disgrace to any man wearing the uniform of a free country. Dormer's dog was at his master's heels, and not disturbing anything or anybody.

The Pacific Kennel Club.

There were sixteen members at the Pacific Kennel Club's regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening last. The new president, H. Bier, was in the chair, and performed the duties of his office very acceptably. Secretary Orear and Treasurer Haight were both present, and their reports were read and approved.

A committee of three, consisting of T. J. Wattson, C. A. Haight and J. G. Barker was appointed to secure club rooms with full power to act.

A committee of one, consisting of J. G. Barker, was appointed to wait upon General Graham and petition him to allow dogs that stray upon the Presidio reservation to be impounded in place of being shot on sight. That valuable dogs that may be lost may not be needlessly destroyed.

The meeting was adjourned at about 10 o'clock, but the informal chat lasted until a late hour.

Glenbeigh vs. Rods Chaff.

Geo. Crocker has declined to put up his second deposit in the stakes for the Glenbeigh—Rods Chaff match on the grounds of the illness of his dog. We trust there is nothing serious ailing so good a setter. If it were simply lack of condition there is surely time enough between now and November 28th to get the dog in good form again if the handler is worth anything.

The St. Bernard.

Little was known of the St. Bernard dog in England before Mr. J. Cuming Macdona, brought over from Switzerland some thirty years ago his celebrated St. Bernard Tell. Every one had, of course, heard of the Hospice of St. Bernard and the wonderful deeds that had been done in saving travellers by the dogs that had been kept there, also of Old Barry, who it was stated after he had saved forty lives was shot by a man to whose succour he was going in mistake for a wolf. It is not however our intention to go into the history of the St. Bernard, but rather to treat of him and his progress in popularity since he was first brought to this country. The introduction of Tell was a decided success, and Mr. Macdona imported some bitches and built up his famous kennel at West Kirby in Cheshire. It was about this time that dog shows were inaugurated, and Tell soon became one of the most conspicuous figures at them, and together with his kennel mates created quite a sensation. Tell was not a large dog, being considerably smaller than the giants that are bred in the present day, and he had not the white markings which are part of the attributes of the breed, but in other respects he was a most characteristic dog, and eventually proved most invaluable at stud; he was a dark orange tawny, bordering on red brindle in color. A year or two after Tell made his appearance, Sir Charles Isham, of Lamport Hall, Northamptonshire, imported a brindle and white dog called Leo; this was a larger dog than Tell, but had not so flat a coat nor so square a muzzle. He was, however, considered a good dog in those days, and in a report in the "Field" of the Birmingham show was said to have run Tell very close for first prize. Mr. Macdona about the same time obtained from Switzerland the smooth-coated St. Bernard Monarque, and here again was a beautiful dog of his variety, unlike anything that had been seen here, so it will be observed that to Mr. Macdona is due the credit of having introduced into England both the rough and the smooth-coated St. Bernard. Another who was instrumental in improving the breed was the late Mr. J. H. Murchison, whose most successful importation was the orange, tawny and white Thor, a dog with a perfectly flat coat, plenty of size, correct markings and good bone, but he had a poor head, his skull being flat instead of prominent in the frontal bones. Then Mr. Hooper of Biggleswade, when on a visit to Switzerland, purchased a smooth puppy at the Hospice, afterwards known as Bernardine, and the foregoing, with Mr. Murchison's Jura and two others named Maddien and Le Morne—all imported together with Alt, an excellent young dog, bred in England by Mr. Macdona, were the foundation of the excellent St. Bernards which are now to be seen in this country. The greatest honor is, however, due to Thor, who it will be seen later on, appears in the pedigree of almost every dog of note that has been bred in this country. There is, however, one pillar of the stud-book which must not be omitted, and that is Bruno, an imported dog with a magnificent head, as it was from his strain that the great Bayard was descended. Following Mr. Macdona, the most successful breeder was Mr. F. Gresham, of Shefford, in Bedfordshire, who commenced breeding with Bernie, a smooth-coated bitch puppy, by Mr. Macdona's Bernard, out of Bernardine, which had been given to him by Mr. Hooper. This animal, when three years old, was put to Sir Chas. Isham's Leo, and in one year produced thirty-one puppies in two litters, fourteen in the first and seventeen in the second. St. Bernards were not so valuable then as they are now, and Mr. Gresham ordered eight of the first lot to be destroyed, as six were as many as the mother could bring up properly. Amongst these six were Monk and Abess, who, with a brother and sister and six of Abess' offspring at the Kennel Club Show at the Alexandra Palace, won the two cups that were offered, with five first prizes, four second and one third prize in five classes, the third prize being in puppies, when three of Abess' pups were first and cup, and second and third. There were only five classes for St. Bernards at that time; two for Roughs, two for Smooths, and one for Puppies. There were about ninety entries. Abess at three years old was bred to Thor, and whelped the rough-coated Hector and Dagmar, and the smooth-coated The Shah and Abess II, all of whom became the most prominent winners of their time. She was afterwards mated with Moltke, a descendant of Tell, and produced Othman, Augusta, Mab and several others. Mr. S. W. Smith came upon the scene at this period, having imported Barry, who was a great winner, and has left his name behind him in many pedigrees, but it was not till a few years afterward that Mr. Smith took up the prominent position that he now holds as an exhibitor of high-class St. Bernards. Contemporary with Mr. Gresham, or, perhaps, somewhat later, was Dr. Russell, who had a very fine kennel, and had a wonderfully fine dog in Cadwallader, and another, Mentor, whose head was superb, and who was a direct descendant of Mr. Macdona's strain. He also exhibited some very fine bitches, but before this Bayard, who was a grandson of Bruno already referred to, had forced his day to the front, and was undoubtedly the best dog of his day. He came just after Monk and Hector had retired from the show bench, the former from old age the latter by death. Hector was a very grand dog, and was never beaten after he was a puppy, except by Monk, and then it was only condition that defeated him, as he was the better dog. He was the first St. Bernard that was sold for a very high figure. He was a son of Thor and Abess, and the sire of Pilgrim, from whom Plinlimmon was bred, was by him. Othman, his half-brother, was also a beautiful dog. Save was the first St. Bernard of merit which Mr. J. F. Smith possessed, and was the means of establishing the far-famed Norfolk Lodge Kennels. Mr. Macdona, after Tell died, sold the remainder of his kennel, but when Bayard came to the front he purchased him, and for two or three years carried everything before him. Bayard was very very much used at stud, but not so much as Plinlimmon, who succeeded him. The latter was remarkable for his immense size and perfect coat and markings rather than for his type, and after changing hands at enormous sums three or four times in England, was sold to go to America. Plinlimmon was bred by Mr. Hall out of Bessie II., a bitch by Bayard. Mr. Potchecary, the owner of Pilgrim, his sire, took Plinlimmon when six weeks old and reared him in a tanyard at Warrington. The Rev. Arthur Carter bought him when five months old for £35, kept him a few months, and then passed him on to Mr. J. F. Smith, of Sheffield, for £450, who eventually sold him to Mr. Hedley Chapman for £800. Then Mr. S. W. Smith, of Leeds, purchased him for £600, and eventually transferred him to a buyer in America, where he lived to be quite an old dog, he being evidently more able to stand the climate in the far West than many of the other high-priced St. Bernards that were sent out. The next sensation was Sir Bedivere, who was bred by Mr. Green, who held a position in a house of business at Liverpool. There was quite a history in connection with Sir Bedivere. His mother was only a very moderate specimen of the smooth variety, and this animal Mr. Green sent to Lewisham to be put to Dr. Robert Poul, who was then probably the best stud-dog of the day; but for some reason or other the service was not arranged, and Mena, the bitch in question, was taken home. It then dawned upon Mr. Green that there was a very good son of Bayard within a few doors of where he lived, and an alliance was arranged with that dog. Time went on, and about ten months or a year afterwards a beautiful puppy named Sir Bedivere was exhibited at Warwick. It then transpired that in selecting the puppy that he should keep of the litter, Mr. Green fixed upon the one that was the most nicely marked and the prettiest, and this turned out to be Sir Bedivere, for whom he was once offered £1,500, the person who made the bid stating at the time that if Mr. Green would let him have Sir Bedivere at that figure he would give £100 to the St. Bernard Club. Most St. Bernard men will remember how Sir Bedivere carried everything before him on the show bench, and how, after Mr. Green had made two or three hundred pounds out of him in stud fees, he was sold to an American for £1,300, and died in the early part of this year. He was not a success at stud. Since Sir Bedivere was sent to the Far West the dog that most nearly comes up to his standard is Mr. S. W. Smith's Duke of Florence, but there are several others which show the characteristic points without which a St. Bernard is valueless. We can call to mind at the present time Duke of Maplecroft, the sire of Duke of Florence, Marvel, the sire of Champion Poul, and Leofric, who is owned by Captain Hargraves.—Frederic Gresham in Shooting Times.

WHELPS.

W. H. Collins, San Francisco, R. C. St. Bernard bitch Lady Bute II (Lord Bute—Clydesdale Nell) whelped Sept. 23d, 6—5 dogs, to J. G. Barker's California Bernardo (Duke of Wellington—Tomah.)

Geo. W. Dehenham's, San Francisco, fox terrier bitch Frisco Daisy (Frisco Diablo—Dauntless Cythoria) whelped Sept. 20, 1895, 5—3 dogs to Frisco Joker (Rusley Joker—Freya.)

Turf Notes From the Colonies.

The Williamston Racing Club experienced a loss of £48 over their last twelve months' operations.

Mr. E. T. Barnard has resigned his position as handicapper to the Victorian Amateur Turf Club, owing to ill-health.

Glenloth (by Glenmarkie—The Gem), winner of the Melbourne Cup in 1892, has been leased to Mr. C. S. Agnew, and will do stud duty in Tasmania.

The Mahee party have a real good horse, and they know it. Should his mission be the Epsom or Metrop, he will be dangerous; if not, he is well treated in the two big Cups.

Pensez a Moi, who dead-headed Dowry for the Juvenile Stakes at Rosehill, was bought by Mr. W. J. Noud for 30g at the late Randwick sales. She was bred by Mr. J. Lee, of Bylong.

J. Williamson, the well-known Australian jockey, who rode Martini-Henry when that horse won the Melbourne Cup of 1883, died of dropsy in the Calcutta General Hospital on July 16th.

By winning the Vic. Club Handicap Palo Alto incurs 3lb. Melb. Cup penalty; but, if he be the stable choice, this will not stop him. Mr. Purches has two rare good tell-tales in Portsea and Patron.

Lamond, who won the Metropolitan in 1888, died recently in a paddock out at the Glebe. Of late years he was known as Vain Hope, and under that name ran third to Marvel in the Doncaster Handicap of 1892.

The Australian horse Paris, by Grandmaster, from Enone, has been nominated for the Cesarewitch Stakes and also for the Cambridgeshire. The Cesarewitch and Cambridgeshire are the leading handicaps of the back end of the English racing season.

Nohleman, by Quicklime—My Lady, arrived in Sydney yesterday, and has gone into quarantine, after which he will be sent to Mr. Baldwin's Farm at Durham Court. By Ed. Quicklime, his sire is now at E. S. Gardner's Avondale Farm, Saundersville, Tenn.

Another jockey killed in a Vic. steeplechase. Sport of kings—and of undertakers! So familiar are such events that women, who would faint at the sight of a pug's nose bleeding in a set-to, make no sign when a smashed-up steeplechase jockey is carted off the course to the hospital and the grave.

Mannlicher now disputes first favor for the A. J. C. Derby, with Bob Ray, and is, moreover, well backed for the Metrop. Many think that both he and Bob will find a mile and a half too far for them when they meet Coolata, Blue Cap and Valiant, and that these three will fight out the Derby finish.

As evidenced by The Barb, Carbine, Admiral and many others, weight won't stop a good 'un when well. At Flemington, Erl King, carrying 10st. 4lb., won the six-furlong flat-race in the splendid time of 1.14½. Wilson, Miller's giant chestnut, ran second, carrying 9st. 8lb. This with a 6st. 7lb. minimum.

Nohleman, evidently in commission for the Epsom, ran a good third with 8st., 8lb., on his three-year-old back in the All-Aged Stakes at last Randwick Autumn meeting, when the mile was run in 1min. 4 secs. As he has now five months' improvement in his favor, and a pound less to carry, he should cut out a very fast mile.

The totalisator in France last year raked in £208,000 for the charities and £104,000 available for the encouragement of the breeding of thoroughbreds. The machine in use is a beauty—it allows of hacking for a win or a place, and has automatic registers keeping one copy of the record for the club and one for the Government auditors.

A startling race was one at Marong (Vic.) recently. There were five starters, and after the even-money favorite had run absolutely last his owner entered protests against three of the others for not being district horses. They were disqualified, and then he protested against the remaining one for having run on an unregistered course. Case adjourned; but it looks as if the last horse will get the stakes.

REY DEL CARRERA won the Culver Handicap over the slow Gravesend track Tuesday in 11:5, eased up at the finish, under a pull all the way, and carrying 135 pounds. Crescendo was second and Brandywine third. Rey del Carrera could have done the distance in 1:14 if fully extended. The first furlong was run in 0:12, three-eighths in 0:36, half in 0:48½. Richard Croker was much impressed with the California colt's performance, and Mr. Baldwin consented to the Tammany Chieftain's taking Rey del Carrera to England after the November election is over. The performance is considered the best ever made by a three-year-old in America. An offer was made to match him against Clifford for $5,000 a side, six furlongs, but owner Boh Rose declined the issue.

A SHORT time ago Eugene Leigh sold to M. F. Dwyer the two-year-old colt Tom Cronwell, by Bramble, out of Fonsie. He has three more two-year-olds, which he says he will also dispose of, all winners, viz., King William, ch c, by Spendthrift—imp. Kapanga, a full brother to Kingston; Zanone, b g, by imp. Black Dean—Arrowgrass, and Nikita, h f, by Strathmore—Barbary. Mr. Leigh states that he expects to sell his yearlings, thirty in number, at Morris Park during the fall meeting there.

W. F. YOUNG, P. D. F.—Please send half a dozen "Absorhine" at once. I used it on the worst Bog Spavin I ever saw, and the leg is now as clean as it ever was. I have used it on Curb and Wind Puffs with perfect success. Am now using it on a Shoe Boil that my veterinarian said would have to be cut out. It is more than two-thirds gone and I think one more bottle will do the work.—J. P. Allen.

THE famous black colt Halma, in the Fleischmann string, is taking his work right, and is now thought to be as good as ever, or nearly so. It is pretty positively stated he will start in the Gibson House Stakes next Saturday.

SECRETARY W. S. LEAKE, of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, arrived in the city from Sacramento Tuesday. Mr. Leake says the splendid new Ingleside course will certainly be ready by the opening day, November 2d.

IN answer to an inquiry we would state that the fastest mile ever paced over a half mile track by a stallion is the 2:08 of Joe Patchen; the fastest by a stallion in a class race over a mile track, the 2:03½ of John R. Gentry.

STARTER DICK DWYER now wields the flag at Windsor. Col. Hatch's work with the red hunting there was the reverse of satisfactory, and he was relieved in less than a week.

CHARLIE BOOTS might have won the second race yesterday if Hinrichs had hand-ridden the colt instead of going to the hat about a sixteenth from home.

Should be Secured at Once.

In view of the large number of Eastern horses to be started at the two tracks (Bay District and Ingleside) during the winter months, the problem of finding homes for those not in training is one that deserves attention, and that it is as necessary to have breeding farms as it is to have tracks is true. An unusual opportunity to either rent or buy such a place in one of the most favored localities in the State and one that not only affords every requisite in the way of accessibility to the city, fenced paddocks, good stables, good living water and the reputation of producing early and good feed is offered in this week's issue of our paper. See the announcement of the Clayton Ranch. This splendid property is offered at a great bargain, and to any of our breeders who contemplate buying a ranch in this, the great and future horse and cattle breeding State, we sincerely commend the above-mentioned proposition.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—

FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.

SECOND It will not cause headache.

THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.

FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.

FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.

SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.

SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.

EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.

NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")

TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

THIS POWDER IS MANUFACTURED BY THE

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.

Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.

Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.

Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.

Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.

Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.

Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.

Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

LADDIE:—A TYPICAL POLO PONY. PROPERTY OF W. S. HOBART, SAN MATEO, CAL.

A MODEL EQUINE HOME.

Where the Choicest of Thoroughbreds, Trotters, Coach Horses, Polo Ponies and High Jumpers Are Kept—The Leading Place of Its Kind in the United States.

It has been the boast of nearly everyone who has taken an interest in the great industry of breeding and developing light harness horses, as well as thoroughbreds, that California's greatest farms are noted as the nurseries of its greatest racehorses. And these enthusiasts point with pride to the summaries of all the large race meetings throughout the United States in verification of their statements.

San Mateo was the first county in this State in which farms were devoted exclusively to the breeding and developing of fine trotters. The fame of the pioneer among them, Stephen H. Whipple's Hambletonian stock farm, extended to the farthest portions of the country. The owner of this farm was an excellent judge of fine trotters and thoroughbreds, and erected barns and stables, built corrals and made paddocks on his big farm, which is within the city limits of San Mateo. Then he started for New York and purchased trotters and thoroughbreds. That was in 1860, thirty-five years ago, and the memorable sale which took place at that farm June 11, 1873, when the proprietor was paralyzed and blind, will never be forgotten by the few that survive of the hundreds who attended on that memorable day.

The farm was always considered a model one, and although it was for years devoted to the uses of stock and the raising of grain, it never recovered the prestige it held until the late

W. S. Hobart purchased it and stocked it with the choicest lot of horses ever gathered in the United States. The place, under his supervision, was transformed into one of the best-appointed stock farms in California. A race track was built, new buildings containing box-stalls replaced the old and dilapidated ones, trees were planted, paddocks made, and after he had finished his work it looked as if the magic wand of a great genius had been wafted over the old buildings, brushing them out of sight, and in their stead a little village had suddenly leaped into existence.

Mr. Hobart had everything in readiness to go on with the good work, when sickness overtook him and he was called to his long home, leaving a bereaved family and thousands of friends to mourn his loss.

The stock selected by him was then sold in the East by the executors of his will; this was one of the most successful sales ever held. The farm was leased to K. O'Grady for two years. Last August Walter S. Hobart, the only son of the deceased owner, made satisfactory arrangements with Mr. O'Grady, and at once took possession of the place. He had been purchasing prize-winning coach and carriage horses, polo ponies, thoroughbreds and a few choice trotters in the East, and his capable superintendent to take charge of his immense undertaking, H. H. Hunn, was detailed to fit the place to receive the splendid collection he had secured to take the places so ably filled by Stamboul, 2:07½, and his harem.

These two young men displayed remarkably good taste in fitting up the farm according to their ideas. The colors of the Del Monte stable as claimed by W. S. Hobart, red and yellow, were chosen as the ones that all the buildings should be painted, and a more picturesque and striking combination could not be found anywhere. A large force of graders, carpenters and painters were engaged, and for the past six weeks the work of making changes and improvements has been rapidly progressing.

A lawn has been made around the cottage at the entrance to the farm, the building itself has been painted white, and the interior has been furnished and decorated in a style that commends it to all who pass the threshold. The changes made have been so great that to any one who visited it while its original owner lived it would be hard to convince that it was the same place. The carpets, wall paper, rare works of art, bric-a-brac, etc., make it a veritable, bright, little home of comfort and good cheer.

The large barn has been fitted up expressly for the polo ponies, carriage horses, harnesses and vehicles. The interior is painted a bright yellow, and the sunlight streaming through the many windows adds a softness to the light that is simply charming, and while the ornamental trimmings on the inside and outside buildings are painted a bright red, both colors seem to blend harmoniously. The stalls for the coach horses are wide, and fitted up in accordance with the latest improvements for the comfort of the equine prize-winners. The box stalls for the game looking little polo ponies are comfortable, neat and well ventilated. The driveways at both ends of the barn are wide enough to admit of two four-in-hands to pass each other, while on the floor in the center of the building a six-in-hand can be turned easily. The harness rooms are fitted up with the latest styles of racks for the costly harnesses, saddles, clothing, etc. The rooms are made dust proof, and all the articles I saw there were in their proper place under the names of the horses upon which they belonged. These neatly painted signs corresponded with those to be found over every stall.

Before inspecting the occupants of this building, I walked over to the building where the thoroughbreds were kept. The appearance of the open space in front of the buildings has been changed and instead of a little field of rye grass and alfalfa an exercise ring has been made, in the center of which a circular garden was placed in which rare exotics were growing. Around this circle a number of exercise lads were cooling the thoroughbreds and polo ponies that had just had their morning exercise. Superintendent Hunn kindly uncovered the horses that were resting in the box stalls and the way this gentleman repeated the pedigrees and performances of those gathered here was most instructive. Every animal seemed glad to be fondled by him and the stranger was as welcome in the stalls as the men who had charge of these sleek-looking beauties.

Everything about the place shows that a master mind is the governing power. Neatness prevails, while the systematic way in which every branch of this establishment is conducted, reflects great credit on Mr. Hunn, who is one of the most modest of men.

In the row of box stalls we noticed a number of yearlings (thoroughbreds), and they look larger than most two-year-olds; among them being a sister to Little Mid, a good winner as a two, three and four-year-old, being by that good sire Midlothian, out of Probability, by Onondaga.

A filly by Maxim, out of Trade Dollar, by Norfolk. She is a half-sister to the winners Simmons, Trade Mark, Gold Dollar, Dare Dollar and Daric, and will be also a winner of brackets when she starts.

A good looking Sir Modred filly out of Carina, by Kingfisher, second dam Carita, a great race mare by that great broodmare sire The Ill Used. Carina is the dam of St. Carlo, a great race horse and sire, and St. Julien, another winner. This filly will make a grand broodmare when her days on the turf end.

A rugged, well-made and exceedingly racy looking brown colt by Salvador, out of Iris (dam of Peril), by Iroquois, was one we fancied and unless all signs fail will be as great a horse as ever was bred at Rancho del Paso.

A chestnut colt by imp. Sir Modred, out of Bedotte, by Bonnie Scotland, second dam Erdemgarde, by Lightning, and then tracing to the immortal Levity, was next looked at. This one is a race horse every inch of him, and will do to watch. He is the making of a fast one, and when his days for sporting silk end, what a sire he will make.

The Sir Modred colt out of Repartee, by Virgil, second dam Retort, by Lever, occupied the next stall. From this fellow's ancestors have descended the great race mare The Butterflies, and Runnymede, Barnes, Katrine, Lou Lainer, Lucky Dog and a host of famous stake winners. When he starts he will have no trouble in placing his name alongside these great ones.

These are a few thoroughbred yearlings selected by W. S. Hobart and purchased at the Rancho del Paso sale in New York city last June. He has used rare good judgment in their selection and will never regret their purchase.

A few ponies used for flat racing occupy the adjoining stalls, while Ayres P., the greatest trotting gelding of his year is also here. He is used as a handy horse on the farm and we venture the assertion that if a person was in a hurry to catch the train, a ride behind this sturdy built gelding would not be refused. He is round and fat and looks as if he never did anything but eat and sleep.

In the next stall was Ferrier, a magnificent light chestnut horse with blaze and white stockings, he standing 16.1½ hands. A handsomer horse does not exist in this part of the world. As a race horse he ranks very high, having won some twelve races this season, nine in succession, and with big weight up on nearly every occasion. Twice at Sacramento he was timed separately miles in races inside of 1:40, yet was unfortunate at the start and did not win. His sire, Falsetto, won the Travers and Kenner stakes at Saratoga, Phoenix Hotel at Lexington, Ky., the Clark Stakes at Louisville and other good stakes, and never met defeat but once, when Lord Murphy beat him for the Kentucky Derby of 1879. During his turf career he beat the best horses in America, such as Harold, Monitor, Spendthrift and Ada Glenn. Falsetto's turf winnings amounted to $18,276, all won as a three-year-old. He was then purchased by P. Lorillard, for $18,000, and sent to England, but one of his legs gave way and he was sold to the owner of the Woodburn Stud. At this place he sired Bright Phœbus (winner of this year's Realization), Counter Tenor, Dewdrop, Glee Boy and many other winners of great note. The dam of Ferrier has thrown nothing but great winners—Hastings, the $37,000 two-year-old; Foreigner, a frequent winner, and Handsome, Ed Corrigan's good colt. He is by a great horse out of a wonderful mare.

Bright Phœbus was next looked at. He is one of the top-notch three-year-olds of 1895, and will head the list of winners of horses of his age this year. He was also sired by Falsetto, but his dam was Buff and Blue, daughter of the mighty War Dance, her dam Balloon (dam of True Blue and The Banshee, latter Apache's dam). From this family also descended Modesty, first winner of the American Derby, Ballet, Balancer, Blue Grass Belle, Major Richards (sire of Hawthorne), Peg Woffington, Charmion, Revolver, Wagner, Parachute, Margaret West, Ascension and Childe Harold. As an individual, Bright Phœbus is one of the most taking blood bay colts imaginable, while as a race horse he has few superiors. In the mud he is simply invincible. He took up 122 pounds at Sacramento and ran one and one-quarter miles in 2:08½ in heavy going—a record never equalled anywhere.

There were several others looked at, among them being the grand looking chestnut horse Joe Ripley, by Hyder Ali. I have seen many thoroughbreds during the past fifteen years, but do not know as I have ever seen a better-bodied horse than this one. There is no place where he could be improved upon—head, neck, shoulders, back, coupling, loin, barrel, hips, everywhere he fills the ideal. He is a little light in limb, but is in good hands, and when ready will be the peer of any horse that ever struck the turf in this State. He was reserved for the last to be shown and the time for his appearance going to the post will be anxiously look forward to.

The polo ponies were led out for inspection, and one of them Laddie, our artist, Geo. F. Morris, selected as a model and sketched him at once. The picture accompanying this is a very good likeness of this game, speedy and reliable pony. There was Gold Coin, Cherokee, Hayseed, Canaille and at least a score of others selected from all parts of the United States and Canada and trained for this exciting game. Twenty-five are kept here, and when Mr. Hobart and his friends are all mounted and equipped for the game a prettier or more exciting scene cannot be imagined. These polo ponies as well as the ponies used for flat racing such as Lady Greensleeves, Comanche and Brandy deserve a separate article as well as the prize-winning jumpers Huntress, winner at the last horse show at the Mechanic's Pavilion, Sweetmeat and Cinderella. The coach horses (and the most stylish among them being a trotting-bred gelding by Allie Wilkes) and the carriages, harnesses and vehicles furnished so many items of interest that lack of space prevents me from writing further upon them in this article.

Mr. Hobart is a great rider, and is not only one of the neatest and most graceful, but he is daring as well, and whether over the flat, across the huddles, or in the skillful manœuvres in the game of polo he is one of the best ever seen here. As a "whip," there is not a stage driver in this country that can give him points driving four or six horses, or tandem. He is always cool and self possessed, and his quick eye and wonderful strength and skill have won for him the plaudits of many delighted spectators wherever he has been. He can throw a lasso with any vaquero in the land, and has a number of trained mustangs which he loves to ride as the Mexicans did in California before the Gringo came. Mr. Hobart will send a number of his polo ponies to the great tournament to be held at Los Angeles during the fall meeting of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, and their appearance will be one of the many features to be seen at that great meeting. He will enter a number of horses at the Horse Show also, and whatever is strictly up to date will be shown in the way of horses, carriages, vehicles, etc. A better collection than he has is not owned by any other in the United States, and the accession of this aggregation of fashionable stock to California is one to which we can all point with pride.

ARNAKEE.

Fresno Races.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3.

The third day of the Fresno Trotting Association meet found rather a smaller gathering than usual in and around the grand stand, but there was no question about the respectability of the assembled crowd. Sheriff Scott and his deputies did not have to put in even a verbal remonstrance, save in one case where a super-heated rider thought he had been hardly dealt with by the judges, and then the latter were sustained and the party retired with perfect respect for the minions of the law. Up to date no race meeting in this county has been so orderly.

The 2:20 trot provoked a hard and prolonged contest. The entries were Toggles (the Lemoor terror) which made such a hit on Tuesday; Charivari, a bay mare; Our Lucky, b.s., and Bonnie Ben, s.g. Mariposa, a brown mare, was scratched. The first heat was won in 2:19½ with little to spare between first and second. Our Lucky beat Bonnie Ben by a length, and Charivari came third. Toggles did not worry the judges, but jogged along in the fourth place, and the bookies looked tired. Toggles was a favorite for first.

In the second heat Toggles won easily, with Our Lucky second, Charivari third and Bonnie Ben fourth. The time was very fast, 2:16. The third heat was in favor of Toggles, the time being 2:19. Our Lucky came in second, Charivari third and Bonnie Ben fourth. The Charivari mare having made three "thirds" was ruled out. It was anybody's race so far, and Toggles' stock ruled high. The fourth heat was a surprise to old members of the turf. The three remaining horses got away on the fourth attempt. It was a close argument from the half mile, but the thing looked dead sure for Toggles fifty yards from the wire. The Lemoore gelding was then leading by a whole length, but Bonnie Ben stole up, challenged the favorite and as the whips fell twice, loud and clear, Bonnie Ben responded, but Toggles gave out and was beaten by a neck "in a moment of victory." Time, 2:21. It was the closest thing of the week and many tens and twenties changed hands over it.

The fifth heat provoked a difficulty in the judges' stand. Charivari crowded Toggles at the first turn, and hundreds of voices proclaimed a foul. The judges pronounced Snider, the driver of Charivari, subject to a fine of $25 and Snider angrily protested. He was removed from the stand and the judges announced that Bonnie Ben had won first place, Charivari second, and Toggles third. In the sixth and final heat Bonnie Ben came in first, Toggles second. Time, 2:28. The horses were by this time pretty well tired, especially Toggles, who might have won but for being trotted over the course between the final heats. It was about the hardest contest ever seen on the Faesno track.

The second race, a five eighths dash, running, was never in doubt for a moment. Fleet came in first, Pollasky second and Myrtle G. third. Academy did not run. Time, 1:02½.

The third race, a quarter-mile dash, running, came late and was easily won by Valledor, g.m., in 22 seconds, with Bonnie second and Comet third.

The fourth race on the announced programme was the brown mare Lilac, from the Wildflower Stock Farm against time (to beat 2:35). C. E. Clark drove the mare and brought her under the wire in 2:26, beating the time by nine seconds.

A match race for $100 a side between the runners Syrick and Ten Cents was easily won by the latter in 0:23½. The distance was a quarter of a mile.

The fifth race, a handicap, special trot, provoked another hard contest. The entries were Juana Treat, b.f.; Teresa, b.f.; Knight, b.s., handicap with high wheel cart; Carrie C., b.f., and Little Mac, ch.g. Knight easily won the first three heats and first money, Teresa third and Carrie C. fourth. The purse was $250.

FRIDAY'S RACES.

The week's racing comes to an end to-morrow. It has been a very successful and very pleasant meeting from a racing point of view. The horsemen are satisfied with the track, the management and everything, and say it is the best meeting they have had this year. The races have not proved a success financially, because of the smaller attendance than was anticipated.

Yesterday, the fourth day of the races proved to be the most successful day at the track, as yet and there is no reason to believe that to day has not been even more successful.

In the 2:20 trot, Myrtle Thorne did not seem to be enough in the race to please the poolsellers and came in only third place, McZeus who had not been regarded as a winner taking first place.

The next and last event on the programme was the five and a half furlong handicap, running race. In this race Inkerman was first choice with Blue Bell second. Blue Bell, however, ran away from the favorite and won the dash in 1:08½, Inkerman second, Nevear third, Cleveland fourth.

SATURDAY.

The closing day of the race meet in this city was the best one. The attendance, however, was not as large as expected, although the school children, who were admitted free, turned out in full force.

The best programme of the week had been arranged for today. The trotting and running time was slow, but the pacing records were among the best on the Pacific Coast. The time of the four heats of the pacing race was 2:08, 2:08, 2:09½, 2:09.

Never before on the coast has such time been maintained in four successive heats. Waldo J. won the race, with Chehalis second.

Some remarkable heavy pool-selling was done during the day. The winners had been picked out fairly well.

THE BEST EVER SENT.

Palo Alto Stock Farm's Consignment of Young Trotters to New York.

On or about November 20th next there will be shipped from Palo Alto forty-seven head of young horses consigned to Peter C. Kellogg & Co., New York. They will be sold at public auction in Madison Square Garden.

These youngsters are by sons of Electioneer out of the famous broodmares at Palo Alto. The success of the produce of the sons and grandsons, the daughters and granddaughters of Electioneer on the turf this year has been very noticeable. The old cry that the Electioneers won't race has been buried so deep by the performances of that family that not even a volcanic eruption of all antagonistic forces could bring it to life again. When it became a necessity for the Electioneer family to race, there was thrown into the field such an avalanche of race horses that even those of the house of Electioneer were somewhat startled by the numbers and quality. Many of the performers of the year and of others were shipped from Palo Alto to New York undeveloped, and in all probability there is just as much quality in the lot that will be shipped November 20th as any shipment that has preceded it.

Palo Alto has sold at its sale in the East horses of high class, many of them having by their performances reflected great credit on the farm where they were bred. Some of the best offered at these annual sales have been purchased for very low figures: Limonero, 3, 2:15½, winner of Stallion Representative Stake at Lexington in 1894, was sold for $600; Marston C., 3, 2:19½, for $485; El Rami, 4, 2:14, for $550; Seylax, 4, 2:16½, for $200; Abeto, p, 2:10½, for $310; Cobwebs, 2:12, for $550, and so on. The number of winners that have been sold in Palo Alto sales figures up in the hundreds and each year's sale adds more to the large numbers.

To show that the Electioneer family is decidedly prominent in the trotting events of 1895 is to simply mention the names of the performers:

Fannie Foley, the yearling champion.
Palita, 2:16½, the two-year-old.
Athanasio, 2:11½, the three-year-old.
Azote, 2:04½, the fastest of the year.
El Rami (4), 2:14, whose sire was out of an Electioneer mare.

Bouncer (4), 2:12½, a jewel for gameness.
Lynne Bel, 2:11½, a horse everybody is talking about.
Seylax (4), 2:16½, another eight heat winner whose dam was by Ansel, son of Electioneer.

Spinaway (4), 2:14½, has quite a respectable number of winning brackets to her credit.

Sunland Clay (3), 2:15½, a youngster that trots good races.
Katrina Bel (3), 2:16½, that has been seen in front trotting against aged horses.

Pedlar, 2:18½, a five-heat winner.
Utility, 2:14½, in the charmed 2:15 circle.
Tommy Britton (2), 2:18½, above the ordinary.
Azmoon, 2:19, that has shown his ability to win and trot much faster.

Baker, 2:15½, Sandy Boy (3), 2:16½, and Sphinxetta, 2:12½, and others that make Sphinx quite prominent.
Carillon, 2:18, Mandolin, 2:16, Peerless Chimes (4), 2:18, keep Chimes before the public.

Boreal (3), 2:15½, and his eight heat race against aged horses will not let Bow Bells be forgotten.
Nellie W., 2:15½, and Abeto (p), 2:10½, are gentle reminders that Woolsey, the full brother to Sunol, is still alive.

Electrophel (2), 2:21½, has been first many times this year. He is an improving son of Electrite.

Bingen (2), 2:20½, is no small potato even if he is by May King.

Visalia (4), 2:13½, and Jasper Ayres (3), 2:17, are race horses by Iris, grand son of Electioneer.

Miss Albert, 2:15½ and William Albert, 2:16½, make us remember the sire of Little Albert, 2:10.

May Ross, 2:16½, a good performer by Anteros.

Queen Alfred (4), 2:12½, by Alfred G., a trotter when right.

The above reference does not cover near what has been done by the Electioneer family in 1895, but enough has been mentioned to give thoughtful breeders and horsemen generally a good idea of what may be expected of this family of horses in the future.

Now the stock that Palo Alto will send over East combines all of the above blood lines, and in individuality, breeding and form they are hard to excel, and it is doubtful if a better average lot of prospective young trotters ever left any State to be sold at public auction.

The sires represented are Palo Alto, 2:08½, sire of seven in the list whose records were made at three years old and under and whose average is 2:20 4-7.

Electricity, 2:17½ (by Electioneer), sire of Welbeck (3), 2:24½; Wilder (3), 2:26; Jesse (4), 2:28, and Fly, 2:29.

Whips, 2:27½, sire of Azote, 2:04½; Cobwebs, 2:12; Navidad (4), 2:22½; Warlock, 2:28½ and Manillo, 2:29½.

Piedmont, 2:17½, sire of Limonero (3), 2:15½; Marston C. (3), 2:19½ and eighteen others.

Advertiser, 2:15½, sire of Abdell (1), 2:23; Nordica (3), 2:19½.

Azmoon, 2:20½, sire of Rowena (2), 2:17; Bonibel (4), 2:17½; Azmon, 2:19, etc.

Alban, 2:24, sire of Seylax (4), 2:16½; Hilarita, 2:29.

Good Gift, sire of Prince Gift (2), 2:27½.

Bernal, 2:17, sire of Aria (3), 2:16½; Amigo, 2:16½; Paola, 2:25½, full brother to Palo Alto; Langton, 2:21½; Lottery, by Electioneer; Boxwood, 2:35½, by Nutwood.

Nephew, 2:36, sire of Beauty Mac, 2:14½; Vina Belle, 2:15½; Elden (3), 2:19½ and twenty others.

The broodmares represented in this sale are the great mares of Palo Alto; mares that produce speed and money winners.

Emma Robson, dam of Rowena (2), 2:17; Emaline, 2:27½; Emma R., 2:28½; Attractive (2), 2:32 and Emir.

Odette, dam of The Seer, 2:15½.

Rebecca, dam of Rexford, 2:24; Electrician, 2:24½; Ariana, 2:26; Bernal, 2:17; Rusenole, 2:30.

Rosemont, dam of Mont Rose (3), 2:18; Sweet Rose (1), 2:25½; Mazatlan, 2:26½.

Lady Ellen, dam of Ella (4), 2:29; Elleneer, 2:21½; Helena (3), 2:21; Eugeneer, 2:28½.

Flushing Belle, dam of Vina Belle, 2:15½.
Lina K., dam of Electryon, 2:24½; Coquette, 2:29½.
Susette, dam of Lord Stanley, 2:28½.
America, dam of Bonnie (4), 2:25; Benton, 2:20½; Ameer (2), 2:27; Almoner (2), 2:31½.
Amrah, dam of Electwood (Stiles), 2:29½.
May Day, dam of Lord Byron, 2:17; Feagh, 2:29½.
Tillie, dam of Truman (4), 2:12; Tiny (2), 2:28½; Teazle, 2:29½.
Barnes, dam of Stanford, 2:21; Caution, 2:25½.
Cecil, dam of Electric Coin, 2:18½; Cecilian (2), 2:22.
Mollie Cobb, dam of Cohwebs, 2:12.
Wildflower, dam of Wildmont, 2:27½, Wild Bee, 2:29, Flower Boy (2), 2:23½.
Sontag Dixie, dam of Del Mar, 2:16½, Miss Sontag, 2:28, Commotion, 2:30, Sonnet, 2:24½, Elma Sontag, 2:29.
The young mares represented are:
Gertrude Russell, 2:23, full sister to Palo Alto.
Linnet (2), 2:29½, full sister to Whips.
Avena, full sister to Electioneer Jr., 2:22½.
Hinda Rose, 2:19½, full sister to Chimes and St. Bel.
Lucyner, 2:27, by Electioneer, out of the old pacing mare Lucy, 2:14.
Tirzah, by Dexter Prince, full sister to Alejandra, 2:15½.
Sonnet, 2:24½, by Bentonian, dam the great brood mare Sontag Dixie.
Viola, by Gen. Benton, dam Violet, by Electioneer.
Quaker Maid, Nettie Nutwood and Dolly Nutwood, by Nutwood.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

"SHALL BE PUNISHED."—In the pamphlet containing By-laws, Duties of Officers and Racing Rules of the Pacific Coast Blood Horse Association, adopted December, 1878, in Section 4, Duties of officers, appeared the following paragraph:

"The judges shall not have the power to declare the race, bets or pools off unless in cases of fraud (except as provided by other rules), and the parties committing the fraud shall be punished by expulsion."

A capital law it was and one that could be included in the modern codes with advantage, in the trotting statutes especially, as I will endeavor to show hereafter. There was one practical illustration of its value a good many years ago.

Three horses were engaged in a race, which was run under the rules of the Blood Horse Association. A B and C will be their titles, which will answer as well as their names. B was thought to be the fastest and largely the favorite in the pools, C was next in demand, A having small support. Heats of a mile the distance, and the first heat was a very close contest for the whole of the way, A winning by a short neck, B, showing a good deal of distress. C was laid up in that heat, just dropping inside the distance. The second heat C was sent to make the running, his owner fully satisfied that he could win that heat, while B could take it easily and by so doing win the third heat beyond question. The scheme did not prove sound, A again winning, which gave him the race. There were many urgent appeals to the judges to declare the bets off, none more clamorous than the owners of B and C, and the judges were on the point of complying when their attention was called to the law. To save themselves, the conspirators were forced to acknowledge the "collusion," and state that it was the intention to win, and planned the tactics pursued to give them a greater certainty of beating A. There were corroborative proofs of their statement being correct, and hence had the bets been declared off those who backed A would have been swindled out of their just due.

Now as to the advantages which would follow the incorporation of such a law in the trotting codes. Several times the bets have been declared off during this season under the charge of the perpetration of fraud and no one punished. From what I learn, and that knowledge obtained from the most reliable sources, the closing day of the San Jose meeting presented a case which is to the point, and will serve as an illustration.

It was the 2:27 class trotting. There were seven starters. Jasper Paulsen took the first heat, 2:18½, Our Lucky the second in 2:22, Jasper Paulsen the third, 2:21½, Columbus S. the fourth, 2:21, the fifth, 2:20½ and the sixth in 2:3½. In the fourth and fifth heats Jasper Paulsen was 6, 5, and in the seventh heat, with three starters was third. The placing as given is taken from the summary in the Examiner of Sunday, the day following the race, and it may not be correct. The verbal information I received from a person who saw the race, and when the bets were declared off he thought the judges were justified by the evidence presented.

This is a safe hypothesis to accept, as an explanation of the course pursued by the judges, that there was fraud. Judging from the summary Jasper Paulsen was the most likely to be the culprit as he had the last place in the fourth heat after winning the third in nearly as fast time, and again in the fifth heat was at the tail of the procession.

Taking the summary for a guide the judges erred in not calling the sixth "no heat" and substituting drivers for those which were held culpable, and it was clearly within their power to have made a change of drivers when the winners of previous heats were last and next to last in the fourth heat.

I have no desire to harshly criticize, or even to take exceptions to the course pursued by the judges. In the absence of a rule, similar to that quoted, and following established customs and precedents, they could declare the bets off without further action. Then, again, there is a dread of incurring the enmity of those who are castigated, or even reprimanded, as was shown by the effort to humiliate Mr. La Rue when he sought to carry out the law, and to secure honest racing.

Then, also, there is a reluctance to offend people who can do so much towards the success of a meeting by controlling "strong stables," or drivers who are accounted stars of the profession and who have the management of celebrities. It is the "longest odds" that if in place of McHenry and Curry, and John R. Gentry and Joe Patchen, there had been two obscure drivers, and horses of inferior note, who were guilty of the same short-coming as these noted knights of the sulky, they would have been "ruled off for life."

While it may appear strange that a wealthy man should be a partner in such nefarious schemes as corrupting drivers, and instigating "robbing races," it is well known that such instances are not as rare as they should be, and the mere fact that a person is not driven by the pressure of necessity to "perpetrate frauds" is not a valid reason for assuming that he is innocent.

How shall this foul blot be removed is a pertinent question?

The adoption of a law compelling punishment when bets are declared off would be a step towards reform. When judges have not been duly vigilant, when they have been slack in discipline, and condoned offenses, that the welfare and permanence of the sport demand shall not be compromised, then a higher power should take cognizance of offenses, and be in readiness to try, and, if found guilty, sentence the offenders to a punishment which will be commensurate with the crime.

The Board of Appeals has that power. It may be said that it is only an appellate court, but Article IX, Sec. 4, By-Laws National Trotting Association reads thus: "The Board of Appeals shall have both original and appellate jurisdiction." Section 11 of same article reads: "In all cases of misconduct or fraud not provided for in these rules, the Board of Appeals may punish by fine, suspension or expulsion." The District Boards have the same powers, with the exception that their judgments are subject to appeal, and in that case, to be effective, must be ratified by the Board of Appeals or Board of Review.

There are several good reasons for the District Boards exercising the supervision which the by-laws empower them to do.

First. These tribunals are the guardians and conservators of the great interests at stake. Not a single district in the United States which has not large capital invested in light harness horses, and the Pacific District has more at stake, in proportion to the population, than any of the Eastern districts.

Second. The judges, even when thoroughly competent, in the hurry attending the races, have not the time to make a thorough examination of the evidence, and testimony which could not be obtained at the time the crime was committed is available thereafter. I have known parties to boast of their rascality, and vaunt their shrewdness in mistifying the judges, thinking that when the meeting had come to an end and the judges had separated, the statute of limitations debarred further action. When that sort of "horsemen," know that there is a power which can punish and will punish, after the judges have failed, they will be more careful of bringing the sport into discredit. Quite frequently their hoastings and vauntings are lies, and in that case they should be made to suffer; so from either point of view penalties should be inflicted.

Third. False accusations should be looked after. When any person, owner, manager, trainer or driver accuses a person of fraud, and fails to show that he had reasonable grounds for the accusation, he should be punished.

For instance: A prominent driver accused a wealthy and prominent owner of attempting to corrupt him, and that charge repeated on several occasions. There was no gratification, no attempt to use other than plain words.

While such a charge might be difficult to sustain, the word of one being and offset to that of the other attending circumstances would have a great deal of weight in arriving at a decision, and justify, however severe, the punishment of the slanderer or the person who endeavored to debauch the driver.

The reasons for the Pacific District Board of Appeals taking an active part in relieving harness racing from the heaviest load it has to carry could be multiplied, but there is enough, which cannot be controverted to warrant the exercise of the powers it consequently possesses. Passing over the general charges of those who "followed the circuit," and there is a general consensus of opinion that several unsavory jobs were carried through, and surely there is enough to warrant interference when bets are declared off without any one being punished.

In the race heretofore mentioned, that which Columbus S. won at San Jose, the report in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN states: "The judges, not liking the way the betting looked, declared all bets and pools off. This decision gave satisfaction to all but those who backed the field."

The betting, according to the report, was certainly queer. Before the start Our Lucky $10, the field $7. The first heat was won by Jasper Paulsen, 2:18½, Our Lucky second. Before the second heat betting Our Lucky $10, Jasper Paulsen $2, field $8. Our Lucky won that heat in 2:22. Then pools ran, Our Lucky $15, field $7. Paulsen won the third heat in 2:21½. Very curious that the winner of two heats, Jasper Paulsen, sold for $5, the winner of one heat, Our Lucky, $7 and $10 for the field. Columbus S. was 6th, 4th, 3d in first, second and third heats; won 4th, 5th, 6th in 2:21, 2:20½, 2:30½.

Two good heats, it must be confessed, and unless the judges thought that Jasper Paulsen could have won the second heat, or that he and Our Lucky could have done better in the finishing heats of the race, so far as can be told from the report, the bets should have stood. While "the betting" is a fair barometer to build a forecast upon, it is not infallible. If it was discovered that the owners or drivers of the horses which took such a conspicuous part in the first half of the race, had "laid against them from the outset, that would strengthen suspicions of unfairness, if it did not imply that rascality was intended. The old saying "that there is no law to compel me to bet on my own horse," is quite true, but the converse of the proposition is not, and if other horses are backed, and there are other suspicious features, it is a solid link in the chain of evidence and should be awarded consideration.

There are plenty of plausible theories claimed to be all that is needed to make harness racing more popular, and all of them conjoined will not have so potent an effect, in that direction, as stricter methods of frustrating rascality.

The Board of Appeals can be of vast service in accomplishing purification.

TROTTERS OF THE PAST.—"A few years ago those that were termed fast trotters were far from being beautiful either at ease or in action. Most of them of nondescript breeding and looked as lean and hungry as if they were fed on shavings. Worked to death at any gait that would get them to the wire first; shod with shoes of the heaviest kind to give them action; hooted with pieces of gunny sack turned over tight straps; pulling sulkeys that weighed from eighty to one hundred pounds; harnessed with strong and poorly-fitted harnesses, and fed entirely on grain, they had a trying experience."

The above is quoted from a prominent horse journal, and is liable to mislead people who are unacquainted with the trotters of the past. It may be that the writer considered that the best part of a century was only a few years, but even then a great part of his description is erroneous. My recollection of fast trotters goes back to nearly half a century ago, and for more than a third of a hundred years have been familiar with the champions. I have listened with great attention to many of the real old-time drivers, when describing the horses and races as long ago as the thirties, among them George Stevens, who rode Topgallant in his exercise, and he was trotting when the twenties of the nineteenth century were not completed.

Contemporaneous descriptions of the old-time celebrities will throw a light on the subject. Topgallant, according to Wallace, "was foaled about 1810, got by Coriander, a son of imported Messenger, dam by Bishop's Hambletonian, a son of imported Messenger. This was one of the most distinguished trotters of the olden time. The venerable David W. Jones, of Long Island, says he was foaled near Townsend Cock's place and could run half a mile very fast."

Mr. Stevens said he was a very handsome horse, and as he was half Messenger from the double cross, and the dam of Bishop's Hambletonian was by imported Medley, and grand-dam claimed to be thoroughbred that was anything but nondescript breeding.

Quite a few years ago when Lady Suffolk was foaled, 1833, she was by Engineer 2d, her dam by Don Quixote, son of imp. Messenger, grandam by Rainbow, a son of imp. Wildair.

Engineer 2d by Engineer, son of Messenger, dam "a bay mare that ran well," by Plato, son of Messenger, Engineer, by Messenger, dam unknown, Wallace describes him thus: "He was sixteen hands and an inch high and of most perfect proportion."

In the "old" Spirit of the Times, February 22, 1840, Wm. T. Porter describes Abdallah "a beautiful bay, without white, fifteen hands three inches high. * * * With the exception of Andrew Jackson, for whom $5,000 has been refused, Abdallah is the finest limbed and most bloodlike trotting stallion we ever saw."

Thus these two most noted progenitors, founders of the two greatest trotting families, unless Mambrino Chief is given the preference over Andrew Jackson, and M. C. was a grandson of the sire of Abdallah, the thoroughbred horse Mambrino. The sire of M. C. was Mambrino Paymaster, three-quarters thoroughbred, and if his dam "was a large coarse mare of unknown breeding" there was good blood surely in the sire of Lady Thorne and Mambrino Patchen.

The first to trot in harness in 2:27 was Highland Maid, and that was done forty-two years ago, was by Saltrain, a son of Kentucky Whip, and she was also a handsome mare. Lady Suffolk was an extra "good looker." N. P. Willis went into ecstasies over her, even so far as to claim that "her tail was fit for a Pasha's standard."

Long Island Black Hawk, foaled 1837, was by Andrew Jackson, his dam by the thoroughbred Mambrino, not only a celebrity of his day, as a trotter, but a fine-looking horse, and the sire of Vernol's Black Hawk, foaled 1851, and so handsome that a fine steel engraving of him was published in Frank Forrester's Horses of America. The dam of Vernol's Black Hawk was by Webber's Kentucky Whip, son of Blackburn's Whip, grandam by Shakespeare, son of Duroc. He was the sire of Green's Bashaw.

One of the celebrities of the early fifties was Kemble, Jackson, by Andrew Jackson, his dam Fanny Kemble, by Sir Archy, grandam Maria, by Gallatin—Sim's Wildair—Moreton's Traveller—imported mare. In 1848, which is surely more than a few years ago, Trustee trotted twenty miles in 59:35½—the first time that the distance was made within the hour, and he was by imported Trustee, sire of Fashion, the conqueror of Boston.

I could extend the list of well-bred and good-looking harness horses of the olden time until the recital, in one article, would be tedious.

In place of being "fed on shavings," or "entirely on grain," the practice in the olden days was to feed as much as the horse would eat. "The more feed the more work you can give" was an axiom of the olden time, and I never knew one of the long ago trainers who stinted their horses of "fodder," unless when the time came to "draw" them for a race. There is no question that the tendency was to give too much feed and too much work, and the modern practice in that respect is much superior. Still there was nothing like the number of crippled horses in these days, days prior to a good many years ago. As to the shoes, I have seen heavier shoes used on trotters since 1870 than before that year, and the first toe-weight that came under my observation was in 1872. Again there is no question that shoeing is much better understood now than in the past, in fact the whole science of training, and particularly driving, has advanced wonderfully since the time I became ultimately connected with trotting horses. In regard to driving the disciples of Jehu who holl the high, est rank, in the days when Lady Suffolk, Dutchman Ripton, Americus, et al were struggling so hard for supremacy, would fall far short of the masters of the art of the present time. Chifney's instructions to "ride your horse as though the bridle reins were silken threads," had little force among the drivers; stout arms, strong backs and legs to match were thought to be essential in a driver of trotters, and when it was claimed that a trotting horse had a "good mouth" the meaning intended to be conveyed was that he would stand a pull which only a strong man could give. Dan Mace did not possess so much strength as his most dangerous competitors, and he had to follow Chifney's advice and make skill take the place of strength.

In 1859 I saw a sulky which was under fifty pounds in weight. Eoff had it made for Princess when she was on the hippodrome tour with Flora Temple. Princess would not endure a pull, she could be "driven with two fingers," and hence a sulky which would sustain the weight of the driver was sufficient. Eoff, however, came very nearly getting in trouble through that light sulky. Princess had gone wrong, and Eoff secured Ike Cook, nee Frank Forrester, a big, strong son of Abdallah, for himself to drive with Flora, the man who took care of Princess driving her in the race at St. Louis. The race was on the Abbey track, the turns of which were short, and to keep the long-striding Ike "on his feet," Eoff had to take a hard pull. The light shafts bent so that the cross-bar struck the hocks of the horse and Eoff had to pull him up. Princess was far behind the distance flag, and the large crowd, attracted by the celebrity of the horses, thought that that one heat, if it could be called a heat, was all they were to get for their dollars at the gate. "Take him down and hang him" was the cry as Eoff jogged Ike by the stands, and hundreds jumped from their seats and rushed on to the quarter stretch. Eoff, with the utmost coolness, turned his horse, drove back to the stand, and made the usual request for dismount. He was told to keep his seat, the presiding judge announced that it had been advertised as an "exhibition of speed," there was no betting and no money. Flora made the mile in 2:25½, the fastest ever made on the track up to that date. She won the next in 2:27½, and, hitched to a heavier sulky, had his nose on her ears, heers in place of execrations greeted the driver, who had given the horse several seconds faster than anyone thought he could go.

I have seen many odd-looking boots, but never "fell in" with "pieces of gunny sack turned over tight straps as protection of the limbs.

When Princess—then called Topsy—beat Reindeer in 1857, she was owned by David A. Gage. Mr. Gage's partner in the Omnibus lines, Frank Parmelee, sent to New Hampshire and bought a colt from her which he named King David. The colt was placed in the hands of George Bidwell, one of the foremost trainers of the day, and he did so well that he was matched by his owner to trot every Saturday for thirteen weeks, each race $100 a side p. p. King David only won one race, the mare having several to her credit, when

Mr. Parmelee paid for those still in abeyance and brought the colt home. He consoled himself for the mortification of so many defeats by telling a story. He said that Bidwell had provided so many boots for the colt that he could not bring them in his buggy, and had to send an omnibus to the Garden City track to bring the collection of leather and kersey manufacture to his stable in Chicago, and that it was beyond the strength of any horse to carry so much on feet and legs and trot.

It is quite true that the best of that day were far inferior to those of the present. The Boston bookmaker, Stowell, made great improvements, though his best would not compare with the present guards against injury.

In fact, could the spirit of Hiram Woodruff be brought into McKerron's store, and show samples of each of the various patterns of boots for horses, unless spirits are permitted to revisit the scenes which were the chief points of attraction when embodied, it would be entirely at a loss to place them correctly.

While no one can reasonably claim that breeding is not a potent factor in the advancement of trotting speed, in my opinion the greatest share is due to rearing, training, driving and the improvement in tracks, vehicles and other adjuncts of the present time.

It is very well to praise the horses, and men who "handle" them, of the present. Very well to draw comparisons and show what has been accomplished, but the tendency to disparage the past without regard to the correctness of the charges is not well. It may "point a moral or adorn a tale" to represent what was gray, perhaps, as being "black as Erebus," though it is not true history.

There is one feature connected with the racing of the long-time-ago which could be copied with advantage. "Throwing" races was of such rare occurrence, if that nefarious practice prevailed at all, that there is not a hint of it in the published reports. Contrast that with the reports of the day, and surely the old-timers are worthy of a credit which will go a long way towards making amends for other shortcomings.

TRUSTING—That I may be pardoned, when claiming that the endurance which Joe Patchen displayed in the five heat race at Lexington, Ky., over John R. Gentry, Robert J. and Colebridge, is a legitimate inheritance from "old" Blackbird, I indulge in the assertion that such a claim is not absolutely invalid.

On the theory of individuality of the spermatozoa—and that has been sanctioned by the highest authority—the spermatozoid which fertilized the ovum, in his case, carried the most noted quality of his distant ancestor—a combination of endurance and gameness in the highest degree.

THE EAST OAKLAND TRACK—I did not make the trip contemplated to the ground which has been selected to build the new track upon, and, therefore, will defer description until some time not far off. That it is so promising a scheme as to secure all the support necessary for the construction of a first class track for harness racing and athletic sports cannot be successfully controverted, and there is scarcely a shadow of doubt of it will fall through.

The race course on the North, the trotting track on the South will add very many people to Oakland and vicinity, and with the boulevard around Lake Merritt, stimulate the "horse-market" to a great degree.

PULLED DOWN—The stand on the Oakland Trotting Park which was stigmatized as being dangerous has been demolished, preparatory to erecting by all odds the handsomest and best grand stand in the State, judging from the plans prepared.

And the tearing down also fully corroborated the position I took that it would support more than double the weight of the human avoidpoups that could be crowded into it, seats and passage ways being packed so closely that not a foot of room would be vacant. Work has been commenced, and I must be permitted to jubilate over the prospects, though I must say that I never lost faith in the future of the park the location being so admirably adapted for racing purposes.

CHANGE OF VIEWS—I conclud notices that I have changed my views in relation to heat betting on harness racing. He is correct so far, that, in my opinion, the closer surveillance which heat-betting will impose, will be of service in this way, and were it necessary to give up all my previous beliefs to secure that every heat be honestly contested I should be satisfied. Still I have not changed in regard to book-betting and am firmly impressed with the idea, that when that system was transplanted on to American soil, it was a token of serious damage. It is safe to assert that if the "English methods had not been introduced adverse legislation to racing would not have been imposed.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

FRANK JAMES, the great outlaw, now drops the timer's flag at the fair grounds track, St. Louis. Ever since Frank reformed he has had the aid of prominent Missourians in keeping him in good positions—mainly, perhaps, because he fought with Quantrell. Frank has always followed the turf, being an owner even in the outlaw days. Sometimes he is ahead of the game and sometimes he is behind. He has no sympathy with the excuses owners give for their horses' defeats. Frank had some bets down the other day and got beaten by bad rides. The owners explained to him—one that it was because the horse had bad legs, and the other said his horse had gotten off its feed. Frank looked at them, in his quiet, cynical way, with never a smile on his thin lips, and then said: "I had a horse that rode 12,000 miles in two years. It was on no velvet track like this, either, but over hill and dale, and over the roughest of mountain roads. And he was always going at full speed, too. And yet that horse never got bad feet. Cole Younger had a little mare he rode 15,000 miles in three years. Sometimes she did not get anything to eat, but when Cole needed her she could gallop away with him like a bullet, and he never found when the little mare was called upon that she was off her feed."

Geo. L. Clark, prop. of Silver City Stock Farm, Meriden, Conn., says: "Absorbine" will allay inflammation quicker than anything I have ever seen. Have used it on Sprained Shoulder and Tendons, Bog Spavin, Wind Puffs and other bunches with success, and without removing the hair, which is a pleasant feature.

California's 2:30 List.

Following is a list of all trotters and pacers which have lowered records or entered the 2:30 list this year that were either bred in California, sired by horses that were bred here or were identified with our horse industry. Some have been bred in the East, but earned their records here. Should any of our readers notice any mistakes we would be pleased to make the corrections:

THE SULKY.

ANITA, by Junio, 2:21, got a record of 2:21 at Hollister last Thursday.

J. MALCOLM FORBES is reported to have paid $3,000 for Bingen, 2:20.

ELECTIONEER's latest performer is Teazle, 2:29, a brother of Truman, 2:12.

BEDWORTH, by Wildnut, reduced his record to 2:22 at Baltimore, September 28.

PLUNKETT's mile in 2:14 establishes a track record for pacers over the Salinas race track.

LADY VESTAL, 2:21, is the first of Richard's Electors, daughters to enter the list this year.

THE people of Santa Ana are enthusiastic over the race meeting to commence there next week.

DON SHANER, by Dexter Prince got a record pacing of 2:17 at the Salem, Oregon, races Sept. 26th.

PRINCE GIFT, 2:27, won the race for two-year-olds at Hollister easily Monday, best time, 2:30.

SOPHIA R., by Roy Wilkes is a good pacer. She got a record of 2:20 at Salem, Oregon, September 26th.

FEZ, 2:27, is out of Rosalind, by Del Sur, 2:24; second dam Gulnare, by The Moor. His sire is Guy Wilkes.

LEA, a chestnut mare by Sidney, took a record of 2:18 in the second heat of the 2:23 trot at Columbus, O.

ALAMONT now has four performers with new records of better than 2:12, the average of the four being 2:09.

ELLA T. will soon give Alamont his fourth 2:10 performer. She forced Star Pointer out in 2:08 last Friday.

SAN LUISETO, by Monroe Chief, out of a mare by Altoona got a pacing record of 2:21 at Hollister on Tuesday last.

JAVELIN, by Creole was a close second to Ottinger in the three heats; the latter won at Fresno. Time, 2:11, 2:13 and 2:14.

THE defeat of Chehalis, 2:07, by Waldo J., at Fresno was a stunner to the talent, for Chehalis was looked upon as being invincible.

MCZEUS, the beautiful gaited McKinney colt, lowered his record to 2:14 at Fresno, defeating a good field. The time in the three heats was 2:15, 2:14, 2:16.

THE Palo Alto trotting-bred youngsters to be sold at Madison Square Garden, New York City, in December, are the best-looking and best-bred ever seen on this farm.

BROWN WILKES, owned by Mr. C. F. Emery, Cleveland O., has put nine new ones in the 2:30 list thus far this season and stands well toward the top in the list of sires for 1895.

THE next sale of trotting bred stock from the San Mateo Stock Farm will be a "red letter" one in the history of this famous farm. Many very fast and handsome trotters will be included.

SALINAS BELLE, 2:24, by Vermont, has been very sick at Salinas. She has a filly by Dictatus that so far as appearances go is as well-made as any ever sired by this grandly-bred horse.

EDITH ROSE, the four-year-old daughter of Baron Rose (son of Stamboul and Minnehaha), and Edith R., 2:17, took a record of 2:25 last week. She was bred by John H. Shults at Parkville Farm.

FEZ (formerly called Wilkes Moor) is the latest to be added to the list of Guy Wilkes' performers. He got a record of 2:27 at Hueneville last week. He is owned by Thomas Clark of that place.

OVER fifty sons of Nutwood have new 2:30 trotters or previous ones that have reduced their records this season—something truly phenomenal when it is recalled that he is himself still alive and getting colts.

AT Woodward & Shanklin's sale of trotters at Lexington last Monday the bay stallion Constant I., 2:12, by Wilkes Boy, was sold for $7,100 to Peter Duryea, of New York. The prices of others stocks were fair.

THE four-year-old mare Allandora by Steinway which was the pick of Midland Sanders' consignment to Fasig's spring sale, won two heats in 2:18 at Allentown, Pa., last week, and stepped a heat in 2:17 at Baltimore, Md., on Tuesday.

MESSRS. FOTHERGILL & LEWIS, the young gentlemen who purchased about forty head of trotters this Summer and brought them to Guatemala, report having sold all but three at a fair profit, and will return to California next Spring.

LAST Tuesday on a telegraphic order from an Eastern horseman, whose name is unknown, Will Young, of Lexington, bought of Guthrie & Watson, of the same place, their stallion May King, 2:20, by Electioneer. May King is the sire of Malcolm Forbes' remarkable two-year-old colt Bingen, which trotted a mile in 2:12 at Portland, Me.

THERE have been some great race horses on the turf since 1879, but in that year, in public miles, Rarus, Edwin Forrest and Hopeful stepped quarters in 0:32 and Rarus finished a last quarter in his 2:13 mile at Hartford, Conn., in 0:32. There is no doubt that Edwin Forrest could have beaten 2:08 on such fast tracks as we now have and with modern appliances.

DISCUSSING the question of watering horses, Dr. Butler of the Mississippi State College makes the flat assertion that "an animal is never too warm to be watered if not more than two gallons be given." He lays down the following rules: 1. Use only pure water. 2. Water before feeding. 3. Water frequently (from three to five times daily). 4. Never give a large quantity at one time, especially if the animal is very warm, or about to undergo severe exertion.

ALTAO won a good race at Terre Haute, October 3d, Time, 2:10, 2:09, 2:12.

ELECTRITE, sire of the good two-year-old Electrophel, 2:21, is a full brother to Spbinx.

LOUPE, 2:12, paces without boots and is one of the band someest horses on the circuit.

It is within the bounds of possibility that 70 per cent. of the foals by Palo Alto will be in the 2:30 list.

LAURA D., 2:29, by Altoona, out of Dolly, by Mozart, lowered her record to 2:28 at Hollister Wednesday.

SILKWOOD has gone lame. It is hoped he will recover in time to be a factor in the free for-all pace at Santa Ana next week.

BELBEL is a bay stallion by Stamboul that got a record of 2:30 in the third heat of a race at Cape Vincent, New York, September 24th.

COAL DUST, by Black Pilot, dam by A. W. Richmond, second dam by Ben Wade, won a race at Ventura October 9th. Time, 2:31, 2:27, 2:27.

STRATHWAY, 2:19, by Steinway, out of Countess (dam of Dawn, 2:18), by Whipple's Hambletonian, is the sire of the fast trotter Toggles, 2:16, "the Lemoore terror."

ELECTROPHIL, by Electrite (son of Electioneer) is a good two-year-old. He has a record of 2:21, made at Terre Haute's great meeting, September 30th.

SISTER C., by Sidney, took a record of 2:29 at the Western New York Fair at Rochester, N. Y. last week. She is owned by Lines Brothers, of Rochester.

THE great mare Hulda, 2:08, has been suffering from a womb trouble all this season, and will be sent to Chicago to be operated upon. She will not start again this season unless it be in California.

NIGHTINGALE won the 2:11 trot at Terre Haute, Ind., October 4th. She was defeated the first two heats by Onoqua and then captured the others. Time for the five heats: 2:08, 2:10, 2:08, 2:10, 2:09.—The fastest five heats ever made in a trotting race on record.

MONROE SALISBURY passed through Chicago a few days ago and while in the city found time to say a few words to a representative of The Horseman relating to his horses. He reports his stable in good shape, and Alix's injury not nearly so severe as it was at first believed to be.

THERE is a two-year-old filly at the Santa Rosa Stock Farm sired by Palo Alto, 2:08, which was driven a mile by John Rogers the other day in 2:30. She has just been handled five weeks. Mr. Rogers says there is a lot of very promising material among the youngsters on this farm.

THE Salinas race meeting this year was the best ever held there. The races were made in better time, the finishes closer and the attendance excellent. The President and Board of Directors did all in their power to make the horsemen feel glad they came there and in 1896 they may look for greater support.

FAMOUS old Woodbine excels all other trotting broodmares as a producer and reproducer of 2:20 speed in direct female line. She is the dam of Wedgewood, 2:19; the granddam of Proctor, 2:16, pacing; the third dam of Leonatus, 2:17, and Bokhara, 2:20, pacing, and the fourth dam of Quiz, 2:16.

TRUE it is the pace that kills, and no horse can stand the strain of continuous racing when the time is below 2:10. Joe Patchen, Robert J. and Azote have shown greater endurance in this direction than any other horses ever on the turf, but time has done its work with the two former, and their owners have been compelled to see the error of continuous racing without a let-up.

ALLEN LOWE is authority for the statement that at one of the meetings down in Maine Gen. Turner went in the stand and said: "Gentlemen, I do not usually come in the stand to find any fault, and I am not going to do so now. I only want to make a suggestion. It is this. I think you are all nice men, but I am sure there is many a thing you can do better than judge a horse race."

MR. R. S. VEECH, while sitting in the office of the Turf, Field and Farm a few days ago talking with Mr. Wm. Corbitt, expressed so much faith in the future of the trotting-horse business that he offered to purchase a number of the choicest filies at San Mateo Stock Farm by Guy Wilkes for broodmares. Mr. Veech does not believe that prices will climb as high as they were before the panic, but thinks that they will gradually increase and make it profitable for a man to carry on a first-class breeding farm. The crop of weanlings in Kentucky this fall is very light. Demand is rapidly overtaking supply.

THE directors of the Santa Ana Fair Association have concluded to keep open house on October 15th, the opening day of this year's races. Accordingly on that date the big gates will swing in for free admission to everybody. This will start the races off with a tremendous attendance, and it is generally believed that the interest created will work to advantage for the remainder of the week. The directors are also working on a new feature for one day, the date of which is not yet determined. An endeavor is being made to capture a live wildcat or fox. The animal will be led or chased around the track inclosure between races, and then a pack of trained foxhounds will be turned loose on his trail. The dogs of the Santa Ana Kennel Club are to be used.

THE BLOOD OF THE MOOR—Oakland Baron, the winner of the Kentucky Futurity of 1895, is out of Lady Mackay, by Silver Threads, son of The Moor, a half-thoroughbred sire. The dam of Silver Threads was Grey Dale, by American Boy Jr., thoroughbred. Katrina Bel, the second money winner, is by St. Bel, son of Beautiful Bells, by The Moor, a half-thoroughbred. The third dam of Katrina Bel was Belle Mahone, by Norfolk, son of Lexington, thoroughbred. Boreal, who finished fourth, is a son of Bow Bells, whose dam was Beautiful Bells, by The Moor. In Oakland Baron, Katrina Bel and Boreal we find three crosses of The Moor, one through his son, Silver Threads, and two through his greatest daughter, Beautiful Bells. Mighty was the blood of The Moor. He died too soon.

PARKVILLE, by Electioneer, promises to become a sire of early speed. J. C. Hoge writes that he bears very favorable reports from different sections. Allen Campbell, Spring Hill, Tenn., has four two-year-olds that can beat 2:20, one of them being by Parkville. Ralph Clifford, Munson, Mass., has a three-year-old that stepped a mile in 2:28. There are also two three-year-olds at the Cleveland track, one of which has been a mile in 2:25 and the other a mile in 2:23.—American Horseman.

THE wonderful filly Fanny Foley, that they claim has trotted a half in 1:06, and is going for the champion trotting yearling record of the world, is inbred to the Electioneer strain. Her sire, Redwood, is by Anteeo 2:16, son of Electioneer, and her dam is by Prince, a son of Kentucky Prince, whose dam was Meg Merrilles, a very strongly trotting-bred mare, being by Electioneer, dam Young Gipse, by Mambrino Pilot, son of Mambrino Chief; second dam Gipse, by Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

AMONG the new 2:20 pacers to spring into prominence this fall is the horse Mephisto, 2:17, by Sidney, dam Lindora, by Guy Wilkes; second dam by The Moor, bred by Russell Allen, and owned by J. A. Dunlap, a wealthy gentleman of Tarentum, Pa. Talk about the Sidneys not being game, I saw Mephisto pace a nine-heat race this week, and a more consistent bulldog never faced a starter. He is certainly well named. C. Henderson, a Pittsburgh driver, presides over him, and he will be seen in the Grand Circuit next year.—Horse Review.

THE bay gelding Jesse P. that appeared in the race at Salinas as being by Algoua out of a mare by Geo. M. Patchen Jr., was once started and distanced in a race after getting a record of 2:36 at Stockton in 1892. His sire was then given as Western, another Rancho del Paso horse. At Salinas he got a record of 2:21 in the fourth heat of a race in which he was ably driven by H. G. Cox. There must have been a mistake made by the new owner of this gelding in making the entry as he was sold as being by Western to R. Ledgett. Credit should be given where it is due.

ANOTHER attempt is being made by owners and breeders of trotters to revive trotting in Sydney, Australia. With that object in view the council of the Royal Agricultural Society of New South Wales have been approached to see if arrangements could be made by which trotting meetings could be held at fairly lengthy intervals on their track at Moore Park. The council have notified those interested that the minister for lands is to be interviewed on the subject, but unfortunately the ground is held under such conditions that the chance of seeing some good trotting on the park again is very slight. "With all the good trotting blood at present in the colony it seems strange," says an Australian exchange, "that we can not keep the sport going equally as well as our New Zealand neighbors, and if it does get on its legs again here let us hope that it will be differently conducted than in the past, when trotting became synonymous with crookedness."

THOSE who get out of the horse business this fall will live to regret it, unless they are preparing to retire permanently from active life. Responding to the recent sharp advance all along the line of manufactures, every branch of business has begun to show signs of recuperation, which are in no sense spasmodic, but to all appearances, indicate a restoration to sound business health. More clearly than ever before, for three years, is it demonstrated, day after day, that good horses not only sell readily, but are in demand and that demand is an ever increasing one. At a recent New York sale a five-year-old gelding of fair to good breeding sold for $1,050. At the same sale several animals brought $400 or over. These figures would not have been reached by more than half, one year ago, and the sale referred to is but a sample of many that have lately been held. Those who have uniformly predicted that there was no hope of recovery should watch the signs of the times closely; they will observe much that will at least set them to thinking. As for the breeder, let him continue in the even tenor of his way, sell when he is offered a price that carries with it a margin of profit, and never mind the croaker. The horse business is a pretty lively corpse.

JOHN SPLAN can tell you that C. J. Hamlin is not the selfish, miserly man that some people paint him. Back in 1878, when Splan was driving Rarus, the Buffalo park was the scene of a famous tilt against time. Rarus and Splan were the important factors in the effort. Mr. Hamlin had advertised a special speed purse of $1,500, open to all; one entry to fill, with the conditions that if one horse only was entered and started, $1,000 would be paid if the three heats averaged 2:18 or better; $500 additional to be paid if 2:14 was beaten; if two or more horses entered and started, $1,000 to be paid if the heats averaged 2:10 or better, and an additional $500 to be paid if 2:14 was beaten in any of the heats. Rarus was the only starter, and he failed to average 2:18, although he established a new world's record, 2:13, in the third recorded attempt. The horse had actually won only $500 by his performance, but Mr. Hamlin very graciously gave Splan $1,000. The famous driver tells a story about the performance of Rarus that is well worth repeating. At Rochester, in 1879, the gelding was started to beat Goldsmith Maid's record of 2:14 over that track. He trotted the first mile in 2:17, the second in 2:16 and Splan decided he would not try again. While Splan was standing by Rarus, watching him cool out, Conklin, his owner, came over and showed a ticket calling for $100 if Rarus beat the Maid's record. It seems that after the horse had gone the mile in 2:16 some fellow had come to Conklin and sold him the ticket for $10. Splan says: "I had said to the starter as I dismounted after this mile that I would not make another attempt, but this game on the old man made me a little mad and I said to Mr. Conklin that I would go again and that Rarus and I would make a mighty effort to make the fellow who sold that ticket feel like a sucker. We started again, and the old horse never lifted his nose in the mile, which he trotted in 2:13. The only time I ever heard the old man swear was after this heat, when he came over where we were cooling the horses out, and said: 'I guess that d—n fool has made up his mind that Rarus is a trotting horse.'" Splan says that before the horse was sold to Robert Bonner he told Conklin he had a chance to sell Rarus, but the old man did not seem to want to talk about it. Later Conklin came to him and told him to do what he thought best. Splan then concluded the sale for $36,000, and he says he never saw a more touching scene than that of the parting of Conklin and Rarus, at the horse's stall in Hartford, previous to his being delivered to his new owner.

THE SADDLE.

DOCKSTADER won a mile race at Detroit Monday, in 1:44.

PAT DUNNE has purchased Salvahle from Sam Hildreth.

REY DEL CARRERES was timed the first quarter in a recent race in the East in 0:23.

TARAL will come to California at the close of the present racing season in New York.

MAINSTAY appears to have trained off. He is not anything like the horse he was a week ago.

THE books were hit pretty hard by Isabelle's win Monday. She went to the post at 2½ to 1.

RICHARD CROKER returned to his old love last week, and renewed old acquaintances at Gravesend.

JACK CHINN is starter for the thirty-day meeting at Highland Park, Detroit, which opened last week.

"A JOCKEY on a long-shot and a shoemaker on a favorite" is facetiously expressive of inconsistent riding.

THE genial Teuton, Barney Schreiber, has purchased Ye-men and Service, both of whom will be shipped to California.

J. WELCH, probably one of the oldest jockeys riding in the United States, had the mount on Jim Corbett Monday.

THE Santa Anita Stable made no mistake in purchasing Salvahle, the son of Salvator and Lydia. He is proving a breadwinner.

THERE was a strong stable tip out on Cadeau Monday, and it was asserted if he did not win he would never be started again. Cadeau will not start again.

COPIES of No. 5 of Volume 2, of Goodwin's Official Turf Guide have arrived and are for sale at this office. This number contains all the races up to and including the State Fair meeting.

MACKLIN looked back on his ride down the stretch on Claude Hill Monday, and was bumped twice. Before he got through looking around Chevalier had landed Isabelle a winner.

W. SPEIRS, owner of the great O'Connell, Lizetta, Lizelg and twelve others, has telegraphed for stable room at the new track. He will arrive in about a week, coming from Oakley.

IT is not generally known that the famous sprinter Geraldine is now owned by George Rose. Geraldine will be seen at the post in this city before many weeks have gone by.—Chronicle.

THE attendance at Bay District is steadily on the increase, and a good-sized crowd witnessed the races on Saturday. The betting ring was crowded all day, and the eleven bookies were kept pretty busy.

THE Great Eastern handicap, at Gravesend, has been won five times by fillies, viz., Dew Drop, in 1875; Sallie McClelland, in 1890; Lady Violet, in 1892; Gutta Percha, in 1894, and One I Love in 1895.

THE broodmare Peggy Woods belonging to Judge Jas. H. Mulligan died last week. She was thirteen years old, by Rivoli—Peggy Woods, by Endorser, and was the dam of Alderman Morris and other winners.

TRAINER J. W. ROGERS would like to sign the boy, J. Murphy, who outdied Griffin at Brighton on Friday in the race won by Volley. The boy, however, is indentured to Michael Daly, for whom he rode at Alexander Island.

THE popular young horseman, Johnny Weber, arrived at the track from Los Angeles Friday with his good selling plater, Little Cripple. His brother Charley is in the southern country gathering in purses at the fair with his gelding Hello.

BY law the racing season in New York State closes November 15th. The arrangement of dates for the autumn meeting of the Westchester Racing Association leaves nine free and consecutive days, which Brighton Beach Association may use.

JOHNNY COLEMAN, of the Stuyvesant Club, had $2,100 on Libertine Friday, $2,000 at even money and $100 against $90. Libertine simply romped in in 1:13½ with 124 pounds up. He could undoubtedly have equalled the Coast record with that weight up.

TWO YEARS ago David Gideon named the Futurity winner after John Drew's successful comedy, "The Butterflies." Now Mr. Drew's leading lady has been singled out for a similar compliment. James McLaughlin has christened his filly, by Candelmas, out of Floria, Maude Adams.

IN criticising Jockey Chorn's riding, the New York Mercury says: "Hereafter when an odds-on favorite goes down before a moderate horse it will be known as a chorny one. If the colored Arcner has done nothing else he has certainly increased the turf vernacular by a new expression."

IF Domino had not shown temper in his last race at Sheep-head Bay he would have now been nearing the shores of old England, the handicapper having treated him so leniently in the Cambridgeshire that Mr. Keene was tempted to chance his being in racing fettle three weeks after his arrival.

THE Westchester Racing Association, at a meeting held September 26th, decided on the dates for their autumn meeting, which are Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week from October 15th to November 5th inclusive. The National Steeplechase Association will sandwich in on three Wednesdays.

BESIDES getting the great $20,000 National Derby of 1896, transferred to St. Louis from Chicago, the St. Louis Fair Association management will make an effort to attract to that city next season all the great handicap horses on the American turf. This will be done by increasing the value of the Club Members' Handicap, the great all-aged event of the meeting, from $8,000 to $10,000.

UCITA, a four-year-old chestnut gelding by Judge McKinsty, out of Skipaway, by Wildidle, carried 124 pounds and won a five furlong race at Salinas on Saturday in the excellent time of 1:02. He was ridden by Ed Caldwell and is owned by Geo. Lowery, of Hollister. Ucita will be seen at the Bay District track this winter.

EUGENE WOHL, the much-esteemed clerk that has had charge of M. Gunst's cigar stand at the track for years, died last Thursday, October 3d, appendicitis, he being ill only five days. Wohl, who was generally liked, had been in the employ of Mr. Gunst for many years, and was about thirty-nine years at the time of his death.

FROM the talk of the different horsemen in this vicinity the California meetings this winter should be good ones, as nearly everybody who can say they are going out there. A great number, however, may find that it will pay them to remain on this side of the Rockies, unless they have something that they can win with.—N. Y. Mercury.

THE chestnut stallion, imported Ormonde d'Or, five years old, brother in blood to Ormonde, for whom W. O'B. Macdonough of California paid $150,000 two years ago, died suddenly Monday at Versailles, Ky., of inflammation of the bowels at the Spring Hill stud. He was owned by William H. Sands of New York and valued at a very high figure.

A LARGE number of new horses are being schooled over the jumps at Morris Park and Brighton Beach for the coming steeplechase meeting at the former track. The Liverpool is said to be the great obstacle at which nearly all the horses refuse, and it requires the nicest handling and greatest pluck and determination on the part of a rider to induce a horse to essay it.

IT is announced that Philip J. Dwyer would sell all his stable with the exception of Handspring, Axiom and Applegate at the end of the present season. J. Otto Donner, too, will sell at Morris Park, Redskin, Bonhomme, The Native, and a few yearlings. He will retire from active participation in turf matters for a year, but will keep up the Ramapo Stud and will be back again with a large stable in the future.

MACKLIN's ride on Treachery was nothing short of idiotic. Running third in the homestretch in a good position, he tried to get through close against the rails where there was not room enough for a good-sized goat to pass, when by taking the filly toward the middle of the track he could have won off by himself with ease. The way Treachery came at the finish proved her at least ten pounds better than anything in the race.

IT is said the management of the Sheffield track (an offshoot of Roby) is really a combination of the Harlem, Hawthorne and Roby people, who have at last buried the hatchet and decided to fight the State of Indiana as one man, instead of bucking against each other and gaining nothing. It will be interesting to note what the outcome of this venture will be, as Gov. Matthews is not to be bamboozled, and means to fight the race tracks as long as he is in power.

THE stewards have allowed the protest lodged by "Lucky" Baldwin against Alarum, who won a purse at Brooklyn on September 19th. The protest was based on the fact that Alarum, who was formerly Joe Rogers, was not correctly described on the card. Falling Water, who ran second, was awarded the purse. Alarum is owned by Dr. G. L. Knapp, the official steward of the Brooklyn meeting. Falling Water is owned by "Lucky" Baldwin.—N. Y. Advertiser.

THE sale of Belle Meade yearlings at the Oakley race track at Cincinnati, October 1st, the following brought more than $500: Chestnut colt, by Iroquois—Destructor, Fleishman & Sons, $1,000; bay colt, by Iroquois—Tarantula, R. Tucker, $700; bay colt, by Inspector B.—Secret, T. Griffin, $625; bay colt, by Luke Blackburn—Brumet, B. W. Knox, $625; brown colt, by Iroquois—Bennetta, T. Griffin, $600; bay filly, by Albert—Edelweiss, Cliff Porter, $1,125.

BREEDERS of thoroughbreds should remember that the time for registration of foals of 1895 expires on November 1st with the Jockey Club. Registration is required by the Western Turf Congress as well as the Jockey Club. The Western Turf Congress recognizes the Stud Book as the official organ of registry, and the Jockey Club requires registration with it to entitle horses to race on Eastern tracks. For the sake of convenience and accuracy, when breeders report to the Jockey Club their foals it will be well at the same time to send a duplicate report to the editor of the Stud Book.

ST. VISTO, winner of the Derby and St. Leger in England this year, is a royally-bred horse. He is of the male line of Melbourne, like our Flambeau, Spendthrift, Wildidle and imp. Darebin. His dam is Vista, by Macaroni (sire of the dam of Ormonde and grandsire of imp. Brutus); second dam Verdure, by that great sire of Oaks winners, King Tom; third dam, May Bloom, by Newminster, winner of the St. Leger and sire of Hermit; fourth dam Lady Hawthorne (sister to Thormanby, winner of the Derby), by Windhound fifth dam the wonderful Alice Hawthorn (winner of fifty races), by Muley Moloch.

THE correct timing of horses in a race is an art, and requires not only quickness of eye and a steady nerve, which characteristics are essential to the successful performance of the act. Still, however quick the eye, if one does not have an accurate watch—one that may be relied upon—the value of timing is worse than "nil." Capt. Ben E. Harris and Peter Brandow, the official timers at the Bay District, are noted for the accuracy of their work in that line. Both of these well-known gentlemen use the Hirschman $20 timer. And Capt. Harris says that for the purpose of timing, owing to their quickness of action and thorough reliability, there is nothing better.

FRED TARAL one of the most popular as well as one of the best jockeys that ever threw a leg across a thoroughbred, recently signed a contract to ride for Marcus Daly next season. Taral has not had the best of luck this season. The Keene horses, with the exception of Domino, have not played a very prominent part in the big events, and as a consequence the "Dutchman" has not had an opportunity to display his ability to the best advantage. Marcus Daly has been a liberal purchaser of the best yearlings sold this season, and Taral will undoubtedly have a better chance next year than he has ever had. The amount of the retaining fee was not made public, but it is certain to be well up into five figures.—N. Y. Advertiser.

RACES "for jockeys who have never ridden a winner" will be one of the features of the Morris Park meeting. There will be one of these every alternate race day. The idea is to encourage the riding of promising lads. Trainers will not put up a stable led against crack jockeys, but they will put them up against each other. Hence it is only by offering such races that the boys ever get a chance to show what they can do. In England they study this closely and have apprentices races. It is a school for jockeys.

THE fight for the possession of Jockey Felix Carr has been renewed, and the courts will have to decide who has a right to his services. Carr was bound as an apprentice to Long in 1891, and Long in 1893 contracted with Schreiber that Carr should enter Schreiber's services as a jockey, for which Long was to receive $250 a month for 1893 and $300 a month for 1894, the contract to expire in 1894. Long alleges that Schreiber refuses to give the boy up, owes him $3,650 on the contract, and he now asks for $10,000 damages in addition.

FOLLOWING were the results of the races at San Andreas Cal., yesterday: Second day, fine weather and track good. First race, mile dash, free-for-all, purse $100. E. J. Appleby's Kittie A won, Barcalaine second, Jim Bozeman third. Time, 1:49. Second race, three-eighths and repeat, purse $75. The entries were Mischief, Secretary, Maud and Stormy. Stormy won the first heat, Secretary second, Mischief third, Maud distanced. Time, 0:37½. Stormy won the second heat and race, Secretary second. O'Hearn was the rider of the winner. Time, 0:37½. Third race, special, half-mile dash. The entries were Dewdrop Sam, Top Notch and Della B. Della B., owned by G. F. Wilson, of San Andreas, was an easy winner. Time, 0:53.

THE Supreme Court of Indiana, at Indianapolis, September 27th, overrules a petition for a rehearing in the Roby race track question, and announced adherence to its original opinion by Judge Howard, which makes it unlawful to conduct racing as heretofore conducted at Roby. In its original opinion the court ruled that it was unlawful to hold any race meeting oftener than twice in any period of sixty days; that it was unlawful to hold any meeting until the full period of thirty days had elapsed after a former meeting. The ruling also prohibits all individuals or companies from holding meetings within the inhibited time, whether the previous meeting has been held by the same person or by different ones. The court acted promptly in the case.

WHAT a wonderful horse is old Strathmeath, who beat Lehman at Oakley recently. He had up to the close of last season won forty-two races and $109,772 in money, he being one among the very few horses that have earned $100,000 on the American turf. At a two-year-old he won, among other races, the rich Junior Champion Stakes; as a three-year-old, outside of other races, he captured the American Derby, while his career each year since has been a winning one, his running this season lately at St. Louis being good. He is now seven years old, being foaled at McGrathiana Stud in 1888, Mr. Milton Young being his breeder. He was gelded when a yearling, a move Mr. Morris has had reasons to frequently regret, inasmuch as now as a stallion he would be worth a handsome sum, whereas, when done with the track, his career of usefulness is at an end.

ALL the accounts in the local papers regarding the Hall-McWilliams episode were wrong in almost every particular. We are informed that McWilliams insisted on quarreling with Hall over something that the latter had never said, for Hall was satisfied with the ride on Jefferson and had only bet a small sum anyhow. Hall went to his stable, McWilliams meanwhile parading up and down in plain view of everyone, revolver in hand, waiting for Nick to come out. Nearly an hour passed away, and Hall was getting exceedingly anxious for his supper. Still McWilliams paraded. Finally a friend of Hall's advised him to watch his chance, rush upon McWilliams and knock him down with the handle of a pitchfork and disarm the would be shootist, if possible. Part of this Hall did, knocking the man down and trying to pin his pistol hand down so that he could disarm him. He could easily have killed McWilliams had he been blood-thirsty.

A LONDON dispatch of Sept. 26th says: "The Jockey Club Stakes of 10,000 sovereigns; the second horse to receive 500 sovereigns, the third 200 sovereigns, the nominator of the winner 400 sovereigns, and the nominator of the second 200 sovereigns out of the stakes; for three and four-year-olds; one mile and two furlongs, was run at Newmarket to-day, and was won by Mr. J. H. Houldsworth's bay colt Laveno, by Bend Or, out of Napoli, three years old. Mr. Henry Milner's chestnut filly None the Wiser, by Wisdom, out of Corrie Roy, four years old, was second. Mr. T. Cannon's chestnut filly Venia, by Melanion, out of Reine Blanche, four years old, was third. The other starters were Lord Rosebery's Ladas and Sir Visto, the Hampton Court Stud's Beckhampton, Mr. Leopold de Rothschild's Utica, Mr. A. W. Cox's Galeottia and Solaro, Gen. Owen Williams' Priestholme and Lord Zetland's Nighean. Time, 2:15 4/5. The betting was 9 to 4 against Laveno, 9 to 2 against None the Wiser, 25 to 1 against Venia, 5 to 1 against Ladas, 7 to 1 against Beckhampton, 10 to 1 against Sir Visto, 12 to 1 against Utica, 33 to 1 each against Solaro, Priestholme and Eighean, and 50 to 1 against Galeottia.

SOON there will be nothing left in an ocular and material way to remind us of the glories of what was in many respects the most noted, classic and historic of American race tracks—old Jerome park. In the days when the American Jockey Club represented all that was best, most reputable, most substantial on the American running turf, Jerome park, the club's track, was the most select and exclusive of our racing grounds, but the old saddle-bags course is now no more. With its history is closely connected the most noted names of patrons of American breeding and racing—Belmont, Withers, Lorillard, Jerome, Keene, et al., and to enumerate the mighty horses that have raced and triumphed there would practically be to make a catalogue of the champions from the long ago up to the opening of Morris park in 1889. The old park is to be the site of a storage reservoir, and Wednesday of last week there was a clearing-out sale there. First, the great bronze gates, that so long guarded the entrance, were sold for a mere song—$65. Then the grand stand, which must have cost $50,000, went for $550. Then the betting ring and all its fixings, the judges' stand, the paddock shed, the clubhouse and everything else went under the hammer. And so passes Jerome, of glorious memory. And in a little while it will exist only in history.—Horseman.

California's Great Showing.

While the daily newspapers have been filled with articles pertaining to the races held on the Eastern race tracks all summer, the editors of the turf journals have been kept busy compiling the names and performances of those that entered the 2:30 list. The work is not completed, but enough has been accomplished to show that progression is the motto upheld by the light-harness horse interests of America. While it is true the two-minute trotter has not appeared, there is a vast number of 2:20 performers, an increasing number in the 2:10 list, and of record-breakers there is a respectable showing. While there are hundreds of new performers, the fact that the California-bred trotters and pacers and the sires and dams of the greatest are California-bred, gives us reason to feel proud of the showing made. Every year the greatness of these Californians seems to overshadow those from all the other States in the Union. The progeny of Electioneer, Guy Wilkes, Director, Steinway, Sidney, Sable Wilkes, The Moor and McKinney increases the list with a regularity that is surprising to many of the Eastern horse breeders. The hue and cry raised about the Electioneers quitting has, by the performances of the descendants of the hero of the lone pine, been forever silenced. The showing his sons and grandsons is making is marvelous, and as every prominent stock farm in the East has one or more descendants of this son of Hambletonian in their paddocks, the place that good colt or filly is held in the estimation of its owner is high, and bred to the descendants of Geo. Wilkes, Belmont, Dictator or any of the old-time trotting representatives there are no risks taken regarding the speed and gameness the produce will have.

The Guy Wilkes family, while handicapped this season by a series of unfortunate accidents which almost annihilated a strong stable of campaigners, still holds a commanding place in the history of the turf.

The list as published in another column is a valuable one, and while far from being as full and complete as it will be after the fall meeting to be given under the auspices of the California Jockey Club, nevertheless, it gives our readers a fair idea of the wonderful strides made by our California sires down the homestretch against the pick of America.

A FULL account of the Hollister race meeting will appear in our next issue.

Sale of Palo Alto Thoroughbreds.

The auction sale of Palo Alto thoroughbreds, yearlings and two-year-olds, which is to take place in this city Tuesday, November 5th, at Killip & Co.'s salesyard, will be the first ever held under canvas and by electric light in this city. The horsemen who would be interested in the purchase of these grandly-bred youngsters will be so busily engaged at the race track during the day they would not have an opportunity of attending this sale, except it be held after dark. Those who have received catalogues have already selected colts and fillies they will try and buy, and many of these gentlemen have gone to the big farm by the lone pine and gazed with rapture on the splendidly-formed youngsters that are catalogued. Large prices have been offered for some, but the rule of this farm in regard to the sale of stock will not be violated; every animal listed for sale at auction will be sold at auction. In the preface to the catalogue, Messrs. Killip & Co., the auctioneers, say:

"We shall offer the superanimals now catalogued for sale to the highest bidder. In doing so we feel a pride in the fact that the youngsters offered are Californians, while the broodmares were selected by that truly great judge of conformation, the late Senator Stanford. The yearlings are by grand racehorses and from mares representing the greatest racing and producing families of America and England. It is noteworthy and generally acknowledged that Palo Alto has as magnificent a lot of stud matrons as ever graced a stock farm in the world. These, mated with stallions of proved merit, cannot but give to the turf many stars of world-wide renown. The stallions used for the most part were Flambeau and Imp. Cyrus. The first of the Flambeau youngsters were raced last year, and all have proved winners in good company—Flint, Lux, Piquante, Eckert and Brioso, a grand quietet truly. This year Crescendo (one of the very highest classed colts in America), Eventile, Outright, Sweet Rose and Benham have added greatly to his reputation. They speak volumes for their sire, a race horse of national reputation, speedy and a stayer, besides being one of the grandest individuals anyone ever saw. Imp. Cyrus gets nothing that cannot win. Orizaba (as good a three-year-old as could be found on the Coast, perhaps) is a son of Cyrus, and Kyo, By Jove, Agitato, Pictou, Chula and Sir Carr, among others, sprang from his loins. Then there are a few in this sale by the peerless Racine, and the splendid sire, Flood. As promised two years ago, nothing has been reserved, except the stallions and certain broodmares. With these few remarks we will leave the animals consigned to us for this sale to speak for themselves. The yearlings will be sold with their engagements, if they have any, and purchasers at time of settlement will be given acceptance of the engagements of these colts by us, which must be signed before stock is delivered. These colts are registered under the new rules, and are eligible to run under the Jockey Club rules."

California Jockey Club Stake Entries.

The new programme of the California Jockey Club for the winter meeting is published on another page of this issue, and should attract the attention of all horse-owners and trainers. The amounts given are large; conditions most liberal; the distances made to suit all classes of horses that give promise of being stake winners; the track is one of the finest in America; the accommodations for men and horses cannot be surpassed, the climate is salubrious, and if the horses need exercise in salt water, a beautiful stretch of sandy beach is accessible. Horse-owners should not hesitate but send in their entries at once. A perusal of the long list of stake events will convince them that they must not forget to be on time. Remember entries close Friday, October 25th.

The Louisville Meeting.

On Tuesday, October 15th, entries for three very important stakes offered by the new Louisville Jockey Club for the spring meeting of 1897 will close, viz.: The Kentucky Derby, value $6,000; the Clark Stakes, value $4,000, and the Kentucky Oaks, value $3,500. These stakes are for three-year-olds, foals of 1894, and the conditions of entry as shown in the advertisement, are so low that every owner of a promising colt or filly should send in the entry at once to Secretary Chas. F. Price of Louisville, Kentucky. The track at Louisville is one of the best in America for winter and early spring training. Over eighty thousand dollars have been expended in new stables and other improvements, and the meeting will be one of the greatest ever held in Kentucky. This is the last notification horse-owners will get.

ENTRIES to the Horse Show to be held in this city December 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th will close November 9th. Owners of horses of all breeds are earnestly requested to make entries. There will be over $15,000 paid in premiums for roadsters, double teams, standard trotters, ponies, thoroughbreds, draft horses, saddlers, four-in-hands, etc.; and owners who have what they consider ideal horses should not hesitate too long about sending in the names of those in their possession. Splendid stalls will be provided and every care will be taken of stock, and nothing that can be conceived will do more to make friends for man's best friend, the horse, than this great exposition wherein he can be shown at his best.

Theo. Winter's Sale.

There is a wreath of turf history woven around the name and honorable career of Thos. Winters that is so closely allied to the welfare of the thoroughbreds of this Coast that as long as horses are known it shall remain bright and evergreen. His judgment as a horseman, breeder and trainer is unquestionably as high as that of any man that ever lived; and when he sends from his famous paddocks in the Sierras a few thoroughbreds, colts and fillies to be sold at auction, buyers can rest assured they are getting race horses and stake winners. On November 6th, Messrs. Killip & Co., the well-known auctioneers, will preside over a sale of horses consigned by Mr. Winters, which for breeding, development, speed and endurance are the peers of any offered on this Coast. Colts and fillies by the immortal Joe Hooker, who passed away last week, are among those offered; these can never be duplicated. There are others by El Rio Rey (son of Norfolk and Marion, by Malcolm). All these are out of producing dams and race mares that were famous on the turf. There never was a better lot offered by Mr. Winters at a sale in this city than this one, and we take pleasure in recommending our readers to see these youngsters at the salesyard before the day of sale and be prepared to bid on them Wednesday, November 6th.

THE Kern County Country Club, one of the strongest of its kind in California, intends to give a pony race meeting at Bakersfield Race Track, November 5th and 6th, which will be open for horses and ponies, and entries will close October 21st. The idea of giving pony races is an excellent one. In Australia and India they attract large crowds of people and the growth of this class of racing is marvellous. Here in California, W. S. Hobar, The Burlingame Club, The Riverside Club and the Kern County Country Club are endeavoring to get people interested in it, and with the few meetings already given there is no doubt they have struck the keynote of success. Around Bakersfield there are numbers of first-class ponies and excellent riders, and now that it is known that a race meeting will be given there the people are becoming quite enthusiastic and will attend in large numbers. Should there ever be a State meet wherein all these clubs will unite to give races, the Kern County Country Club will not be overshadowed by any of its friendly rivals. Make your entries in time. See advertisement in our business columns.

A PETITION is being circulated among horsemen for signatures. This petition is to be presented to the Golden Gate Park Commissioners asking them to place some restrictions on the bicycle clubs which delight in going in a body over the roadways in the park dressed in fantastic costumes and blowing all kinds of whistles, ringing bells, etc., which frighten the horses driven over the road, endangering the lives of the occupants of the carriages and buggies and compelling drivers to use the lawns and flower beds to go by these "knights of the road." It is earnestly hoped that some protection will be afforded the thousands of tax-payers who delight in driving through the park, and that the commissioners will adopt some rules and see that they are enforced, which will keep the bicycle riders (male and female), where they belong. Many of them do not know which is the right from the left side of the road.

ANOTHER descendant of Electioneer captured the Transylvania Stake at Lexington, Ky., Thursday last, purse $5,000. Bouncer, by Hummer (son of Electioneer) was the winner, and the second horse, Lynne Bel, by St. Bel (son of Electioneer) got second money. Best time, 2:10½. Last year Azote, by Whips (son of Electioneer) won this stake. The time he made was 2:08½. Wm. Simpson the owner of Bouncer, visited this office last week. He said he was delighted with California, her people, and everything in this great State.

WORK on the new track at Ingleside is being pushed forward rapidly. Some two hundred laborers, carpenters, plumbers, etc., are there, and next week the painters will commence work. The roads to the track are also being repaired and placed in first-class order, and when the railroads are completed one can ride from the Baldwin Hotel direct to the course in thirty-five minutes.

THE well-known artist, Geo. F. Morris, who has been on a visit to California, returns to Chicago on Monday. He has been engaged to illustrate the leading turf journal of the East, The Horseman. His services were badly needed on that paper.

Lesa Wilkes, 2:09, by Guy Wilkes, 2:15 1-4.

Among the many speedy ones bred by William Corbitt, at San Mateo, Cal., is the well-known, medium-sized brown filly Lesa Wilkes, prominent as a two-year-old and again as a four-year-old, and a recent addition to the 2:30 list. She was foaled May 28, 1890, has a small star, also white hind ankles, and now at maturity stands about 15½ hands high.

Hannah Price, her dam, was also bred at San Mateo, where she has been used solely as a broodmare, never having been even broken to harness, though she showed unusual natural speed and is full sister to one that trotted in 2:26. Her first foal was Annie G., dam of Earlie, 2:27½, Chris Lang, 2:26½, and Buffington, which as a yearling acquired quite a reputation by winning several races and taking a record of 2:37½. Last year he was still more prominent as a two-year-old, and finished the season with a mark of 2:20½. Anita, the second of this now famous broodmare's produce, as a four-year old took a record of 2:25½, and is now the dam of Whalebone (two years, 2:24). Both are by LeGrande, and there were three others by the same sire, two of which have nothing more than trials to their credit, while the last by him, Charles James, took a record last season of 2:22½.

Lesa Wilkes was the first foal from Hannah Price by so famous a horse as Guy Wilkes. She then produced one by Sahle Wilkes, and the following year Last Chance, by Regal Wilkes, that last season, then a two-year-old, took a mark of 2:24. As soon as Lesa Wilkes was put in training her superiority was so evident that her dam was then bred back to Guy Wilkes.

Priceless, the second dam of Lesa, was one of Mr. Corbitt's early purchases, a California-bred mare, that years ago took a record of 2:45½ to wagon on a half-mile track. She was by Mystery, represented as a son of Cassius M. Clay, but as he got nothing of any special note, his breeding was never fully substantiated. The third dam was Maid of Honor, a mare that trotted some three and four-mile races, but had no published record. She was by a Canadian horse named Prince Lerove, a horse wholly unknown except in this pedigree.

Arthurton, the sire of the dam of Lesa Wilkes, like most of the sons of Hambletonian from Star mares, was a trifle undersized, but a trim, fine-looking horse that very evidently showed high breeding. He had two full brothers, Irvington, sold for $20,000 and taken to Australia, and Leland, a magnificent-looking horse that at Stony Ford has sired Geneva (2:14) and several others now in the list.

Arthurton was one of Mr. Corbitt's first stallion purchases, and came into special prominence when Arab, the gelding long owned by John Shepard and very highly prized by him as a road horse, took his record of 2:15. About that time Arthurton was sold to R. S. Veach and taken to Indian Hill Farm, near Louisville, Ky., where he died in 1893. Arthurton's 2:30 list even now is small, his total being only six, but his daughters have been quite distinguished as broodmares, 16 of them at the close of last season having to their credit 24 trotters and two pacers, several of which have taken extremely fast records, and it was one of them that produced Freedom, the first yearling to enter the 2:30 list.

In this pedigree there is one element, Curry Abdallah, the grandam of Arthurton, that should not be overlooked. She was probably the fastest daughter of Old Abdallah and one of the most noted mares of her day. That thorough horseman, William Rysdyk, considered Hambletonian, Curry Abdallah and Sir Walter as among the very fastest and best of their day. Sir Walter took a record of 2:27, yet there is no question but what each of the others in races or harnessed with him to pole showed as great or greater speed than he. Beyond question Abdallah was far the most prepotent trotting sire and progenitor of his day, a fact that was clearly recognized by every unprejudiced horseman that knew him well. Enchantress, the dam of Harold, Fanny Cook, dam of Daniel Laubert, Old Ab, dam of Goldsmith Maid, and Curry Abdallah are among the daughters of this most noted of trotting progenitors whose descendants have become specially prominent.

Guy Wilkes, the sire of Lesa Wilkes, is one of the very fastest, best-bred and grandest individuals of all the sons of the noted George Wilkes, and no other has produced so large a proportion of extremely fast trotters and grand campaigners. Not only was the dam of Guy Wilkes, Lady Bunker, by Mambrino Patchen, a very superior mare, but Lady Dunn, the grandam, by American Star, is also in the great broodmare list and a 2:20 producer, while the third dam, the Capt. Roberts Mare, was one of the most famous road mares of her day.

There are many prominent breeders who have made a careful study of the breeding problem, that, while they dislike very close inbreeding, thoroughly believe in bringing together such superior kindred strains as are conspicuous in Guy Wilkes and Hannah Price, in both of which is a fairly close cross of Hambletonian and American Star, though neither is close enough to make the inbreeding at all objectionable.

Lesa Wilkes was first started as a two year-old at Independence, Ia., where, after winning the first heat in 2:20½, she was second the next in 2:22½ to Tuscarora, the colt bred at Stony Ford, and the third heat was behind the flag, Tuscarora winning that in 2:23½, with Elmore, by Axtell, second, and of the six good ones which started these two were the only ones left to finish the race.

We find no account of her being in any other race until last year, when she was started some six times, but in only one did she succeed in getting to the front in even a single heat. At Terre Haute, Aug. 18, in the 2:20 class, she reduced her record the first heat to 2:11½, won the next in 2:14½, after which Sunrise Prince won a heat, and Bologna, the fastest daughter of Stranger, got two heats. The following day being rainy, the race was declared finish as it then stood, which gave Lesa Wilkes second money.

This season it has been much the same with this speedy young mare. At Cleveland in the Grand Circuit meeting, Aug. 1, she won the first heat in 2:09, which is her present record, the second in 2:09½, when the noted Klamath went on and won the next three heats in time not quite as fast, Lesa Wilkes being second and the contending horse in each of these heats. There were, however, behind such noted ones as William Penn, Nightingale by Mambrino King, Aunt Delilah, David B., Lightning, Dandy Jim and Nightmare, finishing in the order named.

A peculiar fact in relation to Lesa Wilkes is that, notwithstanding her extremely fast record at the present time, together with her fast records as a two and four-year old, she has never yet won a single race, and is the most notable trotter of which that is the case. A few years ago Pixley, then a five-year-old, made a remarkable campaign in Dobble's hands, and, though one of the very fastest of that year and quite a prominent money winner, she finished with a mark of 2:10, but up to that time there was not a winning race to her credit. She was then bred, and since her subsequent appearance on the turf she won numerous races.

Many have the impression that it is now only the extremely fast ones that prove profitable campaigners, but as a matter of fact it is the relative amount of speed which wins, and a horse with a comparatively small amount, if fortunate in always meeting others with less, may prove a great winner, while it is possible for another very fast one to be always overmatched and win but little. Goldsmith Maid, with a record of 2:14, has to her credit 93 winning races, 114 heats in 2:20 and 332 heats in 2:30, the aggregate amount won being in her case approximately a quarter of a million, while here is an instance of a good mare of somewhat the same type as regards conformation, one whose gameness and endurance has never been questioned, with a record five seconds faster than that famous champion, while her total winnings to the beginning of the present season amount to but $3,600, not nearly enough to pay her entrance money, and she has yet to win her first race.—Vision in Horse Breeder.

How He Lost the Race.

Mortality has swung out, and is following close behind, third from the pole. The wire is terribly near. Whoever wins will win by a short head.

Suddenly something happens. A nurse-girl with her escort down close by the fence has become too deeply interested, and her little charge has tumbled out upon the track and stands pitifully helpless right in the path of the flying racers. Billy sees it all in an instant—the horrified expression on the nurse girl's face and the dazed look of the little toddler on the track ahead. He can guide Seltzer around her, he thinks, but nothing can save the baby from the rushing "field" behind.

What can he do? A single false move and the race is lost. It won't be his fault if the child is crushed, anyway, and to win the race means so much. But, some way, something in the appealing face of the baby makes him think of the little sister asleep in the tiny English churchyard so far away over the water, and he can't help it—he must do something. But what?

Like a flash he remembers a picture he once saw of a brave hussar who snatched a child from in front of a flying regiment of horses. After the Wild West show was on the other side, all the lads about the stables had practiced for weeks picking up articles from the ground by dropping over the horses' sides, and he had been the best of them all, but this was so vastly different. He knew he would fail, but he must try. With one hard pull on the reins he drops them, and with a cry to Seltzer he slips his left foot through the stirrup and draws the slender iron up to his knee, kicks his other foot clear and throws himself wildly to the right, straight down over the horse's side. There he hangs, by one knee, head down, his arms outstretched and his little body swinging wildly against the racer's side at every bound.

Seltzer falters in her pace and drops back. With a wild sweep of his arms Billy clasps the little form close and lifts the baby clear of the ground as the horses hurl by. The strain is a terrible one, and he can only drag himself up a little. His leg is almost broken by the sharp stirrup. He can only bend himself up as far as possible, close his eyes and hold tight. He hears the wild shouts from the crowds as David sweeps by, a winner. On they go for it seems a mile, but in reality only a dozen rods. Seltzer slackens and stops. A dozen stable boys are springing at her head. Some one snatches the baby from his arms, and Billy drops down and steals hurriedly away to a quiet corner of the stables. It has all come over him now. Seltzer has lost. His dreams of making a name for himself are gone. Mr. Burnette will never allow him to ride again. His head is whirling yet. He feels deathly sick. Everything looks black and he wishes he were dead.

Sinking down on the straw, he buries his face and sobs as though his faithful little heart would break.

"Well, young man?"

It is Mr. Burnette.

Billy does not look up. "I'm sorry I lost the race, sir," he sobs. "I couldn't help it, you know, sir. She'd 'a' been killed sir—the baby."

"Well, I should say she would. And how in heaven's name it happened that you weren't heats me."

"I'm sorry, sir, I didn't win."

"Eh? What?—didn't win? Why, boy, I'd rather have my jockey do that than have my horses win a dozen races—yes, a hundred," adds young Mr. Burnette, after computing the matter more carefully.

"But the money, sir, what's been lost?"

"Not a cent, except the purse. All bets on Seltzer declared off. Come along up in the stand, now; they're all howling for you."

And Billy went.—Charles Newton Hood in Lippincott's

Producing Dams.

Nearly a half century ago an old farmer who was regarded as a trifle "light in the upper story," remarked to his better half, who was making preparations to "set a hen," that "no hen should ever be allowed to set till she had sot and hatched two or three broods of chickens." Some wise horse breeder evidently has the same opinion of broodmares. An item has been going the rounds of the horsey papers for the past few months that Mr. So and So says: "No man should breed a mare these times unless she has been tried and proved a success," etc.

How many of the record breakers were from dams of this sort? Directum, 2:05½, still wears the stallion crown. What had Directum's dam produced before being bred to Director 2:17? Ralph Wilkes trotted to a record of 2:06½ last season, a mark which no other son of Red Wilkes has yet reached. What had Mary Mays to show for trotters when she dropped Ralph Wilkes? How about the dams of Alix, 2:03½, Nancy Hanks, 2:04, Fantasy, 2:06, and Sunol, 2:08½? Were the dams of Azote, 2:06½, and Ryland T., 2:07½, and Lord Clinton, 2:08½, of the tried sort? What could he said about the dams of Robert J., 2:01½, and John R. Gentry, 2:03½, and Joe Patchen, 2:04? There is Whisper, 2:08½, the fastest pacer ever raised in New England, and Ellard, 2:09½, the fastest trotter yet raised in Massachusetts, both from mares that had never previously produced anything of note. Is it best to discard such mares as the dams of the above?

Of course, every breeder would prefer to use producing dams, but there are not enough to go around. Then, again, producing dams as a rule cost more than the majority of small breeders feel able to pay. A careful study of the characteristics of the dams of these top sawyers and their ancestors, will show that they possessed certain qualities in a high degree. These qualities are essential to speed. The chief of them is nerve force. The small breeder who cannot afford to own nothing but producing dams can look about and find some young, gimpy mares with lots of nerve force which, mated with the right sort of stallion, will produce a high rate of speed just as surely as the producing dams.

Breeders should give just as much attention to the characteristics of successful speed producers as to their blood lines. There was many a son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian that was as well bred as Harold which has proved far inferior to him as a broodmare sire. Seely's American Star was not fashionably bred in trotting lines so far as known, yet he was one of the greatest trotting broodmare sires of his day. There were lots of his daughters, however, that never produced a trotter, because they did not possess and could not transmit the qualities upon which speed depends.—Horse Breeder.

Color in Horses.

Fashion doubtless has much to do with the color of horses, but it is nevertheless certain that the accident of a fashionable—and prepotent—sire being of a particular shade of jacket may materially influence the future of the breed to which he may happen to belong. At present, says a recent writer in the London Live Stock Journal, it appears that the favorite color in the Hackney of the future will be chestnut, as the majority of the leading stallions of the day, from the great Danegelt downwards, are of this shade of coat. His Majesty is of this color, and so are Ganymede, Garton Duke of Connaught, Connaught, M. P., and many other eminent sires of the day, and other good horses too numerous to mention. The championship at the Hackney Society's show has, moreover, only fallen to the lot of one horse that was not a chestnut, the animal in question being Mr. Flanders' brown Reality; whilst it will be seen from the report of the "Royal" show last week that a very large share of the prizes fell to animals of this shade of color. From this it will appear that the old prejudice against chestnuts is gradually following the fate of many other ancient superstitions, which ordained that the animals possessed of this shade of coat were either temperate or soft, or both, whilst it never seems to have entered the minds of the detractors of this splendid color that the shade of chestnut varies from almost a brown to the very lightest tinge of gold. Still, it is strange to say, it is quite enough to describe a horse as a chestnut to get him refused by some otherwise very sensible people. Perhaps the colors—independently of its unsightliness in the eyes of some—to dangle before the vision of the ordinary horse buyer who is not horsey is the roan. This shade, be it either red or blue, is popularly believed to be confined to animals of the hardest constitutions, though why the writer can scarcely be expected to imagine, as the two largest veterinary surgeons' bills he ever had to pay were for horses of this color, and the memory of the same still rankles his mind. Browns, though sombre-looking, are generally popular, but scores of otherwise sensible persons are unaccountably prejudiced against blacks, which some consider unlucky and others are convinced are vicious. Greys, in which there is a steady tendency to grow lighter in color as their age increases, are seldom favorites, either with master or with man, for when they are casting their coats they disfigure the clothing of the former, whilst their liability to be stained in the stable causes extra trouble to their grooms. Still, grey is a good, sportsman-like color and the wonder is that it is not more popular with country gentlemen. Bay, of course, is the carriage-horse color par excellence, the esteem with which it is regarded being perhaps more a matter of fashion than of intrinsic merit possessed by horses of this shade of coat, though he would be a bold man who would depreciate the beauty of a bay.

Gaudy white markings are naturally disliked, and especially so by persons of good taste, in whose eyes white stockings and broad blazes are particularly offensive. Moreover, a white leg and a light colored hoof are usually associated in the minds of the majority of horse-owners with delicacy, while the very sight of a skewbald is obnoxious to scores of persons. Yet how greatly the presence of an oddly-marked mover sets off the appearance of many a sporting team, and it is somewhat remarkable to be able to add that some of the most successful show winners of the day—for instance, Mr. Pope's grand old Magpie for eleven successive years a "Royal" winner, and her near relative, Mr. Frisby's Movement, are respectively a piebald and a skewbald. Such colors as dun or cream can scarcely be expected to appear favorably to the visions of such persons as are gifted with good taste or artistic intellects, yet Her Majesty's creams are popularly regarded by the British public with meanings akin to veneration, in spite of the fact that they are foreign-bred and not exactly a very sorry lot. Apropos of the aforesaid creams—which, as all the world who is interested in horses probably is well aware, hail from Hanover—it may be said that the Herrenhausen Stud, whence they come, likewise possesses a strain of pure white Royal horses, a great peculiarity among which lies in the fact that they are as white as milk when foaled and do not grow lighter in coat, as in the case with the ordinary gray horse, with increased age. The pure white foal which was on view last week at Darlington was quite a lusus naturae, especially as, being dark in eye, there can be nothing of the albino about it; but if scientifically bred from it will be interesting to learn whether it is or is not possible to found a strain of white horses. Greys are still fairly plentiful, but a breed of whites might be worth encouraging, as, beyond all question, there are plenty of persons who buy horses who would be attracted by the rarity of the color.

ELEMI, the dam of Prince Lief, was barren for seven years then slipped foals in 1891 and 1892, and in the following year Prince Lief was foaled.

"How is it, dearest George, that you My proffered love and money spurn?"
"Because," said George, "I got a tip—
I've money now to burn."—Detroit Free Press.

THE SALINAS RACES.

A Most Successful Meeting—The Track Record Broken, and Many New Additions to the Thirty List—The Best Racing Ever Seen on this Splendid Course.

There is no denying the fact that the residents of this prosperous section of California are great lovers of light harness races. Everyone owns a horse or two, and the long procession of vehicles drawn by some of the best-looking roadsters to be seen in any other part of this State which passed through the gates into the inclosure surrounding the race track shows that the bicycle will never obtain as warm a place in the affections of these people as their good horses and comfortable rigs.

Salinas is growing slowly, but the class of buildings now in course of construction is of the substantial and solid-looking kind. The streets are watered daily and the old sidewalks are being torn up and bituminous ones are to replace them. Electricity is being introduced everywhere, and if the waters of the Alisal could be diverted to the use of generating power for an electric plant similar but on a much smaller scale, to that used at Folsom a great change would be wrought in this inland city. There are too many large holdings in its neighborhood at present, and when the owners of these immense tracts realize that there is no more money to be made in raising wheat, barley and oats, the quicker will they realize substantial interest for their investments by planting orchards and vineyards and transforming the bottom lands along the Salinas river into perfect alfalfa and rye grass fields where cattle, horses, and hogs can be raised at a low cost, then and not till then will this chosen spot be made one of the liveliest and most prosperous in California. With a climate unsurpassed, a soil as rich and as lasting as any in the world, plenty of water, and hills that will furnish pasture in the early spring for stock, Salinas valley ought to contain thousands of thrifty people who would, with energy and a little time, make this the rival of the famous Santa Clara valley.

The attendance at the race track to-day was larger than on any other of the meeting. The weather was perfect; the track was in better condition than it has been at any time this week, and the prediction that the track record would be lowered was verified.

The smooth-going pacer Golden West, that was considered one of the most erratic and ungovernable of the side-wheel brigade in California, until he fell into the hands of Trainer J. M. Nelson, this year, paced the first mile in the 2:20 class without a skip in 2:16, clipping three-fourths of a second off his own record and the same amount off the track record. Bruno also did the trick in the third heat of the 2:17 trot, going in 2:16½, cutting a half second off the track record and two and three-fourths seconds off his own record.

The judges for the day were Hon. J. D. Carr, H. S. Ball and A. Wiedemann. The timers were the same as on the two previous days.

The first race was the 2:20 pace for a purse of $600, Golden West, who was a favorite at $10 to $8 over the field, won as he pleased in straight heats, never making a skip in the race.

Next came the 2:17 class trot and of the original six entries only three came for the word. Bruno sold an even-money favorite over Nellie W. and Bay Rum as a field. To a splendid start Bruno led all the way. Connelly made his drive with Nellie W. on swinging into the stretch, but when on nearly even terms with Bruno, Nellie W. went off her feet at the seven-eighths post, and Bruno won as he pleased, Bay Rum a close third. Time, 2:19½.

Bruno now sold for $10 to $6 on the field. The horses went away to a pretty start. Bruno shot to the front, but at the quarter Nellie W. collared him and the two trotted like a double team to the half in 1:09 and in a drive down the stretch the mare outfooted the horse and won by a neck amidst great excitement, Bay Rum five lengths back. Time, 2:18½.

Nelly W. was now installed favorite at $10 to $8 for the field. In this heat Dwin sent Bruno to the front and at the quarter in thirty-four seconds, was two lengths to the good of Nelly W. and the same distance at the half in 1:07½. Around the upper turn the mare kept crawling upon the leader, and down the stretch it was as pretty a race as could be imagined, but the clip carried Nelly W. to a break at the seven-eighths post and Bruno won, eased up, in 2:16½.

Bruno was again installed favorite, selling for $10 to $5 for the field. Bruno again shot to the front, and at the quarter had a lead of a couple of lengths from Bay Rum, Nelly W. at the latter's wheel. On the backstretch Nelly W. passed Bay Rum and set sail for the leader. She was closing the gap rapidly when she broke at the five eighths, but caught quickly. She broke again when Connelly was making the drive down the homestretch and finished last. Bruno won by two lengths from Bay Rum. Time, 2:18½.

The 2:40 class trot for a purse of $500 was a cake-walk for E. T. Breen's consistent little trotting mare Alita by Junio. Leader and Peter Jackson were the only two of the other fourteen entries to come up for the word. Anita simply trotted away from her field in each heat, Leader finishing second and Peter Jackson third. Time, 2:26½, 2:24, 2:24½.

FOURTH DAY—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3.

The strong north wind marred the pleasure of the crowds who came from all parts of Monterey and San Benito counties to witness the racing to-day. The band of music took its place in the grand stand, and above the rustling of the leaves of the trees, the rattling of the rapidly-moving windmill Poolseller Wm. Connor's clear voice could be heard shouting the odds. The track was well watered and the absence of clouds of dust which were thought would arise from the pattering of the horse's feet, was thus accounted for.

The programme offered was a good one and the finishes in the two principal races exciting enough to elicit the loudest of cheering.

The first race was for the 2:30 class trotters. The entries were Lady Vestal, May B., Leader, Lady Thornhill, Gilpatrick and Iran Alto. Pools sold Gilpatrick $5, Lady Vestal $5 and the field $2.

After the horses had scored six times Judge Carr sent them away on even terms. Lady Vestal took the lead from May B. at the first turn and opened a gap of a length at the quarter. Going to the half May B. and Leader closed this up and were at the leader's wheel. Iran Alto, Gilpatrick and Lady Thornhill following in this order. Lady Vestal's position as leader was never in danger of being interfered with, for she came under the wire a winner by two lengths from May B. in 2:23½, Leader a head behind the latter, Gilpatrick fourth, Iran Alto fifth and Lady Thornhill, who looked and acted as if she had enough racing, was last.

Lady Vestal, who sold favorite at $5 against $4 on the field in this heat, again went to the front, May B., Leader and Gilpatrick in a bunch behind. Going to the half the horses began to string out and went in procession-like order. Gilpatrick, who was fourth, trotted by those in front of him and was alongside of the favorite at the three-quarter pole. Down the homestretch the race between these two became exciting, and as they were nose and nose at the seven-eighths pole, both horses broke. Gilpatrick was the first to get trotting and came under the wire a winner in 2:23. Before Connelly could get Lady Vestal straightened May B. and Leader passed her. Lady Thornhill was fifth and Iran Alto distanced.

The Salinas boys rallied around the pool box after this heat and paid $5 on Gilpatrick for every $3 on the field. The heat was a repetition of the preceding one, but Lady Vestal got in first and Gilpatrick had to be content with fourth position. The Altoona mare, May B., was second, Leader third and Lady Thornhill last. Time, 2:21½.

The fourth heat was won by Gilpatrick, the mare, Lady Vestal, making a series of breaks which destroyed her chances of winning; the excitement, was intense, as Rodriguez guided the well formed, fine-gaited horse, Gilpatrick, in front of those behind him in 2:25.

The betting on Gilpatrick became brisk, and $5 for $2 were paid with an alacrity which kept the pool-sellers busy. Carillo, the owner of Lady Vestal, was very much displeased with the drive Connelly made with his mare in this race, and although thirty-five pounds over weight he donned the jockey's cap and got up behind the mare. She never made a mistake, and much to the surprise of the backers of Gilpatrick, she captured the heat by a nose in one of the most exciting finishes ever seen on this race track. The two horses battled for every inch of the mile and the splendid manner in which Carillo handled his mare throughout the mile elicited much favorable comment among the spectators. The time made was 2:21½. A cloud of gloom obscured the friends of Gilpatrick and the Lady Vestal adherents were wreathed in sunshine and smiles.

The trotting for two-year-olds brought out four good-looking youngsters—Juan Chico, by Bay Rum; Pluto, by Bruno; Uproar, by Sidney, and Wilner, by Eugeneer. Uproar won the race in straight heats in 2:56 and 2:58, Juan Chico was second, Pluto third and Wilner last.

The special trotting race brought out Eugeneer, by Electioneer; Lara D., by Altoona, and Minnie B., by Billy Thornhill. Lara D. proved to be the best of the two and trotted gamely and well. She won the first heat in 2:30; the second was captured by Minnie B. in 2:30; then the Altoona mare trotted the next two in 2:29½ and 2:30. Eugeneer was third in each of the heats.

The last event of the day was a five-eighths mile running race. The starters were Sir Edward (120), Ben L. (118), Fannie M. (115), Ucita (124) and May W. (118). Sir Edward was left at the post and Ucita won by a nose from Ben L. in 1:02, Fannie M. third and May W. fourth.

The winner of the 2:30 class trot, Lady Vestal, is a bay mare, sired by Richard's Elector, out of Manda, by Black Boy, and is owned by H. S. Carillo, of Stockton.

FIFTH DAY—FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4TH.

This was a delightful day, but the people who attended the races were very much disappointed with the way the pacing race—the only one finished—was contested. Loupe was not the horse he was at Stockton, and the heavy work is beginning to tell on him. The little mare Edna R., with a knee as big as two knees, paced a very game and hard race. This is the second time inside of a week this daughter of Sidney has paced a six-heat race and won both. Much dissatisfaction was expressed with the way Loupe was driven, and his driver was taken out by the judges and Pat McCartney substituted, but this well-known driver could do no better with the horse, and said that whenever he called upon Loupe to do better the horse would falter.

The pacing race was one of the most exciting ever seen on this track, and the finishes between the Altoona mare, Altoonita, and the gelding Jesse P. were exciting.

Only one heat of the special trotting race was finished.

The judges were H. S. Ball, A. Wiedemann and O. H. Wiloughby; timers, Z. Hebert and W. J. Lynn.

The first race was for 2:25 class pacers. The entries were Pomona, Our Boy, Loupe, Edna R. and Ella W. Pools sold Edna R. $5, field $3. The start was delayed by the erratic actions of Our Boy and Ella W. Finally Judge Ball said "Go!" Pomona led from wire to wire, winning by a length from Edna R., Loupe third, Ella W. fourth and Our Boy distanced. Time, 2:16½. This lowers the record made by this horse three and one quarter seconds, and the crowd that gathered around the pool box paid $5 on the field against $3 on Edna R.

Driver Treanor did not take any chances in the next heat with Edna R., and after passing Loupe, who broke at the first turn, he kept driving his game little mare and won the heat by a half length from Loupe, who was overhauling her fast at the finish. Ella W. was only a length behind and Pomona was three lengths further away. Time, 2:17.

When the horses got away to a beautiful start, Loupe, Edna R. and Ella W. kept hunched to the quarter pole, then Edna R. took the lead and was a length in front of Loupe at the half. The latter came up fast and taking the pole at the head of the homestretch won by a length from Edna R., who was quite lame, in 2:19, Ella W. third and Pomona last.

The Veterinarian Dr. Faulkner was called in to operate on Edna R.'s knee, and drew from it a large quantity of blood that had gathered there. She started from the wire as if she was in pain and kept close to Loupe all the way, but the latter was the speedier and won the heat by a length in 2:16½. Ella W. again beating Pomona for third place.

Before the next heat, pools sold: Loupe $5, field $2.50. When the word was given Edna R. shot to the front closely followed by Pomona, Loupe was third and Ella W. last. In going down the backstretch, while Hellman with Ella W. was trying to pass Loupe, the sulks collided and Hellman was thrown out, the mare ran around the track and was caught at the quarter pole and found to be injured. Hellman fortunately was unhurt. In the meantime Edna R. kept in the lead, and although Loupe tried to pass her on the homestretch the game little pacer shook him off and won by a neck in 2:19½. Pomona was third and the judges awarded the fourth position to Ella W. on account of the accident.

Rumors of jobbery were flying thick and fast, and many declared that Loupe was not being driven to win. A fellow driver who had a personal spite against McManus was one of the chief accusers, and acted in a manner unbecoming a gentleman, in fact, struck little Mac in the face, but some kind-hearted individual rewarded him for the assault by giving him a clip under the ear which put him to sleep.

The judges substituted Pat McCartney for McManus, and the three horses were sent on their deciding journey. Loupe forced Edna R. to go to the half in 1:07, and then made a tangled break, and despite his driver's best efforts, the horse would not get to pacing until Pomona came up to him. Edna R. was pulled to a walk, and came under the wire in 2:24½, Loupe just coming in a head of Pomona by a length.

The special pacing race brought out six good-looking pacers—Altoonita, Susie K., Tarkey Oka, Ivolo, Powers and Jessie P. Pools sold: Altoonita $5, field $4. The game little mare Altoonita and Ivolo seemed to outclass the rest of the horses, and fought for every inch of the way. They moved like a double team from the wire to the seven-eighths pole, but Altoonita, driven in a masterly manner by J. Dwin, landed the heat a winner by a length from Ivolo, who was half a length in front of Jesse P. in 2:27½.

In the next heat Jesse P. started out to make it interesting for Altoonita, and kept at her bike all the way. At the head of the homestretch he took the pole, and, inch by inch, gained on her, but he had to pace in 2:20½ to heat her a head. Susie K. was third by two lengths, Powers fourth, Tarkey Oka fifth and Ivolo last.

Altoonita defeated Jesse P. in the next heat in 2:23, Ivolo third, Powers fourth, Susie K. fifth and Tarkey Oka last. The leaders paced lengths in front of the balance of the horses all the way. The finish of this race was postponed until to-morrow, Altoonita being the favorite in the betting.

The special trot for Watsonville horses brought out four green ones—Con Brio, Corralitos Maid, Belle and Midnight. Belle won the first heat in 2:46½, Con Brio second, Midnight third and Corralitos Maid last. The finish of this race, on account of darkness, was also postponed until to-morrow.

LAST DAY—SATURDAY.

This is the last day of the most successful meeting held at this splendid track, and every horseman who brought horses here leaves with a determination to return next year and bring better ones. It is hoped that the through railroad between this city and Los Angeles will be completed by that time and a circuit will be formed including Salinas, Hollister, San Luis Obispo, Hueneme, Ventura, Santa Ana and Los Angeles, so horses can go straight through it after the close of the San Jose meeting.

The decisions in the judge's stand gave satisfaction, the starts were excellent and everyone was fairly and justly treated.

The officials at the track were very courteous and the right hand of fellowship was extended to all visitors.

The track is one of the best in California, and after this meeting Mr. Hammett, who has charge of it, will be better prepared to make it as famous as any in this State.

The attendance was larger during the week than at any meeting in California excepting the State Fair and the Woodland meeting.

The principal items of note in regard to the sport this afternoon was the splendid racing which concluded the unfinished trot postponed from yesterday. The smashing of the track record by Plunkett, who won the second heat of the special in 2:14½, and the entry into the 2:30 list of the well-bred Electioneer stallion, Eugeneer, now owned by that prince of good fellows, J. B. Iverson.

Three heats of the unfinished pace was decided yesterday. Altoonita, a handsome bay mare belonging to Z. Hebert &

Son winning the first and third third heats, and Jesse P., a Rancho del Paso bred gelding, winning the second.

The judges who presided at the meeting yesterday were in their places to-day and promptly at one o'clock they called up the horses.

Jesse P. and Altoonita again led the van and until the wire was almost reached it was impossible to ascertain which was in the lead, but Jesse P. let out a link or two and landed the heat a winner by a length in 2:21½, Susie K. third; the balance were scattered along the homestretch for over sixty yards.

A surprise was in store for the next heat, for Doc Williams lay back with Ivolo until the homestretch was reached, and in a most thrilling drive won the heat in 2:20½, her strongest competitors, Altoonita and Jesse P., battling for place, but the former won it by a head, only a length behind the daughter of Antevolo.

Only three horses came out for the next heat—Ivolo, Altoonita and Jesse P. Every one was excited, for a trio of better matched pacers had not appeared on this track before for many a year. The start was perfect. Jesse P. led with Ivolo second and Altoonita third. They were only a length apart at the three-quarter pole, then they closed ranks and down to the wire the drivers guided their horses. It was an exciting drive, but Ivolo and Altoonita passed Jesse P., and the former came in a winner by half a length in 2:24½.

There was a rally round the pool box after this heat, and holders of tickets on Altoonita and Jesse P. began to hedge in Riley Grannan style. They paid all sorts of prices for tickets on Ivolo, and reluctantly turned their faces toward the track when Judge Ball's clear voice was heard shouting "Go!" Ivolo took no chances but led from start to finish, capturing the heat from the game little mare Altoonita, by two lengths in 2:24, Jesse P. third. Thus ended one of the best contested races of the season. The winner, Ivolo, 2:20½, is by Antevolo, out of Salinas Belle, 2:24, by Vermont 322, and is owned by J. B. Iverson of Salinas. Altoonita, although not the winner of the race, is by Altoona, out of Dolly (dam of Bruno, 2:16½ and Lara D., 2:29½), by Mozart, a son of Ajax, 2:29, out of a thoroughbred mare. Dolly and all of her descendants are owned by C. Z. Hebert of this place, and is as young looking as a four year old.

Jesse P., 2:20½, is by Western, brother to Whippleton, out of a mare by Geo. M. Patchen Jr.

In the unfinished trot for Watsonville horses the time was not very fast, but all the horses did their very best. Belle, by Adrian, who won the first heat yesterday, won the race and first money, Midnight second, and Corralitos Maid third money. The summary tells the whole story. The finishes were exciting and the bettors were struggling in a sea of doubt until the last heat was decided.

In the special pacing race the entries were Plunkett, Prince Nutwood, San Luisito and Geraldine. Plunkett was selected by the talent as the sure thing in this race, and he proved it, for he won in straight heats. In every heat he would keep about the third position behind Prince Nutwood and San Luisito, and then at the head of the homestretch would pass them and lead to the wire. He paced in 2:14½ in the second mile. This establishes a new record for this course. Prince Nutwood was at his bike, and had the little son of Strathern faltered he would have won easily. San Luisito is a green pacer by Monroe Chief, out of a mare by Altoona, and before the circuit ends will get a low record. The time made in the three heats was 2:21, 2:14½ and 2:17.

The match race between Eugeneer and Minnie B. for $100 a side was won by the former in two heats. Time, 2:28½ and 2:32½.

Eugeneer is a bay stallion by Electioneer out of Lady Ellen, 2:29½, by Carr's Mambrino and is a brother to Ella, 2:29; Elleneer, 2:21½ and Helena, 2:21. He was purchased by a syndicate of Monterey County horsemen from the Palo Alto Farm and placed in the stud.

J. B. Iverson, a prominent horse breeder, purchased the interests of all others in this syndicate and in this way secured this horse. He placed him in "Doc" Williams' hands, and this driver now has the honor of giving the first green Electioneer trotter this year a record better than 2:30.

BARNEY SCHREIBER's big chestnut two-year-old colt, Don Carillo, bred in California, who won the Gem Stakes at Gravesend, one mile, showed himself capable of going a route. The track was heavy and the time, 1:47, was fair. In fact, old horses were beaten in this time with less weight the same day. Don Carillo, who is about sixteen hands and very lengthy, is by Mariner, out of Sunlit, and was purchased in California by Mr. Schreiber last winter.

CONSTERNATION was created in the ring at Gravesend last Wednesday at settling time. When the layers compared notes they discovered that one Mr. Heibst, who had been doing business all summer, had become a defaulter to the tune of nearly $6,000. He had given checks on the Chemical Bank, and when they were presented they were returned with the usual "no good" attached.

LILLIAN PURDY, by Sam Purdy, secured a record of 2:25½, at Easton, Md., and is said to be capable of beating 2:20.

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

Splendid Racing and Largely-Increased Attendance—Winners Are Hard to Pick, and Occasional Long-Shots Make Things Very Lively.

ELEVENTH DAY—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3.

HIS day's racing was good enough to suit any one whose liver was not completely out of order. The track was never faster, and splendid time was made in every event. The weather was simply charming, and over 1,000 hied racetrackward. The talent fared badly, the defeat of Navy Blue and Sam Leake by 12 to 1 shots costing heavily. Chevalier distinguished himself greatly by landing four winners during the afternoon—the two 12 to 1 shots noted above, an even-money favorite and a 4 to 1 chance. E. Jones rode the remaining winner, Fly, who was as good as even money in the betting at one time. There was no great excitement except over the defeat of Sam Leake, who got away absolutely last and was never in the hunt.

Swiftsure, played well at from 12 to 15 to 1, got off in front in the first race, and not headed, won with ease by one and a half lengths, Umma, a real good thing, second by her nose in a fierce drive, Navy Blue, the favorite, third. Had the latter gotten away on better terms he might have won, but this is simply one of the uncertainties of racing.

Fly flew to the fore in the first few jumps, and leading by four lengths turning for home, won easily by three from Major Cook, who beat Clacquer half that distance for the place money. The time in this race was 1:00½ for the five furlongs, and many made it even faster.

Cardwell, second away to a rather straggling start in the two-year-old race, went right to the front without delay, winning by two lengths in the excellent time of 1:00½, Claude Hill, a new-comer, second, a length before Benham. Sam Leake, the favorite, did not appear to be in the hunt at any stage.

The fourth race, one mile, was won all the way by Detective, who, off in the lead, easily held his advantage to the end. Silver was second throughout, and beat the Duchess of Milpitas one and a half lengths. The time was hung up as 1:41 flat.

The last race, also at a mile, was captured by the second choice, Lady Jane, who ran third to Ivy and Tobey most of the way until about a sixteenth from home, when she came on and won cleverly by a length, Warrago, coming strong close to the inner rails, second, a neck before Ivy. The time was 1:41½.

How the Races Were Run.

Navy Blue opened a 4 to 5 favorite, closed at 11 to 10. Bravura was at 2½ to 1 (opened at 1), Umma 5 (backed down from 10, Swiftsure 12 and Mendocino 40 to 1. They broke to a poor start, Swiftsure in front. At the half he was one and a half lengths to the good, as far from Bravura. Swiftsure went away from his field steadily in the run to the homestretch, where he was three lengths to the good. Umma was second at this point, a length before Bob Tucker. Navy Blue had dropped gradually to the rear, notwithstanding a whipping he got from the half-pole. Swiftsure took things easy in the homestretch, winning by one and a half lengths. There was a terrific drive between Umma and Navy Blue at the finish for about fifty yards, Umma just getting the coveted honor by a nose, Navy Blue third. Time, 1:08½.

Fly went to the post a 9 to 10 favorite in the second race, five furlongs, selling, after opening at even money. Clacquer was well played at 4 to 1, Three Forks at 7, Major Cook 10, Nervoso 12, Venus 15 and Kathleen 25 to 1. They went away to a good send-off, Fly showing first, Major Cook second and Venus third. At the half Fly had opened up a gap of nearly three lengths, Kathleen being second, lapped by Major Cook, who had Venus at his heels. Fly increased his advantage to four lengths going to the homestretch. Kathleen and Major Cook running heads apart as named at this point, with Clacquer at their heels. Fly went on about his business, winning handsily by three lengths from Major Cook, who was a handy second, one and a half lengths before Clacquer. The rest were not in the hunt. Time, 1:00½—caught even faster by a few horsemen.

In the third race, five furlongs, for two-year-olds, Sam Leake opened at 1 to 3 and closed at 14 to 50. Benham was at 8 to 1. Claude Hill 12, Cardwell 15, Scimitar 50, Clara Johnson 75 and Suffrage 100 to 1. They got away to an awful poor start, Suffrage, Cardwell, Claude Hill the order. Cardwell led past the half by a length, Suffrage second, two lengths before Claude Hill. The favorite was a bad last. Cardwell led by two lengths by the time the homestretch was reached, Claude Hill having run up second, one and one-half lengths before Suffrage. Cardwell did not lose an inch in the run home, winning by two lengths from Claude Hill, who, driving, stood off Benham to the extent of one and one-half lengths for the place. Donahue made no very desperate effort on the favorite, who was badly beaten. Time, 1:00½—a grand run with 110 pounds.

In the fourth race, one mile, Detective was a hot favorite at 11 to 10. Monitor was at 4 to 1, Duchess of Milpitas 6, Rogation 8, Yreka and Silver 12 to 1. Detective was off slightly in front, with Silver second and Duchess of Milpitas third. At the quarter Detective was two lengths in front of Silver, who was in turn nearly as far in front of Yreka. At the half there was no change, except that Duchess of Milpitas had run up third. Detective was two lengths to the good turning for home, Silver second, close against the rails, one length from the Duchess. Detective, not headed, won easily by three lengths, Silver, driving, second, one and a half lengths before Duchess of Milpitas. Time, 1:41.

The concluding race was at a mile, selling. Tobey was a warm favorite, closing at 11 to 10. Lady Jane was at 4 to 1, Nellie G. 7, imp. Ivy and Sir Walter 10 (latter opened at 6), Warrago 12. They got away to a good start, Ivy first, Sir Walter next, Tobey third. Ivy was a length in front of Warrago at the quarter, Lady Jane lapped on Donathan's mare. Tobey ran up fast going to the half, where Ivy was still leading by a length, Tobey being second, as far from Warrago. There was a bunching up as they neared the final turn, which Ivy struck half a length to the good, Tobey second, with Lady Jane at his heels. Ivy did not keep close to the rails, but finished rather toward the outside of the track. Lady Jane made her run about a sixteenth from home, and coming very strong under Chevalier's urging, won cleverly by a length, Warrago finishing second, a neck before Ivy, on whom Tobey was lapped. Time, 1:41½.

TWELFTH DAY—FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4.

To-day was one of hard luck, long shots and "cinches." A true favorite, that carried barrels of money, was pocketed almost on the wire in the first race, and an 8-to-1 shot got all the money. Then fortune smiled on the crest-fallen talent and they took a race into camp. About that time the fog began to drift in, in rather large quantities, and Miss Bummel, another 8-to-1er, also drifted in, and there was consequent gloom all around. A "mortal cinch" in the fourth race proved the correctness of all predictions and convictions, and romped in in such easy style that hopes were once more buoyed, but a 4 to 1 shot dashed them to the ground again in the last race, with no recourse but to go home and plan a coup for to-morrow.

The attendance showed an increase over previous days this week, and with eleven bookmakers in the ring, anxious speculators and good guessing events on the card, the interest never flagged throughout the day.

Sloan rode two winners to-day, Chevalier one winner and three seconds, Flynn and Macklin having the other winning mounts. Chevalier is riding in great form now.

Treachery should have won the first race, and would have done so in the easiest possible manner if Macklin had not tried to get through on the rail and got cut off almost at the post. She squeezed through and got second place.

Portugal, the favorite in the second race, led at the start, fell back to within easy striking distance later and then came on when asked to and won easily enough.

Imp. Miss Brummel led from early in the start to the finish, and Rose Clark, the favorite, was among the also rans.

Libertine, the crack horse belonging to J. G. Brown & Co., was the only thing in sight in the fourth race, and he showed how easily he could leave the field he met to-day, although it was far from mediocre. He had no occasion to extend himself, and consequently did not show what he could do. He carried 124 pounds and swung in in an easy canter from his field in 1:13½ for six furlongs.

Agitato, the favorite in the last race, kept Remus company until turning into the homestretch, where he died away, under a severe whipping, and finished not as good as 1, 2, 3.

How the Races Were Run.

The talented gentlemen would see nothing but Treachery in the first race, a five-furlong dash for maiden two-year-olds, and the Brown filly went to the post an odds-on favorite at 3 to 5, opening at even money. Billy McCloskey closed at 8, Isabelle 10, Rejected 12, Decision and Valiente 15, Lady Gray 40 and Von Dunk 100 to 1. Isabelle showed in front of the field of eight to a good start, but at the half-pole had given place to Decision, the favorite third, having improved her position from fifth place. At the last turn the horses had shifted some, but Decision still led, Treachery third, and moving up on the leader. Billy McCloskey was coming up also, wide of the rail, and was fourth in the string as they straightened out for the wire. At the last eighth Macklin tried to get through between Isabelle and the rail, with plenty of room for his move apparently, but he was cut off by Decision shooting across the track behind Isabelle. Chevalier had been at work in the meantime on Billy McCloskey and landed him a winner by a hard drive by three parts of a length, Treachery squeezing through in the last strides far enough to show for the place by a half length, Isabelle third. Time, 1:02½.

The second race, six furlongs, selling, had ten starters. Portugal opened an even money favorite, closing at 11 to 10. Vernon, second choice, closed at 18 to 5. Sinbad was hammered down from tens to sixes. Addie M. was at 15, Red Idle and Tamalpais 20 each, Cadeau 15, Fin Slaughter 30, Leonatus 50, Snow Blossom 80. The favorite showed in front at the start, with Sinbad, Vernon and Red Idle in close company. At the half Cadeau led the favorite a head, Portugal a head from Sinbad, closely followed by Red Idle and Tamalpais. Coming into the stretch the favorite had given away to Sinbad and Red Idle, who also passed Cadeau, Sinbad a head to the good. At the head Portugal was seen to make a move, and he rapidly overtook and passed his field, winning with some to spare by a length, Vernon also coming from the bunch and getting the place by a length, Addie M. third. Time, 1:44½.

The third race was at short six furlongs, selling. In the field of nine that faced the starter Rose Clark was a pronounced favorite, opening at 2 to 1, closing at 8 to 5, Gold Bug second choice at 6 (opened at 2), Crawford and Hanford 7, Three Forks and Miss Brummel 8, Ike L. 12 and Phyllis 50 to 1. Three Forks, Miss Brummel, Hanford was the order to a good start, Crawford and Gold Bug in the gap between the two divisions. At the half Miss Brummel led by a head over Three Forks, Rose Clark lapping him. Sloane brought Miss Brummel into the stretch with a lead of two lengths, Three Forks a length before Hanford, who had been coming up rapidly. Crawford and Rose Clark were heads apart, the rest trailing. Miss Brummel finished first easily by two lengths, Three Forks second, half a length only before Gold Bug, who had come from near the tail end and finished a strong third. Time, 1:13.

In the six-furlong handicap, Libertine, the crack horse of Galen Brown's stable, was a prohibitive favorite at 4 to 5, Thelma, Mainstay and Duchess of Towers each at 5 and Rico 20 to 1. Thelma, Mainstay and the Duchess were at 6 to 5 for place. After the third race the fog drifted in in chunks of large size, and by the time the horses went to the post the half-pole was obscured. Duchess of Towers showed first after a good start, Thelma and Libertine in close company. To the half the moving field was silhouetted against the white-washed fence on the backstretch, and when the caller could place them again Libertine was in front, Mainstay and Duchess of Towers trying to keep up with him. He had increased his lead at the head of the stretch to two lengths, the Duchess having passed Mainstay, who also soon gave way to Thelma; the runners-up were heads apart. Mainstay kept close up, Rico lengths away. Libertine held every inch of his advantage all the way home, finishing in an easy swing, with Macklin looking back, Thelma, driving, taking the place by two lengths, Rico third. Rico ran a hot race down the stretch and made a wonderful finish. Time, 1:13½.

The last race of the day was at a mile, selling, with five starters. Agitato was made favorite, opening at 4 to 5 and closing at 7 to 10. Remus was at 3½, Mary S. 5, Charmer 10 and Arno 20 to 1. Mary S. was slightly in the lead at the start, but in the scramble for the rail in the first furlong Remus got the coveted position, Agitato and Charmer within easy reach. Mary S. died away early and Arno was off last and did not seem to improve his chances any. From two lengths at the quarter Agitato cut down Remus' lead to half a length at the half, and around the far turn they ran lapped, Charmer falling back. Charmer came on as the horses swung into the stretch and closed up the gap between her and the leaders very perceptibly. Flynn was seen to be using the whip on Agitato at the head of the stretch, and there he was beaten. Remus came on and won by a head, hands down, Sloan giving his followers the laugh as they exerted every effort to overtake him. Chevalier made a hard ride on Charmer and landed second, Donnelly bringing Arno from nowhere and getting third place. The favorite was fourth. Time, 1:41½.

THIRTEENTH DAY—SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5.

The card offered to-day had a very weak look, and did not promise any very exciting contests. Tim Murphy frightened all the other entries out of the second race, and the made-up substitute did not strengthen the programme any. However, as was proven by the events of the day, the mile and an eighth handicap was not the only interesting race on the card. Two favorites were beaten by second choices. Coleman, the second choice in the first race, acted like an untamed broncho at the post, did about as he pleased with his light-weight jockey Reidy, and ran away twice, each time running about half the distance of the race. By this performance it was believed he had killed any chance he might have had, and greatly increased odds were offered against him. Then he ran away again—after the start—and won handily by three lengths. Umma, the favorite, coming from fourth to second place.

Sloan was put up on O'Bee in place of Anderson, in the second race, and as it was understood that the mount was a contingent one—win or no pay—O'Bee was expected to win by the talent. Tod landed second money, but it was not for lack of vigorous riding that he did not get the purse. Sinbad was too fleet for the Virginus gelding.

The third race, a handicap at about six furlongs, with Benham, Long Lady, Grady and Fireman entered, was interesting as a betting event mostly. The odds shifted considerably, and Grady was well played. Fireman was played down from 15 to 8 to 1, as the Brutus horses are nearly always considered to have a chance. Benham won with great ease, having led all the way. The field finished as named above.

It was rumored that Claudius was sore, and Del Norte was the most thought of for the mile and an eighth handicap at the opening, but the former went to the post an even money favorite. Fannie Louise was the only other entry, and while her speed was conceded, the distance was said to be more than her measure. She ran the mile at top speed, having led by eight lengths at the half-pole and four into the stretch. Claudius likes a waiting race and a bruising finish, and Del Norte gave it to him, but the former drew away in the last two hundred yards and won driving by a length and a half.

Bell Ringer showed more inclination to run than to stop to-day, and led from stand to wire in the handicap hurdle race, at a mile and a half, the last race on the programme. He closed a slight first choice over Arctic, who finished fifth. The coast record, 2:46½, was equalled in this race.

Donahue rode two winners to-day, and one second, the only mounts he had; Chevalier one winner and a third in two mounts, and Reidy and Spence each had one mount and one win to their credit.

The attendance was very good to-day—in fact, the largest for this meeting. The daily admissions have been steadily on the increase, however, and such a crowd as seen to-day will soon be very common.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was at five furlongs, selling. Umma was the favorite at 4 to 5, Coleman 3 to 2, Dick O'Malley and Fi Fi 30, Reese P. 40, Red Rose 50 and Dr. Gardner 80. Coleman acted badly at the post, did a song and dance, hucked and seemed ready for anything but to break when wanted, and at two false breaks ran away. Reidy could not hold him and he ran a quarter of a mile each time. He was quoted at 2½ to 1 after his little runs. Coleman got away third in the final break, but passed Fi Fi and Reese P. with a rush and led his field by three lengths at the half and four into the stretch. Reese P. was next up, with Dick O'Malley half a length away. Umma was no better than fourth until the turn was made, when she came along in quick order and challenged the leader at the last sixteenth. Coleman finished without urging, however, three lengths from Umma, who beat Dick O'Malley a length and a half for the place. Time, 1:02.

Tim Murphy frightened all the entries out of the second number on the original programme, and a five furlong selling race was substituted. O'Bee, was made favorite, mainly on the strength of Sloan having been substituted for Anderson, closing at 3 to 5. Quite a little money went into the boxes on Sinbad, and he closed at 3 to 1, Snow Blossom was at 5, Gonzalez Maid 20, Spendthrift 40 and Willie Gibson 50 to 1.

The start was a good one, with O'Bee, Spendthrift, Gonzalez Maid, Sinbad the order. Spendthrift and O'Bee led the others two lengths at the half, the former coming into the stretch two lengths ahead of O'Bee, half a length from Sinbad. Donahue began to ride Sinbad in the last three-sixteenths and he left his field as though they were standing still, winning by four lengths, O'Bee second, five lengths before Snow Blossom, third. Time, 1:02.

In the handicap, at about six furlongs, Benham was favorite all the time, opening at evens, closing at 6 to 5, Grady second, Long Lady third and Fireman played from 15 to 8 to 1. When Starter Ferguson swished the flag the quartette were off in close order, Benham leading a little as soon as he got on his stride, Grady, Long Lady, Fireman the order of the others. Benham led by a length and a half at the half-pole, and Grady was half a length before Long Lady, with Fireman out of it. Long Lady shoved her head in front of Grady's at the stretch, and Benham was running easily, still a length and a half away. He was never headed, winning handily by a length, Long Lady second, Grady third, Fireman last, lengths apart, all driving. Time, 1:13.

Del Norte, Fannie Louise and Claudius were entered for the mile and an eighth handicap, fourth on the programme. Claudius opened at 7 to 5 in the betting and closed at even money. Del Norte opened at 2, closing at 11 to 5, and Fannie Louise at 2½ to 1. Claudius almost heat the flag fall, but Fannie Louise was taken out in front and passed the stand four lengths before Del Norte, three parts of a length before Claudius. Fannie made a run-away race of it, leading eight lengths at the quarter and half poles, Claudius a length and a half behind Del Norte at the quarter. He closed up a little on the back stretch, and then nearing the turn they both set sail for the filly, who showed signs of weakening after her fast run. Fannie led into the stretch by only four lengths, which was rapidly cut down, and as she went back to her field at the last furlong pole Claudius came on with a rush and won by a length and a half, Del Norte second, six lengths from the very tired Fannie. Time, 1:53½, one quarter of a second slower than California record time.

The last race was a handicap hurdle, one mile and a half, over six hurdles. Bell Ringer and Arctic closed on even terms at 3 to 1, Auteuil at 4, Gold Dust 6, Wyandotte and Esperance 8, and Haymarket 10 to 1. Wyandotte was taken out in front for a few strides, but quickly fell back and gave place to Gold Dust, who in turn gave way to Bell Ringer after the first jump. Bell Ringer seemed to be on his good behavior and made every post a winning one by from a half to a length and a half, passing the wire a length in front of Auteuil, who had been as good as third over all the jumps in the last mile. Gold Dust was third, six lengths behind Auteuil. Wyandotte did not clear the hurdle at the half-pole on the last mile and fell, but horse and rider were uninjured. The time, 2:46½, was rattling fast, and equals the coast record.

FOURTEENTH DAY—MONDAY, OCTOBER 7.

Labor Day gave many an opportunity to visit the race track that never see it on Mondays, consequently the crowd had a holiday appearance. The betting ring was crowded all the afternoon, and the attendance was fully up to, if not exceeding, that of Saturday. The weather was raw and foggy the latter part of the afternoon, but the wonderful performance of Midlo, a two-year-old, in the last race, in running away from aged horses and negotiating the six furlongs in 1:11½, fully compensated all who witnessed it for any shivers that had crawled up their spines. On past performances McLight "figured" to win, and was only beaten a head in 1:13½ for the full six furlongs in a recent performance, and Tim Murphy finished first at Sacramento, ridden out, in 1:14½, and sixth in a race won by Bernardo, run in 1:14½. Midlo has not been asked to go the distance before. His best previous performance was a clever win at five and a half furlongs in 1:08½. Midlo's chances looked shady under such light, but the result was only another blow at the "dope" book.

Picking winners was not very easy, and after Navy Blue, favorite in the first race, won handily, the first choices were very much mixed up in the finishes. Claude Hill was beaten in the second by Macklin's over-confidence, and Chevalier stole up on him and landed Isabelle, a 2½-to-1 shot, a winner when Claude seemed to have it in hand.

Red Idle was fit for a race to-day and won from the head of the stretch, Yreka, the favorite and a conceded "cinch," trailing most all the way and finishing third.

Remus, who does not like foggy weather, has won his last two races in a moist atmosphere over good horses. Look out for him when climatic conditions are right.

Detective was said to be out-classed in his field to-day, but he took no chances and ran away from the flag fall and won all the way. Nephew gave him a run down the stretch, but Detective lasted out and won by a neck.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race, about six furlongs, selling, had five starters. Navy Blue was first choice, at 1 to 2, Boh Tucker 2½, Dick O'Malley 8, Jim Corbett and Dr. Gardner 75 to 1. Dr. Gardner got the best of a poor start, Dick O'Malley and Jim Corbett next, all lengths apart. The Doctor led a length and a half at the half-pole, but Navy Blue uncorked some of his speed and led into the stretch by a length, Dr. Gardner going back to fourth place. Navy Blue got home first by two lengths, Dr. Gardner coming again, under Wilson's vigorous riding, and got the place by a neck from Dick O'Malley. Time, 1:14½.

Eight two-year-olds faced the starter in the four and a half furlong dash. The odds were 6 to 5 Claude Hill, 2½ to 1 Isabelle, Lady Leinster filly 8, Decision 10, Suffrage and Encino 12, Margaret M. 15, Free Will 60 to 1. Decision showed first at the start, Claude Hill, Lady Leinster filly and Margaret M. in close order. Claude Hill gained the lead before the stretch was reached, however, and came around the turn a head in front of Decision under a pull, Lady Leinster filly a length away. Macklin was too certain of his victory and was bumped twice while looking back. Isabelle came up on the outside and beat Claude out three parts of a length, the latter half a length before the Lady Leinster filly. Time, 0:56.

The third race was at five furlongs, selling. Yreka was first choice at 6 to 5, Addie M. at 3, Corinne Buckingham 6, Red Idle 7 (opened at 5), Rayo 10 and Cadeau 15 (played down from 30). There was a strong stable tip out on the latter. The start was a very good one. Cadeau, Addie M. and Yreka showed first. Cadeau held the lead to the last turn, Corinne Buckingham and Red Idle next in position. Yreka had dropped out of the hunt. Half way down the stretch Hinrichs made his move and brought Red Idle out in front, and won by half a length from Addie M., Yreka coming again and finishing third, another half length away. Time, 1:02½.

Fourth on the card was a seven furlong dash, with six entries. Malo Diablo, Sir Richard and Remus were touted to win, and the odds shifted all around. Malo Diablo opened at 2½, closed at 2; Sir Richard opened at 2, closed at 2½, and Remus opened at 3, closing at 2½. Little Bob was at 7, Charmer 8, and May Day 25 to 1. The field broke about even to a good start, with Remus in front early in the run. Little Bob and Sir Richard alternated in second and third positions, Malo Diablo was cut off at the start and ran last all the way. Remus and Sir Richard were a length apart coming into the stretch, Little Bob close up. Remus won without losing any ground, Sir Richard beating Little Bob three parts of a length for the place. Time, 1:26½.

The fifth race was at one mile, selling, with five starters. Detective was freely played as first choice, closing at 8 to 5, (opening at 2½ to 1), Nephew 3 to 2, Uncle Giles 3½ to 2, Arno 8 and Raindrop 25 to 1. There was quite a delay at the post, although the horses acted kindly enough. The jockeys were eyeing each other closely, all trying to get the best of it, and the result was, a fair start only. Detective immediately opened up a wide streak of daylight between himself and field, and it was hardly diminished till after the last turn was made. Nephew and Arno were two, three all the way. In the last hundred yards Nephew caught Detective, but he could not beat him. Detective, though showing he was very tired, lasted just long enough to win by a neck. Nephew beat Arno lengths for the place. Time, 1:42.

Gratify and McFarlane were absentees in the last race, a handicap at about six furlongs. This left McLight and Tim Murphy, aged horses, and Midlo, a two-year-old, in the field. McLight was made favorite at the opening at 6 to 5, but closed at 3 to 1. Tim Murphy and Midlo were on equal terms at 7 to 5 at post time. Midlo took command at the start and outran the others all the way, at the half leading Tim Murphy by three lengths, McLight last by four lengths. Around the turn McLight had gained a length, but Midlo kept Tim off with ease. Coming home Flynn rode Tim Murphy for keeps but he could not catch the flying Midlo, who finished a length to the good, under a drive, McLight a poor third. The fast time of 1:11½ was hung up.

FIFTEENTH DAY—TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8.

After having been jostled by a Saturday and a holiday crowd two days in succession, the ordinary week-day gathering at B y District seemed attenuated. But it was up to the standard, however, and the way favorites romped in kept most of the attendants in good humor. Three red-hot favorites, and two long shots (one at 15, the other at 3 to 1) made the talent feel very well satisfied. The winning favorites were played for a "cinch." The weather was very pleasant, too, and the races were watched without any hindrance of fog.

Treachery left the maiden ranks to-day, and won her race driving, but it would have been won with ease had she not been handicapped by her rider. She won from a good class of two-year-olds, and has got some of the money in five of her six starts.

Monitor won his race in impressive style, and may be looked to improve some with his races in the near future. He was gelded about three months ago, and this is his second start since. A heavy play was made on him. Marjorie ran a much-improved race over her last performance, and will be seen in front very soon now.

Red Rose, by Red Iron, dam by Oregon Charley, left the maiden ranks in the third race, and made her followers very happy, as she was at from 12 to 15 to 1 in the betting. Dick O'Malley and Mendocino, first and second choice respectively, got away badly, or Red Rose would have been a maiden still. They finished second and third as named.

Fannie Louise won as she liked from her field, and Ivy was not extended to get second place.

Warrago, at post time on even terms with Ransom in the betting, won handily by two lengths from the head of the stretch from the Duchess of Milpitas, Ransom finishing third. The fast time of 1:40½ was hung up. Olivia, the favorite, finished fourth.

W. Flynn rode two winners, Macklin, Chevalier and Wilson one each.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was for maiden two-year-olds, at five furlongs. Of the six starters Treachery was the favorite at 2 to 1, Marigold colt 5, Little Flush filly 10, Valiente 15, Mabel L. and San Marcos 40 to 1 each. The colts worried Mr. Ferguson for awhile, but he finally sent them away to a good start. Treachery was the first to show, then fell back to third place, Marigold colt and Mabel L. leading her past the half-pole half-lengths apart. Treachery and Little Flush filly passed Mabel L. coming into the stretch, and Valiente showed a burst of speed, but not enough to land any of the money. Treachery was kept in front and won by three parts of a length, driving. Little Flush filly second, four lengths in front of Marigold colt. Time, 1:02½.

The second race was for two-year-olds, five furlongs, selling. A heavy play was made on Monitor. He opened at 8 to 5 and closed at 2 to 5, harried in most of the books. Marjorie was second choice, closing at 2½ to 1, Encino 12, Phyllis 20, Miss Pollard and Scimitar each at 75 to 1. Encino showed a burst of speed at the start and led by two lengths all the way into the stretch, Monitor two lengths away, Marjorie three lengths. After straightening out in the stretch Monitor caught Encino and passed him easily, and Marjorie treated him in the same manner. Monitor won driving by a length, Marjorie second easily by two lengths and a half in front of Encino. Time, 1:02.

The third race was for three-year-olds and upwards, with maiden jockeys. Dick O'Malley was first choice at 3 to 1, Mendocino at 4, Silver Lip and Spendthrift 6, Dr. Gardner 7, Tyrena 10, Red Rose 15, Valanta 25 and Triumph 30 to 1. Silver Lip enlivened things at the post for awhile by all sorts of antics, then got away at a false break and ran around the track twice. While the horse with the silver lip was negotiating his second mile, the field was sent away to a straggling start. Red Rose led all the way. Dick O'Malley and Mendocino, both of whom got off badly, were forging ahead at the turn, and the former got through on the rail. He looked a winner for awhile, but Red Rose held him off and won by a nose. Mendocino finished third, a length after Dick O'Malley. Time, 1:03. G. Wilson rode the winner and left the ranks of maiden jockeys.

There were two absentees in the fourth race, at six furlongs, leaving four starters. Of these Fannie Louise was favorite at 1 to 4, Ivy 5½, Ike L. 15, and Brown Dick 100 to 1. The story of the race is soon told. The start was a good one, with Ivy off in front. Before the half-pole was reached Fannie Louise had taken command, and led all the way, winning, pulled up, by two and one-half lengths. Ivy, second, beat Ike L. four lengths. Time, 1:14½.

The last race was at one mile, selling. Olivia was made favorite at 6 to 5, Ransome opened at 2, and closed on even terms with Warrago at 3, Duchess of Milpitas 8, Normandie 10 and Mary S. 15 to 1. The favorite showed in front to a good start, but was in fourth place at the first quarter and never bettered her position. The Duchess took command there and led to the upper turn, where Warrago moved up from second place and led into the stretch by a length and won handsily by two, Duchess of Milpitas second, two lengths in front of Ransome. The fast time of 1:40½ was made.

SIXTEENTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 9.

The visitors to old Bay District track to-day were treated to a great horse race, one that is seldom witnessed, and one that was worth going along ways to see. Those who saw the four horses in the last race battling for supremacy in the stretch will never forget the beautiful sight, and a mighty cheer went up as they fought for every inch of vantage and finished "heads apart." That the race would be a hot one was conceded, and especial interest was centered in it as Claudius and Del Norte were to meet again, and since their race last Saturday and the talk of a match being on the tapis, their performances were watched more closely. And then McLight was in the race also, and the mental speculation on the part he would take in it was in no degree less than that made on the rivals, and he was made favorite. Nephew was also to be considered, as he has been running in fast time, and is quick in getting into action, and if he could get out in front in the first part of the race it was thought he might open up such a gap that the slower-moving horses would not be able to overcome in the stretch. Nephew was in front for a few strides, when McLight went up with a rush and commanded a very open lead, going into the stretch four lengths to the good, Del Norte, Nephew and Claudius in the order named, strung out in Indian file. Down the stretch the race was a battle royal, and four greater stretch horses seldom meet. Coming heads on to the cheering crowd they looked like a solid phalanx. Every foot of the way was fought for by the struggling horses, and the finish was a beautiful sight. McLight held his own, Claudius made a great run from the last into the stretch into the second place, and Del Norte and Nephew finished as named heads apart. It was a great race, and a splendid handicap.

Two favorites had finished in front in the previous races, a second choice and an outsider, from 12 to 20 to 1 in the betting.

Miss Brummel was second choice in the opening race. She led her field from flag to finish, with Gold Bug, the 4 to 5 favorite, in second place.

Gratify was a hot favorite in the two-year-old race at five furlongs, and won easily. Sam Leake and Charley Boots, who were on equal terms for second choice, having a hot finish, which Leake secured by a length.

Little Flush Colt was also a hot favorite for the third race, but his chances were killed at the start. He was cut off and stumbled to his knees, yet he came on and finished second. He would have won "by a block" with an even send-off. Sooladain, all the way from 12 to 20 to 1 in the hooks, won by three lengths.

Model was favorite all the time in the fourth race, and won easily. Johnny Payne, the second choice, was the only one that gave her an argument. He ran a good race and finished second, after getting away badly.

Sloan, Lloyd, Chevalier, Burns and Macklin were the winning jockeys.

The weather was delightful, and an interesting day's sport was had, though the attendance was only fair.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was at five and a half furlongs, selling, light welter weights, with five starters. Gold Bug was the first choice, opening at 6 to 5, and closing at 4 to 5, imp. Miss Brummel second choice at 2, Joe Cotton 8, Crawford 10, Hanford 20 to 1. The start was a good one, with Miss Brummel soon in command, Gold Bug and Hanford following close up. Miss Brummel was never headed, and won easily by two lengths. Gold Bug held Hanford off and was second by one length. Time, 1:08.

In the second race, at five and a half furlongs, for two-year-olds, there were five starters. Gratify opened at 3 to 10, and closed at 7 to 20, Sam Leake 5, Charlie Boots 6½, Veragua 150, and Eviola 1,000 to 1. The colts delayed the start by their bad actions, but got away to a good send-off finally. Sam Leake showed in front, Charley Boots and Veragua next up. Veragua was in the lead at the half-pole and Sam Leake back fourth. Charley Boots laid second until the turn was reached, when he led by a head, Gratify two lengths in front of Veragua, Sam Leake still fourth. Half-way down the stretch Gratify passed Charley Boots, and then Sam Leake came along and challenged him too. They finished Gratify first easily by a neck, Sam Leake second one length in front of Charley Boots, both driving. Time, 1:07½.

The third race was also at five and a half furlongs, selling, with a field of six. Little Flush Colt was the favorite at 4 to 5, Coleman was at 3 to 1, imp. Autonomy 4 (at one time 30), Sooladain 20, Red Rose 60 and Tyrena 100. Coleman did his little act at the post, as usual. The favorite was shut off at the start and Chevalier pulled him up. Red Rose led past the half, when Sooladain moved up from second and commanded the lead by three parts of a length, Red Rose a length in front of Autonomy. They turned into the stretch in that order, but Red Rose soon after dropped back and Little Flush colt rapidly overhauled his field. Sooladain won easily by three lengths, Little Flush Colt getting second place by a head under a drive. Time, 1:08½.

Model was played heavily in the fourth race, and was harried in most of the hooks, at 1 to 2 in some. Johnny Payne closed at 7. Soon Enough 8, Sinbad 10, Harry Lewis 20, Red Idle 25, and Lodi 80 to 1. Harry Lewis showed first and passed the half-pole a head in front of Soon Enough, Model, the favorite, third. Soon Enough passed Harry Lewis at the turn, and Johnny Payne got through into third place, having come from the end with a rush. He had no trouble in passing Soon Enough, and closed on Model, and finished three parts of a length behind her, Soon Enough two lengths away. Time, 1:07½.

In the mile handicap there were four entries, Claudius (107), McLight (106), Del Norte (105) and Nephew (100). That this would be a red-hot race was conceded, and it came up to all expectations. The principal interest was centered in Claudius and Del Norte, since there has been so much talk of a series of match races between these two. McLight was very much thought of and went to the post favorite at 8 to 5, Del Norte at 3, Claudius 3½ and Nephew 3 to 1. Nephew showed in front at the start, but was immediately overhauled by McLight, who opened up a gap of two lengths at the quarter, with Del Norte three lengths ahead of Nephew, Claudius last. McLight was hurried along and was five lengths to the good at the half, Del Norte four from Nephew.

MISS DOROTHY KINSEL'S COLLIE DON CAMERON.

Half-way around the turn Claudius began to move up, but he had not caught any of his field when the head of the stretch was reached. McLight swung into the straight four lengths in front of Del Norte, Nephew two lengths behind him. Then the battle began. A prettier race or one more hotly contested is seldom seen. Every horse seemed to be doing his utmost as he responded to the call of his jockey. McLight stood the drive down the stretch, and Claudius made one of his great runs. As the quartette came on towards the wire they seemed to be almost on even terms, and a great shout went up as they finished heads apart, all under a drive, McLight, Claudius, Del Norte, Nephew the order. Time, 1:40½.

To Judge at Ingleside.

There has been considerable speculation in club circles for some time past as to who would act as judge during the meeting of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club at its new track at Ingleside. Last night President A. B. Spreckels announced the appointment of Captain James H. Rees of Memphis and Joseph A. Murphy of Chicago, the former as presiding and the latter as associate judge.

Judge Rees has for the past six years acted as associate judge and Secretary of the new Memphis Jockey Club. He officiated during the past season as presiding judge at the Hawthorne track and as associate judge at the Harlem meeting, Chicago.

Judge Murphy is quite a young man. He was for some years sporting editor of the Chicago Tribune. Later he officiated as steward for both the St. Louis Fair Grounds and the New Orleans meeting last winter. He has since the inception of the Harlem Association acted in the dual capacity of judge and secretary.

It is understood that R. E. deB. Lopez will take up one of the fillies he lately imported from Australia and prepare her for the races. A better-bred lot never crossed the Pacific and next year we shall see what they can do in the races.

THE KENNEL.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The California greyhounds were all knocked out in the first round of the American Waterloo this week.

C. A. Harker, of San Jose, has received a new St. Bernard bitch by Governor Russell from Miss Whitney's kennels.

M. D. Walters, the well-known trainer, was in town on Tuesday. He reports his string in excellent condition.

"Billy" Tallman has taken up training again. Our Eastern friends will welcome him back into the fold with open arms. The old trainer of Elcho Jr., Beaufort and Plantagenet should be able to command a good business.

The St. Bernard Club are giving signs of waking up. The Secretary forgot to mail the postals calling the meeting and in consequence there was not a quorum on Wednesday evening last, but he has promised to attend to his business hereafter and the treasurer has moved to San Francisco, so we can expect to see them on hand at the next meeting. If those produce stakes and stud dog stakes are to be inaugurated it is time that it was done.

Our illustration this week is that of Miss Dorothy Kinsel's collie dog Don Cameron 36,094, by Alan a-Dale, out of W. J. Davis' Clover. He is sable and white in color, with good character, well carried ears and good coat. He is in the charge of R. H. Morris, and will be placed at stud shortly. Fee $25, or will breed for portion of the litter. Don Cameron is royally bred but unfortunately his full breeding has not reached us in season for this issue.

A bench show committee of five members must be elected at the next meeting of the Pacific Kennel Club on November 6th next. We hope that the members will take sufficient interest in this question to attend and elect the parties that they want to fill this most important office. We trust that a "non-sporting" man will be one of the committee this year, but we would much rather see them all sporting dog men than to see one or two men on the committee that are too busy to attend to the many thankless duties of the office. This committee must be composed of workers, and no man should accept the position that cannot devote considerable time to his duties.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Pumps will soon be at a premium.

Nauman was the biggest winner at the tournament.

The next meeting of the association will be in December next.

There will be a live bird shoot at Rio Vista to-morrow, given by the Rio Vista Gun Club.

J. W. Shiell broke 91½ per cent on Sunday but unfortunately did not keep up the gait on Monday.

Feudner's gun broke down on the first day of the tournament, and on the second day he used five different guns.

On account of lack of space we have deferred commenting on the Richardson protest at the recent tournament until next week.

The Golchers were missed at the tournament, the sudden death of their senior partner, mentioned in another column, prevented their attending.

M. A. Pace, C. A. Starke, T. A. Carter and Wm. Rhodes, all city officials of San Bernardino, have been arrested for killing quail out of season.

There will be a blue rock tournament at Sacramento to-morrow, given by Kimball & Upon at their grounds. There are eight scheduled events and one prize shoot.

The prize for the highest average at the tournament was won by C. A. Merrill with "U. S." powder. The prize for most consecutive breaks by J. W. Shiell with "U. S." powder.

The Hazard Smokeless "Blue Ribbon" brand made many friends at the tournament. Most of the Stockton boys were using it, and several of the local experts as well. It is both quick and clean.

The Ostrander Gun Co. have settled all the preliminaries and will remove the plant from Boston to Sacramento at once. It is thought that the factory will be in running order in January, 1896.

Since the tournament, shells loaded by Otto Feudner at R. Liddle Co.'s are in great demand. On Thursday evening when we dropped in there were over a thousand in front of him waiting to be crimped.

"Gold Dust" was well advertised at the tournament; the entire force were on hand doing missionary work. J. S. Fanning, "Gold Dust" Robertson and Dick Swiveler were talking it through the muzzle of their guns.

In another column will be found a letter from Game Warden Donovan. Mr. Donovan has proven a very efficient warden; we have heard of his work every few days for months. It is a pity that there are not more like him.

Clarence Haight was also there talking Dupont Smokeless in his quiet gentlemanly way and making friends for both the powder and himself. Considering the fact that 47 out of 104 shooters were using Dupont, we may take it for granted that Dupont has come to stay.

In a conversation with a well-known seal hunter who has recently returned from Northern waters with the largest number of seal skins brought in this season, we were informed that Gold Dust powder stood the test of the sea voyage as well as black. Mr. Howell informed us that he found it of great advantage in shooting double sleepers as he could very frequently get both of them. He also states that the penetration is greater and will use nothing else hereafter.

The open season for duck, rail and quail begins next Tuesday. Many hunters that believe in supporting the game laws and are generally observant of the same, are contemplating forcing the season a couple of days and shooting on Sunday and Monday. We certainly do not think that this will make any material difference to the game supply, but is it fair play? All sportsmen worthy of the name believe in the motto, "Live and let live." Is it fair by those who do observe the law to go to the best hunting grounds and thin out the beaves and frighten the ducks from the best ponds before the law-abiding citizen can get his share of the fun?

A. A. Martin, of R. Liddle Co., has invented a camper's outfit that is perfection. It consists of a folding frying pan, two plates and knife, fork and spoon all of which are in one package and can be carried in the hunting coat pocket. This store will hereafter remain open on Saturday evenings until 10 o'clock.

John P. Clabrough.

John P. Clabrough, the senior member of the firm of Clabrough, Golcher & Co., 605 Market Street, died on Saturday last from enlargement of the liver. He had been ailing for several months but was not thought seriously ill until quite recently.

The deceased was born in Yorkshire in 1834. He emigrated to America and crossed the plains in the early days. He worked for the old firm of Liddle & Kæding for several years and in 1867 went into business for himself on Montgomery Street. In 1873 the senior Golcher, the father of the well known Golchers that are now members of the firm, purchased an interest in the business and from that date the business has steadily increased.

A few years after the partnership was formed Mr. Clabrough returned to England and started the factory in Birmingham that is now known the world over as the home of the Clabrough gun. This venture proved as successful as the San Francisco business and although Mr. Clabrough made his home in England, his visits to this country were frequent. About two years ago he left England for good and took up his home in this city.

He was buried on Monday from the residence of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Geo. Clabrough at 906 Greenwich Street.

Mr. Clabrough never married. He was very well known, kind hearted, fond of all out-door sports of the rod and gun and extremely popular.

The Blue Rock Tournament.

The initial tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association, held at Oakland Race Track on Sunday and Monday last, must go on record as the largest and most successful tournament ever given in this State. The entry was not quite as large as was expected, but had it been larger the boys would have had more than they could have handled. As it was, the fifth match on the first day was finished on the morning of the second and the ties in the handicap event were shot off close on the edge of sundown, decided by tossing coins, shaking dice and pitching coin at a line.

The shooting throughout the tournament was poor. It would be hard to explain why, but the averages of the shooters are nothing to brag of even in the known angle events. There was but very little real good shooting; but four men broke 15 straight in the individual events, and only two broke 20 straight. J. W. Shiell, of Traver, broke 50 straight on the first day, but went all to pieces on the second day. "Fox," of whom great things was naturally expected, was badly out of form. Nauman did quite well on the second day, but was decidedly on the sick list both days. Otto Feudner was undeniably ill and far from his usual form. Webb, Daniels and a number of the others who are classed as our best shots were only occasionally in the prize list. Fanning shot only fairly on Sunday, but on Monday he pulled himself together and made a very good average.

The prize for the greatest number of consecutive breaks was won by J. W. Shiell. The highest average for the individual event was won by C. A. Merrill, of Stockton; second prize by J. Bruns of the Lincolns, third by C. Nauman of the Olympics and fourth by J. Karney of the Lincolns.

The greatest interest was manifested in the team events and the ties in these events were very exciting. The performance of the Olympic team was very creditable, but the Stockton boys rightly carried off the honors on Sunday. In the contest for the Overland trophy the Olympics made the banner team score of the tournament—97. We wish to give them all the credit that is due them, but the fact remains that neither of the trophies should have been won with a score of less than 108. If our crack teams cannot break 90 per cent at known angles, what will they do when it comes to unknown angles?

The judges were as far as we observed fair and impartial, but we hope to see men chosen at the next tournament that will act throughout the day. To judge blue rock shooting is not a difficult task for a man with good eyesight, but a judge must attend strictly to business and must of necessity be acquainted with the rules. Neither should a man be asked to sit on the head of a barrel all day and work conscientiously for the mere honor of it. He should be paid for his work. Then he can be depended upon and many minutes will not be wasted hunting a new judge every half hour.

Considering that this is the first attempt at handling a large tournament here, the managers of the affair deserve a great deal of credit. President Allen worked long and faithfully for the tournament before it commenced, and was courteous and painstaking with the kickers after it did commence. He was the first on hand in the morning and the last to leave at night. Protests were referred to the proper committee, and however frivolous were given due consideration. In picking flaws we must not be considered as finding fault. Considering that this is the first attempt, we think the committee did remarkably well, but in calling the attention of the shooters to what we consider to be errors made, we are trying to prevent the occurrence of the same. The tournament will now become a regular feature, and we wish to see each one better than the last.

Much of the success of the tournament was due to the work of the very efficient cashier, Mr. Bolini; his work in straightening out the ties was neatness and dispatch personified. The orders for prizes were given out as soon as won, by A. A. Martin, who had charge of this end of the work. Secretary Schaefer should also be remembered. He has proven one of the most efficient men in this capacity that we have ever seen.

The traps worked as well as we ever saw them work in any large event. There is always a certain amount of breakage and the boys are for the most part unacquainted with the working of traps in unknown angle events. The little colored boy who pulled for the new set of traps deserves special mention. His pulling was about as good as it possibly could be, considering the fact that it was a rope pull.

But few protests were made, that of the Stockton Gun Club against the substitution of Street for Nauman, and then the second substitution of Nauman for Street was, in our estimation, well founded and we hope to see some definite rule provided for such instances before the next tournament is given. Nauman was unquestionably very ill and had to be led from the score at the finish of the tenth round of the team contest, but this was the misfortune of the Olympic not the fault of other clubs.

The Olympics should have asked the consent of the other contestants to substitute Street for Nauman. Surely under such circumstances no man who claims to be a gentleman would object, but the principle is wrong as it opens the gate to fraud and the claim of the Olympics that a man may be substituted at any time for any cause is a plan unheard of in shooting annals, and we venture to state never will be heard of in the future. It is obviously unfair to oblige a team of six men to compete against the combined efforts of seven men. If substitution be allowed in the middle of a match what is to hinder a man who is making a poor score from pretending illness and putting a better man in his place? Did anyone ever hear of a man drawing out his entry fee in a match because his gun broke down, or did anyone ever know of a match in which one man was allowed to complete the score of another and have that score count as a win? If so we would be pleased to put it on record.

In this case the Olympics tied with the Stockton team for first place. When it came to shooting off the tie, Nauman was in his old place in the team and the Stocktons objected.

We claim, that the substitution in such a case as the one in question was only allowable by the consent of all the interested parties and that Street should have shot in the tie. As it happened the Stocktons won the cup by one bird, and as winners they could only withdraw their protest.

The protest of the Garden City Cyclers Gun Club on the grounds of the wording of the programme that all events would be class shooting, was in our estimation frivolous and the tournament committee evidently thought the same as they voted unanimously against it.

The object of offering a trophy that represents a club championship is just the reverse of class shooting; it is to find out which club has the strongest team of six men, and surely when three prizes are offered the three highest scores should win.

In reality our Coast class shooting is not class shooting at all as it gives but slight protection to the lower class men. It is very easy for six experts to drop into the six ties and win the six prizes under the present method.

The time is not far distant when our shooters must be classified by the Eastern method, the first class men will become known and will be compelled to compete against each other for separate prizes, our second class men ditto and so on down the line.

The weather on Saturday was all that could be desired, but on Monday it was cold and windy after noon.

During the tournament about 14,000 birds were shot at. The shooting commenced shortly after 9 A. M. on Sunday. The first event was an open pool at 10 singles, known traps, known angles. Entrance 50 cents, three moneys, 94 entries. J. W. Shiell won first money, J. Karney second and C. A. Merrill third.

The second event was at 15 singles, entrance 75 cents, known traps, unknown angles, 103 entries, seven class prizes. The first being a 10 gauge duck gun, J. W. Shiell, of Traver, won first; C. A. Merrill, of Stockton, second; C. Nauman, of the Olympics, third; Trombone, of the Oaklands, fourth; D. Winders, of Stockton, fifth; F. H. Holmes, of the Garden City, sixth, and A. W. Allen, of the Lincolns, seventh.

The next event was the match for the Gold Dust Diamond Medal, valued at $100, at 20 singles, entrance $1, 103 entries. Winner of medal will get entrance money at next tournament. Medal must be won three times to become private property; ten class prizes. J. W. Shiell won the medal with 20 straight, C. Nauman second, "Lake" of the Electrics third, D. Daniels of the Lincolns fourth, "Shy" of the Electrics fifth, "Fox," of the San Joaquin Valley Club, sixth, H. Coykendall, of the Garden City's, seventh, "Swiveler," of the Electrics, eighth, P. Beekart, of the Olympics, ninth, F. Wenzel, of the Lincolns, tenth.

The fourth event was the team match for the Association Trophy emblematic of the Club championship for teams of six men from each club, 20 singles per man, known traps, known angles, entrance $1 per man. Cup to be won three times before becoming the property of any club. Each member of the winning team was presented with a gold blue rock button inscribed C. I. T. A.—Cup winners of 1895. Second team received elegant sleeve buttons. Third team five expert traps.

The Olympics and Stocktons tied for the trophy with 95 each. The tie was shot off at the original number of birds and the Stockton team won amid great excitement with a score of 94 to 93, Olympics second. The San Joaquin Valley team and the Oakland Gun Club team tied for third place with 92 each.

In the shoot off the San Joaquin's won with a score of 85 to 81. The scores were as follows:

Stockton Gun Club—Haas 18, Blaine 17, Merrill 16, Richards 16, Ellis 14, Baldwin 14. Total 95.

Olympics—Fanning 19, Feudner 18, Haight 16, Liddle 16, Beekart 14, Nauman and Street 12. Total 95.

San Joaquin Valley—Shiell 19, Rice 17, G. Lovelace 17, Fox 14, Sensaboy 14, McVeagh 11. Total 92.

Oakland—Ingalls 17, Young 17, Trombone 17, Newton 15, Coffin 14, Baker 12. Total 92.

Electric—Durst 18, Forster 17, Wetmore 15, Murdock 14, Slade 13, Lake 11. Total 88.

Empires—Webb 17, Stewart 16, Billington 16, Debenham 14, Andrus 13, Allison 12. Total 88.
Lincolns—Franzen 19, Karnev 17, Bruns 16, Daniels 14, Cate 13, Allen 10. Total 89.
Nimrods—Winders 14, Ricklefson 13, Lehrke 12, Schaeffer 11, Ayres 11, Le Long 7. Total 68.
Watsonville—Brewington 13, Smith 12, Sommerfeld 11, Werner 8, Rodriguez 5. Total 60.
The fifth event was at 15 singles, known traps, unknown angles, use of both barrels, second barrel breaks to count half, entrance 75 cents. 104 entries, eight class prizes. The first prize was an L. C. Smith hammerless won by Nanman of the Olympics, Daniels of the Lincoln's second, H. G. Balkwell of the Garden City's third, J. Bruns of the Lincoln's fourth, Swiveler of the Electric's fifth, F. F. Merrill of Stockton's sixth, F. H. Holmes of the Garden City's seventh and J. S. Fanning of the Olympic's eighth.

SECOND DAY.

The second day of the tournament started in with fog, and when it cleared a strong wind blew across the traps, and toward night it was cold and disagreeable. The entries were not as large as on Sunday, and the spectators number about fifty in place of the two hundred that attended on Sunday.

The first event was the wind-up of event No. 5 of Sunday. Event No. 1 was started about half-past nine, and run through in very good time. The match was at 15 singles, known traps, unknown angles, entrance 75 cents, 86 entries. The principal prize was a Winchester Repeating Shotgun, valued at $65, and six other class prizes. F. H. Holmes won the gun with a straight score, J. Karney of the Lincoln's second, H. G. Balkwell, Garden City's third, C. A. Merrill, Stockton's fourth, J. S. Fanning, Olympic's fifth, "Trombone", Oakland's sixth and G. Blaine, Stockton's seventh.

The second event was the match for the Association Individual Championship Diamond Medal, at 20 singles, known angles, entrance $1, winner of medal gets entrance money at next tournament. Medal must be won three times to become personal property, 12 class prizes, 83 entries. The medal was won by "Trombone" (W. H. Seaver) with 20 straight, second a Parker hammerless gun valued at $100, won by Dr. Barker of the Garden City's, J. S. Fanning third, "Lake" fourth, C. A. Burgans, Oakland's fifth, C. J. Haas, Stockton's sixth, F. Vernon, Electric's seventh, M. O. Feudner, Olympic's eighth, R. H. Liddle, Olympic's ninth, N. Brown, tenth, Freeman, Sutter Creek's eleventh, A. Roderiquez, Watsonville's twelfth.

The third event was the Overland Monthly trophy (by the way the trophy has not been seen yet, though we are told it is coming). This match is open to as many teams as wish to enter. Teams to consist of six men each, at 20 singles per man, known traps, known angles. First team to receive the trophy and $30 in cash, second team 600 cartridges, third team $600. Trophy must be won three times to become the property of any club, and until so won will be shot for at each tournament.

In this event, as in the previous team match, the Olympics and Stockton teams again tied with 95 each, but in shooting off the tie the win was reversed, the Olympics winning with a score of 97 to 93. The Electrics third with 93. The score was as follows:

Olympics—Fanning 17, Haight 17, Feudner 16, Nauman 16, Bekeart 15, Liddle 14; total 95.
Stocktons—Haas 18, Richards 17, Balkwell 17, Ellis 16, Blain 12, C. Merrill 15; total 95.
Electrics—Shy 18, Wetmore 17, Eugene Forster 16, Ver-15, Slade 14, Lake 13; total 93.

San Joaquin—Shiell 17, Rice 17, Lovelace 17, McVeagh 14, Williams 14, Fox 12; total 91.

Stocktons No. 2—Comfort 16, F. Merrill 14, W. Ditz 14, Schaeffer 13, Lang 12, Loujers 10; total 79.

Lincolns—Edgar Forster 18, Daniels 16, Karney 15, Bruns 14, Quinton 13, Cate 10; total 86.

Empire—Stewart 20, Webb 17, Billington 14, Andrus 12, Allison 12, Debenham 11; total 86.

Oakland—Trombone 17, Baker 15, Young 15, Ingalls 12, Newton 12, Coffin 11; total 82.

Garden City—Baker 19, Anderson 15, Holmes 13, Flint 13, Coykendall 11, Hall 9; total 80.

The fourth and last event of the tournament was a little late in starting on account of the numerous ties from previous matches that had to be shot off. In consequence there was not daylight enough left to shoot off all the ties, and they were decided by the shooters as pleased their fancy. The match was the Clabrough handicap, the shooters being handicapped from 1 to 5 birds each. Each man shooting at 15 singles, known traps, known angles, entrance $1.00. Ten class prizes: The first a Clabrough hammerless gun; second, $20, given by Dupont Smokeless Powder Company.

The handicapping was, on the whole, very well done, if any errors occurred they were on the side of the expert, not the amateur. Edg. Forster, "Sly" and McVeagh tied for the gun. As McVeagh was not to be found he consequently forfeited his right and "Sly" and Forster settled the matter between themselves, Forster taking the gun. Second prize was won by Webb, Stewart and Baker; J. M. Allison of the Empire, third; E. S. Richards, Stockton, fourth; C. J. Haas, Stockton, fifth; F. H. Holmes, Garden City's sixth; A. R. Crowell, Electric's seventh; E. Werner, Watsonville, ninth; D. Walton, Electric's, tenth.

The shooters were handicapped as follows: Scratch, Webb, Bruns, Daniels, Cate, Fanning, Lake, Flint, Haas, "Slade," Wetmore, Karney, Shiell, Feudner, Nauman, Holmes and C. Merrill.

Those who were given one bird were "Sly," Stewart, Burgans, Barker, Allison, Kerrison, Eug. Forster, Fox, Haight, Richards, F. Merrill, C. Williams, Andrus, G. Lovelace, Winders, H. Coykendall, F. Coykendall, McMahon, Debenham, Billington, Rice, Anderson and Hall.

Those who were given two birds were: McVeagh, Edg. Forster, Brewington, Baker, Balkwell, Liddle Swiveler, Quinton, Sensaboy, "Coffin," Vernon, G. Jackson, A. Lovelace, Bekeart, W. Ditz, "Ingalls," O'Donnell, Summerfield, Lonjers, M. C. Allen, Comfort, Robertson, Brown and Werner.

Those who were given three birds were Gross, Schaefer, Trafton, "Young," Rodriguez, Crowell, Peterson.

Four birds: Freeman, Voorheis, White and Street. Five Lewis. Six: Walton.

The scores in all the events including team events and team ties are given below with the number of birds broken, number of birds shot at and the percentage. The figures given for the fourth event of the second day indicate the actual number of birds broken exclusive of the handicap.

HOOF-BEATS.

ED. CORRIGAN will have about fifty horses in training next Spring.

FRANCIS TREVELYAN has been appointed Jockey Club steward at the meeting at Macon.

W. L. APPEEBY has a rare good lot of thoroughbreds for sale at the Bay District track. See his advertisement.

SALVABLE, by Salvator—Lydia, was third to Emotional and Cavil in a six-furlong dash at Gravesend Tuesday.

CINCINNATI papers state that W. E. Applegate has sold Dominion for $1,500 to Guy Irving, of Louisville, Ky.

TIM MURPHY was tired at a mile yesterday, but showed his inability to keep up the pace for such a long journey.

THE Indiana Supreme Court has overruled a petition for a rehearing in the Roby track case. This settles Roby this year.

HANDSPRING defeated Rey del Carreras for the Billows Stakes, six furlongs, at Gravesend, N. Y. yesterday. Time, 1:14½.

LUCKY BALDWIN denies the newspaper rumor that he intends to take a string of horses to England and then to France.

MESSRS. C. FLEISCHMANN & SON have bought the two-year-old colt Sherlock from Messrs. Ed Hopper and Carroll Reid for $8,000.

OLD GALILEE won a mile and three-sixteenths race at Gravesend Wednesday, Counter Tenor and Sir Excess finishing behind him. Time, 2:02.

WALDO J.'s three heats in 2:08, 2:09½ and 2:09, are worthy of being placed at the head of the list. Waldo J. was only beaten a length in 2:08 in the first heat.

J. J. BURKE, of New York, who is to act as judge at the Bay District, wired President Williams yesterday that he would leave for San Francisco on October 15th.

REQUITAL has been doing nothing beyond good strong half-speed gallops lately, and is not at all likely to be seen at the post before the Morris Park meeting, if then.

FANNIE LOUISE must have run the six furlongs Wednesday in 1:13½. Imp. Ivy, who was beaten three lengths, was separately timed in 1:13½. The official time was 1:14½.

GLADWIN, a bay filly by imp. Plenty (son of Suwarrow), a horse brought to California from Melbourne by R. E. deB. Lopez, won a half mile dash at Hueneme last week. Time, 0:51.

REQUITAL's dam is Retribution, by Reform; Ben Brush's dam is Roseville, by Reform, and Princess Noretta is out of Hinda Dwyer, by Reform. The day of reformation is at hand.

"THE boy plunger," as they call Riley Grannan, made a book at Oakley the early part of the meeting, and lost on the block and in his outside speculations. He will come to California the coming Winter.

MACKLIN sent the hearts of the backers of Treachery up into their throats with a ker-chuck by his riding near the wire. He won, driving, and saved the utter collapse of a large contingent, when he should have won by a block.

JAMES F. CALDWELL, the well-known Eastern flag-wielder, has been appointed starter for the Pacific Coast Jockey Club during its coming meeting at Ingleside. President Spreckels advised Caldwell by wire yesterday of his pre-ferment.

TREACHERY, J. G. Brown & Co.'s bay filly by Hanover—Deceit, left the maiden ranks Wednesday. In her six starts at Sacramento and Bay District she has missed some part of the mcnv only once, having one win, three seconds and one third to her credit.

THE Endurance Stakes at three miles was a great attraction at Oakley last Thursday. Only three horses started, Grannan, Oriada and Newcom. The former led all the way, winning easily. The first mile was run in 1:54½, two miles in 3:43½ and three miles in 5:31.

THE Pacific Coast Jockey Club has issued its stake book, with entries to the stakes to be run during the inaugural meeting of 1895. The list is a very flattering one to the new club, as the entries are not only very satisfactory numerically, but the horses are high class.

WILLIAM MURRY's string, composed of Circe, Rey del Bandidos, Edgemount, Red Glen, Mahogany, Pricelle, Thornhill, Red Chief, Major Ban filly, Belfast, Mantell and a couple of two-year-olds owned by Joe Terry, will be shipped to Bay District from Sacramento next Thursday.

CHRIS. SMITH, owner of Yo Tambien, has made an arrangement with Col. M. Young, by which Yo Tambien will be sent to McGrathiana next spring and bred to Hanover. She will probably have her last race at Latonia and will be shipped to McGrathiana at the close of the Latonia fall meeting.

CLIVE, by Clieleden, cannot be bought for any amount of money. He is one of the greatest race horses in the land of the southern cross. Clieleden's sons and daughters are doing very well this season there and his few colts and fillies here are said to be the finest looking ever foaled in California.

DAN LAMASNEY's racing stable was sold at St. Louis last Saturday, with the following result: Yemen, Barney Schriber, $550; J. P. B., M. R. Harned, $350; Service, Barney Schriber, $400; St. Pancras, D. Hoover, $250; Sir Loin, T. H. Ryao, $600. J. Hardy & Co., sold Fra Diavolo to N. C. Frank for $525.

THE grand old broodmare Belle Knight, by Knighthood, out of Kentucky Belle, died at Nantura Stud Farm, September 22d, aged twenty-three years. She was the dam of Freedom, Free Knight, Unite, Mary Corbett, Long Knight, Shaker, Freeman, Lavinia Belle, Annie Blackburn, Cicero, Sir Knight and King Arthur, all race winners. The amount her produce won on the turf amounts to $135,000.

THE sensation of yesterday's races at Latonia was the defeat of the crack colt Sherlock, recently purchased by C. Fleischmann & Son for $3,000 from Carroll Reid. He was an odds-on favorite, heavily backed, but was beaten by Sir Play, by Sir Modred, who was in receipt of eleven pounds. The time, 1:15½, was very fast for the track. Jockey Chorn was indefinitely suspended by the judges for using foul language to the starters. It is not probable that he will be allowed to ride there again.

STAMBEL, the good four-year-old colt owned by Lienes Bros., Rochester, N. Y., is bred in lines which should make him not only a great race horse but as well a producer of rare qualities. He is by Stambow (a son of Stamboul, 2:07½), out of Belone, by Lone 12,029; second dam Bell, by Kentucky Prince; third dam Bell of Richmond, by Hambletonian 10; fourth dam Bell of Richmond, by Norman 1777. Stambell took a record of 2:29½ at Ithaca and repeated the same record at Dansville and Rochester, N. Y. Stambell is the oldest of the get of his sire, his dam having been bred in 1890 when Stambow was but a two-year-old. He has shown this year ability to beat 2:20.

DR. MASOERO, the well-known veterinarian of this city, has erected a splendid building near the old Ocean House and in it has placed fifty-two box-stalls, room for two hundred tons of hay, cooling-out rooms, an infirmary, kitchen, dining-room and bedrooms for the jockeys and trainers who will bring their thoroughbreds to the beach for exercise in the salt water. The beach is three miles long, and is unequalled by any in the world. The climate is pleasant and the sea breezes most invigorating. This eminent surgeon has achieved a high place in the estimation of horse-owners for his skill, and in his endeavors to restore cripples to usefulness on the track, he deserves the highest commendation. His new venture will be a success from the day of opening.

SIDNEY has a new performer in the chestnut mare Sister C., that took a record of 2:29½ on the half-mile track at Rochester, N. Y., September 25. Sister C. is a seven year-old mare that was bred by the late Count Valensin on his California farm. She is now owned by the well-known horseman Lines Bros., of Rochester, N. Y. Sister C.'s dam is Miss Casserly, by Eugene Casserly, and her second dam is by Whipple's Hambletonian. This mare is a full sister to Catharine, purchased by Mr. Robt. Bonner at Kellogg's sale in March, 1889. Lines Bros. writes that they have a promising yearling foal by Stambow, out of Sister C., that took second premium at the New York State Fair in the yearling standard class.

The full steeplechase course. About two and a quarter miles.

CONDITIONS.

Except in handicaps and races where the weights are fixed absolutely in the conditions, fillies two years old shall be allowed three pounds, and mares three years old and upwards shall be allowed five pounds before the first of September, and three pounds afterwards. All geldings allowed three pounds. In steeplechases and hurdle races the weights shall be: For three-year-olds, 115 pounds; for four-year-olds, 153 pounds; for five-year-olds, 167 pounds; for six-year-olds and upward, 172 pounds. No weights less than 120 pounds allowed. The winter meeting of the California Jockey Club will commence October 26, 1895, and racing will continue without intermission until late spring, at least five days a week, five or more races each day, rain or shine. Inclosed please find stakes to be run during the winter meeting. Additional stakes will be given, special purses wherever possible, while liberal purses will be given throughout. Although at present only twenty-two stakes are advertised, it is our intention to give as many more for the spring meeting. A large list of two and three year-old stakes (for foals of 1894) are being prepared and will be issued shortly, the stakes to be run in the spring and fall meeting of 1896. Steeplechases and hurdle races will be given special attention, and as many races of this description as possible. Our course has been greatly improved this summer, and is now the safest winter track in America; in addition to which we have just completed an inside course, which will be absolutely safe in any kind of weather. Programmes are issued weekly, our policy being to arrange the conditions so as to give all classes of horses a chance. We have secured competent officials to manage and conduct our races, and assure horsemen that we will spare no effort to make their stay with us pleasant as well as profitable.

FOR SALE.

A FINE DOUBLE TEAM OF FAST TROTTERS.

A splendid pair of roadsters, one of the finest buggy teams in the city, is offered for sale. They are well-bred, fast, stylish, and perfectly gentle sale for a lady to drive. In breeding they cannot be excelled, being of the most fashionable strains. A very gentlemanly pair of horses will find a buyer in this pair of trotting mares. They are only four years old, and, being untrained, will continue to develop speed by careful handling. They are slightly below medium size, but of strong conformation and perfectly sound. This team may be seen at the Dexter Price Stable, 1509 Grove street, near Baker. They will be sold at a low price.

Napa, Cal. By purchasing directly from the breeder one ensures getting sound and serviceable animals at lowest prices. Colts and fillies are offered for sale by that great young sire, PILOT PRINCE; also by Dexter Prince, Sidney, Victor, 2:22, Grandissimo, 2:23 1/2, George Washington, 2:16, El Benton, 2:23; Don Martin, 2:22, etc. These have all been bred at the Napa Stock Farm and are out of first-class mares. Promising colts of tried speed lines will be supplied to trainers at very low prices. A large number now ready for track work are offered for sale. Broodmares are also offered for sale by Woodnut, 2:16, Dawn, 2:18 1/2, Grandissimo, 2:23 1/2, Dexter Prince, Hawthorne, Arbuton, Nahuac, etc.

A feature is also made of supplying good livery and business horses for city use. All stock guaranteed sound and as represented. Having been raised on the upland pastures of the Napa Stock Farm they have the best of feet and legs and will therefore stand hard work. All stock sold from this farm has given the best of satisfaction. Bargains are offered to all desiring to purchase good stock of any kind.

SPECIFIC FOR

Cracked Heels and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Root Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a CALLOUS, and will always remove a Callosus when caused from a wound.

It removes all Sores with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.

The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the soreness with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callosus remaining."

T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KLAMATH, 2:08 1/2, says: "I have been trying to cure Klamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are uneasy and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—

- FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
SECOND It will not cause headache.
THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")
TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

DUPONT SMOKELESS
SPORTING POWDER
Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

- First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.
Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR

GREAT CAMPAIGNERS ABROAD.

Some of the Turf Kings and Queens in Lands
Beyond the Sea.

[WRITTEN FOR THE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.]

In these days when an aged horse is a rarity on the American Turf, I have conceived the idea of getting up an article upon great campaigners, taking the foreign horses this week and our native Americans the next. It must be borne in mind that the English, Australians and French run many longer races than we do, so without further ado, I proceed to recapitulate foreign performances.

Fisherman started 120 times and won seventy races. He won the Queen's Gold Vase once and the Ascot Cup twice. His last victory was at seven furlongs in which he carried 162 pounds.

Rataplan's best race was for the Manchester Cup of 1854 in which he carried 130 pounds to victory. He was owned by Thomas Parr, who afterwards owned Fisherman. Mr. Parr lost all his money in the 60's and died in a workhouse at the advanced age of seventy-nine years. Rataplan started thirty-nine times and won twenty-one races.

Priestess and her dam, The Biddy, are both to be found in the breeding of Sir Modred and Idaliun. Priestess started forty times and won sixteen races. The Biddy was the second dam of Regalia, who won the Oaks, ran second to Gladiateur for the Ascot Cup of 1866 and produced that great French horse Verneuil, who won the Ascot Cup of 1878 with 122 pounds up. The Biddy was fourth in the Doncaster Cup of 1843 won by Alice Hawthorne, 121 pounds, with Charles XII. second with 128 pounds.

Alice Hawthorne won 50½ races out of 68 starts, including 16 Cups and 18 Queen's Plates. She won the Ascot Gold Vase, Chester Cup each once and two Stockbridge Cups and the Doncaster Cup twice. She was the dam of Thormanby, who won the Derby and Ascot Cup, and of Oulston, who won the Queen's Vase in 1855.

Beeswing won 51 races out of 63 starts, being the only animal that ever won the Doncaster Cup four times. Lanercost was the only horse that ever defeated her at even weights, for the Gold Cup of 1841 at Newcastle. A great fight arose over the award, and over twenty people were badly hurt. Beeswing produced Nunykirk, who won the 2,000 guineas of 1849; and Newminster, the St. Leger winner of 1851.

Charles XII. won the St. Leger of 1839 after a dead heat with Euclid, who also ran a dead heat with Æther who was taken to Australia where he got Obiorform, who figures in some of our trotting pedigrees. Charles XII. raced till he was nine years old and won two Goodwood Cups, one Doncaster Cup (besides being three times placed for the same event and many other good races. He started 49 times in all.

Leamington, Pageant and Dalby each won the Chester Cup twice. Harkaway and Canezon each won two Goodwood Cups and Friday won it once. Orelia won the Goodwood Stakes twice. Honest John won the Cumberland Plate twice. Underhand won the Northumberland Plate three times and was placed in a fourth trial for it. St. Bennett won it twice as did also Caller Ou. She was a great mare and not only won the St. Leger, but also won forty-four out of eighty six starts.

Isonomy was the only horse beside Fisherman to win the Ascot Cup twice. Isonomy could not win at two years old, and did not win at three till very late in the fall, when he carried off the rich Cambridgeshire Stakes in a field of thirty-eight, the largest field on record in that race. He gave the American horse Parole two years and eight pounds in the City and Suburban at Epsom and was beaten a neck. At four years old he was the greatest horse in England, beating Silvio (Derby winner of the previous year) for the Queen's Vase and Insulaire and Touchet in the Gold Cup. That year he was beaten but twice, winning the Ebor Handicap at York 134 pounds and the Manchester Cup with 133, giving thirty-nine pounds to Tbe Abbot, who ran second. He is the only horse that ever got two triple winners—Derby, 2,000 guineas and St. Leger.

Verneuil, by Mortemer—Regalia, by Stockwell, is the only horse that ever won the Ascot Cup, Queen's Vase and Alexandria Plate, all three in one week. He carried 122 pounds in each of the first two races, being four years old, and 126 pounds in the last named. St. Christophe was his stable companion in most of his races. He was a better three-year-old than Verneuil, having won the Grand Prix de Paris.

Ormonde started sixteen times and never was beaten. His total winnings in stakes and plates reached £28,465 or something in excess of $140,000.

Abbesse de Jouarre won the Oaks of 1839. She was by Trappist, a son of Hermit. She ran in twenty-four races winning nine times.

One of the most remarkable mares in the world's history was the Hungarian mare Kinsem owned by Mr. Blascovitz. She started fifty-four times and was never beaten, enumerating the Goodwood Cup of 1878 among her many victories. I have no idea that she ever met such company as Ormonde defeated, especially Minting and The Bard.

Tristan was one of the greatest campaigners the world ever saw. He started fifty-one times and won twenty-nine, winning the rich Hardwick Stakes at Ascot three times. Iroquois and Foxball both beat him at three years old; and at five years he could give either of them ten pounds and the worst kind of a beating.

In Australia the Grand Flaneur started nine times and was never beaten. He was not trained at two years and broke down at three. He was beyond all doubt the best three-year-old foaled south of the Equator. He was by Yattendon, out of an English mare by St. Albans, tracing back into the same line of mares as Touchstone, Satirist, Leamington, Panic and Reform. Tasman, the great New Zealand campaigner, won thirty-one times out of fifty-one.

Chester won 19 races in 41 starts and was only three times unplaced. He conceded 16 lbs. to Savanana for the Sydney Cup and was beaten a head. Chester was also by Yattendon and won $44,400, but it must be remembered that the Melbourne Cups won by Carbine, Malvolio and Glenloth, were worth nearly three times as much as the one that Chester carried off.

Chester's son, Abercorn, started 29 times and won 21 races, including the A. J. C. Derby, both St. Legers, Champion Stakes, Great Metropolitan, Cantehkry Plate and A. T. C. Plate. In the latter race he carried 126 lbs. at four years old and covered three miles in 5:26½.

Malua was the only horse in that country to win the Melbourne Cup, Adelaide Cup and Australian Cup, all in one season. He carried 126 lbs. in each of the latter two races and 135 in the former.

But Carbine was the greatest campaigner foaled south of the Equator. He was not trained at two years old but ran in 34 races, of which he won 25, including one Melbourne and two Sydney Cups. He and Abercorn met six times, each winning three races.

Guiccioli, dam of Birdcatcher, won 13 out of 28 races, so that the excellence of her sons is no great wonder. Pinnula started 65 times, but only won nine. Lily Agnes, dam of the great Ormonde, started 32 times and won 21 times, including the Doncaster Cup. Eleanor, one of the only two mares that ever won both the Derby and the Oaks, won 28 out of 49 races. She was out of Young Giantess, the dam of Sorcerer. Manganese won 15 out of 36, including the One Thousand Guineas. She was the second dam of Apology and Mandrake. Eastern Princess, dam of Thuringian Prince and Prince Charlie, won 17 races out of 42. Fleur-de-Lis (best known to Americans as the dam of imp. Sovereign) won the Ascot and Doncaster Cups and won the Goodwood Cup twice. She won 22 out of 31 races.

The actual number of these races would not count for so much if it were not for their great length. Lanercost never won at less than two miles, while Beeswing, Caller Ou and Rataplan never won at less than a mile and a quarter. It is no wonder that Caller Ou never produced anything great, as she was literally raced to death.

One of the most remarkable horses I ever knew was the Australian horse Cyclops, who never won a race, but was 23 times second and eight times third in 41 races. He made a dead heat (134 pounds) with Mentor (four years, 126) in the Canterbury Plate, two and a half miles, in 4:28½, just a second slower than Aristides' performance at Louisville in 1875 with 104 pounds up.

Do you want campaigners like these? If so, do not train your two-year-olds till autumn and then do not run them in more than three or four races.

HIDALGO.

Once More the Horse.

As the flavor of Autumn begins to be tasted in the air, and the attraction of salt water and marine sports loses some of its intensity, the horse begins to assert himself once more, and to demonstrate the indispensable quality of his bold on civilization. The hunt clubs have either already begun to hunt or are thinking seriously of it, and hunter men are exercising their quadrupeds or buying new ones. Proprietors of candidates for honors at county fairs are getting their beasts into condition, and one hears the first whippers of that flow of Autumnal horse talk which swells into a torrent just before the November Horse Show. It is excusable at this season to recall, with such moderate decision as charity permits, the recent tendency of some short-sighted contemporaries to flout the horse as a quadruped once tolerated in considerable numbers because of his usefulness, but now in great measure suspended by such bandy contrivances as the bicycle and the trolley car. A conservative journal ventured to speak not long ago of the horse as an animal that has been found out, dwelling upon his "extraordinary imperfections as a machine," and asserting that, "what with his diseases and tenderness and temper and stupidity, he has been singularly ineffective as a mode of motion." It is true that the use of electricity and the invention of pneumatic tires have released the horse from certain forms of ignoble servitude to which he has been long in bondage. It is also true that the immense rage for bicycling has diverted the energies of some fit, and very many unfit, former patrons of the horse to that means of locomotion. It is true that common horses are being ground up for fertilizers in the Northwest, that the livery-stable business has been slack, and that inferior, tricky and vicious horses are so cheap that they are more apt than formerly to fall into hands unfit to deal with them. But it is a great mistake to suppose that the day of the horse is past. The truth is that it has just come. The doctrine of the survival of the fittest has a chance to work now in horseflesh such as it never had before. The best horses are worth as much as ever; fair horses bring fair prices; poor horses are not worth their keep. There is consequently a stronger motive than ever for raising good horses, and for not raising any other sort. The bicycle has been a craze this year. Its use will continue, for it is a most convenient machine, and a great boon to persons who can afford nothing better; but as an appliance of luxury is not to be compared with horse. It is not beautiful nor interesting. It cannot travel on a bad road; it is unhandy for use at night, except on smooth, well-lighted streets; it is liable to puncture and a great number of other ailments, most of which overtake it at a considerable distance from home; it can carry no considerable load except its rider; it requires constant attention to keep it right side up, and constant exertion to keep it moving. Finally, it is bad for trousers and destructive to skirts, and cannot be ridden with satisfaction by man or woman except in a costume devised for the purpose. The idea that it will supersede the horse as an appurtenance to sport or the carriage as an appliance of luxury is perverse and absurd. It will do the horse nothing but good. It will improve the roads for him, and, in conjunction with the trolley-car, will release him from some loathsome forms of drudgery and from much misuse. It is the best friend the horse ever had; for, beyond any machine yet invented, it tends to keep him out of unfit hands and reserves him for the delight and service of persons able to appreciate him and qualified to make him useful and happy.—Harpers' Weekly.

C. J. BLAKE's black filly, Rock Dove, won the Czarwich stakes at Newmarket yesterday; Bard of Avon second, Count Shomberg third. The distance was two miles, two furlongs and thirty five yards. The betting was 10 to 1 against Rock Dove, 20 to 1 against Bard of Avon, 25 to 1 against Count Shomberg. Twenty-four horses ran. At the start Banquet settled down from Vic and Indian Queen, leading to the two-year-old post, where Count Shomberg drew to the front, followed by Merry Wise, but gave up the lead in the dip to Bard of Avon, who swerved and lost the lead. Rock Dove won by half a length and a length and a half separated the second and third horses. The Prince of Wales' Florizell was fourth and Aborigine was last. Mr. Charles Day Rose's Saint Hiiare and Mrs. Langtry's Bride of the Sea were unplaced.

Redington Wins His First Start Here—Del Norte Vanquishes Claudius—Bell Ringer Shows Great Form and Wins With Heavy Weight—Benham and Santa Bella Have a Hot Race—The Events.

SEVENTEENTH DAY—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10.

BRIGHT sunshine and broad smiles was the order of things at Bay District track to-day. The sunshine was of that genial nature so common to our fall months, and which is experienced nowhere else but in the Golden State. It was so genial, in fact, that shady nooks had a grateful coolness about them. The broad smiles were accompanied by such looks of self-complacency as plainly said "I told you so." The talented gentlemen picked four of the five winners, and as only one started in the books at odds on, the reminiscences of each race were very pleasing to relate.

Jefferson was the odds-on favorite for the first race, but at post time Bravura was on equal terms with him. This confidence in Bravura was justified by the subsequent events, as Jefferson was given a drive to beat the Wildidle filly a head. Gold Dust finished a strong third.

Major Cook was a hot favorite in the second race, and his price was cut from 7 to 3 to 5 by the flood of money that poured in on him. Clacquer and Three Forks were about on even terms as second choices. Major Cook won easily, with Three Forks an easy second, before Clacquer.

Redington, the Burns & Waterhouse gelding, by Emperor of Norfolk, out of Angelique, by imp. Darebin or Warwick, was an even-money favorite at the opening for the two-year-old dash of five furlongs, and closed a slight first choice over Claude Hill. Macklin hustled Claude along in the lead to the stretch, where Redington caught him and won handily by a length. Redington started twice at Saratoga, finishing fifth in the Flash Stakes, half a mile, won by Onareto, Axiom second, in 0:48½. The next start was in a sweepstakes at five furlongs, which he won easily by a length and a half from Lcoram and Barrytone II. in 1:04, on a slow track.

Silver was the only favorite to meet defeat, and was an even-money first choice at post time over the Experiment gelding and Monita. The latter ran a very much improved race over his last performance and won easily. He showed in front early in the game and was never headed, winning with great ease by two lengths and a half from the Experiment gelding.

Ransom was the fourth favorite to carry the colors of the talent into camp, and won handily in the last furlong. Tim Murphy was an experiment in this race, at a mile, and showed his usual sprinting powers up to the last eighth where he blew up and finished in the ruck.

The riding honors were divided between Eddie Jones, McIntyre, Donahue, Macklin and Chevalier.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was at five and a half furlongs, selling, with six starters. Jefferson opened favorite at 3 to 5, but at post time was on even terms with Bravura, at 3 to 2, the latter having been backed down from 8 to 5. Irma was at 5, Gold Dust 10, Huguenot 50, and Triumph 100 to 1. Jefferson showed in front to a good start, Irma and Bravura very close up. Jefferson held his lead into the stretch by two lengths, with Irma second, half a length in front of Bravura. Bravura gave Jefferson a drive down the stretch, and was beaten out only a head, Bravura a head in front of Gold Dust. Irma tired and finished last. Time, 1:09.

Major Cook was a very hot favorite in the second race, at five furlongs, opening at 7 to 5 and closing at 3 to 5. Clacquer was a slight second choice over Three Forks at 7 to 2, the latter at four. Kathleen was at 10 and Miss Garvin 50 to 1. Clacquer, Kathleen, Three Forks was the order to a good start, but Kathleen was a head to the good at the half-pole, extending her lead to a half length at the three-quarter, and two into the stretch, with Clacquer a good second. Major Cook then came up from fourth position and caught the leaders and won easily by two lengths. Three Forks was second by three lengths from Clacquer. Kathleen went back rapidly and finished last. Time, 1:00½.

The third race was at five furlongs, for two-year-olds. Redington, a new starter here, opened an even-money first choice, and closed slightly in favor over Claude Hill at 7 to 5, the latter at 8 to 5. Fireman was at 8, Billy McCloskey 10, Isabelle 15, Encino, Clara Johnson and Phyllis from 40 to 100 to 1. Claude Hill was rushed out in front after a good start and controlled the lead into the stretch, where Redington caught him and won handily by a length, Claude Hill, second, two lengths in front of Billy McCloskey. Shaw had brought McCloskey up from among the tail enders, and beat Isabelle for the show. Time, 1:01½.

The fourth event was a mile selling race, with Silver at 6 to 5 for first choice (closing at even money), Experiment gelding 3, Monita 4, Nervoso and Sinbad 12, and Jim Corbett 30 to 1. Monita led all the way and won easily by two lengths and a half, with Experiment gelding in the argument all the time. Nervoso moved up into third place at the head of the stretch, and gave Experiment gelding a drive for place, but was beaten by half a length. Silver, the favorite, was in fourth position at the first quarter, and fell back last, but crossed under the wire fourth, six lengths behind the winner. Time, 1:43½.

The last race was at a mile, selling, with six starters. Ransom was first choice at 2 to 1, imp. Ivy was at 7 to 2, Duchess of Milpitas and Tim Murphy 4, Ike L. 7 and Arctic 30 to 1. To a good start Ivy led to the backstretch, where the roan gelding of sprinting fame headed her and set a hot pace to the last eighth. Here Tim gave up the game, and Ransom passed Ivy and won handily by two lengths. Ivy had enough left to beat Duchess of Milpitas a head for the place. Time, 1:41½.

EIGHTEENTH DAY—FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11TH.

Favorites ran consistently to-day. They finished second with the greatest regularity, while neglected long-shots took the purses. Little Flush filly was a hot favorite for the first race, with Decision a strong second choice. Franco, a new starter, had short odds quoted against him at the opening, but they lengthened out before post time. Free Will was all the way from 20 to 12 to 1. When the flag fell Free Will set the pace, and was never headed. The favorite was never dangerously close. Decision ran close up the full journey, but was beaten out for place a length by Little Flush filly. This was Free Will's second start here, and she showed improved form. The winner is a bay filly by Brown Fox out of Trade Wind.

Leonville, a high class horse, was an unknown quantity in the second race, as he has not started here since last February. He was well-liked, however, and went to the post favorite. The winner turned up in Navy Blue, with post odds 30 to 1. He got away absolutely last and swung into the stretch fourth in line. Leonville looked a winner almost to the wire, but Riley made a splendid ride and landed Navy Blue first by a head. Chevalier was clearly outridden by Riley in this event, and there is no doubt the mount had effected the odds against Navy Blue.

Treachery won easily from Rose Clark, the strong favorite for the third race. Treachery was at the long odds of 8 to 1, notwithstanding her recent good performances. Macklin, who is riding in very much better form than he has shown heretofore, brought Treachery through on the rail, although he took desperate chances in doing so. Having accomplished his purpose, the race was all over, as Macklin won looking back.

Tamalpais was plunged on heavily in the fourth race, and did not disabuse the confidence placed to him. He won handily, with Auteuil and Rogation, two long shots, second and third. Yreka and Conchita were both liked, the former closing on even terms with Tamalpais at twos, and the latter at threes.

Oakley was a new starter here, and he proved his high class in an impressive manner. He made a great run, trailing last at the quarter pole and beating Warrago, who had been well in front most all the journey, at the drawgate finishing a head in front. Little Bob, who was played heavily was no better than third.

Burlingame, Riley, Macklin, Chevalier and W. Flynn were the winning jockeys.

The weather was fair until 3 o'clock, when a heavy fog blew in and after that the air was raw and cold.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was for maiden two-year-olds, at five furlongs. Little Flush filly was first choice at 1 to 2 (opening at 6 to 5), Decision at 8, Valiente 10, Free Will and Franco 15, Von Dunk 30, and Jonglense filly 60. There was considerable delay at the start, but the final send off was a good one. Free Will showed in front, the favorite, Decision and Jonglense filly in close touch. At the half Free Will led Decision by half a length, and Decision had drawn away from the favorite two lengths. Free Will made the turn only a neck in front of Decision, and Little Flush filly had closed up half a length. As the field straightened out into the stretch there was a general closing up. Franco had made a little spurt on the turn and bettered his position very much. Little Flush filly passed Decision in the last sixteenth and looked dangerous, but Free Will came on when asked to and won by three lengths, one length between Little Flush filly and Decision, second and third as named. Time, 1:02½.

The second race was at six furlongs, selling, with seven starters. Leonville, who has not been seen for some time, was favorite at 4 to 5, and his chances of winning were thought to be so rosy that he was held out in some books. There was a big play on Elmer F., who went to the post looking very fit. He was at 4½ to 1, Swiftsure 6, Little Flush Colt 8, Vernon and Navy Blue 20 (the latter opening at 30 and Addie M. 25). A good start was quickly effected, with Elmer F. first to catch the caller's eye, Addie M., Little Flush Colt, Swiftsure the order. Addie M. took the lead and passed the half a length before Elmer F., who was half a length in front of Little Flush Colt, Leonville fourth. Addie M. looked to be beaten at the turn, but she held on her way and made the three-quarter pole half a length in front of Leonville, the latter a head in front of Elmer F., Navy Blue next in order. The race was not much changed down the stretch until near the wire, except that Addie M. dropped out of the hunt. Riley put up a splendid ride on Navy Blue and beat Leonville out a head in a hard drive, Elmer F. two lengths and a half away. Time, 1:14½.

The third race had six starters, at about six furlongs, selling, with Rose Clark a red-hot favorite, opening at even money and closing at 9 to 10. A strong play was made on Gold Bug. He opened at 2 to 1, went to 3, then back to 2. Treachery went from 5 to 8 to 1. Olivia was at 8, Miss Pollard 40, and Rhaetia 100 to 1. The start was an excellent one at almost the first break, with Rose Clark, Olivia, Miss Pollard, Treachery, Gold Bug and Rhaetia the order. Miss Pollard secured the lead in the first quarter, leading Rose Clark a length, Gold Bug third. Pollard led into the stretch by a good length, Treachery had moved up into second position, with Rose Clark now third, Gold Bug fourth. Olivia and Rhaetia were never in the race. Treachery, Gold Bug and Rose Clark all looked like probable winners, coming down the stretch. Macklin took a big chance, brought Treachery through on the rail and won, looking back, by two lengths. Rose Clark overhauled Miss Pollard, and was second by two lengths, but the Pollard lasted long enough to get third place, Gold Bug a close-up fourth. Time, 1:12½.

The fourth race was run in a heavy, drifting fog. The distance was six furlongs, selling. Yreka was made favorite at the opening at 2 to 1 and closed at 4 to 5. Tamalpais was played from 6 to 2 to 1, Conchita was at 2½, Auteuil and Rogation 8, Snow Blossom 30 and Solitario 50 to 1. The start could be seen but indistinctly, and the field disappeared into the fog on the backstretch. Tamalpais led all the way from the turn and won easily by three lengths, Auteuil getting the place by a head in a drive from Rogation. Time, 1:16.

The last race was at one mile, selling, with five starters, of which Oakley was the first choice at 5 to 2 at the opening, closing at 7 to 5. Warrago and Little Bob were on even terms most of the time at threes, closing at that price. Fred Gardner closed at 10 and Miss Buckley at 25 to 1. Mr. Ferguson sent them away in good order after two or three breaks, and Little Bob was out in front before the first quarter was run. Then Miss Buckley assumed command for a very brief time, giving place to Warrago at the upper turn. Warrago led into the stretch by a length and a half, and held her field off till the drawgate was reached, where Oakley, who had made the turn second, caught her and won after a drive by three parts of a length. Little Bob had held third place from the three-quarter pole, and finished in that order five lengths behind Warrago. The time, 1:41½, was fair for the condition of the weather.

NINETEENTH DAY—SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12.

There was no lack of interesting events at Bay District track to-day. The card had a "good" look, and so it proved to be. The California record of 2:46½, for one mile and a half hurdle race, over six hurdles, had three quarters of a second knocked off it. Bell Ringer, F. M. Taylor's good jumper, running the distance, well within himself, in 2:45½. The black Troubadour gelding carried 150 pounds, and came on when asked to and won with such ease as to make his performance a remarkably good one. Auteuil, who had finished second to Bell Ringer in their last race, was thought to be a sure winner to-day. On that occasion Bell Ringer carried 145 pounds, Auteuil 128. To-day they carried 150 and 124 pounds respectively. As Auteuil had finished only a length behind the winner in their last previous race the impost of nine pounds was thought to be sufficient to make Auteuil a winner. Reasoning from this stand point, Auteuil was a strong first choice of the talent. He ran a good race, but there was not enough weight on Bell Ringer to stop him.

The mile and a sixteenth handicap, with Claudius (106), McLight (106) and Del Norte (103), naturally excited unusual interest after the great race that they ran on Wednesday. McLight had six pounds on over the previous event, Claudius one on, and Del Norte three off. Arnette, with 98 pounds up, was a new element. She had heat Ferrier and Installator at Sacramento, in the Capital City Stakes, a handicap at the same distance as to-day's event. She carried 96 pounds and lowered the Coast record to 1:46½. Notwithstanding this performance, however, she was at the longest odds, with Claudius and Del Norte first in favor as named. Arnette set the pace and led to the drawgate, where Del Norte who had been last most of the way, assumed the lead and was an easy winner in 1:47½. Claudius was last into the stretch, as usual, and made a splendid run to the wire, but hardly up to his last previous performance. He beat Arnette half a length for the place. Del Norte ran a great race, and from the five-eighths pole began to move up from last position. Claudius was first overhauled, after the half-pole was passed, then McLight was caught after the turn for home was made, Arnette being vanquished, as stated above, at the drawgate. Mr. Storn was naturally very much pleased over his horse's victory, and Willie Flynn should be credited with a masterly ride.

The third number on the programme was a handicap at six furlongs, for two-year-olds. Benham (100), Sam Leake (110) and imp. Santa Bella (112) were the starters. Grady being an absentee. Santa Bella had not started for some weeks, and her condition was not generally known. Benham and Sam Leake were known to be up to a hard race. Sam Leake was the favorite, with the filly a slight second choice over Benham. It is stated Mr. Macdonough did not understand the long odds against his entry, and at his request President Williams cautioned the jockeys, whereupon Mr. Macdonough forced the odds against Santa Bella from 2 to 1 down to 8 to 5, but at post time she was at 2 to 1 again. Benham and Santa Bella appeared to be the only ones in the race from the start, and they hung on to each other the full journey. Benham was out in front for awhile, then Santa Bella took command and led to the last eighth, where Benham caught her and gained almost a half length advantage. Then the game filly came on again and the finish was as near a dead heat and not be one as could be imagined. Benham showed about half a head in front at the wire, on an alternating stride. Sam Leake finished a poor third, and had trailed lengths away the full course. The race was a dead game one from flag-fall to finish.

Bravura, the favorite, won the first race, ridden out, by two lengths from Miss Fletcher, who had come from the rear third into the stretch. Ames, her rider, did well enough until within the last fifty yards, where he made the very serious blunder of falling in behind Bravura, when he had plenty of room to have taken his mount on either side, with a very good chance of winning the money. It was about the most stupid act imaginable. Miss Fletcher got the place from Bob Tucker, the slight second choice over herself and Beatrice, in a driving finish, by three lengths.

The second race had such old and consistent performers as Rico and Road Runner entered against Rey Alta (3), and Perhaps and Miss Brummel, two year olds. Road Runner carried the top weight of 111 pounds, which was thought to be too much of a handicap against him. Miss Brummel was a hot favorite, with Rey Alta next in favor, Rico and Road Runner on even terms, at the long odds of fours. The two latter were played heavily for the place. Miss Brummel simply won as she liked, and the race was between Road Runner and Rico for the place, which the former secured by a half length, after a hard drive. These two old stagers are hot finishers, and it requires speed early in the game to get beyond their reach.

Of the winning jockeys, Chevalier landed two, Eddie Jones, Willie Flynn and Spence one each.

The weather was fair, with a slight tendency to fog. The track was fast. The attendance was hardly up to a Saturday crowd.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race on the card was at five and one-half furlongs, selling, nine starters. The closing odds were: Bravura 2 (opened at 7 to 5), Boh Tucker 4, Miss Fletcher and Beatrice 5, Silver Lip 8, Mosby 20, Dick O'Malley and Dr. Gardner 30, and Jim Corbett 40 to 1. Bob Tucker and Beatrice were both played down from opening odds of 5 and 8 to 1 respectively. Beatrice was first to show, after a good start, but Eddie Jones likes to be out in front, so he hustled Bravura along, but could not catch the flying Beatrice before the stretch was reached. There the latter quit and died away. Ames brought Miss Fletcher up from well to the rear of the bunch and came into the stretch third. She was fast driving Bravura out when he let his mount fall in behind the leader, killing every chance he had to win. Bravura won, ridden out by one length, Miss Fletcher second, driving, three lengths in front of Boh Tucker. Time, 1:09½.

Miss Brummel was again pitted against aged horses in the second event, at five and one-half furlongs, selling. She had won the last two previous races in such an impressive manner as to install her favorite at 7 to 5 over Rey Alta at 5 to 2, Road Runner and Rico 4 each and Perhaps 10 to 1. Road Runner and Rico were very well liked for the place. The field got away to a very good send-off, with Miss Brummel out in front from the first jump, and she was never headed. Perhaps and Rey Alta were the nearest in touch until the stretch was reached, where they died away, and then Rico and Road Runner had a horse race all to themselves for the place. Road Runner gave the aged horse eight pounds the best of the weights, but ran a true, game race and finished in front of Rico by a half-length. Miss Brummel won handsily by two lengths. Time, 1:07.

Benham (100), Sam Leake (110), and imp. Santa Bella (112), were the starters in the third race, a six furlong handicap. Grady had been scratched. Sam Leake opened an even-money favorite, with Santa Bella at 2 and Benham 3 to 1. Leake closed at 7 to 5, while Santa Bella, under the influence of heavy commissions from Mr. Macdonough, was hammered down to 8 to 5, but closed at post time at two again. Benham's odds had been shortened to 5 to 2. A splendid start was made, with Benham first in front, quickly succeeded, however, by Santa Bella, who led at the half by a length and a half, Sam Leake last by three lengths. On the turn Santa Bella opened up a clear gap of three lengths, and Benham was as far in front of Sam Leake. Coming into the stretch Benham closed up on the leader about a length, but Leake could not improve his position any. In the last eighth Benham caught the filly and was forging past her. Game to the core, she came again, and at almost a dead heat the two horses crossed the line. Benham showed a slight half head in front, but on the next stride the filly's nose was in advance. It was a thrilling finish to a game race. The good time of 1:13½ was hung out.

The greatest interest of the day centered in the mile and a sixteenth handicap, with Claudius, McLight, Del Norte (a record equaller) and Arnette (a record breaker) the horses entered. After the exciting race of Wednesday last, in which the first three horses named finished heads apart, a hot contest was looked for. Del Norte was favorite all the time at 5 to 2, Claudius opened at 8 to 5 and closed at 6 to 5, McLight won from 2 to 4 to 1 and Arnette from 4 to 6 to 1. Another good start was effected, with Arnette out in front and setting a hot pace as they passed the stand, McLight three lengths away, a head in front of Claudius, Del Norte two lengths further off. At the five-eighths Del Norte began to move up, caught Claudius after the half pole was passed, passed McLight in the stretch, went on after Arnette and caught her at the drawgate and won handsily by one length. Claudius had made one of his famous runs through the stretch, and also passed Arnette, getting the place by half a length. Time, 1:47½.

The fifth and last race was a handicap hurdle, at one mile and a half, with four starters. Auteuil was thought to be an easy winner, and went to the post an even-money favorite, Bell Ringer 3, Gold Dust 3½ and Esperance 12 to 1. The start was an ideal one. The four horses were lined up about a hundred yards from the starter's flag, and were sent on a slow canter forward, increasing their speed as the flag was neared. As they passed Mr. Ferguson they were on a run, on perfectly even terms. Swish went the flag, and the first hurdle was cleared as though by one horse. Gold Dust, Auteuil, Bell Ringer, Esperance was the order as soon as the flat was struck, and there was no change in this order until the last jump was made, which Bell Ringer landed first. From there on to the wire he was an easy winner by three lengths, with Auteuil second by two lengths from Gold Dust. Time, 2:45½, lowering the Coast record three-fourths of a second.

TWENTIETH DAY—MONDAY, OCTOBER 14.

Of the five races carded to-day, at least four of them had a hard look. "Cinches" were not at all apparent. With three or four of the best horses in a field that have taken turns at beating each other, under very similar conditions it, is a hard matter to tell which one is going to be the top-notch on any special occasion. The talent was on its metal to-day, however, and named four favorites that finished in the right place, and the fifth winner was a short-ender too.

The fields were much larger than the average, to-day, but good starts and reasonably quick send-offs were the regular order. The attendance was light, but fully up to a Monday crowd, and some of the events proved to be good betting affairs. In the races themselves there was nothing of unusual interest, although they were all run in fast time and one close finish was made. The weather was fair and mild the early part of the afternoon, but later a thin fog came in from the ocean, and the air was raw and cold.

In the first race Claude Hill was the favored one, with Matt Storn's swift little filly Easel next in public esteem. Lady Leinster filly, Margaret M., Free Will and Encino all having shown about the same class, were at odds varying from 9 to 25 to 1, the latter at the longest price. Claude Hill and Encino did not find the pace too hot that Easel set for them, and they kept within striking distance of her into the stretch, where she had to give up the game. The two named passed her, Claude Hill winning easily by four lengths, and Encino, making a drive, got the place from Easel by a head. The fast time of 0:55½ was hung up.

Elmer F. was played into first choice in the second race, with Miss Fletcher a second choice. With the exception of Vernon, who had made a fair showing recently the odds were very long against the others. Miss Fletcher made the running from the start, with Elmer F. in a good place entering the stretch. Miss Fletcher was forced to yield in the last eighth, and Elmer F. won by a neck, while Leonatus came up from the rear and had a hot argument with Miss Fletcher for the place, which he just missed a short head. Leonatus was at 30 to 1 straight, and 12 to 1 place. He finished only half a length behind the money, and a big killing. Vernon made a very poor showing, and Leonatus ran a good race.

The third race, for mares and fillies, was a hard one to guess, and the odds switched around considerably. Warrago Model, Duchess of Milpitas and Lady Jane were the short-enders. All the characteristics of the fleet mares and fillies were debated, and possibilities of quick starts, hot paces, slow races, and bruising finishes were carefully weighed in the balance, with the result that the four were best "liked" in the order named. Lady Jane showed herself apt at getting into action quickly, and set a merry old clip from the flag to the last sixteenth, where Model caught her and drove her out, landing the money by a head. Mary S., one of the long-shots, beat Warrago for third place.

A well-balanced field of five met in the mile race. Arnette, Oakley, Detective, Remus and Malo Diahlo, favored in the order named, have all shown first class performances, although Arnette and Oakley were believed to outclass the others. So the result proved, and Arnette was shown to be higher class than any of the others. Although repeatedly cut off and headed so as to be thrown off her stride, she came again and again, and finished strong by a length, while Oakley, second, led his field by fully five lengths. The mile was run in 1:40½.

Tim Murphy was tried at his old game again, in the last race, and showed his host of admirers that he had not lost any of his cunning while out seeking strange gods. However, the old roan gelding's head seemed to have been turned slightly by the strange performance of going a full mile, and to-day he wanted to stop at every post, as though he was reconciled to any task set for him. He used to skip along gaily with his clear eyes set on the five-eighths mark, but to-day he seemed prepared for any innovation, willing to start from anywhere and try to go any distance. When he was set aright and started, going though, he displayed all his old-time five-furlong speed and ran away from Major Cook, who had been played quite heavily. Cook never got nearer than two lengths of old Tim, which was lengthened to three at the finish. Venus was half a length behind Cook. Time, 1:00½.

The winning jockeys to-day were Macklin, Sloan, Flynn, Chevalier and Jones.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race had eight two-year-olds, entered for a four and one-half furlong dash. Claude Hill was installed favorite, closing at 6 to 5, Easel 9 to 5, Lady Leinster filly 9, Margaret M. 15, Free Will 20, May Jones and Phyllis each at 100 to 1. They were sent away to a good start, with Easel in front with a rush, Encino, Claude Hill and Lady Leinster filly next in order. There was not any change in these positions till well down the stretch, when Claude Hill passed Easel, who was dying away, and won easily by four lengths. Encino drove Easel out and got second place by a head, Easel third. Time, 0:55½.

The second race was at six furlongs, selling, with nine starters. Elmer F. was at 6 to 5, Vernon 2, Miss Fletcher 4, Swiftsure 10, Rogation 15, Leonatus 30, Cadeau, Solitario and Fin Slaughter from 60 to 150 to 1. They were soon off to a good start, with Miss Fletcher first to show, Swiftsure and Elmer F. in close company. Miss Fletcher led into the stretch, and hung to the rail. Elmer F. was a head in front of Swiftsure, Vernon lying away seventh. In the last furlong Elmer F. began to crawl up, and under a hard drive won by a neck from Miss Fletcher. Leonatus, who had made a great run from well to the rear, was only beaten a head by Miss Fletcher and finished a strong third. Vernon finished sixth. He made a show of speed at the last eighth pole, and looked dangerous for an instant. Time, 1:15½.

The third race was at seven furlongs, selling, for mares and fillies. It proved to be a good betting race, and a hard one to pick a winner from. Warrago was at the shortest odds, closing at 8 to 5, Model 3½, Duchess of Milpitas 4½, Lady Jane 6, Mamie Scott and Raindrop 15, Mary S. 20, and Josephine 75 to 1. There was not much in sight after the start but Lady Jane, and she seemed able to win as she pleased. Warrago laid away second by two lengths till the half pole was passed, then Model came up second and Warrago fell back to fourth. Lady Jane made the turn a head to the good, Model two lengths in front of Mary S., she a head in front of Warrago. Model had to drive to get her head in front at the finish, while Lady Jane finished three lengths in front of Mary S. for the place. Time, 1:27½.

The fourth race, at one mile, with five high-class horses entered, was a good one to leave alone, and speculation in the books on the result was not very heavy. Arnette was installed favorite at 6 to 5, and closed at 7 to 5. Oakley was at 2, Detective and Remus 7, Malo Diahlo 15 to 1. Detective and Remus fought for the lead from the quarter pole to the stretch, with Arnette lying third and running easy. Oakley was fourth, and fighting for his head. Three times Arnette was cut off and thrown off her stride, but every time she came at them again. The pace was a hot one. Remus had headed Detective on the far turn, and held him off, though Detective hung on like a hull pup to a root. Oakley forced his way through on the turn to the stretch, and ran well out to the center of the track. Arnette had taken the lead from Remus at the last eighth, which she maintained with ease, while Oakley was coming on like a whirlwind, with a challenge for the purse. Arnette would not be headed, however, and won easily by one length, Oakley second, five lengths in front of Remus. Time, 1:40½, fast for such a raw day.

The last race was at five furlongs, selling, with Tim Murphy and Major Cook the conceded contestants. Tim was at even money all the time, while somebody's roll drove the odds on the Major down from 3 to 2 to 1. Toano and Venus were the other entries, at 5 and 15 to 1 respectively. To a fair start Murphy set the pace and made it a hurry-up game. He went right along about his business and the Major could not touch him. Tim finished three lengths to the good, Major Cook half a length in front of Venus, Toano ten lengths away. Toano's legs were sore, and Venus was dead tired and swerved all over the homestretch. Time, 1:00½.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY—TUESDAY, OCTOBER 15.

A light rain fell early in the forenoon and the prospects of a heavy track looked most certain. However, not enough rain fell to affect the track very much, and under the influence of a warm wind by afternoon it was in good condition. Good time was made in all the events. The weather was clear, and the atmosphere sweetened by the little shower.

The attendance was an average one, and betting on the various races was lively. Four favorites and a second choice won, so the air was somewhat frosty around the hookies.

The feature of the first race was the wooden ride McIntyre put upon Montallade, an entry of The Beach Stable, on which a strong tip was out. Little Flush filly won by a length ridden out, and Montallade would have robbed her of her victory if he had been given any chance. An automaton would have been of as much assistance as the jockey up.

Ricardo romped away from his field and won easily, with the even-money favorite Three Forks in second place.

The third race had some "hot stuff" in it, with Cardwell, Charley Boots, Monitor and Marjorie the short-enders. Cardwell, the favorite, won driving, after a hot race, the others in order as named above. Jockey Sloan, rider of Marjorie, claimed a foul against Charley Boots, which was not allowed. The latter came in cut down.

Fannie Louise, Nephew and Sir Richard were the only entries left in for a seven and a half furlong selling race. It was a good betting race, as well as a good one for mental speculation. Could Fannie Louise get away from them at the start, could Sir Richard go the distance and could Nephew eat them both up in the slow going, were the questions asked—and answered by the race. The mare did get away from them, Sir Richard could not go the distance, and Nephew "ate up" one of them in the stretch.

Onti Oro was kindly thought of for the hurdle race, because she had won a good race at Sacramento, but Bell Ringer was favorite despite his heavy impost of 160 pounds. Nellie G., a new jumper, was quietly tipped as a good thing. Bell Ringer left all of them when he got ready, and won huck-jumping as frisky as a colt. Onti Oro did not show. Nellie G. exhibited speed on the flat, but lost ground at the jumps.

Hinrichs, Fitzgerald, Flynn, Donahue and Spence rode the winners. Hinrichs also rode a second and a third.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was a five-eighths scramble for two-year-olds, selling. Little Flush filly closed favorite at 7 to 5, Decision 5 to 3, Franco 7, Montallade, Rhætia and imp. Endymion 12 (the former at one time 30 to 1), San Marcos 20, Harry O. 60, Mahel L. 80, Harriet F. 150 to 1. The field of ten was sent away well together, Decision first to show, and held the lead over Little Flush filly well into the stretch, where she began to exert herself and won, ridden out, by a length. Montallade had been fighting to get through from the turn, but McIntyre rode a very indifferent race. By a little display of horsemanship Montallade would have won by a long distance. The horse by his own efforts, unaided, was only half a length behind the money. Endymion was third, Decision fourth. Time, 1:03.

Maiden jockeys piloted the horses in the second race at five and one-half furlongs. Three Forks was the first choice, at even money at the close, Ricardo and Perhaps 3½, Navopolasser 10, Kathleen 12 and Harry Lewis 30 to 1. Kathleen undertook to set the pace, but Ricardo took the command from her on the turn and led into the stretch by a head. From there on he steadily increased his lead to two lengths at the wire, while Kathleen began to go back to her field. Three Forks was second easily by four lengths from Perhaps. Time, 1:08½.

The third race, at five furlongs, selling, had seven starters. Charley Boots was at 9 to 5, Cardwell 18 to 5, Monitor 4, Marjorie 4½, Marionette 9, Veva and City Girl 40 to 1. Charley Boots delayed the start some, but the send-off was a good one. Cardwell, City Girl and Marjorie was the order, with Cardwell and Boots in front at the half. The position was not changed into the stretch. Marjorie was third, and in an attempt to get through on the rail Sloan had his mount shut off. Marjorie cut Charley Boots down while they were in such close quarters. Cardwell won by a head, Charley Boots second by half a length, Monitor third by a head. Time, 1:02½. Jockey Sloan claimed a foul against Charley Boots but it was not allowed.

Capt. Rees and Arno declined the issue in the fourth race, a selling affair at seven and one-half furlongs, leaving Fannie Louise, Nephew and Sir Richard the starters. Fannie Louise opened at 3 to 5 and closed at 7 to 10; Sir Richard opened at 3½ and closed at 4 to 1; Nephew opened at 3½ and closed at 2½. Fannie Louise took the lead at the start and could not be headed. Sir Richard held second place by from two to three lengths the first half of the journey, then essayed to take the lead. Nephew and Sir Richard both closed up considerable daylight, and it looked as though they would catch the swift Fannie. On the turn Fannie showed she held the race well in hand, as she drew away steadily. Into the stretch they were three lengths apart, with Nephew last. In the last furlong Sir Richard made a grand spurt and looked to be a winner for a few strides, but Fannie shook him off. Then Nephew came up and Sir Richard made another go at him before he yielded. Fannie won by two lengths, Nephew a length in front of the game Sir Richard. Time, 1:35½.

The last race was a mile and a quarter handicap, over five hurdles. Bell Ringer was at even money, Gold Dust 3½, Onto Oro 4, Arctic and Nellie G. 10, and Guadalupe 12 to 1. A good start was quickly accomplished after the horses arrived at the post. Arctic took the lead before the stand was passed, with Gold Dust and Guadalupe next up. Bell Ringer laid away fourth until the fourth jump had been made on the back stretch, when he moved up like a cyclone and when the last jump was reached he was in place to clear it first. Then it was all over, with Bell Ringer first by three lengths, Gold Dust second by four lengths, Arctic third. Time, 2:21½.

TWENTY SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16.

Five favorites were lost in the shuffle to day, and a hard frost struck the talent of the betting ring. Joe Cotton headed the list of sure-things went wrong, then Portugal came in a broken-down nag, and next Fannie Louise struck her colors to Mainstay and Morven. The next race was one of those "cinch" affairs, where the favorite "can't be beat unless he falls dead." Rosebud and Arnette were conceded to be in it, and would finish one, two, sure! Remus was the despised outsider. The story of the race is an old one. The favorites went out and raced each other off their legs, and then the outsider, came on and took the money. There did not seem to be many Remus adherents before the race, but there must have been some, judging from the cheers that went up as Remus began to shake himself up, and make a run for the purse. Two days ago Arnette ran a winning race in 1:40½, and to-day she did not seem equal to win in 1:41½. But it is the uncertainty of the sport that makes it so entrancing.

After Johnny Payne had run the full course twice, the start was made without him, and Billy McCloskey, a 7-to-1'er, won easily, having time to run around his field after he had been cut off. From the way Johnny Payne "worked out" after the post-hell sounded, he might have given Billy a hot argument.

Portugal was the talent's selection for the second race, but he limped in a cripple, Tamalpais, an 8-to-1 shot getting the big end of the purse. Cherokee, quietly tipped for a "good thing," was at 20 to 1, and finished third.

Mainstay ran away from Fannie Louise in the five-furlong handicap, and Morven beat her out on the wire for the place. Fannie ran a good race, but they are coming too frequently for her to expect her to defeat fresh high-class horses.

Uncle Giles, in his performance in the last race to-day, clearly showed the advantage of a change of jockeys occasionally. McIntyre's over-confidence was able assistance to Giles also and he won a fair race. McIntyre, on Duchess of Milpitas, thought he had the race won at the last sixteenth pole and took time to chuckle, while Macklin took the money. Winning jockeys were Shaw, Chevalier, Jones, Donahue and Macklin.

The weather was pleasant and the attendance up to the average.

How the Races Were Run.

Six horses faced the starter for the first race, at five and a half furlongs, selling. Joe Cotton was favorite, closing at 13 to 5, Johnny Payne 3, Miss Pollard 3, Billy McCloskey 7, Rey Alta 10, and Moss Terry (at one time 40) 15 to 1. Johnny Payne acted very badly, delaying the start over half an hour, and ran the full course twice. Then the judges signaled to leave him. Billy McCloskey's odds shortened to 4 to 1, after Johnny Payne made his first run. Joe Cotton showed first at the start, with Moss Terry after him in hot style, Billy McCloskey third. At the half Moss Terry changed places with Joe Cotton. Nearing the three-quarter pole McCloskey tried to get through but was shut off, then Shaw took him around the field. He made the turn swung wide of the rail, and never faltered, but came on steadily and won easily by one length. Moss Terry, pinched on the rail, showed a head in front of Rey Alta for the place. Time, 1:10.

The big field of ten started in the second race, at five and a half furlongs, selling. Portugal closed at 9 to 5, Navy Blue and Normandie 4, Tamalpais 8 (opened at 7), Sooladain 10, Roh Roy 12, Gondola 15, Cherokee 20, Red Idle 50, Prince 200 to 1. A good and early start, with Cherokee, Sooladain, Prince in front, was the order. Gondola forged into the lead for a little while, then Tamalpais came up and was never headed, winning in a drive by half a length, Navy Blue second only a head in front of Cherokee, third. Portugal broke down, and limped to the wire. Time, 1:01.

The third race, at five furlongs handicap, had some rare good runs in. Fannie Louise, notwithstanding her race at seven and a half furlongs yesterday, and with 108 pounds up, was installed favorite at 7 to 10, and went to the post at 6½ to 10. Red Bird, in at 85 pounds, opened at 3½ and closed at four; Mainstay, with top-weight of 110, closed at 6 to 1; Realization (108) opened at 7 and closed at 5 to 1. Morven (90) was at the false odds of 15 to 20 to 1. Mainstay showed in front at flag fall and set a hot pace. Realization, Fannie Louise, Red Bird, Morven were next in order. Mainstay passed the half a length to the good, came into the stretch two lengths ahead and won as he pleased by three. Realization went back to last, and Morven came up with a rush when well into the stretch, and drove Fannie Louise out for the place, getting it by three parts of a length. Time, 1:00½.

Rose Bud (105) was installed favorite for the mile handicap, fourth on the programme, at 9 to 10 (closing at 9½ to 10) over Arnette (100) at 8 to 5 and Remus (103) at 6 to 1 all the time. No difficulty was experienced in getting a good send-off—a very good one, in fact—with Remus, Arnette, Rosebud the order past the stand. Rosebud got the rail at the first turn, and she and Arnette went out and raced for it all the way. Rosebud was half a length in front at the quarter, a neck at the half and half a length again at the head of the stretch. Remus was never nearer than a length to Arnette, while he turned for home two lengths in the rear. The chestnut fillies hung on to each other coming for the wire. Arnette did not seem equal to overcoming Rosebud's advantage, and the latter could not get away from her, and then Remus did the unexpected. Sloan had kept him running easy, and he was fresh in wind. When asked to make an effort. He responded to the call and came up like a cyclone, beating Rosebud out a length. Arnette was another length away. Time, 1:41½.

The last race was at a mile, selling, with a well-balanced field of six. Ransom was a hot favorite all the time, opening at even money and closing at 4 to 5. Uncle Giles, with Macklin up, was a well-liked second choice, with 3½ to 1 for closing price. Duchess of Milpitas was at 5, Olivia 9, Arno and Miss Garvin 20 to 1. They were sent away at the first break, Olivia first to show, and holding the lead to the turn into the homestretch, where the Duchess challenged and passed her. At the half the order was Duchess of Milpitas, Olivia, Ransom. The Duchess swung into the stretch two lengths ahead of everything else, Olivia a head in front of Arno, who had passed Ransom. Uncle Giles also made a move about that time and came along easily. At the last sixteenth the Duchess was fully two and a half lengths clear of her field. McIntyre thought he had the race in hand and gave his fellow jockeys the laugh, but Macklin was at work on Giles and brought him on with a rush and landed him a winner by a length, Duchess of Milpitas second, a head in front of Ransom. Time, 1:42.

HOOF-BEATS.

THE Macon, Ga., meeting has proved a failure.

APRIL, the timber topper, is at the Bay District again.

TREACHERY ran a true, game race Thursday, and Macklin put up an excellent ride.

JOE ROSE had another good day Thursday, taking all the Reddington money offered.

YO TAMBIEN won at Cincinnati Thursday one mile and seventy yards. Time, 1:45½.

JUBILEE, by imp. Kyrle Dalv, out of Joy, by Lever, won a mile race yesterday at Detroit. Time, 1:46.

DEERSLAYER, by imp. Midlothian, out of Doe won a mile race Wednesday at Morris Park. Time, 1:46.

WIGGINS, 2:19½, out of a mare by Stamboul, 2:07½, is the greatest racing two-year-old ever campaigned.

BOB CAMPBELL, who trained the Santa Anita horses five and six years ago, will be here with the Corrigan string.

THE PEER, by Joe Hooker, out of Clara L. won a steeple-chase three miles at Morris Park yesterday. Time, 6:08.

FALLEN WATER, "Lucky" Baldwin's fast Emperor of Norfolk colt, was recently shot, owing to injuries to his back.

NOW THAT the Little Flush filly has won another race, it is hoped her owners will give her a name. She is worthy of one.

LINVILLE won the three-quarter mile race at Santa Ana Tuesday, Mestesa second and La France third. Time, 1:16½.

ROCKDOVE, winner of the Caesarwitch, finished third to Missal and Schomberg in the Duke of York Stakes at Kempton Park, Eng., on Oct. 5th.

SCIMETAR, who ran third to Treachery and Reddington Thursday, is by imp. Eothen, sire of Requitall, the Futurity winner and best two-year old colt of 1895.

RICO will not start again for some time. In his last race he partly cast a plate and it was turned and drove into the hoof. Some difficulty was experienced in removing it.

WALTZER, by imp. Darehin, out of Sly Dance, came in second to Harry Reed, by Himyar, at Morris Park, New York, October 17th. The race was for six furlongs and the time, 1:14.

BARNEY SCHREIBER'S Don Carillo, by imp. Mariner, out of Sunlit, defeated that good game little campaigner Lottie Mills, and Linda, Thursday, in a mile and a sixteenth race at St. Louis. Time, 1:27½.

THURSDAY A. B. Spreckels purchased twenty-three acres of land adjoining the new race track at Ingleside. It is presumed it is for the use of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club. The price paid was $25,000.

P. A. FINNEGAN, formerly President of the Blood Horse Association, arrived in this city from Paris on Wednesday last. His trip seems to have agreed with him, and he will remain on this coast for some time.

TIME prophets estimate that Mamie Scott could have made the mile in less than 1:40 if she had been extended the full distance. She could easily have beaten her time a quarter of a second for the distance run if she had not been eased up.

CARACCAS, one of the Santa Anita string, won a two-mile race over eight hurdles at Morris Park yesterday. Kilkenny was second. Both are California bred, Caraccas being by Emperor of Norfolk, out of Clara D., and Kilkenny being by imp. Darehin—Katrine.

MONTALLADE, by Montana—Fusillade's Last, made a great showing in his maiden appearance Tuesday. He was quietly tipped as having shown well in workouts, and would have won his maiden race if his jockey had assisted him a little. He is a half brother to Fly.

At the first regular meeting of the new Board of Directors of the Coney Island Jockey Club, held October 9th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Lawrence Kip; vice-presidents, William K. Vanderhilt and John G. Heckscher; treasurer, S. H. Bedford; secretary, G. Fellows.

A CHICAGO dispatch of Tuesday says the report that Fred Taral is to ride next season for Burns & Waterhouse, the California racing firm, is erroneous. The "Little Dutchman" has signed a contract with Matt Byrnes, at the stipulated salary of $25,000 for the year, and will ride exclusively for him.

BELL RINGER is performing most consistently now, and weight does not affect him. He ran away from his field when asked to go yesterday, with 160 pounds up, and won with the greatest ease.

E. J. BALDWIN, Santa Anita Stable, has sold to B. Falk the bay gelding Del Coronado, 2, by imp. The Hook, dam Jennie B., and bay colt Onalaska, 2, by imp. The Hook, dam Santa Anita. Terms private.

GASTON ASHE owns a splendid farm of 10,000 acres about fifteen miles below Hollister and has over seventy head of thoroughbreds, stallions, broodmares, colts and fillies there. Bert Hart, the jockey who for years rode for B. C. Ilolly, is handling the youngsters. Mr. Ashe bred a number of her best mares to the thoroughbred Jackson last spring.

THE Eastern trainer, Matt Byrnes, in a letter to a friend here, says he will take twenty-three head to California this fall, six of which are his own, the rest being Marcus Daly's. He considers the yearling colt by Salvador—Miss Woodford, the greatest youngster he ever saw, and that he has the finest string of young animals in the East.

THE entries secured for the St. Leger of 1897 number 249, a considerable improvement on last year, when 202 subscribed, and entailing an increase in the value of the race of £1,175. The Prince of Wales has nominated three, namely, Oakden, Farrant and Seibel, but many other owners have a more lengthy list. The American Stables may be represented on the Town Moor, as Mr. Richard Croker has nominated five and Mr. P. Lorillard half a dozen.

WE were in error in stating recently that Col. W. P. Thompson was the breeder of Requitall and One I Love, the best two-year old colt and filly of 1895. The former was purchased in utero at the sale of the late D. D. Withers' estate, and the latter was imported in utero. Both were nourished and reared on the pastures of Brookdale, however, and Col. Thompson has therefore been frequently referred to as the breeder of the Futurity winner and the crack filly of 1895.

IN regard to racing in England, Mr. Croker is reported as having said: "I like the English racing system very much. It is an honest one, but it takes one some time to learn its intricacies, which are numerous, the difference from our own system being very great. I have from twenty to thirty horses now in training in England, and have entered Montauk for the Derby, and other good ones for the St. Leger and the Ascot for 1896. Fourteen of my horses are now in active training there."

AUGUSTE LUPIN, one of the most prominent devotees of the French turf, died Sept. 25, at the age of ninety. His colors were first registered in 1863, and for the next few years he gained prominence as a skillful gentleman rider. He started his breeding establishment in 1840, and conducted it successfully during the remainder of his lifetime. He raced with various success, and won six Prix de Jockey Club (French Derby) with Gambetti, St. Germain, Attila colt, Amalfi, Potocki and Salvador, five Prix de Diane (French Oaks), was twice successful in the Grand Prix de Paris with Salvador and Glaneur and won the Goodwood Cup with Jouneuer and Dollar.

JOCKEYS on the French turf have been complaining repeatedly to the stewards as to the difficulty they experience in obtaining their fees from certain owners. The French knights of the pigskin are supposed to have had rather a tough time of it, for although their regular fee—$40 a winner and $20 a loser—is a good one, they are of en asked to ride for less, and are obliged to do it to get the mount and figure honorably in the list of winners at the end of the year. The authorities have decided that jockeys' mounts have now to be paid to the clerk of the course before the race, and if the money is not forthcoming the horse is not allowed to start. The fee is naturally not applicable in the case of apprentices.

THE sale of that good two-year-old colt Sherlock, which has been pending for some time, was consummated last week. Charles Fleischmann purchased him from Carroll Reid, his owner, for $8,000. As he is entered in several of the Latonia Fall stakes, Mr. Fleischmann will have an opportunity of getting a least a part of his money back before he retires him to winter quarters. The colt is of the wear-and-tear kind, and has shown in all of his races that he is as game a youngster as has been seen on the circuit this season. He started in seven races, winning five of them and getting a slice of the money on the other two occasions, an excellent record. He is by Eherlee, who is a full brother to that good race mare Huntress, and out of Edenia, by Erdenheim. As a three-year-old he should prove a valuable acquisition to the Fleischmann string, if all goes well with him during the winter, as he has shown a disposition to go a route and to carry weight, two things very necessary in a good three-year-old.

"A GREAT many persons would like to know how it feels to win $100,000 on a race," said Fred Foster recently while referring to last year's Brooklyn Handicap. "I went up to the head of the stretch," he said, "after giving the final orders to Taral, and climbed up on a tally-ho there. I could not see either the field at the post, or anything but the thousands of people about me. A confused murmur is all I know about the start. Then everything seemed to oppress me for a minute, and I knew nothing of what was going on about me. Suddenly a horse in McClelland's colors rushed past me. A length back was another, whom I did not know. Only a head away I saw the Doctor. Taral was sitting perfectly still and I could see him steady my horse. He was just galloping. A strange feeling—one of joy—came over me. I saw Taral bend over in his saddle and say something. The Doctor pricked up his ears and extended himself. He shot past the second horse and it seemed but a jump till he was at the flank of McClelland's colt. I cried: 'Boys, I've won the Brooklyn!' and fell off the top of the tally-ho. I don't remember anything of the next half hour, nor, in fact, very clearly of the rest of the racing. I found out afterward that I saw the Doctor put away all right, and attended to getting Eloroy out for the last race and letting all the money I had on him, but I was so excited that I forgot to cash the tickets I had when he completed my day's triumphs. To tell the truth, my only distinct recollection after the horses went to the post in the Brooklyn was just for the second when the field entered the stretch. The memory of that second will never be blotted out of my mind. The scene was vivid, distinct and clear."

C. J. C. TROTTER MEETING.—As will be learned from the advertisement, the date of the California Jockey Club Trotting Meeting has been fixed, and the programme arranged. There could not be a better outlook for a successful meeting, and so far as can be told at this time, a very good prospect for one of the greatest gatherings of harness racers that has ever been witnessed.

In the first place there are twenty-eight races to be decided in seven days. After making allowance for lapses in a few of them—though even that is not likely to occur—from the large number of entries there is a strong probability that some of the classes will have to be divided, so that there is small chance for days on which the interest will slacken.

Under the management of the C. J. C. there would be little dread of dilatoriness, which is oftentimes the bane of harness racing, and with the additional spur of so much work on the trestle board that the utmost activity will be demanded to clear it in the allotted time, scarcely a minute, from one hour after high twelve, will hang heavy on the spectators. And with all this hurry I have little hesitation in predicting that the work will be accomplished without keeping people so late as to spoil their amusement, and that means having the afternoon's sport concluded so that there will be no misgivings of dinners being delayed. This prophecy is based on the knowledge that racing methods will be pursued in regard to promptness. When the rules which will govern are formulated, and that will be done so thoroughly as to do away with the plea of ignorance, they will be enforced to the letter. That a good deal of the system that prevails in the main racing clubs of the country can be adopted advantageously in trotting meetings is beyond successful contradiction, and, therefore, with racing folk in control, we may look for a happy combination, the best of both racing and trotting usages brought into requisition at the coming meeting.

And, by the way, I have the utmost faith that this meeting will have a potent effect in advancing the interests of those who are engaged in harness-horse breeding, or in any way connected with trotting and pacing horses.

In the first place it will have a direct influence in allaying the feeling which exists between the devotees of both branches of sport—turf and track.

I have always contended that there were no good reasons for antagonisms, and that, when properly conducted, one should aid the other. No one can truthfully say that the two California associations are inimical to trotting horse interests. The California Jockey Club makes the initiatory move a leading racing club giving a trotting meeting, for which a greater number of races are billed and more money apportioned than at any previous meeting on this Coast. It breaks in on its regular racing season, and gives its course not only for the seven days on which the meeting will be held, but long enough before to change it from the condition applicable to running to make it suitable for trotting. More than that should the trotting folk show that they appreciate the efforts to aid them other meetings will be given of equal or greater magnitude than that on the tapis.

The Pacific Jockey Club has done all that could be desired; postponed the opening of its new course until the trotting meeting was ended, though the original date set was two weeks earlier.

While the feeling which prompted these concessions was instigated by a desire to forward the interests of all parties engaged in breeding, rearing, training and racing harness horses, it is a wise move from the standpoint of policy. There has been in all parts of the United States, among trotting men, an apprehension that the managers of running meetings were intent on crushing their business. They have viewed with alarm the tendency to absorb all the time in the neighborhood of large towns for racing alone, and been so successful in that aim, that in the immediate vicinity of the second largest city in the United States there was not a single trotting track. When the C. J. C. secured a long lease of the Oakland Trotting Park, there was a strongly-defined dread that the metropolis of the Eastern shore of the Pacific would be in the same situation as the "City on the Lake." When the harness-racing programme of the C. J. C. was published, apprehensions were only partly allayed. There were still unbelievers; people who contended that the trotting meeting would only be a side-show, and that while the trotting meeting was in progress, racing would be in full blast, and the certain loss which would result in that case be used to strangle harness sports—in the vicinity of San Francisco.

As stated before the course pursued by both of our racing associations has overwhelmed those who had chanted dolorous measures, and even those of ultra-pessimistical leanings, been forced to admit that there is a cheering outlook.

"THE HIPPODROME."—The history of the hippodrome has been written, its effects noted, and the general trend of opinion is that it has exerted a malign influence on harness racing.

The tour of the two greatest pacing horses has added a stigma which will take a long time to eradicate. A succession of brazen rascalities, a sequence of audacious attempts to humbug people, and at the same time such a thorough contempt for the laws of harness racing, and those who should enforce them, that there is one thing the notorious drivers of these celebrated animals can be credited with—are impudence which verges on the sublime.

Readers of Gulliver's Travels, who have followed published accounts of these races, will not fail to see the analogy, and though "the Dean" has been accused of penning the worst slander on the human race, which has ever been published, "Houyhnhnms" and "Yahoos" are not so much of a favor in these last years of the nineteenth century.

From the Philadelphia imbroglio, when both drivers sought to follow the bent of their own inclinations, and one of them escaped without even a reprimand, until the race on Wednesday last at Lexington, there has been reasons for suspicion. In the Lexington race, the power of the Kentucky

Trotting-Horse Breeders' Association, was necessary to insure a contest, and even then it looked as though Gentry was laid up in the first heat, as he was last. There was a collision after Robert J. made a break—according to the telegraphic report—"a collision looked certain, but a broken wheel to Robert J.'s sulky was all"—Patchen winning in 2:03, Cole-side second.

It is not my intention, however, to particularize, as readers are generally aware of the incidents. Curry was fined $500 at Philadelphia, for a flagrant violation. McHenry was allowed to go without rebuke. At other places the reports state Curry was "warned," but from the tone of, and apologies which appeared in many of the Eastern papers, the warning was something after the fashion of an appeal. "Mr. Curry we are extremely reluctant that we have to impose on your good nature so far, as to humbly request that you will deign, in the exuberance of your good nature, to ease a little of your pull. Sorry to ask so much, but there are kickers you are aware, and these newspaper fellows will take delight in roasting us, and though in your exalted situation you are out of the reach of their envenomed shafts, we not so happily provided for and therefore fervently solicit that you will kindly help us out of the difficulty."

Such words may not have been employed though it is evident there has been a general disposition to mollify, an effort on the part of some writers to palliate the offenses of distinguished drivers, and place the odium on other parties.

I do not include the races in which Robert J. took part as hippodromes, but does any person, at all conversant with these affairs, believe that there was any other arrangement, than to get as much money from from associations as could be obtained, and that equally divided between the two star actors, when these two constituted the field.

This may be true sport, but if it is my conception of what sport is it is egregiously erroneous.

In order to obtain the best terms it is absolutely necessary to make believe that the horses are so closely matched that there is a chance for either to win. The first real hippodroming tour was Flora Temple and Princess. McMann could not be induced or tempted to lose a race which he could win, and as Eoff managed to win one race, heats of two miles, he made many people believe that he had purposely lost others, and deluded them with the story so far as to keep up the interest. These tactics increased the anxiety to witness the races between Dexter and Geo. M. Patchen Jr. and after the Californian lost fifteen races without a break, to the renowned gelding, I have heard people claim that Eoff could have won many of them, had that "suited his book."

The present method, as shown by McHenry and Curry, is an improvement. That the horses are very closely matched is beyond question; that one of them could win all of the time is decidedly improbable, but if there were breaks at regular intervals, Gentry winning at Milwaukee and Dubuque, and Patchen at Sioux City, excitement would be heightened. That associations, by offering inducements for this kind of racing, are, in a measure, partners in the wrong doing is self-evident. The desire to attract large bodies of spectators overcame their better judgment and the glamor of big gate receipts engendered a golden haze which obscured their vision. Even then there are honest endeavors on the part of the drivers to have "the best horse win" there are objections connected with the hippodrome. The tendency is to lessen the interest in these contests which are limited to lower classes of performers, and unless something sensational is presented attendance, is light.

"HIGH RATING IN THE STAMINA TEST!!!"—On form, Boreal was hardly regarded in the contest, but he developed high rating in the stamina test." That is one sentence of the telegram from Lexington, Ky., Monday night, and another paragraph is as follows:

"Kohl won two heats and Killona one, and Geers, who had been circling the track well behind, showed up next time and outposted (? outfought) Oakland Baron home in 2:16½. Though defeated, by no means was he disgraced, as every inch of the five heats he was an active contestant, figuring in the fray as long as he remained in the race, forcing Fred Kohl to earn his best record of 2:12½, and it was the flight of Fred Kohl and Oakland Baron that gave Boreal the race."

I must protest against the award of the telegrapher which gives the horse which circled the track well behind for three heats the credit of superior stamina. Had he done his best, emulated Oakland Baron or Fred Kohl in striving for the lead and then outlasted them there would be some sense in the plaudit. As it was, if he was so "well behind" as to drop just inside the distance even in the fastest heat, he would have a margin of seven seconds with some fifteen feet or more leeway to "beat the flag."

Some there will be to eulogize the craft of Geers, and when judges permit such an unfair advantage a driver cannot be blamed for taking advantage of the privilege. But how will the owners of Fred Kohl, Killona and Oakland Baron regard the concession? and will those who speculate on what was to be seen to guide them in their investments, coincide in the plaudits which welcomed the winner, be satisfied that they had a fair show for their money? And the spectators, too, will they be as well pleased with the spectacle presented as they would have been had every horse in the race been forced to contest in every heat?

For the good of the cause let us hope, that the very many instances, in this good year of 1895, of the "pernicious practice" of laying up heats, will ensure such action at the next convocations of the N. T. A. and A. T. A. as will afford some remedy.

Shorten the distance, in 3 and 5 races a heat in three be a sine qua non to stay in the race will be something of an amendment, though the time will surely come that staying well behind will ensure punishment, no matter how powerful the party controlling, or how celebrated the culprit.

THE EDITOR of the Horse Breeder quotes the race at Terre Haute, in which Onaqua won the first and second heats in 2:08½ and 2:10, and Nightingale the third, fourth and fifth in 2:08, 2:10 and 2:09½, as an argument in favor of 3 in 5 races. He writes: "Onaqua won the first two heats in phenomenal time, and if the two-in-three had been in force the great old daughter of Mambrino King would have won but fourth money."

That is quite true if the same tactics had been pursued, as Nightingale was fourth in the first heat (four starters) and third in the second heat, while Dandy Jim was 3—2, David B. 2—4.

Our good friend of the Horse Review must be aware that a mare which can trot a third heat in 2:08, a fourth in 2:10 and a fifth in 2:09½, has "no business" to be dallying along as she did at Terre Haute. It is longer odds than book-makers are from to "chalk" against the veriest "dogs," that if that race had been 2 in 3 Nightingale would have taken the second and third, and in place of being an argument in favor of 3 in 5 races, is the strongest kind of proof of the necessity of change.

Partial as the Village Farm folk are to laying up heats with 2 in 3 "the rule," only one could be jockeyed when the winner of the first heat was likely to gain the second.

"Iconoclast" is looking, with anxious vision, for what A. D. 1900 will bring. Alluding to the old ruts, among them adhering to that very old practice of long drawn-out races, he prints: "Isn't this just a trifle ridiculous in the good year 1895, just as the year 1900 is looming into sight?" Not the only ridiculous thing my highly esteemed collaborateur in horse affairs which will loom into sight before the twentieth century is ushered into place—and among them the almost universal practice of laying-up heats, or a heat even, that could be won, will no more be permitted than throwing a race.

When the writers of horsey articles in these twentieth century journals turn over the old files, and learn that the swindling tactics were justified in many instances, not one in a hundred when the nefarious practices were denounced, ridicule will not be the only weapon used, indignation that sportsmen should resort to such unfair measures, surprise that harness-racing should have survived the ordeal.

THE COMING SALES—Never before in the history of California has there been the same opportunity, as will be presented by Killip & Co. the second week in November, to obtain high-class thoroughbreds, at public auction. It may be as well, perhaps, to qualify this statement, as had there been buyers present when Mr. Winters offered his whole stock at auction at Sacramento, 1887, the chance of the century would have been presented. At that sale Mr. Baldwin purchased Emperor of Norfolk, or rather, according to my recollection, by private treaty after the sale was stopped, at the urgent solicitation of Albert Cooper.

What Emperor of Norfolk has done for Santa Anita is so well known that reference is all that is required. Few will dispute the claim that he was the best race horse that ever carried the Baldwin colors, although it may be that his son, Rey del Carreras, will be a "close competitor" for that honor. Mr. Winters offered his whole stud at that time for a price which would not have tempted him to sell El Rio Rey, and then as late as that time would have included Emperor of Norfolk, The Zar and El Rio Rey, and with the chance of the other celebrities which have followed.

My purpose at present is merely to allude to the coming sales as hereafter they will be noticed as becomes their importance. With the get of Joe Hooker, El Rio Rey, Flambeau, Racine, Bramble, imported Cyrus, and Flood, and the dams not only of the highest breeding, but very many of them "producers" of great race horses, the opening statement is so fully substantiated that it can be "rested" without argument.

THERE ARE HOPES that writers for journals of the country which are "devoted" to harness racing will eventually discern that practices which do so much to bring the sport into disrepute must be denounced.

"Iconoclast," in the Kentucky Stock Farm, has taken a stand against many of these reprehensible practices, and occasionally there have been others to rebuke, though mildly, but as a rule apologies for wrong-doing has been more common than castigation. Therefore, I am much pleased to see that the correspondent of the Western Horseman, who reported the races at Terre Haute, discourses as follows:

"After the four-year-old filly (Onaqua) had captured the first two heats in fast time, being driven out by David B. in the first heat and Dandy Jim in the second, Geers cut loose with Nightingale, that had trotted to beat the flag in the former heats, and raced the daughter of Keeler a gruelling heat. * * * It may be said here that performances like this to-day are what disgusts all lovers of legitimate and fair racing."

Keep up the agitation, and though there may be a limited number at present to raise the banner of fair-play, the cause is just and must prevail.

THE SUNNY SOUTH—I am not prone to envy those who are favored with opportunities for enjoyment which I cannot share, and yet there is a feeling of disappointment, that while so many of my good friends are in a situation to avail themselves of a visit to Los Angeles I cannot participate. The pleasures, however, which these friends will secure, make amends for the individual loss, and hence, whenever there are symptoms of repining, consolation is not lacking.

Although it is twenty years since I visited Los Angeles the remembrance is vivid, and it would be somewhat singular if the "pleasures of memory" were not clear when there were so many causes of gratification. With the changes that twenty years have wrought in that city and its environs, so wonderful I am told, that the old landmarks are replaced by entirely new monuments; stately palaces where the adobe, roofed with tiles, its court a mass of flowers stand modern hotels, with all the comforts of this comfortable age, doing away with the hearty hospitality of the olden time, or rather with the necessity for displaying the warm-heartedness which cannot be obliterated; all of this a legitimate source of pride to the enterprising inhabitants, and yet the remembrances of a score of years ago would not be so pleasant were the old-time scenes less prominent.

There will be two great weeks to close this glad month of October. The Fair leading off with its numerous attractions, and then the Trotting Horse Breeders to complete the fortnight's amusements. Those who are less fortunate than the people who can attend, can enjoy the satisfaction of reading the published accounts and listening to the fervid stories of returned pilgrims.

THE SULKY.

McZEUS, by McKinney, has a record of 2:14½.

THE race meeting at Hollister was a success in every way.

STEINWAY has had seven new performers added to his list this season.

NIGHTINGALE, 2:03, now holds the record for the fastest five-heat race.

GUY WILKES has had nine new ones added to his creditable list this year.

PEDLAR, by Electioneer, won a ten-heat race at Boston, Mass., October 11th.

AZOTE has gone lame and will not appear on the Eastern turf again this season.

MONROE SALISBURY has acquired the racing qualities of Oakland Baron, 2:14½.

ELLA MAY, by Nephew, got a record of 2:19½ at Westchester Park, New York.

MIDI, by Electrician (son of Electioneer) got a record of 2:23½ at Cleveland, Oct. 1.

ONOQUA, 4, 2:03½, is now the fastest trotter descended from Belmont in direct male line.

FORTY THOUSAND people attended Thursday's trotting races at Hillsdale, Michigan.

LOU SEER, a bay mare by The Seer (son of Gen. Benton) got a record of 2:28 at Cleveland, Oct. 4.

UTILITY, by Electioneer, has a record of 2:13, made in a race she won at Lexington, October 11th.

THE Guy Wilkes two-year-old Fred S. Moody, 2:19½, worked a quarter in 0:31½ last week at Lexington.

ENCOUNTER, by Onward, won a special pacing race at Salem, Oregon, in straight heats, 2:20, 2:22, 2:23½.

THE brown stallion, Forward, by Sidney, died last week. He was owned by W. H. H. Achuff, of Philadelphia, Pa.

LEONORA, by Sable Wilkes, 2:18, out of Minnie Princess, by Nutwood, got a record of 2:25 at Hollister, last Thursday.

EDWIN C., by Egotist, is a new pacer. He got a record of 2:25 at Elkhorn, Wis., October 1st, and won this his first race, too.

KEYES, 2:29½, the pacer by Echo, lowered his record to 2:19½ at the Orange county fair, Newburgh, New York, Sept. 24th.

RILEY, a bay horse, by The Seer (son of Gen. Benton and Odette, by Electioneer) got a record of 2:29 at Cleveland, Oct. 4.

REDWOOD BOONE, by Redwood, 2:21½ (son of Anteeo), entered the 2:30 list at Cleveland, October 4th, getting a mark of 2:28½.

SOPHIA R., by Roy Wilkes, won the free-for-all pacing race at the Salem, Oregon, fair last Thursday. Time, 2:19½, 2:20, 2:23.

FOUR of the get of Hummer, son of Electioneer, started on the turf this year, and three of the four have taken records faster than 2:20.

ORRIN A. HICKOK has telegraphed for twelve stalls at the Oakland race track. He will arrive in Oakland the latter part of this month.

JOHN DICKERSON will not spend the winter on Wm. Corbitt's farm at San Mateo, but will winter at Terre Haute.—American Sportsman.

MISS WOODFORD, bay mare, by Sam Purdy, went a heat in 2:09½, October 3, at Baltimore, clipping four and one-half seconds off her record.

OAKLAND BARON, by Baron Wilkes, out of Lady Mackey by Silverthreads, won the $25,000 Kentucky Futurity Stake at Lexington, October 8th.

SILKWOOD, so Mr. Willets says, will start to-day at Santa Ana in the free-for-all pace. Waldo J. will be near him every time he comes to the wire.

STAMBOUL's latest performer is the brown colt, Belbel, 4, out of Mabel, sister of Beautiful Bells. He took a record of 2:30 at Cape Vincent, N. Y., September 24th.

THE two-year-old Wiggins, 2:19½, by Aberdeen, dam Alhina de Mer, by Stamboul, 2:07½, has started five times this season, winning all his races in straight heats.

THE two-year-old filly, Abdulameer, that defeated Woven Wind at Portland, Me., earning a record of 2:31½, is by Stamboul, out of Silverone, 2:19½, by Alcyone.

J. H. OUTHWAITE, of Savannah Park, will sell all his horses including Daghestan, by Stamboul, at W. B. Fasig's auction sale in New York City, November 20th.

JAY BEACH will take Altamont to Oakland, Cal., in a few days, where he will be kept until shipped East, some time in December.—North Pacific Rural.

FOR the first time in the history of the trotter three four-year-old trotters have entered the 2:10 list this year. They are Beuzetta, 2:06½, Onoqua, 2:03½, and B. B. P., 2:09½, all three holding race records.

SPALFEEN has a Hibernian flavor about it, but a son of Hummer, the Electioneer stallion owned by Wm. Simpson, of New York City, has made it famous in the pacing world for last week at Cleveland he paced to a record of 2:17½.

BEDWORTH, by Wildcat, who lowered his record to 2:22½ in a race at the Gentlemen's Driving Park meeting, Baltimore, recently, is owned by Frederick Downing, of Sharps Wharf, Va. He is a beautifully-gaited trotter and as he is but five years old should race to a low mark.

MR. HALL, the genial superintendent of the Forbes Farm Ponkapog, recently wrote us that Nancy Hanks, 2:04, is surely with foal by Arion, 2:07½.

THE grand broodmare, Jessie Pepper, by Mambrino Chief, has another son that is a sire of speed, as Omega, her son by Quartermaster, is the sire of Virginia McDonald, 2:25.

THE Altamont filly, Ella T., paced a great race at Terre Haute last week. She was a good fourth the first two heats in 2:04½ and 2:04½, and a close third the last in 2:06½, in which heat she beat 2:08 herself.

DR. H. A. SPENCER, of San Jose, has been appointed Veterinary Inspector of Santa Clara by the Board of Supervisors and City Council at a salary of $100 per month, each body appropriating $50 per month.

APPLICATIONS for stall room at the Los Angeles track are coming in thick, and the secretary is puzzled to know where to place all the horses that are to appear at that place during the two weeks' meeting.

THE chestnut filly Alfredatta, by Steinway, 2:25½, out of Etna G., by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, second dam Alla, dam of Spartan, 2:24, by Almont, earned a record of 2:24 in a race at Alameda, September 28th.

THE associations that are to hold the great polo match at the Breeders' Meeting, Los Angeles, are enthusiastic over it. The P. C. T. H. B. Association will give a magnificent silver trophy to the winning team.

WESTWARD the California horsemen now sojourning in the East will soon be turning, for nothing will drive these gentlemen home to this land of sunshine, fruit and flowers quicker than a few bitter cold days.

FRED PABST's great young horse Faustino, 2:14½, by Sidney, is now in the list of sires, his first representative being the brown colt Trophy, who took a two-year-old record of 2:29½ at Lansing, Mich., week before last.

E. J. YOUNG, of Independence Or., drove his bay filly, Crescent, four months old, hitched to a hike sulky, one eighth of a mile, in 31 seconds, at the State Fair. This youngster is a pacer, sired by Del Norte, 2:14½, dam by Dick Flaherty.

A HORSE never intentionally steps upon a man. In consequence of this there is a standing order in the British army that if a trooper should be dismounted he must lie still. It has been found that the whole squadron will pass over him without doing him injury. An illustration of this was given last week.

SALLIE BENTON, 2:17½, by Gen. Benton, who was the champion four-year-old trotter when she took her record, eleven years ago, is now the dam of two 2:20 trotters—Starlight, 2:15½, by Electioneer, and Nordica, 3, 2:19½, by Advertiser.

BARON DILLON, by Baron Wilkes, out of Mattie Nutwood, by Nutwood, won the Stallion Representative Stakes (value $5,000), for four-year-olds, at Lexington, Tuesday. He won the first heat in 2:10, the fourth in 2:12½ and the fifth in 2:13½.

ONWARD has seven new comers to the 2:20 list but the three fastest are pacers. The average of the trotters is 2:18 Guy Wilkes has had five trotters enter this list, the average being 2:16, but of his list one is a two-year-old and another a three-year-old.

THE gray gelding, John R. Baldwin, 2:25½, by Fallis, son of Electioneer, recently trotted six races in thirteen days in New England, winning them all. He was bred at Woodburn, and is out of a mare by Chichester, grandam famous old Vanity Fair, by Alexander's Abdallah.

THE Kentucky Stakes for three-year-olds decided Monday, October 15th, resulted in a victory for Boreal, by Bowhells (son of Electioneer), Fred Kohl, by Guy Wilkes, second, and Killona, by King Wilkes, third; time, 2:16. Oro Wilkes won the stake in 1893 and Directum in 1892.

R. P. PEPPER, JR., writes from South Elkhorn Farm: "Onward now has sixteen new ones for 1896, making him 114 in all at the age of twenty—a record never equaled by any other stallion. He also has forty trotters and pacers in the 2:20 list, while seven world's records are held by his descendants."

WILL J. YOUNG has a yearling pacing filly by Alfred G. (son of Anteeo), dam by Gen. Hancock, that stepped a mile in 2:35 on the Lexington track Tuesday. The last eighth she went at a 2:15 gait. An experienced horseman who saw the performance says that she is the fastest yearling he ever saw.

THERE were some brilliant hits of speed in the great five heat struggle of Nightingale and Onoqua at Terre Haute. Onoqua trotted the last half of her first heat in 2:08½, the third quarter in 30½ seconds. Nightingale's third heat in 2:08 included a last half in 1:03½ and a last quarter in 0:31½, while the grand old mare stepped the fifth heat in 2:09½, last half in 1:03½.

THE five two-year-old trotters which have beaten 2:20 in races this year are Tommy Briton, 2:18½, by Liberty Bell, a grandson of Electioneer; Fred S. Moody, 2:19½, by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, son of George Wilkes, 2:22; Palita, 2:16½, by Palo Alto, 2:08½, son of Electioneer; Wiggins, 2:19½, by Aberdeen, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian, and Bingen, 2:19½ (trial 2:12½), by May King, 2:20, son of Electioneer. All five trace directly to Rysdyk's Hambletonian through their sires, and three of the five are direct descendants of Electioneer. The blood of The Moor is also represented in three.

HON. F. C. SAYLES, of Pawtucket, R. I., proprietor of Bryn Mawr Farm, met with a great loss a few days since in the death of two valuable horses killed in a railroad smash-up. Three of his horses were on a box-car on the ill-fated train which was wrecked in the pit of a trestle at Blackstone Junction on the 5th inst. Planeteer and Fly Wheel were in the lot, and Planeteer was the only one saved. One of the two that perished, the valuable six-year-old mare Fly-wheel, sister to Hart Boswell, owned by K. O'Grady of San Mateo, Cal., being by Onward, 2:25½, dam Nancy Lee (dam of Nancy Hanks, 2:04). It seems a great pity that so choicely bred a young mare should meet with such a fate. A much worse feature of the accident, however, was the loss of several human lives.

THE Pacific Coast Jockey Club kindly consented to postpone the opening of their new track until after the sixteenth of November in deference to the trotting meeting to be held by the California Jockey Club, commencing November 9th.

THE performance of the two-year-old Bingen, by May King, 2:20, son of Electioneer, dam Young Miss, by Young Jim, who trotted an exhibition mile at Rigny Park, near Portland, Me., last Thursday in 2:12½, makes him, after Arion, 2:10½, the favorite trotter of his age ever foaled.

LAST week, at Cleveland' Orrin A. Hickok was the recipient of a beautiful diamond scarf pin surrounded with emeralds. It was given by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes, of New York City, owners of Miss Rita and Josie B. The presentation was made in the judge's stand by President Edwards.

CHARLES DUSTIN, brother to James Dustin, the well-known California driver, was quite badly hurt at Exeter, Me., recently, while driving the pacer, Charlie Rolfe in a race. The horse kicked and got entangled in his hoppers, falling to the track and rolling upon the driver. Dustin had one finger broken and his left leg was badly bruised.

THE Conqueror, by Egotist (son of Electioneer), out of Arlotta, by Harold, captured the 2:16 class trotting race at Lexington, after Roetta Soap, by Patchen Wilkes, won the first heat in 2:14½, Lvric, by Lancelot, the second in 2:14½. The Conqueror's time for the last three heats was 2:13½, 2:14½ and 2:15. The gameness of the Electioneers this year is the talk of the East.

THE greatness of the Steinway-Electioneer cross as represented by the get of Steinway and Katy G., is again demonstrated. Chas. Derby, 2:20, Covey, 2:24, Steiner, 2:29½, are from this cross, and Sunlight, a five-year-old sister to these horses, got a record of 2:25 at Greenup, Illinois, Sept. 28th. Chas. Derby is the sire of Diablo, 2:09½, and Perby Princess, 2:19½. Covey is a gelding and Steiner is dead.

ALTAMONT has four 2:10 performers to his credit—three pacers and one trotter—whose average records are 2:08½. Three of the four entered the list this year. Altamont leads all stallions in this list except Brown Hal, who has also four to his credit, all of which are pacers, while Altamont has three pacers and one trotter. Taking everything into consideration, we believe Altamont is entitled to first place.

IN the 2:21 class trot, at Lexington, October 18th, Valley Queen, by Sphinx, son of Electioneer, was first; Quality, by Electioneer, second. In the great Transylvania Stake, $5,000, for the 2:15 class trotters, Bouncer, by Hummer, son of Electioneer, was first, and Lynne Bel, by St. Bel, son of Electioneer was second. The family of Electioneer is a great one; race horses by the score this year as well as the fastest, yearling, two year old, three-year-old and the boss trotter Azote.

THIRTEEN trotters have entered the 2:10 list this year, of which six—Beuzetta, 2:06½, Onoqua, 2:03½, Lena Wilkes, 2:09, David B., 2:09½, Dandy Jim, 2:09½, and Early Bird, 2:10—carry the blood of George Wilkes, and six—Nightingale, 2:08, Onoqua, 2:08½, Lockheart, 2:03½, Klamath, 2:08½, Altau, 2:09½, and Tomah, 2:10—carry the blood of Alexander's Abdallah. The average record of the six members of each family is exactly the same—2:08 5/6.

CLEBURNE FARM, Spring Hill, Tenn., owns a very fast two-year-old pacer by Parkville, son of Electioneer, in Quadriga, who on September 27th, worked three heats in 2:24, 2:23 and 2:21. The filly has been sent to Lexington, Ky., with the two-year-olds Maximilian, brother to Maxim, 2:15½ Tom Calhoun, by Fred S. Wilkes, and Sidney Hal, by Mercury, son of Sidney. Maximilian has shown a mile in 2:17 and a half in 1:04. Tom Calhoun a mile in 2:18 and Sidney Hal a mile in 2:22.

WHILE much is being said about the proper ventilation of stables very little is thought of that most important question of sufficient light. Did you ever stop for a moment to think of the horse in his wild state? He is always found on the open plains or on the sides of the mountains in the full light of the sun. He shuns dark canyons and gloomy forests. Knowing this appreciation of light we should see that he has in the stable plenty of sunlight with an abundance of pure air. If we only stopped for a moment to think we could not fail to see that the frequent transitions from a dark stable to the full glare of the sun is decidedly injurious to that delicate organ, the eye. If you want your horse to be full of life and good health look out for the light.

NEW performers added to the 2:10 list last week were: Trotters—Altau, 2:09½, by Altamont, 2:26½, dam Sally M., by Oregon Pathfinder; Tomah, 2:10, by Edgardo, 2:13½, dam by Olympas. Pacers—Choral, 2:09½, by C. F. Clay, 2:18, dam Lady Pepper, by Onward, 2:25½; Miss Woodford, 2:09½, by Sam Purdy, 2:20½, dam by Orange Bud, 2:21½; Raven, 2:10, by Alcantara, 2:23, dam Rachel B., 2:28½, by Allie West, 2:25. Those reducing their records since last report were: Trotters—Nightingale, by Mambrino King, from 2:09½ to 2:08; Onoqua, 4, by Keeler, 2:13½, from 2:09 to 2:08½. Pacers—Star Pointer, by Brown Hal, 2:12½, from 2:05½ to 2:04½; Chehalis, by Altamont, 2:26½, from 2:09½ to 2:07½; Waldo J., by Boh Mason, 2:27½, from 2:10 to 2:09.

AT the fourth day's sale of trotters at Lexington, October 11th, forty-eight head were disposed of for $7,000. The bidding was spirited and in many instances good prices were received. The best sales were: King Guy, b c 2, by Guy Wilkes—by Nutwood, D. J. Foster, Brooklyn, $800; Torrent, b h, 8, by Dictator—by Princes, J. Wesver, Tremont, Ohio, $205; Nina Dee, 2:26 1/4, ch m, 10, by Nutwood—by Phil Sheridan, W. T. Ormsby, Louisville, $230; bay filly, yearling, by Stranger—by Nutwood, W. T. Ormsby, $105; Foxglove, 2:24½, ch m, 5, by Nutwood—by Blackwood, Edward Rowland, Louisville, $200; Utility, 2:13, h m, 10, by Electioneer—by Dictator, George W. Leavitt, Boston, $1,625; Nora Wilkes, h m, 13, by George Wilkes, by Woodford Mambrino, Edward Rowland, Louisville, $310; chestnut colt, yearling, by Lazv—by George Wilkes, C. T. Worthington, Danville, Ky., $100; Avoca, b m, 5, by Sable Wilkes—by Nutwood, W. Althouse, Philadelphia, $250; Pat Nutwood, ch h, 2, by Nutwood—by Dictator, S. and C. P. Cecil, Danville, $205; Pilotta, ch m, 9, by Pilot Medium—by Panoast, W. T. Ormsby, $320; Mary Jane, b m, 8, by Princes—by Dictator, W. T. Ormsby, $130; Tempest, h m, by Torrent—by Messenger Chief, W. W. Davis, Knoxville, $130; Blue Maid, ch m, thoroughbred, 8, by Blue Eyes—by King Alfonso, C. B. Sullivan $200.

THE SADDLE.

WORK as the Oakland track is progressing most favorably.

"LUCKY" BALDWIN has been offered $30,000 for Rey del Carreras.

M. A. COLEMAN has sold his interest in Tinge for $2,000 to E. D. Conover.

MARCUS DALY's eastern string will not arrive here before the first week in November.

GRADING will be completed and steam cars running to the Ingleside track in twelve days.

MACK BRIGGS and Captive, by Strathmore, won good races at Gravesend October 7th.

QUIRT is back at Bay District, having been brought from Montana, where she ran some good races.

SIR PLAY, by Sir Modred, out of Plaything, won a six furlong dash at Cincinnati, October 14th; time, 1:16½.

ARAPAHOF, by Cheviot—Vienta, and Emma C., by Darebin—Guenn, were winners at Gravesend, October 7th.

HAZLET won the Algeria handicap, six furlongs, at Gravesend on Saturday, with Handspring second, Palmerstone third. Time, 1:16½.

SALVABLE ran second to Ben Brush at Gravesend on Saturday, at six furlongs, in 1:17½. A pouring rain had made the going very bad.

BURNS & WATERHOUSE's new trainer, James McCormick, was a visitor at Bay District Monday. He arrived from the East on Saturday last.

DIGGS is rounding to again. He won a race at Sheffield, Indiana, Monday, six furlongs, time, 1:21. Leo Lake was second. Track heavy.

THE Westchester Racing Association's meeting began at Morris Park Monday. It will probably be the banner meeting of the year at the far East.

MRS. and Miss Ferguson, wife and daughter of Starter Ferguson, arrived here from Kentucky on Sunday, and will spend the winter in California.

JOCKEY MARTY BERGEN, who has received high commendation from the Eastern papers, will shortly leave for California with Ed. Corrigan's string.

THE six and a half furlong record for half-mile tracks was broken at Highland Park, Detroit, yesterday in the third race by Damask, who covered the distance in 1:29½.

LEHMAN won the Merchants' Stakes, one mile, value $1,285, at Latonia yesterday. Don Carrillo (Barney Schreiber's good colt) second, Yo Tambien third. Time, 1:44.

LUCANIA, by Sir Modred—School Girl, won the Parkville Stakes at Gravesend on October 8th, over Bradywine, Connoisseur and Andrews. The mile was made in 1:44½.

EIGHTEEN racehorses of various ages have been weeded out from the collection at Marcus Daly's Bitter Root Stud Farm, and sold to a syndicate of California horsemen.—N. Y. Mercury.

PITTSBURG PHIL once made corks for a cent apiece. One day he won a small bet on a horse race. He has never made a cork since—but he has won some corking bets and has often proved a stopper for the bookmakers.

THE Harlem Derby for 1896 has been transferred to St. Louis. President Moffet, of the St. Louis Fair Association, has taken the big event. There are 245 nominations for the stake, which has a guaranteed value of $25,000.

MACKLIN has been riding in better form the last few days than heretofore, and has shown himself a daring rider. He landed Treachery a winner by bringing her through on the rail Friday, when the undertaking looked dangerous.

RICHARD CROKER has purchased from "Lucky" Baldwin the running qualities of Rey del Carreras for $20,000. Mr. Croker will take the colt to England next year, but at the end of his racing career he will be returned to Baldwin.

THE St. Louis Fair Association has reopened the $20,000 1896 Derby recently assumed by transfer from Chicago. In addition to the 245 nominations already made to the event, new entries will be received at $250 each, which closed Tuesday.

GEO. ROSE sold Mulberry and Leonville to Phil Archibald on Saturday. Consideration private. Leonville starts to-day in the name of Archibald & Lottridge. It is understood Mr. Rose intends to sell all of his horses as fast as he can find purchasers.

UCITA, ch g, 4, by Judge McKinstry, out of Skipaway, by Wildidle, won an unfinished half mile and repeat at Hollister Friday. Time, 0:53. Paloma second. Ucita won the first heat the preceding day in 0:52. He will be seen at the local tracks this winter.

SILVER STATE was brought over from Reno to Bay District track Friday. The little Cheviot mare won seven races in all at the Carson and Reno meetings, one at a mile and a quarter. "Poison," who weighs about 120 pounds, rode her in the long-distance race.

THE interest in Saturday's meeting all seemed to center on the third race to Ben E. Haley. We saw him at the track and he said he came all the way from "Dougherty's" to see "Benham" do the trick. Ben is a genial, all-round good fellow and we are pleased to note the fact that his journey was not made in vain.

JIMMY ROWE, who has been handling the flag on Eastern courses for three years, on Saturday sent a letter of resignation to the Jockey Club, the same to take effect at the end of the Morris Park meeting. Mr. Rowe has completed arrangements to train for Colonel W. P. Thompson, President of the Lead Trust and owner of Requitall, the winner of the Futurity, which colt he purchased Saturday for $26,000. The terms of the agreement are not made public. Colonel Thompson bred Requitall, and also the crack filly, One I Love, which he had retained and raced in his colors.

WITH about half a length the best of the start, and running the shorter distance on the rail, Benham clearly had more advantage of Santa Bella than he was able to hold. The filly would have beaten him considerably more than half a head if the conditions had been reversed.

FROM Miss Fletcher's performance Monday (the strictures on Ames' ride on the mare on Saturday seem to have been unjust. Fletcher proved a little short at the finish yesterday after a strong lead from the flag. Ames claimed the mare swerved with him and he was not accountable for the apparent mistake.

JOCKEY TARAL thinks Rey del Carreras the greatest sprinter he ever rode, and despite the good opinion he has always held of Domino, believes Carreras would make him look like a dog. He says he never went through the air so fast in his life as when on the back of Carreras, and that he nearly ran out from under him.

ORMONDE, in the second generation, bids fair to be a tremendous success, for Orme's foals have delighted all good judges that have seen them, and there is a colt foal by Sorcerer (son of Ormonde) out of Kinfauns, that is a veritable wonder. He is at the Cobham Stud and is the first that his dam (now fifteen years old) ever produced to live.

JOCKEY MARTIN will, in all probability, ride for Charles Fleischmann & Son next season. Mr. Smith, his present employer, does not wish to retain him at his terms for next year. This leaves him at liberty to make a contract with some other firm, and, as Mr. Fleischmann has been after him, the chances are that they will come to a satisfactory agreement.

IT is now thought that the fall running meeting at Cumberland Park will begin November 18th, two days after the close of the racing at the Latonia track, and continue three weeks, or till the opening of the New Orleans winter meeting. Under this arrangement the Nashville and Lexington meetings will begin on the same day, the latter, however, running only twelve days.

THERE is a strong probability that Col. M. Lewis Clark and Mr. Charles F. Price will occupy the judges' stand of the new mile race track at Houston, Tex., during the thirty-day meeting which begins the first week in November. The offer of presiding judge was made to Col. Clark with the privilege of naming his associate, and he has selected Mr. Price while taking the offer under consideration.—N. Y. Mercury.

THE association had offered an especially attractive card for the closing at Gravesend on Saturday, but a pouring rain and consequent scratches spoiled it. However, there were good horses left, as the summaries showed. Crescendo, Rubi, con, Flying Dutchman, Rey el Santa Anita, Intermission, Harry Reed, Ben Brush, Salvable, Hazlet, Handspring and Palmerstone were entered in different events.

REY DEL CARRERES is one of the most improved horses in training, and the way he galloped away from his fields with welter-weights up in his last two races was enough to shame some of our horsemen who imagine that a horse cannot race with anything over 100 pounds on his back. The weedy sprinters can all fly with a postage stamp on them, but it takes a race horse to pack from 130 to 140 pounds and negotiate a mile at a racing clip.—N. Y. Mercury.

STARTER JAMES B. FERGUSON's flag work has been excellent of late; in fact, poor starts are few and far between with him. His average of good send-offs will bear comparison with that of any wielder of bunting in the country. We read of starters on the other side of the Rockies being "off" in their work for a week at a time, and the papers and public do not spare them, and while Ferguson may make an occasional poor send-off, he never does poor work two days in succession.

RICHARD CROKER yesterday had another long conversation with "Lucky" Baldwin apropos of taking Rey del Carreras to England. So earnest did the late politician become that he had to go and look the big sprinter over in his stall. Just how much more he was impressed history does not relate, but the owner of the big Californian is still reluctant to trust his property far from his own eye. No bad judge either. Distance doesn't lend much enchantment to the view when there is 3,000 miles of water between the horse and the owner.—N. Y. Mercury.

THE date of the opening day of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club meeting has been fixed at November 16th. This change of date was not made necessary through any condition of the track, as everything will be in readiness on the dates previously announced. The change of date is in order not to interfere with the trotting meeting of the California Jockey Club, which will be held at Bay District track November 8th to 15th inclusive. Racing will continue at Bay District until November 5th, and after the close of the trotting meeting racing there will be discontinued for a time, to alternate with the Pacific Coast Jockey Club.

FRIDAY was the closing day of the Newmarket second October meeting. The interest centered in the Middle Park Plate, the greatest race a two-year-old can win. The Prince of Wales' bay colt, Persimmon, with which he hopes to win the next Derby, and several other candidates for the blue ribbon event of the British turf were entered. The race was over the Brey Stakes course, six furlongs. Leopold De Rothschild's St. Frusquin was first, Duke of Westminster's Onladina second, Prince of Wales' Persimmon third. The betting was 4 to 1 against St. Frusquin, 5 to 2 against Onladina, 2 to 1 against Persimmon.

THE opening day at Morris Park races was spoiled by the weather. Fully 5,000 people were at the track. By the time the fifth race was run the going was very bad and many scratches were made, although the full field went to the post in the first three races. Much interest was attached to the Nursery stakes at six furlongs, for Ben Brush gave a lot of weight to the others, and considerable money was bet on Hazlet and Woodvine. They got away with Hazlet and Woodvine in the lead, and ran this way to the last furlong, when Ben Brush took the lead and won easily. Time, 1:11½. The Manhattan handicap was the fifth event, and Henry of Navarre was the favorite. Counter Tenor led the way up over the hill, with Galilee close behind and the others trailing. As they came to the finish they got together on even terms, and then in this last furlong Navarre drew out and won in 2:07. Counter Tenor got second, with Sir Walter, flogged out, in third place.

LONNY CLAYTON is finishing the season with Will Wallace, but may be seen with a prominent Eastern stable next season. Nothing definite has been done in the matter, but he may pilot Clifford in his races next year. Thorpe goes with W. H. Laudeman, who will have a good stable, particularly of two-year olds, and Simms, it is said, has been asked to join C. H. Smith's stable.

THE fourth race at St. Asaph, October 7th, resulted in a dead heat between Tribute and Marie Lovell. On the run-off another rattling finish followed, with Tribute getting the decision by the shortest of noses, many thinking that Marie Lovell won, or at least made another dead heat. In consequence of this belief, all but the backers of Tribute were dissatisfied with the official ruling.

JOHNNY McCAFFERTY did so well with the consignment of horses he purchased from Scoggin Bros. last year, Applegate being one of the number, that he decided to do the same thing over again, and visited Mr. Scoggin at his farm near Louisville a few days ago and picked out ten of the yearlings which he bargained for at a price, rumor says, will make them average about $1,000 each. Among the lot is a sister to Applegate, which Mr. Scoggin is very sweet on. McCafferty may not race them himself, but they are a fine lot to speculate on, having shown up well at the farm in their work, and are all related to some clever performers.

W. D. RANDALL arrived at the Bay District track Friday with a string of fourteen horses, nearly all from the breeding farm of Marcus Daly at Anaconda. The horses stood the trip well, but it will be fully three weeks before they will be ready to race. Seven of the string are of English breeding, while the native horses are by well-known American sires. The following is a complete list: Sam Lucas, 4, by The Ill-Used; Sylvester, 3, by Salvator; Fijian, 3, by The Ill-Used; Sleeping Child, 3, by Child of the Mist; Alahabad, 3, by Hyder Ali; Senator Bland, 2, by Inverness; Andimore, 2, by Inverness; Affatus, 2, by Inverness; Trapin, 2, by Inverness; New Moon, 2, by Hyder Ali; Skalkiho, 2, by Hyder Ali; Hard Luck, 2, by Bread Knife; Pert Child, 2, by Child of the Mist; Minnie Beach, by Destruction. Jockeys Williams, Harry Brown and Harry Field came down with the Montana horses.

IT is a strange fact, but nevertheless true, that one or two bookmakers and a certain well-known son of the Flowery Kingdom who follows the races, always seem to be able to figure out whether the "St. Louis Garrison," Hinrichs, will lay in second place when he is astride of a horse backed heavily for that position, or whether some other dangerous horse in the race will beat him out and he will be third. Yesterday he rode Charlie Boots, and a few of these well-advised people backed Sam Leake for the place, and sure enough he came along and beat Boots out the last fifty yards. This is not the only occasion the astute celestial and his followers have been correct in some close figuring that must have caused the use of nearly a full can of the famous "midnight oil" known to the turf, for on a former occasion Gold Bug finished in second position, ridden by Hinrichs, and this fortunate foreigner cashed tickets on the horse that beat him out a head. Still there are many followers of the turf that claim there is nothing in figures—possibly it depends on the size of figures.—Call.

GRANNAN, the winner of the Endurance Stakes, three miles, at Oakley, on the closing day, is by Hindoo—Lady Crafton. He went away under a strong pull and came home fighting for his head after making all the running, from two to a dozen lengths before the other pair. He ran the first mile in 1:54½, the second in 1:49, and the third in 1:47½. The mile and a half was covered in 2:49, the two miles in 3:43½, the two miles and a half in 4:37, and the three miles in 5:31, seven seconds slower than the record made by Drake Carter, at Sheephead Bay, in 1884. Grannan only carried 88 pounds, and had he been asked to do it, could have come very close to 5:24. He has been a very consistent performer during the past two months, winning about thirteen races in that time. After winning eight at the Windsor meeting, he was taken back to Oakley a greatly improved horse, and won four out of his five starts. Ingomar beat him a short head in a hard drive at his only defeat. He is the property of the Ireland Brothers, and a full brother to Hindoo-craft, who was once owned by the same firm.

DURING the eighteen days of racing, which closed at Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., on Friday, September 13, the total amount of money distributed among the horse-owners was about $30,000. With no stakes and small purses, as those of a meeting like that which has just closed must be, no one stable could be expected to make a very great showing in the matter of earnings. Only three of those which took part in the meeting won as much as $1,000, eighteen others having earned between $500 and $1,000. The list of owners and stables that earned as much as $500 is appended: Fleischmann & Son, $2,619; Hankins & Johnston, $1,711; E. Corrigan, $1,649; Scoggin Bros., $930; Baker & Gentry, $380; J. J. Hughes, $370; Bashford Manor Stable, $354; E. F. McLean, $325; G. L. Bell, $745; Kentucky Stable, $733; Argyle Stable, $700; W. C. Young, $690; S. S. Brown, $675; S. K. Hughes & Co., $660; C. R. Jaynes, $632; John Bowen, $600; Phoenix Stable, $575; Ernespie Stable, $570; E. F. Welsh, $529; Frank Price, $525; W. C. Fessenden, $500; Smith & Ferguson, $525.

ONE of the most sensational rides seen in the West in many a day was witnessed on Saturday at Cincinnati, when Bergen landed Semper Lex a winner after being virtually left at the post in the mile dash. The start was very ragged, and the starter was roundly hissed when Semper Lex was left, for the horse was second choice and heavily played. Nobody then supposed for an instant that Semper Lex had the ghost of a chance to win, and even at the end of a quarter, when he was running all by himself away in the rear, did he appear to be a factor in the race. A "shoemaker" jockey would likely enough try to close up the gap in the first half mile, but Bergen went at it in a scientific way, hugging the inside rail, and gradually but surely improving his position. Not until half way round the far turn was he up among the tail-enders, but entering the homestretch he was fifth, and finding an opening next the inner rail he set sail for the leaders, and after one of the greatest rides ever seen he landed Semper Lex a winner by a length. The hisses when the flag fell were turned to the wildest shouts of applause even before the winning line was passed. Bergen is a great finisher and a good judge of pace, but sometimes he is not alert in getting away from the post, which is probably the greatest drawback to his work.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company has made a rate of one and one-third of the usual fare from October 20th to November 3rd from points south of Tehachapi to Los Angeles as follows: Banning and Crafton to Santa Barbara inclusive; Chino, Monrovia, Santa Ana, Tuston, Whittier, Long Beach, San Pedro and Santa Monica branches and San Bernardino and Riverside. This rate is made for the period covering the Los Angeles Fair which commences on October 21st and the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association race meeting at Los Angeles, which commences on October 28th and closes on November 2nd.

The Last Notice.

By referring to our business columns it will be noticed that entries for the stakes of the Winter meeting of the California Jockey Club will close next Friday, October 25th, and every horseman on this Coast as well as in the East, should send in entries at once.

There are twenty-two stakes to be decided, these will be for all classes, ages and distances, and as the amounts given are large there should be no hesitancy among horse owners who are striving to make money in sending in a list of those they think might win a share at once. The conditions are liberal and will meet the endorsement of everyone. The track is one of the best in the world, while the appointments in every respect are first class.

Many horseowners who did not make any entries in the stake races to be given by the Pacific Coast Jockey Club now have an opportunity of engaging their horses in stakes equally as valuable, and as the time is rapidly approaching for them to prepare the preliminaries, they should send at once to this office, or the office of the California Jockey Club, and get a book of blanks, fill them out and send them in before next Friday, October 25th. It will pay them to do this and if they read the advertisement closely they will see that they cannot afford to neglect this opportunity to have their horses well engaged for these rich stakes, and especially when they know these stakes will be run on dates that will not conflict with those of any other meeting.

The Horse Show.

"The talk of the town is the Horse Show." Every one who owns a handsome, stylish horse is determined to have him there for competition for one of the prizes offered. The promoters of this show are most agreeably surprised at the interest being taken in the meeting, and last Monday they asked the Board of Supervisors for permission to erect a temporary building on Polk street, at the rear of the Mechanics Pavilion, wherein they can place box stalls to accommodate a number of horses that are entered for exhibition purposes. The main building will be fitted up in splendid style and over a month will be spent by the carpenters in making it the grandest interior of any ever seen in this State.

Incandescent as well as arc lights will be placed everywhere, and judging by the experience the management had in regard to the illumination of this immense building last year, there is no doubt that in this respect it will rival any electrical display seen on this coast.

The society people not only of this city but of this State are anticipating a renewal of the pleasant hours devoted to witnessing the magnificent horses, equipages and performances in the ring last season. The cavalry horses, hurdle jumpers, polo ponies, thoroughbreds, fire engine horses, saddle horses, famous trotters, including Azote, Alix, Directly, McKinney, Diablo, Guy Wilkes, Chas. Derby and a score of other famous horses will be there. The choicest thoroughbreds that ever trod California's soil will prance and dance in front of the delighted thousands, while other novelties of a surprising and pleasing nature will be prepared to keep alive the interest. There will be no tedious intermissions; everything will be conducted as smoothly and quickly as possible.

From the East a number of the most famous horse show people are coming, and judging by what they said regarding their visit here last season, they will bring many friends with them to enjoy the week of pleasure in the pavilion, and a tour to our famous Winter resorts.

Entries will close November 1st. All who desire to make entries and have not received the prize lists and blanks will, by sending a postal, receive copies at once. The address of the secretary Geo. A. Newhall, is, Mills Building, Room 30.

The War on the Milk Brigade.

The war upon adulterated milk is raging, and if it will never cease until every vendor of spurious lacteal fluid is placed behind prison walls, the people of this city will be thankful.

For years the attention of the authorities has been called to the milk supply on this peninsula, and the condition of a number of cows that are to be seen at the little "milk ranches" in the suburbs; but no attention has been paid to these reminders. Now that the Board of Health has taken steps to bring sanitary law breakers to justice and destroy all cattle afflicted with tuberculosis, it is hoped that every city in this State will follow the example set. At the insane asylum at Stockton fourteen months ago, the county veterinarian examined the herd of cattle which supplied the poor, unfortunate inmates there with milk, and found a number suffering from tuberculosis, and destroyed them, but the work of annihilation was stopped and several that showed symptoms of the dreaded disease were allowed to live.

The State Veterinarian Society has always been a strong factor in calling attention to the poisonous milk sold to the people of this city, and the disregard for cleanliness and sanitation at many of the small dairies in this and adjoining counties, and if a thorough investigation is made it will be found that the learned members of this profession were right in their conclusions. The dealers in good wholesome milk have nothing to fear, while those who transgress the laws by selling poisonous milk and keeping alive diseased animals which ought never find their way to the hutchers' block should be heavily fined and imprisoned. Let the good work go on, and this journal will do all in its power to aid the officers of the law to preserve the public from the creatures who have neither regard for the public health nor humanity for the suffering cattle which are "dying by inches" of consumption on their little backyard ranches.

For some reason our correspondent at Santa Ana failed to send us a report of the races there in time this week, but in our next issue it will be found complete.

Polo at the Breeders' Meeting.

The daily press of the Southern part of California is advertising the great polo meeting to be given at the Breeders Meeting, and this is the tenor of some of the articles:

"During the meeting of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association to be held at Agricultural Park the latter part of this month, the noble game of polo will be played as it was never before played in Southern California, and will be the leading society event of the fall season.

The Burlingame team will be composed of Malcolm Thomas, Walter Thomas, Walter S. Hohart, Joe Tobin and W. McCreery.

Riverside—George Waring, C. Maude, Mr. Allen and H. Maude, with possibly Boh Bettner and his famous polo pony Cigarette.

Santa Monica—Peter Martin, W. R. Ward, Mr. Young and George Proctor.

This polo game will bring out the greatest assemblage of society people that has ever gathered in Southern California."—The Capitalist.

The members of the polo clubs are becoming very enthusiastic over it, and when the directors of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association start for Los Angeles next Tuesday to make the final preparations for the meeting, and see that the country for miles around Los Angeles, San Bernardino and San Diego is well placarded with show bills, the polo game will not be omitted.

At several trotting meetings on the grand circuit this year the exciting game of polo was seen to great advantage by thousands of delighted people and the consensus of opinion was that of all attractions introduced by way of novelty at the light harness meeting, these polo games was the best and most enjoyable. A beautiful silver trophy has been made by Shreve & Co., the jewelers of this city, to be presented to the winning team, and for that prize the champion polo players will give an exhibition that will never be forgotten. The team that wins it will have to work for it.

JUDGE GILBERT'S decision in favor of the Stanford estate, in which the latter was sued for such a large amount, was received with pleasure by almost every citizen on this coast. It is earnestly hoped that now that the case has been appealed for final adjudication to the Supreme Court it will not be overruled, and the good work of carrying on the University and the great industries surrounding it will be carried on. The sympathies of the people everywhere are with Mrs. Stanford, for her courage in passing through the most trying ordeal that a lady of her standing could be subjected, are well known to all. Realizing this, and how disastrous would be a cessation of all the enterprises at Palo Alto and Vina founded by her universally-beloved husband, should the case be decided against the estate, it is with feelings of anxiety everyone awaits the final decree.

Six carloads of choice trotters and pacers accompanied by three score of men who have the light harness horses in charge, left the northern and central portions of California for the meetings in the Southern circuit during the past three weeks. They will close their "round of pleasure" at the race track at Los Angeles where they will be moving past the quarter poles for the next two weeks commencing Monday. The meeting at this place is sure to be a successful one, for by the united efforts of the Los Angeles Association and the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association there will be two weeks of the best racing ever seen in California. A paid judge, one that is celebrated throughout the East, will officiate, and at the meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. A. Wednesday and Saturday, the great polo game will be decided. A splendid time is anticipated.

THE State Agricultural Society advertise the closing of entries to the Nursery Stakes for two-year-olds, to be run at the State Fair of 1896, in this issue. The date set is November 1st. Every owner of a two-year-old foaled in 1894 should send in an entry at once. Secretary Smith informs us that two more stakes will be advertised, one for weanlings of 1895 and a futurity stake for mares bred in 1895. Entries for these will close January 1st. All colts to be sold at the coming auction sale should be entered in the Nursery Stakes advertised in this issue to close January 1st; their value will be enhanced and better prices will be obtained for them.

THE attention of our readers is again called to the great sales of thoroughbreds which are to take place in this city early next month under the auspices of Killip & Co., the well-known auctioneers. Catalogues have been issued and may be had at the office of the auctioneers, 30 Montgomery street.

Electioneer Blood Leads Again.

LEXINGTON, October 17.—This was the ninth day of the Breeders' meeting. The attendance was 1,500; weather chilly; track fast. There were five races on the card. The fifth was postponed after Carillion had taken two heats. The sensation was the breaking of the world's two-year-old race record by Tommy Britton, who lowered it half a second, making the mile in 2:15½.

The Johnson stake, value $2,000, for trotters of the 2:24 class (two heats trotted yesterday)—Valley Queen, by Sphinx, won third, fourth and fifth heats. Time, 2:15½, 2:15½, 2:16. Lulu F., by Christmas, second, Catherine, by Candidate, son of Electioneer, third. Iron Bar won first and second heats in 2:16½ and 2:14½, but was distanced in the third heat. Ella Belmont and May Day also started.

2:23 class, trotting, purse $500—Wanda, by Ridgewood, won in straight heats. Time, 2:20½, 2:18½, 2:19½. Fannie S. second, Baltulio third. Eligo, Asmund and Perle Deleon also started.

2:13 class, pace; purse $1,000—Belle T. won in straight heats. Time, 2:10½, 2:10½, 2:11½. Choral second, Red Lady third. Ophelia, Deckwright, Connor, Guerilla, Bill Richball, Walter D., Zeigler and Cader also started.

The Lexington Stake, for two-year-olds, value $2,000—Tommy Britton, by Liberty Bell, won in straight heats. Time, 2:22, 2:15½. Axmaid, by Axtel, second, Silver Lake third. Baroness Marguerite also started.

2:28 class, purse $500 (unfinished)—Carrillon, by Chimes, won first and second heats. Time, 2:20, 2:19. Forrester second in two heats. Dr. Robinson, McKinney Bell, Nellie Clark and Island Girl also started.

The King of Clippers.

There has been no invention of greater use to the owners of horses than the clipping machines. They have superseded the old comb and scissors which were in use for a century by the grooms and professional clippers who took great pride in the fact that they could clip and singe a horse in twelve hours. There have been many machine clippers invented and improved, but the one that is acknowledged superior to all is the "Chicago Clipper," manufactured by the Chicago Flexible Shaft Company and advertised in this issue. Everyone who has seen them in use can testify to the easy way they are worked and the excellence with which the work is done by them. Thousands of these machines are in use and every firm which has a number of horses should purchase one, for one day's clipping will pay for the machine and the horses will be easier to take care of, be healthier, and look better than they will with their long wet coats of hair. See the advertisement and write at once.

A Chance for Horsemen.

There never was a better chance presented to horse owners and breeders to get a first-class farm than the one advertised in this issue called "The Clayton Ranch." It consists of 900 acres of the finest soil, well watered by springs and living streams, right on the edge of one of the most thriving towns in Contra Costa County, and is accessible by rail or water from San Francisco. This place is noted for its early feed, and horses thrive there the year around. There is an elegant residence on the place and a large number of buildings, such as barns, stables, shed, granary, dairy house, etc., nice vineyard, and, in fact, it is an ideal farm with a climate unsurpassed for healthfulness in California. Write to Geo. T. Ruddock, Mills Building, for price and full particulars regarding it at once if you want a decided bargain.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the good old reliable firm of W. & J. Sloane & Co., the well-known furniture and carpet dealers. Rich and rare articles suitable for the adornment of club rooms are to be found here. It is the only place in this city where the very best line of goods can be had at the very lowest prices. See advertisement.

An opportunity like the one presented in our advertising columns to get such a grandly-bred four year filly as Amazon, by Chas. Derby, 2:20, out of Ramona (dam of W. Wood, 2:07), by Anteo, will not be likely to occur again for some time. This is one of the handsomest fillies in California and can be purchased at a very low figure.

The grandly-bred thoroughbred mare Mayfield, advertised for sale in this issue, is one that would be creditable to any stock farm in California. She is in foal to the mighty Racine, and will be disposed of at a very low figure. Wildidle broodmares are valuable and few have ever been offered for sale as well bred as this one.

It was up in Vermont, and the old man was driving a hot favorite. He laid up the first heat, but was coming along to win in the second when his horse tripped and fell, throwing the old man a dozen yards. Up in the grand stand his son arose and piped forth in great excitement: "Gosh! Dad's laying up another heat."

DURING the races at Lexington last Wednesday Andy McDowell and Monroe Salisbury had a scrap and then Jack Curry and Knap McCarthy had a little fistic argument. The combatants were separated before much harm was done.

ROSITA A, 2:15, one of the gamest pacing mares seen on the California circuit in foal to Direct, is for sale cheap. This is a bargain and should be considered by our leading horsemen.

LYNNE BEL, by St. Bel won the 2:11 trotting race at Lexington, Ky., October 16th. Time, 2:11½, 2:11½, 2:11½. Altao won the third heat in 2:11½ and got second money.

MORNING GLORY, by Electioneer, is the dam of Meringo, 2:27½, and Gloria, 2:23½; both of these performers are by Nephew.

WALDO J. is not as lame as reported. He will be seen in the 2:07 pace at Los Angeles next week.

FRED KOHL, by Guy Wilkes, has a record of 2:12½ now. He earned it at Lexington last Monday.

THE Los Angeles meeting begins next Monday.

C. J. C. Trotting Meeting.

The meeting which will be the grand finale to the best series of race meetings ever seen in California will be held at the Bay District track commencing Friday, November 8th, and ending Friday, November 15th under the auspices of the California Jockey Club. There will be no other race meeting held in this State during this time, and by the interest being awakened in it success is assured. The following is a list of entries that have not declared out, and our readers, by carefully scanning it, will perceive that a week's enjoyment will be theirs, and the management will omit nothing that will add to the pleasure of the thousands who will come to see these races from all parts of California:

OUR friend James Dustin is fast regaining his health and strength, and expects soon to be able to return to his love, and jog Directum, 2:05½. The attachment between the two is just touching. If the little fellow's leg has fully recovered Mr. Dustin will fit him for racing another season. If not he will stand him at Lexington, where there is a loud call for him. This horse is now but six years old, and as he has been racing constantly since he was three years old, he has not had an opportunity to do much stud service, and consequently has sired only a few colts. His admirers long to see him demonstrate his ability as a sire, and large inducements are being held out for him to settle in the blue grass region.—Turf, Farm and Horse.

ONE day last week the crowd at the Allentown (Pa.) fair was estimated at 65,000. On Friday there was an attendance of 25,000, the largest ever known on a Friday. The receipts for the week are close to $21,000, the largest at any county fair ever held in the State. The aggregate attendance for the week was 115,000, a figure never reached before. Rebus, the pacer, lowered the track record to 2:13½, pacing, the fastest three consecutive heats and the best average miles (2:14) ever made in Pennsylvania on a half-mile track.

M. THEODORE KEARNEY, of this city, purchased a splendid team of black geldings at W. D. Grand's silver cup sale in New York City, October 8th. They are called Climber and Clinker and will, no doubt, be seen at the coming Horse Show. He also purchased another choice team called Colonel and Corporal at the same sale. These are all high steppers.

ALTAO, the bay horse in the Salisbury stable, struck a winning gait at Terre Haute, on Wednesday, October 3d. McDowell won the 2:14 trot with him in 2:10½, 2:09½, 2:12½, Altao is by Altamont (son of Almont and Sue Ford, by Brown Chief) out of Sally M., by Oregon Pathfinder, and is a race horse when just right. He was not at his best in the Grand Circuit.

ROBERT J. defeated Frank Agan, John R. Gentry and Joe Patchen at Lexington in the special free-for-all on Wednesday. Time, 2:05½, 2:06, 2:05.

THE HOLLISTER RACES.

Beautiful Weather, Large Attendance and Excellent Racing—One of the Most Successful Meetings Held in California This Year.

There are many places in California which the average follower of the California Circuit has never visited—places which have every inducement to attract the lovers of good racing, and among these none have greater attractions than Hollister, San Benito County.

Situated in the center of a valley called Santa Clara, surrounded by miles of the finest soil the sun shines on, and which produces all kinds of fruits, flowers and cereals; possessing a climate second to no other valley in California; inhabited by progressive people who have never known what a bad year in this valley means, it is no wonder they take pleasure in attending the annual race meetings held at the pleasant race track, just one mile from the City Hall. Every one owns a horse and buggy there, and all the little towns in the valley and on the hills are represented by the same thrifty, prosperous class of people as there is to be found in Hollister. They all come to the race track to see the races, and, like the people who live in Salinas, just across the Gabilan Mountains which divides the Salinas Valley from this, there is an enthusiasm about the results of the races which makes one feel that it is well to be with them, and it stirs one's veins to hear the shouts and cheers of the vast assemblage as the winner comes under the wire.

The track is perfectly level, the soil a mixture of sediment and adobe which, if not fast, is very safe. The turns are all made according to the regulation—an inch to the foot—and the directors of this association have had this course prepared as well as they possibly could for the meeting which ended so successfully last Saturday evening.

There was considerable disappointment felt over the absence of the running horses, but it was asserted that an ill-disposed young man, who was an employee at the course last season, circulated a number of false and malicious reports among the owners of thoroughbreds, and did all in his power to prevent the horses from coming. His actions were not noticed until it was too late and I have this to say that in 1896 the number of first-class thoroughbreds which will be seen on the Hollister track will astonish and dumbfound this spiteful individual.

There were several good running races decided there, however, and those who brought their bangtails to the track will regret it. The light harness races were excellent, in fact they were better than any heretofore seen on this course. The decisions in the judges stand were fair and just, and the horsemen were well pleased with the way every race was started and decided.

While there were no records broken the races were contested from wire to wire, and President Scofield and the judges, J. A. McCloskey, P. E. G. Anzar and C. H. Wagner, assisted by Secretary McConnell, conducted the meeting in a manner which elicited the highest praise from all in attendance.

The summaries of the week's racing as published below, will tell their own simple story, and next season if the new railroad which leaves San Francisco along the coast direct to Los Angeles is finished, and President Huntington says it must be, there will be more good horses seen at Hollister than the people have any idea of. There is plenty of room for them, and as the reputation of the management of this track is second to no other in this State, and the people are enthusiastic lovers of good races and are willing to pay to see first-class sport, there is no reason why with the meeting of 1894 and 1895 as precedents that the meeting of 1896 will not eclipse all others.

NAGLEE BURKE telegraphs that he will leave New York with his stable as soon as the present meeting at Morris Park is at an end.

Barney Schreiber's Horses Arrive.

A carload of horses belonging to Barney Schreiber, the popular St. Louis turfman, arrived at the Bay District Monday. There are twelve in the string.

Another carload will arrive the latter part of this month, so it will be seen that Barney will have fully twenty-five horses to sport the orange and purple at the winter race meetings at the Bay District and Ingleside tracks. Among the horses that arrived yesterday was the local favorite, Braw Scot. This gray horse was a frequent winner last year and usually carried more of the public money than any other horse at the track. In fact, Braw Scot and Felix Carr was a combination hard to beat. Half the people at the track lost when old Braw Scot suffered defeat, which, fortunately, did not occur very often. Jack Richelieu is another old friend that arrived yesterday. He always showed to be thoroughly game and has won many a hard-fought struggle in the last fifty yards. Both Braw Scot and Jack Richelieu have had a long rest and should win many another race for good-natured Barney Schreiber.

The following is a list of the horses that arrived:

Jack Richelieu, by Great Tom—Envenom.
Pearson, 2, by Great Tom—Drift.
Braw Scot, by Midlothian—Helen Scratch.
Zoolin, by Zorilla—Fraulein.
Ida H., 2, by Ben Ali—by Hidalgo.
Laura F., 2, by Tremont—Sallie Hagen.
Yemen, by Alarm—Hira.
Doyle, by MacDuff—Miss Lawrence.
Eolian—Sadie filly.
George Kinney filly.
Ferris Hartman, 2, by Woodland—Lenora.
Highland, by Col. Hepburn—Edna.
Wade will train this division of Schreiber's horses. M. C. Hubbell also came to California with this string. Schreiber has signed Jerry Chorn to ride for him this year. Chorn will leave for California on November 1st. Felix Carr experienced considerable trouble in getting down to 113 pounds, and his days of usefulness in the saddle are about over.—Chronicle.

The Stockwell Blood.

It does not, as a rule, seem to be noticed in the clamor for Galopin, St. Simon, Hampton, etc., the Stockwell line is apt to be forgotten, but Melton, had he remained in this country, would have been one of the most fashionable sires, and it is lucky that he left here such sons as Best Man and Avington to maintain the family reputation. It will not be long before we find the house of Stockwell up in the clouds again, for Orme is a tower of strength, as all who have seen his foals are ready to testify, and it is not improbable that he will give even his uncle, St. Simon, the go by in the race for stud favoritism and success. At present Orme's fee is just half that of St. Simon, for whose services the record amount of 400 guineas will in future be paid. Even so, it can hardly be said that this is too much, looking at the huge prices for which St. Simon yearlings sell. It is a serious matter, however, for those whose mares prove barren, and hitherto these have been a very considerable proportion. It is hoped, however, that the horse has made considerable constitutional improvement, and from what I heard from breeders at Doncaster last week and previously, much better results may be expected in the shape of St. Simon foals next year. It is not a little curious that amid all his stud triumphs St. Simon has not yet given us a Two Thousand or Derby winner, but Persimmon should rectify this, if the odds of 3 to 1 which were taken on Saturday about him for next year's Derby are at all reasonable. Hampton, strangely enough, has never sired a Leger winner, though there are three Derby winners to his credit, and two more—Highland Chief and Royal Hampton—that were unlucky not to win. Isonomy, with two winners of the treble event, did best of all.—London Sportsman.

A Poisonous Weed.

MILWAUKEE (Wis.), October 14.—State Veterinarian, Dr. C. F. Scott, has discovered that under the shaggy yellow blossoms of the golden rod flowers there lurks the germs of the most dangerous disease to horses that has ever been discovered. Like consumption, it is incurable, and it affects the equine in much the same way as that disease eats away the life of a man.

The horses which eat the tempting plant go into a gradual decline, the blood is destroyed, the tissues waste away and they die in from three weeks to three months. Thousands of horses have perished in the pineries of Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin from this disease.

The State Veterinarians of these States have for a long time tried in vain to discover the cause of it. Dr. Scott said today: "I am satisfied this is where the trouble lies. There is no cure for it. Nothing can be done except to destroy the leaf and roots."

Domino's Dam Dead.

LEXINGTON (Ky.), October 14.—Mannie Gray, the famous thoroughbred brood mare, by Inquirer, dam of Domino, Correction and other great racers, died at Major Thomas' farm Sunday morning of heart disease.

Mannie Gray was a black mare, foaled in 1874. She was owned by Major B. G. Thomas, of Dixiana Stud, Kentucky, the home of Himyar. The famous matron was by Enquirer—Lizzie G., by War Dance; second dam by Lecompte.

LAST Monday C. A. Brown sold to Phil Archibald a yearling chestnut colt by Idaliun (brother to Sir Modred), out of Annie Lewis (sister to Floodtide), by Flood. This youngster is a grand looker and in his two-year-old form will, if nothing prevents, be a winner the first time he starts.

FROM John Wood, trainer, Joliet, Ill.: I have used "Absorbine" with great results. It is doing all you claim for it; can highly recommend it.

G. K. Barton & Co., Cedar Rapids, Iowa, writes: Enclosed please find draft for $2 for another bottle "Absorbine." It is doing the business.

Lights That Lead Astray.

The American daily press is just now overworking, as a subject for "specials," the fortunes of Riley Grannan, plunger, about as thoroughly as it did those of "Pittsburg Phil," a few years ago. This is the age of sensationalism in daily journalism, and the "great dailies," that should and might be greater in a nobler way, vie with each other in striving after the startling, the seductive and the horrifying for "Sunday padding." Until the sensational epoch passes away, and the masses demand more healthy and substantial literary fare, the regard for consequences of publication will be unthought of by the editors who must have a "good story."

Riley Grannan, like George E. Smith, better known as "Pittsburg Phil," is, we believe, not only a shrewd but a well conducted young man, and in no way responsible for the overwrought stories of which his betting operations are made the text and basis. The latest story, and the one that is being most perniciously worked is to the effect that Grannan recently won a quarter of a million dollars betting on horse races in three weeks.

It is the same old story, so many of whose predecessors we have known, and all of which are chiefly lies. No doubt Mr. Grannan has won a great deal of money lately, but no sane man believes that he won $60,000 on one race, or $250,000 in three weeks. It has been so with M. F. Dwyer, Pittsburg Phil and all the other heavy plungers. When they have won, their winnings have been grossly exaggerated by the common race track gossip, which the daily papers reproduce as food for the gullible—and just as surely, whether intentional or not, as bait for gudgeons. All these stories are brilliantly colored, and finished as daintily as an angler's fly; and each, whether so intended or not, is who believes that the fortunes that others have almost in a day charmed from a financial vacuum also await him. In short, these stories are in style suggestive of Wall street and Board of Trade brokers' circulars that show you how to get rich in a minute on a capital of $3, and, whatever the intent, the effect is the same. The sowing is the same, and the same bad harvest in the very nature of things follows.

The stock circular "never touches" the mind, and never changes the intention or policy of those who know the game. nor do the wonderful stories of great turf winnings make even a momentary impression upon those who know racing closely, who have learned in the school of experience that the chances of making a fortune or even a living by betting are, even to the well informed, not one in ten thousand. It is the lambs whose feet are strange to its stony ways who are shorn in the Wall street. It is the innocents, who know nothing of horses, of horse-racing, or of betting, who pursue the phantom of sudden wealth at the race track, and with blind faith in personal destiny sail bravely out on the ocean that has engulfed the thousands where one has safely crossed.

The temptation to gain sudden wealth is the strongest of all allurements, and it is the rock responsible for more wrecks than all the others marked on the chart of life's sea. To those whose days are all a struggle for existence, the contemplation of the lot of their happier brothers who toil not nor spin, makes their seemingly hard estate the harder, and every story of sudden rise from nothing to great riches is a temptation to take a chance "to win or lose all" so strong that it is not surprising that the thousands yield. Therefore, when they turn to Wall street they see only Gould and Sage and the others who float above the vortex that has swallowed the hopes and fortunes of millions, and when they read of the turf they think only of the very, very few that have struggled through to fortune. If you tell the story of the great plungers of turf history, how not one in a thousand has prospered by betting alone, and how in nine cases out of ten the few who have gone up like rockets have more suddenly come down as sticks, you have a deaf audience among the uninitiated. They don't want to hear of Plunger Walton and Jubilee Juggins—the story of Grannan and Dwyer is pleasanter.

The turf has been blamed for the downfall of pretty nearly everybody who has gone wrong in any kind of speculation, and this has been the standing argument of its enemies, and a powerful factor in securing legislation hostile to racing. Racing always suffers and never gains from the patronage of those who follow it for betting, and betting alone, and more especially those who, knowing nothing of the sport, make the race track a medium for betting money of their own that they cannot afford to lose—and sometimes other people's money.

Betting is one thing, plunging is another. We believe in the liberty to bet, and no man can be held blameworthy in any sense for betting within his means—that is, wagering what he can afford to lose. Only the rich can plunge, and the rich man who loses through plunging is not entitled to any especial sympathy. But anything that is dazzled before the eyes of the clerk, the salesman, the ordinary boy of work, to tempt him into the folly of squandering his all in the vain search of sudden fortune in a sphere of which he is entirely ignorant, is a wrong to the turf, and is morally on a par with a stock or a lottery circular.—Horseman.

The Revival of Good Prices.

It requires very little of the gift of prophecy to be able to predict that a great reaction in the price of horses is imminent, remarks an exchange. And this is especially true of trotting horses. For three years the breeding done has amounted almost to nothing. This has been due to low prices. The American people do nothing by halves. If a business is profitable they rush into it by the thousand. If it ceases to be profitable they rush out just as fast. In the latter part of 1892 and the beginning of 1893 the "bottom" appeared to be "dropping out" of the horse business. Consequently almost nobody bred in 1893 or since. In 1892, 1894 and 1895 thousands of horses have been disqualified for track work. At the end of this season many campaigners will be permanently retired on account of injuries received in this year's work. In the younger classes there will be comparatively few for sale, as scarcely any have been bred. Under such a state of facts, what is there to prevent a great appreciation in values? There will not be one two-year-old for sale in 1896 where there were ten in 1892. There will be still fewer in 1897 and 1898. Notwithstanding some undesirable features in the trotting for this year it will not do to assume that there will be no trotting next year.

There is wonderful recuperative force in the trotting business. It adapts itself to changed conditions with great rapidity. The country has not gone over to puritanism, and is not going over to it. Trotting has been hampered somewhat, it is true, by the fanatics, but these things also react. The wave of fanaticism that has been doing the damage will soon have spent its force. The American people are not a race of bigots. They do not believe in the right of government to destroy their amusements, and they will not long tolerate governments that attempt it. They are believers in a very large personal liberty. They are opposed to unnecessary restraints. It is not possible that religious fanaticisms can to any considerable time stand in the way of the national amusements of the people of such a country as this. They have too much culture, too high a civilization, and their inherent love of liberty is too great. There will be as much trotting next year as this, and the demand for track horses will be as great, with a diminished supply. Wise financiers will count upon higher prices next year than this, and on an increase in values for several years to come.

Important to Race Horse Owners.

CINCINNATI, October 16.—The American Turf Congress met to-night. Among the members present was Ed Corrigan, representing the Pacific Coast Jockey Club and the Chicago Racing Association.

The rule with regard to registration was suspended until December 1, 1896, so far as the Pacific Coast Association is concerned. This is to give the cheaper class of horses a chance to earn a livelihood, as racing is in its infancy there.

A committee on Appeals, consisting of E. S. Clay, J. H. Rees and Ed Corrigan, was appointed. This committee may hear appeals from the rulings of judges or executive officers of associations. It is empowered to reverse the decisions of judges and to fine associations for failure to enforce any rule of the Turf Congress. The exception to this is that the decisions of judges and to fine associations for failure to enforce any rule of the Turf Congress. The exception to this is that the decision of judges as to bets is final. The committee may also pass on applications for the reinstatement of outlawed persons, but not appeals in behalf of horses or tracks. It may hear cases of outlawed persons at once, but its other powers do not go into effect until January 1, 1896.

The following amendment to rule 116 was made: "In no case shall the starter delay a field on account of a bad actor."

The engagement of a horse which is sold do not go with the horse without the consent of the owner.

In selling races only owners who have horses in the race can claim the winner. The third horse has first claim. The order of the horses is to be decided by lots. The price, if sold or claimed, of horses in selling races must be paid to the scales clerk within fifteen minutes after the sale or claim, and persons who may violate this rule may be ruled off.

'Decrying Strains and Families.

It was the custom of some men and some turf journals to sneer at certain strains and families of the trotting breed, decrying their abilities and giving them but scant credit for excellence displayed either on the track or in the paddock. It is abundantly true that some families have not proved as prolific of great race horses as others, and the descendants of one great stallion have perhaps not proved as game as those of another, but the attempt, for selfish reasons, to make this plain, results only in harm to the breed as a whole. Six or seven years ago, when pedigree without either speed or individuality would bring a long price, the advocates of certain families were much louder in their declamations than they are at this time, but there is still far too much said on this subject. For instance, the foreign buyer reads that horses of this, that or the other blood are not stayers. The utterance may have been born of the rankest and most groundless prejudice; nevertheless it is sure to influence the purchaser in making his selections, and one or more breeders will be injured. Rivalry of this sort is unwholesome in the extreme. Good and bad are to be found in every family, and it is beyond doubt that no one family ever prospered without the assistance of one or more of the others. It is always better to build up than to tear down, and instead of ranging this stallion or family, and trying to prove that the first is immeasurably superior to the second, it is better by far to consider them both as improving agents in the breed, both contributing their share in the speed which is now so absolutely essential to success.—Horseman.

Axiom Shot to Put Her Out of Misery.

Axiom is dead. She was shot at Gravesend last Sunday morning to relieve her of further suffering. She had been afflicted for some time with spinal meningitis, brought on by injuries received from a kick during a race in early spring.

Axiom was a bay filly by Maxim—Touche Pas, and the property of P. J. Dwyer. She started fifteen times during her career, winning five races, being three times second and seven times unplaced. Among her victories was the United Stakes Hotel Stakes at Saratoga, wherein she defeated Floretta IV., Clissie B. and two others. She was looked upon as the filly of the year in early spring, but misfortune and finally death claimed her for its own.—N. Y. Mercury.

Axiom's last start was in the Futurity, with 110 pounds up. She was fifth in the public's estimation, as shown by the closing odds, and had the distinction of having kept the crack Californian Crescendo close company while he held the lead for half a mile. Crescendo only lowered his colors to Requitul, but Axiom's were struck to the whole field, as she held third position at the half pole, and finished last of the twenty starters.—Ed.

BARNEY SCHREIBER writes from Cincinnati that he has refused $7,500 for his two-year-old colt Don Carillo. The Don won a mile the other day with 112 pounds up in 1.46, the track being ankle deep in mud. Schreiber says Carillo is the best two-year-old in the West, and expresses considerable surprise that he should show a liking to go the route. Mariners, as a rule, are partial to a shorter distance. Among the new horses Schreiber will bring out are Yemen, a sprinter, and Service, a pretty fair sort of a handicap horse. According to Mr. Schreiber a great many people will be out here to attend the races within a few weeks.

A Racing Circuit Formed.

During the meeting of the State Fair the horsemen held a meeting to discuss the racing outlook for another season. Dr. Clow, of Walla Walla, called the meeting to order and stated its object. Mr. M. D. Wisdom was nominated and elected chairman. All of the prominent horsemen of the Northwest were present and took a lively interest in the proceedings. It was finally decided that a circuit comprising Oregon, Washington and Idaho should be organized and to be called the North Pacific Racing Association, and a committee of five was elected as a central committee with headquarters at Portland. The names of those elected were Van B. DeLashmutt, M. D. Wisdom, Chas. Woods, A. G. Ryan and Sam Jones. This committee will meet shortly and formulate a set of rules under which the different race meetings will work. The places spoken of as most likely to give meetings are The Dalles, Pendleton, Le Grande, Baker City, Walla Walla, Dayton, Colfax, Lewiston, Moscow, Spokane, Yakima, Tacoma and Victoria for the upper country, and Hillsboro, McMinnville, Independence, Albany, Eugene, Salem, Portland and Vancouver for the lower or southern circuit. A committeeman will be appointed in each of these places by the central committee, whose duty it will be to organize local clubs in their respective towns, who will then place themselves in communication at headquarters.

In this way it can be ascertained what places want to give meetings, and about how much each place can do for itself. With this circuit before them the horsemen will have no hesitancy in working their horses, and there will always be enough to give good racing at every point, and the different societies need have no fear but what all races will fill. There are plenty of horses and colts in the Northwest that only need a chance for development to make them grand race horses, but with only two or three meetings to trot them at, as has been the case heretofore, there was not much to encourage breeders. Now that this circuit has been determined upon it becomes the duty of every horseman and every one interested in horses to do what he can to help it along. The central committee will be glad to hear from any of these places mentioned without further notice, or any other place that would like to come in. Whatever is done should be done at once. The columns of this paper will be thrown wide open for any discussion or any suggestions that may be made, and is ready at any and all times to publish any communication upon the subject. Mr. Wisdom, Secretary of the committee here, is ready to receive any suggestions as to the appointment of the committees in the different places, and it would facilitate matters very much if he could at once be placed in communication with them. This is a matter of vital importance to every horseman, and we hope every one will show that he takes an interest in it.—North Pacific Rural.

Electioneer's to the Front.

At the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' Association at Boston, in the two-year-old purse for fillies, the daughter of Del Mar, Lady Delmar, was first, and the bay filly Adwild, by Advertiser, second.

In the two-year-old purse for colts, Bingen, son of May King, was first; Woven Wind, by Sphinx, second, and Navahoe, by Arion, third. Five two-year-olds, all money winners' by five different sons of Electioneer.

In the three-year-old stake, Monturo, whose dam was Nellie May, by Electioneer, won all the money.

Copeland, by Del Mar, won second money in the four-year-old 2:30 class.

Pedlar, by Electioneer, won second money in the 2:20 class.

Blue Gum won the purse $1,000 for three-year-olds, a six-heat race. Gem, the dam of Blue Gum, is out of Guess, by Electioneer.

Seylax won third money in the 2:25 class. His dam is by Ansel, son of Electioneer.

Monturo, dam Nellie May, won third money in the three-year-old 2:40 trot, won by Blue Gum.

Barnacle, by Arion, won third money in the yearling stake.

Four first moneys, five seconds, two thirds and one fourth out of twelve races looks like the Electioneer blood is marching on as race horses and money winners.

The Electioneer-Wilkes Cross.

What a great cross the sons of Electioneer crossed on daughters of sons of Geo. Wilkes, in fact the cross of Electioneer and Geo. Wilkes anywhere you find it for early and extreme speed?

Adbell (1), 2:23, sire Advertiser, 2:15½, by Electioneer—Lula Wilkes, by Geo. Wilkes.

Diablo (4), 2:09½, sire Chas. Derby, whose dam was Katy G., by Electioneer. Diablo's dam, Bertha, by Alcantara, son of Geo. Wilkes.

For the present year the very large number of 428 subscriptions were secured to the Grand Prize of Paris, but the entries published in the official broadsheet totalled no fewer than 485, a result easily understood when it is borne in mind that the city of Paris gives £3,000 and the five principal railway companies £2,000, the whole of which amount is added to the owners' subscriptions. Mr. Richard Croker takes eight chances, and Baron Hirsch nine.

THE GUN.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Ducks are plentiful everywhere on this Coast this year.

Blue Ribbon Smokeless is taking well in the Northwest.

Messrs. Goodall and Garber bagged two hundred and thirty-seven birds on the Suisun marsh last Tuesday.

The season for selling wild ducks does not commence until November 15th, but the day of presentation to friends began last Tuesday.

J. S. Fanning is in Southern California at present writing, and "G. D." Robertson is on his way to Washington and British Columbia. Both of these gentlemen are booming "Gold Dust."

There never was such an exodus of hunters to the hills, valleys, marshes and lagoons from this city as on last Monday morning. A large number of these sports were going to try the new smokeless powders.

There is a lagoon near Salinas, Monterey County, the shores of which, as well as its grassy islands, tremble like hog land when walked over. It is called by a Spanish name which signifies "trembling earth." It is almost inaccessible because of the heavy growth of reeds and tules surrounding it, but to the fortunate hunter who has a dog trained to find the birds as they drop in the floating beds of the water lilies which at this time of the year are in bloom in it, a bag of mallards can be counted upon. C. Z. Hebert, of Salinas, knows every little spot in this strange place, and whenever he takes his dogs for this place his neighbors and friends know he will not return empty handed.

Mr. Thomson, in his recent book on the Chitral campaign gives some interesting particulars about the shooting of the Lee-Metford rifle. The chief thing to be noted is that the bullet possesses little stopping powers, unless it hits a bone or a vital spot. One man had three bullet holes in his legs, and was able to run some distance. He was afterwards found four or five miles away from the camp, had his wounds dressed, and then walked off as if nothing had happened. Mr. Thomson's conclusions are: "That the net result of the observations made seems to be this; at a very short range of two or three hundred yards the bullet has a sort of explosive action, and inflicts a large and jagged wound, not merely splintering a bone when it comes into contact with it, but absolutely pulverizing it. At a medium range it makes a small, clean wound, in one case boring a small hole clean through the bone without splintering it at all; and at a long range it again makes a bad wound, the wound at the place of exit being much larger and more jagged than at the place of entrance. On the whole, the Lee-Metford bullet does not seem to give very satisfactory results. It cannot be depended upon to stop a man in his charge, for the wound it inflicts is often insignificant. On the other hand, it sometimes produces a very terrible wound, almost like that of an explosive bullet.—Shooting Times.

Duck Shooting at Suisun.

Tuesday morning at Suisun was the morning of a lifetime to the duck hunters who were within hearing of the guns. No less than 2,000 ducks were killed on the marsh between Goodyears and Suisun before nine o'clock. Such a flight has not been known for many years. As expected, the preserves of the Cordelia, Teal, Ibis and Tule Belle Clubs were covered with shooters from Suisun, Vallejo, Sacramento and San Francisco.

For the most part the hunters were not interfered with by the owners and lessees of the preserves. There was plenty of ducks for all and plenty of ponds for the hunters to shoot over.

Mr. Kellogg, of the Cordelias, ordered off one or two parties and they refused to go and that was the end of it.

The Teal and Cordelia Clubs propose to fight the question to the bitter end but will proceed by legal means only. The decision of Judge Buckley on the 24th will of course guide their future movements.

It seems to be the general opinion that the action action of the Teal Club in placing piles at the mouth of Six Reach slough is illegal, and they will probably be removed. These piles are not at Wells slough as reported in the Chronicle of Wednesday. Six Reach slough leads direct to the Teal Club's ark and these piles prevent all boats of any size from going up the slough. They effectually prevent any trespass from Suisun creek, but the slough is unquestionably a navigable one, and consequently cannot be legally obstructed.

E. J. Balls' ark, the Mary Joseph, did not reach Joyce Island landing until Tuesday P. M., and the San Francisco sportsmen who went up on her were not able to secure any good shooting. D. McCree killed nineteen, including nine mallard on the Sprig ponds and Crowell four, but they paid dearly for their sport. They left the scow at midnight and rowed about ten miles to the head of Shelldrake slough and then left the boat to hunt for the ponds. They found the ponds but could not find the boat until 9 o'clock the next day. They spent the night in wandering around in the tules.

Some splendid bags of mallard, spring and widgeon were made on Tuesday. H. Perkins, Doc Pfister, Louis Pierce, Grant Chadbourne and Frank Cassidy of Suisun shot at the Cordelia ponds and bagged 157.

J. W. Shiell and J. Lynch shot near the White Wings and bagged 60.

W. Bryan, E. Goodair, G. Hocksie and B. Morris bagged 120 on the Whittier pond.

Ed. Hoyt and H. Martin 40 on the Cordelia.

F. Larkin, J. Aikin and R. Crowley shot at the Thick-broom ponds on the Tule Belle preserves. They bagged 60.

H. Noyes and two friends from Suisun got over 200 on the Cordelia.

Geo. Mason had the banner bag. He killed alone 120 on the Cordelia.

Wm. Pierce, A. Sweetzer, C. R. Elliott and P. Siebe got 95 on the Whittier pond.

E. Whitney got 20, 18 of which were mallard, B. Tillman and C. Jensen got 12 at the Pringle pond on the Peyton tract.

J. Wilson got 18, Dime Chrisler 8, H. E. Finney and M. Dinkelspiel of the Solano Republican 22 at different ponds. C. W. Kellogg of the Cordelia Club got 70 alone, with two guns.

E. Shiell, J. Grev, L. Romer and E. Anderson shot at Boynton's pond. They secured 60.

Loyal Webster, a San Francisco patrolman, bagged 40 alone on the Teal Club grounds.

Lloyd Eaton, Bob Boyer and several others of the Mallard Club shot on the Teal Club's grounds with good success. E. Goodall and Gerber, of Sacramento, bagged 237 and W. F. Whittier 105 on the Teal.

We have mentioned less than half of the shooters that secured good bags.

E. J. Bells' ark, The Mary Joseph, will be located by the middle of the week either at Espinosa or the next slough above toward Suisun. Parties intending to go there should not go before Wednesday next, as he is not ready for guests at present. He has made arrangements with the railroad people, and the trains will stop right at the ark. The ark will accommodate 100 people. The cook is a good one, and good shooting may be depended upon either in the ponds outside of the preserves or in the sloughs. There is also plenty of good snipe grounds within a short row of the ark.

The trouble was averted on Tuesday by general consent, but there is a good, fair prospect of war on Sunday. The Suisun hunters say that those piles must come up, and in all probability they will.

Decoying Ducks.

There is a great variety of opinion as to the proper method of setting decoys and the kind of decoys to use for the different kinds of ducks. It would be simple enough were but one kind of duck flying, but one may shoot mallard, widgeon and teal in a single flight. If mallard were plentiful we would certainly anchor out a few mallard decoys at one end of the string. There are times that almost all the varieties will decoy to anything in the shape of a block of wood, but it is the times that the duck are wary that the shooter must be prepared for. A well-known duck shooter uses a mixed lot of teal, widgeon, and mallards, anchoring at each end of the string a few coots, claiming that the coots know where the good feed is, and that all varieties will light to them when looking for feeding ground. The more decoys a man puts out the more likely he is to get good shooting. Let one man put out fifty and another six within one hundred yards of him and the man with the large flock will get ten shots to the other's one. Some hunters place their decoys in pairs, others in a long line, others throw them overboard as they come in bunches or straggled over quite a space of water. The long line does not look natural. Ducks seldom string out with their heads all one way unless alarmed and about to fly away, a state of affairs that surely would not tempt a flock to alight to them. If one can find an eddy in which to place a part of the decoys so much the better, as they will then head in different directions and look much more natural. In shooting on the edge of a large pond or bay, in a strong wind, avoid a lee shore. Unless the wind is very light, a duck usually alights with his head to the windward, and when he leaves the water he invariably flies to the windward. If your blind be on the windward shore it can be readily seen that when they fly they must turn their bellies to you and approach you, thus presenting the best kind of a target for your gun. Next to being a cool shot, the most important item about duck shooting is to keep perfectly still. If you move but your hand the wary duck will see you and shy off. Your dog may lie on the outside of the blind if he be red or brown in color, and the ducks will not notice him, but let him move his head or scratch a flea and like lightning your approaching birds shy off and are out of range in an instant.

Pop! Pop! The Season's Begun!

The shotguns are booming in the marshes and along the banks of ponds and sloughs this week, but how many among the scores of eager sportsmen who set out for the duck-shooting grounds will return weary and disappointed!

What stories others will have to tell when they gather in groups about the gun stores to relate their experience of the first day of the shooting season—of how many ducks they brought down (but didn't get), what long shots they made, how they doubled up this or that old mallard in his flight, made a double shot on a pair of swift-flying teal, or gathered in the widgeon or pintails that came swooping down to their decoys.

The reports from the club lakes and other places in the marshes along the rivers are that wild fowl have been unusually plentiful for so early in the season, and sportsmen generally have been anticipating rare sport. Many will have it, no doubt, but, as usual, some will be disappointed. Before the rains come to fill the numerous hasins and sloughs that dry up in the summer, the wild fowl are confined to a few lakes or ponds, and those who know where they go will find good shooting.

As for quail shooting, that will not be at its best for a month or more to come. The weather has been so warm and dry that the birds are in the seclusion of the heavy brush along the foothill water-courses. Neither can the sportsmen climb hills in hot weather in pursuit of these elusive little fellows, nor can his dog work effectively under these conditions. Quail shooting without a good setter or pointer is very poor sport, while the duck shooter can get along without a dog. For these reasons comparatively few persons go quail shooting while hundreds find their way weekly to the marshes where the wildfowl congregate.

The wild geese are now becoming quite plentiful in places, and this is the time of the year when they are at their best. A young goose that has had a few weeks' foraging in the stubblefields and has fattened on wheat makes a delicate roast, but late in the season, when their food is confined to young grass their flesh becomes too soft.

The local gun stores have been doing a good business the last few days, for the sportsman spirit is strong in this community, and there will be lots of ammunition disposed of in the next few weeks.

Patents Relating to the Sporting Interests.

The sheriffs of several of the southern counties of Michigan have requested their respective boards of supervisors to purchase for each of them a brace of the bounds used in the South for man-trailing, the object being to employ them for tracking culprits and escaped prisoners. The use of them, it is claimed, will save a large amount in rewards and capture many who escape now.

Barriers Moved Away.

Last year the Teals and Cordelias tired of a quarrel that only resulted in spoiling the shooting of both clubs and tried to force the Mallards to move at the opening of the season. The Mallards thereupon brought their ark to the junction of the Cordelia and Frank Horan sloughs, about 200 yards from and directly in front of the Teal Club's ark, and in spite of injunctions for trespass and the expense attached to the same, they held their ground and shot on the Teal preserve the entire winter.

Last month the Teal Club erected a floating gateway at the mouth of Horan slough. This gateway was made of solid timber, held in place by cables and padlocked with a very heavy iron padlock. The gate was arranged so that it might be raised to admit the passage of the club's launch. On October 15th the Mallard ark was brought up into Cordelia slough, and as no demonstration was made the Teals thought they would rest in peace this winter. But Thursday afternoon the Mallards moved their ark up to the gateway, knocked off the padlock and sent the boat floating down the slough. The ark is now moored at its old anchorage on Horan slough and the Mallards will doubtless touch of some more fireworks to night.

It is reported that one of the Teal Club's keepers objected and commenced shooting at the Mallards, and that they shot and badly wounded him, but the report has not been verified. This slough is unquestionably a navigable slough, and according to the Surveyor-General the Teal Club is liable to a fine of $500 for placing any obstruction across it.

The piles at the mouth of the Sixth Reach slough will probably go the same way to-morrow. There is great rejoicing here in Suisun, but all the hunters hope that the report that the keeper was killed is false. Feeling is bitter there, but the better class of sportsmen do not care to hear of any bloodshed.

Woodland's Mighty Hunters.

Shotguns boomed yesterday along the marshes and banks of the Sacramento river on the Sutter side. Much of the booming was done by Woodland sportsmen, a few of whom have returned.

E. M. Tilden and Troy Barr returned yesterday afternoon from their ventures on the Sutter side near Knights Land- igr. They reported a kill of twenty mallards, but knowing ones say the figures are placed just exactly nineteen too high.

N. M. Weaver and George Rupely managed to bag eight between them. These gentlemen claim that there were more hunters than ducks, and the occasion partook more of a social gathering than a hunting expedition.

Senator Aram, W. O. Kean, E. B. Haywards and Oscar Armstrong were probably one of the most successful parties. They returned with thirty ducks and report a pleasant trip.

J. V. Leithold was one of the many who were over in the Sutter County tules in quest of ducks at daybreak yesterday morning.

For the past three days he had been making preparations for the trip and took the extra precaution to shear the hair from his hunting dog, a valuable retriever, as he says, "to make him light in the water and avoid tangling up in the tules."

Mr. Leithold returned yesterday about 10 o'clock, and as a memento of the trip displayed some kind of a "winged animal," larger than a duck and not as large as a goose, which his friends say is a buzzard.—Mail.

The Open Season.

Under the revised laws of the State it was lawful to kill valley quail, bob white, partridge, wild duck, rail and robin commencing last Tuesday, October 15th. Quail are said to be very plentiful this year and present signs indicate a season of good sport.

The market hunter's season begins November 15th, according to the amendment of the Penal Code, passed at the last session of the Legislature, in the interest of the State Sportsmen's Association, and ends January 15, 1896. The amendment reads as follows:

"Every cold storage company and every person keeping a cold-storage warehouse, tavern, hotel, restaurant, or eating-house, and every market man or other person who shall buy, sell, expose or offer for sale, in this State quail, bob white, partridge, dove, grouse or wild duck, whether taken or killed in the State of California, or shipped into the State of California, or shipped into the State from any other State, Territory or foreign country, except between the 15th day of November and the 15th day of January of the following year, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

The Day Set.

The case of the Cordelia Club against the trespassers will come off before Judge Buckles on Thursday, October 24th. The sportsmen outside the clubs claim that they have a legal right to shoot over all overflowed lands, under the Act of the last Legislature.

The Teal Club has driven piles into the channels of the sloughs leading upon its reservations for the purpose of keeping out boats. This action has aroused intense indignation among the people of Solano county, and threats are frequently heard to the effect that the piles will be blown out of the water if not removed by the club. The members of the club, meantime, refuse to budge, and propose to resort to law in case of violence. They also insist that they will swear out warrants for the arrest of any one trespassing upon their grounds, and fight these cases to the end.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Dr. Skaife, the well known veterinarian and authority on all matters pertaining to the anatomy, physiology and hygiene of the canine family, has returned from his trip to the East, looking hale and hearty. In his practice Dr. Skaife stands high, and his services are always in demand.

Isaac Bottomly, keeper of a wayside resort four miles north of Oakland, who was convicted on Saturday of conducting a dog fight on his premises early on Sunday morning, September 22d, was fined Wednesday $350 by Justice Clift. He appealed his case, but was sent to jail owing to lack of bail. This is the second of twenty cases growing out of the same fight. There has been conviction in both. The others will be pushed.

A number of enthusiastic friends of coursing returned from Huron, Dakota, on Thursday. They brought their greyhounds with them. While these gentlemen did not return with laurels of victory, they enjoyed their stay among the most prominent coursing men in America and learned more about the different families of dogs and their characteristics than they would in years on this coast.

Wm. S. Hobart, the multi-millionaire, purchased a pair of Siberian blood hounds in New York City, and has them at his farm near San Mateo. They are large, strongly made white and spotted dogs with light blue eyes, and no doubt if they were ever sent after a wandering Russian refugee they would have no trouble in bringing him to earth. These dogs will appear in the next dog show.

CONDITIONS.

Except in handicaps and races where the weights are fixed absolutely in the conditions, fillies two years old shall be allowed three pounds, and mares three years old and upwards shall be allowed five pounds before the first of September, and three pounds afterwards. All geldings allowed three pounds. In steeplechases and hurdle races the weights shall be: For three-year-olds, 15 pounds; for four-year-olds, 18 pounds; for five-year-olds, 16 pounds; for six-year-olds and upwards, 172 pounds. No weights less than 120 pounds allowed. The winter meeting of the California Jockey Club will commence October 25, 1895, and racing will continue until late spring, at least five days a week, five or more races each day, rain or shine. Inclosed please find stakes to be run during the winter meeting. Additional stakes will be given, special prizes wherever possible, while liberal prizes will be given throughout. Although at present only twenty-two stakes are advertised, it is our intention to give as many more for the spring meeting. A large list of two and three-year-old stakes (for foals of 1891) are being prepared and will be issued shortly; the stakes to be run in the spring and fall meeting of 1896. Steeplechases and hurdle races will be given special attention, and as many races of this description as possible. Our course has been greatly improved this summer, and is now the safest winter track in America; in addition to which we have just completed an inside course, which will be absolutely safe in any kind of weather. Programmes are issued weekly, our policy being to arrange the conditions so as to give all classes of horses a chance. We have secured competent officials to manage and conduct our races, and assure horsemen that we will spare no effort to make their stay with us pleasant as well as profitable.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.
Its claims for superiority are as follows:—
FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
SECOND It will not cause headache.
THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")
TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.
The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:
First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.
Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

DR. E. W. BOVETT'S
SPECIFIC FOR

Cracked Heels and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Boot Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a Callous, and will always remove a Callous when caused from a wound.

It removes all Soreness with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.

The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the soreness with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callous remaining."

T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KIAMATH, 208½, says: "I have been trying to cure Kiamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are untidy and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

THE LOS ANGELES RACES.

Successful Opening of the Meeting of the Los Angeles Fair Association—Attendance Excellent and Racing Spirited—How the Races Were Won.

FIRST DAY—MONDAY, OCTOBER 21.

In spite of the weather prophet's prediction of rain, the day opened most auspiciously for the initial day of the Sixth District Fair Association, and the racing card was good enough to have deserved a much larger attendance which did not exceed 1,000 persons. This, however, is usually the case on the opening day here, and before the week is over it is predicted that the daily attendance will average 5,000 people. Captain J. C. Newton, A. W. Barrett and Walter Hines officiated as judges and it was unfortunate for them that they had a large field to send off in the 2:17 trot, there being seventeen breaks in the second heat before the word was given and even then the start was a ragged one.

Every race on the card except the two-year-old pace on which there was no speculation, resulted in a fall over for the talent and the more they tried to recover the deeper did they get in the hole. Their misfortunes commenced with the running race, for which they had the recklessness to play Jim Bozeman at short odds notwithstanding he had run away in the morning, thrown his rider, and dislodged a section of the fence. The injuries his legs received in the accident cost him the race, for though he got off well and led the bunch down the stretch he faltered at the critical moment and was beaten a head by Chivo on which Charley Weher had the mount Prince Hooker was a close third. Pools sold Jim Bozeman $15, Chiva $5, Prince Hooker $4, field $2.

The two-year-old pacers now had an inning. There was no delay in getting them off and Lady Alice, led by sufferance in the first heat for three-fourths of a mile, and then Durfee gave Jennie her head and she won handily by two lengths in 2:26½. In the closing heat, Durfee took the McKinney filly to the front and never relinquished his lead, although Lady Alice forced him out in 2:20½, the first half being covered in 1:08½.

There were eight starters in the 2:17 trot and the cognoscentis pinned their faith to Native State to land the money. He was rank and never was in the hunt, breaking continually in every heat and barely escaped being flagged in the first two heats. The talent were very sore after the final heat as they got "double shot," having turned their affections to Jasper Ayres after Native State had proved himself a counterfeiter. The speculation, before a heat was trotted, was as follows: Native State $30, Jasper Ayres $6, Hillsdale $4, Myrtle Thorne $3, Irene Crocker $3, field $2.

After several false starts the big field was sent away with Irene Crocker in the lead, the favorite and Jasper Ayres being badly in the rear. Mahen tried to improve his position but got badly tangled up and was never prominent thereafter. The gray mare still retained her advantage until the three-quarter pole, where she went up in the air and Hillsdale and Dr. Puff came up fast, Jasper Ayres at the former's wheel. The doctor had something in reserve when Sullivan called on him at the eighth pole, and he won cleverly by two lengths in 2:16½, with Hillsdale second a half a length in front of Jasper Ayres, the favorite winding up fifth.

The talent still labored under the impression that Native State had the Indian sign on his company and continued to support him at these odds: Native State $10, Jasper Ayres $6, field $5. The scoring was tedious and apparently unnecessary, over twenty-five minutes being consumed before the word was given to a wretched start. Irene Crocker led to the quarter but there Sullivan came up with Dr. Puff, and as they sailed by the half in 1:07½ the order was Dr. Puff, Irene Crocker, Jasper Ayres and Hillsdale, the others far back. Johnnie Perkins made a great drive now with Jasper and gradually overhauled the Doctor down the stretch, passing him within fifty feet of the wire. The gray mare was third, Pasadena Belle was distanced, and before the third heat was called Myrtle Thorne was drawn on account of lameness.

The pools now switched to Jasper Ayres, his price being $10, while the entire field brought only $6. Dr. Puff got the best of the start and he and the grey mare kept together throughout the journey, while Hillsdale, who was lying third, carried Jasper Ayres out on the far turn, and though he closed on the leaders down the stretch, he could finish no better than second, and was then set back to third position for a break at the wire.

It was the outcome of the fourth heat that caused the excitement of the day. Jasper Ayres again got off bad, and again was he carried wide by Hillsdale on the last turn, where he made a running break. He came down on the outside like a rocket and beat Dr. Puff a length on the wire, the grey mare being third. Durfee, who finished fourth with Hillsdale, made a complaint to the judges that Jasper had made three breaks, and as the judges had not noticed them, presumably on account of the darkness, they called up Connolly and Sullivan, who supported Durfee's assertion; although there were many persons unkind enough to express surprise at the extraordinary ability of these drivers to see the breaks in question when they were throughout the heat from six to eight lengths ahead of Jasper Ayres. Amid hoots, yells and hisses the judges announced that Dr. Puff had been given the heat and first money, Jasper Ayres having been set back to third position in the heat, but obtained second honors in the race.

The 2:25 trot was full of surprises. There were only five starters, Eva T. selling at $10. The remainder, bunched as a field, was purchased at $8, and at these quotations the pasteboards had a brisk market.

In the first heat the favorite and Neernut both broke badly, and Daghestan, who was at odds of 10 to 1 for the heat in the books, took the lead and was never headed. The favorite, after catching her feet, came fast in the stretch and was a good second.

The admirers of Eva T. continued to support her, and although Daghestan had taken the first heat, the odds now were Eva T. $10, field $5. In a few breaks they were off, the favorite shooting past her field at the quarter-pole in 0:36½, with Neernut at his wheel, while the winner of the precious heat had fallen back last after making a bad break. It was a close contest throughout between the mare and the stallion, and in the last fifty feet Raymond brought up Neernut with such a rush at the wire the crowd thought it was a dead heat. Neernut got the verdict, however, and the race was then postponed until to-morrow.

SECOND DAY—OCTOBER 22.

There were five events on the card to-day, but in only one was there the semblance of a horse race, and that was in the unfinished 2:25 trot, which opened up the day's sport. The day previous Daghestan and Neernut had each a heat to their credit, and accordingly the two sold as a field, having a slight call in the opening betting at $11 to $10 for Eva T. It was nothing but the mare from start to finish, and Shaner pulled her to a walk near the wire, Neernut destroying all his chances of being a competing factor by making a ruinous break soon after the start, El Molino leading him for second position.

The heat winner was now at prohibitive odds, and again she led her field a merry chase until the far turn, when Neernut moved up and made a bid for the heat. The best he could do was to get within two lengths of the favorite when the decisive bell tapped, the mile having been covered in the fast time of 2:20½. Silver Bee was distanced, due to losing ground by frequent breaks.

In the next heat Raymond got the stallion squared away well when the word was given, and he immediately essayed to pass the mare. On the backstretch he got Neernut's head in front, but the mare could not be denied, and the pair trotted head and head until half way down the stretch. At the sixteenth pole Raymond commenced shouting at the mare with the idea of spurring her to a final effort, and the horse frightened the favorite so badly that she went up in the air and she ran under the wire side by side with Neernut, to whom the judges properly awarded the heat.

The decisive heat was the fastest one of the race. El Molino had been sent to the stable, so Daghestan made up the trio. He was never prominent, for Eva T. and Neernut had the race to themselves, the former never being headed, although the stallion was at her wheel throughout, except at the finish, three lengths separating him from the leader.

The Los Angeles Derby provoked the liveliest speculation of the day. Hello was supported as favorite, principally because Charley Weher had the mount, but when the betting was settled, it was $10 and take your price of the four. Ben Benjamin assumed his duties as starter in this race and sent the quartette away to a good start. La France started to make a runaway race of it and she led her field by two lengths around the oval, the others closely bunched. At the draw-gate Juan Bernard shot ahead and crossing in front of the filly, run her into the fence. Before Joe Weber could get her again into her stride Bernard was two lengths to the good and she could not reach him. Hello was at her flank. Joe Weber claimed a foul but it was disallowed. The time was 1:53½.

The 2:13 pace was scheduled as the third event, a purse of $1,000 being the object of contention, but there was a close call to there being no race at all. Ketchum ran into the fence twice, at a point opposite to where his stable is located, and smashed two sulkies. A protest being lodged against his starting, the judges ordered him to the stable, and then under the rules withdrew the purse. Mr. Tryon, owner of Hanford Medium, and Mr. Davis, owner of Belle, agreed to pace for the forfeit money and so the race was called. It was a jughanded affair throughout, Hanford Medium taking the three heats without being extended. Belle showed lots of speed but lost her chances by breaking. Before the first heat Hanford Medium sold for $20 and Belle brought $5.

The two-year-old trot for a purse of $500 was easily annexed by Palita. She outclassed her field as far as an arc light does a candle and carried off the two heats in 2:27 and 2:26½ without a skip. There were only two other starters—Claudius, from the Vendome Stock Farm, and Don Roberto, owned by M. S. Severance, of this city. Of the two, the gelding had the most speed and was far the staidier, and in both heats he was an easy victor for second honors. As good as $25 on Palita against $5 for the field could have been obtained before the first heat.

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

The Attendance and Interest in the Races Daily Increases—Good Cards Are the Order, With First-Class Handicaps—The Events in Detail.

TWENTY THIRD DAY—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 17.

WORLD'S record was shattered to day, and an almost despised third or fourth choice did the trick. Mamie Scott was played for place in the field of nine, but few were so hardy as to wager that she would be in front at the wire. From sixth at the start, she soon forged into third position, and on the far turn made another move. She showed the way from there on, and won away off in a gallop. The time, 1:33, is three-quarters of a second faster than the world's record. Mamie Scott has been meeting some good horses in her recent engagements, but there was nothing in her performances to justify the belief that she would prove a record breaker. She did the trick so easily as to impress her high class upon everyone who saw her. The record of 1:34 was made by Libertine at St. Louis. Mamie Scott, the record breaker, is a bay filly, 3, by Canny Scot—Eola, owned by Bonfield & Knight.

Last Chance was a favorite that won, in the first race. Miss Fletcher finished second, but as she had jostled Mt. Roy in the stretch, she was disqualified. Mt. Roy was played heavily but proved a little short of a race.

Clacquer was plunged on in the second, and was an even-money favorite at post-time. Nelson was an even second choice with Road Runner. He showed up well and ran into first place, but he had pinned Clacquer on the rail all the way down the stretch so that he, too, was disqualified.

Then Reddington suffered defeat at the hands of that good filly Treachery. They "figured" very close, but Reddington was played for a "cinch." Treachery won in the stretch, and added a very good race to her list of winning brackets.

Rose Clark, the favorite, won the last race all the way easily. Silver was driving at her, but could not get nearer than a length.

Chevalier won two races, Martin, Macklin and Jones one each.

The weather was very pleasant, and the attendance far, above an average mid-week crowd. Betting was lively on all the events. The only drawback to an excellent day's sport was the long delays at the post caused by large fields. Starter Ferguson gave five good send-offs, though, when the starts were finally effected.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race had eleven starters. The distance was five and a half furlongs, selling conditions. Last Chance was favorite at 3 to 1, Miss Fletcher 3½, Mt. Roy 5 (opened at 10), Kai Moi 9, Bob Tucker, Mosby, Lilikolani, De Groat, Carrie Shaw, Triumph and Sheridan from 20 to 60 to 1. Mr. Ferguson sent them away in a bunch, Miss Fletcher first to show. Mt. Roy took command and opened a gap of two lengths before the half-pole was reached, then Last Chance came up. Roy's lead down to one length, Miss Fletcher third. Mt. Roy led into the stretch by one length, but Last Chance was still gaining and passed him in the last eighth. Miss Fletcher was also brought up, and as she passed Roy bumped him. Fletcher finished second half a length behind Last Chance, who won easily. Mt. Roy was third. Hinrichs claimed a foul by Miss Fletcher, which was allowed. Miss Fletcher was disqualified. Mt. Roy placed second and Mosby third. Time, 1:07½.

The second race was at five furlongs, selling. Clacquer was post favorite at 6 to 5, Nelson and Road Runner were even at 2½, Kathleen and Harvey Lewis 300. Nelson delayed the start till after a dozen or so false breaks were made, and finally the field was sent away to a fair start. Clacquer showed in front, then Nelson took the lead and held it to the wire. In the last eighty yards Chevalier tried to get through on the rail with Clacquer, when Nelson fouled him and cut him off. Nelson and Clacquer were a nose apart. Road Runner, who got away next to last, third, two lengths in front of Kathleen. Nelson was disqualified, and Clacquer, Road Runner, Kathleen placed. Time, 1:01.

The third race, with five starters, was at five and one half furlongs. Treachery and Reddington were the only ones thought to be in it, with Reddington at 7 to 10 at post time, Treachery 2 to 1, Fireman 5½, Encino 40, Scimetar 75 to 1. There was considerable delay at the post, with a good start finally. Reddington showed for a little ways, then Encino set the pace to the last eighth, with Reddington second, one length in front of Treachery. From there Encino lost ground rapidly and finished last. Treachery gave Reddington a drive and beat him out a length easily, Scimetar third, two lengths away. Time, 1:07½.

The fourth race was at seven and a half furlongs, selling, with a field of nine. Tar and Tartar was well-played first choice, closing at 11 to 5, Little Bob 3, Mamie Scott 4½ (opening at 8), May Day and Marv S. 10, Tobey, Malo Diablo and Miss Buckley at 12, and Josephine 60 to 1. The start was a tedious one, but finally a good send-off was effected. Tobey showed first and was never worse than third, finishing second. Mamie Scott got away sixth, secured the lead on the far turn, and galloped in a winner by six lengths. Little Bob was third. Malo Diablo, who was thought to have a slight chance, was never better than seventh in the hunt, but finished one better. Tar and Tartar, the favorite, got away fourth, died away steadily and finished behind Malo Diablo. The world's record of 1:34 was broken, the time hung up being 1:33½.

The last race at one mile, selling, had five starters, with Rose Clark a red-hot favorite opening at 4 to 5, and harled in most books at the close. Nervoso was at 3½ to 1, Ike L. and Silver each at 5, and Vernon 15 to 1. Rose Clark led from flag fall to finish, anywhere from two to three lengths. Silver was the nearest up, and tried to give her a drive as she was eased up in the last sixteenth, but he could not catch her. Rose finished an easy winner by one length, Silver four lengths in front of Nervoso. Time, 1:41½.

TWENTY FOURTH DAY—FRIDAY, OCTOBER 18.

The card to day promised some interesting races, which was verified, and there were enough upsets to make the wisecracks scratch their heads. Snowdown, a new horse here, came with recommendations of wonderful private performances, and was made a favorite for the first race. The latest good thing was last to get under way, and finished last. As Donahue is a very slow starter the first part of Snowdown's performance was not unexpected, but he is not in the habit of finishing absolutely last if he has anything very good under him. Decision, at 4 to 1, got the money by a head, Moran coming from next to last into the stretch and giving her a drive for it.

Leonville, in the second race, made things look a little rosier for the talent, but for a short space of time during the race it looked very dark for them. Leonville was hopelessly pocketed in the last eighth, and as Chevalier is very timid of a pinch, there seemed no possibility of Leonville finishing much better than 6-7-8. Chevalier screwed up his courage, however, and made a play for the rail, and the others kindly gave it to him. Thereafter it was easy and Leonville won by two lengths.

Miss Brummel was the only other favorite to win, and she did it as impressively as she has her other victories. She was not extended, and won easily by two lengths from Monitor, who was three lengths in front of Belle Boyd. Belle has been sick since her last start, and was not up to her old form. Brummel can set a mark for her at any time, though.

McLight won the handicap in fast time by two lengths from Rosebud, Mainstay, the favorite, a head away. The start was a tedious one, and several fair-looking breaks were refused. The send off was not an improvement over some of them. McLight led all the way, and was an easy winner. Maiostay was last all the time.

Fred Gardoer was cut out by the talent to win, but Charmer was out for everything in sight. Raindrop was presumptuous enough to try to show the way once on the journey, but Sloan took command again and made every post a winning post. Charmer has come from the rear in her other races, but to-day she raced all the way.

Little Bob was lengths away on the backstretch, but finished inside the money as he usually does. Fred Gardner was last.

The attendance was very good, and the weather pleasant. Winning jockeys were: Sloan, two, Donnelly, Chevalier and Macklin one each.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was at five furlongs, for maiden two-year-olds. Snowdown, a recent arrival, was tipped as a good thing, and was accordingly played. He opened at even money and closed at 4 to 5. Decision opened at 2 to 1, and closed on even terms with Lotta at forty, the latter having been backed down from fifty. Moran closed at 10 (opened at 4). Von Dunk, Lady Gray and Male L. from 12 to 20 to 1. Snowdown was better than seventh in a seven-horse race for a few strides only. Decision got the best of only a fair start, and Mabel L. was the only one near her during the journey. Lotta was as good as third for a time, then died away. Decision won by a head, driving from Moran, who had come from sixth at the three quarter pole. Von Dunk also came up from sixth into the stretch and beat out Lady Gray, Mabel L. and Lotta for third place. Time, 1:03½.

The second race was at five furlongs, selling, with a big field. Leonville was at 3 to 5 at the opening, closing at 3 to 4, Mt. Roy was second choice at 2 to 1, Gondola 6, Corrine Buckingham and Jefferson 10, Little Plush colt 20, King Sam 40, Solitario and De Groat 100 to 1. There was a long delay at the start, different ones taking a turn at spoiling the breaks. They went away well branched, Leonville, Corrine Buckingham, Gondola, King Sam, Jefferson the order in front for a while, then De Groat tried to set the pace and Leonville dropped back into the field, Corrine Buckingham led into the stretch, Gondola second, Mt. Roy coming up to keep company. Half way home they looked badly bunched, but Chevalier got Leonville out of a pocket by the kindness of the others, and won by two lengths. Time, 1:02.

Five scratches in the third race, at about six furlongs, light-welter weights, left only Belle Boyd, Miss Brummel, Monitor and Sweetbriar. Brummel opened at 9 to 10 and closed at 17 to 20. Belle Boyd closed at 3, Monitor 14 to 5 and Sweetbriar 100 to 1. The favorite was last away, but was showing the way before the half-pole was reached. Monitor was within striking distance all the time, with Belle Boyd three lengths away. Sweetbriar out in front for a little ways, remained last after Monitor passed her. Miss Brummel made every post a winning one and finished pulled up, two lengths in front of Belle Boyd. Time, 1:13½.

The fourth race, a handicap at about six furlongs, had Mainstay (112), McLight (108) and Rosebud (105)—the only ones in. They were favored as named, Mainstay at 9 to 10, McLight 2 and Rosebud 3½ to 1. Several breaks were made before they were sent away to a poor start, with McLight, Rosebud, Mainstay the order. At the half-pole McLight was a head in front, Rosebud three parts of a length in front of Mainstay. Mainstay got away last and did not get on his stride before the others had got about three lengths away from him. The order of the procession was not changed during the race, McLight gradually gaining, and entering the stretch a length ahead of the others, Mainstay closing up a little. McLight held the others off and won easily by two lengths. Rosebud was a neck in front of Mainstay. Time, 1:11½.

The last race was a mile selling affair, with six starters. Fred Gardner was believed to be a winner and was a favorite over the others, though the odds ranged very close on all except Centurion. Gardner closed at 2 to 1, Charmer 3½, Warrago 4, Raindrop 5, Little Bob 5½ and Centurion 60 to 1. A good start was effected at once, with Charmer on the rail at the quarter-pole, Raindrop and Fred Gardner next in order. On the backstretch Raindrop set the pace for awhile, when Charmer again took command and was never after headed. She led into the stretch by a head in front of Raindrop, then Ontario came within a head of her. Then they dropped back and Warrago came into the place, finishing a very strong second, three parts of a length behind Charmer. Little Bob, who looked a forlorn hope for any part of the money on the backstretch, was third, only half a length further away. Time, 1:42.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY—SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19.

An especially interesting card was presented by the association to-day, and an unusually large attendance was the result. The weather was perfect as well—an ideal Indian summer day. Betting was more than lively and all five events proved good betting ones. As a rule the first race on the card does not enthrall the crowd, but there was a strong interest in each number to-day.

Morven, a sizzling favorite in the first race, came in sixth Jockey Flynn and the trainer of Morven had some hot words over the brutal treatment the horse received from the jockey in the race and almost came to blows. Major Cook won, after Cardwell had shown the way into the stretch, in an easy manner in the very good time of 1:07½. Road Runner got another second money.

Elmer F. was a very much despised horse in the second race, the odds against him lengthening from 6 to 15 to 1. Duchess of Milpitas and Lady Jane adherents feared each other's chances. Arno, the great stretch runner, with Macklin up, received considerable support for the place. Elmer F. showed a clean pair of heels to everything else in the race till the backstretch was passed, then Lady Jane challenged him. Sloan brought the Duchess in an easy winner, however, Elmer F. and Lady Jane finishing as named.

Benham was entirely ignored by many tipsters for the third race, a handicap at about six furlongs, with Midlo or Grady named for first place. Joe K. was the only other starter. The talent picked out Midlo first, but finally settled on Benham, the former's price going from 6 to 9 to 5, while Benham was played down from 8 to 4 to 5. Benham won in the last sixteenth, with Joe K. an easy second, Midlo a very poor third. Time, 1:12½. Midlo's last race was at the same distance, and he won in 1:11½. True, he carried only 88 pounds in that race, while to-day he took up 109. The feature of the running of his last previous race was the hot pace Midlo set and was able to maintain to the end. He showed the same aptness in getting away again to-day, but Donahue put a choking pull on him till his field were on even terms then let out his wraps. Midlo shot out as if hurled from a catapult and in the next eighth had opened up three lengths of daylight, which he held into the stretch. He finished four and a half lengths behind the winner. He may not have been equal to carrying the weight he had up at top speed the full journey, but he had two or three good lengths choked out of him at the outset, for which there was no apparent reason.

Claudius took a turn at winning from Del Norte to-day. In their last race Claudius was kept too well up in front all the way to suit him, and to-day Del Norte was at the disadvantage of being the pacemaker. The superiority of these two horses will have to be debated further. Little Cripple ran a hot race, and can give most anybody's horse an argument. A very keen interest in this race was noticeable.

Bell Winger was favorite again to-day for the jumping race, notwithstanding his heavy impost of 167 pounds. He responded at the old calling place on the far turn and cleared the last jump first, but the weight told on the game old horse and he yielded by a length to Auteuil.

Sloan won his only two mounts. Chevalier, McIntyre and Hennessy had the other winning mounts.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was at five and a half furlongs, selling, with seven starters. Morven was a hot favorite all the time, closing at 9 to 5. Cardwell and Major Cook were always pretty close together in the betting, closing at 3½ to 1, Road Runner 5, Gold Bug 10, Red Idle and Minnie any price you wanted from 100 to 500 to 1. The start was a fair one, Cardwell well out in front and Morven after him. Cook and Road Runner were kept well up. Cardwell led into the stretch a length with Major Cook, Road Runner and Morven next in order half lengths apart. Through the stretch Major Cook won as he liked, finishing three lengths in front of Road Runner, who was a head in front of Cardwell. Morven came in fourth. Time, 1:07½.

The second event was a mile selling race, for three-year-olds. Six faced the starter. Lady Jane went from 6 to 5 to even money, then to 19 to 20. Duchess of Milpitas closed at 3 to 2, Arno 12, Elmer F. 15, Miss Garvin 25 and Faro 40 to 1. The Duchess of Milpitas, Miss Garvin, Lady Jane, Faro, Arno, Elmer F. was the way they met the caller's eye as the flag swished to a splendid start. Flynn got the rail with Elmer F. on the first turn and the black was pace-maker up to the last eighth. Miss Garvin hung on for a while, with the Duchess next up, then Lady Jane challenged the leader and Garvin died away to fourth. So they raced up to the last eighth pole, when Duchess of Milpitas was lifted along and won easily by three lengths. Elmer F. was second two lengths in front of Miss Garvin, who drove Lady Jane out at the wire. Time, 1:42.

There was a very warm interest taken in the third race, a handicap at about six furlongs, with Grady at top weight of 110, Midlo 109, Benham 107 and Joe K. 105. Benham was the favorite at 4 to 5, Midlo a strong second choice at 9 to 5, Grady 5 and Joe K. 15 to 1. Midlo broke out in front two or three times, which did not help his chances any, with the heavy weight up, and then he acted badly for awhile. The start was made on even terms, and Midlo was out in front at once. Donahue took a wrap on him and took him back, then when Grady and Benham came up to him he let him go again. Midlo was a head to the good at the half, and extended his lead to a good three lengths at the three quarter pole. Benham had passed Grady in the meantime by half a length. Half-way down the stretch the race looked safe to Midlo, when "Benham wins!" was echoed by

"See Joe K. come!" The blue, yellow poppies, of Charley Dougherty flashed in front, and Chevalier landed Benham an easy winner by three lengths. Joe K. did not tarry any, and passed the tiring Midlo, getting second money by two lengths. Grady was last all the way from the far turn. Time, 1:12½.

Claudius (108), Del Norte (107) and Little Cripple (104), were the only ones to accept the weights for the mile and a quarter handicap. Claudius opened at 6 to 5 and closed at even money. Del Norte was at 6 to 5 most of the time, and Little Cripple 5½ to 1. A good start was secured at the second break, Claudius, Little Cripple, Del Norte the order. Del Norte essayed the role of pace-maker and was a length and a half in front of the Cripple past the stand. Del Norte bore away from the rail at the turn and Cripple gained half a length, while Claudius was in his favored position, two lengths away. Del Norte held his lead to the last turn, and went down the backstretch shaking his head. Coming into the stretch Claudius began to move up, and Little Cripple stuck his head out in front of Del Norte's. He gained a full length in the next furlong, while Claudius had caught and lapped onto Del Norte. Flynn went to the bat on the latter, and Sloan lifted Claudius along. Cripple had to yield to the mighty speed of Claudius, but it was only a head he would give him. Del Norte was six lengths away. Time, 2:09.

The mile and a quarter handicap hurdle, over five hurdles, had eight acceptances, with Bell Ringer favorite all the time, opening at 8 to 5 and closing at 2 to 1. Auteuil was played down from 4 to 3½ to 1. J. O. C. was at three all the time, Arctic 5, Nellie G. 9, Mestor 10, Dick O'Malley 20 and Guadalupe 40 to 1. The second break was an even one and down went the flag. Nellie G. showed an improved form over her last performance and set the pace to the third jump, where she struck the rail and went clear over into the infield. Goodman, her rider, landed safely, and the mare was uninjured. Dick O'Malley and Auteuil were then out in front for a while, but soon Spence called on Bell Ringer and he responded so heartily he looked a winner all over. He landed the last jump slightly in the lead, but did not draw away as his warm hackers hoped to see him. His heavy impost proved too much and he submitted to defeat by Auteuil by three parts of a length Arctic, third, was two lengths away. Time, 2:18.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY—MONDAY, OCTOBER 21.

The most striking feature of to-day's racing was the unanimity with which the favorites were bowled over and the close, driving finishes in all the races. In only one race was the distance between the first two as great as one length. Encino, the first one, went down to Isabelle at 4 to 1, and Bravura, at 10 to 1, left Last Chance in the ruck. Then Arnette dragged the talent from the slough of despond, and won all the way. Uncle Giles, with Macklin up, showed a remarkable improvement over recent performances, with weaker jockeys, and won a great race at a mile and a furlong from Fred Gardner in a driving finish. Remus, the favorite, did not run over five-eighths before he was all out. Tim Murphy was the last one to go down. He did not show at any part of the race, and Major Cook won by a head in a drive from Detective.

Lady Leinster filly led into the stretch in the first race at four and a half furlongs, then Easel set the pace for home. Isabelle had laid away, then came on and drove Easel out by a nose. Little Flush filly was third. Encino, the favorite, got away badly and was hopelessly shut off at the start, but finished well up among the first lot. New Moon, one of the newcomers from Marcus Daly's Montana ranch, was touted for a might-be good thing, and was played from 15 to 8 to 1. She is a brown filly, by Hyder Ali—Namonah; she showed at the start then died away. The fast time of 0:55½ was hung up.

Last Chance, on his last race, was made a strong favorite in the second event, short six furlongs. Alla Habad, another Hyder Ali, from Montana, was played some on rumors of good performances. Bravura went to the post at the long odds of 10 to 1. After flag-fall Bravura was the only thing in the race. The order at the half was Bravura, Little Flush colt, Alla Habad, Last Chance, which was absolutely unchanged till the wire was passed. Alla Habad did not show a faint heart and raced all the way.

Arnette was the one favorite to win during the day. Model and Miss Buckley were quite heavily played in the same race, which was at seven and a half furlongs. Arnette was at her best, and was not on waiting orders. She cut out chunks of clear daylight between herself and her field, and never stopped until she was on the safe side of the wire. Arnette was not believed to be quite on edge, as her last performance was not up to her form. But there was no question about her condition to-day. She never won with so much weight up, and ran one of the races of her life. Model also ran a first-class race, as she was out after Arnette all the way and finished a bang-up second, only three parts of a length away.

Remus set the pace in the mile and an eighth selling race, and it was a lively clip he cut out. Fred Gardner stayed with him, and on the last end of the backstretch began to get in closer quarters. On the far turn Gardner took the lead so easily that it looked to be all over. Remus made an effort to regain his prestige, but could not make it. In the last sixteenth, just as Gardner's name began to swell out on the air, Uncle Giles was uncorked and he gained with every stride. The race to the wire was a beautiful one. Giles had gained the lead by a slight neck, and Gardner was struggling to overcome it. Two lengths away Mary S. and Remus were having a very similar engagement. Giles got his head across the wire first, while Mary S. and Remus finished a half length apart, two lengths behind Gardner. Macklin put up an excellent ride. His strength to keep Uncle Giles' head up is what was needed, and Giles' poor showing with Peoples up is accredited to the boy's lack of strength. Remus ran his race in the first five-eighths, and could not last out. Gardner showed great improvement over recent performances, and went to the post looking very well.

Major Cook and Tim Murphy met again to-day at five furlongs, and this time the doughty Tim was defeated. It was a five-horse race, and a rapid one. Tim never got in front, and the old roan was hustled along lively. Detective showed in front for an instant, then Leora, a gray mare by Prince of Norfolk—Della Walker (the dam of Vulcan and Al Farrow), went out and verified reports of her great speed for a short distance. She made old Tim and the rest of them look like posts as she reeled off three-eighths in 34½ seconds. Then she blew up and stopped, and her field came on and passed her. But she did not quit. Her short respite gave her some more breath, and she raced the old roan all the way home, finishing close together, after the other three had secured the money. Major Cook, at 3 to 1, was the winner, with Detective making him drive to get it. Clacquer was third. The gray mare wears a silver tube in her throat. She possesses very notable sprinting powers, if all reports are correct. With 119 pounds up she beat Lottie D. and Quirt, two well-known fast sprinters and old favorites at the local track, at a half-mile in 0:48½, at Anaconda this summer.

Chevalier, Sloan, Hinrichs, Macklin and McIntyre had the winning mounts.

The weather was all that could be asked for. The track was fast, having thoroughly dried out after Sunday's showers. For a Monday crowd the attendance was way above the average.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Four and a half furlongs, for two-year-olds. Betting—Encino 5 to 2, Firearm 3, Isabelle 4, Little Flush filly 6, New Moon 8, Lady Leinster filly 10, Easel 12, Decision 20 and Jack Atkins 30 to 1. Good start. Lady Leinster filly led into the stretch, where Easel took command, then Isabelle drove her out, and won by a nose. Winner, ch f, by Cyclone—Sallie Brown. Easel, hr f, by Ben Ali—Ezza, second easily. Little Flush filly, ch f, by Torso—Little Flush, third. Time, 0:55½.

Second race—About six furlongs, selling. Betting—Last Chance 4 to 5 (opened at even), Alla Habad 4, Leonatus, Little Flush colt and Bravura 10 (latter opening at 6 to 1), Vernon 12, Conchita 60 and Yangedene 100 to 1. Poor start. Bravura led all the way, and won driving by three parts of a length. Winner, h f, 3, by Wildside—Why Not. Little Flush colt, b g, 3, by Alexander—Little Flush, second easily by two lengths; Alla Habad, b g, 3, by Hyder Ali—Florida, third. Time, 1:14.

Third race—Seven and a half furlongs, selling. Betting—Arnette opened at 7 to 10, closing at even money. Model 11 to 5, Miss Buckley 5, Olivia 20, Josephine 100 to 1. Good start. Arnette led all the way, winning handily by three parts of a length. Winner, ch f, 3, by imp. Midlothian—Filena; Model, ch f, 3, by imp. Sir Modred—Gypsy, second easily by three lengths; Miss Buckley, b f, 3, by imp. Brutus—Forma, third. Time, 1:34.

Fourth race—One mile and a furlong, selling. Betting—Remus went from even money to 9 to 10, Giles closed at 3½ to 1, Fred Gardner opened at 6 and closed at 4, and Mary S. went from 7 to 8 to 1. Good start. Remus set the pace to the far turn, where Gardner passed him and led half-way home. Then Giles was turned loose and won driving. Winner, ch h, 3, by El Rio Rey—Hattie Humphrey. Fred Gardner, ch h, 4, by Luke Blackburn—Enilade, second, easily. Mary S., h m, 5, by imp. Brutus—Leda, third. Time, 1:54.

Fifth race—Five furlongs, selling. Betting—Tim Murphy 1, Major Cook 3, Clacquer 4½, Detective 7, Leora 15 to 1. Fair start. Leora showed the way for the first three-eighths, then Major Cook and Detective took up the running. Major Cook won in a drive by a head. Winner, b g, 3, by Bulwark—Sister to Violet. Detective, b g, 3, by imp. Deceiver—Exile, second, driving. Clacquer, ch h, 5, by Three Cheers—Belle of the Lake, third. Time, 1:00½.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY—TUESDAY, OCTOBER 22.

The attendance was very fair to-day, but a cold, raw day, and about as uninteresting a card as could be made up from the horses at hand, was the popular verdict. The seven and a half furlong race on the original programme did not fill, and the one for maiden two-year-olds at four and a half furlongs filled so plentifully that the field was split. This gave three of the five numbers to the overgrown babes. Of the two remaining ones, one at a mile had two "timber-toppers" among the six entries. As it was difficult to get a line on their performances on the flat, there was considerable speculation as to their correct measure. Of the thirty-three starters, eight of them were new ones here, and three others had not been entered for months. It was a hard lot to pick winners from, but the talent showed remarkable perspicuity. Three of their choice did the trick, but it required many consultations of the various betting coteries and frequent reference to the "dope" book to determine which ones should carry the scads. Corriente and Marionette, the two outsiders that won, were at 10 and 3 to 1 respectively. Miss Fletcher had the very unusual distinction of being the only odds-on entry of the day.

The opening scramble was for two-year-old maidens, at four and a half furlongs. Corriente led most of the journey and won by two lengths handily. Rhaetia, the favorite, got the place by half a length from Harry O.

Miss Fletcher was an odds-on favorite in the second race, at one mile, with Sleeping Child, a sleepy-looking chestnut gelding by imp. Child of the Mist—Erin-go-bragh, a popular second choice. Gold Dust was next in favor. Miss Fletcher secured the rail at the turn and every post was a winning one by from two to four lengths. Sleeping Child ran easy in third place to the last turn, when he caught Gold Dust and then challenged Fletcher. Half way down the stretch Brown was at the bat on the somnolent Child and then he went back. Gold Dust got the place by two lengths, Sleeping Child third.

The third race was another scramble for maiden two-year-olds, at four and a half furlongs. Imp. Endymion showed in front and stayed there the whole journey. Ollie M. was after him, but could not quite reach. Imp. Agrippina was the only other that was ever within striking distance. In the last seventy yards San Marcus was lifted along for a few strides and seemed to be coming, but died away under a severe whipping. Endymion, Ollie M. and Agrippina finished one, two, three, as they ran all the way.

Old Happy Day made his reappearance at Bay District to-day in the fourth race at about six furlongs. He was taken East last summer and won a race at Louisville, then broke down. He looks a very fair sort of rejuvenation, though rather sore after the race to-day. Three Forks was the favorite in this event, with Silver and Happy Day next in popular esteem. Three Forks caught the caller's eye first, then fell back, and Silver showed the way to the last furlong, when Three Forks came and won by a neck in a drive from Silver. Happy Day was a good third, only a head short of the place.

The last race was at five furlongs, with Charley Boots and Monitor about on equal terms as first choice, the latter slightly favored at post time. Monitor raced out in front all the way and looked a winner till Marionette began to overhaul him in the last hundred yards. Marionette won by a head in a drive, Monitor second, two lengths in front of Charley Boots.

Chevalier, Brvan, Shaw and Hennessy had the winning mounts to-day, the former landing two.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Four and a half furlongs, maiden two-year-olds. Betting—Rhaetia 2, Harry O. 3, Amen 4, Madamoi-selle filly 6, Mollie Bawn 8, Corriente 10 and Jim Budd 10 to 1. Good start. Rhaetia showed first, then Corriente led to the wire, winning handily by two lengths. Winner, ch f, by imp. Friar Tuck—unknown. Rhaetia (b f, by imp. Brutus—Moesta), second, driving; Harry O. (br g, by imp. Trade Wind—Dolly S.), third. Time 0:56½.

Second race—One mile, selling. Betting—Miss Fletcher, 4 to 5, Sleeping Child 3, Gold Dust 6, Sheridan 12, Esperance 15, Dr. Gardner 60 to 1. Good start. Miss Fletcher led from first turn and won easily by four lengths. Winner, ch m, 4, by Hyder Ali—Katy Fletcher. Gold Dust (b g, 5, by Oro—Gold Cup) second, easily; Sleeping Child (ch g, 3, by Child of the Mist—Erin-go-bragh), third. Time, 1:42.

Third race—Four and one half furlongs, selling. Betting—Endymion 11 to 5, Ollie M. 3, imp. Agrippina 3½, Moran and Aurifera 8, Jspan 12, Alien 25, San Marcus 30 to 1. Poor start. Imp. Endymion led all the way and won handily by one length. Winner, ch g, by Enterprise—Saprenta. Ollie M. (h f, by Fresno—Sophia) second easily; imp. Agrippina (ch f, by Enterprise—China Rose), third. Time, 0:55½.

Fourth race—About six furlongs, selling. Betting—Three Forks 7 to 5, Silver 2, Happy Day 5, Arctic and Nabopolasser 10 to 1. Good start. Three Forks showed first, then Silver led the way. In the last eighth Three Forks came up and won driving by a neck. Winner, h g, 4, by Spokane—Trifle. Silver (b g, 3, by Bulwark—Flora), second, easily; Happy Day (br g, a, by Emperor—Felicity) third. Time, 1:12½.

Fifth race—Five furlongs, selling, for two year-olds. Betting—Monitor 8 to 5, Charley Boots 9 to 5, Marionette 3, Veva 7, Torsina 75, Hagar and Tiny 100 to 1. Good start. Monitor led up to the last one hundred yards, when Marionette caught him and won driving by a head. Winner, ch f, by imp. Mariner—Maranette. Monitor (ch g, by imp. Sir Modred—Visalia) second easily; Charley Boots (b g, by Alto Mio—Constellation) third. Time, 1:01.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 23.

There were four processions, a string of winning long-shots, and a horse race with a thrilling finish to-day, while Charley Boots and Tod Sloan came in for most of the glory. Boots sent two winners to the post (his only entries), and Tod rode the two winners (his only mounts). Tod settled up his differences with Starter Ferguson by paying the $100 necessary, then went out and took everything in sight, and incidentally furnished the only hair-raising finish of the day.

The card was not an easy one to beat, as evidenced by the fact that only one favorite landed first money. There was a "good thing" in every race, but the talent didn't get on every time by any means.

The weather was cool and the fog rolled in before the last race was run off. The attendance was a good, and betting lively on all the events.

Dorsey was the good thing that was played in the first race, and he left the maiden ranks in a very impressive manner in good time. Artemus and Irma were warm second choices. The race and finish was a procession—Dorsey first by five lengths, Irma second by four, Artemus third by four more.

Key Alta was the favorite for the second race at 2½ to 1. Gold Bug opened at 3 to 1, went to 8 to 5, and then back to 4 to 1 at post time. Gold Bug led all the way and won easily. Crawford ran an excellent race and finished second. The favorite got away near the last, improved his position at every post, and finished third.

Mainstay was favorite all the time for the five and a half furlong handicap, going from evens to 4 to 5. Blue Bell was the extreme outsider and went back from 12 to 25 to 1. Mainstay acted badly at the post and was caught off his guard again at flag-fall. He got away last. Blue Bell beat the flag and set such a pace that none could head her. She led by fully three lengths at each post, but Clacquer closed up within one length at the wire. Mainstay got into third position on the far turn, but Road Runner was not to be denied his slice of the money and got third place by six lengths, Joe K. ran last all the way. Eddie Jones is not strong enough to hold Mainstay up, and the horse wears his jockey out before the start. With the weight he carried a stronger boy could have been put up, and his chances of a win very materially increased. Blue Bell has not been seen out for some time, but she made her reappearance in an impressive manner. She was touted from down town, and some lucky ones got on at long odds at post time.

Claudius opened favorite for the mile and a sixteenth handicap, but went back from 8 to 5 to 6 to 1. Little Cripple was post favorite at 8 to 5, and Del Norte next in favor at 11 to 5. Mamie Scott was very well liked on her record-breaking performance. The field went past the stand all strung out, Mamie Scott well in the lead, and Claudius and Del Norte laying away last. Mamie came into the stretch four lengths to the good, Gussie half a length in front of Little Cripple, Del Norte three lengths off and Claudius another length away. Half way home Little Cripple moved up second, and Claudius passed Del Norte. Then Jones on Mamie Scott went to the bat. The finish was a very close and exciting one. Jones was doing his utmost with Mamie Scott (though he would have done better if he had left his whip in the stable), and Sloan was lifting Claudius along, gaining very precious ground at every stride. He gained not a bit too much, however, for game Claudius' head was out just the least bit in front as they flashed past the wire. Little Cripple was a very good third, only a head short of place, and Del Norte was next up, two lengths away.

Ransom was an even money favorite for the last race, the Duchess of Milpitas next in favor. There was quite a play on Adelante, he being hammered down from 15 to 6 to 1. The only explanation of this was that Chevalier was riding him, and a hot tip had come out from town to play Blue Bell and Adelante. After Blue Bell's win, Adelante was believed by those who had received the wire information to be a "mortal." After the others had finished he was found among the also rans. The Duchess led from the quarter turn and won hands down. Ransom bucked it entirely after the half pole was passed. Mouita, who was also very well liked, failed to show to any advantage. Olivia and Hy Dy were second and third. Olivia ran a very good race.

Sloan and Chevalier rode two winners each, Madison the other.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs, selling. Betting—Dorsey 2 (opened at 6 to 1), Artemus 3, Irma 3½, Bob Tucker 4, Von Dunk 15, Tom Mulcahey 25, Fi Fi and Triumph 50 to 1. Good start. Dorsey showed first, then gave place to Irma, who led into the stretch. Then Dorsey came up and won hands down by five lengths. Winner, ch g, 3, by Cyclone—by Kit Carson. Irma (b f, 3, by St. Saviour—Ella T.), second easily, by four lengths; Artemus (b g, 3, by Argyle—by imp, Sir Modred, third. Time, 1:01½.

Second race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Betting—Key Alta 2½, Gold Bug, Joe Cotton and Veva 4, Johnny Payne 8, Tamalpais 9 and Crawford 15 to 1. Good start. Gold Bug led all the way and won easily by three lengths. Winner, ch g, a, by Pittsburgh—Mollie S. Crawford (ch g, 5, by Apache—Emma Longfield), second, driving; Key Alta (ch g, 3, by Alta—Fannie D.), third. Time, 1:08½.

Third race—Five and a half furlongs, handicap. Betting—Mainstay 9 to 10 (opening at even), Road Runner 3½, Joe K. 6, Clacquer 10 and Blue Bell 25 to 1. Poor start. Blue Bell beat the field, and was not headed and won easily by one length. The favorite was away last and finished fourth. Winner, b m, 4, by Prince of Norfolk—Gem of the Mountains. Clacquer (ch h, 5, by Three Cheers—Bell of the Lake) second driving. Road Runner (ch h, 4, by Joe Daniels—Miss Hooker) third. Time, 1:07.

Fourth race—One and one-sixteenth miles, handicap. Betting—Little Cripple 8 to 5, Del Norte 11 to 5, Mamie Scott 4, Claudius 6, Gussie 15 and Flirtilla 20 to 1. Good start. Mamie Scott set the pace and led to the wire, where Claudius just nipped her out by half a head. Winner, b b, 4, by imp. Brutus—Swayback. Mamie Scott (b f, 3, by Canny Scott—Eola), second, driving; Little Cripple (br g, 4, by imp. Pirate of Penzance—Lady Stanhope), third. Time, 1:47.

Fifth race—One mile, selling. Betting—Ransom even, Duchess of Milpitas 12 to 5, Monita 5, Adelante 6 (opened at 15), Hy Dy and Olivia 15, Vernon 30 to 1. Good start. Duchess of Milpitas led from the first turn, and won by a length hands down. Winner, b f, 3, by Duke of Norfolk—Ledette. Olivia (b f, 3, by Emperor of Norfolk—Dolly L.), second, easily; Hy Dy (br g, a, by Hyder Ali—Addie Warren), third. Time, 1:41½.

Rey El Santa Anita Wins Again.

NEW YORK, October 22.—"Lucky" Baldwin's Rey el Santa Anita, whose eccentricities and whose running have provoked so much ill-feeling, appeared in the second race to-day at Morris Park. The California trouble-maker was handicapped before the stewards made their decision on Saturday to accept no more of Mr. Baldwin's entries.

With 130 pounds up Rey el Santa Anita galloped away from Helen Nichols, Sir Francis and Lamplighter, who finished at his heels in the order named, and he ran the mile and a furlong in 1:54½. To Helen Nichols, who ran second, he gave in actual weight twenty-two pounds and to Sir Francis thirty-three pounds. It was a remarkable performance.

E. J. Baldwin on Monday prepared a letter to the stewards of the Morris Park meeting, requesting them to reconsider their action in refusing to accept further entries from his stable. He was very much worked up over the ruling of the stewards. He said that he had intended to come West shortly, but now he will stay there until the Morris Park officials either reinstate his horses or else name the specific charges upon which they decline to accept his entries.

The stewards of the Westchester Racing Association have directed that a letter, in which the following occurs, be sent E. J. Baldwin:

"This resolution only contemplates the refusal of the entries of your stable at the present meeting, and does not go beyond this. This matter has been referred to the Jockey Club for other action, and you will then have an opportunity to present such testimony as you may desire to offer to show why rule 42 should not be applied to your stable beyond the period of this meeting.

"If the running of your horses, as well as that of any other stable, is not satisfactory to the stewards of the meeting, they have the privilege under the rules of racing of refusing the entries of such stable without any investigation and without notice."

High Class Horses Sold.

At the auction sale of thoroughbreds belonging to P. Lorillard, P. J. Dwyer, David Gideon, August Belmont and others, held at New York, October 12th, the following were the principal ones, with prices and purchasers:

April Fool, b c, 3, by Sensation—Diadem; J. Hitchcock, $2,500.

Bloomer, b f, 2, by Sensation—Equality; J. Chinn, $2,100. Heresy, b f, 2, by imp. Simon Magus—Madonna; J. Hunter.

Sebastian, br g, 2, by Emperor—Ildico; G. Woods, $1,100. Leonawell, b h, 6, by Leonatus—Nettie Howell; R. Le Clair, $1,150.

Patrician, b c, 5, by imp. St. Blaise—Peeress; P. Dunne, $3,000.

Requital, b c, 2, by imp. Eothen—Retribution; W. P. Thompson, $26,000.

Hazlet, ch c, 2, by Sensation—Almy; O. A. Jones, $10,000. Ch c Irquois—Carlotta; O. A. Jones, $12,500.

Jack of Spades, b c, 4, by Magnetizer—imp. Nellie James; J. Chinn, $2,600.

Sagamore, br g, 2, by Sensation—Eavora; J. Chinn, $1,300.

LOCKHEART, 2:08½, is one of the grandest horses in training, or out of it, for that matter. He is a game cock besides, and Shuler, who drove him to his record, deserves much credit for doing so well with him. Lockheart did a heavy season and was taken right out of the stud to be put in shape to lower his record.

SANTA ANITA'S TROUBLE—When Rey el Santa Anita was showing his peculiarities, in so marked a way on the Bay District course, I advised Mr. Baldwin, in this department of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, to get rid of him. That the owner of such a pronounced in-and-out racehorse was peculiarly unfortunate, as he was sure to keep the unlucky one in a peck of troubles. If a poor man, straightened by fell necessity to struggle for provisions, hay and grain, he would surely come to grief, owner and horse "ruled off for life," when it might be that all was owing to the perverse nature of the brute which would only run when the odds were satisfactory. If the ownership was vested in a person that had accumulated so many good dollars that the keeping of a very big stable was a mere bagatelle, such a small fraction of his annual income, that the cost could not possibly figure, then, even, there would be carping critics to claim that wealth did not come in the way when inclination ran contrary, and accuse the Cæsus, as well as the impecunious owner, of intentional fraud.

Those who could not believe that a person who had so little to gain, in comparison to the odium attached, could possibly be guilty, and that the men he employed had hoodwinked him, telling plausible stories to account for defeat, and retaining his confidence notwithstanding the palpable display of wrongdoing. That was my opinion and was so stated in the article which appeared where Mr. Baldwin's trainer was warned off the Bay District course. Mr. Baldwin would not accept the charges against the trainer, retained him in his employ, and when an Eastern Jockey Club also gave warning, still signified his belief that the trainer was wrongfully accused. This action of the owner has been accepted, by not a few turfmen, as evidence of complicity, but that view may be erroneous.

Readers of Trilby, and those who have been so fortunate as to see Du Maurier's heroine and her associates represented by living actors, can readily understand that occult influences may be so potent as to destroy judgment, and then again a person can have the valuable quality of fealty to friends and employes so strongly developed as to overcome his powers of penetration, and nothing will convince him of the unworthiness of his proteges.

I sincerely hope that a rigid investigation will exonerate Mr. Baldwin, and that can only be hoped for on the plea that he has been imposed upon, either through the dishonesty or incapacity of the people in his employ. Unless that is clearly shown, however, the future welfare of the turf must be guarded by making an example of the wealthy owner. Imperatively demanded, the prominence of the party charged with guilty practices intensifying the desire to see penalties enforced.

Since written the above the following telegram was received. From that it will be learned that Mr. Baldwin now realizes that there had been "unprincipled people around my stables." Had he become aware of that sooner, this trouble might have been avoided, as I am inclined to the belief that there was some sort of hypnotism used, and that so effectually as to blind the owner of the champion in and out of the last half century.

NEW YORK, N. Y., October 21.—E. J. Baldwin to-day prepared a letter to the stewards of the Morris Park meeting, requesting them to reconsider their action in refusing to accept further entries from his stable.

He is very much worked up over the rulings of the stewards. He says that he had intended to go West shortly, but now he will stay here until the Morris Park officials either reinstate his horses or else name the specific charges upon which they decline to accept his entries.

He intimated strongly to-night that he would spend a lot of money in the employment of the ablest lawyers that he could get, before he would allow the matter to remain in its present shape. He stated, however, that before proceeding to extreme measures, he would use every effort in his power to obtain a rehearing of the case. In his letter Mr. Baldwin says:

"I have given over twenty-five years of my life to the breeding and running of horses, all of which has resulted in the present perfection of the Santa Anita Stable. This has been done purely out of my love for horses and racing, and without any thought of profit.

"During all of that time I have never been aware of a suspicion on the part of any one of wrongdoing on my part. As is the case with all owners of racing stables, I have unfortunately had unprincipled people around my stables. Uncertain as people sometimes are, horses are more so.

"Complaint was made to me on Saturday by the stewards that the running of Rey el Santa Anita at the Brooklyn track was not satisfactory. I was asked by them whether I had told my trainer to run the horse.

"I replied that I had telegraphed from New York to my trainer on the morning of the race to get the horse ready to run, as I was not going to run Rey el Carreras. When I reached the track I went to the paddock, where they were rubbing Rey el Santa Anita down.

"My trainer told me then that he did not think the horse was in first-class condition to run that day, and that I had better not bet any money on him. I told him he was too late, as I had already sent in a commission on him, and I thought he so far outclassed the other horses entered that he would win.

"The horn sounded just then, before I had walked twenty steps away, and it was too late to withdraw him, even if I had wished to do so, as the horse was then under the control of the judges. I have witness to all these facts.

"I made the remark to my trainer that if he had telegraphed me the horse's condition I would not have run him, as I make it a rule never to run any horse until I think him in first-class condition.

"I have this proposition to make to the stewards for the purpose of satisfying them beyond question of the uncertainty of horse racing. I will place Rey el Santa Anita in charge of any proper person designated by them, to be subjected to such trials as they may see fit to impose upon him, and I will gladly abide by the result. This proposition includes Araphoe as well, and I should be but too well pleased should the stewards accept and act upon this suggestion.

"I cannot help but think that the action of the stewards on Saturday was hasty and premature."

GRATTON IN THE HORSE REVIEW, goes into estates over the management of Andrews, driver of Bouncer in the Transylvania stake. His fervid encomiums are based on the first heat being laid up so effectually that Bouncer was ninth in a field of thirteen, and the second she was incomparably better managed by taking the last place, 12 being her number in the summary, one being distanced in the first heat.

The gist of Grattan's remarks are contained in the following sentences:

"Andrews merely let the other fellows fight it out for two heats, while he finished 7, 12, and then he went on and won. The real good people cannot afford to applaud a victory of that sort. If they had been in control they would have made Andrews go out with his four-year-old from the word in the first heat and kill her off in an effort to win."

The effort to be smart and the logic are on a par. The first and second heats were trotted in 2:12, 2:10½, won by Lynne Bel. The third, fourth and fifth in 2:10½, 2:10½, 2:10½.

Bouncer drew the ninth position so that she had as favorable a chance to win the first heat as the second, and better than in the third heat, which she won. That she could have won the heats she lost is a fair conclusion. She was second choice in the pools the night before the race, and as there was book-betting it is a justifiable inference that the "legs of the bookmakers were pulled," to use Grattan's words. Let us suppose that Bouncer had met with an accident in the fifth heat, and that of so serious a character as to compel her withdrawal.

The third and fourth heats proving that she should have won the first, and might have won the second as well, who then would applaud the tactics of Andrews? Or it might have been that with the very last position at the send-off. If Bouncer could not have beaten Lynne Bel in the third heat, and as he finished second, the others which made the effort, Altao and Piletta, being unequal to the task, the race would have been ended, and in that case Andrews would have been a party to "burning-up the money" placed on Bouncer, if not as guilty as though he had "pulled" the third heat as well as the first and second. There may be a distinction in the two crimes, the difference will not be so great as to give cause for approval in one, for denunciation in the other.

There are phases of the question connected with laying up heats which do not require long arguments to show that the practice should be forbidden, and that so forcibly as to compel obedience. If the advantage is so great as Grattan claims, to the parties who lay up, it is manifestly unfair to those who are making an honest endeavor to win from the start. "A fair field and no favor," everyone who engages in a race has a right to demand. That is the true foundation for all sports, and when a person is granted the privilege of taking it easy while others are struggling, is anything but a fair field, and with favors awarded to those who have the least claim to be thus distinguished. Then if beats were not laid up it would be impossible to "throw" races. Splan's story is a good illustration. A driver had laid up the first heat at the command of the owner, the betting not being satisfactory. The expected change did not materialize and the order was repeated. After the loss of two heats the owner got his money on at rates that suited him, and he invested with a will. The third heat was lost and the race ended. In reply to the violent attack of the owner the driver retorted, that he had laid up two heats for the owner and only one for himself, and he could not see where he could be blamed while there was no censure for the double swindle.

I feel quite confident that the owner of Bouncer, Mr. Simpson of New York, would not sanction such management. He spent the afternoon with me in Oakland on Friday, October 4th, six days before the Transylvania was to be decided, and I was much pleased to learn that he coincided in my published views regarding the necessity of divesting harness racing of its most obnoxious features. From that conversation I am very certain that he would be better satisfied if his great young mare had won it in straight heats, in place of bringing up the tail-end of the procession in two of them. Far more worthy of applause fighting an honest battle than to depend on outside aid to discomfit an adversary, and had that been the issue there are few who would not have given more hearty plaudits than under the present circumstances.

I am particularly well pleased with the result, and ready to award a full measure of praise to the speedy and staunch filly while condemning her driver for the tactics he followed. In the conversation mentioned I told Mr. Simpson that from the published accounts of Eastern races I thought his mare had a good chance to win the stake. He replied that he would be delighted if my prophecy proved a true prediction though it was a very strong field to meet. We are all gratified when vaticinations are verified, and there are other reasons for being thoroughly satisfied with Bouncer's victory. Still had there been a straight heat conquest, as was the case from 1890 to 1895 it would have been more in keeping, or, as in the first-mentioned year when McDoel lost the third heat, in which he was second, in place of being last the satisfaction would be increased, although he may be termed a higher mark to trot third, fourth and fifth heats in 2:10½, 2:10½, 2:10½, after going fast enough to save her distance in the first and second. But as stated before these three heats are the strongest kind of proof that she could have won, like all of her predecessors, with one exception, in straight heats. The average for Lynne Bel is 2:11½, for Bouncer 2:10½, and, therefore, her ability to win "right off the reel" can scarcely be questioned.

There are many drivers who seem to be impressed with the idea that laying up heats is a token of ability, and when successful after pursuing that plan, swell up with exceeding pride over the performance.

When writers applaud, pat them on the back and sing, "What a brave boy are you," it is not surprising that self-laudation should be stronger than judgment. Still if the truth were known, very many races have been lost by laying up, and that when the intention was to win. Every race that has been "thrown" is an object lesson of the practice being carried out to its fullest extent.

PROGRAMME C. J. C.—Some of the sheets got misplaced in the hands of the printers, which was the cause of some errors in the programme of the California Jockey Club, and after a careful overhauling Mr. Kelley found where a better arrangement could be made.

A huge and perplexing one that programme. With so many entries, and the same horses named in several events, twenty-eight races to be divided in seven days, it was nearly out of the question to effect a satisfactory arrangement.

Then, too, due care had to be observed that there should be an attractive bill for each day of the meeting, so that the problem became one of exceeding tribulation. It was very important that the arrangement should be such as to interest the people on every day of the meeting, and hence it would not be good policy to have all the races which were likely to be the most potent magnet in drawing attendance on a few days, when it was possible to distribute them so as to make a good showing on each afternoon.

Owners and breeders of trotters and pacers have a big stake in this meeting. Should it prove remunerative to the club it will ensure others being given and these as liberally endowed as the one which will commence November 8th and close on the 15th of that month, and these meetings will be held at a time when the best results will follow.

One of them so early in the Spring as to give the horses which will make the Eastern campaign an opportunity to participate, and the other when these horses come back. The greatest drawback to harness racing in California is the shortness of the season, and with a springy circuit arranged that will be overcome.

In all probability should the C. J. C. give a Spring trotting meeting others will follow, and in place of having to wait until the last of the Summer to commence, from March to November, will be available.

RANCHO DEL SIERRAS-EL RIO REY.—Nearly five thousand feet above ocean level is the altitude of Washoe Valley at the point where the above named breeding farm is located. There are mountains which rise thousands of feet more on the west side of the valley, and to the east a range of lesser elevations.

A grand place for the breeding and rearing of fine horses, when the adjuncts are as complete as those are which Mr. Winters has erected. Cold at times during the winter as that elevation indicates, but the buildings in which the horses are domiciled have been constructed with the view of keeping out the cold, and the paddocks are on the sunny side of the big barn, and there are many genial days in the winter time when the youngsters can gambol to their heart's delight. The valley and the slopes afford nutritious herbage, "green feed" during all of the summer months, and material for the very best hay. The timothy which is grown there I have no hesitancy in classifying as the best I ever saw, as the absence of rain during the haying season makes proper curing easily managed, and with a greater profusion of blades than that grass has in the Western states.

Superior oats is also a product, and the proprietor of the famous farm is a full believer in the adage "that half the horse goes down his throat," and his long and successful career as a breeder of race horses is ample testimony that his system and methods are correct.

From the mountains on the West come streams of the purest water, and thus, after the right kind of foundation stock has been secured, nothing is lacking for the production of horses which will "earn brackets" in these days when speed of the highest flight is necessary to secure the coveted honor.

It is almost supererogatory to do more than mention the name of Theodore Winters in connection with racing affairs, entirely so to dilate on the merits of horses he has bred and reared to those who have even a small knowledge of race-horse history. From the time he carried "Norfolk" across the isthmus, and that is more than thirty years ago, up to the present day the horses he has bred have played important parts, and for the last twenty years a succession of cracks which have gained renown on the most famous courses of the Orient.

This was a logical sequence when the foundation was so well laid. The best horses of the day could only make Norfolk gallop, and at St. Louis and Patterson he "romped" home with so much ease as to make real good horses which were behind him look cheap. Not a heat lost, a succession of victories, so that when his sons carried all before them the inheritance was legitimately their right.

Great as Norfolk was on the race course, and in the stud, had it not been for bad management Joe Hooker might have been his peer when the "colors were up," and in the stud he has proved a worthy companion. Joe was one of the very fastest horses in my knowledge, so fast, that it is difficult to find a comparison, and with form and breeding to match his speed.

With all due appreciation of the standing of these great sires, with a full knowledge of what they have done in the way of procreating animals that have gained world-wide distinction, I am inclined to the belief that the present monarch of the mountain rancho, El Rio Rey, will prove their superior. This may be ascribed to undue favoritism, and yet there are good grounds for the belief. In the first place he was a great racehorse among great race horses, never losing a race, had an immense turn of speed, carried weights that would have stopped the pick of two-year-olds, in fact, there were good grounds for an enthusiastic admirer to claim that in the whole history of the turf there had never been his equal when the comparison was between El Rio Rey and any other two-year old.

Nearly three years ago I listened attentively to a red-hot discussion in the Wellington House, Chicago. The room was thronged with turfmen, and the question came up as to the merit of the horses which had raced at Washington Park. Emperor of Norfolk had staunch supporters, Yo Tambien a goodly array of adherents, but when the El Rio Rey advocate put in the plea that when a colt could fall down in a race of five and a half furlongs and then win over a good field, he must be awarded the first prize for speed, he was voted winner of that part of the debate. But this estimate was shared by those cute folk, the bookmakers, is evident. In his first race he stood 5 to 4 on, four starters, in the second 5 to 3 on, seven starters, third race, 5 to 4 on, thirteen starters, fourth race, 4 to 1 on, five starters, fifth race, 1 to 1 on, fifteen starters. This was the Eclipse Stakes, value to winner $23,750, and his sixth race was a handicap for two-year-olds, he carrying top weight, 126 pounds, giving from 28 to 10 pounds in a field of 15, with the betting 2 to 1 on, running three-quarters in 1:11, and gaining $9,520, by the great performances. His last race, 2 to 1 on, as usual, with eight starters, and this was a stake worth $5,225. I will not so far underrate the intelligence of my readers as to think it necessary to go further in order to prove the racing qualities of El Rio Rey.

There are different opinions regarding the best form for racing and, therefore, can only say that my estimate places him in the front rank on that score. I am nearly tempted to write the highest formed horse I ever saw, but will qualify that by marking it down, never saw a horse which combined more of the "points" which are admitted to be the best for speed and endurance.

"An ounce of blood is worth a pound of bone" is an old-time maxim, and with some explanations can be accepted as correct. "Blood is blood but form is superiority." This rather ambiguous sentence can be coupled with the others, and then the translation may be, form and breeding are both essential in a stallion when racing progeny is desired.

"Breed to Derby and St. Leger winners" is the advice of which many well posted Englishmen concur in endorsing. Combine as many winning strains as possible, unless individuals are faulty in form, not up to the usual standard if the families to which they belong, will not be a bad "excerpt" to take the place of the English saying in America.

Norfolk, Lexington, Boston, a trio of names borne by the undisputed champions of their eras, and Glencoe Sarpodon and other English celebrities on the paternal side of El Rio Rey.

Having bred his dam I may be accused of over-partiality for that side of the house, but I have heard so many say that they regarded Marion as the foremost of American broodmares, tending to establish confidence in the merits of the animals, and strengthen the belief that my favoritism is well placed. Her sire, Malcolm, was a fine race horse of high form, by Bonnie Scotland, his dam Lady Lancaster, by imp. Monarch, grandam Lady Canton, by imp. Tranby. Lady Lancaster, the dam of many celebrities, among them Ontario, dam of McWhirter. Marion met with misfortune in her first "repeat" on the Oakland track, breaking off the point of the wing of the coffin bone. When apparently recovered she was named in a race of three miles, was working so well that I had great hopes of winning, when in what was intended to be her last fast work before the race she broke down so badly that she hobbled on three legs from the track to her box. A grand-looking mare, speed that was wonderful, endurance assured by her breeding, and of such strength of constitution, that now when twenty-four years old she shows little indications of age, and those who have seen her foal of this year say that it is a worthy member of the family. Praise enough.

Her dam Maggie Mitchell, by imp. Yorkshire, never raced. Injured when in training for a stake in Memphis she was thrown out of training. Her son, Burnbrae, was one of the fastest horses I ever saw gallop, and another son, Craighburn, beat Nell Flaherty, in the "upper country," "on three legs."

The next dam, Charmer, by imp. Glencoe, was unquestionably of the highest class. She won, according to my recollection, twice as many races as any other son or daughter of her noted sire. Sixteen of them at three miles, eight at heats of four miles, none of them less than heats of two miles, forty-three in all, which she won.

When Marion was running out in a little field adjoining the Oakland Trotting Park, James L. Eoff and I were walking past. When opposite she raised her head, turning it toward us, when Eoff exclaimed: "There is an exact image of Charmer; where did she come from?" Captain Tom Merry also noted the resemblance, though she carries the Bonnie Scotland characteristics as well.

Charmer's dam, Betsey Malone, by Stockholder, ran twenty-two races and the only one she lost was by falling.

When conversing with old time Tennessee racing folk, and great racehorses were the topic, it was a sure response to eulogies of others that Betsey Malone was the boss.

So many Californians are now interested in the descendants of Marion, that when the busy season is over—though there is scarcely a let-up in this country—I will give a more extended account of the family connections.

There is little question that her grandson, Rey del Carreiras, is very near if not quite at the top, and a whole lot of others well worthy of mention.

That Rancho del Sierras met with a great loss when Joe Hooker died is beyond question, that El Rio Rey will keep up the prestige of the oldest of Pacific Slope racehorse breeders is my unqualified belief.

NOT FRANK FORRESTER.—The Breeder and Horseman gives the talented writer, "Frank Forrester"—Henry W. Herbert—the credit of writing the graphic account of the race between Wagner and Grey Eagle in 1839 at Louisville, Ky.

"N. of Arkansas," Colonel Nolan, wrote a report which was published in the Louisville Journal and copied in the Spirit of the Times, though the editor of that paper wrote the description which has been pronounced the best ever published, and with all due deference to Iconoclast I must give it a place before Homer's account of the races on the plains of Troy.

Two races of heats of four miles were ran during the week. The first was ran on Monday, September 30th, the second Saturday, October 5th. Wagner won the first in straight heats, 7:48, 7:44; the second Grey Eagle won the first heat in 7:51; Wagner the second in 7:43; in the third Grey Eagle broke down in the second mile.

I suppose the editor of the Tennessee journal was misled by the account appearing in Frank Forrester's "Horses of America" in which it is stated: "In addition to the brilliant report of 'N. of Arkansas,' in the Spirit of the Times, the editor, since his return, has given his impressions of the meeting in the columns of that paper. Many readers of this magazine have expressed a desire that we should also give them a report or the two great races. In compliance with the general desire of these we proceed to give our own impressions of the two races."

This was likely to mislead, but the magazine referred to was the Turf Register, and Sporting Magazine was also under the editorial charge of Wm. T. Porter, and the account in "Horses of America" is literal copy.

The description of "N. of Arkansas" appeared in the Spirit of the Times October 19th, that of Wm. T. Porter in the issue of January 4, 1840.

I cherish a great admiration, as well as friendly feeling, for the "Tall Son of York," and therefore, make this correction.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

Registration of Foals.

The New York Mercury of October 19th prints in full the list of foals of 1894 that had been registered with the Jockey Club up to October 9th.

Breeders of thoroughbreds should remember, says the Mercury that the time for registration of foals of 1895 expires on November 1st with the Jockey Club. Registration is required by the Western Turf Congress as well as the Jockey Club. The Western Turf Congress recognizes the Stud Book as the official organ of registry, and the Jockey Club requires registration with it to entitle horses to race on Eastern tracks. For the sake of convenience and accuracy, when breeders report to the Jockey Club their foals, it will be well at the same time to send a duplicate report to the editor of the Stud Book.

The time for registration of California foals has been extended by the Jockey Club to December 1, 1895.

THE polo races next week at the Breeders meeting are a novel feature, and it is awakening such interest at Los Angeles that it is predicted over 6,000 spectators will be present.

HOOF-BEATS.

BABE MARION, 2:20, lowered his record at Los Angeles to 2:17½. Babe Marion is a three-year-old pacer by Steinway.

STEINWAY has had eight additions to his 2:30 list this season. Guy Wilkes is the only California stallion that leads him; he has nine.

DIABLO, 2:09½, is improving in health, and his owner, Wm. Murray, believes he will be ready for the California Jockey Club meeting.

ZOMBRO equaled his record of 2:13 again at Los Angeles last Tuesday, and won his race in straight heats. He is a wonderful three-year-old.

ZEPHYR, a horse driven by J. Swan at Central Park, Oregon, got a record of 2:27½ at Central Point, Oregon, October 10th. Zephyr was sired by Antevio.

NEARLY all the horses that are not at the Los Angeles track are being worked at the Oakland course preparatory to the race meeting to be given by the California Jockey Club.

DORSEY, the good thing that won the first race Wednesday in such easy style and left the maiden ranks in a most impressive manner, was named for his breeder, Colonel Caleb Dorsey. He is by Cyclone, dam by Kit Carson, and entered by D. A. Nunar.

WALDO J. is in such a disabled condition from his race at Ventura that he will not be a starter at the Los Angeles meeting. He is being carefully nursed with the object, is possible, of starting him at the California Jockey Club in November.

ALGRIGOR, by Steinway, out of Maggie McGregor, by Robert McGregor, is a wonder. He got a record of 2:15½ in the second heat of the second race he ever started in. It was the 2:25 pace at Los Angeles, Thursday. Algrigor is four years old and is owned by T. J. Crowley, of this city.

JOHNNIE PERKINS withdrew Visalia from the 2:13 trot at Los Angeles on Wednesday, on account of the unfair treatment which he believes he received from the judges on Monday when a heat was taken away from Jasper Ayres. He proposes not to start a horse until the Breeders meeting next week.

BOTH Jasper Paulsen and Our Lucky were crippled in their race at San Jose, which was won by Columbus S. The former has not started since, and has only been lately having slow work. Our Lucky is retired for life, his injuries being so severe that he was carried in a dray from the Fresno fair grounds to the depot.

THE track at Los Angeles is sluggish and has no elasticity to it. As it is "cuppy" it is especially hard on pacers and the consensus of opinion among visiting horsemen is that a top dressing of clay should be laid on it before next season. The condition of the track is held responsible for Native State's poor showing on the opening day, as it was with difficulty he could trot a level step.

THE admirers of Klamath, affectionately called "Cookie" by his owner, Tom Raymond, will be pained to hear that he was attacked with rheumatism toward the close of his Eastern campaign, and though he has had the tenderest care, he wasted away until he was but a shadow of his former self. Since returning to his old home he has been rapidly rejuvenating, and the other day Mr. Raymond sent him a fast eighth in 0:12, but it is problematical whether he will be fit to send to the Jockey Club meeting, where he is billed to meet Azote. If both are in fine fettle the contest will be the biggest drawing card that has been on the coast for years.

Navarre a Great Horse.

NEW YORK, October 24.—It was expected that a good day's sport would be held at Morris Park with several well-filled races on the card. A few surprises, due to changes in form, were looked for, but it was not thought that a lot of Central Office detectives would cause consternation among the betting men in the office of the association. Such was the case, however, and a fine day's sport was marred by the action of the police. After the fourth race had been run, eight bookmakers, with five assistants, were arrested on charges of bookmaking and taken to the Essex Market Police Court, where they were bailed out.

Inspector McCullough was at the track, and after the sixth race, the judges, Colonel Simmons and Clarence McDowell, and C. G. Fitzgerald, clerk of the scales, were taken into custody on a charge of maintaining a lottery. After the races the prisoners were also taken to Essex Market Police Court and released on bail.

The great race of the day was the Municipal Handicap at a mile and three quarters, in which August Belmont's crack Henry of Navarre, was asked to take up 130 pounds and give four pounds each to Rey el Santa Anita and Gifford, while Andrews was the lightweight. Navarre was held at 4 to 5, Clifford was played as a second choice and Rey el Santa Anita third, while nobody wanted Andrews at any price.

Navarre won easily by a good length. Andrews and Clifford had done battle for the first mile. Andrews then gave up, and Clifford tried to get Navarre, but failed. Rey el Santa Anita got the place by eight lengths from Clifford, who died away to nothing, yet was third by fifteen lengths. Time, 3:02.

Names Claimed.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN: I claim the name Kate Malone for sorrel filly, white hind pastern, small star, foaled 1895, dam Lady Le Grande, by Le Grande; second dam Young Fannie Wickham, by Arthurton; third dam Fannie Malone, by Niagara; fourth dam Old Fannie Wickham; sired by Wilkes Moor, 2:27½ (registered Fez), by Guy Wilkes—Del Sur.

Rose Clark, b f, small star, first dam Wilkes Corbitt, by Wilkes Moor; second dam Ventura, by Wm. Corbitt—Echo, sire, L. J., by Comrade (Stamboul—Electioneer.) L. J.'s first dam is by Guy Wilkes, bred by L. J. Rose.

Hueneme, Cal., Oct. 3, 1885. THOMAS CLARK.

Bred by Orville Appleby, San Jose, Cal.
LEIL, for b c, foaled May 3, 1895, by imp. Loyalist—Junia, by Wildide.

LITTLE CONDE, for ch c, by Conde, out of Pigmy, by Olemus.

TURF AND TRACK

THE SULKY.

THE weather is getting very cold in the East.

ELECTRICIAN (sire of Midi, 2:23½) is full brother to Bernad, 2:17.

ST. JUSTIN, by St. Just, got a record of 2:28 at Winfield Kansas, October 5th.

ANTEORIAN is the name of a pacer by Anteros that got a record of 2:22½ at Windsor, Ont., Oct. 11.

THE great two-year-old Tommy Britton went a half Monday on the Lexington track in 1:03, quarter in 0:30½.

VISALIA, 2:12½, is one of the gamest young mares ever seen in California. She is by Iris, a son of Eros, 2:29½.

THE Santa Ana fair was a great success.

CAN any of our readers give us the pedigree of Encounter, 2:17?

THE pacer La Belle, 2:09, is by the trotting stallion Lockheart, 2:08½.

GRANADO, by Sultan, got a record of 2:26 at Philadelphia last month.

RED WILKES has had fourteen new ones added to his splendid list this year.

A FEW meetings more and the light harness horses will retire to winter quarters.

THE dam of Valley Queen, 2:16, the good, game daughter of Sphinx, is Mascot, by Red Wilkes.

KITTY NUTFORD, by Nutford, entered the 2:30 list at Santa Ana, getting a mark of 2:25½.

ETHEL DOWNES, 2:13, has won seven consecutive races. She is by Boodle and is as handsome as a picture.

MEPHISTO, by Sidney, dam by Guy Wilkes, is said to be a very fast horse. He is owned by J. A. Dunlap, Tarantum, Pa.

THE Electioneer family monopolized the money in the Transylvania and got the second slice in the Futurity at Lexington.

FRED KOHL, 2:12½, is by Guy Wilkes, out of Mystic, by Nutwood, second dam Emma Arteburn, by Mambrino Patchen.

ABDUL AMEER, two-year-old son of Stamboul, 2:07½, and Silverone, 2:19½, took a time record of 2:30 at Mystic Park last week.

A YEARLING son of To Order's called Jeremiab won a half mile race in two heats at Warren, Ohio, October 12th. Time, 1:29½, 1:24.

ORINDO, a bay gelding by Antevolo won the race for three minute trotters at Ypsilanti, Mich., October 8th. Time, 2:33, 2:31½, 2:30.

PRINCE LAVALARD, 2:23½, by Lavalard, son of Director, lowered his record to 2:16½ at Mystic Park, Medford, Mass., October 13th.

THE Los Angeles meeting is another success. The people in the southern portion of California are particular to light harness events.

THE Transylvania brought over $90,000 into the box. It was the heaviest betting race since the memorable Columbian free-for-all.

ANTENETTE, by Anteros, won a good race at North Manchester, Ind., Sept. 27th, trotting, the last three of the five heats in 2:30, 2:30 and 2:31½.

ELLA W., 2:17, by Eros, has entirely recovered from her cranky ways, and H. Hellman, her driver, thinks she will be a better mare than ever next year.

WM. VIOGET is to send a number of very promising trotters to the combination sale to be held by Messrs. Killip & Co. in this city, November 12th.

ROBERTA A., a yearling sister to Beauzetta, 2:08½, brought $1,600 at auction in Lexington, Ky., last week. H. J. Rose, of Omaha, Nebraska, was the buyer.

NOW that Pedlar has won the longest race of the year—ten heats—it is in order for some sage to descant on the lack of racing quality of the Electioneers.

WHEN Fred S. Moody, by Guy Wilkes, out of Montrose by Sultan, won the $7,500 Futurity Stake at Lexington, he lowered his record from 2:19½ to 2:18.

FRACTIONAL records seem to be in favor with the fast pacers. Four have records of 2:04 flat, none have flat records of 2:05 or 2:06, while five have 2:07 records.

DAGHESTAN, 2:25, lowered his record to 2:23½ at Los Angeles last Monday. He will be sold at Madison Square Garden by W. B. Fasig & Co. next month.

A CORRESPONDENT remarks that the scrub seems to be finding his place in the fertilizer factory, and the country is blessed by his conversion into leather and phosphate.

THE fall meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. Association commences Monday next at Los Angeles. The greatest preparations are being made for it and success seems assured.

MATTIE NUTWOOD (dam of Baron Dillon, 2:10), by Nutwood, was purchased by the late W. H. Hobart, and died at his farm, San Mateo. Baron Dillon was her only colt.

BEUZETTA was never so good as she is right now. Orrin Hickok has got her so she goes with her head straight in front of her and she is as sound as a newly-milled coin.

HARRY AGNEW has a remarkably handsome Guy Wilkes stallion out of Lady Indigo, by Alcona, that will make some of his competitors next year step down the line to pass him.

THE HORSEMAN of last week publishes a beautiful picture of Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes, one of the brightest and most enthusiastic friends the light harness horse has in New York.

CHAS. MARVIN drove the Electioneer mare, Utility, at Lexington, when she captured the 2:14 class trotting race in 2:13, 2:13½ and 2:19. Utility is out of Consolation, by Dictator.

ELLA T., the gray mare by Altamont that won the 2:11 pacing race at Lexington, was a close second to Colonel Thornton in 2:09½, then won the three succeeding heats in 2:10, 2:09, 2:11½.

THE Wilkes family will soon be entitled to consideration as the greatest pacing family in existence. Out of the 48 new 2:10 pacers of this season, 20 carry the blood of the son of Hambletonian and Dolly Spanker.

WANDA and Phenol, two of our best campaigners, have had their names duplicated by some Eastern horse-owners who have no right to use them, and now a Nutwood Wilkes pops up with a record of 2:23. Next!

A LOCAL syndicate, headed by F. D. Stout, which has leased Nutwood Park and Highland Farm, and bought the eighty-four horses, except Nutwood, began to improve the track at Dubuque, Iowa, last Monday.

ON Sunday last Nathan Strauss drove Cobwebs a mile to wagon over Fleetwood in 2:21½, and the chestnut son of Whips looks as if he could beat his record. Mr. Strauss says he makes the best roadster he ever owned.

MAJOR DUBOIS has great faith in Sulphide. He says he is not content to let the great colt stay where he is, but intends that he shall have a chance to equal, if not surpass, Directly's world two-year-old pacing record of 2:07½.

WE will esteem it a favor if any of our readers will send in the names of any 2:30 performers we have omitted in our table on another page. We would also be pleased to be notified of any errors that may be found therein.

THE courtesy extended by Mr. Willetta and his wife to the driver of W. Wood, the horse that defeated their handsome stallion, Silkwood, at Santa Ana last week, made thousands of friends for this highly esteemed couple.

JOHN H. SHULTS, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has consigned to P. C. Kellogg & Co.'s auction sale which is to take place in New York, October 28th and 29th one hundred head of trotting stock including many California-bred ones.

SCLAVONIC, 2:22½, a five-year-old son of King Wilkes and Miss Russell (dam of Maud S., 2:08½), lowered his record to 2:15½ and won a hard-fought race at Boston, Mass., October 9th. He paced the last two heats of the race in 2:16 and 2:16½.

W. S. HOBART has the fastest team in this city—Hazel Wilkes, 2:11½, and She, 2:14½. He has W. Bradbury and all the other road riders in trouble when he moves by them on the speed track, for there are few better reinsmen in the State than he.

BRIGHT REGENT, Miss Rita and Wiggins are the representatives of the four, three and two-year-old campaigning divisions that have not this season suffered defeat. Wiggins having won five races, Miss Rita four and Bright Regent nine.

THE consignment of eighteen head of fine trotting-bred coach and road horses from C. J. Hamlin's village farm to W. D. Grand's auction sale in New York brought $7,365, an average of $410. The consignors were pleased with the result of the sale.

THE horse Starr Sultan, sire of Native State, 2:14½, was formerly called Harvester. He is by Sultan, out of Harvest Queen, 2:29½ (dam of May Boy, 2:26), by Hambletonian 10; second dam Peter Dubois mare, by American Star 14; third dam Abdallah 1.

IF James Gordon Bennett should be successful in his determination to organize an international circuit to include the best tracks in France, Germany, Austria, and Italy there will be a grand shipment of American trotters over the ocean next season.

ALDEN GOLDSMITH, one of the most gentlemanly and clever reinsmen of the young generation, was married at his home in Washingtonville last week, the bride being a Miss Fulton, one of Orange County's fairest daughters. The groom is a nephew of John Goldsmith.

GLENNVILLE, by Parkville, son of Electioneer won a race at Warren, Ohio, Oct. 8th in straight heats. Time, 2:34½, 2:29½, 2:29½. No matter where the descendants of Electioneer are scattered when the bell rings in the judges' stand they are there and able to take the money.

WHOEVER needs a first-class campaigner should not overlook Golden West, 2:16. He is to be sold because the owner's other interests prevent him from giving the attention to this horse's campaigning he would like, and at the price asked Golden West is a very cheap horse.

BEN LOMOND 2870, grandsire of W. W. P., 2:06½, though dead since 1882, has an addition to his list of 2:30 trotters, and a right good one at that. Bonnie Ben is his name, and he has a record of 2:17. Ben Lomond 2870 was bred by E. D. Graves, Marshall, Mo., and died in Montana.

THE bay stallion Great Stakes, by Billy Thornhill, dam by Sweepstakes, owned by Foxball Farm, Norfolk, Va., won a good race, trained and driven by Allen Merrifield, at the Hanover, Pa., Fair. He started in the 2:25 class, trotting, and reduced his record to 2:23½ in the third heat. It took four heats to decide the race and the son of Billy Thornhill captured the first, third and fourth.

WALTER WINANS, Esq., of Brighton, Eng., commissioned Geo. H. Ketchum to buy him a pacer, and Jack Bowers, 2:09½, has been purchased for Mr. Winans from L. V. Werkly, of Columbus, O. Jack Bowers will make a great pacing roadster, and in the stable of a well-known horseman like Mr. Winans will do a great deal toward giving our English cousins a good idea of the American pacer.

OREGON and Washington have plenty of horses that will make good race horses if they are given an opportunity. The forming of a race circuit there will encourage the training of some that would not otherwise be trained, and no doubt will develop some good ones.

THE leading sires of the new 2:20 trotters for 1895 are: Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, and Wilkes Boy, 2:24½, each credited with five, and Axtell, 2:12, Onward, 2:25½, Red Wilkes, Wilton, 2:19½, and Greenlander, 2:12, with four each. Axtell (foaled 1886) is the youngest of these sires by a margin of four years, while his four performers are all three-year-olds.

MR. MALCOLM FORBES, of Boston, instructed Mr. G. W. Leavitt to purchase the Electioneer mare Utility (dam by Dictator) at the Woodard & Shanklin sale for $1,500. Mr. Leavitt bought her for $1,625, being willing to take her himself at that price, if Mr. Forbes did not approve of the purchase. In the race which she trotted the day of the sale and the next day, she won $500 of the money back. When sold her record was 2:14½. It is now 2:13.

THE finest lot of youngsters ever bred at Palo Alto will be shipped to P. C. Kellogg & Co. about December 6th, and judging by the marvelous showing made by the descendants of the great Electioneer and as these represent the very best and choicest of his sons and daughters, good prices should prevail. There is not a cull in the lot, and whoever purchases any of these will not regret it. Electioneer is destined to be as great a fountain-head for extraordinary, fine-looking, game, pure-gaited and strong-limbed trotters as his illustrious sire, Hambletonian 10, was.

MONTROSE, by Sultan, has produced the bread winners of the San Mateo Farm stable and it is doubtful if any mare of her age ever produced three greater winners than her three foals, Mary Best, Muta Wilkes and Fred S. Moody. Since 1892 Muta Wilkes has won a total of $21,125; Mary Best $21,500 in the campaigns of 1893 and 1894, while Fred S. Moody has won $9,000 this year, making a total of $51,625. Montrose was foaled in 1882, and has four performers to her credit, Muta Wilkes, four-year-old record 2:11, Mary Best three-year-old record 2:12½, Fred S. Moody, two-year-old record 2:18, and Sir Wilkes, three-year-old record 2:29.

AT a meeting of the Brooklyn Jockey Club racecourse October 12th, Messrs. C. Oliver Iselin, William Astor Chandler and L. S. Thompson were elected to membership. The stewards of the meeting, after investigation, sustained the protest lodged by Louis Stuart against the awarding of the purse won by the colt Salvable on September 24th, upon the grounds that the entry was made in violation of the rules of racing, inasmuch as the said colt was run in the name and colors of the Santa Anita Stable while being the property of Samuel Hildreth, and in accordance with the decision the colt was disqualified, and the secretary was instructed to distribute the purse accordingly.

HORSEOWNERS who contemplate exhibiting at the Horse Show will try and have their horses shown to the best advantage. John A. McKerron, the well-known harness maker, fitted all the prize winners at the last show with beautiful halters, bridles, surcingle, etc., and his work was acknowledged by the Eastern experts to be better than any seen at the horse shows in the East. He has filled orders for tandem rigs, four-in-hands and double teams this season, and the owners are so proud of the work that they will have them at the show this winter. Mr. McKerron's work stands the test of time, for nothing but the best material is used, and every sample sent from his manufactory has to undergo his personal inspection. The merits of his goods extend from frozen Russian across to Australia, while there is not a race track in America or Europe that has not samples of his handiwork.

ATHANIO, 2:11½, Mandolin, 2:16, and Golden Gateway were shipped from Terre Haute to the Village farm and arrived there during the past week. During the season Athanio started in six races, four of them being against aged horses, and won three firsts, two seconds and one third. His total winnings amount to $4,575, considerably more than Messrs. Hamlin and Geers paid for him. His mile in 2:11½ is the fastest made by a three-year-old this season. Golden Gateway showed to all observers that he was possessed of marvelous speed. Geers was greatly pleased with him and expects he will be a great horse in the slow classes next season. Croy, who trained Gateway during this season, was congratulated on all sides for his success. Mandolin hardly came up to the standard required of a pacer in Geers' stable. He will do better next season without doubt.

AS it is Mr. Corbitt's intention to sell a number of youngsters this winter now at the San Mateo Farm, as well as his string of campaigners, buyers in the East will unhesitatingly pronounce those listed to be the best ever sent to the auction block from this farm. Notwithstanding the fact that the very fastest of his string of Eastern campaigners were injured in a railway collision the amount of money won by the two Freds, Fred Kohl and Fred Moody, gives a faint idea of the rich stakes he would have if Mary Best and Lindale and the rest of his string were as good as when they left here. Mr. Corbitt sold a number of his mares during the past three years and the yearlings and two-year-olds consigned to this race from the best mares now on the farm. There is nothing to be gained by praising the merits of the great Guy Wilkes blood as it shows its superiority in every individual that inherits it. Race horses, level-headed, dead game and perfectly formed are everyone.

SCRATCHES are usually caused by traveling on muddy roads during a wet season, generally in the spring or fall, or in consequence of an unhealthy condition of the skin causing it to crack in the fetlock. Horsemen understand very well the nature of this disease. Treatment: Wash the parts clean with castile soap and water; if the parts are raw apply a flaxseed meal poultice mixed with the following solution. Sulphate of zinc, two drachms, to one pint of water; spread it upon a piece of cloth and place it over the scratches, securing it with bandages; continue this for three days, then apply the following: Castor oil, two ounces; collodion, one ounce; mix together, and apply with a clean piece of sponge. The parts must be well dried before making the application, as any moisture will prevent its proper action. If the bowels are constipated, a pint of linseed oil should be given, or what is better, divide the drench in four parts; give one part four successive days. Give no corn or corn meal to eat.

THE SADDLE.

THE Los Angeles Fair opened Monday.

WM. MURRY's stable arrived from Sacramento Saturday.

GREEN B. MORRIS thinks he may race here this winter.

BETTING was exceedingly lively on all the events on Saturday.

PIERRE LORILLARD's thoroughbreds have been shipped to England.

MODEL is improving and her race with Arnette yesterday was a good one.

BUCKWA defeated Strathmeath at Latonia Monday at six furlongs, in 1:15.

THE horses finishing 1, 2, 3 in the third race Monday were all by imported sires.

KILLIP & Co. have catalogues prepared for their forthcoming sales of thoroughbreds.

DEL NORTE's track record of 1:47 was equaled by Claudius in the handicap Wednesday.

LEE STANLEY, by Prince of Norfolk, won a five furlong dash at Kansas City Wednesday.

SIR EXCESS and Rey del Carreres were shipped to England by the White Star line last Monday.

JOCKEY MANLOVE has been reinstated at Alexander Island after having been on the ground a year.

PAT DUNNE has engaged Jockey Martin to ride for him the balance of this season and during 1896.

JUAN BERNARD won the Los Angeles Derby, at one mile, in 1:43. La France was second and Hello third.

JOCKEY COOMBS has arrived at Bay District track and will probably make his reappearance in the saddle to-day.

MR. L. FRANK has sold the two-year-old Miss Blanche R., by Chance—Vieta, to Phil Adelberg. Price private.

THE stable boys put their pile on Morven Saturday, and a pall of gloom settled over the paddock after the first race.

GLADWIN, by the Australian-bred horse Plenty, won at Santa Ana yesterday. It was a half-mile dash. Time, 0:50½.

TOD SLOAN was fined $100 for beating the flag on Bravura Monday, and has concluded to stay on the ground for a while.

J. CARR has sold the four-year-old chestnut colt Blue Garter, by Spendthrift—Patty of Cork, to T. Hitchcock. Price private.

LOTTA, a new starter Friday, was entered in the name of Laurelwood Farm. She is by imp. Brutus—Young Lady Melbourne.

GERALDINE, the fast thoroughbred, was named after Geraldine Anzar, a beautiful young lady of San Juan, San Benito county, Cal.

BYRON MCCLELLAND's crack colt Prince Lief was third to Carib and Bloomer in a six and one-half furlong race at Morris Park Tuesday. Time, 1:21.

TOM SNIDER, the well-known horseman, is walking around in a crippled condition, the result of taking a misstep off of the platform at the Santa Ana depot.

BURNS & WATERHOUSE head the list of winning owners at the current meeting, with a total of $3,490, then Elmwood Stock Farm comes next with a total of $2,170.

HANDSPRING has to his credit the fastest six furlongs run this season over the Coney Island Jockey Club's track. He defeated Rey del Carreres in 1:14½ October 10th.

J. NAGLEE BURKE, proprietor of the Pueblo Stable, has purchased from D. T. Pulsifer, the four-year-old chestnut colt Drum Major, by Punster—Pearl Tyler. Price $600.

THE rumor that the Beards have purchased Applegate must certainly be given credence, as the colt has been in Billy Donohue's string for the past week.—N. Y. Mercury.

THE racing at Morris Park promises to enlist the sympathies of the New York four hundred to a greater extent than any kindred enterprise named in the history of the metropolitan turf.

W. O'B. MACDONOUGH placed a bet of $250 with the Stuyvesant Club at odds of 4 to 1 on Charmer in the last race Friday. Tod Sloan is said to have had $100 up on his mount, also, at good odds.

J. J. BURKE, the new presiding judge, assumed his official duties yesterday. Judge Burke is a genial, unassuming gentleman, and as a judge is so unanimously lauded there can be no question of his ability.

BRUTUS heads the list of winning sires at the current meeting, with Joe Hooker, Sir Modred, Darebin, Mariner and Midlothian next in order of winnings. All the horses named are imported except Joe Hooker.

ROBERT SMITH, who was seen in the saddle at the Coney Island Summer meeting, where he won on Bathampton, has just left Marcus Daly's employ, from whom and others he has the best of recommendations.

BOOKMAKER COLEMAN was kept busy taking in the shekels on all the events Saturday. He is a ready calculator and can keep the coin and tickets flowing in the proper directions without affecting his mobility.

LEE SHANER's chestnut filly, Edna M., by Judge McKinsty—Harriet, killed herself while enroute to the Montana Circuit this summer, the accident occurring through making frantic efforts to free herself in the car.

In the mile and a sixteenth dash for runners on the closing day of the Ventura meet, Hockhocking Jr. cast a shoe shortly after the flag fell, and even with that handicap he ran a game race, finished a good third to Naicho B.

WITH the hope that lightning might strike all the others in the race, several "speculators" put a couple of dineros on Red Idle and Minnie at the sizeable odds of 250 and 500 to 1. Lightning did not issue from the clear sky Saturday.

AFTER the close of the present racing season in New York, Wm. Easton, the celebrated auctioneer, will make a trip to California, being in receipt of an important business proposal, from the land of perpetual Summer.—N. Y. Mercury.

FRANK TAYLOR, the well-known trainer, received a telegram from his partner, Sam Hildreth, who has been training E. J. Baldwin's Santa Anita string, saying he had resigned his position and would leave for California Saturday, the 26th inst.

TWO prominent owners would like to secure the services of Willie Simms for next season. Either of them will be lucky if they can do so, as M. F. Dwyer stated that he meant fixing things for himself in regard to who should have the first call on Simms.

MISS FLETCHER makes a better showing at a mile than at shorter distances. She is just coming in the sprint affairs, and can stay at the longer journey. She won her race easily Tuesday. L. C. White, her owner and trainer, was very confident of her victory.

THE private car of the Palo Alto Stock Farm arrived in Los Angeles Wednesday, containing Palita, Nordica, Cressida and Oscar C., all of which are in fine condition and will doubtless capture a good slice of the money hung up by the Sixth District Agricultural Association.

KIT CHINN's prediction made last autumn that Diggs would develop into a "dog" has been much more than fulfilled. A few days ago Dan Honig's Magnet gave Diggs five pounds and beat him to a standstill. The five furlongs being run at Sheffield in the phenomenal time of 1:24½.

IMP. MISS BRUMMEL added another decisive victory to her list of winning brackets Oct. 1th. She showed herself to be very much better than Belle Boyd and the time made was not her measure, as she finished pulled up. Flynn was at the bat on Boyd at the head of the stretch, and Brummel was never touched.

JOHNNY GOOBY, trainer for T. W. Moore, arrived at Bay District October 18th with Flashlight and Tennessee Maid. He summered at Hawthorne. The horses were entered in some of the stakes at Chicago, but when they were declared off, the horses were kept there. St. Louis was too hot, so they were finally brought here again.

WILLIE FLYNN was fined $20 for cutting Claudius off in one mile and a quarter handicap Saturday. He lost on Morven and had a hard-luck day all around. He has been having some hot arguments with owners and trainers lately for the treatment he has given some of his mounts. He brought Morven in badly cut up.

THE board of stewards of the California Jockey Club Tuesday reinstated Al Leach, who was ruled off some two or three years since in connection with the Irish Johnnie case, in which that sprinter was suspected of being pulled, and also removed the suspension that has prevented Frank Maley from appearing on the block.

AMERICAN nominations to the English Derby, Two Thousand Guineas and St. Leger of 1897, and the Grand Prix de Paris of the same year are more numerous than ever before, August and Oliver Belmont, P. Lorillard, D. Gideon, Richard Croker, H. Haeseman, J. R. Keene and Foxhall Keene being the American nominators.

THE trotting dog Ned, owned by Harry McCue, of Findlay, O., was killed at Lexington last Saturday night by some enemy of McCue. The pointer was four years old and cost $2,500. He had won $20,000. He had a record of 0:45 for a quarter of a mile and was never defeated. A reward of $2,500 has been offered for information as to who killed the dog. Ned was in California last year.

MUCH disappointment was felt at the Santa Ana meeting by reason of the inability of Waldo J. to make his appearance in the free-for-all pace. The fleet sidewheeler lamed himself on the new track at Ventura in the hard race which he had with Chehalis and Mr. Mack is giving him a rest and exceptionally good care in the hope of starting him at Los Angeles where he is billed for two events.

JUDGE CULLEN, in the Supreme Court on October 15th denied the application for an injunction asked for by Lawyer Crane in behalf of the Agricultural and Horticultural Society of the town of Newton, to restrain Sheriff Doherty, of Queens County, from interfering with the fair of society now being held at Maspeth. This is the sham fair Mr. De Lacy tried to operate as a cover to illegal racing in New York.

THE death of John W. Mackey, Jr., in Paris last week deprives the racing world of one of its greatest enthusiasts. Had he lived there is no doubt he would have had one of the best stables of American thoroughbreds ever seen on the French and English turf. While in California in 1893 he was a daily visitor to the Bay District track and took a deep interest in the victories won by our California-bred horses.

A TELEPHONE message was received by a lady better yesterday to play Blue Bell and Adelante. The long odds against Blue Bell did not suit her and she concluded there was some mistake about it. Her little boy coaxed her to play the mare, and she compromised by giving him a dollar. The little fellow got another dollar out of her purse, unnoticed, and then a lady friend put a third into the pot. Odds of 20 to 1 were secured, and when they cashed their ticket calling for $60 there was a whole lot of speculation in which that little imp, "if" was very prominent.

ED. CORRIGAN is getting together the stable which he will take to California with him, and is liable to pick up at any time and go. He brought Ducat, Vassal, Senator Irby and a few yearlings up from his farm in Kentucky a few days ago, to join the balance of the string. He will send a few of his worst ones to the Sheffield track, to see if they can pay their way. Will Wallace will also take half a dozen fair performers to the coast some time this month. His mare, Orinda, has not been doing very well since she ran in the three-mile race and Grannan, who won it, is not feeling as well as his owners would like him to.—Cinn. Con. N. Y. Mercury.

TOKIO II., the winner of the Austrian derby, will go to England to compete for the Cambridgeshire stakes. It is stated that a match between Tokio II. and Lord Rosbery's Sir Visto, the winner of the English Derby this year, is to be arranged. The stakes, it is said, will be £20,000. Tokio II. is by Charibert, the sire of Mr. Robert Davies' Parisian. He is owned by Mr. Wahrmann, a Hungarian turfman, and is handicapped for the Cambridgeshire at 115 pounds, giving weight to all the English colts of his own age.

DURING the races at Santa Ana a disgruntled hettor made the rash assertion to the judges that Starter Richard Brown was interested in the betting on the running events. The pin-headed individual jumped at the conclusion that this must be the case, because he had seen Mr. Brown vouch for the reliability and financial standing of a gentleman from San Francisco, who was a stranger to Poolseller Covarrubias, the latter having asked Mr. Brown in regard to the party in question. Mr. Covarrubias went into the stand and made a speech, declaring the statement as absolutely false, and explaining the circumstances. Mr. Brown's integrity and unimpeachable honesty is too well known among the horsemen to need any defense.

THE advertised stake events for the winter meeting of the California Jockey Club will close on the 25th inst. Considering the national depression in racing affairs which has made it necessary to reduce the values of stake races in every other part of the country the California Jockey Club wishes to call attention to its most liberal offers for the season. On account of a division of dates the racing days of the club have been diminished in number, and the list of stakes is of such length that it may be impossible to run off all the two and three-year-old events before January. Should any stake for those classes remain in the list after the first of January the club reserves the right to run them after that date at the weights originally advertised.

ONE of the best handicaps of the Latonia meeting was the handicap race for the Queen City Stakes on Saturday. Eight high-class horses went to the post. The only drawback was the long delay at the start, some forty-five minutes, caused by Yo Tambien, Free Advice and Simon W. Buck Massie was in front from flag fall to finish, but in the run home six horses came down the stretch almost abreast. It was a grand race, handsomely won by Buck Massie in the last sixteenth. Yo Tambien carried the bulk of the money. She sulked at the start, and did not get to running until the half-mile pole was reached, when she moved up amid wild cheers from the grand stand. She looked a winner half way down the stretch, but gave it up and dropped back.

PAPERS of incorporation were filed by the Turf and Field Club at Albany, N. Y., October 12th, the incorporators being Perry Belmont, E. C. Petter, Adrian Iselin Jr., S. Van Rennselaer Cruger and John E. Cowdin, and the object of the club "to conduct operations in that part of New York formerly the town of Westchester and the territories adjacent thereto." The directors named are: F. R. Appleton, J. J. Astor, J. H. Beekman, Perry Belmont, Frederick Bronson, Royal Phelps Carroll, A. J. Cassatt, William Astor Chanler, J. E. Cowdin, S. V. R. Cruger, H. W. DeForest, Robert Goering, T. A. Havemeyer, G. G. Haven, Center Hitchcock, A. Iselin Jr., William Jay, E. C. Montague, Ogden Mills, E. D. Morgan, E. C. Potter, S. Howland Robbins, W. R. Sands, W. Watts Sherman, F. K. Sturgis, H. A. C. Taylor, Nathaniel Thayer, W. C. Whitney and R. D. Lathrop. Surely no more influential body of representative turfmen and lovers of outdoor sport could have been formed.

A STARTLING race was one at Marong, Victoria, Australia, recently. There were five starters, and after the even money favorite had run absolutely last his owner entered protests against three of the others for not being district horses. They were disqualified, and then he protested against the remaining one for having run on an unregistered course. Case adjourned, but it looks as if the last horse will get the stakes." The above brings to mind almost a similar event that happened some years ago in England. A certain trainer had a mare, which for divers reasons had better remain unnamed. This mare whenever she started was always seen at the wrong end of the procession. So accustomed were the public and the ring to see her walk in a well-beaten last that on one occasion a facetious lawyer of the odds offered to bet her trainer-owner £1,000 to £1 that she wouldn't win a race that season. The astute old Yorkshireman booked the bet. Toward the latter part of the season he ran her in a race with only two other starters. As usual, she occupied her rear position. The glee of the bookie was short-lived, as the winner failed to pull the weight, the second was disqualified as being in the forfeit list, and the bad mare was awarded the race. Score one for the Yorkshireman who pulled down the thousand thick 'uns.

GREEN MORRIS was held up by a highwayman at the Oakley race track shortly after midnight on Sunday morning, October 6th. The veteran turfman paid a friendly visit to the headquarters of the Fleischmann Stables. There he met Wm. McGuigan and a number of other horsemen and trainers. He tarried until it was late. It was after midnight when he bade the other horsemen good-night and started for his own stable. In the darkness there loomed up in front of him the stalwart form of a man. He was a strapping fellow, and in his hand, pointing right at Mr. Morris' head, was a big bulldog revolver. Although Mr. Morris is over three score years of age, and the man who confronted him looked every inch an athlete, it was not in the veteran turfman's make-up to follow his command of "Throwing up his hands" and allowing himself to be robbed was the last thing that he thought of doing. Mr. Morris, instead, rushed headlong at the man who had ordered him to stand and deliver. Instead of pulling the trigger of his revolver, the highwayman stepped to one side and allowed Mr. Morris to pass. As he did so, the turfman yelled at the top of his voice, "Watch!" "Police!" "Help!" "Murder!" and everything else that came into his mind. The highwayman put an end to his noise by throwing a boulder. It struck the veteran turfman in the back of the head. He fell like a beef struck by a mallet. Then his assailant started to relieve the unconscious turfman of all his valuables. Before he had time to accomplish his purpose he was interrupted. The cries of the turfman had been heard. Some of the stablemen, who had not yet gone to bed, started in his direction. The highwayman heard them coming and started to run. He made his escape. Mr. Morris was picked up and carried to his stable. He soon revived, but as he is an old man there was some danger that the shock will prove serious. His friends were alarmed.

Breeders' Meeting Next Week.

The meeting to commence next Monday at Los Angeles is one that will never be forgotten by those who attend. Great preparations have been made to make it successful from the day it opens until the close. A starter of acknowledged ability has been employed, and all the officers and directors of the association will be present to attend to the wants of the horsemen.

The people of Los Angeles have always extended a warm welcome to light harness racing in the past, and as they are aware of the great step taken by this, the largest association of its kind in the world, they are working hard to enlist the support of their friends who have not attended races to be present.

The reports from the adjacent cities and towns are most flattering, and daily excursions will enable the people in these places to attend.

The association will also introduce another new feature at this meeting, and that is a polo tournament for a valuable prize; the competing clubs being from Riverside, Burlingame and Santa Monica. This is an innovation which will prove more exciting and novel than the tame bicycle hippodromes seen in this portion of the State at many meetings in the circuit.

The track at Los Angeles will be in excellent condition, and good time may be expected. Following is the programme for each day's racing:

FIRST DAY—MONDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1895.

- No. 1.—Stanford Stakes.
- No. 2.—2:22 Class Nomination Trotting Purse $1,000.
- No. 3.—2:13 Class Nomination Pacing Purse $1,200.
- No. 4.—2:25 Class, All Ages, Pacing Purse $1,000.

SECOND DAY—TUESDAY, OCTOBER 29.

- No. 1.—Two-Year-Old Trotting Purse $500.
- No. 2.—2:30 Class Trotting Purse $1,000.
- No. 3.—Three-year-old, 2:25 Class Pacing Purse $1,000.

THIRD DAY—WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30.

- No. 1.—Three-Year-Old, 2:27 Class Trotting Purse $1,000.
- No. 2.—Special.
- No. 3.—Polo Tournament, Burlingame and Santa Monica Polo Clubs.

FOURTH DAY—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31.

- No. 1.—Four-year-old, 2:25 class Trotting Purse $1,000.
- No. 2.—2:17 Class Nomination Trotting Purse $1,200.
- No. 3.—2:30 Class, All Ages, Pacing Purse $1,000.

FIFTH DAY—FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1.

- No. 1.—2:27 Class, All Ages, Trotting Purse $1,000.
- No. 2.—2:16 Class Nomination Pacing Purse $1,200.

SIXTH DAY—SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2.

- No. 1.—2:40 Class, All Ages, Trotting Purse $1,000.
- No. 2.—2:20 Class Nomination Trotting Purse $1,000.
- No. 3.—Polo Tournament, Riverside Club to play winner of Wednesday's game.

Californians Not Discouraged.

The ill-luck which followed Monroe Salisbury's big string seemed to spread its dark wings over the horses comprising Wm. Corbitt's trotters, and with Orrin A. Hickok's only Californian trotter, Hulda Wilkes, going wrong, a pleasant retrospective view cannot be taken of what our importations to the East this summer accomplished. Mr. Salisbury's brightest stars were dimmed. The feed, water and climate did not agree with them, and those he relied upon to do the most racing became lame and he was left with the good, game and reliable Azote, Altao and Ella T. Alix, Directly, Marin Jr. and the balance of his string were not money-winners, consequently his efforts were handicapped. He played a good card when he secured Azote, and were it not for the magnificent son of Whips he would have been at a heavy loss. Mr. Salisbury has notified the auctioneers in the East that he will, next month, dispose of nearly all the horses he brought East, and as many of them never heard the bell in the judges' stand ring (although before leaving this Coast they had shown their ability to win races in the best of company) there is no doubt buyers will secure material that will make money for them next year. They are all well-bred, fast and reliable, but acclimatization did not come easy to them. With this season's long rest, and good care through the winter, it would not surprise us if some one besides Mr. Salisbury will secure the two-minute trotter from the little band which he selected, but over which a cloud of unfortunate circumstances and ill-luck rested. Next season he intends to take a smaller stable, but it is doubtful if it will be more select than the one he is so soon to dispose of.

What has been said of Mr. Salisbury may without fear of contradiction be repeated of Mr. Corbitt's experience. There never was a better string of horses sent from the paddocks of the San Mateo Stock Farm than the one which left there last summer for Terre Haute, but an accident occurred which caused Messrs. Corbitt and Dickerson to throw the best and choicest of the trotters and pacers out of training, and left the stable dependent upon three to win money with—Lesa Wilkes; the two-year-old Fred Moody, and the three-year-old Fred Kohl, both wonders for their age. The rest of his horses were turned out, as they could not be prepared as fine as Mr. Corbitt would like to have them for the stake races in which they were engaged. Hence they have been enjoying a season's rest, and whoever purchases them at the sale, which is to take place in December or January, will secure treasures that will be worth having. Many Eastern horsemen have already signified their intention of getting some of these sons and daughters of Guy Wilkes and his good son Sable Wilkes for campaigning purposes next year.

Orrin A. Hickok had the Guy Wilkes mare Hulda prepared, but the terrible injury she received two years ago affected her, and despite this great conditioner's efforts, he was compelled to forego the pleasure of driving her in 2:03, a place where she had shown her ability to go.

In a few weeks Messrs. Salisbury, Corbitt and Hickok will return, and although all of them will admit that the game is a harder one for California horses than it ever has been, there is no doubt they will return next summer to the circular battlefields on the other side of the Mississippi, with material there to meet the pick of all the stock farms in the East.

These gentlemen are not discouraged for they know that they will be able to collect other horses that will go down the line carrying California's banner proudly for the history of the racing this year in this State shows that the material is here and of the kind that the people of the East are afraid of.

Important Sales of Thoroughbreds.

The progress made on the Pacific Coast during the past five years in breeding, developing and racing thoroughbreds is wonderful, and the great industry is only in its infancy. The attention of visiting horsemen has been called to the many natural advantages this State has over all others for the raising of horses, and many who came here to attend the race meeting last year have been making arrangements to remove to this State and engage in farming and the breeding of thoroughbreds. Opportunities will soon be presented at the three great sales to be held in this city, for these people as well as all others who wish to engage in the lucrative business of raising and racing horses to purchase just what they want. Messrs. Killip & Co., the well-known auctioneers, are to sell the choicest lot of yearlings and horses in training ever sent to this city, commencing Tuesday, November 5th, with the grand lot of yearlings and two-year olds from the Palo Alto Stock Farm. These youngsters are by the great sires of stake winners Flambeau, Cyrus and Flood and the grand race horse Racine. The dams of these youngsters have been selected with great care and have already thrown winners to these stallions.

If bloodlines and appearances are to be considered we believe that the crowds that assemble on Tuesday night November 5th, under the canvas tent at the salesyard will be captivated by these that hail from the farm by the lone pine.

On Wednesday, another splendid consignment will be sold under the hammer, and as these youngsters come from their mountain home, Rancho del Sierras, Washoe, Nevada, and have been bred by that pioneer horseman, Theodore Winters, it is almost unnecessary to add that a better looking or more promising consignment never left the famous farm. These youngsters are by El Rio Rey and Joe Hooker, out of the dams of some of the greatest race winners ever seen on the turf. Purchasers need have no fear of making a mistake in purchasing any one of them. Jos. Cairn Simpson, and there are few if any better judges in America than he, says El Rio Rey is the grandest thoroughbred he ever saw, and this is endorsement enough. Seekers after race horses should not overlook this sale.

On Thursday night, November 7th, at 7:30, under canvas and beneath electric lights, Auctioneer Killip will have something to say about the grand looking consignment of thoroughbreds from Chas. Kerr's Antrim Stock Farm, Bakersfield, Cal. Mr. Kerr has been a liberal buyer and a life-long student of form, pedigrees and performances of race horses, and the youngsters he will send to this sale will demonstrate most clearly that he has used excellent judgment in breeding, and great care in their raising. The fame of his stallion, Apache, is world-wide, and as he has bred him to producers of colts and fillies that have speed and gameness and the muscular development to sustain these qualities, the catalogue will show that he has many equine gems to offer. Sobrante, imp. Midlotbian, Sir Mordred, imp. Martenhrst and imp. Calvados are also represented by sons and daughters that will earn brackets when they are started. Mr. Kerr has reserved nothing on the farm old enough to be sold and buyers will see that if these are any criterion he must have the nucleus of one of the finest breeding farms in America.

The opportunities buyers will have to secure race-horses at these sales must not be overlooked. Race horses will not decrease in value as long as there are chances for them to be raced, and as the feeling which was so strongly opposed to race meeting in the East is fast dying out, a return to prosperous times is near at hand.

THE Nursery Stakes for two-year-olds to be run at the State Fair, Sacramento, in 1896, should receive a liberal number of entries. Judging by the successful meeting held this year over this course there is no room for doubt regarding the race meeting to be given next year. There is a number of colts and fillies owned by farmers and breeders that were foaled in 1894 and which are eligible to compete in this splendid race next September. Owners who value these youngsters cannot afford to overlook this opportunity, and we urge upon them the necessity of sending in the names of their best ones on or before November 1st, to Edwin F. Smith, Secretary, Sacramento. See advertisement for conditions.

THE Santa Fe Railroad gave the same reduced rates to local points in Southern California to Los Angeles as the Southern Pacific. The two railroads agreed on this proposition to help the race meetings there. Their action is appreciated by everyone.

CATALOGUES for the auction sales of thoroughbreds to take place Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 5th, 6th and 7th, may be had at the office of Killip & Co., 30 Montgomery street, or at this office. Send postal card.

DON'T forget the date when entries to the Horse Show close, November 9th. See advertisement.

THE great broodmare Sontag Mohawk is now on even footing, so far as numbers of her foals in the 2:30 list is concerned, with Alma Mater, Beautiful Bells, Emeline and Minnehaha. The last of Sontag Mohawk's foals to enter the list is Sonata, which took a record of 2:25 at Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 27. Sonata is owned by Hon. F. C. Sayles, Pawtucket, R. I. Her sire, Wild Boy, is by Gen. Benton, out of the once two-year-old champion trotter Wild Flower (2:21).

THE SANTA ANA RACES.

The Most Successful Meeting Ever Held in Orange County—Fine Weather—Attendance Large and Racing Excellent, and Visiting Horsemen Delighted With Their Reception.

FIRST DAY—TUESDAY, OCTOBER 15.

The sixth annual fair of the Thirty-second Agricultural Association of Orange County opened this afternoon at the racetrack with a fair attendance when it is taken into consideration that no admission was charged. The crowd began to arrive early, and by the time the gallopers were sent to the post for the six furlong dash the turf in front of the stand was jammed. The betting ring and grand stand was also well filled, and the carriage enclosure was covered with vehicles of all descriptions.

The track was as fast as a bullet, the rain in the early part of the day serving to put it in the best possible condition. Some fast time is looked for by turfmen, as they agree that it has been some time since a track in the State has been so fast. The wind swept up the stretch throughout the afternoon and caused the horsemen some annoyance, but taken altogether it was a good racing day.

The three events on the card were good ones, and much interest was taken in the 2:24 trot, in which six horses were started. The field in all the races was large, and the sports were kept guessing to pick the winners.

The boys up in the six furlong dash were called to the judges' stand to weigh in promptly at 1 o'clock. Richard Brown, who has been handling the flag so successfully on the circuit will act as starter during the meeting.

There was a slight change in the first race from the program. Hello started not having been declared out last evening. C. Weber was taken off Mustesa and rode the telephone horse of 114 pounds.

There was a strong rumor on the track to-day that a special had been arranged for Silkwood, but Secretary Riggs informed your representative that nothing definite had been decided upon as yet, but the directors hoped to have a race completed by to-night in which the pride of Orange County would start.

The betting on the sprint opened with Mustesa a strong favorite at $10 to $7 for Polaski and $5 for the field, but at post time it was difficult to get $7 for the field and second choice against $10 for the favorite.

The horses were sent off on the first attempt well bunched, with Bogam in front. They raced to the head of the stretch all together. Mustesa came out of the rut and looked a sure winner, but Linville was coming fast and passed the favorite at the draw gate and won by a length, with La France third. Bogam, Polaski and Hello ran unplaced. Time, 1:16½.

The sports received a bad turn down as they played the favorite almost off the board. The shortender players cashed their Paris mutuels for $8.

Gen. Beverly was drawn on account of lameness in the 2:40 trot, and Belle Wilson did not start, as she was not on the grounds. After twenty minutes scoring the trotters were given the word to a fair start with Mariposa in the lead and going fast.

At the quarter Charivari had assumed first position and Gifford had moved up to third place. The half was passed with Charivari leading Gifford and Mariposa third. The head of the race was reached without a change of position. Potrero was coming fast down the stretch and managed to get second place from Charivari by an open length. Lady Thornhill and Mariposa finished in the order named. Time, 2:18½. Rex Gifford was an odds on favorite at $10 against $5 for the field. Mutuels paid $3.

Rex Gifford was barred in the betting, and Potrero sold for $10 against $10 for the field for a short time, but the field money ran short. Gifford acted badly for almost a half hour, but they were sent away on the second trial with Gifford in front and Charivari second. Gifford was never challenged, but jogged under the wire in 2:21½. Lady Thornhill was second and Charivari third. Potrero came in ahead of Mariposa, who came near getting the flag, as a boot broke loose and interfered with her. She was excused.

The trotters in the 2:24 class were called out after the 2:40 horses had left the track. The entries were Los Angeles, Bijou, Lady Grace, Knight, El Molino and Eva T. Lady Grace sold favorite at $10 for $5 the field.

The talent picked two races but the opening event came near breaking those who thought they were on the inside. The field players were badly turned down in the harness events, as both favorites won in straight heats handily from the field. There was no fast time made during the day, as both the trots were slow class horses.

The heats of the 2:24 and 2:40 trots were sandwiched to keep from having either of them unfinished. The final heat of the 2:40 trot was taken by Rex Gifford in the same handy manner that he captured the first two in 2:19½. Lady Thornhill finished second, Potrero third and Charivari last. Gifford was awarded first money. Lady Thornhill was given second money, Potrero third and Charivari fourth monies.

Lady Grace was made a strong favorite in the 2:24 trot and carried out the expectations of her backers by winning in straight heats. After a few scores the horses were sent on their journey with Eva T. in the lead with Los Angeles at her wheel. The same positions were maintained to the half when Lady Grace commenced to close up the gap. At the head of the stretch the favorite was two lengths to the good and was never headed. Eva T. was second, Knight third Los Angeles and El Molino in the order named. Time, 2:22. The betting was light on the two remaining heats as the sports conceded the race to the favorite.

The second heat was a repetition of the first with the exception that Lady Grace won all the way in 2:19½.

The final heat was also taken by Lady Grace after she looked a loser. She went in the air just before reaching the half and lost about 100 yards, but Keating made one of those grand-stand drives of his and won by an eyelash from Eva T., who tired badly on stretch. This was the only exciting finish of the day and caused the spectators to jump to their feet and cheer themselves hoarse. Time, 2:19½. Grace took the long end of the purse and Eva T., Knight and Los Angeles divided the remainder.

Betting was slow last evening and the pool sellers earned every dollar they got in the box. The opening event received the most consideration at the hands of the betting fraternity. Gracie S. and Red Dick opened at even money, $10 against $6 for the field, but the pools finally settled down to Red Dick $10, Gracie S., $8 and the field $5.

The two harness events were not backed to any great extent. A few pools were sold on the 2:15 trot at $10 for Nellie W. against $5 for Thompson and $2 for Paloma Prince. Roan Wilkes was barred in the 2:27 pace and Babe Marion sold favorite at $10, Jennie Mc brought $5, and the field $4.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16.

The attendance at the race track to-day was what it should have been. The cutting off of the appropriation by the legislature last year should have the effect of causing the people of Orange county to patronize the races liberally if they wish to see the association prosper. The carriage enclosure was again well filled, but the grand stand was even better filled with spectators than it was yesterday. The majority of the people preferred to remain on the new turf in front of the stand. The track was even faster than on the initial day, and the horsemen cannot say too much in favor of it.

The wind which interfered somewhat with the horses yesterday was much lighter to-day, making the conditions much more favorable. The sprinters in the one-half mile and repeat were called out at 1:40 and sent to the post. Red Dick was heavily backed at $10 to $5 for the field at post time, and was strongly tipped to win the event, but Gracie S. had many supporters and it was never difficult to get her money.

Irene acted badly at the post and finally went up in the air, fell and rolled over C. Slaughter, her jockey. At first everyone thought the boy had been killed or badly injured, but the spectators were pleased to see him remount. Gracie S. then cut up for about twenty minutes, but finally lined up with the others, then Rathburn danced a horn-pipe for ten minutes.

They were given the flag to a good start with Waife in the front and Bogam at her saddle girth, the others bunched around the favorite, who was in a pocket. At the head of the stretch all of the boys drew their whips and a battle royal took place down the straight for the wire.

Charlie Weber, who straddled Waife, outrode Jim Fuente, who was on Bogam, and landed the chestnut mare a winner by the shortest kind of a lead. Lorena, with 91 pounds up, was third; the others finished like this: Gracie S. and Red Dick; Miss Rathburn caught the flag and did not start again. Time, 0:49½.

Bogam delayed the start in the second heat for over half an hour and was finally left at the post, having refused to break with the others. Starter Brown stated after coming to the judges' stand that it was impossible for him to get the brown gelding off, so he was compelled to send them off the best way he could.

Red Dick, Waife and Gracie S. were well bunched going around the turn, but the chestnut mare went to the front on straightening away for home, and won driving from Red Dick. Gracie S. finished third miserably ridden. Waife was given first money, Red Dick second money and Gracie S. got the short end of the purse. Time, 0:49½.

The talent plunged heavily on Red Dick and were not able to get their money out of the big box after the first heat. Bogam would probably have won the second heat and first money had he got away.

The betting on the second event, in which Nellie W., Paloma Prince and Thompson started, was Nellie W. $10 and the field $5.

Nellie W. was a big disappointment to the betting fraternity in the second race, as she was considered a sure thing, and the money poured into the box at $10 to $5 for the field even after Paloma Prince had taken a heat. She never finished better than second. Thompson, a chestnut horse by Boodle, took all the money.

Roan Wilkes was barred in the betting and took the last number on the card in straight heats. Babe Marion was set upon by the sports as a good thing, but they were turned down again as she went in the air in the second heat and got the flag by an eighth of a mile.

The first heat of the 2:15 trot was a gift of Paloma Prince in 2:20½. Thompson was second. The next trial was taken by Thompson in a drive from the Prince in 2:18½. Nellie W. made a bid for the front in the third heat coming down the stretch, but Thompson took it by a short head in 2:22. The little mare went after the final trial, but was not steady enough to capture it. Thompson was given first money, Paloma Prince second and Nellie W. third monies.

Roan Wilkes was not headed after the first heat in any part of the mile. He won in three straight heats in 2:15½, 2:18½ and 2:21. Hal Corbett made two strong bids for first position in the second and third heats but could not out-foot the roan horse. Hal took second money. Ed Lafferty was awarded the third slice of the purse and Jennie Mc, a game little two-year-old, took the last part of the money.

THIRD DAY—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 17.

A light fog drifted in this morning, putting an edge on the atmosphere so that when the King of Day asserted himself about 10 o'clock it was an ideal racing day, only enough air stirring to make a balmy breeze. Crowds commenced to gather long before the noon hour, it being a delightful custom here to make the fair grounds a rendezvous for families to lunch together and be sociable.

The racing itself was rather one-sided. Chehalis and Zombro were conceded as sure winners of their respective events, and the briskest betting accordingly was in the opening dash for the bangtails. Naicho B. was sold as favorite at $10, Polaski at $6 and the field, comprising Hello, Peru and Miss Rathbone, was in strong demand at $6 on account of Charley Weber having the mount on the telephone horse. The wise contingent did not fancy Peru, that sturdy son of Gano, on account of the apprehension that he could not go the route against his aged companions, but Joe Weber hustled the two-year-old to the front immediately at flag-fall and made a runaway race of it. Polaski, with 119 pounds, who is not partial to weight by any means, stood the impost until they turned into the stretch, where Naicho B. soon overhauled him, beating the Fresno horse a good length, himself two lengths behind Peru.

The 2:27 class brought out four starters, Zombro being such a star that the entire field only brought $5 against $20 for the game son of McKinney. Few pools were sold even at that figure, and after the first betting was confined to picking the second horse, and again the talent guessed right in selecting Native State to do the trick.

The Zombro backers felt very chilly when the three year-old made a bad break just after getting the word in the first heat. Native State shot away in the lead and opened up a gap of twenty lengths, but when Durfee steadied the colt he rapidly overhauled the leader, and at the head of the stretch was on even terms with him. The struggle down to the wire was exciting, Durfee drawing a fine finish, winning by a neck, although evidently having something in reserve.

The next two heats were taken by Zombro without being extended, Native State and Dr. Puff having a race between themselves for the honors of second position in the final heat, McZeus was noticeably sore and was in no condition to have been started, as it was painful to watch his efforts to get inside of the distance flag in each heat.

The outcome of the pacing race was a foregone conclusion, and the only reason that made any betting on the clubfoot wonder at all possible was the rumor that was rife that Chehalis was lame, while others fancied that Ottinger would be able to step a mile close to 2:08, a conclusion that was not warranted by any of his past performances on tracks of this character. Before the first heat Chehalis sold for $25, Ottinger brought $9 and the field, comprising Fresno Prince, Belle Ketchum and Orinda Richmond, was supported by the scratch players at $3.

Twenty minutes were consumed in getting the side-wheelers off in the first heat, the delay being occasioned principally by Ketchum, who indulged in his usual tactics of making friends with the fence, while Belle was also an offender. Finally the judges properly ordered the animals to start, enough time having been wasted on the sulkers, and to a rather ragged break they got away with Hodges bringing up the rear with Ketchum. Orinda Richmond sailed away in front with Chehalis in close pursuit and Ottinger at his wheel. Richmond broke at the quarter and the Oregon whirlwind soon after went to the front and stayed there, nothing being able to get near him except Ottinger, with whom he simply played. Coming down the stretch Ketchum and Orinda Richmond were distanced.

The second heat was almost a repetition of the first except that Belle went the first quarter like a skyrocket, where she broke, and was passed by the favorite and Ottinger, the pair leaving the long-priced horses far behind them. Keating sent the gelding along at a merry clip down the straight, but the stallion drew away again and showed speed enough to run circles around his competitor with the Hebraic cognomen.

The third heat was the star performance of the day. With an even break the quartette went to the first quarter in 0:32, Ottinger being in the lead with Keating endeavoring to widen the gap. On the backstretch the stallion let out a line, the half being stepped in 1:03½, and as they neared the turn he gradually closed on the leader and had overhauled him when they straightened for the wire. Keating continued urging Ottinger who crowded Chehalis out in 2:10½, the fastest heat of the race.

FOURTH DAY—FRIDAY, OCTOBER 18.

This was the banner day of the Santa Ana meeting. Five thousand people gathered from all parts of the county to witness the much-heralded Silkwood-W. Wood race, and 5,000 people saw the pride of Orange county lower his laurels to his old-time rival from the North.

As early as 9 o'clock the carriages commenced to arrive on the grounds, and when the bell tapped on the opening race the grand stand was a dense mass of humanity, and the infield for over a quarter of a mile in area was as thick with vehicles as the hand stand enclosure is at Golden Gate Park on a sunny Sunday afternoon.

Nor was the pacing race the only sensation of the day. The 2:20 trot was conceded to be the finest and most hotly-contested race that has occurred on the circuit, and at the finish of each of the five heats the crowds shouted themselves hoarse. The race was a splendid test of equine speed and endurance, and reflects marvelous credit on both of the chief contestants, Ethel Downes and Visalia, both mares lowering their records; the latter from 2:13 to 2:12½, while the daughter of Boodle clipped a second off her previous mark.

That the people of Southern California are ardent lovers of horseflesh, particularly of the harness horse, was manifested not only by the liberal attendance, but also by the generous and whole-souled enthusiasm displayed throughout the day. The most striking example of the character of the people here was the act of Mrs. Willits, wife of the owner of Silkwood, who presented Mr. Chahoya with a handsome bouquet of chrysanthemums after his signal victory with W. Wood. Such a display of appreciation from a defeated opponent deserves the fullest admiration of every person of fine sentiment.

The day's racing was set in motion by a half-mile dash, for two-year-olds. The night previous Gladwin sold as a top-heavy favorite, but out at the track the flood of coin that poured in soon made a favorite, and before the bell rang the Edelweiss filly brought $25, Nevere $6 and the field $6.

The judges were informed that the race was jobbed, and they promptly called the darkey who had the mount on the mare to the stand and gave him a severe lecture. Starter Brown gave them the flag to an even break, and Little Pearl set out to do the running, with Bell Oak and Gladwin in close pursuit, Nevere at the latter's heels. Charley Weher took the favorite to the front down the stretch, with Gladwin and Bell Oak at her flanks. Gladwin was under restraint and was apparent that he was not anxious to reach the wire first, but Mr. Banton remedied the matter by flogging the Edelweiss filly from the sixteenth mile home, and she won by a nose notwithstanding the darkey was tugging at the reins, and even within a few feet of the wire looked backed for Nevere to come up and pass him. Bell Oak was back a half length from Nevere. The unexpected outcome of the race to the "sure thing" contingent was especially gratifying to those who believe in and admit honest contests. At any rate, had Gladwin not won the judges would have declared bets off, as the filly was by long odds the best animal in the race. The time was 0:50½, while the winner won in 0:49½ at Ventura by five lengths.

When Silkwood came on the track and took his preparatory warm up, he was greeted with vociferous applause. He passed up and down in front of the stand a half dozen times and cheers rang for the handsome black stallion every time he made his appearance. That Silkwood is the idol of Orange County cannot be denied, and in fact he is held in greater esteem here than the mighty pumpkins which grow here in prolific profusion.

W. Wood was also heartily greeted, but it was not until he had turned the tables on the stallion in the second heat that he secured the same degree of applause. In the betting, the Southern people wanted Silkwood to a man, and he sold at $10, while the $3 end of the pools went to the patriotic denizens of the North, who observed that the Santa Ana horse was high in flesh and not fit for a bruising race.

In the first heat Silkwood had the pole, and getting off at the second break he led the way to the turn at such a terrific clip that W. Wood went up in the air, and before Chahoya got him steadied the stallion was a sixteenth of a mile ahead of him. That first quarter in 0:30½ played havoc with Wood and Chahoya wisely refrained from an attempt to close up the gap, being content to save his distance, in which object he was generously assisted by Mr. Willits who pulled up his horse almost to a walk, the mile being covered in 2:16½.

No betting on Silkwood was now obtainable and the crowds gathered for the second heat. The start was a trifle uneven, and Wood having the best of it Chahoya pushed him quickly to the front and captured the pole. They traveled to the quarter in 0:32, to the half in 1:03½, with Wood still going within himself, while the best the black could do was to get within a length of his opponent as they turned for home. The third quarter was passed in 1:36 and coming strong Wood won handily in 2:09, Silkwood three lengths back.

The greatest enthusiasm prevailed and shouting lasted for five minutes. Confidence was now restored in the betting. Wood brought $10 to 8. Such good odds on the gelding being obtainable by reason of the belief that Wood had captured the heat through getting an advantage in shutting off the other from the pole. To a fair start Silkwood forged to the front in the third heat, and the crowd roared as he took the pole at the eighth. Round the quarter they flew in 0:32½ with Wood two lengths back. With good judgment Chahoya waited until the half was passed before he urged his charge and then he commenced to gain rapidly, creeping up inch by inch. By the time the three quarter pole was reached in 1:37 Wood was in front, and [though Willits used the whip down the stretch he could not overhaul the flying gelding, who won easily in 2:10½].

Wood went to the front in the final heat and stayed there and the Octoginarian realizing that he was beaten gave up the chase and the last eighth, and the mile was covered only in 2:12.

Then ensued a scene of confusion and of thrilling excitement. Hats flew into the air and bedlam seemed as if it was turned loose as the boys from the Oakwood Park Stock Farm put Chahoya on their shoulders and carried him to the scales. The veteran owner of Silkwood looked crestfallen, but he deserves sympathy for it was against his judgment that Silkwood was raced, he only consenting to do so at the earnest request of Secretary Riggs, who did not desire to deprive the meeting of its annual attraction.

Then came the 2:20 trot with six entries, Ethel Downes, who had won six consecutive races, being a hot favorite at $25, Chico bringing $6, Boodle $4 and the field $2, which comprised Visalia, Irene Crocker and Jennie June.

Ethel Downes had the pole in the first heat, and Keating took her to the front, opening up a gap of six lengths.

Chico was the only one near her as they sailed by the quarter in 0:33, and he was at her wheel when they passed the half in 1:06. Jennie June and Boodle had both tangled up and were far back, but Visalia was coming through like a streak. The three quarters was negotiated in 1:40½, and Perkins was still gaining. Down the stretch it was nip and tuck, but at the drawgate the daughter of Iris was at Ethel's flank, and in a whipping finish poked her nose in front as the pair passed the judges, although both mares broke at that instant. The time was 2:12½, equalling the track record made by Ottinger in 1893.

The stock of the despised outsider now went up in the the pools, although the supporters of Ethel Downes never lost faith in her and continued to back her as favorite, the betting averaging $10 for Ethel, $6 for Visalia and $3 for the field.

Although Visalia had the pole, she got away badly, being slow to score, and Keating wisely pushed the black mare along four lengths in advance of his field, which was headed by Irene Crocker, Boodle lying at her wheel. The half was made in 1:06 flat, as in the first heat, and Visalia, who had now limbered up, moved up second and gave chase to Ethel. The latter was overhauled half-way down the stretch, and the pace was so fast that Ethel lost her feet at the eighth pole and Visalia jogged home an easy winner in 2:13½, the favorite just heating Boodle a head for second position.

Visalia was now in such demand in the pools that the others brought but a song, and men who had put $1 for the brown mare the night before in nickels calling for $18 were in a hilarious stage and indignantly refused offers of $10 for their precious pasteboard.

The third heat was a repetition of the previous one, Visalia being slow to get off, as usual. When she got in motion Ethel was away to the fore and Perkins sent his mare along so fast on the backstretch in order to close up the gap that she had no reserve when it came to a brush down the stretch. In essaying to pass Ethel she went up in the air and the whole field had passed her ere she had recovered. Chico challenged the leader but Ethel won handily amid the greatest enthusiasm, for the handsome black mare was a decided favorite with the crowd.

Of course the pools switched around again as it was thought Visalia had exhausted herself, but in this the wise ones were mistaken, for the next heat was a hair-raising contest. Keating pursued his former tactics and went to the half in 1:05½. The brown mare came with a rush down the stretch and it was a fighting finish, Keating by a superhuman effort lifting the mare at the last moment a head to the good in 2:13, the heat being only one-half second slower than the first, which must be accounted a remarkable performance for both animals, while Chico was only a length behind the pair.

Everybody was on the tip-toe of excitement when the horses were called for the final heat. Both had two heats to their credit and it was conceded that there was little danger of an outsider coming in at this juncture. Ethel again took a big lead, Keating driving her every inch of the way, and it was only until the final turn was made in 1:41½ that Visalia looked dangerous. There she moved up, steadily gaining. First five lengths separated her from the leader; this was decreased to four and soon to one and when the last eighth was reached she was at Ethel's wheel. Keating braced himself for a final effort and amid intense excitement he landed the game daughter of Boodle a winner by a scant head and it was several seconds before the crowd could catch its breath to give vent to prolonged and enthusiastic applause. It was by long odds the best race on the circuit, and those who had come only to see the great pace remained to await the outcome of this decidedly remarkable contest between two mares, both game to the core.

FIFTH DAY—SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19.

Considering that the population of Orange County had turned out en masse yesterday to see the great contest between Silkwood and W. Wood, there was a fair attendance at the track to-day, and the Association will show a clean balance sheet, notwithstanding there a great many forfeits remaining unpaid.

The affairs of the Association were admirably conducted by the directors, ably assisted by their popular and energetic secretary, C. L. Riggs, who was indefatigable in his efforts to accommodate the horsemen and visitors, and who have nothing but praise for the treatment which has been accorded them.

Not a meeting on the circuit has been so harmonious, not a word of complaint being heard against the judges, who were Captain J. E. Pleasants, C. E. Parker and Geo. B. Bixby. The Captain, by virtue of his office as President of the Association, acted as Presiding Judge, and the decisions announced in his clear strong voice were heard by every one, even in the farthest portions of the grand stand. Mr. C. L. Bree officiated as chief timer throughout the week and accuracy of the records shown by the chronometers of himself and associates, was never questioned. There is no doubt but that Santa Ana is growing more popular each year with horsemen and next year there will undoubtedly be more entries to the various events than ever before in the history of the association.

The final day's racing commenced with a mile and a quarter event for the gallopers, for which Naicho B. was a strong favorite, his price being $10, La France $4 and Two Cheers $3. To a good start the Spanish horse took the lead, and never relinquished it, coming to the wire an easy winner in 2:12½, Two Cheers a length back and the filly at his heels.

The only contest of the day was the 2:25 pace, and although Javelin has a better record than Ruby M., the latter was installed favorite, the ruling quotations being Ruby M. $15, and the field including Javelin, Dan N. and Hal Corbett found many supporters at $10. The judges gave the quartette a good start, and Dan N. was sent to the front, the favorite lying third, while Javelin made a break on the first turn and her field was 200 yards away before Chahoya succeeded in steadying her, and it was only by a fast drive that the mare got inside of the flag. In the meantime Ruby M. passed the leaders on the backstretch and from there jogged home in 2:14½.

The winner of the heat was row a better favorite than ever, pools selling briskly at $15 for Ruby against $5 for the field.

The next heat was between the two mares, and although Chahoya urged Javelin to her limit, the closest she could get to the favorite was at her wheel, and the mile was covered in 2:12½.

In the final heat Chahoya made a desperate effort to overhaul Sullivan and his mare, and they flew by the half in 1:05 2/5, and at the three quarter pole it was 1:39½; but Ruby still had something up her sleeve and without being extended, she beat the Creole mare by two lengths, the mile being covered in 2:13.

The 2:30 trot was such a foregone conclusion for Zombro that there was no betting whatever. The first heat was slow, but Perkins with Jasper Ayres pushed Zombro a little more in the second heat, making the McKinney colt go in 2:15.

The third heat was a repetition of the preceding, with Jasper Ayres second and Carrie C. third. Oro Wiles, the other entry, having caught the flag in the first heat.

The closing event occasioned considerable local interest, it being a race for Orange county horses eligible to the three-minute class. Kitty Nutford, driven by Tom Raymond, was a big favorite, and she annexed the first two heats in 2:25½ and 2:28½ respectively, and reached the wire first in the third heat; Nutford was set back by the judges for having fouled R. J. on the turn, while there was some doubt in the minds of the judges as to the validity of the claim. They settled the matter harmoniously by giving the heat to R. J. and the race to Kitty Nutford, it being a rule of the association that all races must be concluded on the final day, special rules being provided for events that are not concluded when darkness sets in. Under this provision the race was terminated by giving the mare first money, R. J. second honors and Little Deck third.

Death of Wesley George.

Wesley George, a very familiar figure around the race track and popular old-time horseman, died on Sunday last. Nearly every follower of horses knew old George, and all had a kind word to say of him. Once upon a time he had been well provided with this world's goods, but of late years he has not been prosperous. When old Applause was killed his last remaining prop seemed withdrawn. The old gelding and George were fast friends. One day the horse broke down while being galloped and had to be killed. Sympathetic horsemen subscribed a good purse for the old man at that time. Nobody knew just how old Wesley George was. He never talked about himself and no one asked him any questions. Years ago he came from South Carolina with his brother, John George, who owned at that time some of the most celebrated quarter horses in America. Wesley used to ride for him, and subsequently he became an owner himself, Nettie George, the dam of the celebrated trotting horse Arab, and old Twenty Cents, who won dozens of races all over the State, belonging to him.

The deceased leaves grown up children, but his old comrades, the horsemen, will bury him. President Williams circulated a little subscription list at the track yesterday, and responses were hearty.

Judge Burke Has Arrived.

Judge J. J. Burke, who is to officiate as presiding judge during the coming winter meeting of the California Jockey Club, which opens at the Bay District track to-day, arrived from New York Sunday morning.

Judge Burke's reputation as an ideal presiding judge has preceded him, and his facility for placing the horses in a close finish with unerring accuracy is said to be most remarkable. He also sees everything that occurs during a race, not the slightest trifle escaping his eye. His long term of close intimacy with all questions of turf matters especially fits him for just and quick decisions on all points at issue. Mr. Burke is one of the most honored of turf journalists, and by his own efforts and sterling ability ascended to the highest round of the journalistic ladder, having filled the important position of editor of the New York Sportsman. Mr. Burke has not visited the coast before, but we feel certain he, like all others who are induced to come and see us once, will do so again.

THE GUN.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

The quail shooting about Suisun is very fair.

J. O. Cadman bagged 18 snipe at Alvarado on Sunday last.

The sportsmen who went to Bouldin Island last week found but few birds.

W. H. Burnham and J. M. Dean bagged 70 rail at the Bridges last Sunday.

There are quite a number of snipe at Joice island, but a good rain would greatly improve the ground.

There is fair prospect for good goose shooting at Stockton this year as the farmers are burning the stubble.

D. McCrae was among the lucky ones at Alvarado on Sunday, but the Willow Lodge Club and Spooner Club made very small bags.

Billington, DePue and Olsen returned from Sonoma on Sunday with a miscellaneous bag of 23 ducks, plover Jack-rabbits and curlew.

There is excellent trout fishing in Sulphur Springs creek now. On Saturday last one party caught 80, ranging from seven inches to sixteen.

The rail shooting on the Alameda and Belmont marshes has been exceptionally good this year. Bags of from 30 to 70 are by no means rare.

H. C. Golcher and Ed Bosqui were at Point Reyes on Saturday and Sunday. They were not very successful, but brought home a fair bag of quail.

R. H. Liddle had excellent luck with the quail in the neighborhood of Petaluma on Tuesday last. He brought home fifty-two and a dozen larks.

Several of the Pastime Club were at the Bridges on Sunday, but the bags were small. The ducks will not be very plentiful on that marsh until after a good heavy storm.

Geese are already plentiful at Suisun, but they are flying high at present. As soon as the grass begins to grow on the hills they will have a regular line of flight and will fly much lower.

Quite a number of ducks are shipped to this market daily from Clarksburg, and they are said to bring good prices in this city. Here is a chance for the game warden to distinguish himself.

We hope that the next law that the sportsmen will agitate will be one that will prohibit the shooting of ducks after sunset. This should be a universal law all over the United States. It spoils all duck shooting.

R. Liddle Co. have purchased a new cash register. With every purchase you get a numbered slip from the register, and on December 24th one of these numbers will win some one a gun. Call and examine their new stock.

B. J. Baum had hard luck Sunday. He not only failed to secure a bag of quail, but his well known pointer, Glenbeigh Jr. run afoul of a ranch dog and had his leg bitten through. He will be lame for some time. He was shooting at Fairview.

Snipe are to be found in a few localities, but good bags are the exception not the rule. W. Cooper and John Maynard were at Goodyear on Sunday but found birds very scarce. Dave Thom was at his usual haunt at Alviso but failed to locate any snipe.

The report that the Mallard Club had removed the gateway placed by the Teal Club at Frank Horan slough was a false alarm. They have removed a few logs so that they can get their small boats under the gateway, but have not destroyed the entire structure as reported.

The Contra Costa Water Co. have leased the ground and house of the Spooner Gun Club at Alvarado and they have changed quarters. They are now located on Plummers land near the Crystal Salt Works, where they have built them a very neat three-room club house.

The different members of the prominent clubs who have used Otto Fendner's hand-loaded shells the past week report most excellent results from them, and they keep him busy loading. He is careful and painstaking, and if you cannot kill game with his shells you can't with any.

The quail hunters have been fairly successful throughout the State. Crittenden Robinson bagged 65 on Saturday and Sunday at Point Reyes. E. W. Briggs returned with a fair bag. Andrew Jackson went to the Cordelia Club after ducks, but finding them very scarce he took to the hills and bagged 20 quail.

Alex. McKerron, the twelve-year-old son of John A. McKerron, the famous horse boot manufacturer, is quite a nimrod. On October 2d, during his vacation at his father's farm a few miles from Gilroy, he saw a deer on a little knoll about 150 yards from his residence, and going into the house got a rifle, loaded it and then moved cautiously out where he could see the deer, fired, and dropped the 125 pound buck. He shot the animal in the neck close to the head.

Ducks are quite plentiful along the bay shore, but at Suisun, Sonoma and Alvarado they have been very scarce since the 15th. The bombardment they received on that day scared them all away and they will not return until a good storm drives them from the bay shore. They are quite plentiful at Clarksburg and further up the Sacramento river. At Clarksburg the market hunters have leased most of the desirable land and will not allow anyone to shoot until the 15th of November. Then the slaughter will begin.

Wested last week that Bell's ark now moored off Boynton Slough would hold 100 men. This was a typographical error. She has twenty bunks and on a pinch could accommodate forty men. She had not reached Espinosa when last we heard from Bell and will probably lie at her present anchorage for some time. There will be excellent shooting near the ark when the ducks come in again. Boynton Slough, Boynton Ponds, Hill Slough and Joice Island are within easy reach of the ark. Visitors will be met at Suisun and rowed to the ark, about three miles from the Station.

Live Birds at Dixon.

The Rising Sun Gun Club, of Dixon, Cal., held a tournament on Sunday last at live birds for merchandise prizes. The principle event was a 12-bird match. There were 25 entries. H. A. Bassford and W. Peterson took first and second with 12 each, J. Holling and Otto Fendner third and fourth with 11 each, B. Fendner fifth and J. Fendner sixth with 10 each, Geo. Fendner seventh with 9.

THE KENNEL.

The Danbury Show.

[By our Special Correspondent.]

The Danbury show was as usual a big success. They were 220 entries and the quality was very good. I did not see quite as many of the old and well-known dog men among either spectators or exhibitors as one usually sees there. I met Dr. J. E. Hair, of Bridgeport, Maj. J. M. Taylor, E. M. Oldham, who superintended the show very efficiently, R. J. Clark, Ben and Joe Lewis, who both, as usual, had their hands full, Dr. C. A. Longest, with a good string of bloodhounds and St. Bernards, and A. Picard, of the Rinada Pointer Kennels.

I am sorry to say that I got around too late to see the judging, which was all done by Mr. Jas. Mortimer and over which there was quite a little fun when it got so dark that lamps had to be brought into service, and even then they say that Ben Lewis and another exhibitor of black and tan terriers got their entries mixed and both "kicked" over the awards. I understand that the judging was pushed along as rapidly as it could be, as the judge was due at the County Club sports in Boston the next morning as judge of the Whippet races.

I understand that next year the fair management expect to put up a new and larger building near the main entrance to the grounds especially for the bench show, and surrender the one used of late years to the poultry show, for which it was originally intended, and which this year was quite crowded. This will be an improvement for both shows. From what I saw of the show it seemed quite well managed, except for the inconveniences of the building, the old style of benching and the absence of all catalogues which bothered exhibitors, spectators and reporters alike.

It was reported that Mr. Matthews well-known bull dog Reve Royat died on the way from New York to the show, having been smothered in his crate.

I also heard of the sale by the Mere Kennels, Tarrytown, N. Y., of the fox-terrier Ripon Stormer, A. K. C. 27,800 (first challenge Danbury 95), to Mr. Fred H. Browerstock, Lawrence, Kan., for $250. The dog is to be shipped immediately to his new home, and should, with his fine record and breeding, be of much service to the Western fox-terrier breeders.

There are rumors of a show in New York ere long like the one of last year, given by the Specialty Clubs, and it is said it is likely to be held between Christmas and New Years, which date seems likely to affect the entries to the W. K. C. show in latter part of February. This might be of benefit if it resulted in a weeding-out of some of the "culls" in the erroneous classes in some of the breeds.

We understand that Mr. Pierre Lorillard, Jr., proposes to institute annual sales of stock from his kennels, the first of which will be held at the American Horse Exchange in New York on October 17th, and be in charge of Major Taylor as Mr. Lorillard's representative. Will give you a few comments on some of the entries in the sporting classes.

POINTERS.

Challenge—Dogs and Bitches—E. W. Lovell's well-known bitch Wild Lily had no competitor here and got first. She is a nice bitch and was shown in good condition.

Open—Dogs—In this class the entries and awards were: First, Rinado Pointer Kennels' Roswell; second, Same owner's Spendthrift; Reserve, F. H. Fleer's Gamester; V. H. C., W. Cogswell's Dashing Sport; while the best dog of the lot, Robt. Leslie's King of Lynne, was absent or rather arrived too late for the judging. I don't know that these dogs could have been placed otherwise except as to Spendthrift. He was in bad condition as to coat and skin (as were nearly all same owner's entries), and worse still seemed to us very decidedly weak in hind quarters, and we should doubt his ability to stand very much work in the field. We were disappointed in this class for none of them were what we hoped to see.

Open—Bitches—Here again we were not pleased with the dogs or their positions which were: First, Rinado Pointer Kennels' Lady Reveller; second, Same owner's Hempstead Kit; Reserve, C. H. Clark's Emblem; V. H. C., M. J. Welch's Queen Dare; H. C., N. C. Spring's Pink Rumor. The last named is not fully developed yet, but is inclined to be snipy in head and was too timid to show for even what she is. Queen Dare was worthy of a better place than she got, was shown in best condition of the lot. We would have placed her second with Hempstead Kit as reserve, whom she seems fully equal except perhaps in hind legs and is a much more workmanlike dog.

ENGLISH SETTERS.

Challenge—Dogs and Bitches—Here the only entries were the well-known ones John Brett's Maid Marlon and H. Pape's Cactus placed as above, and rightly we think as the bitch seems to us much better in head, neck and coat and fully the dogs equal in other points.

Open—Dogs—Here The Warwick Kennels' Albert's Ranger and Windermere were the competitors and were rightly placed as Ranger is much the better all around except possibly in coat and feather; in fact he has improved a great deal since we saw him last. The two are much alike, although the younger dog Windermere is somewhat the heavier. We think he would show to better advantage if not quite so heavy in flesh.

Open—Bitches—Here was a nice class with the following in it: First, John Brett's Flower of Sulphur; second, Oak Grove Kennels' Monk's Nun; Res., Oak Grove Kennels' Furness Maid; V. H. C., Warwick Kennels' Blue Jennie; H. C., Warwick Kennels' Al. ert Moll. Here we think the judge was a bit out of the way as to second and Res., for we like Maid the best in head, muzzle and neck and she has a bit more substance all through. Blue Jennie was not on the bench and Albert's Moll, while a good class, was in too hot company to get a place.

IRISH SETTERS.

Challenge—Dogs and Bitches—Here we found first, Oak Grove Kennels' Ch. Kildare; second, B. T. Bartleson's Boh Jr.; Reserve, Oak Grove Kennel's Ch. Novena. All too well known to need description, and they were placed as above.

Open—Dogs—Here it was a pretty close thing between Muckross Kennel's Henmore Shamrock, first, and J. B. Blossom's Londonderry, second, although the latter seemed better in color and condition; Reserve went to E. Carney's Hector, much behind the others, the other entry, J. B. Blossom's Katouah, being absent.

Open—Bitches—Here the order was, first, J. B. Blossom's Duchess; second, Oak Grove Kennel's Ileene; Reserve, H. Jarrett's Seminole Fly; H. C., B. F. Bartleson's Toronto-Riddy. This seemed about right to us, for while we liked Seminole Fly better in head, ileen and the latter had more coat and feather than Duchess. She is not as good in muzzle or elsewhere, and is much smaller and hasn't so rangy a look.

GORDON SETTERS.

Challenge—Dogs and Bitches—Here the competition was between first, Dr. S. G. Dixon's Leo B.; second, Miss S. A. Nickerson's (Inwood Kennels) Fan, and reserve, same owners' Count Noble, the absentees being A. R. Blossom's Flomont and Heather York and Dr. Dixon's Princess Louise, all almost too well known to need comment, although Leo B. was the only one of the lot that looked at all like the Gordon of ten or fifteen years ago, with his massive head and build and heavy coat and feather.

Open—Dogs—The awards in this class were first, G. F. Schafer's Wang Ivanhoe; second, J. B. Blossom's Heather Bruce; reserve, Inwood Kennels' Bobolink; absent, J. B. Blossom's Doc. This was a pretty even class, but we think the positions of first and second might have been changed, as we liked Bruce the best at nearly all points.

Open—Bitches—First place went to Dr. A. G. Dixon's Santa Maria with his Princess Bonnie second, Inwood Kennel's Lady Maud as reserve and J. B. Blossom's Sallie Belmont V. H. C., the last owner's Venus being absent. This seemed to be about right, as we like St. Maria with the best of the lot.

FOXHOUNDS.

Challenge—Dogs and Bitches—Here a good lot came together and were placed as follows: First, Noel Money's Songster; second, Dr. C. A. Lougest's Commodore; Reverse, D. C. Bernheimer's Ranger. This lot we did not see as he was not in his stall when we looked for him. This award placed the English hound at the top of the class, which we did not like aside from its being a question, to us, whether he is a better specimen of the English than Commodore is of the American Foxhound. Commodore seemed to us to be in the better condition of the two.

Open Dogs—No entries.

Open Bitches—Here we had only two, i. e.; First, Noel Money's Friendly; second, C. Eastwood's Nellie, placed rightly as above. Nellie is a nicely marked b. w. and t. of the New England style of dog, but somewhat light in build, although she looks like a worker.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

J. B. Martin, San Francisco, has sold the fox terrier bitch Blemton Spinaaway (ch Victor II—Spinster to Matt Kerr, San Francisco.

J. B. Martin, San Francisco, has sold a fox terrier bitch pup whelped July 15, 1895, by Reefaway—Golden Jewell to Mr. Farrell, San Francisco.

J. B. Martin, San Francisco, has sold a fox terrier dog pup by Blemton Reefer—Spinaaway, whelped March 15, 1895, to Dr. D. Evelyn, San Francisco.

Mr. J. R. Dickson, of the California turf, has been lucky enough to find the imported Australian greyhound Waratah that he lost some time ago. He was in Oakland.

It is quite probable that the club room committee of the Pacific Kennel Club will abandon the project and that the club will meet hereafter in the parlors of some one of the leading hotels.

F. W. Whitlock, of Great Barrington, Mass., has lost by death the English setter bitch Marv Murnan (Count Noble—Florence. As she was in whelp to his Minch (Rodefigo—Florence Gladstone) this is quite a serious loss to him and the breed.

The fox terrier bitch Blemton Consequence, by Champion Result—Champion Diadem, died on October 18th at Dr. Skaife's dog hospital. This is the bitch that our readers have heard so much about in connection with the Martin-Bell case. She has not whelped for three years. She was bred to Blemton Reefer a year or so ago, but failed to prove in whelp. She was then put under a course of Fowler's solution of arsenic and her blood thoroughly purified. She was bred again to Reefer and proved in whelp to him. She could not deliver the pups and was sent to Skaife's hospital, where she died during the operation of removing the puppies.

WHELPS.

Countess Valensin's, San Francisco, S. C. St. Bernard bitch Bianka (Stammach—Sarah), whelped 7-5 dogs to Franz Frey's Hector of Hauenstein (Barry—Gemma).

John H. Yoell's red Irish setter bitch Dora O'More, No. 3,321, whelped October 6, 1895, 3 dogs 5 bitches, by same owner's Irish setter dog Ross, No. 30,692.

VISITS.

A. J. Salazar's, Mission San Jose, S. C. St. Bernard bitch Bianka II (Hlyn—Bianka) to Franz Frey's Hector of Hauenstein (Barry—Gemma I), October 13th and 14th.

Geo. Herrmann's, Seattle, Wash., collie bitch Fannie of Nesseldown (Wellesbourne Charlie—Adila Wonder) to W. D. deB. Lopez's Laddie (Heather Sandy—Ormskirk Girl), October 12th.

The Bloodhound.

It is a matter of tradition among men who have fancied, cherished, and bred dogs in England and America that the bloodhound is the ancient hound of England and the progenitor of all hounds which hunt by scent. The ancient dog was a slow mover, and was doubtlessly selected generation after generation, and bred for the pre-eminent powers which he exhibited in the pursuit of human beings, in following their trails closely and enduringly, and in his courage when aroused to battle. The abilities and instincts of the animal without doubt were what suggested and established the name bloodhound which the dog now bears. Unfortunate it is that the name is suggestive of a ferocity which the dog does not possess constantly. Only when aroused in the pursuit or when battle is offered does he show the desperate resolution and formidable powers which he holds dormant in time of peace or about the home of his master.

In ancient times in England the bloodhound had an extensive and common use in the pursuit of poachers, sheep thieves, murderers and other malefactors, many crimes then being capital offences which now are treated as misdemeanors. His precision in following wounded game also won him the consideration of the hunter. Hounds then were valued both for the spirit and rejoicefulness of their voices, their clarion notes infusing life into the chase, and for the success in bringing down the game, be the same small or great.

In the old times there is little room for difference of opinion as to the speed of the bloodhound. It is certain that he was a slow dog, deliberate, relentless, vindictive. Those of our time are not fast, but they are a great improvement on the ancient hound. His temper at times was sharp, vindictive, held in check by awe of his master, yet often surlily manifested toward strangers. He was a most formidable agent in keeping the negro in subjection in slavery days, as once a pack was on a runaway's trail his escape was hopeless. Swamps, open fields, switch cane, rivers, all failed in any way to check the pursuit of the noisy pursuit. The negro's flight was on foot, his scent was strong, and his final escape from the vengeful furies was to climb a tree where the pack held him at bay till the overseers arrived, when he was taken back to bondage. The common use to which the bloodhound was put in the capture of slaves in ante bellum days brought the bloodhound into undesired disrepute and brought a stigma on him which he has carried even to this day.

In war the bloodhound has a small place in the history of tumultuous times in Florida. During the Seminole war, President Van Buren, through persuasion and advice, consented to the use of bloodhounds in tracking the Indians through the almost inaccessible everglades of Florida, and for this purpose many were imported from the isle of Cuba, where bloodhounds were valued highly for the pursuit of slaves. The experiment was an entire failure, the dogs absolutely refusing to pursue the Indians. Seemingly, the special breeding for negro hunting had been so firmly established that the dogs knew nothing of chasing of Indians.

The bloodhound is sedate and majestic in his department, with a pervading tincture of sadness in his demeanor. In olden times he was spotted and white, but now the recognized color is black and tan.

The dog is strongly built, head large and domed, ears generously large and flexible, so large that sometimes they are an incumbrance. The red and bleary eyes of the bloodhound, with the raw surface of the eyelids exposed, give him a most truculent appearance, almost a look of ferocity. It is doubtful if there are any of the genuine bloodhounds in this country, as the purity of the Southern hounds has been disputed, I have been told.—H. L. W. in Forest and Stream.

The action taken by the American Kennel Club, in opposition to the prevailing habit of cropping and docking, and its proposed amendment to its constitution prohibiting the practice, has enlisted the support of the daily press in its laudable endeavor to abolish this inhuman custom. In commenting on this matter, the Chicago Post says: "Should the prohibition be carried it will bring about a revolution in the treatment of certain classes of dogs. The habit of clipping the ears and cutting off the tails of certain of their breed is one which has been practiced from time immemorial. It has been as universal as it has been long-continued, and the kennel club which takes decisive steps against it will doubtless have to face a good deal of opposition and adverse criticism. Whatever the vote in this instance may be, the American Kennel Club certainly deserves a great deal of credit for its courage in even considering the matter. It is to be hoped that its hardihood will be rewarded by the carrying of the proposition by an overwhelming majority. There is little doubt that the mutilation of dogs in this way is cruel in the extreme. It is useless, injurious and idiotic. It originated when dogs were bred to fight, and as that is now a criminal offense in most civilized countries there is no reason why the cruel practice should be continued."

Sir Walter Scott was a great lover of dogs, and always had fine ones round him. One day, in conversation with a friend, he said: "Those dogs," pointing to two fine hounds lying on the hearth, "understand every word I say." The friend expressed his doubts of this statement. Sir Walter, to prove it, took up a book and began thus to read aloud: "I have two lazy, good-for-nothing dogs, who lie by the fire and sleep, and let the cattle ruin my garden." Both dogs instantly sprang up and ran out of the room, and finding no cattle in the garden returned and lay down by the fire. The baronet again read from the book the story. Again the dogs ran out and again returned disappointed and lay down. The third time the master told the story, when, instead of going out, the dogs came up to him and looked in his face, whined, and wagged their tails, as much as to say, "You have made game of us twice, you cannot do it for the third time."—Stock-Keeper.

The streets were dirty. The lady had a parcel in one hand, an umbrella in the other. Her dress, although what women call a short one, would have touched the mud had it not been held up. And it was to this she had trained her Irish setter. Trotting along on one side, just a pace behind her, he held the tail of her well-made gown in his teeth as carefully and as daintily as a retriever carries game. Never once did the dog allow the dress to touch the ground. It was evidently a daily task carried out to the point of satisfaction of lady and dog. An enterprising dog dealer might obtain large prices for dogs thus educated to act as my lady's page.—St. James Gazette.

The Setter Dog.

The scenting power of a well-bred, well-trained setter is a thing wholly beyond human conception, and the marvelous exhibitions they give of this power can scarcely be credited. Indeed it would not be wise to seriously discuss the quality of a dog's nose were it not possible to verify the stories that might be told of this wonderful power. Who would believe that a dog going at a full gallop, with a dead bird in its mouth, could scent a live bird on the ground several yards to one side of its course? And yet there are few sportsmen who have not seen a dog point a live bird with a dead bird in his mouth. It would seem as if the scent of the bird so near his nose would prevent the dog from scenting another bird of the same variety lying close in the grass several yards from him. A man with a bunch of roses in his face would not pretend he could smell a bunch of similar flowers a foot away. If he did, no one would believe him.

Yet there is no doubt about the setter being able to smell and point live birds on the ground while he holds a dead bird in his mouth. He goes further than this. He points a dead bird on the ground with a dead bird in his mouth, and he knows the instant he feels the scent that it is a dead bird. This fact he expresses in his manner of pointing, and if it is a wounded bird he knows that, too, and indicates the fact. Most dogs are taught to point stanchly a live bird and not to point a dead bird. The dog will go at full speed right up to his dead bird and never pause a moment. If there is a live bird near, he will point that stanchly, and the promptness and certainty of his decisions show that the instant he catches a scent he knows whether the bird is alive or dead. He makes a distinction, too, between a dead bird, a live bird and a wounded bird. He points the wounded bird differently from what he does the live bird and usually springs in and catches it. What there is about a wounded bird's scent that he can recognize instantly is a puzzle to every one who has thought much of the question.

Indian Dogs.

Kickapoo Indians are very fond of dogs, both alive and fricased. Around their teepees, or wickiups, or Queen Annes, or whatever they call their abodes, there are always half a dozen wolfish dogs. An Indian dog hates a white man as far as he can see him and loves an Indian as far as he can smell him, and that is saying a good deal.

When a white man driving through the Kickapoo country sees a dog by the roadside, his natural impulse is to whistle in a friendly way, for somehow in a wilderness of prairie or forest a dog is a comfortable sight.

But the instant you whistle to an Indian dog he turns his tail and is out of sight quicker than if he had been kicked. An Indian never whistles to his dog when he wants his beast to come to him; he places his tongue against his teeth and hisses.

The colored population of Oklahoma have almost as many dogs as the Indians. Those who live in the blackjack sand hills are dog rich. These dogs have a deep-rooted aversion for the white man also. When an old colored cotton planter comes to town, some of the dogs are sure to follow, and when the old man walks up town the dog stays right between his feet like a country dog under a wagon. And whenever a white man comes within snapping distance the dog gets busy.

Fetch and Carry.

The author will accept our thanks for a copy of Fetch and Carry, a new work by B. Waters on retrieving. The excellency of his first work, Modern Training and Handling, is of itself sufficient to insure the success of the new venture, but the work itself is the best treatise of the kind ever published. It gives full and explicit directions on all the details of retrieving and the manner of teaching both by the force system and the natural method. Any shooter can teach any dog to retrieve if he follows the instructions printed in this book.

The subject is treated as a distinct accomplishment, as it really is. A chapter is also devoted to the self discipline necessary to insure success. There are chapters on the Chesapeake Bay Dog, Irish Water Spaniel and the English retriever. The advertisement of this work will be found in our advertising columns.

J. B. Eliot's well known collie stud dog Strathmore Ben, by Dublin Scot—Effie Dran II., was accidentally poisoned last week. He found a poisoned squirrel. Strathmore Ben was a fair very show dog and the sire of winners.

At the next meeting of the Pacific Kennel Club the election of the Bench Show committee will be in order. A full attendance is expected. The committee on club rooms will also render their report.

Patents Relating to the Sporting Interests.

The following list of United States patents relating to the Sporting Interests, granted October 8th, 1895, is reported expressly for BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, by James Sangster, Patent Attorney, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Animal trap—Thomas Curley, Troy, N. Y.
Cartridge packet—James P. Lee, Hartford, Conn.
Magazine firearm—Rimon C. Fay, Nion, N. Y., assignor, to the Remington Arms Company, same place.
Recoil Operated firearm—Louis Schneisser, Mannheim, assignor to Theodor Bergmann, Gaggenau, Germany.
Process of preparing fish meal—Richard Herwig, Hameln, Germany.
Machine gun—Albert G. Dougherty, Chambersburg, assignor of two-thirds to Thomas B. Buskirk, Paoli, Ind., and Oscar Foote, Washington, D. C.
Magazine bolt gun—James P. Lee, Hartford, Conn.
Apparatus for mounting guns—Joseph Strauss, U. S. Navy.
Cartridge lifter for magazine guns—Rimon C. Fay, Nion, N. Y., assignor to the Remington Arms Company, same place.
Magazine pistol—Joseph Pasquot and Casper Engh, Liege, Belgium.
Ejector for revolvers—Frederick Smith, Worcester, Mass.,

assignor to the Harrington and Richardson Arms Company, same place.

Snap hook—Thos. D. Morris, Seward, Neb.

Striking or punching apparatus—John P. MacLearn, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor, by mesne assignments to the Athletic Novelty Company, same place.

ROD.

Winter Care of Tackle.

"It's a source of great surprise to me," said a veteran angler, "to find that some men have any tackle at all left over from the preceding year when I see the careless way in which they treat it. Rods are dumped hastily into some garret corner, often dry and hot enough to warp a telegraph pole. Lines still wet from the last day's fishing are tossed into an envelope to mildew or are left to rot on the reels. The reels themselves, put away damp, uncleaned and without oil, are of course bound to rust and give poor service the following season. Hooks are tumbled in with the damp line, the steel to corrode, the gut to dry and crack and split. When the unfortunate who thus leaves things to care for themselves loses a big fish on the opening day of the next year's sport by the sudden parting of a rotten line, he breaks into a torrent of abuse directed against the innocent tackle maker, and goes straight to some shop to buy a complete new outfit, declaring that last year's stuff is never good anyway.

"Now, all this can be, and should be, avoided. An hour or so of care at the end of the season will insure the preservation of rods, hooks and lines. Every rod joint should be carefully straightened before it is put up for the winter. The tips, especially, are bound to be more or less set from the constant downward strain. The remedy for this is to lay them on a flat board and tack leather strips across, holding them down to the plane surface. By keeping them damp a few days you can readily warp them into proper shape. Next give a good rubbing down with a mixture of powdered pumice and sweet oil to take off the cracked and broken surface of the old varnish, and then two thorough coats of thin varnish, allowing plenty of time for the first coat to dry before applying the second. You must always look to see that the guides and whipping are complete and in good order, and repair any frayed or loose ones before putting on the preservative. This dressing fills all the pores of the wood and shuts out all decay. Then lay the rods in their cases on a shelf in some room of moderate temperature. Standing them against a wall is a bad practice, as it tends to bend and set the wood.

"Reels must be carefully taken apart, cleaned of all rust all grit, and oiled. Lines should be removed from the reels, first wiped off with a damp cloth, and when dry with an oiled one, and then wound on a flat bit of board. Hooks should always be dipped in oil before being stored away, and grease will also keep the gut snells moist and pliable.

"Artificial flies require more care than all the rest of the outfit put together. A whole army of buffalo bugs, moths and shiners are on the lookout for the soft feathers and silks. Take every one out of the hook, and after laying in the sun for a few hours to kill any chance germs or eggs, wrap in camphorated paper or in plain tissue paper and sift thoroughly with powdered camphor gum. Then pack them away in a red cedar case if you have or can procure one, and no prowling vermin will disturb that outfit.

"With such care taken in time the angler will find at the opening of the next season that he has saved many a dollar, and all of his outfit is as good as ever, and some of it even better than when it was new, because of the seasoning."—Canadian Sportsman.

Shellfish Have Been Planted.

The first news of the trouble on the marshes between the duck-hunters and the club men was a semi-official communication received by Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner T. Bahcock Wednesday. It was from San Pablo and reads:

This morning the duck-shooting season opened and with it the first clash of hunters and keepers of the duck preserve occurred on the grounds of the San Pablo Shooting and Fishing Club. With the dawn of day about twenty good and true sportsmen appeared and attempted to invade the preserve grounds.

They were promptly met by nearly an equal number of keepers, who ordered them off. Fearing arrest and much consequent trouble all retired except two, who gave their names as Lambert, and said they had been employed to shoot on these grounds and they proposed to do so. They promptly ordered the keepers not to interfere with them and, presenting their guns, threatened to shoot any who did so.

The keepers prudently retired to a respectable distance and dispatched one of their numbers to the nearest Justice of the Peace and swore out warrants for the arrest of the trespassers. These warrants were delivered to the constable of the county, who in due time arrested the offenders.

After a careful hearing before the Justice they were fined for trespassing upon ground where shellfish have been planted. It seems that this club has stocked these grounds with terrapin, oysters and clams, and the law of trespass is very stringent in regard to this class of property.

"It is told of John Quincy Adams that a client of his, whose case was to be tried on a certain morning, was unable to get his counsel to go to Boston, or to leave his fishing boat, except long enough to write a note to the judge, which, when presented, caused that worthy magistrate to announce to the court: 'Mr. Adams is detained on important business.' The note read: 'Dear Judge—For the sake of old Izaak Walton, please continue my case until Friday. The smelt are biting and I can't leave.'"—New York Evening Post.

Fishes propel themselves by the tail fins, not the body fins. The fins of the tail actually perform the evolutions described by the blades of a steamboat's stern propelling wheel.

Yreka Jockey Club Races.

The races at Agricultural Park, near Yreka, have been well attended, and the weather delightful for enjoyment of a good time. The following is a summary of the first and second days' programme:

FIRST DAY—WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16.

Race No. 1—One-third mile dash, Siskiyou County horses, purse $100.

L. J. Rohrer's b g Scampaway, Court Hall's ch g Peter W. and Frank Strong's s g Woodbury Jr. Horses to carry not less than 119 pounds. Woodbury was ridden by Will Sleeper, colors white and black; Scampaway by Louis Rohrer, colors blue, and Peter W. by Jones, colors also white and black. The horses were started in the order last above named.

At the start Woodbury was a length or more behind the other horses. Scampaway led to the half-mile post, with Peter close up. Here Woodbury collared the leader, and from there home it was a magnificent struggle. Down the homestretch the way the whip and spur were applied showed that there was no "throw off" in the business. Woodbury won the dash, Peter W. second and Scampaway less than a length behind the leader. In the pools this order was reversed, Scampaway being sold as favorite and Woodbury as third choice. Time, 1:18½.

J. T. Moxley, Henry Kessler and Pendleton occupied the judges' stand.

The timers were J. Martin and L. Swan. Charles Martin, T. Franklin and Royal Brown acted as starters.

Race No. 2—Trotting and pacing, Siskiyou county horses, best two in three, purse $120.

Charles Cassidy's b m Minnie, William Clark's br m Sophie C., and Ed Herr's b m Carrie H.

Minnie was withdrawn before the race. Clark drove Sophie, and Ed Swan was up behind Carrie. At the start the latter had the pole. On the first turn Sophie took the track, and held the lead all the way round. Carrie made some pretty bursts of speed, but could not hold out against the steady going Sophie. The second heat was a repetition of the first one. There were no pools sold on this race.

Race No. 3—Bicycle race, half-mile dash, purse $30. Entries: Frank O'Connell, of Yreka, D. L. Oliver, of Sisson, and Frank Quigley and Ed. Eastlick, of Oro Fino. In the pools Oliver sold as first choice, Quigley second, and the remaining two together in the field. For the first quarter the riders were well hunched. At the head of the stretch Quigley pedaled to the front. Oliver and Eastlick struggled bravely to overhaul him, but failed. O'Connell gave up the race at the three-quarter pole. Quigley won in 1:27.

SECOND DAY—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 17.

Judges, timers and starters of first day acted in same positions on this day.

Race No. 4—Quarter-mile dash, free-for-all, purse $75. Frank Terwillinger's s g Domino, Walter Parker's b g Ranger, Wm. Herr's s g Sleepy Dick, W. H. Names' b g Bay Dick, W. W. Martin's b g Rondo, G. W. Crippen's b g Rondo.

Five horses started making close race, with Domino leading about two feet, with others close up, and Sleepy Dick left at post. Time, 0:23½.

Race No. 5—Trotting and pacing, 3:00 class, free for all, best 2 in 3, purse $130.

Wm. Clark's h f Sophie C., Wm. Clark's b f Mattie Nurse, L. Swan's b m Yreka Siskiyou Bell.

Two horses started on first heat, Mattie Nurse having been withdrawn. Julius Fitten drove Siskiyou Bell and Clark drove Sophie C.

The first heat was very close, Siskiyou Bell leading about two feet. Time, 3:18.

In second heat Sophie C. came in ahead without any great effort. Time, 3:20.

In the third heat Sophie C. seemed to have an easy race. Time, 3:18.

Race No. 6—Running, mile dash, free for all, purse $150. J. C. Hall's ch g Peter W., C. P. Cleveland's c s Davy Crockett, Fred Frantz's s s Sam Brown, L. J. Rohrer's b g Scampaway, Frank Strong's s g Woodbury Jr.

This was a very close race, won by Scampaway in half a length, with Peter W. second, Woodbury third, Sam Brown fourth and Davy Crockett fifth. Time, 1:48.

In starting this race, Tom Maguire came near being killed, and was badly crippled by Davy Crockett running over and knocking him down. There was some trouble in getting the horses started, when the men attending led them up the track to turn for a start. Maguire had hold of Woodbury, and letting him go, stepped back into Davy Crockett's position, whereas if he had stood still, he would not have been touched. This mishap caused the rider of Davy Crockett to lose his stirrups, which he could not regain for nearly half a mile, otherwise it is believed he could have won the race.

A New Fodder Plant.

Atriplex Semibaccatum (Australian Salt Bush)—The genesis of this remarkable family of plants is left for conjecture to furnish, unless we rely on tradition that it sprang up to cover the grave of Lot's wife.

Gray, in his manual, gives two species of atriplex, and we have at least seven indigenous to Kern county, one of which (atriplex bracteosa) is a troublesome alkali weed. The others, with one exception, are unimportant and uninviting, and of little value as forage plants. The one exception is an annual, conspicuous light green, in solitary flattened round hushees and is relished by stock. It resembles yet differs from A. phyllostegia and is probably a new species.

Few people would have guessed that from this genus of plants should come one possessing properties that make it important and welcome to cultivators of alkali land. The improbable has occurred again, and from Australia comes atriplex semibaccatum taking kindly to our strongest alkali spots, covering them in one season with a carpet of verdure acceptable to cows, sheep, hogs and chickens. Some horses eat it readily, others refuse it when first offered, while all eventually relish it. The seed when sowed thinly forms a spreading mat that entirely covers the ground, and conserves the moisture in a remarkable degree. The tap root goes straight down about four feet in our soil, and forms at that depth a mass of fibrous roots; this is not the case with transplanted plants, as the tap root becomes demoralized and the fibrous roots form near the surface, lessening the power to withstand drought.

One plant will cover about five hundred square feet, and produce about seventy thousand seeds in one season on alkali ground. To believe that it originated to cover the grave of Lot's wife is immaterial, but we can readily see its wonderful facility to cover lots of alkali ground, and we accept it as a boon for that purpose, with thanks to the University at Berkeley and the Station at Tulare for introducing it. The nutritive value as proven by analysis and actual feeding is very satisfactory; the plant is perennial, of neat appearance, not easily injured by tramping, grazing or cutting; the yield is about twenty tons per acre, which loses three fourths its weight in drying. It remains green all winter, but makes its most rapid growth during hot weather; it is a sunshine plant, and does not do well if shaded by trees; it is not difficult to eradicate by one plowing, and there is no question but that it will eliminate the alkali from the ground, rendering it suitable for other crops.

Realizing the value of this new fodder plant, the Kern County Land Company, Bakersfield, Cal., urge all who are interested in improving their waste places, to give it a trial, and if they will report results, we will furnish them enough seed by mail to plant about one fourth of an acre, on receipt of 25 cents. Instructions for planting accompany each package.

Almonts are Sensational.

With the exception of the Wilkes and Electioneer families, the Almonts have produced more sensational horses than any other family. Fanny Witherspoon, 2:16½, was quite a sensation in her day. Piedmont, 2:17½, was also rather on the sensational order. Westmont, with his pacing record of 2:13½ and his mile of 2:01½, with a running mate, also made some noise in the world. Allie West, 2:25, held the four-year-old stallion record. He was very fast for his day and his time then may fairly be called sensational. His son Jewett, with his double record of 2:20 and 2:14, was calculated to make quite an impression on the public mind. Charley Friel, 2:15½, and Frank Champ, 2:16½, did not escape notice. Flying Jib, 2:04, with his running mate in 1:58½, was also a pretty well-known horse, says Iconoclast. While it is true that last year he was not nearly as good a horse as he had been, owing probably to his temper having been soured, he was, in 1892, as consistent a race horse and as uniform a winner as any horse that has ever appeared on the track. It is questionable whether a faster horse was ever foaled. The performances of the Altamont branch of the Almont family this year may be said to have been fairly sensational. Aitao, Chehalis and Klamath have made considerable trotting history in 1895. On the female side the Almonts have also produced many phenomenal performers. Mamie, by Star Almont, the dam of the celebrated Leyburn family, is distinguished as the only mare with but six foals that has all of them in the standard list and some of them are very distinguished. Lark, by Abdallah Mambrino, is the only mare with five performers in the 2:20 list. Fantasy's dam and grandam are each by a son of Almont. She still holds the three-year-old record. The great performers out of Almont mares and mares by sons of Almont are almost innumerable, and I will not burden the reader by recapitulating them. Many of them are among the best performers on the track. I cannot imagine how the stock phrase that the "Almonts are never sensational" originated. Certainly it is about time that it received its quietus.

BETTER attention to the selection of broodmares will do more than anything else to improve the horse stock. We have a very small number of the right kind of stallions compared with the whole number in use, and there is where the main trouble lies. The produce of a stallion increases much faster than the produce of a mare. The former, in a lifetime, if patronized, leaves several hundred of his produce, while the latter rarely leaves over a dozen, and very often less. Thus it will be seen that a poor stallion in a community, if generously patronized, is capable of perpetuating many more of his kind, while one good broodmare is capable of perpetuating only a very few of her kind. The question, then, of improving the stock at once becomes a question of capable judgment in selecting broodmares, and choosing a stallion to breed them to. The breeding problem is an old one, but to a large majority of breeders of the present generation it is an unstudied science which must be taken up and studied in order to succeed. The mere production of horses plays a very small part in establishing a type or distinct breed of horses, and without this purpose in view there never will be profit to any breeder. The young men should take up the study. We have a history of most breeds of horses in this country, so that breeders can secure all the information necessary to post themselves on any desired breed by studying the history of the great sires and dams of the different breeds.

NELLY G., by A. W. Richmond, is the dam of Rex Gifford, 2:14, and Thavermont, 2:27½.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

- Its claims for superiority are as follows:—
- FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
 - SECOND It will not cause headache.
 - THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
 - FOURTH It has a tight recoil and great velocity.
 - FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
 - SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
 - SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
 - EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
 - NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")
 - TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

UNITED STATES SMOKELESS POWDER CO.

No. 13 Pine Street, San Francisco, Cal.

For sale by all dealers in Powder and Sporting Goods.

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER
Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

- First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
- Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
- Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
- Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
- Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
- Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
- Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.

SPECIFIC FOR

Cracked Heels and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Hoof Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a Callous, and will always remove a Callous when caused from a wound.

It removes all Soreness with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.

The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the soreness with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callous remaining." T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KLAMATH, 2:08 1/4, says: "Have been trying to cure Klamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are uneasy and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

THE BREEDERS MEETING.

Auspicious Opening of the Fall Meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. Association at Los Angeles—Delightful Weather, Excellent Attendance and Good Racing—How the Races Were Won.

FIRST DAY—OCTOBER 28TH.

The initial day of the Breeders' meeting was pleasing in every respect except the attendance, which was rather slim, as Monday crowds usually are at every racing affair.

The most noteworthy feature was the great hit made by Mr. McNair, the Eastern professional starter which the Association has secured for this meeting. If the perfect starts given to-day continue throughout the week, Mr. McNair will be an indispensable adjunct hereafter to every race meeting in California which aims to please the public.

Mr. McNair's manner of handling the starters is rather novel and unquestionably proper. He allows the drivers to score once at will to the eighth pole and his trained eye quickly discerns which horses are naturally slow to move and which are quickest with their feet, and these observations govern his action when the critical moment comes for giving the word "go" or tapping the bell for the contestants to make another attempt.

The Eastern gentleman permitted no jockeying to-day, and so thoroughly were the drivers impressed with his authority and his readiness to enforce it, that when one of them would receive an admonition during the scoring, the obedient reinsman would deferentially lift his cap in token of submission.

It was a rare sight on a California track, where it has too long been the custom for the drivers to be the masters of the situation instead of the officials in the stand, and if tiresome scoring and reprehensible tactics become a thing of the past there seems to be little doubt but that harness horse contests will once more regain the affection of the sport-loving portion of the California public.

There were four events to-day, but so well-managed and business like were they handled that the last race was concluded before five o'clock, which feature in itself called forth the blessings of those present. Frank Covey, M. S. Severance and F. W. Loeher officiated as judges to-day, and although they kept a keen eye for any incidentavoring of jobbing, there was no occasion for them to exercise their judicial functions. In fact, it is so well understood among the horsemen generally, and particularly by those whose record in the sulky is not irreproachable, that no connivance of any kind—not even the laying up of a heat, will be tolerated, that it is doubtful if anyone will have the hardihood to attempt any crookedness. In fact, the judges have determined to inflict summary punishment upon any driver or owner violating the laws governing racing, and justice will be dealt out impartially, the rich receiving not an iota more of consideration than the poor.

Hence, the writer predicts a week of clean consistent racing and the admirable manner in which the meeting has been inaugurated should certainly draw good crowds hereafter. Another innovation that was introduced to-day and which met with appreciation was the tabulation of the heats on a large blackboard on which the position of every horse in each heat is recorded in such prominent figures as to be easily read from every portion of the grand stand. Starter McNair in making the announcements states likewise the time of each mile by quarters, and thus those who are interested in the fractional time, are not obliged to go armed with a stop watch.

The racing itself to-day was of the jug handle order, three of the events going to favorites which so outclassed their respective fields as to make betting on the winner impossible. This was the case with 2:20 trot, as there was nothing to take the measure of Ethel Downes, the Boodle mare winning off the reel. Thompson and Knight battled for second position in the first heat, the latter securing the laurels. John Bury was steady on the second heat and secured the coveted place, but he showed no speed in the final heat and Thompson trotting smoothly from start to finish made Ethel Downes extend herself in 2:14½—the fastest heat of the race. T. S. Montgomery, the owner of the mare came down from San Jose to witness her easy victory.

The 2:13 pace was a hollow victory for Pathmont. Betting was spasmodic on him at $25 against $5 for the field, there being few hold enough to want the short end. The race was another consecutive affair. The brother of Alto indulged Hanford Medium and Belle in the lead in the first heat until half-way down the backstretch, where, taking the lead, he never relinquished it. Belle easily out-footed Hanford Medium, the chestnut mare surprising her friends by keeping her feet throughout. She came into second position every heat and Hanford Medium could not pass her at any part of the road. Ketchum was again fractious, and made a desperate effort to leave the track whenever he reached a point opposite his stable.

The Stanford stakes for three-year-olds afforded the only semblance of a contest. The prestige attached to anything from the Palo Alto Stock Farm made Cressida a hot favorite at 20 against 6 for Iran Alto. Mr. Rea's colts had supporters, chiefly from the San Jose contingent, and they never regretted their action in backing the colt.

In the first heat Iran Alto opened up a lead of six lengths, but at the finish the filly got within two lengths of him and the betting now was even money and take your choice. In the next heat Bunch again essayed to make a runaway race of it, but Cressida hung on gamely, despite the fact that she showed signs of lameness, and there was only a neck between them as the decisive bell tapped.

Cressida's lameness scared her backers and the colt became a favorite in the pools at 10 to 5. They went off together trotting head and head into the backstretch, where the filly's feet gave out and Iran Alto had the race at his mercy, pulling up to allow his competitor to get inside the flag.

Of course the fame of Chehalis preceded him, and the pool-sellers appealed in vain for hackers against him in the 2:25 pace, his only opponents being Algregon, Dan N. and Dictatus, and they finished in that order in each heat. The Oregon wonder never went out in front in any heat, but trailed along watching the fun in front of him, until Frazier considered it time to become a factor in the race. When he did give the black stallion his head, he shot by the others as though they were anchored and won without being extended, Algregon being the only contending horse at the finish.

In the second heat Chehalis got hemmed in on the first turn and went up in the air, but when he recovered Frazier made a drive with him and covered the second quarter in 30 seconds—a two-minute gait. Even after this fast effort he had no trouble in annexing the heat which was paced in 2:13½. Algregon again being in second position only a neck away. The decisive heat was a repetition of the first.

SECOND DAY, OCTOBER 29TH.

There was snap and vim to the racing to-day, and the attendance was greatly improved over that of yesterday, the increase in the crowd being in no small measure due to the popularity of the new method of starting and the clearness and precision with which the results are announced after each heat.

Mr. McNair had an opportunity to-day to display his real ability, for the first race comprised a large field, but he handled it as easily and consumed less time than is generally the case with a field of three or four under the old regime.

The talent had a sorry day of it. First Rex Gifford proved a mild disappointment, but the hardest blow was when Native State was downed by Lady Grace, and when Roan Wilkes suffered defeat at the hands of Javelin. There was no hal-n in Gilead for the wise division.

Yet every race was won on its merits and the reversal of form was unquestionably due to the change in condition that occurs in race horses at the tail end of the season; those that have been campaigned steadily naturally become track weary, while others that have been racing at good intervals are showing improvement.

Six trotters lined up before Starter McNair for the 2:25 event, and McZeus had a slight call in the pools at post time, his price being $10, the entire field, composed of Rex Gifford, Jasper Paulsen, Lady Thornhill, Stamboul Belle, Neer-nut and Silver Bee, bringing $9. Last evening Rex Gifford was favorite at $10, McZeus $8, field $3, but it became noised around that the son of McKinney would start a better race on his home track than he did at Santa Ana; and the betting accordingly switched to day.

Rex Gifford was never dangerous in any heat except the first one, which McZeus broke at the eighth pole, and Jasper Paulsen, Rex and Lady Thornhill went to the far turn hunched together. At this point the gray broke and Jasper was four lengths in advance of Thornhill, as he swung into the straight. McZeus now commenced to overhaul the leader and he collared him at the drawgate, winning handily by a length in 2:17.

McZeus got off badly in the second heat and was pocketed, and before he could get free territory Jasper and Rex Gifford had six lengths the best of him. Once moving, he came like a streak and took the lead near the water tank and jogged home in 2:14½. Jasper and Rex had it nip and tuck down the stretch, but the former secured second honors through the grey breaking.

McZeus and Jasper Paulson were the contending factors in the last heat. The latter by suzerance kept at the stallion's flank for two-thirds of the journey, but when he tried to get closer McZeus let out a link and kept him at a safe distance. In the stretch Rex Gifford came fast and threatened to get second position, but he broke at the same point as before, and Jasper Paulson as before was second. Stamboul Belle was distanced in this heat, Lady Thornhill caught the flag in the second heat, while Silver Bee was harred after the first trip.

Time, 2:17, 2:14½, 2:15.

The next event on the card, the 2:30 trot, resulted in a terrible upset. The auctioneer shouted himself hoarse trying to get the short end, all the money in sight being for Native State, who sold at $20 against $5 for the entire field, consisting of Lady Grace, Charivari and Belle Wilson.

In the first heat Lady Grace went off neck and neck with Native State. She was a length ahead at the quarter, which was passed in 0:35½, and was still holding him safe as they skipped by the half in 1:08½. As they entered the straight everybody looked for the favorite to shoot ahead, but his old-time speed seemed to be on a vacation, and though he was flogged, the Raymon mare beat him out the length of a sulky in 2:17.

The talent still stuck to Native State, the ruling odds being Native State 10, field $9. The quartette was sent off on even terms and again Lady Grace led Native State by a length around the oval, the quarter being passed in 0:35, the half in 1:08½ and the three-quarters in 1:42½. The favorite showed signs of returning speed in the stretch, and he caught the mare at the drawgate, but the effort was too much, and he lost his feet. Charivara, as usual, came in third. Time, 2:16½.

The third heat was a repetition of the preceding, but was closer. The first quarter was covered in 0:34½, the half was made at a 2:14 clip and the chronometers registered 1:41

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

Torsina Shows Herself to be a Very Good Filly—Miss Brummel Wins Her Fifth Straight Race—Rosebud Equals the Record at Six Furlongs, and Defeats Sir Richard.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24.

OUR good warm favorites won this beautiful afternoon, and the fifth winner was quite a warm second choice. Consequently there were long lines on the paying-off side of the blocks occupied by the affable gentlemen of the chalk and chamoliskin after each and every race.

The sleepy son of The Child of the Mist—Erin-go-bragh was better liked and better ridden to-day than on his maiden appearance here, and not only showed himself to be awake, but awakened great hopes in the breasts of his backers. He was well ridden by A. Williams, and won easily by three parts of a length from Beatrice. Ida Sauer, by Joe Hooker—Addie O'Neil, a maiden starter, ran into third place in a driving finish. Gold Dust, the favorite, was no better than fourth. Santa Rosa, by Hidalgo—Nehusta, started for the first time in this race, but broke down. Imp. Trentola was also a starter, after a long idleness caused by sickness, but did not show any speed to day.

Nelson, the one-eyed warrior, was a very warm favorite for the second race, while Venus was well backed, Chevalier on the latter being played against Hennessy. Nervoso was the only other at short odds, Addie M., Gondola and Mahogany being quoted at from 50 to 100 to 1. Nelson won as liked, by five lengths, in 1:00½. The race was between Gondola and Nervoso for place, which the former got by a short head. Venus was fourth.

There was some hot stuff in the third race, outside of Caliente, and it was a hot betting affair. Marjorie was played down from 7 to 2½ to 1, and Instigator was hammered from 8 to 6 to 1. Redington was favorite all the time, with Claude Hill a close second choice. Claude Hill led from the flag to the last eighth, where he chucked it. Majorie held on up to the last seventy yards, then Redington passed her easily and won by two lengths. Instigator, in a Brutus finish, came on from fourth to second, by a head, Billy McCloskey after him. Marjorie and Claude Hill were fifth and sixth as named.

Major Cook showed he could hold his speed for a longer distance than he has been traveling, and gave Detective, Rose Clark, Lady Jane, Ricardo, Moss Terry and May Day a good beating at six and a half furlongs in the fourth race. The Major, Rose and Detective were about on equal terms at post time. Ricardo was very popular for the place, and May Day was played from 15 to 10 to 1 mainly in the good showing he made in laying close to Mamie Scott the day she was out for records. The Major won easily from the head of the stretch, with Detective and Lady Jane second and third.

Model was a conceded "cinch" for the last race, at a mile and the Experiment gelding (christened Svengali), was a strong second choice. Model let Elmer F. have the lead for about half the journey, but the rest of the time she was showing the way. She won easily by two lengths. Navy Blue, superbly ridden by Riley, came from nowhere and took the place from Elmer F. by a head on the last stride.

Chevalier, Hennessy, Donahue, McIntyre and A. Williams had the winning mounts.

SUMMARIES.

First race—About six furlongs, selling. Betting—Gold Dust 3, Sleeping Child 16 to 5, Ida Sauer, Santa Rosa and Lilioukalani 6, Beatrice 8, Triumph and Carrie Shaw 30 to 1. Good start. Gold Dust showed first, then Sleeping Child took the lead and won all the way, finishing easily by three parts of a length. Winner, ch g, 3, by Child of the Mist—Erin-go-bragh. Beatrice (b f, 3, by St. Saviour—Miss Miford), second easily; Ida Sauer (by Joe Hooker—Addie O'Neil), third. Time, 1:14.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling. Betting—Nelson evens, Venus 2, Nervoso 4, Gondola, Addie M. and Mahogany 50 to 1. Good start. Nelson led all the way and was an easy winner by five lengths. Winner, ch h, 4, by Duke of Norfolk—Neilson. Gondola (br m, 4, by Frank Rhodes—Della), second driving; Nervoso (ch g, 2, by imp. Brutus—Nerva) third. Time, 1:00½.

Third race—Five and a half furlongs, for two-year-olds. Betting—Redington 9 to 5, Claude Hill and Marjorie 2½, Instigator 6, Billy McCloskey 20, Edgemount 30, Caliente 40, imp. Alien 60, Clara Johnson 150 to 1. Good start. Claude Hill led to the last eighth, where he was caught by Redington, who won easily by two lengths. Winner, b g, by Emperor of Norfolk—Angelique. Instigator (br c, by imp. Brutus—Installation), second, driving; Billy McCloskey (ch c, by Joe Hooker—Jessie R.), third. Time, 1:07½.

Fourth race—Six and a half furlongs, selling. Betting—Detective and Major Cook 2½, Rose Clark 3, Ricardo 8, Lady Jane 12, May Day 12, Moss Terry 15 to 1. Good start. Detective led into the stretch, when Major Cook headed him and won driving by half a length. Winner, b g, 3, by Bulwark—Sister to Violet. Detective (b g, 3, by imp. Deceiver—Exile) second, driving; Lady Jane (br f, 3, by imp. Midlothian—Aunt Jane) third. Time, 1:20½.

Fifth race—One mile, selling. Betting—Model 7 to 10 (opened at 9 to 10), Svengali (formerly Experiment gelding) 2½, Navy Blue and Elmer F. 7, Allahabad 15, and Last Chance 20 to 1. Good start. Elmer F. led to the stretch, where Model took command and won easily by two lengths. Winner, ch f, 3, by imp. Sir Modred—Gypsy. Navy Blue (b g, 3, by Blue Wing—Bay Betty), second driving; Elmer F. (blk g, 4, by Portland—Fantasie) third. Time, 1:42½.

THIRTIETH DAY—FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25.

There were three grand upsets in the calculations of the talented gentlemen this bright, warm afternoon. The attendance was very good, and the betting lively. There were enough warm things in each race to keep the interest from flagging, and an excellent class of sport was afforded,

Torsina was played for a good thing in the first race, and so proved herself by romping in a six-length winner. Castanette looked like a winner, but quit in the stretch. Moran ran an excellent race and got the place in a drive from Snowdown. Both horses were in the ruck coming into the stretch.

Toby was a warm favorite for the second race, but went back from 6 to 7 to 5 in the betting, and then there was a play on Bravura, driving his price down from 6 to 4 to 1. Soledad, a 12 to 1'er, made all the running up to the 40-yard post, with Monarch crowding him all the way, but at the last jump almost Soledad caught them and won in a drive by a half length. Soledad and Monarch secured second and third money, as named. Soledad was at 8 to 1 at post time. With Burns up, he was not liked, but it was stated he could do the trick in 1:01 if necessary. The race was run a quarter of a second slower. Toby finished fourth. Considering his start, he ran almost as good a race as the winner. Bravura was seventh.

Robin Hood II. was out again to-day, and was installed favorite over his field. Mahogany was hammered down, went back and then was played again. Robin showed first, then Kathleen took up the running. She seemed to be at ease, but half way down the stretch tired and Reidy went to the bat. Robin Hood, well over on the outside of the track, then looked dangerous, but Arundel and Wawona both came tearing through and finished as named two lengths apart. Robin Hood was third, dry as a bone, a length behind Wawona.

McLight and Mainstay were the top-weights for a short six furlong handicap, at 112 pounds, Fannie Louise accepted 107 and Realization 105. It was a very lively betting event. McLight opened at 8 to 5 and closed at 2 to 1, and Fannie Louise's quotations were about the same. Mainstay went from two to three, while Realization was played down from 6 to 3 to 1. Mainstay is fast becoming a very bad actor at the post, and seems to get worse at every start. McLight got a shade the worst of a very even break and immediately forged through to the front. Mainstay went after him but never got nearer than two lengths. Fannie Louise held third position to the last eighth, where she chucked it and Realization finished third.

The last race was at a mile and a sixteenth, with four entries. Duchess of Milpitas opened at evens, and closed at 6 to 5. Ransom opened at two's, shortened at 9 to 5, then went back to two's. Malo Diablo lengthened to four's, from 3½ to 1, then closed at opening price. Olivia was played from 12 to 7 to 1. Malo Diablo was first to catch the caller's eye, Olivia led at the first turn, then Duchess took the rail and set the pace. She was not headed and won hands down by one length. Malo Diablo swung very wide coming into the stretch, and traveled considerably farther than the others. He was not sulking any and with a more vigorous jockey up should have caused the Duchess to extend herself. He got the place from Olivia by a length.

Walker, Burns, Chevalier, Macklin and Sloan had the winning mounts.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs, for maiden two-year-olds. Betting—Torsina 6 to 5 (opened at 7 to 5), Snowdown 3, Rhaetia 7, Moran 8, Skalkaho and Cinvasback 15, Lady Carmen 20, Von Dunk 60, Lady Gray and Mabel 100 to 1. Good start. Lady Carmen led to the stretch, then Torsina came on and won hands down by five lengths. Winner, br f, by Torso—Bertie W. Moran (br g, by Patten—Louise Forrest), second driving. Snowdown (b g, by Fitzjames—Charity), third. Time, 1:01.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling. Betting—Toby 7 to 5, Bravura 4, Monarch 5½, Soledad 8 (opened at 6) Duillo and Soledad 12, Harry Lewis 30, Red Idle 50, Lodi 100 to 1. Good start. Soledad led almost to the wire, when Soledad caught him and won by half a length, driving. Winner, br g, 3, by imp. Greenback—Half Sister. Soledad (b g, 5, by Ironclad—unknown), second, driving; Monarch (b g, 5, by Ironclad—by Bayswater), third. Time, 1:01½.

Third race—Five furlongs—Betting—Robin Hood II 3 to 5, Arundel 5, Mahogany 6, Kathleen 7, De Groat 8, Wawona 10, Modesto 100, Great Falls 300 to 1. Good start. Robin Hood led past the half, then Kathleen showed the way to the last furlong. Arundel then drove her out and won by two lengths. Winner, ch h, 4, by Duke of Norfolk—Elaine. Wawona (ch g, 4, by imp. Sir Modred—Typhoon) second, driving; Robin Hood II (ch h, by Circassian—Revelry) third. Time, 1:01.

Fourth race—About six furlongs. Closing betting—Fanny Louise 9 to 5, McLight 5 to 2, Mainstay and Realization 3 to 1. Good start. McLight was off last, but forged to the front immediately and led to the wire by two lengths. Winner, ch h, 4, by McDuff—Longlight. Mainstay (ch c, 3, by imp. Mariner—Queen Emma), second, driving; Realization (b h, 4, by Regent—Sadie), third. Time, 1:12½.

Fifth race—One and one sixteenth miles, for three-year-olds, selling. Betting—Duchess of Milpitas 6 to 5, Ransom 2, Malo Diablo 3½, Olivia 7 to 1. Good start. Olivia showed a head in front at the first turn, then Duchess of Milpitas led to the wire, winning hands down. Winner, b f, by Duke of Norfolk—Ledette. Malo Diablo (ch c, by Joe Hooker—Oxilla), second driving; Olivia (b f, by Emperor of Norfolk—Dolly L.) third. Time, 1:47½.

FIRST DAY—WINTER MEETING, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 26.

The Winter Meeting of the California Jockey Club was ushered in most auspiciously to day by an excellent card, a beautiful day and an unusually large attendance. Grace and beauty adorned the balconies, and the betting ring was taxed for standing accommodations. Each event on the programme had sufficient good material entered to make the results doubtful, and there was no lack of opinions. The speculators to back their bookies were kept busy, but many footed up long on the wrong side of the sheet at the close of the day's sport.

The most notable event of the day was Tod Sloan's performance in the pigskin. He had four mounts. Three he landed winners, and the fourth finished second.

Starter Ferguson was a very sick man to-day, but he stayed at his post and gave the patrons of the track six good and speedy send-offs.

Gondola was installed favorite for the first race, and won without any effort, but Sleeping Child would have given her a hot argument with a better boy up.

The second race, at five and a half furlongs, with Miss Brummel and Tim Murphy the central figures, was generally let alone by the careful speculators, but old Tim had many warm supporters who thought he could carry 114 pounds to victory over the speedy filly. Miss Brummel carried 97 pounds and was favorite all the time. Tim seemed slow at the post and acted as though he were sore. Miss Brummel was off first and the roan third. The filly made the running, but Murphy gained on her all the way, shortening her advantage from a length at the half-pole to a head coming into the stretch. Running well out toward the center of the track through the stretch, the veteran kept gaining, till he was on even terms with Brummel at the forty-yard post, then the filly as steadily drew away and out-lasted him, getting the judgment by a half length, making five successive winning brackets for her. It was the game race of the day and was run but a quarter of a second slower than Tim Murphy's record time of 1:06½. He carried 102 pounds on that occasion which makes his performance to day almost, if not fully as good.

Miss Fletcher negotiated a mile again to-day in 1:42 flat, with six pounds more weight than she carried on Tuesday. She won her race easily. Monita, who cast a plate in his last race, and consequently "also ran," was touted to be up to a hard run to-day. He ran well, getting away fifth and finishing second, Ricardo was played very liberally for the place, but was absolutely last.

Santa Bella carried top-weight of 112 in a five and a half furlong handicap, and ran away from her field, finishing an easy winner by three lengths. Benham, with 108 pounds up, ran a poor race, but no doubt the weight told on him. Joe K., Marionette and Redington had a hot finish for second money, which the former secured by a head, Redington third by another head.

Claudius bit off more than he could chew when he gave Fred Gardner twenty-three pounds and tried to beat him at a mile and a half. Gardner carried ninety-two, and Adelante, the only other to accept the handicap, only had up eighty-seven. Notwithstanding his heavy impost, Claudius was a 2 to 1 favorite at post time, with Gardner quoted at 7 to 5. The owners of the Luke Blackburn colt thought so little of his chances that they put a thousand dollars on Claudius. The pace was a hot one, with Claudius laying away last, but still so close to Gardner that the running seemed in his favor. Adelante held the lead to the last turn, Gardner next, with just about a length of daylight between each. Turning into the stretch Gardner made his move, and Claudius followed closely, trying to get through on the rail. Just then Adelante cut the latter off as he fell back, and Claudius lost very valuable ground. Going around the bay colt, he made a mighty and game effort to overtake Gardner, but the latter was running well within himself and won easily by three lengths. The pace seemed to suit Gardner to a dot, and at the distance with the weights carried, he can overcome Claudius' mighty strides through the stretch. The time, 2:36, was within a quarter of a second of coast record time, held by Tycoon since 1890, and made on the Napa track.

Bell Ringer, despite the fact that he carried 167 pounds, was well liked for the two-mile hurdle race. Mestor was favorite, with Auteuil a slight second choice over Bell Ringer at post time. Arctic made the running for the first mile and a half, then J. O. C. moved up from second. Auteuil passed Arctic coming into the stretch, and he and the pace-maker made the last jump together. J. O. C. stumbled as he struck the flat, and Auteuil beat him out a length. Arctic was third. The favorite ran last nearly all the way, jumped poorly and finished fourth. Poor old Bell Ringer struggled along heroically, but his weight was too much for him.

Winning jockeys—Sloan, three wins and one second in four mounts; Chevalier, three mounts, with one win and two unplaced. Hennessy rode the winner of the hurdle race.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs. Betting—Gondola 9 to 10, Sleeping Child 2, Josie G. 10, Jefferson 12, De Groat 20 and Great Falls 100 to 1. Good start. Sleeping Child showed first, then Josie G. led to the last eighth. Gondola won from there by two lengths handily. Winner, b m, 5, by Frank Rhodes—Della. Sleeping Child (ch g, 3, by Child of the Mist—Erin-go-bragh) second, easily. Josie G. (b m, a, by Gano—Belinda) third. Time, 1:02½.

Second race—Five and one-half furlongs, selling. Betting—Miss Brummel 11 to 20, Tim Murphy 15 to 5, imp. Ivy 8, Phyllis 100 to 1. Good start. Miss Brummel showed first, and Tim Murphy was off last. Brummel led all the way to the last sixteenth, where Murphy headed her, and in a furious drive Miss Brummel outstayed him and won driving by half a length. Winner, ch f, 2, by Beau Brummel—imp. Mirage. Tim Murphy (rn g, a, by Kyrle Daly—Maggie R.) second easily; imp. Ivy (b m, 3, by imp. Castor—Veneration) third. Time, 1:06½.

Third race, one mile, selling. Betting—Miss Fletcher 1, Raindrop 3½, Monita and Ricardo 7, Brown Dick 8 and Normandie 15 to 1. Good start. Brown Dick, Miss Fletcher and Ricardo alternated as pace makers to the head of the stretch, where Fletcher took command and won easily by four lengths. Winner, ch m, 4, by Hyder Ali—Katy Fletcher. Monita (b g, 4, by St. Saviour—Nighthawk) second driving; Normandie (b m, 4, by Kyrle Daly—Extract) third. Time, 1:42.

Fourth race—Handicap, five and a half furlongs. Betting—Santa Bella 9 to 10, Redington 4, Marjorie 7, Benham 8, Marionette 15, Joe K. and Charley Boots each 20 to 1. Good start. Santa Bella led all the way, winning easily by three lengths. Winner, b f, by St. Cerf—imp. Maiden Belle. Joe K. (ch c, by Jim Brown—Proximate), second, driving; Redington (b g, by Emperor of Norfolk—Angelique), third. Time, 1:07½.

Fifth race—Handicap, one and one-half miles. Betting—Claudius 1 to 2, Fred Gardner 7 to 5, Adelante 25 to 1. Good start. Adelante showed the way to the last turn, then Gardner led to the wire, finishing easily by three lengths. Winner, ch, 4, by Luke Blackburn—Enfilade. Claudius (b c, 4, by Brutus—Swayback) second easily; Adelante (b c, 3, by El Rio Rey—Ogalena) third. Time, 2:36.

Sixth race—Handicap hurdle, two miles. Betting—Mestor 8 to 5, Auteuil 3, Bell Ringer 4, Haymarket 7, Esperance 10, Arctic 12, J. O. C. 25 and Guadaloupe 30 to 1. Good start. Arctic led for first mile and a half, with J. O. C. and Auteuil raced for the win. J. O. C. stumbled at last jump and Auteuil won easily by one length. Winner, b g, 5, by John Happy—Jess. J. O. C. (ch g, 3, by Apache—Irene) second easily; Arctic (b h, 4, by Robson—Greenleaf) third. Time, 3:45½.

SECOND DAY—MONDAY, OCTOBER 28.

Two very heavily-played favorites finished in front to-day, both winning as they pleased, and a second choice won by a short nose. The other two winners were at 3 and 4½ to 1 each. The card was a good one, with fairly large fields, and the attendance numerous enough to furnish plenty of the speculative element. There was a December chill in the air that was quite beyond the season, and forgotten overcoats and furs were very affectionately thought of.

Sloan rode two winners again, Chevalier, Hinrichs and Flynn one each.

Starter Ferguson was still a very sick man to-day, and seemed quite a sufferer. After the first race he was assisted to the club house from his carriage, and did not look able to perform his arduous duties. He was at his post for every race, however, doing his customary good work.

Torsina was an odds-on favorite for the first race, with Scimitar a hot second choice at 8 to 5. The balance of the field were at from 15 to 100 to 1. The brown filly simply ran away from her field, and was pulled up almost to a walk at the wire. Scimitar overhauled everything else in the stretch and was an easy second, Free Will third.

Wawona was an even money favorite for the second race, with Happy Day at 2 to 1. Sloan refused an even break, then heat the flag three lengths at the send-off. Wawona was never headed, and Happy Day came through on a clear rail from last to second place. Jockey Sloan was set down indefinitely by Starter Ferguson. Whatever can be said of Sloan, it must be admitted he always does his utmost to get his mount off to the best advantage. While the public does not commend any infractions of the rules in heating the flag, they would gratefully applaud the pudding-headed jockeys who spoil so many good starts if they would emulate Sloan's example so far as to try to get away on an even break.

Model was thought to be a sure, dead easy winner in the third race, a six furlong selling event, for mares and fillies, and was favorite all the time. Rose Clark went from 4 to 5 to 1, but at post time was sent down to 4½ to 1. Minnie opened at 200 to 1, and so many wanted a little of such odds that the hookies rubbed her back to 50 to 1. Rose Clark had the race won from the start. Model laid second, about two lengths away and tried to overhaul Clark in the stretch, but was a neck short at the wire. Clark won handily. Charmer came from among the tail-enders and finished third. There were no tickets cashed on Minnie.

Miss Fletcher was installed favorite for the mile and seventy yards selling race, with Malo Diablo and Mary S. on equal terms for second choice. Miss Fletcher's easy win at a mile in 1:42 with twelve pounds more weight up, was put in the balance against Malo Diablo's conceded superiority with a jockey handicap. Mary S., with Sloan up, was very popular. Mary S. was taken out in front at the quarter pole and nothing could reach her. Miss Fletcher kept her closest company to the last turn, then Malo Diablo challenged the leader, and made a drive for the wire. Sloan outrode Peoples and finished first easily by one length. Miss Buckley was third. Fletcher died away to fifth place.

Tim Murphy assayed to pick up 114 pounds and go five furlongs against Detective and Major Cook to-day, but the effort was beyond accomplishment. Murphy was a favorite over Detective, both being at odds-on prices with Major Cook at 2½ to 1. Yemen, the full brother to Himyar (sire of Domino, Correction, and many other large money-winners), was not thought to be up to a hard race, so was at 12 to 1 in the books. Leora, the broken-winded gray mare from Montana, that wears a silver tube in her throat, with Moss Terry, both at 30 to 1, completed the field. Leora exhibited her phenomenal speed, and held her wind well into the stretch. Tim Murphy was next up, and as the gray mare dropped back Murphy seemed to be beyond the reach of anything in the race. Detective and Major Cook were asked the question at about the same moment, in the last sixteenth, beat the old roan and fought it out to the wire, Detective getting his nose in front just in time to get the judgment. Murphy was three lengths away.

SUMMARIES.

First race—About six furlongs, for two-year-olds. Post betting—Torsina 9 to 10, Scimitar 8 to 5, Moran and Little Flush filly 15, El Primero 20, Mt. McGregor 30, imp. Endymion 59, Free Will 60, New Moon and Mollie Bawn 100 to 1. Good start. Torsina ran away from everything else in the race, and won by two lengths pulled up to almost a walk. Winner, hr f, by Torso—Bertie W. Scimitar (hr c, by Eothen—Wyandotte) second easily; Free Will (hr f, by Brown Fox—Trade Wind) third. Time, 1:14.

Second race—Seven furlongs, selling. Post betting—Wawona 1, Happy Day 2, Leonatus 4, Tom Clark 20, Little Flush colt 25, Allahabad 30 and Yangedene 50 to 1. Wawona beat the flag three lengths and won all the way. Winner, ch g, 4, by imp. Sir Modred—Typhoon. Happy Day (hr g, a, by Emperor—Felicity) second, driving; Yangedene (ch m, 4, by imp. Greenback—Victoria) third. Time, 1:28½.

Third race—Six furlongs, selling, for mares and fillies. Post betting—Model 11 to 10, Duchess of Milpitas 4, Rose Clark 4½, imp. Ivy 6, Mollie R. 16 Charmer 40, Minnie 50 to 1. Good start. Rose Clark was soon in front and never headed, winning by a neck easily. Winner, ch m, 4, by Prince of Norfolk—Etta W. Model (ch f, 3, by imp. Sir Modred—Gypsy), second, easily; Charmer (ch m, 5, by Wildidle—Turban), third. Time, 1:14½.

Fourth race—One mile and seventy yards, selling. Post betting—Miss Fletcher 2½, Malo Diablo and Mary S. 3, Gusie 4, Miss Buckley 12 and Josephine 100 to 1. Good start. Mary S. won all the way from the quarter pole. Winner, b m, 5, by Duke of Montrose—Ocean Wave. Malo Diablo, ch c, 3, by Joe Hooker—Oxilla, second, easily. Miss Buckley (h f, 3, by imp. Brutus—Faustus) third. Time, 1:45½.

Fifth race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Tim Murphy 8 to 5, Detective and Major Cook 2½, Yemen 12, Leora and Moss Terry 30 to 1. Good start. Leora showed the way into the stretch, Detective and Major Cook had a hot drive at the finish, with Detective in front a nose at the wire. Winner, h g, 3, by imp. Deceiver—Exile, Major Cook (b g, 3, by Bulwark—Sister to Violet) second easily. Tim Murphy (rn g, a, by imp. Kyrle Daly—Maggie R.) third. Time, 1:00½.

THIRD DAY—TUESDAY, OCTOBER 29.

The cold weather and not over interesting card no doubt had much to do with the small attendance at the track to-day. Nine hookmakers were in the ring (H. L. Jones & Co. being an absentee), and they were kept fairly busy. Only two favorites won, so their checking up of the day's work was accompanied by a mild degree of complacency.

Maiden selling races seldom hold much of interest, especially when the entries are persistent maidens, and there were two such numbers on the card. Not that the association was catering to the babes but so many aspirants for a bracket were entered for the maiden event as to necessitate a division of the field. Old Hy Dy made one of his rushes through the stretch and did a grand-stand finish, and Rose Bud and Sir Richard gave an exhibition of gameness that was thrillingly interesting, which were the only events of special interest during the day, aside from the demoralization of the favorites.

Chevalier took all the jockeys' honors by three wins out of four mounts, Flynn, Hinrichs and Riley having one winning mount each.

Fi Fi, at odds of 9 to 1 at post time, was taken out by Chevalier and showed the way from the flag-fall in the first race, and finished first by two lengths, whipped out. Ida Sauer, the even-money favorite, was very poorly ridden, but out-ran Gold Dust in the stretch and got the place.

Then Chevalier and Castanette were played for the second race, though Valiente had enough supporters to send his price down from 5 to 2 to 1. San Marcus tried to set the pace, but it was too slow for Castanette, who took command early and maintained it to the wire by a good length. San Marcus had no trouble in getting second money, as he was six lengths in front of Valiente.

Caliente, a full brother to Uncle Giles, was hot stuff in more than name in the third race. Nic Nac was a warm favorite, on his purple breeding, as he was an unknown quantity on performances. The field was an uneasy one at the post, but finally Mr. Ferguson coaxed them into an even break. Harry G. started out as though he was tired of being ranked a maiden, but the warm child of the Sierras turned him down, and won with the greatest ease. Nic Nac was pocketed once or twice, by Donahue, but got through in time to get the show.

Oakland was played for a good thing in the fourth race, at a mile, with Tar and Tartar at about 4 to 1. Silver was the pacemaker, with Tar and Tartar keeping close up all the way. Oakland was cut off at the first turn and ran easy in last place until the far turn was reached, when he was turned loose and went around this field with a rush. Silver held two lengths' advantage into the stretch, with Oakland a head in front of Tar and Tartar, Hy Dy a length further away. In the next furlong Oakland had gained a length on Silver, and Tar and Tartar and Hy Dy were a half length apart. Hy Dy was beginning to warm up, and as Oakland disposed of Silver and stretched out for home Hy Dy made a sneak on him and beat him out half a length. Tar and Tartar was a poor third.

The fifth race was for two year-olds, at five furlongs, with Monitor an even-money favorite over Cardwell, Claude Hill and Edgemount, at from 3 to 6 to 1. Encino was at the false odds of 25 to 1. Monitor did not let anything catch him after the hunting waved, and was an easy winner by one length. Encino made one of his occasional exhibitions of speed and finished a very strong second. Cardwell, Claude Hill and Edgemount were all outside the money.

Sir Richard, Morven and Rosebud were the only ones left in for a six furlong selling race, for which the gray horse was installed favorite, and Morven was the outsider. Flynn took the filly out in front from the start, and she steadily opened up a longer gap of daylight the further she went, and had three lengths to spare at the last eighth pole. Sir Richard had laid away last, but answered Hinrichs' call and set out after the sweet filly. He caught her in the last forty yards and tried to pass, but she gamely responded to a little urging and drew away three parts of a length before she reached the wire. It was a beautiful, game race, and the filly gave Sir Richard a fair and square heating, but she was forced to record time in doing it. Morven was six lengths away.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Seven furlongs, selling. Post betting—Ida Sauer 1, Gold Dust 6 to 5, Trentola 5, Fi Fi 9, Valanta 100 to 1. Good start. Fi Fi took the lead, with Gold Dust close up. At the last turn Ida Sauer passed Gold Dust and tried to drive Fi Fi out, but was short two lengths. Winner, hr g, by Hidalgo—Veracity. Ida Sauer (ch f, 3, by Joe Hooker—Addie O'Neil) second, easily. Gold Dust (h g, 4, by Oro—Gold Cup) third. Time, 1:29½.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling, maiden two-year-olds. Post betting—Castanette 1 to 2, Valiente 2, Amen 6, San Marcus 8, Rejected 20 and imp. Alien 100 to 1. Good start. Castanette won all the way, finishing easily by one length. Winner, ch f, by Duke of Norfolk—Carmen. San Marcus (ch g, by St. Carlo—Mistake) second easily. Valiente (ch c, by Jim Brown—Viola) third. Time, 1:02½.

Third race—Five furlongs, selling, maiden two-year-olds. Post betting—Nic Nac 7 to 5, Japan 2, Harry O. and Caliente 4, Canvasback 10 and Pert Child 75 to 1. Good start. Harry O. led to the stretch, where Caliente and Nic Nac came on and the former won easily by three lengths. Winner, ch c, by El Rio Rey—Hattie Humphrey. Nic Nac (ch f, by Take Notice—Picnic), second, driving; Harry O. (hr g, by imp. Trade Wind—Dolly S.), third. Time, 1:02½.

Fourth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Oakland 4 to 5, Tar and Tartar 16 to 5, Hy Dy 4, Silver 9, Trix 20, Svengali 30 to 1. Good start. Silver led to the last eighth. Oakland and Hy Dy had a hard drive to the wire, with the latter half a length to the good. Winner, hr g, a, by Hyder Ali—Addie Warren. Oakland (h g, 5, by John A.—Alameda), second, easily; Tar and Tartar (hr g, 5, by Hindoo—Bramhaletta), third. Time, 1:41½.

Fifth race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Monitor 1, Cardwell 3, Claude Hill 4, Edgemount 6, Encino 25, La France 75, Suffrage and Mollie Bawn 100 to 1. Good start. Monitor led all the way, winning easily by one length. Winner, ch g, by imp. Sir Modred—Visalia. Encino (ch c, by imp. Brutus—May D.) second easily; Suffrage (gr f, by imp. Suwarrow) third. Time, 1:00½.

Sixth race. Six furlongs, selling. Post betting—Sir Richard 7 to 10, Rosebud 7 to 5, Morven 8 to 1. Good start. Rosebud led all the way and won in a hard drive by three parts of a length. Winner, ch f, 3, by Tyrant—Rosemary. Sir Richard (gr h, 5, by Stratford or imp. Uhlan—Victress) second easily; Morven (h g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Lurline) third. Time, 1:13.

FOURTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30.

Two-thirds of the favorites were snowed under this frigid afternoon, while the hookies smiled and looked pleasant. Lady Gray, a despised 50 to 1 shot among a poor lot of platers, romped in a winner, from flag-fall to finish. Moss Terry and Flirtilla were the winning favorites, though Red Bird looked dangerous to the first named till he got cut off too close to home to go out and around his field. Then Gold Bug, 2½ to 1, Little Cripple, 7 to 5, and Ransom, 4½ to 1, followed in regular order in the pleasing task of upsetting the talented gentlemen.

The card to-day was above the good average, with a stake race at a mile and a quarter on for disposal. It was a foregone conclusion as to the winner, with but a slight doubt as to the place horse of the three starters, so there was not a great deal of interest manifest in the event. Two welter weights at five and a half furlongs, a maiden race at five, and a selling affair at a mile were good guessing events and kept up a lively interest all day, with a good handicap at a mile and seventy yards, completing the programme.

Starter Ferguson is gaining in strength and looking much better than he did on Monday.

The weather was pleasant most of the afternoon, but quite cool towards evening, and the attendance showed an improvement over yesterday.

Ten maidens, of varying age, size and color, faced the starter in the first event, at five furlongs, all willing to be heralded among the winning selling platers. San Marcus was favorite on his performance of yesterday, but there was said to be innumerable good things among the lot. Judge Tam was played from 30 down to 8 to 1, and Joe Hill was at the surprising odds of 2 to 1. But the winner turned up in Lady Gray, a 50 to 1 shot, that Rowan was fortunate in getting off well, and he kept her moving. San Marcus ran another good race to day—the best of the bunch in the first scramble—but got no better than second money. Carina was a good third.

Moss Terry was a warm favorite for the second race at five and a half furlongs, with Oregon Eclipse a well-backed second choice. Moss Terry showed first, then Perhaps set the pace to the stretch, with Terry always within striking distance. Perhaps had to give way on the turn to Terry, who was a head in front coming into the straight. Red Bird tried to get through on the rail, but was cut off and so lost the race. Miss Terry won easily by one length, Miss Pollard second, half a length in front of Oregon Eclipse.

The third event was the Vestal Stakes, for three year-old fillies, with Flirtilla a prohibitive favorite at 4 to 1. Umma was at 4 and Bravura 12 to 1. Umma was quite heavily played for the place. The trio was sent away at the first break, and they ran the first mile at a very slow pace. Flirtilla led by a neck most of the way, under a pull, Umma staying with her, and Bravura from two to three lengths away. As the mile was negotiated Flirtilla was sent along and she at once gained on Umma so easily as to show she was safe. Then she was eased up again and with four lengths of daylight between her and the Cyrus filly crossed under the wire. Umma was very tired but was whipped in a fair second by three parts of a length. The time was slow—2:13. The value of the stake to the winner was about $850.

Billy McCloskey was favorite over Gold Bug for the fourth race, at five and a half furlongs, light welter weights. Three Forks was well thought of and received warm support for the place. Rey Alta led to the stretch, where he was caught and had to give up. Gold Bug and Three Forks then fought it out to the wire, with Gold Bug a short head in front at the finish. Crawford was a poor third.

The next race was a handicap at one mile and seventy yards, with McLight (110), Little Cripple (106) and Charmer (88) the acceptances. McLight was an even-money favorite most of the time, with Little Cripple at 7 to 5 and Charmer 5 to 1. The mare led from two to four lengths to the far turn, with McLight in second place. Then Chevalier let out a couple of wraps on the Cripple and he moved up in front of McLight, but Charmer still led at the head of the stretch. Cripple kept coming, however, and at the last eighth he had passed the mare by half a length. From there on it was an easy win in a gallop for the brown colt, while Charmer and McLight argued it out for the place. McLight was just a neck short of it.

Eight average selling platers were in for the last race at a mile. Elmer F. was a slight favorite over Agitato, at 8 and 9 to 5, while Ransom, who proved an easy winner, was at 4½ to 1. Hegot away almost last and had not improved his position much before the stretch was reached. Eddie Jones was at work early on his mount and kept persistently at it, with the result that he finished two lengths in front of Elmer F., with Agitato third, three lengths away. Faro looking well, and said to be at his very best, showed in front most of the journey, but was beaten in the stretch. Miss Fletcher ran a most disappointing race. The odds against her (15 to 1) seemed to be a false price, no doubt on account of the jockey up.

SUMMARIES

First race—Five furlongs, selling, for maidens. Post Betting—San Marcus 3 to 5, Joe Hill 2, Carina 3½, Judge Tam 8, Lochinvar 9, Artemus 10, Triumph 20, Jim Corbett and Lady Gray 50, Pert Child 100 to 1. Fair start. Lady Gray got away first and won all the way, finishing easily by three lengths. Winner, gr f, 3, by imp. Suwarrow—Muta. San Marcus (ch g, 2, by St. Carlo—Mistake), second, driving; Carina (ch f, 3, by Duke of Norfolk—Elaine) third. Time, 1:02½.

Second race—Five and a half furlongs, selling, light-welter weights. Post betting—Moss Terry 2½, Oregon Eclipse 3½, Red Bird 4, Myron 4½, Miss Pollard 8, Sweet Brier 20, Perhaps 40 to 1. Good start. Perhaps led to the stretch, then Moss Terry came on and won easily. Red Bird looked dangerous, but was cut off in the last eighth. Winner, ch g, a, by Powhattan—Zuma. Miss Pollard (hr f, by imp. Idaliun—by imp. Kyrle Daly), second, driving; Oregon

Eclipse (ch g, a, by Joe Hooker—Lulu Riggs), third. Time, 1:09.

Third race—The Vestal Stakes for three-year-old fillies, one and one quarter miles. Post betting—Flirtilla 1 to 4, Umma 4, Bravura 12 to 1. Good start. Flirtilla led all the way and won easily by four lengths. Winner, b f, by Peel—Faustine. Umma (h f, by imp. Cyrus—Riglin) second driving; Bravura (b f, by Wildidle—Why Not) third. Time, 2:13.

Fourth race—Five and a half furlongs, light weights. Post betting—Billy McCloskey 9 to 5, Gold Bug 11 to 5, Three Forks 5, Crawford 6, Rey Alta 12, imp. Endymion 15, Joe Cotton 20 to 1. Good start. Rey Alta led into the stretch, then Gold Bug and Three Forks fought it out to the wire. Gold Bug won by a short head. Winner, ch g, a, by Pittsburgh—Mollie S. Three Forks (h g, 4, by Spokane—Trifle) second easily; Crawford (ch g, 5, by Apache—Emma Longfield) third. Time, 1:08.

Fifth race—One mile, seventy yards. Post betting—McLight 9 to 10, Little Cripple 8 to 5, Charmer 6. Good start. Charmer set a slow pace to the far turn, then Little Cripple came on and won in a gallop. Winner, hr g, 4, by imp. Pirate of Penzance—Lady Stanhope. Charmer (ch m, 5, by Wildidle—Turhan) second driving; McLight (ch h, 4, by Macduff—Longlight) third. Time, 1:45.

Sixth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Agitato 9 to 5, Elmer F. 8 to 5, Ransom 4½, Miss Fletcher and Norman die 15, Faro 25, Adelante 30, Barcardine 150 to 1. Good start. Faro led to the stretch, then Elmer F. took up the running, but Ransom caught him at the drawgate and beat him out easily by two lengths. Winner, ch g, 3, by Algerine—Nellie Ransom. Elmer F. (blk g, 4, by Portland—Fantasia) second easily; Agitato (hr g, 4, by imp. Cyrus—Frolic) third. Time, 1:42.

FIFTH DAY—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31.

Of the three favorites that were in the right place to day, they were so distributed as to rescue the talent from a disastrous rout. Encino started the ball of had fortune rolling, with a win of 3 to 1 over a hot favorite, then Sleeping Child, a from 30 to 40 to 1, romped in. Cash Sloan and Sir Richard were then looked to to retrieve the dwindling bank rolls, but Morven denied them, and made every post a winning one after he had been suffered to go out at odds of 12 to 1. Leonville justified the confidence of his talented backers in the last race and brought back the ducats and smiles.

Vivace and Mt. Roy in the first race were on equal terms a post time at 5 to 2, the former having been supported most liberally of the two. Mt. Roy led from early in the game to the forty-yard pole, where Vivace, with the race well in hand, crossed to the rail in front of him. Vivace won by a length, Mt. Roy four lengths in front of Mosby. Donnelly, rider of Mt. Roy, claimed a foul, but the judges let the race stand as it was finished. Mt. Roy was undoubtedly beaten before the interference, the result of the race not affected in any way, and it was purely unintentional.

Abi P. was installed favorite over Kathleen for the second race, at 4 to 5, the latter at 2½ to 1. Abi P. showed first, then Kathleen took command and held it up to the last 100 yards, when Abi P. drew away hands down and won by a half length Kathleen under whip. Harry Lewis was third. Abi P. was entered to be sold at $200. J. J. Case, owner of Kathleen, run her up $300, but she was retained by her owner at $505.

Mr. Ferguson struck a gang of tatars in the third race, with eight two year-olds at the post. Corriente ran away three times with H. Brown, the Montana huckleberry, and then the judges signalled to start without her. The start was further delayed by several false breaks. The field was at the post over half an hour. The final start was a good one. Claude Hill led by three lengths at the half, but Encino came into the stretch a head in front of his field. They were all closely hunched coming down the stretch, with Zeta and Little Flush filly fighting to come through. Encino lasted out by a head, Claude Hill was a length and a half in front of Little Flush filly, who beat Zeta half a length. Billy McCloskey got away last, entered the stretch last and finished well up to the money. Little J. Brown, the son of Trainer Brown, rode Little Flush filly, and the mite's ride was a very encouraging one.

Fell, a Montana boy, landed Sleeping Child, a 30 to 1 shot, an easy winner in the fourth race at a mile in 1:41½, and made a most creditable ride. It was his first appearance here, and that fact no doubt accounted partly for the long odds against his mount. Favory, the class of the field, was a prohibitive favorite at 7 to 10, with Sooladain, the second choice, not better than 3 to 1. Favory was taken out in front at once after flag fall and seemed to hold the race well in hand, but at the last turn Sleeping Child was moved up from third place, and took command and could not be reached thereafter, finishing an easy winner by two lengths. Favory and Sooladain were second and third, three lengths between them.

Another surprise was sprung on the speculators in the fifth race, almost before they had overcome that caused by Sleeping Child's unexpected win. It was a four horse race, at six and a half furlongs, with Sir Richard and Detective about an even chance, according to the handicappers, with Morven an outsider, and Schnitz not in it at any stage of the game. They were favored in the betting as named, Richard an odds-on favorite at 10 to 7, Detective 7 to 5, and Morven 12 to 15 to 1. The story of the race is an easy one to relate. Morven started for the wire as soon as the flag fell and kept going till he got there, which he accomplished in 1:20 flat. Sir Richard tried to get him in the stretch, and Detective tried to get Sir Richard, but both failed, and finished behind Morven as named. Eddie Jones can ride like a master when he is out in front, and Morven never ran such a race in his life before.

The last race was at a mile, selling, with six starters, and Leonville, the favorite, got away first and stayed there, winning easily. Navy Blue heat imp. Ivy for the place by a length. Arundel had been warmly supported, but ran a disappointing race.

The winning jockeys to-day were Shaw, T. Smith, M. Fell, Tod Sloan and Eddie Jones, the latter having two wins to his credit.

The day was a beautiful one and the sport as good as any one would wish to see, barring the tedious delays at the post in two races.

SUMMARIES.

First race—About six furlongs. Post betting—Vivace and Mt. Roy 5 to 2, Mosby and imp. Lady Splendor 9 to 2, Gold Dust 7, Drucilla 12, Kai Moi 20, Huguenot and Carrie Shaw 40 to 1. Mt. Roy led to the last eighth, when Vivace caught him and won by a length. Winner, ch m, 4, by Flood—imp. Amelia. Mt. Roy (h g, 4, by Faustus—Mount City Belle) second easily; Mosby (ch, a, by Wildidle—Mozelle) third. Time, 1:13.

Second race. Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Abi P. 4 to 5, Kathleen 2, Harry Lewis 9, Raphael 10, De Groat and King Sam 30, R. H. 40, and Solitario 100 to 1. Good start. Kathleen led almost to the wire, but Abi P. overhauled her and won by half a length easily. Winner, ch m, 6, by Three Cheers—Dairy Maid. Kathleen (hik m, a, by Little Alp—unknown) second easily; Harry Lewis (ch g, 4, by Versailles—Cousin Kate) third. Time, 1:01½.

Third race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Claude Hill 1, Zeta 2½, Encino 4, Billy McCloskey 8. Edgemount and Corriente 20, City Girl 30 and Little Flush filly 100 to 1. Good start. Claude Hill led to the turn, then Encino came and won driving by a head. Winner, ch c, by imp. Brutus—May D. Claude Hill (h g, by imp. Deceiver—Useful), second, driving; Little Flush filly (ch f, by Torso—Little Flush), third. Time, 1:01.

Fourth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Favory 7 to 10, Sooladain 3, Silver 5, Arctic 20, Nellie G. and Sleeping Child 30 and Bravura 40 to 1. Good start. Favory showed the way to the turn, when Sleeping Child took the lead and won easily by two lengths. Winner, ch g, 3, by Child of the Mist—Erin-go-bragh. Favory (ch c, 3, by John A.—Lowena R.), second, easily; Sooladain (hr g, 3, by imp. Greenback—Half Sister), third. Time, 1:41½.

Fifth race. Six and one-half furlongs, selling. Post betting—Sir Richard 7 to 10, Detective 3 to 2, Morven 12 to 1, and Schnitz 150 to 1. Good start. Morven led all the way and won easily by one length. Winner, b g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Lurline. Sir Richard (gr h, 5, by Stratford or imp. Uhlan—Victress) second driving. Detective (h g, 3, by imp. Deceiver—Exile) third. Time, 1:20.

Sixth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Leonville 3 to 2, Navy Blue and Arundel 11 to 5, imp. Ivy 10, Nervoso and Brown Dick each 25 to 1. Good start. Leonville led all the way and won easily. Winner, hr g, 4, by Leonatus—Villette. Navy Blue (h g, 3, by Blue Wing—Bay Betty) second, easily. Imp. Ivy (b m, 3, by Castor—imp. Veneration), third. Time, 1:42½.

More Cows Needed.

Milk Inspector Dockery, in an interview with a reporter of one of our leading newspapers, made the following startling announcement, and as the good work he is doing is going to be beneficial to the cattle industry as well as to the public welfare, we take pleasure in publishing the facts as he has given them:

"I have prepared a few figures, which will convey some idea of the extravagant way adulteration was carried on heretofore this office was created. There are about 90,000 gallons of milk used in San Francisco daily. During my first week in office all samples taken showed from thirty to forty per cent water adulteration. These samples, mind you, were taken from all parts of the City—from along the water front, out Mission and San Bruno roads and downtown restaurants.

"Taking the average at 30 per cent, it shows that these 90,000 gallons of milk contained no less than 27,000 gallons of water, to say nothing of preservative, foreign fats and other adulterants. It is a mere matter of arithmetic for one to determine just how much San Franciscans were paying daily for the water in their milk.

"I am not surprised that this inspection has brought about an increased demand for milk cows. This 27,000 gallons of water must be supplied in some way, and it can only be done legally by a pure article of milk. Presuming that each cow will give an average of three gallons of milk daily, it means that 9,000 milk-givers must be bought by the dairymen to take the place of the 27,000 gallons of water. I appreciate the fact that these are startling figures, but they are none the less true for all that."

JOHN GOLDSMITH officiated as starting judge at Goshen, N. Y., last week, besides driving Stamboul an exhibition brush, working for six hours without fatigue. There was one feature of Goldsmith's maiden effort with the starter's flag which is worthy of note, inasmuch as he is an experienced driver, who knows what constitutes a good start. He was not very particular about getting his horses all in an exact line before giving the word, and he never let them score long enough for a nervous animal to lose his temper and his chance. If they were reasonably well hunched and all on their stride Goldsmith nearly always sent them off.

RICHARD BROWN has been engaged to act as starter for the meeting of the Country Club at Bakersfield, which opens on November 5th and continues for three days. Mr. Brown's work with the flag throughout the circuit has been uniformly successful, and has given such satisfaction that several associations have already spoken for his services for next year.

WE are pleased to see that Dr. G. W. Stimpson, the well known veterinary surgeon who for years has been located at Oakland, is now a resident of this city. He has opened an office at the Golden Gate Livery Stable, 24 Golden Gate Avenue, and will no doubt soon build up a most lucrative practice.

IMP. IVY was very poorly ridden Thursday. The little mare has a lot of speed, but has been unfortunate in the matter of jockeys, either in quality or judgment, at every start.

SOOLADAIN was sent in a mile race Thursday for the first time and made a very creditable showing, finishing third to Sleeping Child and Favory, in 1:41½.

ABI P. won hands down from Kathleen Thursday, after the black mare had led her to the wire. Then Owner Case hid the winner up $300.

SIR RICHARD could not catch Morven Thursday. Six and a half furlongs is a little too far for the gray, especially with 110 pounds.

BILLY McCLOSKEY came into the stretch last, and was coming fast at the finish. A half-furlong further would suit him better.

THE BREEDERS MEETING.

Roan Wilkes was spotted as a sure winner for the pace. He was credited with the ability to cover miles with the speed of an Arizona coyote, and everybody caught the fever and were angry at the poolseller because he favored the owner in the distribution of tickets. Those who had the temerity to play the short end are weighted with coin of the realm to-night for every five-dollar piece they put up yielded them $25 of the talent's money.

Roan Wilkes was on the outside in the first heat, and getting hemmed in on the first turn he fell behind, while Javelin on the pole was skimming away in front as though he was going for the doctor. Sullivan gave chase to Javelin and Hal Corbett as he rounded into the hackstretch, and though they were almost a block away he overhauled them shortly after they were entering the far turn. He was two lengths in the lead as the third quarter was reached in 1:41½, and the talent breathed easily. They felt the palsy, however, when Javelin set sail after the roan. The mare was feeling on edge and little by little she gained on him and caught him within ten yards of the wire. The next quarter was paced at a 2:08 clip. Time for the mile 2:13½.

In the next heat the roan led to the far turn, where Javelin caught him and, in a hot brush down the straight, beat him handily in 2:14½.

The roan was now a beaten horse, and Javelin led all the way, winning under a pull in 2:17½.

The Horse Show.

Interest in the coming Horse Show is increasing. The date for the closing of entries, Saturday, November 9th, is near at hand, and renewed activity is noticeable among owners and drivers who intend to prepare their horses for this great exhibition. President H. S. Crocker left for New York and Philadelphia last week on business connected with it, and will leave nothing undone to make this show up to date in every particular.

A number of Eastern men have signified their intention of coming here and bringing novelties that will be attractive and pleasing.

The benefits to accrue to the horse interests of this Coast by this exhibition at this time cannot be overestimated. While the horse market is just recovering from the greatest depression that ever affected an industry in this country, the breeders and owners who have not grown disheartened will look with pleasure upon the revival of interest in the handsome, bloodlike horses that will soon be led into the ring for competition.

Every choice breed of horses will be represented and the great improvements made in breeding, conditioning and training will be shown; the latest styles of vehicles will be drawn by some of these animals harnessed with the very latest patterns of harnesses. Other horses will be led around by the grooms and "put through their paces." Famous kings and queens of the running turf, champions in the light harness world, educated saddlers, high stepping cobs and hackneys, draft horses and Shetland ponies will be shown single and in families.

The roadster class will be well represented, and as great care will be exercised in the selection of judges, exhibitors need have no fear of favoritism being shown. Every horse will be judged according to his merits irrespective of who the owner is. The man of humble means who has a fine looking, well-bred colt, filly or aged horse has as good a chance of winning a portion of the $20,000 offered in premiums as the richest horse owner in the land. Last year there were only two classes of awards, first and second, but a third class has been provided this season. This innovation will be appreciated by all exhibitors. Assistant Secretary Horr sent the following notice to this office and as it is the final one for exhibitors it should be read carefully and its instructions heeded for every one engaged in the horse business from the boy with a rub cloth to the owner of immense stock farms, is interested in this great show and are anticipating its success in every particular.

"At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Horse Show Association held on the 24th inst., it was formally resolved that the date fixed for the closing of entries for the coming show should be strictly adhered to. It is well, therefore, that intending exhibitors should bear in mind that the 9th of November is the last day for entries to be made with the Secretary."

TUESDAY'S programme began with The Shorts, for which handicap event, out of forty-five colored on the card eighteen faced the starting barrier. Mention of the barrier reminds me that Gray's machine has done splendid service at Randwick. Up to date there has never been a hitch on the A. J. C. track with the barrier, which, in the hands of Mr. Tom Watson, has been somewhat of a boon and a blessing to everyone concerned in racing. Our starts have been almost perfection, and I am confident better starting than we have had at Randwick during the last twelve months has never been seen in any part of the world.—Sydney Referee.

GEO. A. CHARTER, Driving Park Hotel, Binghamton, N. Y., writes Mr. Young: You will have to send me one more bottle "Absorbine." I think one more will do the work; the puffs on one leg have disappeared and the other is going fast. There is nothing to equal it.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

THE C. J. C. TROTTER MEETING.—Friday next is the date set for the opening of the big trotting meeting. That opening will inaugurate an era in harness racing which is likely to prove of vast benefit to all connected with that branch of sport, and I can safely assert that if it receives the cordial support of those who are the most interested, success is guaranteed.

In the first place owners of horses which are yet eligible to start should take part in the contests if even they are under the impression that there is small chances of obtaining any part of the prizes. Winners alone will have to pay more than present indebtedness, and the smallest return, "fourth money," will liquidate the whole investment.

Very frequently the horse which has been victorious in a series of races "goes back" unexpectedly, and it may be that between his last victory and subsequent appearance several seconds will be lacking to bring him back to his old form.

Thus Larabee at Cleveland, by trotting in 2:12, and, perhaps, a fraction—I am writing from memory—made a poor showing at Lexington, and the winner of the Futurity, with seventeen thousand dollars to reward the effort, could not secure a heat in his next race. There may be less of the "glorious uncertainty" in that form of racing in which vehicles are a feature than there is in the legitimate, though as has been exemplified by the greatest pacers the tracks have shown, it is quite an element. Joe Patchen heats Robert J. Gentry heats Patchen, Robert J. turns the scale, when, presto! Frank Agan is a good second to Robert J. at Lexington, Gentry and Patchen behind him; at Louisville the three are overwhelmed, and now if Star Pointer should enter the lists his shield might be emblazoned with the trophies wrested from the "big four."

I am somewhat tinctured with a belief that "gameness" is more frequently an inheritance of horses than it is of their owners, and the fear of getting beat is such a huge bugaboo that knees shake and cheeks blanch when the spectre is at the best a shadow. I do not mean to be understood as advising starting horses in races when so far inferior that the chances of having the red emblem of disgrace flaunted in their faces are at least "odds on," the flag of crimson hue dropping in front. But with a fair assurance of being inside at the critical moment there is every encouragement to take a hand.

I sincerely hope that all which are eligible to the long-distance races will face the starter. I may be too enthusiastic over this resumption of long-distance racing, which has been so liberally encouraged by the California Jockey Club, and yet there seems to be very good reasons for even more elation than I have yet expressed in print.

Eastern turf journals, many of them at least, are advocating the shortening of harness races, and the most urgent pleas for reform in this particular line are based on long-drawn-out races. The delay occasioned by scoring and broken heats is what the public so strongly reprobates, and when all races are two in three one of these difficulties will be obviated and in long-distance races both. "Scoring" is simplified to a wonderful degree when three or four circuits of a mile track is the length of the course.

If all the horses named in the stakes start I have no hesitation in predicting an attendance that will plainly show the popularity of that kind of contests. And that popularity will be largely increased when they become a general feature in harness racing.

It has always appeared singular to me that owners were so loath to engage in them, though the explanation is not difficult, ignorance, the impression being that disastrous results would follow.

One of the greatest campaigners this year is Nightingale, and she "holds the record" for two and three miles.

The Savior of harness racing will be the "dollars at the gate." To secure these the spectacle presented must be such as will attract those who are not devotees of the track. The great body of the people must be interested, and with "snapper" sport, recreation clothed in a garb which will entice every one who has a passing fancy in that direction, will be a powerful magnet.

This support could not be obtained by restricting a programme to one kind of racing, though between the 3 in 5, with all its unsatisfactory addenda and long-distance events the balance would be largely in favor of the last named.

Three of the horses engaged in the Union Stake, heats of three miles, are now at work on the Oakland track, and the same number which are named in the California Jockey Club Stake, heats of four miles. All of them seem to be doing well. Bishop Hero is the only tried horse at these distances so that outside of him the element of uncertainty is quite pronounced.

Our Dick and Lady O. make up the trio in the longer distance, San Jose and Estelle Wilkes in the heats of three miles, Bishop Hero being named in both.

As the Combination Stake will be decided on Saturday, November 3rd, and the C. J. C. on the 9th this will give the game old roan a chance to recover, though from his performance at three miles and five miles two years ago he does not require codoling, ready and willing for such contests whenever they come.

With everything to gain and not much additional outlay imposed, owners should lend an active and hearty support to the coming meeting. From all parts of the State there ought to be representatives to further the interests in which they are so deeply interested, and this large body of citizens, influential as well as numerous, can exert a potent force in encouraging attendance. Proprietors of livery stables in San Francisco, Oakland, in fact those engaged in that business in every part of the State, can well afford to do all in their power to increase the assemblage on the Bay District track during the meeting.

A little talk, a few well directed remarks will induce people to attend who had given little thought to the subject, and if the large array of men, who should be advocates, do what is well within their power to accomplish, dollars at the gate will be multiplied and the continued support of the California Jockey Club to trotting interests secured.

THE COMING SALES.—Close at hand the sales of thoroughbreds by Killip & Co. Tuesday next the opening, and that by the brilliant light which electricity supplies. There is no chance of being accused of euphony when it is claimed that never before, on this Coast, has such a collection of yearlings been offered at auction. More than that can be said with all due regard to truth, as, for the number catalogued, it is doubtful if any of the sales of 1895 can outrank those of next week in point of good breeding, high form and such growth as the soil and climate of this end of the great and glorious country ensure. By "tried" sires Joe Hooker, El Rio Rey, Bramble, Flambeau, imp. Midlothian, Flood, Apache, imp. Cyrus, et. al., while those by the untried are just as certain to turn out racehorses as anything of the future can be foretold.

I have contended for many years that in breeding racehorses there must be progression, and with all the predictions and favoritisms, that us old fellows have for the days "of our hearts in their Spring," in respect to the quality of racing stock every generation is an improvement over that which preceded. Therefore, the inference that sires which are now in that division which is without performing progeny, are very likely to be of great prominence when the test has been made, is based on solid ground, especially when breeding, form and performances are of a high class.

With all due consideration for such highly-tried sires as Joe Hooker, Midlothian, imp. Cyrus, Flood and Flambeau, and the others which stand so well in the calendars, I would take the risk of an El Rio Rey or a Racine of making a successful battle for the championship. Ready to grant that the safest rule is to adhere to the proved strains, when there there is such a good chance to secure a top-sawyer, and the probability so exceedingly tempting, that with the difference in price, which is likely to prevail, the choice would be fixed. Of course the dams would take a prominent part in the controversy, and in the three catalogues of the coming sales there are so many matrons of note, and others which are sure to be in the same category, that the puzzle becomes more noticeable, and with only printed matter to form an opinion upon, I must admit that the solution is extremely perplexing.

Then "form" plays an important part in fixing values. That word is somewhat of a puzzle to those who are not au fait in horse phraseology. The meaning in this connection, the shape of the animals, though that does not quite cover it. Racing form has definite markings, some of which are easily explained as points which are approved by leading experts; then there is a feature not so easily limned. Expression, not of the eye alone, nor yet a combination of visual and auricular signs, but a sort of general emanation, evidences of that which gives speed a proper value, the spirit which prompts great deeds even when muscles relax, reeling brain, lungs overworked, the heart, too, on the point of collapse.

Heart has been the word in most common use to express that qualification, though that is only a part of the machinery, the grand source of that power which keeps the machinery in motion, the nerves. Therefore "nervy" is not inappropriate when a game race horse has to be equipped with a fitting sobriquet.

It may be only a vague impression, and yet there is something in the first glance at a colt which gives a forcible idea whether that nerve force is potent or not. Careful and oftentimes repeated examinations may be necessary to award superiority to one when both are of a high standard, form to be the test, though "odds" force is too subtle to be brought into such a matter of fact comparison.

I have been led into this dissertation, apparently not pertaining to the question of the coming sales, from thinking over the chances that will be offered to secure prospective racehorses. The wealthy purchaser can afford to pay large prices for the get of tried stallions from mares which have proved their claims to a place in the great broodmare list, offspring from progenitors that have demonstrated their "potency" are well worth large prices, and still it is oftentimes the case that the cheap colt proves the better racehorse.

John M. Clay was offered and refused seventeen thousand dollars for Gilroy, and he sold Revolver for as many hundreds.

The two colts met in a race and the low-priced one was victorious, and their breeder was quite indignant over the defeat of his favorite.

Were the auction sales of the past ten years consulted, together with the racing calendars, and it would be discovered that quite a number of those which brought comparatively small prices proved big winners.

There are sixty-three yearlings to be sold. From Palo Alto twenty-four, Rancho del Sierras twenty-three, and Antrim Stock Farm sixteen. There is quite a range for selection in that many, and if the first choice of the intending purchaser goes beyond his expectations he can fall back on others. Then the colts will be here in time to give the fullest opportunity for inspection before the days of sale. I learn that the Rancho del Sierras consignment will be in San Francisco Saturday, November 2d, so that there will be four days to make examinations. And a very good plan it is to become thoroughly posted on "looks" and breeding before the auctioneer commences.

The sale catalogues are very full of information respecting "the families," and with these for guide books, and the corresponding numbers on the colts there is every chance for an intimate acquaintance with the aristocratic youngsters. The Palo Alto sale is billed for Tuesday, November 5th, Rancho del Sierras Wednesday, November 6th, and Antrim Stock Farm Thursday, November 7th. The place of sale corner of Van Ness Avenue and Market street. Catalogues can be obtained at this office, or at Killip & Co., 30 Montgomery street.

BEUZETTA, PRINCESS AND QUEEN.—Time records being the gauge Beuzetta will not take as high rank as other feminine notables of the track. She is surely entitled, however, to the palm for "actual contests" in this season of 1895. Her races at Cleveland and Fleetwood demonstrate a union of speed and endurance which can be called marvelous for a filly of four years old. She is now in snug quarters at the Oakland Trotting Park, and the day after her arrival I took a snapshot observation of her in the box. Although of medium size, a little, perhaps, below the average of fillies of her age, her form is of a very high type. In color a handsome shade of chestnut, with a narrow stripe of white in the face. Her head may be a trifle large for beauty; is well-shaped, and her countenance indicates docility and resolution as plainly as can be shown by that feature. Good limbs, especially those which are the most active in propulsion at a trotting gait; shoulder and middle piece also good; loin and quarters powerful. But as I shall make a closer and more critical examination of her ere long, I will not expatiate on her points at present.

The journey has evidently been fortunate, inasmuch as there is not the least swelling of the limbs, not a mark or roughing of her glossy coat, the thousands of miles she has traveled on a railway car leaving no traces of ill effects from the long trip.

All of the horses which accompanied her appear to have been equally fortunate, Miss Rita, the champion pacer of her age for the year, looking remarkably well. That the wintering in California will be beneficial to these celebrities is beyond reasonable doubts, Miss Rita and the members of the Village Farm stable prove that good results followed that of last winter, and there has been like returns in previous years.

HURRAH FOR OUR SIDE.—So far as I have learned from printed accounts, 2:41 1-5 is the fastest race record for a trotting yearling this season and 1:15 the fastest half for a pacer of the same age. Gratifying in the whole and in the detail. Pleased that the glory rests on this side of the continent, if even the rays are not so bright as in former years; more so that the honor belongs to a grandson and granddaughter of Anteros.

At the Rohnerville Fair Brice McNeil, by Dudley, his dam by Poscora Hayward, won the yearling stakes for trotters, heating a filly by Ira in 2:41 1-5, and in a mixed stake for yearlings, trotters and pacers, heats of half a mile, Trilhy, pacer, by Dudley, heat three competitors, one pacer and two trotters, in 1:18, :15.

From the published accounts Fanny Foley, by Redwood, a son of Anteeo, is a phenomenal yearling, and if the reports are true that she has trotted a half mile in 1:06 3/4 to go in the teens is within her reach. A granddaughter of Anteeo is the fastest yearling that has been on the Oakland track this season, a quarter in 37 seconds she is said to have shown. Good indications that Columbine will have other credits than being in the "table of great broodmares."

WORK COMMENCED.—A large force of men are now engaged in preparing to lay the foundation for the grand stand on the Oakland Trotting Park, and should the favorable weather continue it will not be long till that important part of the work is finished.

From the manner in which the foundation is planned, it is evident that the building will be of the most substantial subscription, not only ornate, but also constructed with a view to permanency.

CREDIT TO BOTH SIDES.—Should any one claim that the trotting strains in great harness horses were not to be credited with any of the speedy characteristics displayed by such animals, the absurdity of the plea would be evident.

On the other side, the argument that near crosses of thoroughbred are not to be counted is just as absurd, though that is a favorite contention of those who decry the mixture.

That both parents influence the offspring is admitted by eminent biologists; that more remote ancestry has a potent effect in determining the qualities is also conceded, and though "reversion" may give a decided resemblance to a far-away progenitor it does not follow that a part the blood is worthy of all the credit.

The foundation of my belief in the "advantages of racing blood in fast trotters" is that the form of the highest type of thoroughbreds is best adapted for rapid locomotion at any gait, and hence the closest approximation of that form, combined with adaptability to require fast trotting action, gives the best results.

The greater amount of the blood, even "allopathic doses" of it, as my Eastern friend says, will give greater assurance of securing the form, and, when connected with readiness to acquire the fast trotting step, a better animal for track purposes than one side of the house would supply.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

The Guy Wilkes Twenty List.

Guy Wilkes is the leading California sire of 1895. He has had nine additions to his list of thirty-six trotters, and the only pacer representing him, Seymour Wilkes, lowered his record to 2:08 1/2 at Santa Anita last Saturday. The gameness so characteristic of this family has been demonstrated by the youngsters Fred Moody and Fred Kohl on the Eastern circuit, and with another year's good care these two will be closer to the two-minute mark than any of the other sons of this great son of Geo. Wilkes.

The long string of trotters upon which so much was depended by the owner, Wm. Corbitt, and the well-known trainer and driver, John Dickerson, became unfitted for the work of the Eastern campaign by accidents and sickness, and the disappointment over the losses incurred by their non-appearance, while severe on the owner, was also felt by every admirer of the San Mateo Stock Farm trotters here. The 2:20 list of Guy Wilkes will increase yearly, and judging by the excellent class of colts and fillies now on the farm, we have no hesitancy in saying there never was a more uniform or healthier lot there, and if prices were as high as they were a few years ago, a consignment of these would bring higher prices than those by any other living stallion. The list of those that are in 2:19 or better is a long one and the four pacers out of the five that he sired have records below 2:15:

Lesla Wilkes	2:09
Muta Wilkes	2:11
Rupee (p)	2:11
Alannah (p) (4)	2:11 1/2
Hazel Wilkes	2:11 1/2
Regal Wilkes	2:11 3/4
Mary Best	2:12 1/2
Fred Kohl	2:12 1/2
Venita Wilkes	2:13
Siva	2:13
Chris Smith (p)	2:14 1/2
Una Wilkes	2:15
Raven Wilkes	2:15 1/2
Lillian Wilkes	2:17 1/2
Sable Wilkes	2:18
Fred S. Moody	2:18
Vida Wilkes	2:18 1/2
A. L. Kempland	2:18 1/2
Burlingame	2:18 1/4
Nutwood Wilkes	2:19
Ravenscroft	2:19

Fred Kohl, 2:12 1/2, the fastest green three-year-old out this year.

TURF AND TRACK

THE SULKY.

JUNE BUG, 2:30, is by Poscora Hayward.

ARION may be seen in public next season.

JOHN DICKERSON will train for Malcolm Forbes next season.

WM. SIMPSON lost Musette, the dam of Bouncer, 2:10½, last spring.

RUTH, by Poscora Hayward, got a record of 2:25 at Rohnerville.

THE San Mateo Stock Farm won in purses at the Lexington meeting $5,850.

NIGHTINGALE's gross winnings since her debut on the turf now amount to $41,480.

ATHANIO (3), 2:11½, is at Village Farm, having been sent home from Terre Haute.

RUBY M., by Almont Patchen, has a record of 2:12½, made at Los Angeles last Friday.

THE attendance on the opening day of the Breeders' meeting at Los Angeles was light.

LARCO, 2:28, by A. W. Richmond, was sold at auction in Los Angeles last week for $120.

RESERVED seats for the Madison Square Horse Show are priced at $27 for those in the first four rows.

L. 96 is the name of a new member of the standard list. He is by Electricity, and has a record of 2:26½.

THE season is almost over and the trotting, pacing and stallion records are still where they were January 1.

ANTEROS, the Indiana-owned brother of Anteo and Antevolo, has shown up very strongly as a sire this season.

FIVE carloads of trotters are expected at the Oakland track. They will arrive from Los Angeles to-morrow afternoon.

UHLAN, by Electricity won a heat in a 3:10 trotting race at Alexandria, La., October 14th. The time he made was 2:31.

ELLA T. was close up to Guinette in the 2:10 pace which the latter won at Louisville, Ky., October 21st. Time, 2:08, 2:08½.

BOREAL, Bouncer, Lynne Bel and Bingen make a nice quartet, representing four different sons of the dead hero of Palo Alto.

SEYMOUR WILKES, 2:08½, is the fastest pacer sired by Guy Wilkes. Hulda, by Guy Wilkes, holds the fastest trotting record, 2:08½.

LULA F. is rapidly improving since her foal by Direct, 2:05½, was weaned. She was second in 2:16 at Louisville, October 21st.

REMEMBER the great trotting meeting of the California Jockey Club commences next Friday, November 8th, at the Bay District track.

WATER BELLE, by St. Bel out of Niagara, by Smuggler won a good race at Parkway, New York, October 16th, getting a mark of 2:27½.

WHEN Cope Stinson goes to San Mateo this Winter he will take with him a few of the horses he has been collecting for some time past.—Hoiseman.

BINGEN, the sensational two-year-old, is just a fair-sized colt, well-finished and powerful. Like all the Electioneers, he carries his head low in action.

LADY MAC is a good pacer by Ira (son of Piedmont), out of a daughter of Vicks' Ethan Allen. She got a record of 2:21½ at Rohnerville, Sept. 28th, pacing.

WHAT is the breeding of St. Thomas, the horse that got a record of 2:17½ at Ukiah, October 9th? Can any of our readers supply us with this information?

SIGNATURE, a bay gelding by Sidney, 2:19½, out of Oak Grove Belle, started at the races at Parkway, New York, last week, but did not get any of the money.

MIKE BOWERMAN, of Lexington, Ky., has purchased of Dan Lawrence, Pleasanton, Cal., the four-year-old brown mare, Red Nutting, 2:13. Price private.

BUDD DOBLE and his family will leave for Europe next month for the winter, and it is rumored that next season may see Doble in charge of the trotters of the Russian royal stud.

MAY KING had two representatives out this year—Bingen and Nahesa. The former holds the two-year-old honors of the year by his mile in 2:12½, the latter the yearling at 2:41½.

VALISSA, 2:19, sister to the splendid pacer Vasto, was sold to Henry C. Watson, of Brandon, Vermont, last week. She is to go into the broodmare ranks. Valissa is eight years old.

JAVELIN, by Creole, is one of the best money winners ever raised at the Oakwood Park Stock Farm. She won a good race on Tuesday again at Los Angeles in 2:13½, 2:14½ and 2:17½.

OF the thirty-one races decided at the Lexington meeting the direct descendants of Electioneer won eleven, and direct descendants of Geo. Wilkes seven, the other thirteen were scattered.

THOS. MURPHY, the well-known horseman, formerly of Petaluma, has written to friends there and says he is doing well in Russia, and is preparing a very promising lot of trotters for the races.

MERRY CHIMES, 2:03½, has joined the list of producing sons of Chimes. He is the sire of Merry Bells, 2:25. Merry Bells was bred by Z. B. Hall, Elton, N. Y., and was out of a spotted mare by Tarrock, son of Sandrock. Sandrock was bred by C. J. Hamlin, and was a son of Independence, by Wood's Hambletonian.

FAUSTINO, 2:14½, has a 2:30 representative in Trophy, 2, 2:29½.

STAMBOUL, 2:07½, has been sent to John Goldsmith for the winter.

IT is announced that Cope Stinson has been engaged to train and campaign the San Mateo trotters for the next five years.

MCZEUS, the four-year-old son of McKinney, who reduced his record to 2:14 in a race at Fresno, Cal., is out of Grace Kaiser, and his dam was a two and his sire a three-year-old when they were mated.

MIDI, 2:23½, by Electrician, is a two-year-old filly, and at Lexington she lowered this mark in a trial against time to 2:19. Electrician is a brother to Bernal, 2:17, and is owned by Wm. Simpson, of New York.

A YEARLING filly by Norris, recently purchased by Mr. J. Malcolm Forbes, looks to be a great trotter. She can easily show a half at a 2:30 gait now, and has hardly become acclimated since she came from California.

TOMMY BRITTON is now the two-year-old racing champion, his mile in 2:15 being the best ever trotted by a colt of his age in a race, and most especially praiseworthy for the reason that the last quarter was trotted at a 2:09 gait.

THE statement is made that Advertiser, 2:15½, sire of the yearling champion Adbell, and Hummer, sire of the great mare Bouncer, are the only sons Electioneer ever got out of George Wilkes mares. It was indeed "a golden cross."

THE question "Who owns Beuzetta?" has never been satisfactorily answered since her sale by Ed Ayres. It is now announced, however, that she was last week presented by W. E. D. Stokes, of New York, to his wife as a birthday present.

THE young stallion, St. Marco, by St. Bel, defeated C. F. Dunbar's Spanker at Buffalo last Friday, going the second mile in 2:17½. St. Marco is a four-year-old pacer, and looks as though he would be an important factor in next year's events.

SECRETARY F. BRANDON, of the Santa Clara Agricultural Society, has a two-year-old filly by Boodle, 2:14, out of Alice H. (sister to Big Liza, 2:24½), by Geo. M. Patchen Jr. that is one of the fastest youngsters ever seen at the San Jose track.

BLACK PILOT, the sire of Coal Dust, 2:21½, is by Sultan, 2:24, out of Highland Maid, by Arthurton; second dam Highland Mary, 2:34, by David Hill Jr. 57. Jas. Mack is the owner of Coal Dust and will give him a record of 2:15 next season.

MILLARD F. SANDERS has accepted a position with H. S. Henry of Morrisville, near Philadelphia, Pa., owner of Anteo, 2:16½, and will bring out some colt trotters next season. A better selection could not be made. We wish him success in his new home.

IRAN ALTO lowered his record of 2:29 to 2:19½ at Los Angeles last Monday. This brings the average of seven of Palo Alto's progeny to enter the list to be, 2:19 1/6. Five of these were three-year-olds and two were only two-year-olds when they got their records.

THE Salisbury stable is finishing the season in the condition generally described as "a little disfigured but still in the ring." Its three stars, Alix, Azote and Directly, are all cripples, and of its members Ella T. and Altao alone seem able to get near the top of a summary.

JUDGE INGRAHAM made himself particularly popular with liberty-loving people when he decided in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, on October 14th, that there was nothing in the Constitution of New York making horse-racing a crime and that no racing or running of horses is in violation of the law.

MR. H. H. BEADLE, Madison, S. D., has purchased the chestnut stallion Graceful George, 2:23, by Alcona Jr., and the chestnut gelding Mack, by Democrat. Mr. Beadle is superintendent of the State Normal school and local horsemen are pleased with a man of his standing joining the ranks of campaigning owners.

THE bay gelding, George R., that got a record of 2:28 in the third heat of a race at Los Angeles last Monday, was sired by B. C. Holly's handsome brown stallion, Don L., 2:29, and is capable of making a much lower record. Don L. is by Fieldmont (son of Almont and Maggie Gaines) out of Nutmeg Maid, by Thomas Jefferson, second dam by Godfrey Patchen.

THE chestnut stallion Alcyone Jr., owned by Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes, of New York City, earned a new record of 2:15 at Lexington, October 18th, and but for the high wind could have gone much faster. He is a choice individual and with it combines rare breeding, being by Alcyone, 2:27, out of Lady Garfield (dam of Miss Rita, 2:09½, and Bush, 2:13), by Young Jupiter.

RICHARD GIRD, of Chino, has over 300 head of trotters and a large number are by Woolsey (brother to Sunol, 2:08½), out of half thoroughbred mares. They are handsome, strong-limbed, pure-gaited, stylish and speedy. It would not be surprising if this breeder would select fifty head and ship them to Europe next spring. For long distance racing they would be hard to beat.

AT Lexington, October 16th, E. Decernea, of New York City, sold to Henry C. Watson, of Brandon, Vt., the bay horse Oscar Williams, 2:12½, five years old, by Simons, dam Lottie Thorne, by Mambrino Patchen, for $8,000. Oscar Williams trotted third in the last heat of the Blue Grass Stakes this afternoon. Mr. Decernea has bought of James Graves Versailles, the three-year-old chestnut mare Tryphosba, 2:29½, by Nuthurst, dam by Onward, for $3,000. A. J. Walsh, of Hartford, Conn., has bought of J. E. Madden Bermuda Girl and Mate, each with records of 2:21½, for $4,200. This makes the third team Welch has bought of Mr. Madden. He will be an extensive exhibitor at the New York horse show. William L. Spears, Muirs, Ky., has sold to N. W. Hubinger, New Haven, Conn., bay yearling gelding by Dr. Hooker, dam by Wilkes Boy, for $1,000. He trotted a half a few days ago in 1:03½. Richard Fox, Richmond, has sold to the same buyer a bay yearling colt by Dr. Hooker, dam May Bee, by Blackwood, for $500.

MARVIN, 2:23½, by Electioneer, obtained his first 2:20 performer at Dubuque, in the 2:22 class, which was won by Bramblette, a brown mare, foaled in 1891, whose dam Moira, was by Sultan, grandam Gulsare, by The Moor. The reports of the race give Bramblette as a brown horse, but the Year Book and Register have it a brown mare.

DR. HAYES, the well-known veterinarian of Hollister, destroyed two horses afflicted with glanders, this week. The horses were brought from Watsonville, and traded off to unsuspecting parties there. The Doctor states that there are still several cases among horses in the neighborhood of Tres Pinos. There is no known remedy for this disease, and every effort should be made to stamp it out.

CHAS. THOMPSON is in jail at San Jose, awaiting trial on a charge of larceny sworn to by Juan Carrillo, a horse man, who was returning from the Hollister Fair with a string of horses. Carrillo, who had Lady Vestal on the circuit this year, claims that Thompson entered the box car where he was in charge of the horses, and that while he, Carrillo, was asleep, Thompson robbed him of $200.

A MEETING of the stockholders of the San Benito County Agricultural Association has been called for Saturday, November 9th, at 2 o'clock, P. M., at the Town Hall. The main question to be considered will be in regard to the disposition of the race track, that is whether it will be kept up for racing purposes, of subdivided and sold. The probabilities are that the land will either be rented for beet purposes or planted to alfalfa.

LANGDALE FARM, a Pennsylvania breeding enterprise, has purchased the pacer Saladin for $4,100. Saladin is the fastest horse ever sold at auction. He was foaled January 22, 1886, and is by Sultan—Ella Lewis, 2:17, and to be b Vermont. He was bred by L. J. Rose, Los Angeles, Cal. and was owned at the time of the sale noted by John A. Green, Wilmington, Del. Saladin took his record at Kirkwood, Del., July 4, 1893, and has to his credit the record of many different tracks.

STAMBELLE, 2:29½, is by Stambow, out of Bellone, a Palo Alto bred mare. Bellone was by Line, out of Belle, by Kentucky Prince; second dam Belle of Richmond (dam of Bergen, 2:27), by Hambletonian 10, third dam Belle of Richmond, by Bathgates Norman. Sire was by Gen. Benton, out of Irene (dam of Ira, 2:24½, and Stambell, 2:31), by Mohawk Chief, second dam Laura Keane, by Hambletonian 10, etc. Stambow is a remarkably well bred colt in trotting lines, and should make a great sire.

F. H. BURKE, with his usual thoroughness, purchased a pocketful of tickets at $5 on Saturday Week against $50 on the other free for all pacers at Los Angeles last Saturday. His judgment was excellent, and bank account increased. Mr. Burke has watched Ed. Lester, the talented little reinsman, handle this nervous horse, and was delighted with the manner in which he seemed to control this grand looking son of Guy Wilkes. Every time he started him determined to have a few "seeds" planted in the pool seller's box, knowing that some day he would reap a rich harvest therefrom; last Saturday was the date in which the crop was sacked.

CHARLES MARVIN tells a good story about Conductor and the other colts owned by the Ridgelys, at Springfield, Ill. Last summer Messrs. Ridgely & Son decided to hold a sale and dispose of all their horses, as they had been going wrong and out of fix for two or three years. They sent for Al Thomas, whose name was identified with the showing made by Don Cossack and his get, to come to Springfield and shape up Conductor, as well as the colts that were old enough to work for the sale. Thomas went to work and soon had a lot of youngsters marching like trotters, while Conductor began to show faster than he ever had in his life. He only had one sound leg, but the others were handled so that they did not bother him, and the result was that Messrs. Ridgely & Son reconsidered the sale question and decided to remain in the business a while longer. They bought a few more choice mares and will go ahead. Thomas took the stable over to Galesburg and won several good races with Conductor, reducing his record to 2:14½, and showed that a number of his get could step along well.

THE New York World thus compares the horse and the bicycle: "The horse is man's animal. Well treated, he keeps his health. Well handled, he never shies, he never runs away, he never refuses to pull to the last ounce of strength in his body. Well and pluckily ridden, he never turns his head at ditch, fence, stone wall or hedge. He is no more afraid of bullets than the horse attacking editor is afraid of thistles. He is the fit associate of heroes. Can you see Napoleon or Alexander riding to victory on a safety? No. The horse is for heroes and the safety for horse attacking editors. Bicycles and flying machines may come and carry the horse fearing editor far and safely, but they will not destroy the horse. Tens of thousands of years before horse-fearing editors were born nature was hard at work developing the horse from a small-toed thing as big as a fox. She has produced to-day the finest animal she ever produced, and no pneumatic arrangement, however valuable to the poor, timid, aged or obese editor can take his place. He is first, now and forever, in the heart of normal, healthy man."

ELECTION BELL, 2:22½, owned by Mr. Arthur L. McMillan, of Salem, Ohio, is one of the fastest horses in the country. The horse received very little education this year, but right now, in these October days, he is stepping quarters in 32½ seconds, and his owner writes me that he is receiving no work to develop speed. The horse will probably be in the stable of Mr. E. D. Bither this winter, and raced by him during the season of 1896. Election Bell is a finely gaited horse, and if given a reasonably fair chance ought to be a very fast race horse. His breeding is of the race-winning quality, he being by St. Bel, out of Corinne, by Starmont, his dam carrying the blood of Almont, George Wilkes, Morgan and thoroughbred. Mr. McMillan also owns the dam, and says she is a grand mare and can and will beat 2:30, and that she has the right kind of a disposition for a great broodmare. Mr. McMillan has two colts out of this mare by St. Vincent, 2:13½, that are very fast. Corinne will be bred another season to Baron Wilkes, and will then be trained for the purpose of giving her a record during the coming year. The second dam of Election Bell was a very fast broodmare by a son of Mountaineer Morgan, out of a mare by Chilton, thoroughbred. Starmont, sire of the dam of Election Bell, died at an early age, leaving but very few foals, though he has two performers, two producing sons and five producing daughters.

The Saddle.

JOE MCCARTHY has disposed of Josie G. to D. Hauser.

HASTINGS has gone to Kentucky, where he will be turned out.

F. R. HITCHCOCK has been elected a steward of the Jockey Club.

JOCKEY CHARLEY BALLARD will ride at New Orleans this winter.

THERE were not 200 people in attendance at the St. Louis races Tuesday.

THE STROLLER is an apt name of a colt by The Bard out of Tragedienne.

THE full sister to Domino, foaled in 1894, has been called Mannie Himyar.

SALVABLE won from Sir Play at five furlongs in 1:02½ at Latonia Saturday.

ENOCH WISHARD intends to winter the Duke and Wishard stabling at Saratoga.

HANDSPRING will not face the starter again this season. He has been turned out.

GASTON ASHE has sent six two-year-olds to the new track, the first one to arrive there.

WILLIAM MCCORMICK, Burns & Waterhouse's new trainer has taken charge of the stable.

ST. NICHOLAS II. is the name of a chestnut colt, foal of 1894, by imp. St. Blaise—Thora.

MAXIM II is a bay colt by imp. Maxim—imp. Squaw, foaled at Rancho del Paso in 1894.

JOCKEY SULLIVAN made his reappearance in the pigskin at the local track on Leora Monday.

AN Eastern stable, through Byron McClelland, is seeking Jockey A. Clayton's services for 1896.

JOCKEY FELL, a new one from Montana, had a leg up on Pert Child, a maiden starter, Tuesday.

HANDSPUN finished second to Tinkle in a seven-furlong dash at Latonia Saturday. Time, 1:28.

SOLEDAD and Monarch, two Ironclads, secured second and third money in the second race Friday.

CASTANETTE, who left the maiden ranks in an easy manner Tuesday, is a full sister to Carmel.

CASH SLOAN, brother of Tod, a well-known and popular jockey, arrived from the East Tuesday.

CONTRACTS have been let for the building of the new stand and buildings at the Oakland Race Track.

A FULL brother to New Moon, a starter at Bay District track this week, has been registered as Namaquas.

JIM NEIL has returned from the East, but not with a string of horses, as anticipated. Prices were too high.

W. O'B. MACDONOUGH got his money on all the wrong horses Tuesday. He backed Oakland all over the ring.

THOMAS H. WILLIAMS, JR., President of the California Jockey Club, has subscribed $2,000 to the Convention fund.

MANAGER GRANT left Monday for Nevada. He will return in a few days with the Winter's yearlings that are to be sold.

Edward J. Peters has sold the three-year-old bay gelding Canadian, by Pontiac—Soubrette, to J. Robinson. Price, $400.

MR. KELSIE, Assistant Secretary of the Washington Park Club, is in the city and was a visitor at Bay District track Monday.

MR. CHAMBLET, the owner of the Duke of Abercorn, has purchased from E. J. Baldwin the hurdle racer Carcacas for $3,000.

LILY OF THE WEST, a bay filly by Bishop (sire of Racine) won a mile and a quarter race at St. Louis, October 29th. Time, 2:08½.

J. H. CARSON's Dixiana broodmare, Bravura 10, by Queen's Messenger—Madrigal, the dam of Glen Lily and Gismonda, died Monday.

PRINCE LIEF won from Lucania and Bathampton in a mile and a furlong race at Morris Park Saturday in the good time of 1:53½.

IF McKnight wants the local turf patrons to warm to him he must do less of the wooden-man act than he did on Oakland Tuesday.

YEMEN was the first of Barney Schreiber's horses to start here this season. The purple and orange will be seen frequently from now on.

SCIMITAR was far and away the best of anything in the first race Monday outside of Torsina, and she gave him about a twenty-pound beating.

A DRESSING of black loam is being placed on the new track at Ingleside and the course will be ready for horses to gallop over this week.

The Directors of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club have announced that the purses at the new track will be $400 and $500, with free entrance.

COUNTER TENOR won the Jerome handicap, one mile and a furlong, at Morris Park on Saturday, in 1:54. Brandywine was second, Maurice third.

SIR MODREDS finished within the money in two races Monday, Wawona earning a winning bracket and Model getting second money in a close finish with Rose Clark.

LATEST information is to the effect that Rey el Santa Anita has been leased, and not sold, to Richard Croker. He was shipped back from St. Louis to New York Monday, and will be taken to England.

CHARLES BOYLE, JR., has been engaged to train for young Jack Chinn, and took a string of about ten or a dozen, including Bloomer, to New Orleans last Wed.

SLOAN made a claim of foul riding against McIntyre in the fifth race, but the judges decided against him, the interference, if such it could be called, being clearly unintentional.

THE Cincinnati Hotel Autumn Handicap, run at Latonia on Saturday, value to winner $1,920, mile and a quarter, was won by Flying Dutchman, Henry Young second, Buck Massie third. Time, 2:07½.

IF Amen was so named with the belief that he would be always last, he is apt to fool some one. He was up among the front rows for awhile in his race Tuesday and will not be kept on probation very long.

RUTHERFORD, the great four-miler, and sire of Lucky B., died at Santa Anita Stock Farm recently. He did not prove a success at the stud, as Lucky B. was the only horse sired by him that amounted to much.

THE winter meeting of the Crescent City Jockey Club, at New Orleans, will begin on November 23rd. Purses range from $200 to $300, and five or more races will be given daily, and the meeting will last about a 100 days.

WILLIE MARTIN, Pat Dunne's crack jockey, will be out here this winter, anyhow. Even if his employer does not send him string, Martin will come along with Dick Speakman, partners in a small string of their own.

TIM MURPHY can't carry 114 pounds and beat such horses as Major Cook and Detective. He did not show as well yesterday, at a half-furlong shorter distance, as he did on Saturday with the same weight up against Miss Brummel.

TORSINA is a wonderfully good filly, and will rank among the very top-notchers at the local course if she can perform consistently at the way she did in her last two races. She almost walked in in 1:14 at about six furlongs Monday.

At a meeting of the directors of the California Jockey Club Tuesday it was decided to keep the jockeys more under control between races. They will not be allowed to mingle so promiscuously with bookmakers and heavy bettors.

MOBOLASKI, by Apache—Tricksey, Ed. Corrigan's good filly, was second to Loki in the Covington Autumn Stake race which was won by Loki Tuesday at Cincinnati; distance five and a half furlongs; time, 1:08½; value of stakes $1,645.

MAJOR B. J. THOMAS of Dixiana, has sold one of his best yearlings, a bay colt, by Duke of Montrose—Almira, by Harkaway, to George Singler, of Philadelphia, and J. W. Knox, of New York. He will race East next year. Price, $2,500.

MR. UNRUH, manager of the Santa Anita ranch, is up from Los Angeles. Mr. Unruh states that forty yearlings will be placed in training this week. This is by odds the greatest number ever handled in one season by any individual owner in California.

It was announced in a St. Louis dispatch of Sunday that Rey el Santa Anita, owned by E. J. Baldwin, has been sold to Richard Croker for $25,000. This statement is made by W. B. Sink, Jr., Baldwin's trainer, who has a string of horses at the Fair Grounds track at St. Louis.

THE high class filly Damsel is to be sold because her owner will retire from racing. She started to grow so fast two months ago it was decided to let up on her for the year. She now stands 16 1, and with a careful wintering will develop into a slashing three-year-old, and is likely to be a great mare over a route with weight up.

WE had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Carey, a genial gentleman and lover of the sport of kings, yesterday, a recent arrival from New York. Mr. C. will spend the winter in California, and is renewing old acquaintances and memories of twelve years ago. He says a great many of the familiar figures around the courses of the East will be seen here this winter.

RECENTLY John Hyland tried the Iroquois-Carlotta colt, three furlongs on the Withers mile at Morris Park in 34½ seconds with 115 pounds up. The colt worked on the full half, pulling up in 49½ seconds. This yearling is in the Futurity, and as he has been tried with the best of the youngsters in the East, it looks as if Dave Gideon had another line on the rich event.

THE steamer Civic, of the White Star Line, sailed from New York on Tuesday last for England, with the Crokey string, consisting of Rey del Carreres, Sir Excess and Mr. Favorite, the dam of Handspring, on board. My Favorite was purchased from P. J. Dwyer recently by Mr. Croker. She is in foal to Hanover. The horses are in care of John Dennis, formerly foreman for Hardy Campbell.

It was announced October 19th at Morris Park that an eighteen days' race meeting under the auspices of the Saratoga Racing Association will be held at Pimlico, commencing on November 11th. There will be five races a day, and the purses will be $300, $400 and $500. A lease of the Baltimore track has been consummated, and application for a license from the Jockey Club will be filed at once.

THE betting element at Morris Park on Saturday last had a hard time of it, for the detectives not only seized the men who were arrested Thursday in the betting ring, but took some of the spectators as well, and thereby caused much consternation. The arrested men, about fifteen in number, were taken to the nearest police station and held in $1,000 bail, with the exception of the plunger, Riley Grannan, who was discharged.

MR. W. O'B. MACDONOUGH held highest honors for winning owners at the local track on Saturday. His two good fillies, imp. Miss Brummel and imp. Santa Bella won most impressively. Tod Sloan rode both of them and in a discussion of their relative merits stoutly championed the former that Mr. Macdonough suggested a race between the two if the Jockey Club would hang up a purse on the following conditions: Miss Brummel to carry 100 pounds with Sloan up and Santa Bella 110 with a stable boy up, the distance to be eleventh-sixteenths of a mile. Such a match would prove very interesting and would be a good drawing card.

E. J. BALDWIN's stable was shipped West yesterday. After the Municipal Handicap was run at Morris Park, on Tuesday an offer was made for Rey el Santa Anita by a party supposed to be acting for Richard Croker. Mr. Baldwin said Friday that if Mr. Croker wanted the horse and would pay his (Baldwin's) price, he would ship him back from St. Louis, and he intimated further that the price would have to be above $20,000.

CANVASBACK started in the colors of Zeke Abrahams Tuesday, and the story goes that the brother of The Mallard was a present to him. Col. Burns is said to have been present at the colt's meal hour the other day, and after he had watched about a dollar's worth of hay disappear he exclaimed in disgust: "Send for Zeke Abrahams!" Zeke obeyed the summons, and the Colonel told him there was a horse he could have. Zeke started to lead him away, but was called back with a request that he leave the halter, as "that cost a dollar," the Colonel explained. A bridle was secured and a change of ownership was expeditiously accomplished. Zeke has hagged the biggest duck of the season.

BILLY APPLEBY, trainer and handler of Mr. Donohue's racing stable, had entered a filly on last Friday as Lady Carmen, formerly Castanette, but Judge Burke perceived the error that, if allowed to pass, would have depreciated the future value of the filly, inasmuch as she would have been hereafter ineligible to run on tracks governed by Turf Congress rules, and that would have lost her chance of entry at the Pacific Coast Jockey Club's new track as well as on tracks controlled by the American Jockey Club. The fact of her having had the title of Lady Carmen claimed for her in the stud book would cut no figure, as she had run as Castanette. Appleby was naturally grateful for the timely coercion.

"COPPER KING" Marcus Daly's colors, will not be seen a the big San Francisco meeting this winter, as has been announced. Trainer Matthew Byrnes, who was to have taken thirty of the Montana bred colts to California, has reluctantly abandoned the proposed trip. Most of the horses are now two-year-olds and will not make their appearance at the post until in their three-year-old form. The stable contemplates racing in England next year, in which event Mr. Byrnes will take over a large string of thoroughbreds. Fred Taral will pilot the Daly horses at a reported salary of $25,000 per year. In consequence of the changed arrangements the 'Frisco meeting will be cheated out of its star attractions from the East.—Com. Advertiser.

THE Western Turf Congress, which is made up of the principal racing associations of the West, has adopted Goodwin's "Official Turf Guide" as the official organ and record of racing matters on all the tracks which accept the rules of the Turf Congress. This is a highly important step for Goodwin's "Official Turf Guide," and will be of much aid and service in enlarging the prosperity and success of that excellent publication. This guide is of the highest value and usefulness to everyone interested in any way in the turf. It is made up with great care and accuracy, and is a treasury of information, which is most acceptable and in every way useful to visitors to the race courses, to breeders, to owners of racers, to trainers, to jockeys, and to everyone connected with the turf. It deserves the largest possible success and prosperity in connection with racing.

AFTER the sale of Palo Alto thoroughbreds on November 5th, Killip & Co. will sell for Mr. R. Van Brunt his grand mare Lizzie Hampton (dam of Cabrillo, winner of the Los Angeles Derby and other races). Lizzie Hampton is by Hampton (winner of the Goodwood Cup and Goodwood Stakes), and sire of Merry Hampton (Derby winner of 1887), Avreshire (winner 2,000 Guineas of 1888), Ladas (winner 2,000 Guineas and Derby of 1894), and other good ones, outbreeding every contemporary sire in England except Isonomy. Sterling, who got the great Isonomy, appears in the second generation on the dam's side. Her pedigree bristles with winners of classical events and historical mares. Mr. Van Brunt will also sell a bay mare foaled 1891, by St. Saviour, out of imp. Restless (dam of Lowland, Surharhar winner of 1893), by Orest, son of Orestes, out of Lady Louisa, by Touchstone. Through the sire of St. Saviour an infusion of the great Leamington blood is secured.

EDWIN F. SMITH, secretary of the State Agricultural Society, has issued the following circular, which is of considerable interest to horsemen: "We desire to call your attention to the conditions of our first Nursery Stake for colts that now rank as yearlings. Our intention is to provide a rich stake for two-year olds, to be run annually at the California State Fair, to be known after January 1, 1896, as the California Futurity. We are prompted to open this stake in this form at this time on account of the number of well-bred yearlings in training. On January 1, 1896, a similar stake will be offered for colts and fillies now ranking as weanlings, and in addition the regular California Futurity for mares to foal in 1896. The increased opportunities for racing in California makes it incumbent upon the State Agricultural Society to encourage the breeder by providing a valuable stake event of this character. Breeders contemplating sales of their surplus produce in yearling form cannot afford to overlook entering them in this." It is confidently expected that this stake will be worth somewhere in the neighborhood of $5,000.

PREVIOUS to the racing at Morris Park October 18th, W. Easton sold at auction a number of horses in training, and a few yearlings, the property of J. McLaughlin, W. H. Sands, and the Oneck and Ramapo stables. The pick of the sale came from "Jimmie" McLaughlin's lot, his good sprinter, Wernberg, being purchased by G. E. Smith for $5,000. Though the sale was made up of an inferior lot of thoroughbreds, fairly good prices were realized. Many California horses were among them: Jordan, ch g, 5, by Joe Daniels—Chatelaine; J. Phelan, $100. Fusilier, b c, 4, by Hayden Edwards—Grenadine; T. W. Coulter, $100. Iola, h f, 4, by Midlothian—Misfortune; T. Healy, $750. The Coon, blk c, 3, by Midlothian—Nana; A. Deerlegg, $550. The Bluffer, ch g, 3, by Tyrant—Cheerful; A. Deerlegg, $75. Cockade, hr g, 3, by Fresno—Rosette; E. Leigh. Daggett, ch c, 3, by The Bard—Rosewood; J. A. Bennett, $2,450. California, ch f, 3, by Midlothian—Misfortune; T. W. Coulter, $800. Lorraine, br f, 2, by Midlothian—Lorraine; T. Healy, $800. Swagger, b g, 2, by Glenelg—Traviata; T. Healy, $250. Wexford, br g, 2, by Midlothian—Patty; N. Miller, $200. Yearling bay colt, by Fitzjames—Cheerful; B. Ashmead, $75. Yearling bay filly, by Midlothian—Loto; J. Dykman, $100. Yearling by filly, by Midlothian—Glendair; J. Corbet, $100.

HORSE SHOW ASSOCIATION..... November 6

The Best Organization Yet Formed.

Horse-owners, and all who love to ride or drive a good horse, should join the new and energetic organization formed this week in this city and known as the San Francisco Boulevard and Driving Association. This city has needed such an organization for years, and with the splendid class of prominent gentlemen which comprise its list of membership, we can, without fear of disappointment anticipate a number of practical reforms and improvements which will be of everlasting benefit to horse-owners and the public in general.

While it is true we have only one driveway to the ocean fit to exercise a horse on, and that is through the Golden Gate Park, there is no reason why there should not be several wide, well-shaded avenues which will be pleasant to drive upon, and form the attractive features of this peninsula. The speed track in Golden Gate Park, when kept in first-class order (as it will be), is known all over California; but it is far from being what its originators intended. Had such an organization as this new one been in existence at the time this road was constructed, there never would be any complaints of its unevenness or lack of careful watering and harrowing.

The road from the park to the new track, of which reference was made in these columns five weeks ago, needs to be reconstructed in many places and with an able organization to demand instead of beg the attention of the Board of Supervisors to its condition, work may be commenced at once upon it. The old Cliff House road and the old Mission road are two driveways that will also receive the attention of this new driving club and with the amount of work proposed there should be no hesitancy among all interested to join this organization and by numerical strength and financial aid make the work one of pleasure of lasting benefit. Now is the time to send in names to Secretary Magner and let everyone see that this is the most progressive organization for the improvement of public highways in the United States. It is of paramount importance to every one interested in the horse, carriage or harness business as well as to all who own real estate in this city to join at once. This organization is founded for a worthy object and as such will receive the earnest support of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN as well as every other newspaper in this city.

W. W. P. PACED two miles in 4:22½ at Lincoln, Nebraska, October 31st, breaking the world's record. Time by quarters, 0:31½, 1:06, 1:41, 2:14½, 2:45½, 3:18½, 3:51½, 4:22½. Nightingale holds the trotting record for this distance, 4:32.

The C. J. C. Meeting Next Week.

Commencing next Friday, November 8th, the greatest meeting of the year will end the grandest trotting circuit in California. The horses that are engaged in it, numbering almost two hundred, are on their way from the North, the South and the East, and when the bangtails, with their scores of trainers, jockeys and attendants wend their way over the hill past the Almshouse to the beautiful track at Ingleside, their places will be filled by the horsemen with their bikes and attendants. The track on the first day, if clear weather continues, may not be as fast as the light-harness horsemen would desire, but we have the assurance of those having charge of it that it will be prepared with all the skilled labor possible, and as there is an abundance of water, rollers, harrows and scrapers, there need be no fears that the track will continue to be soft longer than the first day. The soil at the Bay District track is peculiarly adapted for track purposes, and the long experience Superintendent Wm. Fieldwick has had on trotting tracks, enables him to thoroughly understand how the track should be prepared. The thoroughbreds will begin moving to the new track to-morrow and the stalls will be put in readiness for the horses that are entered to trot and pace at this great meeting.

A perusal of the following programme will convince our readers that this is to be one of the best meetings ever held in California, and it should receive the support of every one interested in light harness horses as well as those who love racing. If this meeting proves successful, there is no doubt that in the spring, after the running races are ended, there will be another meeting given, at which equally as large, if not larger, purses will be given, so that breeders and owners of light harness horses will receive some encouragement. President Williams has always proven a friend to this branch of the industry, and in his desire to see it perpetuated he has shown a most commendable spirit.

Everything will be done to make this meeting one long to be remembered with pleasure by every one in attendance, for the best horses in the State are to appear. There will be few delays in scoring, and the support of the officials now at the Bay District will give it a "boom" that will carry it to the front row of all the meetings ever given on this circuit.

Now is the time to talk about this meeting to your friends, and we want to see all those friends with you at the meeting. Let us show the people of the East that the interest in light harness racing in California, and especially in San Francisco, is as great as it is in any city in the United States.

MESSRS. KILLIP & Co. advertises in this issue an auction sale of fifty head of standard and highly-bred trotting colts, fillies, broodmares, road teams and business horses, Tuesday, November 12, 1895. There are some magnificent individuals offered, including sons and daughters of Eros, San Corbett, Elmo, Dexter Prince and other sires. A more extended notice of those to be sold will be published in our next issue. Catalogues are now ready.

SECRETARY MILROY received nearly 1,000 entries for the 22 stakes advertised by the California Jockey Club—a most creditable showing.

November 9th is the Day.

Remember this is the date set for the closing of entries to the great horse show which is to take place in this city December 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th. Over $20,000 in cash will be distributed among exhibitors, and Assistant-Secretary Horr says the interest in this exhibition among all classes is greater than it was at this time last year. This being so, it behooves every owner, breeder and trainer to do his utmost to get his best horses entered for the prizes. The very best and most competent judges will be secured, and qualified veterinarians will be in attendance every day. Besides these, there will be an army of attendants taking every precaution against fire, accidents or robbery. The same watchfulness and efficiency will be sought for in the employees as was demanded at the last show. Strict attention will be paid to the care of all horses sent for exhibition and for sale.

The pavilion will be lighted with electricity so that every box stall will be as bright at night as it is during the day. The aisles between the rows of stalls will be wide and covered with sawdust. The hay and grain will be kept in one portion of the building and the greatest precaution taken against fire.

Beside the regular parades of stock the management will present a programme of novelties every evening which will be delightful to witness. Polo pony riding, hurdle jumping, cavalry drills and parade of beautiful equipages from the six-horse tally-ho to the light sulkies drawn by the kings and queens of the light harness world. The greatest record breakers in the thoroughbred kingdom will be followed by the largest Clydes and the smallest Shetlands, fire engines with their well-groomed horses will be there, and the marches to the strains of the best orchestra procurable will make this the grandest event of the year 1895.

Remember entries close next Saturday, November 9th. The sale which will follow this horse show promises to be the best ever held in California, and horses that are to be sold there must also be entered in this show.

Auction Sales Next Week.

The three sales of thoroughbreds which are to take place in this city next week, commencing with the Palo Alto sale Tuesday, November 5th, Theodore Winters, Wednesday, and Chas. Kerr's, Thursday, are the principal topics of conversation among horsemen. The sales will be held during the evening under canvas and by electric light. Messrs. Killip & Co., the auctioneers, have sent catalogues to every one they believe is interested in the horse industry on this Coast and in the East. The class offered from these three great breeding establishments owned by these consignors, is of the highest, and as every individual will be in its proper stall at the sales-yard to-morrow and until disposed of, intending purchasers equipped with one of the splendid catalogues, can inspect these youngsters and be prepared to bid on them when the sale takes place. Seats will be provided for ladies and their escorts, and a large attendance is anticipated. The opportunities offered purchasers to make money by getting such grandly-bred and well-formed thoroughbreds should not be overlooked. The racing situation, although depressed for a while in the East, is reviving, and with the splendid inducements offered owners to have their favorites engaged for the big stakes, there should be no hesitancy on the part of bidders who are anxious to get the best. A large number of the best winners at the meetings at the Bay District track have been purchased at Killip & Co. sales, and the chances are even more favorable for many more to win brackets from the ranks of those to be sold. Send at once for catalogues and be sure to attend.

A RESUME of the successful meeting given by the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association will be given in our next issue. The racing has been of a high order, the starting excellent, weather delightful, attendance large and speculation lively. We anxiously await the arrival of those who have been enjoying the week's round of pleasure, anticipating most glorious reports of these visitors to the land of the orange and the vine.

THE Los Angeles meeting which ended last week was the most successful ever held over the race track there. The only full reports of the races published are to be found in this journal and are read with pleasure by those who were not able to be present. The love for the light harness horse in the South is warm and lasting, and when one sees the beautiful driveways and the excellent class of horses there, this is not to be wondered at.

THE Bakersfield race meeting commences next Tuesday, November 5th.

THE LOS ANGELES RACES.

The Best Meeting Ever Held at the Famous Track—Attendance Excellent—Many Surprises for the Talent—How the Races Were Contested.

SECOND DAY—Continued.

The gentleman's road race, of which only one heat was trotted, was productive of much local interest. There were four starters, and Silky, by Silkwood, driven by Mr. Llewellyn, was picked to do the trick. The start was excellent, but Silky went in the air at the drawgate, and George R. started to make a runaway race of it. He maintained the lead until the far turn, where he bobbed and was passed by Texas and Sam H. Silky had in the meantime made up a big gap and was coming down the stretch with a wet sail, and at the eighth pole he had his field beaten and won handily by four lengths, with Texas second, Sam H. third and George R. fourth. Time, 2:30½.

THIRD DAY—OCTOBER 23.

There was a decided improvement in the attendance to-day, quite a large number having been attracted by the 2:13 trot, in which interest was centered at a high pitch, because Zombro, a local favorite, was expected to give Ethel Downes the race of her life.

The card was the best of the week so far. After the ball was started with the unfinished race for roadsters there was not a dull moment until darkness forced the people home.

Racing commenced at 1:30 P. M. with the road race, one heat of which had been taken the day before by Silky in 2:30½, as above stated. The black mare was a strong choice in the betting, selling at $10 against $12 for the entire field, including Texas, Sam H. and George R. The cow-boy horse went promptly to the front in the first heat to-day, Silky dropping back to a bad break, and he led until the far turn with George R. keeping him company. Both the leaders broke there, and Silky threatened to overhaul them, but before he could do so Texas was on his feet, and in a driving finish beat the mare down the stretch, the time for the mile being 2:25½, which was surprisingly good.

All except George R. broke in the next heat, and his steadiness gave him the heat, Silky again coming second.

The last two heats were taken by Texas in 2:31 and 2:32½, though at some stage of both heats every horse lost his feet and the horse with the unknown breeding captured the money through being handiest in catching his feet. The talent will keep their hands off of roadsters hereafter, as the winner was a despised outsider, and heats were so mixed up that judgment was at sea.

Then came the gallopers resplendent in their gay harlequin colors and pleasing to the eye with new sleek shiny coats and little graceful bodies. There were eight contestants, Hueneme ruling first choice in the auction pools at $20, against $20 for the entire field. Starter Benjamin had a bad lot of hays to handle and his work was rendered more difficult by the unruly actions of Gracie S., the result being that the field was kept at the post for over twenty-five minutes. Benjamin was patient and persistent until he dropped the flag to an even break. Nellie G. shot out in front and led well into the stretch, where Hueneme shot out of the bunch and won handily by four lengths in 1:02½. The finish for second place was extremely close, five horses finishing noses apart, and no one knew which had the advantage. The judges gave it to Geo. Bohnert, with Reno third and Gracie S. fourth.

Then came the sweepstakes for two-year-olds, with $200 added, and furnished a rare contest. Mrs. Wolfskill's handsome filly Gladwyne was a hot favorite, speculators running over each other to get tickets on her at $20, while Jim Bozeman was supported at $9 and the field at $5. In the books Gladwyne was a 1 to 2 shot, Jim Bozeman 8 to 5, Chivo 2 to 1, Nevere 3 to 1, Belle Oak 3 to 1. There was some delay at the post on account of Bell Oak refusing to break, but finally they got away on even terms, and Chivo and Gladwyne set out to do the running. At the turn the former gave way to Nevere, who ably ridden by Cleary, came up with a rush and it was hammer and tongs between the pair down the stretch. Both boys rode desperately and for an eighth of a mile neither horse had more than a head's advantage. In a gruelling finish Charley Weber landed the favorite by a head Chivo being three lengths back of Nevere. The victory was a very popular one, and there was vociferous applause.

Then came the star attraction of the day—the 2:13 trot with Ethel Downes, Zombro and Boodle as contestants. The mare on account of her game race at Santa Ana where she trotted five heats in about the same notch, was the choice of the horsemen and speculators, her price being $20, while Zombro was supported in the field by local enthusiasts at $14.

In the first heat Ethel had the pole and she skimmed by the quarter in 0:33½ with Zombro two lengths back. The half was passed in 1:05½, and the stallion was now only a length away. He was at her wheel at the three quarter pole, where the watches registered 1:40, and when they straightened out for the stretch, he moved up rapidly, and at the drawgate carried her to a break, and he jogged in home amidst the greatest enthusiasm. The mile was covered in 2:13, which was a noteworthy performance considering that the track is two seconds slow.

The backers of the mare were now alarmed and commenced to hedge, paying $20 for Zombro, while Ethel in the field brought $14. In the second heat Durfee took his fine brown colt to the front, and Ethel was at his wheel until they reached the drawgate, where she went up in the air and again Zombro ambled in early. The first quarter was covered in 0:35, the half in 1:07½, the three quarters in 1:41½, and the mile in 2:15½.

Zombro had now so forcibly demonstrated his superiority that his admirers were willing to stake $25 against $5 for the field, but there few who wanted the short end, and betting quickly came to a stand still. Keating changed his tactics in the third heat, and he carried Zombro so fast in the first eighth that the stallion went in the air and before he recovered himself Ethel was skimming away six lengths to the good. The first quarter was negotiated in 0:33 1/5, the fastest of the race; at the half the watch recorded 1:06, Zombro only two lengths back and still gaining. He caught her at the far turn and the pace had been so fast the early part of the journey, that she was exhausted and broke badly when the brown horse took hold of her. He won in a jog and Boodle beat out the black mare to second place. Time, 2:14.

Durfee was loudly cheered as he alighted from the sulky, and good judges claim that the son of McKinney could have trotted in 2:12 to-day had he been pushed. Ethel Downes would have made even a better showing had the track been to her liking, while Boodle trotted an improved race over his race against the mare at Santa Ana.

There was only one heat of the 2:40 trot to-day, but it caused consternation in the ranks of the talent. With only three starters they backed Rex Gifford with a record of 2:14 at the rate of $25 to $5 for the field, including Coal Dust and Belle Wilson. The grey threw his backers into mental convulsions when he made one of his old-time breaks on the first turn, and he was ten lengths back at the half, to which point Coal Dust and the mare had been trotting neck and neck. It was Belle's turn now to break, and the gray passed her, but his advantage was short-lived, for again he made a long running break, the result being that Coal Dust won the heat easily in 2:22½, while even the mare beat the favorite out for second position. The race was postponed until to-morrow.

FOURTH DAY—OCTOBER 24.

There must have been 7,000 people at the races to-day. They all but filled the grand stand; the quarter stretch was a moving mass and the infield was resplendent with hundreds of buggies, four-in-hands, and all sorts of handsome equipages. The citizens of Los Angeles and surrounding country are beginning to realize that the fair being held in their midst, is, in point of quality, the best that has taken place this year outside of the one held at Sacramento.

At 10 o'clock this morning there was a large attendance at the grounds to witness the live stock parade and the awarding of premiums. The breeding industry received more attention in this part of the State during the past year than ever before, and the showing to-day of trotting stock, thoroughbreds and various classes of horned cattle was a most creditable one.

Capt. Newton ran the bell at 1 o'clock for the unfinished trot. Rex Gifford, a top heavy favorite, lost the heat yesterday through continuous breaks, but they rigged his harness to-day differently and Tryon substituted himself for Connolly, who drove the gray the day previous. The stallion never made a skip in the three heats, and his victory was a hollow one, Coal Dust being the only contestant that was prominent, although in the second heat to-day he was extremely unsteady and was beaten out by Belle Wilson, a mare that has yet to learn to stay on her feet.

A selling race for six furlongs brought out a field of eight gallopers. The night previous Hueneme was a strong first choice, Polaski being obtainable at odds of 6 to 1. To-day the trotting switched and Polaski brought 10, Hueneme 8, field 6, while the books at post time only laid 7 to 10 against the Fresno horse. The start was delayed by several unruly horses, but when the flag fell Jim Bozeman shot to the front and led to the turn with Polaski in close attendance. In the stretch the favorite went to the front while Hueneme came out of the bunch and led second. The black horse was badly ridden and Polaski won without turning a hair in 1:15, a length in front of Hueneme. Johnnie Capron was third.

Great interest was centered in the Agricultural Park Stakes, a running event for one and one eighth miles, with $250 added. The talent picked on Pescador, even with top weight, to land the money, and hundreds were placed on him at $10 against $5 for the entire field, consisting of Two Cheers, Naicho B. and Pavilion.

Benjamin dropped the flag at the first break, and at the stand Two Cheers had a length the best of the favorite, the other two close up. Charley Weber gave the one-eyed horse his head at the quarter pole, and he quickly shot by Two Cheers, and as he galloped into the stretch he was six lengths to the good, and won pulling up in the excellent time of 1:55½. Two Cheers easily beat Naicho B. for second money.

Six starters lined up for the 2:20 trot, Chico having the call in the betting at odds of $15 to $60 for the entire field. He spun off the three heats without the slightest difficulty and interest centered warmly in the great struggle for second money. In the first heat Knight beat Charivari to the wire but he was set back for running and Snider came out triumphant. Prince Ira and Knight fought it out the next time, but Tryon's horse again met with disfavor at the hands of the judges and the Dexter Prince stallion was awarded second position. In the final heat Knight kept his feet throughout and easily beat El Molino, who came surprisingly fast in the stretch from nowhere, Prince Ira broke repeatedly and fourth was the best he could do.

The 2:25 pace brought out a good field of six, and speculation was brisk at these figures: Babe Marion $10, Algoreg $8, Dictatus $4, field $4. Algoreg had been brought down for a "killing," and the secret slipped out, for before the horses went into the judges' hands Algoreg was selling favorite, Marion selling as second choice.

The start was a tiresome one, Colonia continually refusing to move up to her field, but finally they got away on good terms, with Dictatus in front and out-stepping his field. He kept his company on tip-toes until he reached the stretch, and there he gave up the ghost. Babe Marion and Colton Maid shot past him, and in this order they passed the wire, the Babe winning handily by three lengths.

The betting was now Babe Marion to field $8 with plenty for each end. The horses scored a dozen times, several starts being spoiled by Maben not staying on even terms with the pole horse. He was named by the judges and when he repeated the offense in the next score he was fined $10. At the break they were given the word, Dan N. being two lengths in front. He flew by the quarter in 0:33½, with Babe Marion and Al Gregor several lengths behind. At the half which was passed in 1:07, Dan N. still held command, but Dictatus was at his neck. When they reached the turning pole in 1:42 the San Jose horse had enough and Dan N. still maintained the lead with Babe Marion, who had broken on the turn, two lengths to the bad. Here a chestnut streak was observed coming up fast on the outside, and in a terrific drive Algoreg nipped Dan N. on the wire, the time for the mile being 2:15½. It was the fastest and closest heat of the entire day.

The race was then postponed until to-morrow.

FIFTH DAY—OCTOBER 25TH.

There was an increased attendance at the track to-day to witness some excellent racing, and to-morrow there is no question but high water mark will be reached, as the Silkwood-W. Wood contest is certain to draw from all parts of Southern California.

Favorites swept the card to-day in every event except that for the runners, in which Howard upset the calculations of the talent, and it looked for awhile as though Ottinger would prove another thorn in the side to favorite backers. There were a number of suspicious circumstances attached to this race, which was the 2:17 pace, and if the circumstances were deceptive it is certainly most unfortunate for the people who are racing the speedy but erratic gelding.

The tin-horn contingent of the Fair was routed to-day by the Sheriff, and the Wheel of Fortune, the roulette table and the game of craps have closed their seductive hum for the remainder of the meeting, which action deprives the Association of $300 a day revenue. After the raid the Directors met and passed a set of resolutions to the effect that no more games of chance be allowed during the progress of the Fair. This does not bar poolselling.

The unfinished 2:25 pace was called at ten o'clock, Babe Marion and Algoreg each having a heat. The Steinway colt was still a decided favorite, bringing $10 against $5 for the entire field. The sextette got away on even terms, Algoreg slightly in front, Dan N. and Colonia close up. At the quarter, which was passed in 0:33½, the order was the same, Babe Marion having lost her feet at the eighth pole. Colton Maid moved up on the backstretch and tried to overhaul the favorite but she soon gave way to Dan N. when the stretch was reached. Algoreg romped in but there was a struggle for second place between Dan N. and Dictatus, the former beating the San Jose colt by a good neck. Time, 2:17½.

In the final heat the favorite and Dan N. made the pace for about half the journey. Near the half Dictatus slipped by Dan N. and challenged the favorite, who went up in the air and lost. Eight lengths before Lafferty succeeded in steadying him, Dan N. and Dictatus had a spirited brush down the stretch, and for a moment it looked as if the favorite would get no better than third. He was game and had the speed and both qualities told for his snatched victory by a head under the wire from Dan N., Dictatus being only a neck away. Babe Marion was fifth having broken badly throughout the heat on account of soreness in her feet.

The handicap for seven furlongs brought out a field of six bangtails, with Pescador a strong choice at $10, the field, with Polaski, Linville, Juan Bernard and Hank Johnson in it, selling at $5, while Howard was bought here and there by the short end adherents at $5. Pescador carried 123 pounds and the delay at the post did not improve his chances any. The start was ragged, Howard jumping to the front and staying there throughout, winning by a length, untouched by whip or spur from the hard-ridden favorite, who only beat Polaski a scant head. The time was announced as 1:27 flat, but other registered it as 1:27½.

It was the 2:17 pace that caused people's tongues to wag disparagingly. Ottinger was selling in the auction pools at $20 against $5 for the entire field, which is equivalent to odds of 1 to 4 less the commission. For the first heat, however, the bookmakers were laying odds at 3 to 5 and took in hundreds of dollars without cutting the price. As it was currently reported that several instances had occurred during the week of drivers laying up a heat with the books, the wise acres accordingly regarded these exceptionally good odds as an evil omen for Ottinger for the initial heat. The result of the heat showed unmistakably that the judgment of the pencilers was better than that of the talent and horsemen, for Ottinger dropped out of the race at the first turn. He was last and ten lengths behind the leader, as Ruby M. flitted by the half in 1:05½, Fresno Prince and Harry Mc both two lengths behind the mare. There Keating rushed the gelding, and he gradually crept up, and coming down the stretch with a phenomenal spurt, he caught all but Ruby M., who won handily by two lengths in 2:12. Ottinger stepped the last half in 1:02½.

Although Ruby M. had won a heat, she was not favorite and Ottinger money was all that the auctioneer could get. Even the books were by this time impressed with Ottinger's speed, and they opened up their slates for the next heat with Ottinger at 1 to 4, Ruby M. 2 to 1, Harvey Mc 10 to 1, Fresno Prince 25 to 1. Keating evidently realized he made a mistake in the previous heat, for this time he essayed to take the lead with Ottinger and the clip was so fast that he struck himself and Keating was compelled to bring him almost to a standstill. His field was an eighth of a mile ahead of him when the gelding commenced pacing again, but he saved his distance, Ruby M. winning the heat. Harvey Mc and Fresno Prince had a lively tussle for second place, the former lasting long enough to get the coveted position.

Maay who had Ottinger tickets now became alarmed, and in their eagerness to hedge they paid 10 for Ruby M. on the field tickets being quickly snapped up by the wise contingent at 8. Ruby M. money soon gave out and before the horses were away in the next heat, the ruling price was field 10, Ruby M. 8. In the fourth heat Ruby M. led into the home stretch, where she broke to a standstill and Ottinger, who was lying behind, went to the front and stayed there. The next heat was a repetition, Ruby M. opportunely breaking and coming in last. In the final heat Ruby M. was chalked up at 2 to 1, a place by the bookies, while Harry Mc was quoted at the prohibitive price of 1 to 2. The outcome demonstrated once more the superiority of the bookmaker's judgment, for Harry Mc came in second, Fresno Prince third and Ruby M. last.

For the first time during the meeting the entire card was cleared without any postponements. Although fourth on the programme, the 2:27 trot was finished before the pace, which was a five-heat affair. Stam B., a speedy little horse that has been trotting second to Zomhro through the circuit, fell into an easy spot here and his calibre was so well known that the betting was lukewarm, the short-end money being shy, although the odds were Stam B. 25, field 4. The favorite reeled off the three heats without turning a hair, and there was such a discrepancy in class between the three other contestants that they finished exactly in the same order in every heat.

SIXTH DAY—OCTOBER 26.

This was a red-letter day in the racing annals of Southern California. Never before has there been a day so crowded with excitement and memorable with incident. Los Angeles was deserted after 1 o'clock, and the flower of Southern California was at the race track. Dry goods clerks looked over empty counters through the door with wistful eyes as spanking teams and gayly caparisoned equipages flitted by on their way to Agricultural Park. If there was a soul present there were 10,000 of them. Before 12 o'clock the grand stand was a sea of faces, and not an empty seat remained for the hundreds who continued to surge into the vast amphitheater for the opportunity to witness the great free-for-all pace. By 10 o'clock the aisles were blocked with humanity and late-comers of the male persuasion not to be denied, clambered up to the roof for a point of vantage. Breathing space was at a premium in the quarter stretch, the infield was lined with carriages ten deep from the three-quarter pole down to the first turn, and when the betting opened up on the pace, men fought each other for the chance to back their favorites. The defeat of both Silkwood and W. Wood by the outsider Seymour Wilkes was not the only sensation of this illustrious day, for Howard with 118 pounds up went out and cracked a coast record by spinning off the five and a half furlongs in 1:06. In fact the racing throughout the day was clean, smooth and unmarred by tedious delays or any incident that would lend color to the idea of hippodroming. It was a most fitting ending of a well-managed and successful meeting.

The sport was opened up with the usual spin for the gallopers, the event being the Junior Handicap, over six furlongs, for two-year-olds. The betting was rather lukewarm, the contestants being so evenly matched that the talent nibbled at the speculation charily. Before the sextette went to the post Nevere was slightly favored, the odds being Nevere $20, Peru $18, field $6. The horses got a good start and ran well hunched into the stretch, with Peru slightly in front and under a pull. When straightened for home Weber gave Peru his head and he won handily by three lengths, while Prince Hooker nipped out Nevere on the last jump for second money.

There were only four contestants for the Citrus Belt Handicap, a sprint of five and one-half furlongs, but betting was spirited at $20 for Howard against $16 for the field. The race was never in doubt from the fall of the flag, for the favorite galloped along in front as easily as a Fresno jack-rabbit and untouched by whip or spur got to the wire in the remarkably fast time of 1:06, three-quarters of a second better than the Coast record. Hueneme beat Mestesa by a small margin for second money.

There was a huzz of expectancy as President Newton shouted, "Bring out your free-for-all pacers." Silkwood was the first to appear, and he was enthusiastically greeted, and there is no doubt that he is the idol of the Citrus Belt, whether winner or loser. W. Wood also met with an ovation as he passed in front of the grand stand, while Seymour Wilkes was hardly noticed. Nevertheless, over in the pools he had a strong following. His stable contingent had raked and scraped for two months in order to get coin to back him for in his private work he had demonstrated the possession of speed superior to that shown by either of his antagonists. Silkwood was a strong favorite in the betting. The Santa Ana admirers were firm in the belief that he would turn the tables on the Steinway gelding as easily as he did two years ago here, and they poured their money into the box with a generosity worthy of a better cause. The supporters of Wood composed the talent—the men who are posted on the condition of a horse, his staying qualities and limit of speed, and their judgment told them that one week was insufficient to put Silkwood in proper fettle after his defeat on the home track, and they confidently put up their money, being secretly gratified at the good odds they obtained, without being apprehensive of the pride of Orange County, notwithstanding reports that he had been given three heats better than 2:11 since his last race. The Seymour Wilkes contingent had guarded their secret well, and they had no trouble in getting all the short-end tickets, as it was predicted the outsider would make one of his well-known breaks and get shut out. Before the first heat the average betting was Silkwood, $30; W. Wood, $20; Seymour Wilkes, $7; Silkwood drew the pole, and after one score they got away on even terms, and the crowd roared with delight as the favorite flew around the turn two lengths in front of W. Wood, the Wilkes horses a length back of the gelding. The official watches clicked 0:31½ as the three horses passed the quarter in the same order, and on the backstretch Silkwood had slightly increased his lead and he made the half in 1:02½. It was a heart-breaking clip, but Wood had gamely hung on, and seeing that the pace was beginning to tell on the black, Chaboya commenced to give chase to him. At the three-quarter pole Wood had decreased the gap to a length. Down the stretch the gelding continued to gain, while at the latter's wheel was Seymour Wilkes. It was a mighty struggle to the wire between the trio, and the whips were plied freely. Wilkes had the foot of the others, and at the critical moment he snatched victory by a length, while Wood managed to beat the favorite by a neck. Time, 2:08½. The stablemen were waiting for Ed Lafferty, and they picked him out of the bike, hoisted him to their shoulders, carried him to the weighing stand, while the assembled thousands shouted their appreciation.

It was a foregone conclusion that Santa Ana's pride was beaten, and his backers rushed to bet on W. Wood, the idea being prevalent that the winning of the first heat by the Wilkes horses was a fluke and would not be repeated, and accordingly pools sold like hot cakes at these figures: W. Wood 20, Seymour Wilkes 11 and Silkwood 6.

Again the start was an excellent one, and the heat winner, having the pole, set out to make the pace. Silkwood was going fast on the outside and had passed Wood before the quarter was reached, which was passed in 0:31½, a quarter of a second faster than the corresponding quarter of the first heat. As they entered the backstretch Silkwood poked his nose in front, and he had a half length the best of Wilkes as the pair whizzed by the half in 1:03½. W. Wood trailing two lengths behind them. As they entered the curve W. Wood tried to move up, but the effort was too much and he went in the air, while a murmur of disappointment rolled through the grandstand. The leaders swung into the stretch in 1:37½ with Wilkes slightly in the lead. Willits commenced to whip, and though the big black responded gamely, he had no reserve, and the octogenarian, realizing that he was beaten, stopped driving at the drawgate and Wilkes won as he pleased by a length, while W. Wood brought up the rear, ten lengths back. Time, 2:10½.

The speculators who had got in wrong came to their senses and they now endeavored to redress their losses by putting up $25 on Seymour Wilkes against $5 for the other two. The pools sold briskly at these figures as there were many who had the idea that Wood's easy heat would give him an advantage. It was a forlorn hope for he was never dangerous. The trio traveled in a line to the eighth in 0:15, when the gelding dropped back and Silkwood moving up had a half length the best of Wilkes as the quarter was passed in 0:31½. There was daylight between the black and the bay stallions as they flitted by the half in 1:03½ where Lafferty commenced to drive Wilkes. He gained steadily, passing the turning pole in 1:37½, nearly a length in advance of the shortender, at whose head was W. Wood. Chaboya made a desperate effort to catch Wilkes down the straight, but when he got to the latter's flank Seymour let out a link and passed under the wire in 2:11, Silkwood two lengths to the head.

If the enthusiasm was spirited after the first heat, the excitement was now delirious. There ensued a scene which was without a parallel on the local track. Through the lower drawgate came a sulky decorated with pumpkins and alfalfa in good natured mockery of Silkwood, it being commonly reported that the two products in question constitute the sole sustenance of the black stallion. Over the sulky was a banner inscribed with the name of the race and winner, and preceding the bike, which was drawn by a platoon of stable boys, were two boys hearing aloft a large American flag. Lafferty was again borne to the judges' stand on the shoulders of his admirers, and after weighing in he was lifted astride the pumpkin on the sulky and the procession paraded up and down the quarter stretch amid deafening cheers, howls and all sorts of demoniacal noises that can emanate from the human throat.

Seymour Wilkes' previous record was 2:12, which was made at Sacramento in the third heat of the 2:16 pace at the Breeders' meeting this spring. Frank Burke had the good thing up his sleeve for many moons past, and it is reported that his winnings on the race will not fall short of $2,000. The bookies laid 10 to 1 against Seymour to win the first heat, Silkwood's price being 3 to 5, while Wood tickets were purchasable at odds of 3 to 2.

The day's card and the meeting was closed with the 2:30 trot, in which Rex Gifford fell into another soft spot, his only contestants being Stella, Coal Dust, Belle Wilson and Mojave. He so outclassed his field that there was no speculation, and he spun off the three heats, each in the same notch, without ever being extended. Stella came second in the last two heats and got second money, while Coal Dust and Belle Wilson came in for the tail-end of the purse.

Our Milk and Meat Supply.

"Epidemics are beneficial to the human race" is a saying that, at first sight, seems to be a false one, but when we come to realize how much the lessons of these epidemics have taught then we understand its true import.

The prevalence of yellow fever in Memphis and Nashville caused the municipal authorities to have constructed sewerage systems that have made these cities healthy. The cost of this work was great, but its effects are incalculable, for the people take a pride in their homes and do not live in fear of a return of the epidemics which visited their fair cities every few years.

We learn by the latest reports from Honolulu that the visitation of that dreaded disease, cholera, has awakened an interest in the people regarding the sanitation of that city, which will, without doubt, cause a great change for the better in this emerald gem of the sea. A system of sewerage has been adopted, and laws have been passed which, if enforced, will prevent the spread of malignant diseases among the rich and poor there hereafter.

In San Francisco the news of the approach of cholera aroused the Board of Health to action, and the attention of that able corps of officials being called to the defective water supply, poor sewerage and the spread of diseases through the milk and meat supply of this city has caused a revolution almost to take place. In Chinatown, capable officers are daily inspecting the streets, alleys and underground hovels of the Chinese, and the work done in cleansing and purifying this portion of this fair city is thorough and, we hope, lasting.

The sewers in the lower portions of the city are flushed twice a week and even with these two reforms we were satisfied that the Board of Health was making a creditable name, but that is not all. The milk supply of this city has been known to be poor and of the vilest quality for years, but no Board of Health we have ever had has had the courage to appoint a milk inspector who would perform the duties of that trying office without fear or favor, until the present officer was appointed. He has been in office about a month, and the crusade against vendors of adulterated milk is as strong as the first day he stopped a milk wagon on the San Bruno Road and poured the contents of every milk can on that wagon into the sewer, and arrested the driver. The disclosures of the kinds of milk sold by these unscrupulous men have shocked the community, and the reputable dairymen who have never sold adulterated milk have had their business increased enormously. There are several of these dairies, and it is the desire of everyone that they be encouraged, and the vendors of poison be driven from the field. It has been a hard struggle for the former class to compete with the latter, every month the competition becoming keener and and prices lower. The milkman could not pay high prices for first-class cattle, and the breeders of the latter were compelled to turn aside their favored registered cattle and breed to inferior ones to sell the offspring as grades. A few years ago these breeders took delight in keeping up their herds of thoroughbreds, but when they saw no demand for them they were forced to breed animals they could sell at less prices. This is one view of this subject which concerns the breeders, and, laying aside all the worthy claims put forth by the medical fraternity and the intelligent public about poisonous milk (which we have always endorsed), there is no reason why a competent veterinarian inspector should not be paid a good salary to visit all the dairies and destroy any cows that they see are unfit to be milked: Cows suffering from tuberculosis, diseased liver, lumpy jaw and kindred diseases. Such an official should be appointed at once, and with the aid of a competent meat inspector in this city who will see that diseased poultry, meat or fish is not offered for sale in the markets, it will not be long before San Francisco will be noted for the excellence of its meat and milk supply. The fair-minded and honest dairymen and butchers will aid these officials in every way they can, and the public in order to get better and more wholesome articles, will be willing to pay a little more for what they consume.

We earnestly hope this work of inspection will be a permanent one, and that other cities and counties in California will follow the example set by this municipality and appoint competent officials to inspect their milk and meat supply. Adulterated milk and diseased meats can be found in almost all our interior cities, and it is with shame Californians have been forced to acknowledge this disgraceful fact in the past and were unable to refute the accusation.

The Big Fish That Got Away.

When, in the balcony days of old, I was a little tyke,
I used to fish in picket ponds for minnows and the like;
And oh, the bitter sadness with which my soul was fraught,
When I rambled home at nightfall with the puny string I'd caught!
And oh, the indignation and the valor I'd display
When I claimed that all the biggest fish I'd caught had got away!

Sometimes it was the rusty hooks, sometimes the fragile lines,
And many times the treacherous reeds would foil my just designs;
But whether hooks or lines or reeds were actually to blame,
I kept right on at losing all the monsters just the same—
I never lost a little fish—yes I am free to say
It always was the biggest fish I caught that got away.

And so it was, when, later on, I felt ambition pass
From callow minnow joys to nobler greed for pike and bass;
I found it quite convenient, when the beauties wouldn't bite,
And I returned all bootless from the watery chase at night,
To feign a cheery aspect and recount in accents gay
How the biggest fish that I had caught had somehow got away.

And, really, fish look bigger than they are before they're caught—
When the pole is bent into a bow and the slender line is taut,
When a fellow feels his heart rise up like a doughnut in his throat,
And he lunges in a frenzy up and down the leaky boat!
Oh, you who've been a fishing will endorse me when I say
That it always is the biggest fish you catch that gets away!

'Tis even so in other things—yes, in our greedy eyes
The brightest boom is sometimes illusive, never-captured prize,
We angle for the honors and the sweets of human life—
Like fishermen we brave the seas that roll in endless strife;
And then at last, when all is done and we are spent and gray,
We own the biggest fish we've caught are those that got away.

I would not have it otherwise; 'tis better there should be Much bigger fish than I have caught a-swallowing in the sea;
For now some worthier one than I may angle for that game—
May by his art entice, entrap and comprehend the same;
Which, having done, perchance he'll bless the man who's proud to say
That the biggest fish he ever caught were those that got away.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Canvas-backs are in. Tubbs Island seems to be their favorite resort.

A live black bird shoot was held at Elkwood Park, N. J., on Wednesday last.

J. H. Bruns and J. Karney killed twenty-one quail near Seares Point on Sunday.

The hunters' midnight train will be put on the Santa Cruz division on Saturday (to day).

Ed. Funcke has joined the Yokohama Gun Club and is shooting sparrows every week.

C. Cate and Parks had good success at Mowry's on Sunday. They bagged about fifty ducks.

The first tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association netted the treasury $210.

E. Bosqui, Merton Allen and H. C. Golcher were at Point Reyes on Sunday and bagged 107 quail.

The Berkeley College students have organized a blue rock shooting club that will be known as the University Gun Club.

The duck hunters in the Northwest are praying for rain. A good, heavy storm would greatly improve the shooting here.

W. R. Robertson was in evidence at the Seattle tournament. He won one event and made many new friends for "Gold Dust."

The Layman pneumatic boat is becoming very popular. Clabrough, Golcher & Co. are selling them as fast as they receive them.

Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Iowa, won the great Dupont Trophy Handicap at Baltimore with 25 straight, beating Jack Brewer one bird.

C. A. Haight and Robert Liddle were shooting at Dublin Sunday. They had a very pleasant shoot and bagged quite a number of quail.

Ducks were fairly plentiful on the Sonoma marshes on Sunday last. Dr. S. E. Knowles bagged twenty at Birdells, Edgar Forster and Otto Feudner 43, DePue 30 near Ignacio.

There were quite a number of hunters at Alviso Bridge on Sunday and Monday last, but on the whole the bags were small. Frank Harden and Crowell bagged sixty-four ducks and rail in the two days.

An intimate friend of the writer tried Dupont Smokeless on ducks last Monday and killed twenty-eight in thirty-one shots with 3 drams and 11-8 oz. No. 6 in the Nitro shell. We witnessed the killing and know whereof we speak.

E. J. Bell was in town on Wednesday and took back with him several hunters. Every one who returns from Bell's ark speaks well of the fare and Bell's treatment of visitors. His charges are very reasonable and his guides are of the best.

Every duck hunter knows that large flocks of decoys are better than small flocks. A single or a pair will decoy to a half dozen decoys, but the large flocks will only decoy to large flocks. If you want more look at E. T. Allen & Co.'s stock before purchasing.

The trial of Campodonico and Malcolm, who were arrested recently for selling ducks in open market has been postponed until to day. The case will be prosecuted by the Attorney-General in person. The market men have raised a large purse and purpose to make this a test case.

R. Liddle Co.'s new catalogue, "In the Field of Sports," is now ready for distribution. It contains, in addition to the regular list of goods for sale, a great deal of useful information to sportsmen; the comparative measures of the different smokeless powders; the game and fish laws of California, and a sportsmen's directory, that tells the sportsman where to go for quail, ducks, rail, doves, deer and trout, the cost of railroad fare, hotel accommodations and team hire. Every sportsman in California should have one of these catalogues.

The two days' tournament at Seattle, Wash., last week was a big success. The shooting was all at known traps, unknown angles. Tom Ware of Spokane won the Individual Championship Medal for the State of Washington with a score of 45 out of 50, E. P. Miner of Seattle 44, W. F. Sheard of Tacoma 43. Sheard broke 104 out of 110 targets the first day. Seattle won the team match. The team were Churchill, Hardy and Miner. The score was 75 out of 90, Tacoma second with 69.

Alexander Carr, a young Benicia tanner, met with a horrible death on Sunday week while hunting on the marsh between Goodyear and the Drawbridge. He had been with his three companions to a neighboring ranch house for water, on returning he crossed a small ditch in the tulle and pushed his gun ahead of him to part the tulle and see where he was going. He carelessly held the gun by the muzzle and put the butt ahead, and by some means the gun was discharged, the charge entering his head. He lived nearly an hour, but died before reaching his home.

Harry Connors, Arthur O'Rourke and Sam Lowe, all of San Jose, had a narrow escape from drowning in Alviso Channel Monday afternoon. They were hunting in a boat and when four miles from the landing the boat suddenly sprang a leak and began to fill. The three young men tried to bale out the water and in some way the boat was capsized. Lowe and Connors got safely to shore, but O'Rourke in landing sank in the mud up to his waist, and it took his companions about two hours to extricate him. If the tide had been coming in O'Rourke would have been drowned. The hunters lost their guns and ammunition.

No sportsman's parlor is completely furnished whose walls are not adorned with the "Shooting Picture" now being published by Chas. Scribner's Sons. They are twelve in number and represent the following subjects: Rail shooting, Prairie Chickens, Bay Snipe, Ruffed Grouse, Summer Woodcock, English Snipe, Ducks from a Blind, Ducks from a Battery, Fall Woodcock, Quail Shooting, Rabbits, Quail—A Dead Stand. The subjects are admirably treated by the well-known sportsman artist, A. B. Frost. They are remarkably true to life, correct in detail, and without any of the glaring faults so commonly seen in works of art that represent sportsmen's outings and are so readily seen by a sportsman. They are reproductions of water colors, well colored and well drawn. Each plate is mounted on heavy cardboard 19x26 inches, so that it may be framed at once if desired. J. A. Perine, Room 32, 331 Montgomery Street, is sole agent for this coast. Call and examine them.

The case of the Cordelia Club vs. King et al has been postponed again. It is strange that the Cordelia Club do not arrest some trespasser and make a test case of it, and settle this dispute that has been going on for years. The present method of bluffing the "poachers" is not accomplishing anything, and neither club-man nor poacher gets any shooting worth bragging about. A man locates on a pond and the club-keepers anchor in the center of the pond and shoot blank cartridges at every flock that comes within a quarter of a mile of them. The club men go to their choicest ponds and get fixed for a good shoot, and some hunter locates within gun shot of him and spoils his shooting. Some day somebody will get to shooting bullets in place of shot. There is no manner of doubt that the clubs can lease ponds and hold them against all comers, but they cannot hold navigable sloughs and blockade the same. The clubs have been to a great expense in fitting up their club houses and deepening the ponds; they pay $1,200 a year rental, and are under heavy personal expense for keepers and running expenses. If they can legally hold their preserves all sportsmen should stand aside and let them enjoy the pleasure that they pay so dearly for. If they cannot hold them then the sportsmen of Suisun, Benicia and San Francisco should be informed of the fact, and should be allowed to share the shooting with them undisturbed.

License and Prohibitory Laws.

Some time ago reference was made in these columns to the new law of Michigan, requiring every sportsman to take out a license or be prohibited from shooting deer in the State, and it was then stated that the number of licenses granted had been very large. Sportsmen throughout the country are greatly interested in this somewhat radical departure from the game laws now in force in other states, and time alone will prove whether the new law is good or bad. Some claim this is class legislation; that the poor man—who cannot afford to pay $25 for a license to hunt in Michigan, if he be a resident of another State, or 50 cents if he be a resident of Michigan—will be debarrred from his rights.

No matter how the law is construed—if it is constitutional, and it certainly is—it can only mean this: If the sportsman does not pay the license fee he cannot shoot deer in the State; the less shooting here is, the more game will increase. As that is the primary object of the law, it would seem that the end justifies the means. However, unless the new law is popular, it is safe to say it will be soon repealed.

In prominent contrast to this law is the one passed by the Missouri Legislature last winter. Section 3905 of the law says: "If any person, being a non-resident of this State, shall kill any deer, fawn, wild turkey, pinnated grouse, ruffed grouse, quail, woodcock, goose, brant, duck, or snipe, coon, mink, otter, beaver, bear, muskrat, or other furred animals, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor."

Missouri prohibits all non-residents from killing game in the State. Michigan prohibits only those who will not pay the fee into her treasury. The effect is the same, but Michigan is no doubt many thousand dollars richer since the law went into effect.

This is an interesting study. In one of the far Southern states, some years ago, an attempt was made to pass a law licensing gun owners, but its object was to prevent irresponsible and lawless men from carrying repeating rifles in menace to the public peace, as it was found that bad whiskey and a rifle were likely to get hopelessly mixed, and at such times innocent, law-abiding persons often suffered. That was a more sweeping proposition than Michigan's new law, which only requires a license from those who would shoot deer; or even Missouri's law, which forbids non-residents from shooting any kind of game.—Shooting and Fishing.

The Duck Hunter's Code.

A local duck hunter put out his decoys in a good-sized slough in a marsh not a hundred miles from San Francisco recently, and had just got nicely settled down in his blind when another hunter came rowing down the slough. In place of rowing past the decoys as rapidly as possible in order to avoid spoiling the first man's shooting, he deliberately rowed right in front of the blind and asked how the shooting was. Not contented with that he stopped and talked about the weather and the prospects of future shooting, and asked a dozen other questions. Finally the first man saw ducks shying off and getting out of patience he asked the fellow in the boat if it didn't occur to him that he was interfering with his shooting. The man in the boat got very indignant, but took the hint and moved on. This is one kind of a sportsman, but there is another that's far worse, viz., the man who gets up late in the morning and deliberately sets out his decoys right in front of and within a hundred yards of another hunter.

He thinks he owns as much of the marsh as his neighbor and being neither a gentleman nor a sportsman he plays the hog and spoils the sport of both. If the man who was first located objects, he tells him to go where its hotter and shoots at every duck that flies within 200 yards of him. The first man has his choice. He can get up and move on or go over and whip his neighbor and pay a $25 fine for assault and battery.

The marshes in this neighborhood are large enough and there are ducks enough for all. Any man who steals your blind or builds another in front of yours would steal your purse if he could get at it.

There is an unwritten law among sportsmen that is very generally observed, but occasionally some hoodlum gets in and breaks it. A blind once located and used for any length of time is the property of the man who built it. This is sportsmen's law and he who breaks it will become exceedingly unpopular to say the least.

Goose shooting is in its prime at Suisun. E. J. Bell's ark is at the head of Boynton's slough and he will meet hunters at Suisun and furnish them with everything desired. Snipe are also reported plentiful but duck shooting might be better. Good duck shooting can be had by sculling the slough but the pond shooting will not amount to much until we have a good storm.

The time is coming when the bag must be limited by law if the game is to be preserved. We legislate against the market hunter simply because he kills so many birds and allow two gentlemen sportsmen to go out and kill 300 ducks in one morning. How often does the market hunter exceed that bag.

SALES.

Glenmore Kennels', W. Berkeley, have sold an Irish setter bitch puppy, whelped February 15th, by Finglas Jr. 31, 189 (Finglas—Champion Ruby Glenmore), out of Lady Josie 26, 650 (Pat O'More—Belle C.), to Mr. Smith, San Francisco.

The Fish Commission.

An investigation meeting was called by H. F. Emeric, president of the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners on Thursday last, and the public was invited to attend. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Emeric, and he asked the gentlemen present to make their charges against either their deputies or the commission itself, if they had any. No one replied except Mr. Morrison, a member of the commission. He stated that he had spent two or three days at Rio Vista recently, and had seen the law openly violated there, and he wanted to know why the commission were not cognizant of the fact. Mr. Davis, the chief deputy, replied that he had been there two or three times, but with no result. Mr. Morrison complained that the meetings were held on a date when he could not possibly attend, and insinuated that they were held on such dates so that he would not be there. Mr. Murdoch moved that in future the meetings of the commission be held on the Friday preceding the first month to accommodate Mr. Morrison, and it was so ordered.

Mr. Morrison then asked if Game Warden Mogan had been before the Commission or had reported to any of its officers that he had arrested a man in San Francisco for selling game out of season, and had asked for the assistance of the Commission to prosecute him.

Mr. Babcock replied that he reported the fact but did not ask for assistance, nor was it proffered at any time, though it had been previously.

Mr. Morrison then asked if any one in the office had told Mr. Mogan that there was no money in the treasury for such purpose, and Mr. Babcock and Mr. Stearns both denied having told Mr. Mogan anything of the kind.

Mr. Morrison then stated that the man was present who had been so informed, and Crittenden Robinson arose and stated that Mr. Mogan had so informed him.

Mr. Emeric then stated that the Commission were doing all that lay in their power that during the past month Mr. Davis has arrested 28 for violating the game and fish laws, and had secured twenty convictions. He also stated that they had made sixteen arrests on the Klamath, but failed to make one conviction. Morrison proposed a standing award of $25 for the conviction of any one found violating the game laws of the State, but Messrs. Emeric and Murdoch did not think it advisable. Mr. Morrison stated that Yolo county had asked for a paid deputy, but Murdoch replied that "we can't provide deputies for every county in the State."

It has been stated in the dailies that there are 1500 boats fishing for salmon on the Sacramento river. Mr. Davis replied that there were but 315 all told and stated exactly where they fished.

Mr. Robinson then asked who would decide the case if definite charges were brought against the Board, adding that if tried before the Chief Justice innumerable complaints would be received, but if the commission were to try their own case no complaints could be expected. Mr. Emeric replied that there was no other body or judge that could try the case except the Governor, who appointed them.

Mr. Robinson then questioned Mr. Babcock closely on his knowledge of the case to come before Judge Low on Saturday, that of Campodonico and Malcolm, and scored him unmercifully for not taking more interest in the most important case that had been tried for years. He then asked the commission if they did not have $4000 for the purpose of prosecuting just such cases, and Mr. Babcock replied that that appropriation could not be touched by them. The meeting then adjourned.

THE KENNEL.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The Pacific Kennel Club will hold its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening next.

The Tacoma dog men are again talking dog show. With Seattle and Victoria to draw from, a good show could be held at Tacoma if properly managed.

The entries for the All-Age stake of the Eastern Field Trials Club's annual trials numbers 29, viz: 19 English setters, 9 pointers and 1 Irish setter. The Subscription stake has 8 entries.

The California Turf comes out this week with a new head and in new form, wider columns and new sub-heads. It is greatly improved, and Editor Dickson informs us that still greater improvements are to come.

The many friends of the well-known dog breeder and sportsman, Thos. Higgs, will learn with many regrets of the sad accident that befell him on Wednesday of last week. While returning from work he fell from the rear platform of the train, breaking his hip bone, fracturing one arm and cutting a big gash in his head. He lay by the side of the track until discovered by the track walker in the morning. He is at present doing as well as could be expected.

The Interstate Coursing Meeting will be held Monday, December 9th, at Merced, California. There will be an unlimited All-Age Stake at $10 each, prizes as follows: First, $400; second, $200; third and fourth $50 each. Dogs winning three courses $20 each. Nominations, including $10 for each dog, close December 6th, at 8 P. M. A Consolation Stake will be run after the regular meeting, to which the club will offer a suitable purse. John Grace will judge, James Wren will be slipper, J. R. Dickson slip steward and J. Reed flag steward.

The victory of Henry of Navarre in the Municipal Handicap decides the question of his being sent to England. If Mr. Belmont does not change his plans, the horse will be shipped on the 15th of this month. That the gallant chestnut will be able to hold his own with the best that England can produce is a certainty. That he will defeat the best is the hope of every American who has a drop of sporting blood in his veins.—Comm. Advertiser.

IMP. LADY SPLENDOR, off last, and last into the stretch, finished fifth in the field of nine. The form cards place her seventh, but her trainer says she was in fifth place, as he was watching her in particular. The six furlongs was run in 1:13.

Our Driving Association.

An enthusiastic assemblage of gentlemen met at the Baldwin Wednesday and organized the San Francisco Boulevard and Driving Association. The meeting was called to order by the temporary chairman, C. S. Crittenden, and the report of the committee on organization and the constitution was read. The following are the objects of the organization, and from the interest taken in them there is no doubt they will meet the early approval of every one in this city and county who is interested. "To originate and aid measures tending to put the driveways of the city and county of San Francisco in the best possible condition for the general uses of the public."

To devise, consider and recommend such legislative municipal and other measures as may seem wise and expedient for the improvement of existing roads and for the building of new driveways and boulevards in this city and county.

To aid and assist the proper officials in carrying out laws and ordinances concerning the proper care and maintenance of the roads."

Any firm or person in good standing may become a member by submitting their name to the Board of Directors, and upon being elected by subscribing to the constitution and paying the dues and initiation fees. The initiation fee shall be one dollar per member, dues one dollar per month.

The following subscribed their names at the meeting at once, and for such short notice and without canvassing the showing is one the originators of this organization should feel proud.

Cornelius O'Connor, John F. English, C. C. Bemis, J. O'Kane, Max Popper, D. H. Farnsworth, Samuel Gamble, W. S. Hohart, H. S. Crocker, J. A. McKerron, Wm. G. Layng, W. E. Bridge, Chas. A. Hug, Thomas Kelly & Son, United Carriage Co., J. W. Murphy, W. Z. Little, James Tompkins, Pacific Transfer Co., James McNab, A. G. Baldwin, M. J. McBride, C. S. Laumeister, James Hurst, Alex. McCord, M. Conlon, W. Michelson, Geo. Walcom, P. F. Dundon, R. P. Hammond, C. A. Warren, E. Malley, H. Dutard, W. Murray, C. S. Crittenden, John McCord, Jos. Magner, Grove P. Ayres, S. H. Seymour.

A committee on nomination consisting of Jas. McNab, Wm. G. Layng and Alex. McCord presented the following names for directors, and in executive session the gentlemen named therein elected their officers to serve for the ensuing year: President, Charles C. Bemis; vice president, C. S. Crittenden; treasurer, Charles Hug; secretary, Joseph Magner; board of directors, C. S. Crittenden, C. C. Bemis, Charles Hug, Walter H. Hobart, John McCord, C. O'Connor, J. W. Murphy, Major R. P. Hammond, Colonel W. C. Little, S. Seymour, James Hurst, Henry J. Crocker, Grove P. Ayres, James O'Kane and Joseph Magner.

The officers are to hold office for one year, and are to pass upon the eligibility of all applications for membership.

A committee consisting of J. McCord, C. S. Crittenden, R. P. Hammond, C. O'Connor and Colonel Little was appointed to visit the Street Committee of the Board of Supervisors and explain the aims and objects of the association. The committee will ask the Supervisors' assistance and co-operation in the following improvements: Improvement of the Alms house road and its approaches, which will consist of widening the roadway and giving it a proper grade; also the improvement of the park entrance of Seventh avenue, which is now covered with sand and is of an objectionable grade. In this respect much opposition is expected from the Spring Valley Water Company, which has its large mains laid and claims that great expense will attach to a change in the grade. A large amount of improvements will be asked for on the Ocean House road and the Ocean House Park boulevard. It is desired that proper connections of these roads be made. Much of the work can be done by the convicts in the House of Correction if proper guards can be obtained.

Foulshot, Son of Musket.

From the New Zealand Turf Register we find that Foulshot, the Musket stallion, out of the wonderful race mare Slander, by Camden, has proved himself already a great sire, and we do not wonder at New Zealand breeders regretting the departure to these shores of such an undoubtedly grand horse. He had nineteen starters last year, out of which twelve were returned winners and the seven others were inside the money, as we term it. A truly wonderful showing as an individual, Foulshot is without doubt one of the finest types of a thoroughbred ever brought to these shores, and is a Musket all over. Following is a list of his winning sons and daughters this season:

Winners—Aldershot, Pyroxylin, Docility, Fairshot, Fish Oh, Flying Shot, Nipa-Pu, Secretary, Snapcap, Straightfire, Strayshot, Waylay.

Horses that have run second and third—Campashe, Cloudshot, Miss Shot, Lascar, Upshot, Anonymous, Cowspanker.

THE rain spoiled the racing at Morris Park Thursday, for the track was heavy and many scratches resulted. Harry Reed was the favorite at odds on in the fifth race, while Defargilla was heavily played. Harry Reed led all the way, although he had hard work to win. After the race August Belmont bid the winner up to $2,500, at which price he was bought in by M. F. Dwyer.

LADY GRAY, the long shot that won the first race on Wednesday, is a gray filly, 2, by the Australian horse imp. Suwarrow, out of Muta, by Wildidle. Muta was bred by Senator Stanford. Her first dam was imp. Mutiny, by Adventurer; second dam, Muta, by The Duke. Lady Gray was bred at Menlo Stock Farm, by W. O'B. Macdonough.

UP to and including last Saturday at Latonia Willie Martin has a remarkable record in riding. In twelve days he has accepted ten mounts, winning four, finishing second five times, and was only once, in fact, as bad as third. Such a jockey Messrs. Fleischmann let slip away from them, but shrewd Pat Dunne was not long in linking Martin to himself for 1896.

JOCKEY SAM ALLEN of Houston, Texas, died early Thursday morning at Kansas City, from injuries received by being thrown from Maid of Ansel in the fourth race at Exposition Park. Allen suffered a fracture of the skull and injuries to his neck and shoulders. He was picked up unconscious and remained in that condition until his death.

Flyers at the Oakland Track.

The visitor to the famous track at Oakland would be astonished to see that the grand stand is destroyed, for the building has been leveled to the ground and a force of workmen are preparing the place for a foundation for the magnificent grand stand which is soon to occupy the site of the old wooden building. The track was never in better condition, and there is not an hour in the day in which it is deserted, for roadsters and trotters in training are being constantly worked over it.

To-morrow, five carloads of trotters and pacers will arrive here from Southern California, and will have a few days' rest before engaging in the races at the Bay District track next Friday. The horse owners feel worried over the fact that the runners will be using the latter named track until the day before the trotters with their bikes take possession. It will be almost impossible to have the track in perfect order in one day and the consensus of opinion is that fast time need not be expected on the opening day of this meeting.

Last Tuesday Ed Benham (Orrin A. Hickok's lieutenant) arrived with fourteen head of horses from the East. Without fear of contradiction we assert that this string of trotters and pacers is the best ever handled by Mr. Hickok.

With the exception of slight colds they arrived in first-class order. Hulda, 2:08½, looks very well, her game fetlock seems as strong as it ever was, but her troubles were those natural to her sex, and a veterinarian in Chicago says she will not suffer in the future as she has in the past from them. She has undergone a long period of medical treatment and is pronounced almost well. Time and rest will complete the cure.

Beauzetta, 2:06½, the mare that defeated Klamath at Bufalo is a strongly-made big little chestnut mare that looks as if she could go all day and never tire; her limbs are perfect. She shows considerable of the fineness attributable to the thoroughbred in her make up and has the reputation of winning the largest stake ever won by a three-year-old in a race, $22,430, at Lexington, the Kentucky Futurity of 1894; she was then driven by Gus Macey. Jos. Cairn Simpson was in the stall inspecting her as I opened the door, and he pronounced her marvelously well put up, and no fault could be found with her anywhere; her head showed kindness and tractability. He passed other complimentary remarks about her which, if the little mare understood, would have made her feel very happy.

Angie D., 2:11½, by Mikagan, was next looked at. She is another one of the strongly-made small mares that surprised the talent last year; in fact, all of the trotters and pacers here are below 15.3 hands, but they are built from the ground up, and are of the wear and tear kind, and Angie D. is no exception. She has an irregular white blaze and white fetlocks behind. There is not a blemish on her clean, flint-like legs.

In an adjoining stall is her mate, Josie B., 2:13½. She is a rugged-looking black bay mare, travels without boots of any kind, and is one of the sweetest drivers ever hitched. She is five years old, and about fifteen hands high.

There are two odd colored geldings here called Topaz and Gold Drop the former is two years old and the latter four. They are full brothers, and are made on the same lines as their sire, Alcyone Jr., 2:15, but in color they are light cream, with white manes and tails. Mr. Benham says they make a very showy team, and we do not doubt it. As trotters they are very promising.

It is always a pleasure to see a trotter and pacer that fulfilled all expectations. We remember how well the chestnut mare Miss Rita impressed us last year, and mentioned the fact to Mr. Hickok. He entered her for the big pacing events this year and now, as she is back to California with a record of 2:09½ as a three-year-old, she looks better than ever. As an actor, she is as level-headed and honest as Directum, and has no peer in the United States. She has filled out considerably and her good strong limbs are as clean and free from blemishes as when she left here, a green filly, last spring. Miss Rita is by J. J. Audubon, out of the dam of Bush, 2:10½, and Alcyone Jr., 2:15, and with her pacing record of 2:09½, this great broodmare is entitled to be considered among the brightest in all the galaxy of stars that illumine the broodmare ranks of the trotting world.

A two-year-old filly by Constantine, out of a mare by Electioneer, pleased us, she has a Constantine head, and bred as she is, there is no doubt her career will be a brilliant one on the turf. Bay in color and perfect in form, she is a credit to her breeding.

Bud McNail is also here. This is the dark chestnut gelding by Lynwood out of a mare by Don Victor which Mr. Hickok purchased here last spring. He is a pacer, but has no record. He will be kept for the Eastern Circuit of 1896, and is the best Lynwood foaled. There are three weanlings by Wilton that are fine looking, and will surprise their owners by the way they will grow in size and improve in speed by the time they go East next spring.

There is a fifteen months old bay colt here that is a wonder in his way. He is a Russian and is a full brother to the fastest trotter in the dominion of the Czar. He is a strongly built, well formed and pure gaited trotter, and Mr. Benham says is very speedy. We would like to see him establish a world's record, it would prove of incalculable benefit to the light harness industry of the world.

Some of these trotters and pacers will be seen at the Bay District track at the coming meeting next week.

MR. A. B. SPRECKELS has purchased of Mr. Charles Kerr, of Bakersfield, the chestnut horse Roadrunner at private terms. Roadrunner is a very useful horse, and a most consistent performer and reliable bread-winner, and was catalogued for sale at Mr. Kerr's coming sale. Since January 1st Roadrunner has started fifty-one times, has won five races, been second seventeen times and third twelve, winning about $2,600.

OWING to the stringent anti-betting laws passed at the last session of the Illinois Legislature, says a St. Louis dispatch, the East St. Louis Jockey Club has decided to go out of business on November 1st. All the property at East St. Louis is being disposed of and the track will be vacated on that date.

SUSPICION that a ringer may have been worked into the first races at Latonia Wednesday, caused the judges to order all the bets held pending investigation. Wild Huntsman is the horse under suspicion.

THE NEW TRACK.

Applications For Stalls, and a Large Number of Horses to Arrive Soon.

As the time draws near for the opening of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club meeting at Ingleside, considerable interest is felt in everything pertaining to it. As originally intended, everything will be in readiness by November 1st, though the meeting will not commence till the 16th proximo, when a most attractive card will be offered. The buildings at the track are practically completed, except the painting, and must be finished by Saturday night under the contract. The track, stables and grand stand are ready for use. The railroad company has a large force of men at work and will have tracks laid and trains running in good order by the opening day, November 16th.

To consider the question of more stable room which has arisen from the overwhelming success of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club's venture, the Board will meet to-morrow in the Palace Hotel. It is believed that an order for a large number of new stalls will be made. There are nineteen stable buildings completed, which will accommodate 580 horses in separate stalls, but that additional room is needed has been made more apparent by the large demands made for stabling.

A special train will leave Chicago about November 9th for this Coast with a lot of horses consigned to the new track at Ingleside. Up to yesterday applications for 490 stalls were made to the club. H. W. Laugenour, of the Terrace Stable, has secured 9 stalls; W. L. Appleby, P. J. Donahue and George P. McAneny, 10; Oakland Stables, including E. F. Smith and J. G. Follanshee, 6; O. Appleby, 6; Elkton Stable, including Charles Simpson, F. Van Ness and J. Ramsdell, 13; A. B. Gonzales, 3; A. P. Miller, 4; Bonni-field & Knight, 4; William Dixon, 4; Owens Brothers, 6; W. R. de B. Lopez, of Merriwa Stock Farm, Australian horses, 7; Kerr & Ward, 6; Shaner & Burlingame, 8; Pleasanton Stable, 14; Rancho del Sierra Stables, Theo. Winters 6; Woodlawn Stable, Matt Storn, 9; Hoag & Little, 5; Lone Stable, including William Murray and J. E. Terry of Sacramento and Thomas Lundy, 20; Zeke Abraham, 7; A. B. Spreckels, 22; Del Monte Stable, including H. H. Hunn and W. S. Hobart, 22; Santa Anita Stables, E. J. Baldwin, 25; G. M. Ashe, 7; Burns & Waterhouse, 30.

The Eastern horsemen who have applied for stalls and secured the required accommodations for their horses are well known and representative horsemen. Louis Ezell, of Chicago, has engaged 17 stalls; White & Clarke, Chicago, 5; Marcus Daly's string, under the management of W. D. Randall, will have 17 stalls; J. C. Brown & Co., Chicago, 11; John Brenock, Chicago, 7 for his jumpers; W. J. Spiers, St. Louis, 15; Frank Phillips, Chicago, 8; J. H. Shields & Co., Chicago, 5; Barney Schreiber, St. Louis, 30; John Robbins, Chicago, 12; C. F. Sanders, Chicago, 7; Ed Corrigan has engaged 30 stalls for his string.

GLADWYNE, by Plenty, out of Edelweiss, is a wonderful two-year-old. She took up 120 pounds and ran five furlongs at Los Angeles in 1:02½, defeating Nevere, Chino, Jim Bozeman and Belle Oak. Plenty, the sire of this filly, was brought to California from New Zealand by R. E. deB. Lopez; and then sold to Mrs. Wolfskill, of Los Angeles. Plenty is by Suwarrow, out of Lurline (dam of Darehin), by Traducer, second dam imp. Mermaid, by King Tom. In appearance Plenty is one of the handsomest horses ever imported from the Antipodes, and all of his progeny inherit his excellent conformation.

AGITATO broke down in the last race Wednesday. He was an equal favorite in the betting with Elmer F., and was thought to have a very good chance of winning.

Wm. Corbitt's Horses Arrive.

Last Tuesday Wm. Corbitt's horses arrived from the East in charge of John Dickerson. The following comprised the string: Fred Kohl, 2:12½, the fastest green three-year-old that appeared on the Eastern circuit this year; Fred S. Moody, 2:18, the great two-year-old stake winner; Lesa Wilkes, 2:09; Ora Wilkes, 2:11; Mary Best, 2:12½; Lynwood Wilkes, 2:20½; Double Cross, 2:18½; Last Chance, 2:26½; Burlingame, 2:18½; two geldings that were left in the East last season and three fillies. Mr. Corbitt left three horses East, one is sold and an option is left on the others, and if they are not sold they will be disposed of at auction in New York City next February. John Dickerson will not train for Mr. Corbitt next season, Cope Stinson having been engaged.

Mr. Corbitt does not look as well as when he left, but a few weeks in this glorious climate at his pretty home at Burlingame will make a beneficial change in him physically. He says that Mary Best and Lynwood Wilkes were off, the latter having met with an accident in transit and being virtually carried from place to place. With the loss of the use of these two and the lack of places wherein he could race Oro Wilkes he did not have the success he anticipated when he left. However, the two "Fred's" were good winners and helped pay the expenses of this big stable. Mr. Corbitt intends to sell at P. Kellogg's auction sale, over fifty head of the best horses, colts and fillies in his possession, including all those with records. Heretofore a number were reserved to be trained for the Eastern Circuit, but Mr. Corbitt intends to break this rule at this sale and dispose of every animal that shows signs of promise. Nothing but gilt-edged ones will be sold, and with the great reputation the sons and daughters of Guy Wilkes from the matrons on the San Mateo Stock Farm have earned during the past two years on the trotting tracks, there is no doubt all seekers after game and consistent campaigners will secure bargains at this sale.

MORVEN'S 1:20 in the six and a half furlong race was within two fifths of a second of Geraldine's coast record.

THE old story of "My God, but look at the odds," was brought to the minds of old race-goers Monday. Minnie opened at 200 to 1 in the third race, and some individual went around and placed $2 each way with each hook. Many others took a flyer at from $2 to $5 at the very pleasant-looking odds. Johnny Humphreys concluded $2 of a proffered 5-dollar piece was all he wanted, but his next neighbor took the full amount when offered to him. So many seemed anxious to secure the mementoes of their pluck that Minnie's price was rubbed back to 50 to 1. The little 2x4 souvenirs have been filed away among many other would-have-beens.

NIC NAC, who started Tuesday, is a very fine-looking chestnut colt, and is grandly bred. His sire, Take Notice, is by imp. Prince Charlie (son of Blair Athol and Eastern Princess, and sire of Salvator), out of Nota Bene, by Glenelg, by Citadel (son of Stockwell); second dam Notice, by Lexington; third dam Novice, by imp. Glencoe. Picnic, the dam of Nic Nac, is by imp. Mr. Pickwick, out of imp. Countess, and bred by Charles Reed at Fair View Stud, Tennessee. Take Notice is owned by Burns & Waterhouse, and they are the breeders and owners of Nic Nac.

G. W. TRAHERN, of Stockton, writes: "I perceive you made a mistake in regard of the colt Dorsey as giving Col. Cahel Dorsey the credit of breeding him. I bred, raised and still own him; also own his mother. Please give me credit of same. Please notice foal of July 30, 1895 one sorrel horse colt by Nick of the Woods, four white feet, half face, dam Blue Bonnet, by Joe Hooker, the dam of Ricardo.

By last files from the Australian we find that Clieveden (the own brother to that great racehorse and sire, Chester) now located at R. E. de B. Lopez's Merriwa Stock Farm, has another winner to his credit in Havana, while another son Attachment ran two seconds, in one of which he carried 145 pounds and was only beaten a head.

Driveways to the Beach.

A movement for better roads was inaugurated last Monday evening at the Baldwin Hotel. Although the call for the meeting was made by representatives of the livery and carriage interests, the character of the attendance was such as to indicate that the organization will have a much wider scope. Among the forty or fifty gentlemen present were Col. W. C. Little, representing Adolph Sutro; J. R. Freud, speaking for the Merchants' Association; Charles C. Bemis, Max Popper, Grove C. Ayers and others, owners and drivers of private conveyances. The immediate objects in view are the connection of Golden Gate Park by an entrance and grading with the Almshouse road, and the extension of the beach boulevard to meet the Ocean House road, so as to form another driveway in addition to that through the Park, and the widening and improvement of the roadway from the beach to the new Cliff House.

C. S. Cittenden, who acted as temporary chairman, explained these objects, and John McCord added that he had the assurance of the Park Commissioners that the desired entrance on Seventh avenue would be constructed. In order to open Seventh avenue, he said, it would be necessary for the Board of Supervisors to order a change of grade, and to accomplish this purpose he favored the formation of an organization at once.

There were many suggestions as to the name to be adopted, it resulting in the appointment of the following committee on permanent organization: John McCord, John W. Murphy, Charles C. Bemis and John O'Kane.

Mr. Freud reviewed the work of the Merchants' Association and said it was ready to give a helping hand to the movement in favor of good roads. He urged organization and said that when they obtained numerical strength the promoters of the movement could command from the city authorities what they were now compelled to humbly pray for.

On behalf of Mr. Sutro, Colonel Little explained the condition of Seventh avenue, which, he said, had been improperly graded a couple of years ago. An attempt to lower it six feet had been opposed by the Spring Valley Water Company, which had, however, consented to the lowering of the road three feet. As it was, there was an embankment of nearly twenty feet at H street. If the movement took shape, said Colonel Little, Mayor Sutro would give ten feet of his entire frontage on the east side of the avenue for a distance of four blocks. He advised that the assistance of the Park Commissioners should be enlisted, as with their aids there would be no difficulty in getting the Supervisors to order the grading of the Almshouse road.

SECRETARY PRICE recently wrote a letter giving a few figures regarding the stakes of the new Louisville Jockey Club that closed October 15th. Three stakes were opened—the Kentucky Derby for 1897, the Clark stakes and the Kentucky Oaks. With California and other remote points yet to hear from, the Derby has now 159 entries, the Clark stakes 137 and the Oaks 116. Among the prominent nominators are W. O. B. Macdonough, who has named Orestes, the son of Ormonde and imp. Kissing Crust, and others; Charles H. Smith, with twenty-one, including a brother to Longstreet, and other big-bred ones; Ed Corrigan with twenty; J. E. Madden with fifteen, including the Longfellow-Cinderella colt; J. E. Pepper with fifteen; Bashford Manor, fourteen; Ed Brown, thirteen; Baker & Gentry, ten; C. Porter & Co., ten, including the sister to the Butterflies; J. J. McCafferty, nine; Pat Dunne, eight; E. F. McLean, eight; Ireland Bros., nine; Fleischmann & Son, nine; Iroquois Stable, nine; J. W. Shorr, nine; Hankins & Johnson, seven; Avondale stable, Holloway Bros., Argyle stable, Dixiana stable, W. M. Wallace, Eastin & Larrabee, S. S. Brown, C. B. Reid, W. L. Laudeman, J. Rodegar, E. C. Headle, Himyar stable and many others.

JOHN R. GENTRY has defeated Joe Patchen three times this season—at Freeport, Milwaukee and Dubuque. He has not won a race from Robert J. Joe Patchen has won from Gentry four times—at Chicago, Philadelphia, Sioux City and Lexington. He met Robert J. six times, winning three times—at Cleveland, Buffalo and Lexington. While Robert J. won from him three times—at Fleetwood, Louisville and Lexington. Joe Patchen has started twelve times, winning six; Gentry has started ten times, winning three, while Robert J. has started in but six races, winning three.

W. W. P., which holds the world's champion pacing record to wagon, is a direct descendant of Vermont Black Hawk. His sire, Ben Lomond, Jr. was by Ben Lomond, son of Trojan, by Ward's Flying Cloud, son of Vermont Black Hawk. Trojan's dam was by Old Abdallah. Ben Lomond's dam was by Saltram, a son of Webber's Kentucky Whip, out of Seagull, by Duroc; second dam by Blacknose, a son of Medoc, by American Eclipse. W. W. P. was bred by Hunley & Clark, of Helena, Mont., and foaled in 1866.

THAT flourishing charity, the Bentick fund, was originated by, and not merely named after, as many doubtless imagine, Lord George Bentick, says an exchange. Shortly after his appearance with the flag at Doncaster, a public testimonial was got up for his lordship, and all sorts and conditions of sportsmen literally hurried up to hand in their contributions. It was a testimonial collected on a scale of which anyone might have been proud, and there is not the least doubt but that it was the source of intense gratification to its noble recipient. The sum subscribed amounted to several thousands of pounds sterling, and how nobly he acted when he received it. From his own private fortune he added a large donation to the amount presented to him by the unanimous vote of gratitude and esteem on the part of the motley community over which he exerted such a lordly sway. And then he placed the whole sum in the hands of permanent trustees for the aid and maintenance of distressed jockeys, and trainers' families, to be dominated for ever "The Bentick Benevolent Fund." It is, we believe, to this fund that the guinea each jockey pays annually for his license to ride is devoted, while a further source of sustenance is furnished by sundry fines exacted by the stewards of race-meetings and the Jockey Club.

THERE were a large number of millionaire harness horse fanciers attending the trotting and pacing races at Lexington, Ky. Among them are such men as William Russell Allen, of the Southern Hotel, St. Louis and owner of a well-stocked trotting horse farm at Pittsfield, Mass.; Major Dubois, one of the owners of the great horse Sulphide, of Denver; Wm. M. Singler, owner of the Philadelphia Record; Monroe Salisbury, of Pleasanton, Cal.; W. M. Corbitt, of the San Mateo Farm, California, and C. J. Hamlin, of the Village Farm, Aurora, N. Y. An amusing feature of these millionaires' visits to Kentucky is that they "turn themselves loose" while in Lexington and have a royally good time. At a little impromptu entertainment the other night, given Teddy Mehan, William Russell Allen, although worth $3,000,000, played the fiddle while Major Dubois danced a jig. To Mr. Allen's credit it can be said that he played the violin remarkably well and his performance was a surprise to the band of colored musicians of whom he borrowed the instrument.

ALIX, 2:03½, trotting, may be bred to Director, 2:05½, pacing.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—

- FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
SECOND It will not cause headache.
THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")
TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

DUPONT SMOKELESS
SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

- First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.
Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

Training
The Trotting Horse.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Sillby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develop to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm.

Cracked Heels and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sore, Wounds, Boot Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a CALLOUS, and will always remove a Callosus when caused from a wound.

It removes all Soreness with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked
Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.

The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALEX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the sore-ness with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callosus remaining."

T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KLAMATH,
2084, says: "I have been trying to cure Klamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are unsteady and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered

Splendid Racing, Close Con-

—How the Races
Were Won.

THIRD DAY—OCTOBER 30.

This was a day that was crowded full with live sport. The polo tournament drew out a fair attendance, but the superlative merits of the entire card of attractions deserved a patronage ten times as large. Evidently the people of Southern California are so wrapped up in their local idol, Silkwoods that nothing else in the equine line has attractions for them or else they were not aware that to-day the greatest three-year-olds that have been brought together in the United States, this year were to contest for supremacy; yet between the two horses, Silkwood and Zombro, the son of McKinney, is the most valuable piece of horseflesh. He has vanquished every three-year-old on the coast in different races, but there was a doubt prior to to day whether he was better than Stam B. The two had a bitter struggle early in the season at Napa, and it required five heats to settle the matter, Zombro coming out victor. The two locked horns again at Sacramento and once more they had a hard tussle. The race itself was won by Iago, a four year-old, but Zombro forced him out the first heat in 2:11. Stam B. chased him home the next heat in 2:12½, while Zombro was once more second in the last heat, which was trotted in 2:13½.

Consequently, there has been some little doubt as to whether Zombro was actually the king of the California three-year-olds. Everybody is now satisfied, for he proved himself to-day unquestionably worthy of that title, and the pity is that the grand stand was not packed with the people of Los Angeles to witness the remarkable performance of this equine wonder which they have in their midst. The three heats in this race were the fastest that have been trotted by any collection of three-year-olds this year in America, the respective marks being 2:13, 2:13½, 2:14½.

Starter McNair was once more in good form. The judges in the stand were alert as usual and scenting the existence of a job in the special pace, Judge Covey warned them in unmistakable terms of the consequences of any strong-arm tactics.

The card opened up with a special trot, arranged to secure records for the two contestants, Erastus C., of the Palo Alto Stock Farm, and General Beverly, owned by C. Edgar Smith. Beverly was permitted to take the first heat in 2:29½, and then Erastus placed the next two to his credit in 2:26½ and 2:22.

Then came the star attraction of the day with Zombro bringing $20 in the pools and the field at $7, which comprised Stam B., Jasper Ayers and Dr. Puff. Strange to say when Zombro came on the track—a grand specimen of symmetrical and majestic horseflesh, beautiful in form and graceful in action—there was but lukewarm applause, the majority of the audience apparently not recognizing the extraordinary quality of the animal.

The horses got off on the sixth attempt, Jasper Ayers spoiling several otherwise good starts, by breaking just before reaching the wire. Zombro having the advantage of the pole soon went to the front and was leading Stam B. by a length at the quarter which was traversed in 0:33½. Dr. Puff, was at the wheel of Stam B. while Jasper Ayers was four lengths away having broken on the turn. Zombro had an advantage of only half a length at the half, while Dr. Puff, not being able to stand the fast clip which was 1:05½ at the half mile, had dropped back four lengths, Ayers still being a stant last. The order was the same at the three-quarters which was passed in 1:40, and Durfee was still taking things easy with the colt. He never let Stam B. get nearer than his wheel coming down the stretch and at the wire he had two good open lengths the best of it. Stam B. was a half length in advance of Jasper Ayers, who had come extremely fast in the last quarter. The mile was negotiated in 2:13, and from the easy manner in which the son of McKinney traveled it, it is safe to say that he could have improved the time by two seconds had it been necessary.

There were but few spectators who cared now to risk their money against Zombro, notwithstanding the tempting odds of 10 to 2, and the poolseller's voice was stilled. To a perfect start Zombro led again, but Stam B. clung gamely to him and was at his flank as they sailed by the quarter in 0:34½. The Los Angeles phenomenon had an advantage of two lengths as the half was reached in 1:07. In the stretch Stam B. was at his throatlatch, but the brown stallion always had the foot of the bay, and with the most persistent urging down the stretch the best he could do was to reach Zombro's neck at they flashed under the wire in 2:13½. Jasper Ayers beat out Dr. Puff for third place.

The final heat was almost a repetition of the precedings Zombro always had two seconds up his sleeve and again he showed the way home. He was jogging when the red flag fell, Stam B. two lengths back, he a like distance from Jasper Ayers. The time by quarters in this heat was 0:33½, 1:06½, 1:41 and 2:14½.

A special pace for the 2:15 class was productive of much interest and brisk speculation. The entries were Del Norte, Belle, Harvey Mc, Ketchum and Fresno Prince, the first two named being driven to a high-wheel sulky as a handicap. Del Norte sold as a favorite at $10, all the others bunched, bringing in the first heat but $7. So peculiar was the hetting in the mutuals as compared with that in the auction, that the judges took cognizance of the situation and threatened to substitute a new driver if anyone was suspected of resorting to the air brake during the heat. Everybody must have known that Del Norte cannot develop speed in the initial heat of a race, for the money poured in on the field in the mutuals. There was another mutual box in which Del Norte was barred, and Belle was sold against the field. Some individual must have had a strong antipathy against the chestnut mare, for he played his money in the box at frequent intervals, buying ten tickets every time he visited the box. The outcome of the heat corresponded with the betting in the mutuals, for Del Norte did not win the heat nor did Belle come second. Field tickets against Del Norte netted 85 cents, while field tickets against Belle yielded 55 cents profit. The heat itself requires but little description, for Belle broke on the first turn and dropped behind a city block and an alley. Del Norte seemed unable to extend himself, but lay in third position, Harvey Mc and Fresno Prince racing out in front. Even the refractory Ketchum seemed endowed with new life and passed the favorite in the stretch, Durfee's horse winning by six lengths, with Fresno Prince second and Ketchum third. Time, 2:14½.

The faith of the wise contingent continued steadfast in Del Norte and he sold at exactly the same odds as before the first heat. The warming up which the favorite received in the first heat benefitted him and he clung to Harvey Mc's wheel, the first quarter being negotiated in 33 seconds, Belle breaking at the eighth and falling out of the race. On the backstretch he was a neck to the good and they whizzed by the half in 1:06. Around the turn in 1:40½, they went on even terms and then came a game struggle down the stretch. It was difficult to see which had the advantage, for at the drawgate they were pacing head and head and Durfee and Stimson both drew their whips. Both horses were flogged until the wire was reached, and so close was the result that opinion was divided. Del Norte got the verdict. Fresno Prince was a distant third, while both Ketchum and Belle failed to get on the right side of the flag. Time, 2:15. Del Norte was now a tired horse, and though he led into the far turn, Harvey Mc caught him there and passing him without an effort jogged in an easy winner in 2:20, with Fresno Prince again third. The race was then postponed until to-morrow.

The other special trot on the card was for the 2:27 class and it is still unfinished, only two heats being trotted. The result is likely to prove a sad blow to the talent for Stella was played persistently as a "cinch" and she never was dangerous. The other entries were Los Angeles, Potrero and Carrie C., and they brought $7 in the pools, Stella selling at $10.

In the first heat all the horses moved like snails to the half which was covered in only 1:15, Los Angeles being in front Carrie C. second and the favorite third. In the stretch Snider called on the mare and she shot to the front and won under a drive in 2:25½, the last quarter being negotiated in 34 seconds.

The talent never lost heart but still played Stella, and again she disappointed them for she could never get within four lengths of Carrie C. who made the mile without a skip in 2:21½. Stella was coming fast at the finish but two lengths separated the mares when the flag fell. Potrero was a fair third, a length from Los Angeles. The race will be resumed to-morrow at 12 o'clock.

During the afternoon an exhibition game of polo was played between the Riverside and Santa Monica teams, the colors of the former club being black while the seaside boys sported yellow. The occasion was productive of much enthusiasm, and the dashing ponies, the gorgeous colors, and quick spirited play, made an enlivening spectacle. From the start the blacks forced the game and in five minutes had scored a goal, the decisive play being made by Bettner, who on his roan pony Cigarette was the central figure throughout the contest.

Again they tackled the ball and Proctor led off for the yellows by hunting the ball toward the opponent's goal. Bettner rushed after it and sent it in the opposite direction with a clever back hand stroke. Waring caught the ball and drove it through the flags, making the second goal for the Riverside team.

The third time the yellows played hard and Young got the ball by a succession of drives into the black's territory. The whole field scrambled for it but Young again was there and scored a goal.

The score was now 3 to 1 in favor of Riverside, and after fifteen minutes' intermission play was again commenced. The yellows were now thoroughly aroused, and they kept the ball dangerously near the black's goal. Waring and Bettner were continually in the thick of the fray and prevented several goals from being made, but finally Young saw his chance and tallied again. Score 3 to 2 in favor of Riverside.

On Friday Riverside will meet the Southern California team to contest for two handsome silver trophies, and the event is expected to be the most spirited of its kind that has occurred in this part of the State.

The participants to-day were: Riverside—G. L. Waring, Captain, with ponies King Pin and Santa Clara; P. D. Martin, with pony Lady Jane Grey, and R. L. Bettner, with pony Cigarette.

Santa Monica—Captain, J. B. Proctor, with pony San Luna; W. R. Young, with ponies Jeta and Reta, and H. W. Ward with pony Black Maria. The referee was Dr. Edwards, and J. Keitchum acted as timer.

FOURTH DAY—OCTOBER 31.

This was another red-letter day of achievements for the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association. The people of Los Angeles are awaking to the fact that the meeting now in progress is affording the finest harness racing that Southern California has ever had the privilege to witness, and the attendance to-day was a decided improvement.

There was nothing monotonous in the sport for there was enough happened to keep people's tongues busy from noon to night fall. The surprise of the day was the down fall of Visalia, the redoubtable Boodle taking her measure in a hard-fought race and in doing so he lowered his record in the second heat from 2:14 to 2:12½ which is the fastest record made by a stallion this year.

Then the grand parade of trotters and pacers with records was an inspiring sight and constituted a living and walking proof of the assertion that California is indeed the nursery of America's greatest celebrities of the harness world.

The special pace, which was unfinished yesterday, was declared off to-day, as several irregularities had cropped up in the race which came to the attention of the officials, and they wisely took the action as stated.

The unfinished trot which was postponed yesterday after Carrie C. had taken two heats was the first race that was called. Spectators were at sea for Carrie C. in her preparatory warm up, showed signs of soreness and Stella was known to have a lame hip. Tom Smith's mare was, however, in better shape than the day previous, due to the afflicted part having received special treatment, and she went off the first heat this afternoon in front and was never headed, Los Angeles being the only one to get near her. Carrie C. broke on the first turn and again in the stretch, and finished a length behind Los Angeles. Time, 2:22.

Stella again resumed her position as favorite and justified the confidence of her backers by annexing the next heat in 2:21½, Carrie C. destroying her chances by two bad breaks. Potrero was second.

There were a number who affected to see a "nigger in the woodpile," particularly by those who had Carrie C. tickets, and one of those who had invested largely on her chances was Mr. C. E. Winship, who went over to the judges and demanded that Mr. Snider be removed from the sulky. While the officials had no faith in the claim that Carrie C. was not being driven properly or fairly, yet to settle all doubts that might exist, they substituted Mr. Winship's own driver, Tom Keating, who rather reluctantly consented to take the reins.

In the scoring for the fifth heat Carrie C. continually broke, and it was plain that the mare would not travel a steady mile. On the fifth attempt all got away together, and at the eighth Carrie made a tangled break. She went in the air again in the backstretch and was at the rear of the procession while Stella was having things her own way, twenty lengths separating the first and last horses. The favorite romped home a winner by four lengths from Los Angeles, while Potrero was third, ten lengths from Carrie C., who barely trotted a level step down the stretch. The time was 2:22½.

After announcing the result of the race, Starter McNair explained that the substitution in drivers was made after receiving a complaint which they could not ignore, but that the judges were satisfied that Mr. Snider had driven the mare to day as well as was possible, and expressed thanks to Mr. Keating for his services.

Then came the parade, headed by the ebony beauty, Silkwood, driven to sulky by his proud owner, Mr. Willits. The procession passed once in front of the grand stand, and upon its return Frank W. Covey took an elevated position near the gate and gave the pedigree, the record and a brief history of each animal's achievements as it halted in front of him. He officiated in a manner that was particularly pleasing. His voice was clear and strong, and was heard distinctly from all parts of the grand stand. His remarks, intermingled with timely sallies, were interesting, and at the conclusion of the review he received a generous meed of applause.

The parade did not include all of the horses at the track, as those who were racing to day naturally did not participate, but all the notables were there. The popular Silkwood was followed by the great sire McKinney, 2:11½, and four distinguished members of his family, the king pin, of which is the illustrious Zombro, 2:13, the others present being Harvey Mc, 2:14½, McZus 2:13 and Jennie Mc, 2:20. The Oregon wonder, Chehalis, 2:07½, then came for inspection, winning enthusiastic admiration, while his full brother, Del Norte, 2:14½, was not neglected by the delighted audience. He was followed by Silver Bee, 2:27, Irene Crocker, 2:17½, Paloma Prince, 2:17, Rex Gifford, 2:14, and the game Chico, all of which were deservedly applauded, but when Mr. Covey announced that the horse in front of him was the only three-year-old that could give Zombro a race, the crowd instantly recognized Stam B., 2:15½, and properly manifested their appreciation of this marvel of horse flesh, who is none the less a marvel because there is one mightier than he. Coal Dust, 2:21½, and Nutwood Wilkes, 2:19, had their friends, but everybody shouted when "Cookie" was announced, for Klamath is a twin idol with Silkwood in the hearts of the people of this Southern clime. Iran Alto, the two-year old with a record of 2:19½ that won the Stanford Stakes on Monday, caught the eyes of the multitude, and then came the lesser stars, such as Miss Jessie, 2:19½, Fresno Prince, 2:15, Myrtle Thorne, 2:18½, Knight, 2:22, Stranger, 2:15½, Lady Thornhill 2:17 and Belle, 2:15. The crowd yelled in delight when the champion of last Saturday's free-for-all race, Seymour Wilkes, 2:05½, nodded his head proudly to the audience, and he walked away with that grand air which indicated that he would give a good account of himself in the coming contest that closes the meeting. The crowd went into raptures over Waldo J., 2:08, and the intelligent gray stepped away with the airs of a king. The Ventura side-wheeler was succeeded by another worthy representative of Boh Mason, it being Fred Mason, 2:10, who vanquished Ottinger, Hanford Medium and Plunkett at the State Fair. Algoror, the fast pacing three year-old, 2:15½, and the fleet two-year-old filly, La Belle, 2:16, were enthusiastically received. The string of Winship & Keating, an aggregation of stars, were the next to appear. It comprised Jasper Paulsen, 2:16½, Ottinger, 2:11½, Agitator, 2:18½, Ethel Downes, 2:13, and Lady Grace, 2:15½, and each won plaudits, but the lithe and graceful Lady Grace received a regular ovation. Hanford Medium, 2:13½, a cracking good pacer, and Dr. Puff, 2:16½, a game, honest and high-class three-year-old, preceded the pride of Oakwood Park Stock Farm—W. Wood, 2:07, and the speedy side-wheeler pricked up his ears with delight as the plaudits of the people reminded him of the grand tribute paid him at Santa Ana only ten days ago. Two other distinguished representatives of this popular breeding establishment, Javelin, 2:13½, and Bahe Marion, 2:17½, were then inspected, and the procession wound up with Little Mc, 2:27, the game but unfortunate Columbus S., 2:19½, and the well known Atto Rex, 2:21½, who is just making a name for himself in the stud.

Racing was resumed with a two year-old trot in which Palita, Claudius and Don Roberto were the only contestants. The Palo Alto representative was conceded to have the race at her mercy and so it proved, for she had her field beat from the drop of the flag, and entered the stretch in each heat about forty lengths in the lead. Claudius was second in each trip but Don Roberto trotted a good steady race in the second heat and finished only a neck behind the son of Nutwood Wilkes. The time in the last heat was remarkably fast for a two-year old, the official record being 2:16.

It was the 2:17 trot that spilled the talent, and at the same time furnished a horse race of the first order. Visalia had beaten Boodle at Santa Ana where they met in the race won by Ethel Downs, and consequently the betting was $10 for the mare against $6 for the field, consisting of Boodle, Nellie W. and Prince Ira, Hillsdale having been drawn this morning on account of lameness. To an excellent start Nellie W. shot away with the speed of a quarter horse and threatened to make a runaway race of it, but Boodle was fast gaining on her in the far turn, be at the same time being overhauled by Visalia, who had dropped back ten lengths in the first half, which was covered in 1:07. At the three quarter pole Nellie W. had shot her bolt and the eyes of the crowd were now turned on the favorite who was quickly closing up the gap of six lengths that separated her from the leader. At the draw-gate she had caught him and her backers were breathing easy when she went up in the air and Boodle, coming true, won by a length in 2:15. Prince Ira was distanced.

The talent could not be swerved from their judgment in believing Visalia the better animal and remembering her Santa Ana performance in which she broke a record of 2:12½, she was still favorite in the betting, her price being $20 against $13 for the field which included Boodle.

In the second heat Boodle opened up a gap of six lengths, Nellie W. not being prominent and as the quarter was passed in 0:33½, the favorite was in last position.

Boodle romped to the half mile in 1:05½ and Visalia was no nearer to him than at the first quarter. Entering the last turn Perkins sent his mare hot foot after the leader who was still maintaining his rapid gait and everyone holding a timer predicted a fast mile as the watches recorded 1:39½ as the official time at the third quarter. Visalia was still crawling up on Boodle, and when the mare caught him near the draw-gate he made a bobble and swerved and Visalia was a length to the good before he recovered himself. Boodle was not to be denied, and picking himself up in an instant he nailed Visalia by a nose on the wire in 2:12½, and making a new mark for himself.

It was patent that Boodle had taken the measure of Visalia and there was a rush by the backers of the mare to get under cover, pools now selling Boodle $10, field $5. In the third heat Perkins drove the mare from the start and kept closer to Boodle than in the preceding heats, but the San Jose horse was on edge to day and he led her a merry chase, tripping the mile in 2:14½.

FIFTH DAY—NOVEMBER 1.

In point of attendance this was the best day of the meeting, the drawing feature of the card undoubtedly being the championship contest between the Riverside and Southern California polo teams. Society was present in good force and there was an excellent showing of tallyhos, drags and other fashionable equipages. Much of the interest in the polo game was robbed by the failure of the Burlingame Club to enter the tourney, for the boys from Riverside have so often beaten their opponents to-day that only the enthusiasts of this exciting equestrian pastime, and immediate friends of the participants, were attracted to the sport. Much disappointment was expressed and some disparaging comments were made, because the northerners had not fulfilled their agreement, and before the game was called Starter McNair announced in behalf of the directors that the default of the Burlingame team was entirely unexpected until with the last few days, as the association had arranged transportation for the entire outfit and had spared neither effort nor expense in their anxiety to make the match a three cornered affair.

While the Riverside easily secured the championship of the State, and the elegant trophies that accompanied that honor, yet every member of the team would have preferred to have emphasized their superiority by defeating likewise the Burlingames, and thus enjoyed their victory with a keener relish.

As regards the racing to-day, records were not in danger at any time, as in nearly every event there was one horse that outclassed his opponents, and what guessing was indulged in was confined to picking the second-money winners. In the 2:27 trot Zombro was never pushed, and as for Chehalis in the nomination pace, he was seconds ahead of his field, although Ottinger chased him out in the first heat in a neck-and-neck finish.

A special trot for records sufficed to keep the spectators interested until real racing began, General Beverly being pitted against the Palo Alto mare, Cressida. The filly got a mark of 2:21½ in the first heat and then the General took his turn, and in a pretty finish wound up with a record of 2:18½. On account of lameness Cressida was withdrawn and Beverly went over the course alone in 2:29½, although a local paper graphically described a struggle between the pair, in which Beverly was depicted as winning by a length.

The poolsellers appealed in vain for backers of the short end in the 2:27 trot, in which Zombro fell into a soft spot, his only opponents being Eva T., Neernut, Knight and Mojave. Then with Zombro barred they tried selling Eva T. against her field, and speculation even then was lukewarm at these figures, Eva T. $10, field $5. The race came as the betting indicated, for the three heats were but an exercise for the kingpin three-year-old. In the first heat Eva T. broke at the first turn and Knight gave an imitation of racing with Zombro, but at the far turn Eva T. had given him the hand-shake, and down the stretch she stayed by sufferance at Zombro's wheel, beating Neernut by a length, who had come from nowhere in the stretch.

In the second heat Eva T. again dropped behind, due to a break, but when Shaner got her level she spun by her field and again kept Zombro company at the finish, the heat being trotted in 2:17—three-quarters of a second faster than the preceding one. Mojave, to the surprise of all, was third, but his effort took the starch out of him for in the next heat he had the red emblem of disgrace shaken in his face. It was in this heat that Eva T. gave an exhibition of her quality. Shaner kept her second and laying second to the favorite all the way she made him travel in 2:15. The galloping Knight was third but Neernut was properly given that position.

Keitchum, by order of the judges, was an absentee from the 2:16 pace, leaving only Chehalis and Ottinger as the principal contestants, while Dan N. and Fresno Prince stayed in to get a few crumbs from the fat, purse of $1,200. The Oregon whirlwind had the call in the betting at $20 while those who trust to luck or other providential circumstances hopefully bought the entire field at $6. The first heat was a slashing good contest—the best of the day. Dan N. had the pole with Ottinger on the outside and Chehalis in the middle was pocketed soon after the word was given, the result being that Dan N. and Fresno Prince were the leaders at the quarter in 0:32½. The Prince concluded he had already earned his oats and shifted his gait and he was an inglorious fourth as Chehalis and Ottinger sped by the half in 1:04½. Still the gelding hung on and he was at Chehalis' neck as they whistled by the turning pole in 1:27. They came down the stretch like a double team and Ottinger, ably driven by the popular Keating, carried Chehalis to a break at the draw-gate, and the shortenders danced the highland fling with delirious but abbreviated joy for the black caught his feet in an instant and commenced to crawl on Ottinger, who had gained a length by the stallion's mishap. It was a close call, for the favorite coming fast won by only half a length, the time, 2:09½, showing that there had been a horse race from end to end.

That first heat made Ottinger leg-weary for he came to a standing break in the second heat at the eighth pole, while Chehalis serenely skinned out in front with ten lengths separating the black from Dan N. and Fresno Prince, the last two having a race between themselves. When Chehalis sailed by the half in 1:03½, it looked as if Ottinger would be distanced, but when he got straightened out he was sent along by Keating like a locomotive, and at the head of the stretch he was fast closing on Dan N. and Fresno Prince, both of which were still sticking together like brothers. Within ten feet of the wire he shot by Prince, and in the last stride nipped out Dan N. by a nose, Chehalis in the meanwhile winning hands down in 2:10½. The second quarter of this heat was paced at a 2:05 gait.

Ottinger was again on his bad behaviour in the decisive heat and broke on the turn and on the backstretch. He had no difficulty, however, in getting second at the finish, for Dan N. had broken his rigging and was distanced, which accident gave Fresno Prince new life as he saw the grip he had on the third section of the purse. The mile was covered in 2:13, although the first half was made in 1:04.

And now followed the event of the day, the championship polo game between the Riverside and Southern California teams for the two handsome silver cups, the respective donors being the Breeders Association and Mr. John Biadbury, of Los Angeles, a gentleman who always takes an active hand in promoting high-class sport. The colors of Riverside were black with red sash, while their opponents sported yellow silk. The composition of the teams was as follows:

Riverside—H. E. Maud with ponies Blue Gum and another unnamed; R. L. Bettner with Cigarette and Tomtit; G. L. Waring (captain) with ponies King Pin and Santa Clara; C. E. Maud with the ponies Dawn and Molly.

Southern California—P. D. Martin with ponies Lady Grey and Black Maria; W. H. Young with ponies Sheila and Rita; W. R. Ward with ponies Jorlocks and Santa Humo; and J. B. Proctor (captain) with Rex and Jack Pot.

The game consisted of three-quarters of fifteen minutes each, with intervals of fifteen minutes between each quarter.

Riverside drew the south goal and Bettner was the first to whack the ball which he rushed close to the yellow's goal, which was only saved by clever back-hand stroke from Proctor. Martin next made a fine run and drive, but Waring headed him off and the ball went to Bettner, who scampered away on his vivacious little roan, and he never stopped until he scored the first goal for his team—the Riversides.

C. Maud, of Riverside, was the fortunate man to first rap the sphere when it was again in play, and he sent it flying toward the north end. Young rode hard and smashed it back to center. Then a scrimmage ensued and quick as a flash Waring lifted the ball and it sped away for the north goal, with Bettner after it full tilt and Martin trying to stop him. Just as Martin was on the point of blocking him, Bettner reached far forward, and with a splendid stroke sent the ball spinning between the posts.

The first quarter was not yet up and the score was 2 to 0 in favor of Riverside and play was resumed, the wessers of the yellow playing savagely. They kept the ball well in Riverside territory, but they were unable to score a point for whenever things looked favorable for making a goal the roan pony would slip in and her owner Bettner would put the ball out of danger.

When the second quarter opened the yellows tried rushing tactics, and after the ball had passed back and forward several times, Young made a magnificent and well-timed smash, and the ball whirled between the posts, making the first point for the Southern California team.

Again the ball was put into play, Waring being the first to crack it and H. Maud doubled the dose and drove it close to the boundary. On the toss Bettner got it, and by a clever maneuver drove it through the flags, and another full point was added to the score of Riverside. When the ball was again put in motion the yellows gave it a succession of raps that sent it close to Riverside's goal, but in the scrimmage Martin got the ball and was on the point of making the goal when Waring saved the day by sending it in his own territory behind the posts which scored a quarter of a point. Time was called without further points being made. Score 3½ to 1 in favor of Riverside.

In the last quarter the Riversides demonstrated their superiority by making two goals, H. Maud and C. Maud each adding one to the score, and when time was called the score was 5½ to 1, Riverside as the winner.

Mr. M. S. Severance then made the presentation of the two trophies, and the cups were duly and appropriately christened by the victors and the vanquished.

The concluding event of the day was the race for roadsters, with non-professional drivers in the sulkies, the entries being George R., Texas, Jumbo, Sam H. and Dandy. Although Texas had defeated George R. in a similar contest the week previous, he was made a favorite in the betting at $10 against $7 for the field, the aspect of the betting being occasioned by the fact that a new driver was to handle the reins behind George R.

After administering several sharp rebukes to the amateur reinsmen, Starter McNair got the bunch off in good shape, and the backers of the favorite set up a wail as George R. broke on the first turn and dropped to last position. When he squared away again he went fast, but tangled up again in the backstretch. In the meantime Jumbo was out in front and he came down to the wire in a jog with Texas four lengths back and the favorite barely saving his distance. Time, 2:30.

Despite his poor showing, George R. was still a strong first choice, for he had lost a boot and dropped a toe-weight in the initial heat. In the next two heats nothing could get dangerously near him and he won the second heat in 2:25 and the next in 2:26½, Jumbo being second in each instance. The gathering darkness then made a postponement of the race necessary until to-morrow, and the spectators dispersed, well pleased with the events of the day.

SIXTH DAY—NOVEMBER 25.

The directors of the association, the members thereof and their friends all breath a sigh of relief and gratification when they awoke this morning and saw Old Sol smiling benignly upon them, for the evening previous there were indications of rain.

The weather was delightful for the closing day of the meet. The atmosphere had lost its oppressiveness which has been a distinguishing characteristic of it during the past week, and a light breeze from the ocean was so refreshing as to put every body in good spirits.

The track has been rapidly improving since the gallopers have ceased working on it, and to-day it was in the condition usually but tangibly described as "lightning fast."

But best of all, it was "a good sight for sore eyes" to see the big crowd that was present. They came on foot, in the street cars, in hacks, in tally-hos and drags, and top buggies were there in such profusion that one envied the manufacturers and dealers of that popular vehicle. Of course they all came to see the free-for-all pace, and they were there to see Silkwood win. The other events on the programme had no charm for them, and almost every time the horses in the 2:40 and 2:20 class trots come out on the track for a heat, each woman would ask her neighbor, "Is this the Silkwood race?" And the men themselves were not much better posted, but just as deeply interested, and as eager for information. One of the visitors who was hanging over the fence with his feet glued between the pickets, occasioned quite a sensation by calling to his friends "There goes Silkwood" as Coal Dust, with Jimmy Mack behind him, was warming for the 2:40 trot, and the clever reinsman will probably wonder until he reads this, why so many people were gazing at him in pop-eyed admiration to-day. Between Coal Dust and Silkwood, there is a great gulf, but for a brief instant until the delusion was shattered, the former occasioned as much satisfaction and delight to the few who were mistaken in his identity as though it had been the pride of Santa Ana himself.

However, it will be a long time before Silkwood stock again reaches par, for to-day was the third time in as many weeks that he has disappointed his friends and backers. W. Wood and Ben Chaboya were a hard combination to beat to-day, and the faithful gelding went by long odds the best race of his life. He was in the pink of condition, thanks to the perseverance and careful work of Mr. Chaboya; the track suited him, and had he been pushed in the first heat he could have easily made the mark 2:07 as 2:07½.

In fact, the entire card was of the blue-ribbon order, and the 2:20 trot developed into a puzzle harder to manage than the famous "Pigs in Clover." It was the only race that has occurred in Southern California this year, which required six heats to reach a decision, and the talent got so badly mixed up before it was over that their minds were like a gridiron.

As early as 12:30 o'clock Starter McNair called the unfinished race for roadsters. George R. already had two heats to his credit, and just to show the others a taste of his quality he reeled off the deciding heat to-day in 2:21½, which must be accounted a remarkable performance, considering the fact that he was driven to a high sulky. Jumbo, as usual, was a consistent second.

The 2:40 trot had five starters, the shining star of which was Lady Grace, who was made a strong favorite in the betting on the strength of her signal defeat of Native State last Tuesday. The pet of Winship & Keating's string brought $20 in the pools, while only $5 was obtainable for Lady Thornhill, Coal Dust, Stamboul Belle and Belle Wilson hunched as a field. In the mutuals Coal Dust sold against the field with Lady Grace barred.

In the first heat Lady Thornhill had the pole, but it proved of no lasting advantage for the favorite left her field in the rear before the quarter post was reached, the distance being covered in 0:34½. Belle Wilson was second and still maintained that position until the stretch, when Sullivan passed her with Lady Thornhill and Stamboul Belle did likewise, and in that order they finished, Lady Grace having an advantage of six lengths at the wire, Lady Thornhill four lengths in front of Stamboul Belle, while the unsteady Coal Dust was a distressing last.

In the second heat Lady Grace went a merry clip for part of the journey. In the other heat the three-quarters was covered in 1:42, but this time Coal Dust took hold of her and raced to the quarter, where he gave way to Lady Thornhill, and the pair passed the third quarter post in 1:40. Down the stretch Keating took things leisurely and the mare jogged home in 2:20. Coal Dust was in a better mood and succeeded in beating Belle Wilson for third position.

Lady Grace again headed the procession in the next heat and was never pushed at any time. Stamboul Belle was second part of the way, but his legs got into difficulty as she turned for home and Lady Thornhill once more got the position that earned her second money. The time by quarters was 0:34½, 1:08½, 1:44½ and 2:19½.

Then came the race that kept speculators at fever heat until the affair was decided. It was the nomination trot, 2:20 class, and the following were entered to start: Irene Crocker, Jasper Ayers, Thompson, Myrtle Thorne, Chico and McZeus. It was a hard race to guess for the field was evenly balanced, but on the strength of his good performance last Tuesday, where he won an easy heat in 2:14½, McZeus opened up as favorite. There was too much Chico money in the air, however, and in a short time he was bringing the top price, pools selling as follows: Chico $20, McZeus $16, Jasper Ayers $6 and the field $4.

First heat—In the second score the horses got away on even terms, but around the first turn Connolly, behind Irene Crocker, fouled Jasper Ayers by driving into the latter's sulky and Johnny Perkins was tipped out and his bike badly damaged. While the accident was occurring McZeus skimmed away in front with the others strung out behind him. He was at the half in 1:06½ with Thompson four lengths back, where Chico seemed to move no faster than a cable car until the stretch was reached where he passed Thompson, but was so far behind McZeus at the finish that the latter literally walked under the wire in 2:16½.

The wise people continued playing Chico as though the performance of McZeus was but a flash in the pan, and average pools were McZeus $30, Chico $20, Jasper Ayers $8, field $4.

Second heat—Irene Crocker was disqualified on account of the foul and did not start, and the five horses were dispatched by Starter McNair in short order. They had not gone one hundred yards before McZeus dropped back as suddenly as though he had the heart disease, and Chico at once captured the pole and was leading Myrtle Thorne by four lengths as they passed the quarter in 0:34½, she two lengths in front of Jasper Ayers, while even Thompson was throwing dirt in the face of the favorite. By the half in 1:07, and around the turn in 1:42, the order remained the same and the only struggle down the stretch was between the Grandissimo mare and Jasper Ayers, the latter coming very fast at the finish and beating her by a neck. Jasper had made several running breaks during the heat, and for this reason Myrtle Thorne was very properly awarded second position. The heat was trotted in 2:14½ but Chico had done it so easily that he was made a red-hot favorite in the auction, his price being $20 against $8 for the entire field, and tickets were sold faster than the card writers could prepare them.

Third heat—Chico had the pole and leading his field by a length, he passed the quarter in 0:34, the half in 1:05½, and was at the third post in 1:39½. McZeus had been second throughout, but in the stretch he went hot fast after Chico. The pace was too rapid for Sullivan's horse and he went off his feet, and before he recovered McZeus had two lengths advantage. When Sullivan had Chico steady he made a desperate effort to recover the lost ground and he had succeeded in getting on even terms with McZeus within fifty feet of the wire, when leg weariness again asserted itself and McZeus won by a length in 2:13, while Jasper Ayers was a fast-comer third. Myrtle Thorne made a tangled break early in the heat and was distanced, but in the previous heats she traveled exceptionally well considering the fact that she is in a badly crippled condition. Pools now sold Chico $20, field $17, and there were plenty of takers for both ends, the backers of Chico still sticking to him, as they reckoned that the Blackbird blood in him would enable him to outlast the others. The Blackbird strain must have been rather thin, for after leading for three-quarters of the journey he stopped next to nothing when McZeus and Jasper Ayers collared him at the draw-gate, and the latter won in a drive from McZeus by half a length in 2:15½.

Fifth heat—The talent, now in a quandary, and realizing that Chico's goose was cooked, endeavored to get even by playing McZeus, the presumption being that Jasper Ayers' win was but a fluke. They were woefully mistaken, for after McZeus had showed the way to the half in 1:08, Jasper let out a couple of links, and passing the McKinney colt, apparently without an effort, he assumed a lead of two lengths, and, increasing it down the stretch, won handily in 2:16½, with McZeus second, Chico third and Thompson fourth.

Sixth heat—There evidently were any number of people who thought McZeus had been "playing 'possum" in the preceding two heats, for there was a rush to back the stallion at $20, while Jasper Ayers and Chico sold together as a field at $11; Thompson having been relegated to his stable for not winning a heat in five. A start was effected on the second score, and Jasper had his field beat before he reached the stable turn. He flitted by the quarter in 34½ seconds, the half in 1:08, the three-quarter post in 1:43, winning the heat and with it the race in 2:16½, with McZeus a struggling second, and the counterfeit Chico a feeble third. Outside of the free-for-all, this was undoubtedly the hottest and most exciting race of the meeting, and if more of such contests could be arranged more interest would be aroused in light-harness racing, for it is the humdrum events where one horse greatly outclasses his field that produces apathy.

A half-mile dash, for polo ponies, served to keep up the interest of spectators until the side-wheelers appeared. There were five that faced the flag, but G. L. Waring's Wonder, ridden by Charley Weber, had the pool of his field, and leading throughout, galloped home a winner in 0:53. Lady Gray was second until the stretch, where Jack Pot passed her and held the advantage to the wire.

Kittiwake 127 and Santa Monica 121 also ran.

The star attraction of the day and of the week was called at 3:45 o'clock, and as each of the speedy side-wheelers passed in front of the stand they were greeted with enthusiasm and prolonged cheering, Silkwood, of course, coming in for the greatest share. The betting-ring was thronged, and speculation on this event was the briskest of the week, Silkwood selling at $30, Seymour Wilkes $20, Wood $12 and Pathmont $10.

Pathmont drew the pole in the first heat, W. Wood second, Silkwood third and Seymour Wilkes on the outside. They were dispatched to a perfect start on the second attempt and Chaboya lost no time in taking Wood to the front and capturing the pole, he going to the quarter in 31½ seconds where Silkwood came up on even terms, Wilkes two lengths back and Pathmont fourth. Positions had not changed any at the half which was covered in 1:02½, Wood still holding safe the pride of Santa Ana by half a length, he three lengths in front of Wilkes. They were still going the same hot clip at the turning post where the watches clicked 1:36, and the gelding's legs were going like clockwork with never a symptom of a hobble in his gait. It was a royal struggle down the stretch for Seymour Wilkes was coming fast and threatened to be a dangerous factor at the finish. Forty yards from the wire he collared Silkwood but he was unable to overhaul Wood, who won by two lengths in the cracking good time of 2:07½.

It was apparent that the representative of the Oakwood Park Stock Farm was in condition to go the race of his life, and consequently the betting naturally shifted, Wood bringing $20, Seymour Wilkes $15, Pathmont $10, and Silkwood $5. After the first heat the judges called up Mr. Keating and asked for an explanation of the performance of Pathmont, who had been a rather distant last all the way. Mr. Keating stated that his horse had travelled the heat in 2:10 and that was the best the horse had ever shown, and the statement was amply verified in the next heat. Wood again led passing the quarter in 0:32½, but before he had got far into the backstretch he made a mistake, and taking the advantage of the gelding's break the venerable driver of Silkwood pushed him to the front and the crowd yelled with delight as he opened up a gap of four lengths. He passed the half in 1:03 with Pathmont in hot pursuit and at the head of the stretch the brother of Alto had collared the black stallion. Keating never quit driving for an instant but kept Pathmont at his top notch of speed until he had safely passed the wire in 2:10½. Seymour Wilkes once more came fast down the stretch and beat Silkwood, while Wood was twenty lengths in the rear. The second quarter of the mile was paced in a 2:04 gait and shows the speed that Silkwood possesses, and had he been properly rated he would doubtless have been closer at the finish. Pathmont now brought $20 and the entire field $25, but not many pools were sold at those odds, the price of Pathmont dropping to $15, as the impression prevailed that Seymour Wilkes would take the next three heats on account of his game showing in the preceding heats. The knowing ones were fooled, for Seymour Wilkes had developed lameness and Pathmont and Wood had the race to themselves. The former led by a quarter in 0:32½, but Wood, ably driven and rated by Cbaboya, caught and passed him at the half in 1:05½. Silkwood was in the rear and moving slowly. At the third quarter the time was 1:33½, and though Pathmont had every aid which a skillful driver can give, he could never quite reach the gelding, who won by two lengths in 2:11 flat, with Seymour Wilkes a good third despite his lameness. Silkwood also pulled up lame, his limping being so marked as to excite universal comment.

The spectators now wanted nothing but W. Wood and freely offered $20 on him against $10 on the field. It was growing dark and the full moon had risen high above the horizon when the fourth heat was called. Wood had no trouble in leading from wire to wire and jogged home in 2:16, with Seymour Wilkes six lengths away, Pathmont third and Silkwood a limping last. The time by quarters was 0:33½, 1:07½, 1:42 and 2:16.

Then the greatest enthusiasm prevailed and Cbaboya was hoisted on the shoulders of his stable attaches and carried triumphantly to the judges' stand, while Mr. Boyd, the owner of the great side-wheeler, was the recipient of numerous and hearty congratulations from their friends.

Thus was fittingly ended the first Breeders meeting ever held in Los Angeles, and the directors were deservedly complimented on all hands for the ability with the entire affair had been managed and the conscientious consideration that has characterized the arrangements made for the accommodation of the horsemen and the comfort of the public. While not altogether satisfactory in a financial sense to the association, the meeting will bear good fruit, and should Los Angeles ever be accorded the honor again at the hands of the Breeders' Association, the people of the orange and the vine will undoubtedly make amends for the rather scant attendance on this occasion.

Kindergarten Lessons in Horse Buying.

There may have been some gems secured at last night's horse sale. There certainly was one. In securing the half-brother of Tim and Pat Murphy for $1,300, Matt Storn showed that great lessons of nature have not passed him by unobserved, and he probably also secured the greatest yearling bargain of the season.

I had not seen Maggie R.'s latest until I saw him in the prize ring. He stood there a picture of grandeur and beauty. A remark to the right of me was to the effect that his legs would probably not support his tremendous body. The same was said about Crescendo. In Bellicoso, Crescendo's older half-brother, we were shown how great a mare was her dam. In Tim Murphy we revelled, and still revel, in equine greatness, even though class may be absent. The lesson of the mating of Janet N. and Maggie R. to Flambeau is an optical illustration that equine greatness oftentimes overcomes all the rules of breeding imagined by mankind. The infinite of nature dwarfs and makes pigmies of finite men. Given really great mares who can throw superior horses to moderate sires, the mating of a grand stallion of generous lines and blood like Flambeau cannot fail to produce the very best lookers, the very best doers. The lessons are manifold. His generous treatment as a youngster, his vigorous work when a ripe horse, all help to make him as worthy a representative sire for California as any sire can possibly be for any other part of the world.

RATAPLAN.

Benefits to Exhibitors.

Following are the benefits to exhibitors of horses at the Horse Show which commences in this city December 3d, entries for which close to-day:

- 1.—The railroads give free transportation of stock one way.
 - 2.—You get a free badge of admission, positively not transferable to the Horse Show, good at all times and worth $10.00.
 - 3.—Each attendant in charge of horses gets a free admission badge, not transferable.
 - 4.—The horses exhibited will be seen by thousands of people who are liable to purchase them, if for sale, and they will become well advertised.
 - 5.—There will be public and private sales of horses after the horse show.
 - 6.—The prizes amount to over $20,000, and animals taking prizes will have an enhanced value in consequence of their success.
 - 7.—No horse unless exhibited during the show will be allowed to be put up at public sales.
- Make entries before November 9th, to insure stalls and boxes and proper description in catalogues and programmes.

Of Interest to Horsemen and Breeders.

There is a long-felt want supplied in this city and that is a large salesyard where horses, cattle, vehicles of all kinds and harness will be sold or purchased. Messrs. L. E. Lawson and W. J. Killip have opened such a place at the corner of Van Ness Avenue and Market streets, and are now prepared to receive consignments of horses or cattle in large or small lots to be sold at private sale or public auction. These gentlemen are also prepared to purchase horses or cattle of all descriptions, and are thoroughly qualified to do so, for two better judges of stock are not to be found in this city. They have for the accommodation of stock some seventy-five large and well-ventilated box stalls, and guarantee to give first-class care, feed and attention to all in their care at very reasonable prices. All our readers who have an idea of selling any stock should communicate at once with these gentlemen, for we know they will treat them courteously and fairly. Their names and standing in this community is a sufficient guarantee of their worth and stability. Write at once to Central Salesyard Co. for further particulars regarding this worthy enterprise.

Oregon Eclipse is a Very Good Sprinter—He Beats Major Cook, and then Libertine, in Slippery Going—The Mudlarks Have an Inning.

SIXTH DAY—FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1.

MORE disastrous day for the talented gentlemen would be hard to imagine that this one proved. Five good favorites were bowled over, and all the false hopes that had been bolstered up after each successive defeat were in turn demolished—ruthlessly cast down. And a 30 to 1 shot added insult and injury. The bookies, of course, reaped a harvest, though in most cases the winners were backed sufficiently to prevent their making a thorough clean-up.

The attendance again to-day was very good, and the card provided was much above the average. There were two displays of superior jockeyship. In both instances Chevalier had the mount on the favorite, with Tod Sloan up on the second choices. Tod clearly outclassed Chevalier, and landed both winners. If the mount had been changed, Tod would have been as easy a victor.

Mr. Ferguson was in bad form to-day, something, by the way, that rarely occurs, and only two of his starts could be called good ones.

The successful jockeys were Tod Sloan, with two wins in two mounts, Hinrichs, Burns and Chevalier each with one.

There was a long delay at the post in the first race, caused principally by Donahue, on Mt. McGregor II, refusing several breaks. At the start-off, with not the best of the start, Donahue pulled his horse up and was left at the post. He has spoiled more good starts and shown more ability in getting cut off than any boy at the track. That he does not improve any is most apparent to those who witness his daily display of mulishness. Rejected opened up such a gap from the start as to look like a winner. Masero challenged her on the last turn, but El Primero was rushed out of the bunch and won in a drive by a nose.

Vivace, who won a fair race the day before, was a very warm favorite in the second event, but Yreka, unsupported at 30 to 1, and Prince at 8 to 1 for the place, finished heads apart, with Irma, third, a length in front of the favorite. It looked nothing short of stupidity that lost the race for Vivace. She got off badly and came into the stretch fully six lengths behind the leader, and was running wide of the rail. After she had gained over three lengths and was winning easily, all the others being in trouble, with the boys at the bat, she shot in to the rail and was most effectually pocketed.

Gondola, Monarch and Soledad in the third race, at five furlongs, were considered to be of about the same measure, though Monarch turns Gondola down every time they meet. Soledad's second to Soledadain, and Gondola's second to Nelson were about on a par, with the difference in favor of Gondola, and two pounds overweight on Soledad added to her advantage. At least that was the way it looked to those that "figger." To the gentlemen who flutter about the betting ring it looked like Gondola, Soledad, Monarch. After the race had been run the order was reversed. Soledad led from the flag into the stretch, where Monarch got him and won by a length. Gondola glided along from fifth at the start into a poor third. One of the amusing features of the betting was the short odds of 10 to 1 on Allahabad. The name of the jockey who had the leg up was too familiar and too closely allied with Sleeping Child's 40 to 1 coup to be ignored. The talent were not willing to be felled on again.

The handicap, at six and a half furlongs, was the most interesting event on the card, and was a lively betting affair. Arnette was installed favorite, and was most liberally supported, but heavy commissions on Thelma forced her price to 8 to 5 at post time, a slight choice over Arnette. Mainstay went back from threes to sixes, as the distance was at least a half furlong more than he liked. McLight was heavily weighted, and 3½ to 1 could be had on him. After a few minutes delay at the post, Mainstay was first seen to a fair start. Arnette kept him company into the backstretch, then Thelma took a turn at forcing the pacemaker. Arnette was up again at the head of the stretch, with Mainstay a length in front of her, Thelma only a head short of the chestnut filly. McLight and Gussie had alternated in last place, but on the far turn McLight settled back and stayed there. Thelma, when half way down the stretch got her head in front of Arnette, Mainstay still a length to the good. Then in the last eighth Tod Sloan sat down and began to ride Arnette, and Chevalier tried to hold him off. Both got to Mainstay in the struggle, but superior riding landed Arnette a winner by a length. Mainstay was thundering along after Thelma, a neck short of the place. Morven's time of the day before, 1:20, was equalled.

The last race was a mile, selling, with a very evenly balanced field of five. Every one in the race had a fair chance, though the odds ranged all the way from 7 to 10 to 25 to 1. A heavy play was made on Mollie R., and from tens at the opening she was forced off some boards at post time. Mamie Scott was at 7 to 10, with the Duchess of Milpitas at 3½ to 1. Mamie Scott was first to get away, then Miss Garvin forged ahead and held command for about an eighth, and bucked it. Scott was left in front again, and began to extend her lead, having two lengths to spare into the stretch. Toby was beaten off at the far turn, and Mollie R., who got away last, was somewhere near there all the time. Sloan and Chevalier had another test of their finishing abilities, which resulted as the previous one did, in a signal victory for Tod. The finish was a close one, with no daylight between first and fourth horses. The Duchess won by a head, driving, with Mamie Scott half a length in front of Miss Garvin, Toby a length away. Mollie R. ran a poor race.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs, maiden two-year-olds. Post betting—Mt. McGregor II, 11 to 5, El Primero 7 to 5, Masero 3, Moran 4, Rejected 12, Japan 20, Von Dunk and Mabel 30 to 1, Mollie Bawn 100, Guess 200 to 1. Poor start. Rejected led most of the way, but El Primero and Mollie Bawn had a drive at the finish, with the former a neck in the lead. Winner, b c, by Joe Hooker—Alice N. Mollie Bawn (b f, by Sinfax—Shannon Berna) second driving; Masero (b g, by Linden—Ell See Ess) third. Time, 1:03.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Vivace 7 to 5, Harry Lewis 5, Irma, Raphael and imp. Autonomy 7, Prince and Rayo 25, Yreka and imp. Lady Splendor 30 to 1. Poor start. Harry Lewis showed the most speed to the stretch, where Vivace, coming fast was pocketed. Yreka won by a head in a drive from Prince. Winner, b g, 3, by Flood—imp. Bridget. Prince, b g, a (breeding unknown), second easily. Irma (b g, 3, by St. Saviour—Ella T.), third. Time, 1:01½.

Third race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Gondola 8 to 5, Soledad 2½, Monarch 3, Allahabad 10, Adlie M., Sinbad, Josie G. 20, Lodi 50 to 1. Poor start. Soledad led to the last eighth, when Monarch came up and drew away easily, winning by one length. Winner, b g, 5, by Ironclad—by Bayswater. Soledad (b g, 6, by Ironclad—unknown), second easily; Gondola (b m, 5, by Frank Rhoades—Della) third. Time, 1:01.

Fourth race—Handicap, six and one half furlongs. Post betting—Arnette (85) 9 to 5, Thelma (108) 2, McLight (114) 3½, Mainstay (109) 6, Gussie (90) 30 to 1. Fair start. Mainstay led up to the last 70 yards, then Arnette and Thelma passed him, Arnette winning driving by a length, Mainstay a neck behind Thelma. Winner, ch f, 3, by imp. Midlothian—Filena. Thelma (br m, 4, by John Happy—Pansy), second, driving; Mainstay (b c, 3, by imp. Mariner—Queen Emma), third. Time, 1:20.

Fifth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Mamie Scott 7 to 10, Duchess of Milpitas 3½, Mollie R. 6, Toby 9, Miss Garvin 25 to 1. Good start. Mamie Scott showed first, Miss Garvin led at the quarter-pole, then Mamie Scott was in front till the Duchess of Milpitas headed her in the last forty yards and won by a neck driving. Winner, b f, 3, by Duke of Norfolk—Ledette. Mamie Scott (b f, 3, by Canny Scot—Eola) second driving. Miss Garvin (b f, 3, by Fellowcharm—Sallie Hampton) third. Time, 1:42½.

SEVENTH DAY—SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2.

The attendance to-day was a very large and enthusiastic one, and that long-distance racing has not lost its hold on the hearts of our local turf followers was made quite evident. The event itself had the charm all taken away from it when Macklin fell over the rail from the back of Fred Gardner before half the journey had been covered. The riderless horse accompanied his field all the way. Previous to the accident to Macklin, who, by the way, was not injured, Adelante had shown the way, with first Flirtilla, then Gardner in second place. On the stretch the first time around Gardner's rider was thrown, leaving Flirtilla five lengths behind Adelante. Raindrop a length away. Their positions remained unchanged until the backstretch was reached on the home journey, when Adelante dropped back, apparently out of it, but he kept within four lengths of the leader all the time. Flirtilla turned into the stretch two lengths to the good, and running quite easy, with Raindrop a length in front of Adelante. In the last sixteenth Adelante showed wonderful recuperative powers and finished two lengths behind Flirtilla, and fully eight in front of Raindrop, who had tired very badly. The time, 3:05½, was slow for the track.

There were seven events carded, and each one held the interest of the large crowd closely. Four favorites were beaten, but Oregon Eclipse, at sixes, was the only one approaching a long-shot to cross the plate first. An accident in the last race, in which Jockey Maynard was quite severely injured by Arctic falling with him, no doubt changed the result of that one, as J. O. C. was thrown to his knees by Arctic's fall, but he came on like a conquering hero and forced the favorite to a hard drive to beat him out a nose.

Major Cook, an even-money favorite for the first race, was upset by Oregon Eclipse, who had three lengths the best of the start of Cook. Myron led to the last eighth, where Cook and Eclipse came up very fast, but the latter was far enough away to bold Cook off by three parts of a length.

Lady Splendor ran two miles before the start in the second race, then the judges signaled to go without her. Sea Spray, an odds-on favorite, led all the way and won easily by two lengths from De la Guerra, who could not reach him. Modesto swerved all over the track and spoiled a very good chance of winning.

Model ran away from her field of nine in the third race at one mile, and finished under a pull by five lengths. Happy Day, last at the start, under a vigorous ride by Cash Sloan, was second, but a length in front of Navy Blue, who came from the last on the back stretch. Sleeping Child held on to Model to the half, where she shook him off and opened up a gap of six lengths, and the Child died away, Ivy was third into the stretch, but could not last.

Tod Sloan took Grady out in front at the half-pole in the fourth race, at short six furlongs, after Treachery had shown the way, and not a thing in the race could get anywhere near him. He finished five lengths in front of Treachery, who had been favorite all the time. Grady was at 4½ to 1. Joe K., a very warm second choice, ran a poor race, and Benham, who was thought to be outside the money on account of his impost, finished a good third to Treachery after running a splendid race, getting away last.

Contribution won the sixth race, at five furlongs, through Hinrichs rushing to the bat on Yeman when he could have won by sitting still. His vigor took his horse back and he lost the race by a head. Yeman, Empress of Norfolk and America were all liberally supported in this race. The Empress was third, and America fifth, half lengths apart.

The winning jockeys were Chevalier and E. Jones, two each, Cash and Tod Sloan and Hennessy one each.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Major Cook 1, Monitor 4, Cardwell 7, Oregon Eclipse 7, Myron and Gold Bug 12, Bill Nye 100 to 1. Poor start. Myron led into the stretch, Oregon Eclipse and Major Cook had a drive at the finish, with the former an easy winner by three parts of a length. Winner, ch g, a, by Joe Hooker—Lulu Riggs. Major Cook (b g, 3, by Bulwark—Sister to Violet) second easily. Myron (b g, 3, by imp. Midlothian—by Great Tom) third. Time, 1:01.

GEO. W. BEARDSLEY, one of the best trainers at the track a thoroughly honest and very popular man, died early yesterday morning from acute kidney troubles. He was at one time associated with Barney Schreiber and "Bone Doctor" Robbins, but for several years has had charge of White & Clarke's string. It was to his efforts that old Tim Murphy's recovery was due after the best veterinarians had pronounced the road sprinter a hopeless cripple and recommended that he be destroyed. Mr. Beardsley's illness was of very short duration. Up to Tuesday morning he was feeling as well as usual.

THE Santa Anita string arrived at the ranch yesterday and will be shipped to San Francisco on Saturday. Who will train the horses is yet an enigma, but Sam Hildreth has promised to handle Santiago. The horses that will race here are as follows: Arapahoe, Santiago, Sister Mary, Ramiro, Argentine, Philomena, Alvarado, Sinaloa II, Lady Diamond and five or six others selected from the youngsters that were not taken East. In the Santa Anita car there came Unity and My Luck for Sam Hildreth. The former is a two-year-old by Rossington, The Santa Anita horses won over eighty races this season.

The Palo Alto Sale.

There is no denying the fact that the market for thoroughbreds will soon be San Francisco. On Tuesday night the large tent on Market and Van Ness avenue was crowded with horsemen, who came from all parts of California to attend the sale of Palo Alto thoroughbred yearlings, and although the rain fell and the wind blew, they sat there until the very last royally-bred youngster was sold. Messrs. Killip & Co. conducted the sale, but their efforts were strongly supplemented by the splendid description given and merits shown of every animal offered by Superintendent Frank W. Covey. His work was highly commended, and his strong and convincing statements seemed to infuse enthusiasm into the bidders. All the horses were in the pink of condition, and many of the Eastern horsemen marveled at the size and conformation of those sold. The sale was a grand success.

The following is a full list of the yearlings, with the purchasers:

Rosalba, cb c, by Flambeau—imp. Rosetta; J. Talbot Clifton	$2,200

Mr. Mitchell purchased a two-year-old by Flood—Playmate, for $210, and Mr. Gonzales secured a two-year-old half-sister to Zaragoza, being by imp. Cyrus, out of Bessie Hooker, for $140.

The Winters Sale.

The attendance at Killip & Co.'s auction sale in the big tent on Wednesday was fully as large as that on the preceding evening, although there was a noticeable difference in the buyers. The colts and fillies were in excellent condition, and although some of them sold for a song, the average of the lot was $410. A. Abrahams, a wealthy gentleman of Reno, Nev., knew the value of Uncle Giles and paid $3,100 for him, and then when Malo Diablo was let out bid $2,000 and secured him. The following is a summary of the sale:

Ch c by El Rio Rey—Hettie Humphreys; Z. Abrahams	$ 1,300

THE SULKY.

ENTRIES for the horse show close to-day.

ELLA T., 2:09½, is the fifth of Altamont's get to beat 2:10.

JAMES DUSTIN expects to spend the winter in Kentucky.

Do NOT forget to send in your entries to the Horse Show.

BEMPO, by Clay, got a record, pacing, of 2:23½, at Corsicana, Texas, Oct. 19.

A LARGE number of horsemen did not return from Los Angeles until Wednesday.

TWENTY mares have been booked to Boodle, 2:12½, this season, and they are all good ones.

SEYMOUR WILKES pulled up lame last Saturday in the free-for-all pace which W. Wood won.

BAYARD WILKES, 2:13½, brother to Bertba (dam of Diablo, 2:09½) lowered his record to 2:12½.

A NEW 2:30 performer for Chimes is King Chimes, 2:29½, out of Queenie King, by Mambrino King.

REAVIS, a bay horse, by Monroe Chief, got a record of 2:25 pacing, at New Cornerstown, Ohio, October 2d.

AZOTE's lameness is not considered permanent, and the chances are the giant gelding will be out again in 1896.

PAOLA, the brother of Palo Alto, 2:08½, reduced his record to 2:18 in a sixth heat at Dallas, Tex., last Wednesday.

THE Prospect Hill stallion Electric Bel, brother to St. Bel, Chimes, etc., may make next season in the stud at Lexington, Ky.

McKINNEY, 2:11½, will make the season of 1896 at the Oakland track. We predict a large list of mares will be booked to him.

IF any errors or omissions are noted in the 2:30 list, published in this issue, we would be thankful if they are sent to this office at once.

ONWARD had sixteen additions to his list this year, making a total of 114 performers with records of 2:30 or better at the age of twenty.

THE employment of Starter McNair at the fall meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. A. was a decided success. He is the king pin at his business.

GENTRY LOVE, by Clovis, is a new one to the credit of this son of Sultan. This mare won a good race at Corsicana, Texas. Time, 2:21½.

IT is said that Wm. Corbitt refused $15,000 for the two-year-old Fred S. Moody and $10,000 for the three-year-old Fred Kohl at Lexington, Ky.

THE turf statisticians are closing up their work for the year. The Pacific Coast horses and those by California-bred sires make a splendid showing.

THE three fastest two-year-olds of 1895—Bingen, exhibition 2:12½, Tommy Britton, 2:15½, and Palita, 2:16—all belong to the Electioneer family.

MR. ISAAC LEONARD, of Lexington, Ky., has bought of Mr. J. E. Madden the two-year-old colt King Gny, by Guy Wilkes, dam Ha Ha, by Nutwood.

THE bay stallion Elation, by Electioneer, out of Sally Graham, by Volunteer, had his first 2:30 performers to enter be list last month, Elmor, 2:29½.

IN the race between Iran Alto and Cressida, the latter made a tangled break in the third heat and trotted the last half of that mile in 1:09, the mile in 2:24½.

THE five-year-old gray horse Sclavonic, that veteran Jock Bowen drove to victory and a mark of 2:15½ at Mystic Park, is the only pacer that Miss Russell has dropped.

THE demand for draft horses weighing from 1,600 to 2,200 pounds is getting stronger every month, and a splendid market for this class of stock is noticeable.

THE new boulevard around Lake Merritt now being talked of will be one of the finest in California. Oakland has needed a good driveway, and this will supply this long-felt want.

MARIN JR., one of the Salisbury disappointments of 1895, will, it is announced, be out again next year. His worst trouble is said to have been corns, which have been successfully treated.

A NEW boulevard will soon be constructed at the northern end of Van Ness avenue. It will be paved and bituminized and will furnish a splendid driveway from the bay shore to Market street.

LARABIE, 3, 2:12½, by Jay Bird, yields his position as the fastest new trotter of 1895 to Fred Kohl, 3, by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, dam Mystic, by Nutwood, who won a heat at Lexington in 2:12½.

DR. E. P. MILLER, of New York, will place his fast young horse, Roleo, 2:23, by Nephew, in the hands of a good trainer after the holidays. He expects him to take a low record next season.

H. PERKINS, of Visalia, has six two-year-olds by Iris, the splendid son of Eros that are perfect likenesses of the game trotting mare Visalia, 2:12½, and next year they will be seen on the California Circuit.

OTTINGER, who had a record of 2:11½ as a trotter, has also taken a record of 2:11½ this season as a pacer, which gives him the distinction of being the only horse with the same low record at both gaits.

WHEN Fred S. Moody, by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, dam Montrose, by Sultan, 2:24, trotted the second heat of the Kentucky two-year-old Futurity in 2:18, he established a new record for two-year-old trotting geldings.

TOMAH, 2:10, is the first in the direct male line of Pilot Jr. to enter that exclusive list, which will doubtless prove to the satisfaction of the essayists of the turf press that Pilot Jr. was a trotter, when he lived, long, long ago.

THE race-record for four-year-olds in this State was broken by the bay filly Visalia, by Iris, son of Eros, 2:29½, by Electioneer, at Santa Ana, October 18th, she winning the first and second heats of the 2:20 class in 2:12½ and 2:13½.

THE horsemen, who visited Los Angeles, are continually praising the people there and the kindness shown them so Los Angeles will never be omitted from the circuit hereafter. The Santa Ana people were also exceedingly kind.

THE owners of Creole, 2:15, at Honolulu would like to sell this game trotter as they have very few good mares to breed to him. He is the sire of Javelin, 2:13½, one of the gamest three-year-old pacers seen on the Circuit this year.

MISS RITA, the three-year-old champion pacing filly now at the Oakland track, is exceptionally pure gaited. She wears no boots whatever, and her shoes are as light as can be made, all four of them not weighing over nine ounces.

W. WOOD will retire to winter quarters at the champion pacing gelding again this year. He has improved wonderfully and under Ben Chaboya's treatment shows that he appreciates the absence of a whipping when near the wire.

THE report going the rounds of the turf press that May King, 2:20, was purchased for Mr. Malcolm Forbes is a mistake. Mr. Forbes has no interest in him and never had. His real purchaser was William J. Young, the trotting horse trainer at Lexington.

LAST Monday Colonel R. G. Stoner, of Paris, Ky., sold to Thayer, the Boston horseman, the great trotting sire Baron Wilkes, 2:18, for $25,000. He is the sire of Oakland Baron, the winner of the $24,000 futurity at Lexington, Baron Rodgers and other fast trotters.

ED. W. AYRES, the Kentucky breeder who bred Beuzetta, now in Orrin Hickok's string at the Oakland track, won the Kentucky Futurity with her, and sold her for $16,000, is reported to be hopelessly ill, and with the end very near. He was stricken with paralysis a month ago.

THE victories of Bouncer, Lynne Bel, Tommy Britton, Bingen, Nabesa, Boreal, Valley Queen, Visalia, John Bury, Athanio and others lately, has been the occasion of much congratulation on the part of Electioneer family enthusiasts, and they certainly have much reason for the same.

FRANK H. BURKE purchased a handsome two-year-old colt at Los Angeles. It is by McKinney, out of a mare by Junius, son of Dictator, and the horsemen who have seen it declare it to be the best one this horseman has ever owned. It must be a hummer, for Mr. Burke has owned some fast ones.

DR. H. A. SPENCER, the well qualified veterinarian of San Jose, is doing splendid work as a milk and meat inspector in Santa Clara County. He lets no guilty dealers escape. He is the right man in the right place, and we congratulate the people of the Santa Clara valley in having such an efficient official.

LAST Friday at Lincoln, Nebraska, Monroe Salisbury's two entries won. Ella T. won the 2:12 pace, purse $1,000, in straight heats, 2:12½, 2:11½, 2:13½. Miss Kate won the third, fourth and fifth heats of the 2:20 class trot, purse $500, in 2:21½, 2:21½ and 2:21. His trotters are expected to arrive at Pleasanton to-day.

THE world's race-record for two-year-old trotters was reduced to 2:15½ in the Lexington Stake, at Lexington, Ky., October 17th, by the brown colt Tommy Britton, by Liberty Bell, 2:24, dam Keepsake, by Pancoast, 2:21½, in a second heat. The best previous record was 2:15½, held jointly by Silicon and Impetuous.

E. H. HARRIMAN has sent his famous stallion, Stamboul, 2:07½, to John A. Goldsmith for the winter. The Orange County reinsman will probably fit him for the show ring and bring him to New York for the National Horse Show. Goldsmith has apparently recovered almost completely from his serious illness of last spring.

MANY gems have been dug out of the auction ring at small expense. Abnet, three years, 2:12½, sold for $180; Roetta Soap, 2:14½, Viotta, 2:13½, Ella Eddy, 2:12, Sirock, 2:15½, and several others were knocked down for bids ranging from $150 to $100; and El Rami, the champion hopped trotter, and one of the greatest four-year-olds ever started, brought $600 when sold to his present owner.

A FREEPORT, Ill., local paper says: "It will be news to the many friends of Myron E. McHenry to learn at the close of this season he will practically retire from the track as a driver. The reason for this change is his poor health. For some time he has not been well, being troubled with kidney disease, and the excitement of the race is very wearing upon any man."

ZOMBRO was sired by McKinney, 2:11½, dam by Almont Lightning. He was foaled in San Bernardino in February, 1892. His owner, George Beckers, named the colt after Sumpter F. Zombro, cashier of the Farmers' Exchange Bank of Santa Ana. The colt is a dark brown, sixteen hands high, weight about 1,100 pounds. He has been in fourteen hotly-contested races this season and has won eleven. His mark of 2:13 has been made in three races.

NATHAN STRAUSS, of New York, lost his trotting mare Norhawk, 2:15½, last week, the fast daughter of Norval dropping dead in her box. Norhawk was seven years old and was by Norval, 2:14½, out of the great broodmare Sontag Mohawk, the dam of Sally Benton, 2:17½, and several other fast ones. She was bred by the late Leland Stanford at Palo Alto Farm, Cal., and was purchased by Mr. Straus at one of Kellogg's sales. James Golden trained her last year, and gave her her record of 2:15½ in a race at Old Orchard, Me.

DAME WINNIE, by Planet, dam of Palo Alto, 2:08½, and Altivo, 2:18½, and famous as the only thoroughbred mare on record to produce two 2:20 trotters, is now credited with three, her son Paola having taken a record of 2:18 last week. Her three fast sons are all stallions and all by Electioneer.

SINCE the publication of the circular regarding the objects of the San Francisco Boulevard and Driving Association, many names of applicants have been sent to the Secretary at 21 Stenart Street. This association should become the strongest pillar to support the harness horse interests of this city and county ever organized, and the right people are at the head of it.

EUROPEAN horse-buyers are thick in New York just now, and two commissioners from Berlin bought twenty-three head last week for export to the German capital, paying $2,000 for one team. It was noted that they will not touch anything that has not substance, and showy, trappy gait, and this is a pointer that should not be overlooked by breeders preparing sale horses for the New York market.

THE famous Jewett Farm Stud is to be broken up, and a big sale of trotters of the year will be the result. After starting and conducting a breeding establishment famous the world over as one of the best equipped of the kind in the United States, and on which the buildings alone cost nearly a quarter of a million dollars, and which, at times, has been the home of over 500 trotters, Mr. Jewett has decided to retire from active business operations. Patchen Wilkes, the most distinguished son of George Wilkes, will be the star of the sale, which is down for next week. He is the sire of twenty performers in the 2:30 and 2:20 class.

FOR the benefit of some of our Eastern friends who have said Palo Alto would never make a sire, we publish a list of his 2:30 performers and their ages: Avena (2), 2:19½; Rio Alto (3), 2:16½; Palatine (3), 2:18; Cressida (3), 2:18½; Palita (2), 2:16; Iran Alto (3), 2:19½; Fillmore (3), 2:21½; Erastus C. (5), 2:22, average speed, 2:19. The following trotted trial miles this year: Pasonte (2), 2:28½; Day Bell (3), 2:20½, and Alta Vela (3), 2:30½. A remarkable showing, and there are many more of his forty youngsters that will enter the 2:30 list during the next two years. His death was a great loss to the "farm by the lone pine."

THE chestnut horse Grand George, by Hambletonian Wilkes, may be accounted the banner variety performer of the present season. At the Hillsdale, Mich., meeting, Oct. 1, he started in the 2:22 trot, winning the first, third and fourth heats in 2:24½, 2:22½, 2:22½, reducing his record from 2:24½ and defeating a field of nine. Three days later, at the same meeting, he started in the 2:20 pace, winning second money and taking the first heat in 2:18½, two and a quarter seconds faster than his previous pacing record. A shift in his toe-weights was sufficient to account for the grand transformation. Grand George is owned by Jacob Weidler, Bronson, Mich., and the two races mentioned were his first starts this year.

THERE is a prospect of there being on the market at an early date a new tire, puncture proof and fully resilient, manufactured by the Mayor of Brooklyn, N. Y. It is made of leather with an inner air tube of the usual quality of rubber. The leather is a flexible variety of the style used for shoe soles, and has been treated by working sand and grit through the pores so that it is next to impossible to pierce it with any instrument. A tack cannot be driven through it, whatever force is used. The inflation of the rubber air sheath give it the same yielding possessed by other pneumatic tires, and when dropped upon the floor it bounces as high as those having an outer shoe of rubber and fabric. It is claimed that it will not change in character when wet, because of having a water-proof surface. The weight of the tire is about the same as the "full road hose pipes."

TWO years ago John Lawler, of Petaluma, purchased at an auction sale of stock at St. Vincent's asylum, Marin county, a then two-year-old pacing mare by Soudan. She was a homely mare with an ugly gait, and those who saw her thought they had a laugh at Mr. Lawler's expense. He however, said nothing. The mare has never been trained, but on Wednesday at Agricultural park she went a half mile in 1:10½ without an effort, and can repeat the performance at any time. Half a dozen watches caught her correctly. She went the first quarter in 34 seconds, which Mr. Lawler thought too fast and pulled her in in the next one. She is pronounced by horsemen to be the best green mare in the State, and the term, "Lucky John," as applied to Mr. Lawler by his friends, is very appropriate.—Courier.

A FEW years ago when the season for racing closed, the horse was quietly stabled, where he was allowed to remain until the next season opened, but now, even in these days when some would have us believe that the horseless age has dawned, all has changed, and now that the season of racing is practically over, to use the words of the Breeders' Gazette, the horse shows are right on us. "Horse shows to the right of us—horse shows on all sides, East and West." * * * and yet this is said to be the beginning of the horseless age! It would make even a horse laugh to contemplate the absurdity of such an assertion in the light of the intense interest aroused among the wealthy classes in the noble animal. There are now two objects for which the breeder can honorably breed, the one is the winner on the race track, and the other is of a different type, the winner at the horse show, the faultlessly formed, high-stepping road horse.

THE idea prevailed at one time that in his four-year-old form a colt experienced an "off year." If he was a great two-year-old or three-year-old, it was confidently predicted that he would be of little account as a racehorse in his fourth year. This was attributed by many to trouble with his teeth, which often interfered with his training at that age. Whether this was a mistaken notion, or whether greater skill in horse dentistry has remedied the matter, it is certainly true that in 1895 the four-year-olds have not only proved excellent racehorses, but creditable money-winners. Among the Grand Circuit winners, Azote only won as much as the four-year-old Beuzetta among the trotters, while Bright Regent, another four-year-old, leads the list of pacing money-winners. Beuzetta is credited with $5,500, El Rami with $4,750, Bouncer with $4,500, Fitz Royal and Burlingame with $1,000 each, while Bright Regent won $5,750, Bumps $3,000, Rachel $2,000 and Viotta $1,000. This is a very creditable showing for these four-year-olds at the Grand Circuit meetings and does not include their winnings on other tracks.

THE SADDLE.

THE Palo Alto sale Tuesday night was a success.

SAM DOGGETT has signed to ride for the Brookdale Stable next season.

THE Lexington fall meeting begins November 11 and runs twelve days.

FIVE carloads of trotters arrived at the Oakland track from Los Angeles Sunday.

J. TALBOT CLIFTON has purchased Captain Coster from the Pleasanton Stable.

IRONCLADS—Monarch and Soledad—took first and second money in the third race Friday.

THE Montana horses by Hyder Ali made a very good showing on the slippery track yesterday.

DOMINO, Daily America and Dorian have all been shipped to the Keene stock farm near Lexington, Ky.

JAMES NEIL was $1,100 ahead over the win of his brown gelding, Perhaps, and James Flood won $2,700.

W. CLANCY, the steeplechase jockey, has returned after several month's sojourn in Montana and Nevada.

SEA SPRAY and De la Guerra, both by imp. Mariner, finished first and second in the second race Saturday.

POLASKI, Hueneme, Howard and several other horses that made the Southern circuit, are due to arrive to-day.

SEA SPRAY was very much better than the poor lot of horses that followed him in the second race Saturday.

TOD SLOAN rides Grady to perfection. He understands the colt better than any others that have ridden him.

CASH SLOAN finished with his feet out of the stirrups on Oregon Eclipse yesterday and his saddle turning under him.

THE attendance on Saturday was like an old-time crowd. Long distance races always have been popular with the public.

THE hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, so we are told, but the hand that pulls the runner is the one that gets the gold.

It is possible that Henry McDaniels will train for Baker & Gentry next season. He was also offered a place by Mr. Corrigan.

BUCK MASSIE won the Tobacco Stakes, at one mile, value $1,315, at Latonia yesterday, Lehman second, Granhan third. Time, 1:40½.

CLIFFORD has run his last race of the year. The present intention is to retire him for the season. He will winter at Morris Park.

PAT MEANY has a candidate for the cross country business, of which everybody expects much, in the imported Irish horse Hesperion.

P. A. BRADY and John Donovan, who made fortunes in the bookmaking business, are now the leasees of the Lindell Hotel, St. Louis.

A CONTINGENT from Fresno came up to play Grady on Saturday. It is needless to state they will go home well satisfied with the colt's run.

THERE is an unwritten agreement between the ladies who are to exhibit park horses and hunters in the New York Horse Show to ride astride.

THE Hyder Ali horses like the mud. New Moon, who won the first race, is by Hyder Ali, as is also Allahabad, who finished second to The Judge.

MATT BYRNES has sold the two-year-old bay gelding Terror III, by Sir Modred—Tyranny (full sister to Tyrant), to E. D. Morgan. Terms private.

SADIE, chestnut filly, 3, by Salvator—Aurelia, by Algerine the property of Marcus Daly, has been turned out of training, and will be sent to the stud.

COL. DAN BURNS has lost heavily on Mt. McGregor II at both of his starts. The first time he was left at the post, and yesterday he bolted the track.

GREEN B. MORRIS is rapidly getting over the cowardly assault upon him by a robber at Oakley and is now safe from any serious results from his wounds.

THE Morris Park meeting closed Nov. 5th. It has been the hanner meeting of the year. Hazlet won the White Plains Handicap, at six furlongs, in 1:13½.

X-10 U-8 is the name of a yearling filly by imp. Jangler out of imp. Red Tape. If the man that concocted that name did not "lay awake nights," he has a ready wit.

MISS MAXIM, by Maxim—Ventura, property of Green Morris, was second in a five and a half furlong, handicap, at Latonia, Saturday, to Mazarine. Time, 1:10½.

ALLAHABAD, with a fair start, would have given The Judge a little beating. "Moose" Taylor rode his horse, and got him away three lengths in front of the flag.

THE mare Miss Dixie, that carried the Pepper shield to victory, has at last broken down, and has been sent to the La Belle Stud, where she will be bred to Bramble.

SIMEON G. REED, the prominent breeder and racing man, has been very ill at his home in Southern California, but latest advices are to the effect that he is improving.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer is authority for the statement that Hon. Charles Fleischmann will at the close of this season sell his racing stable and retire from the turf.

THE yearling filly by Salvator—Millie, the property of Jim Blute, the well-known horseman, is a most promising miss. She has shown better by far than anything that has yet been shown at the old Monmouth track.

THERE can be no question that the El Rio Reys can go the route after Adelante's performance on Saturday. He finished very strong in the mile and three-quarter race.

NAVY BLUE is one of the very strong finishers at the local course. He and Happy Day came from last into the stretch and had a hot finish for the place in the third race Saturday.

"THAT racehorse of yours seems well broke," said the man who stands around and looks on. "Yes," replied the melancholy owner of the animal, "but he isn't as well broke as I am."

THE surprising reversal of form in Yemen, with the same jockey up, and his winning race in such fast time under conditions not considered favorable to him, was a poser for the talent.

CASH SLOAN may be given the credit of Oregon Eclipse's win over Major Cook on Saturday. The "Bone Doctor's horse had the best start of the two, and Cook gave him a good argument.

J. E. SEAGRAM, the millionaire sportsman of Canada, won $25,560 with his stable this season, his best winners being Saragossa and Morpheus, which won $7,850 and $2,750 respectively.

AUGUST BELMONT has presented Song and Dance to Jack Joyner and he has turned him out. In all probability Joyner will train for Dave Gideon next season in addition to string of his own.

COLONEL ZEEK CLAY, the well-known Western breeder and turfman, who last week was elected President of the Western Turf Congress and chairman of the Board of Appeals, has resigned.

MAJOR B. G. THOMAS has sold the yearling bay colt Old Mat, by Duke of Montrose—Almira, by Harkaway, to Geo. A. Singler of Philadelphia, and J. W. Knox of Louisville. Price said to be $2,560.

THE judges at Latonia on Saturday decided all bets off on the Wild Huntsman race of the day before. No decision has been reached as to who gets the purse for the disputed event. The horse is a suspected ringer.

WILD VIOLET is dead. She practically committed suicide, running full tilt into a corner of the fence at Morris Park and dashing her brains out. She was a two-year-old chestnut filly by St. Blaise—Woodflower.

PERHAPS, from the short-striding Kyrle Daly family, was invincible in the slippery going in the fourth race. Charlie Boots, from the mud-loving Altas, finished three lengths behind him, and six lengths in front of his nearest follower.

MISS TRUTH is a devil at the post, and little Coady was thrown off once, injuring his hand, and dismounted a couple of times, so that his mount might be led back to the post after all efforts to ride or drive her there had failed.

CRISCENDO is not the same horse that he was in the spring and summer. The handicapper estimates him on his spring form, but in his palmy days I doubt whether he was within five pounds of Ben Brush.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

SIGURD, the four-year-old son of Pardee and Lady Salvors recently purchased by C. H. Smith for $1,200, was taken suddenly sick on Tuesday, and died that night. The veterinarian who examined the horse could not state the cause of his death.

EASTERN advices state that B. Schreier has engaged Jockey Jerry Chorn for the balance of the season and he will come to California to ride. Felix Carr, former jockey for the stable, is too heavy to ride and will assume the role of trainer.

FRED GARDNER was backed by his stable owners Saturday but his rider fell off and lost his good chance to win. The last time he was out the stable hacked Claudius, Gardner's impressive win is still fresh in the minds of all. They "copper" the wrong horse.

IRVIN P. DIGGS has sent to the Jockey Club the register fee for the yearling full brother to Diggs. He forwarded two names, Rinaldo and Carreara. If either is already in use in the register, the colt will take the other. If neither is in use he will be called Carreara.

COL. CALEB DORSEY, who was a visitor at our office to-day, states that the dam of Dorsey was Kate Carson, by Joe Daniels; second dam by Norfolk, third by Jack Hawks, by Boston, and the fourth dam by Glencoe. The dam of Dorsey has been incorrectly given as by Kit Carson.

THE Latonia autumn handicap, one mile and a furlong on last Saturday, was won by Handspan, Simon W. second Grannan third. Time, 2:00. In the Belmont stakes, one mile and a quarter, at Morris Park on Saturday, Belmar won, Counter Tenor second, Nankipoo third. Time, 2:11½.

MATT BYRNES has abandoned his contemplated trip to San Francisco this winter in charge of Daly's stable. This result was brought about through the "Copper King's" own preference that his Montana bred colts, mostly all two-year-olds, should not race until in their three-year-old form.

SAM HILDRETH, who left here some months since to train Baldwin's horses in the East, has returned to the Coast. As was stated in the dispatches recently, he has severed his connection with the stable of scandals and will hereafter devote his attention to his own horses.

NED WILEY, the well-known trainer of thoroughbred racehorses, died at Nashville recently. Wiley trained a number of good horses, among them Branza, a three-year-old filly that that won four stake races right off the reel, and was afterward sold by Messrs. Darden and Gillock to Mr. P. Lorillard for $16,000. The last work done by Wiley was for Russell Peabody, of Gallatin, Tenn.

THE Australian steeplechaser, Daimio, will be sent to England to take part in the Grand National Steeplechase of 1896, and whether he wins or loses will be kept the following year in Albion, with a view to winning that race in 1897. In 1892 a Trenton mare called Trentonian was sent to England, and her foal by St. Serf has been nominated in the Derby of 1897. A few weeks ago a bet of five thousand sovereigns to one was laid against Daimio winning the Grand National and the Trentonian colt the Derby of 1897.

OF the 171 nominations for the 1896 Kentucky Derby 112 made the second payment, while 87 of the 145 entries in the Kentucky Oaks stayed in. Ramiro, Ben Eder, First Mate, Ben Brush, Applegate, Rewarder, Merry Prince, Margrave, Captive, Frontier, King William, Longfint, Eye Witness, The Winner, Onareto and Del Coronado are among those who remained in the Derby, while Myrtle Harkness, Au Revoir, Amazement, Souffle, Marquise, Freiful, Serena, Religion, Motilla and Stella are still in the Oaks.

COLONEL MILTON YOUNG, proprietor of the McGrathiana thoroughbred farm, was elected president of the Western Turf Congress October 30th. The election was carried on by wire from the headquarters at Cincinnati, and it was nearly dark when Colonel Young received a telegram stating that he had been chosen president of the congress, and asking him if he would accept the place. After consultation with his friends, he decided to accept, and so telegraphed the secretary. Colonel Young is first vice president of the Kentucky Association (running), and is the largest breeder of thoroughbreds in the world.

THE Eastern horsemen now all acknowledge that Henry of Navarre is the best handicap horse that has appeared on the turf in recent years, and applaud August Belmont's determination to ship him to England to meet the best of Britain's racers. John Huggins will accompany Henry of Navarre to England and train him for all his races, and it is to be hoped that he will land in front in the majority of his starts. He may not be an Iroquois, but he will certainly not disgrace American breeders, and it is just such international contests as this that foster the true sporting spirit and encourage racing in both countries.

THE monetary value of the Cesarewitch in England is not over $5,000, but several millions are annually dependent upon the result. Five weeks elapse between the naming of the entries and the announcement of the weights by the handicappers, and it is during this time that the fine Italian hand of the trainer gets in his work, and horses are so run as to get a light impost from the handicapper, and meanwhile the books on the race, which are always opened on the announcement of the entries, are being flooded with bets by the confederacies that have a good one up their sleeve, and are not running him true to form.

TWENTY-EIGHT runners owned by Ed. Corrigan, ten by John Brenock, two by the Kentucky stable, four by Andy Blakely, thirteen by Dan Honig and six by J. M. Buckley left Chicago on Saturday for this coast. Among the horses are The Ironmaster, Despot, Handsome, Olive, Olleta, Kowalsky, Mobalaska, Can't Dance, Japonica, Rodegap, Templemore, Jim Norvell, Weola, Harry Smith, Uncas, Miriam R., Orbit, Repeater, Ingomar, Jim Flood, Colonel Wightman, Roeder, Magnet, Our Maggie, Nellie Smith, Brameta, Beatrice, Mara, Billy S., Dr. Garnett, Lizzie H., Charlie McDonald and Minnie Cee. Tom Kiley and perhaps Hankins and Johnson ship from St. Louis and L. Ezell goes from Houston, Tex.

COLONEL DAN BURNS is commenting on the strictures against his jockey, Donahue, is credited with saying: "There are better riders at the track, but none that I could trust so implicitly as Donahue. He has been cut off quite a number of times, to be sure, but the boy has not been to blame in several instances. Once or twice Donahue has been made the victim of collusion between other jockeys, especially was this apparent on the Duchess of Towers one day. The boy is naturally of a very taciturn disposition and does not make friends like other jockeys, but I am convinced that he is thoroughly honest. He was not altogether to blame for getting left on Mt. McGregor on Friday, nor was he responsible for the long delay at the start."

LOUISVILLE opened three 1897 stakes this fall—the Kentucky Derby, the Clark Stakes and the Kentucky Oaks. The Derby has 150 entries, the Clark Stakes 137 and the Oaks 116. Among the prominent nominators are W. O'B. Macdonough, who has named Orestes, the son of Ormonde and imp. Kissing Crust, and others; Charles H. Smith, with 21, including a brother to Longstreet and other highly bred ones; Ed. Corrigan, with 20; J. E. Madden, with 15, including the Longfellow—Cinderella colt; J. E. Pepper, with 15; Basford Manor, 14; Ed. Brown, 13; Baker & Gentry, 10; C. Porter & Co., 19, including a sister to The Butterflies; J. M. McCafferty, 9; Pat Dunne, 8; E. F. McLean, 8; Ireland Bros., 9; Fleischmann & Son, 9; Iroquois Stable, 9; J. W. Schorr, 9; Hankins & Johnson, 7; Avondale Stable, Hallows Bros., Argyle Stable, Dixiana Stable, W. M. Wallace, Eastin & Larahie, S. S. Brown, C. B. Reid, W. H. Lauder, J. Rodegap, E. C. Headley, Himyar Stable and many others.

THE announcement is made that Mr. J. J. Astor has decided to dispose of his entire stud at Ferncliffe, on the Hudson. The announcement hardly comes as a surprise, for Mr. Astor has seldom taken more than a half-hearted interest in the turf either from a breeding or a racing point of view. His father bequeathed him a grand collection of broodmares, combining some of the choicest blood in the country, and a few years ago he purchased the imported horse Pursebearer, by Scottish Chief, out of Thrift, but somehow the produce raised at the beautiful country seat near Rhinebeck never amounted to anything. As in all other things, the management of a stud requires personal attention, and that Mr. Astor has never been able to give it. The mares will bring good prices, for such blood as Mr. Astor had in his paddocks is somewhat difficult to duplicate and will prove very valuable to some of the Kentucky, Tennessee and California studs.—Com. Advertiser.

TOM GREEN recently sent some of the Keene youngsters along at top speed for the first time. The half-brother to Tenny, by imp. Candelmas, out of Belle of Maywood, worked in company with Irish Reel from the head of the stretch to the stand in 0:23½. The colt outbroke the speedy Irish Reel and beat her out. This is about the highest trial of the year at the distance. There is probably no more promising colt in the country to-day than the one under notice, he having size, substance and quality, while his action is beautiful. He stands on exceptionally fine feet and legs, and looks almost certain to train on. Beside being entered in next year's Futurity and all the other stake events in this country, he is entered in the English Derby and other choice events on the other side. Barring accidents, this magnificent colt will prove the best by far of his year, at least on this side of the water. The Iroquois Carlotta colt is a crack a jack, but the half-brother to Tenny promises to prove still better. There are some very fine fillies in the Keene string that can also go.

PACIFIC COAST JOCKEY CLUBNovember 16
HORSE SHOW ASS'N OF THE PACIFIC COAST.....Dec. 3 to 7

The C. J. C. Trotting Meeting Off.

President Thos. H. Williams, Jr., of the California Jockey Club, officially announced on Thursday last that the trotting meeting fixed to take place at the Bay District track on the dates from November 8th to 15th inclusive, had been declared off, giving as a reason for taking that step that the severe rains of the early part of the week had put the track in such condition that it would be impossible to get it ready in time for the meeting.

Five or six carloads of trotters and pacers, and about eighty people connected with the horses, came from the Breeders meeting at Los Angeles to attend this meeting. The best campaigners on the coast were entered and were here ready to start. In view of the fact that the last three pleasant days have gone a long way toward drying the track, in the opinion of nearly every trotting-horseman present, but little difficulty would have been experienced in putting the track in condition to trot Monday. The act of the Jockey Club in declaring the meeting off seems, under the circumstances, to be a breach of faith that it will be hard to condone. Various plans were suggested by the trotting-horsemen present by which they would be given a chance to start their horses and make enough at least to pay their expenses in coming here. One of the plans was that the original programme as advertised might be declared off and that a four days' meeting might be given in which they would start for special purses. As a great many of the best horses are here, it is likely that these purses would have filled well and the Association would not have lost money. None of these suggestions, however, met with the approval of the management and as before stated, the meeting was declared off.

Great indignation prevails among all those who brought their horses here to attend this meeting, many of them having done so under a great expense and some of them having saved their horses specially for the rich purses and stakes offered. When the news was announced that the meeting was declared off, this city contained about the maddest lot of trotting horsemen ever congregated, and many were the expressions of indignation. Mr. Frank Covey of Palo Alto was about the only moderate one among them. He argued that because of the muddy condition of the track it would be impossible to trot on it, and that no blame could be attached to Mr. Williams or his associates. While declaring the meeting off works a great hardship upon those present and ready to start their horses, many others who entered early and whose horses have gone wrong will be benefited by getting their entrance money back.

The failure of this meeting is to be deeply regretted for many reasons. It has been looked forward to as being the greatest trotting meeting of the year. It has been the talk all around the circuit, and the California Jockey Club has been highly praised for its generosity in offering such liberal purses, besides all the lovers of the harness horse on this Coast have been counting on this meeting to do much toward making trotting racing more popular in San Francisco. It was hoped that a meeting of this kind would have a tendency to increase the interest in trotting horses and would be the means of advancing prices; now to have it prove such a fiasco is the greatest disappointment that could have befallen them.

Mr. Williams personally has taken great interest in this meeting and expressed the deepest regret that it should have failed, and had the matter been left entirely to him, there is no question but the original programme would have been carried out as far as possible, or if it were possible to have the track put in order, a trotting meeting might have been held that would have gone far toward making up the loss to those who brought horses here. When he was told that there were many who had done so and that declaring it off so summarily would leave them stranded and that they would find it difficult to secure means to ship their horses home, he volunteered to pay the expenses of reshipment.

It seems a great pity that this meeting which promised to be one of the greatest ever held on this Coast should prove such a dismal failure. While the purses offered were the most liberal of the year, still there is every prospect that could it have been given as originally intended, it would have been successful from every point of view, and the California Jockey Club, with all its facilities for given a meeting of this kind, would not have lost money but would have been several thousand dollars ahead on it as a speculation, besides the popularity it would have given them among the trotting-horse contingency.

THE committee appointed by the San Francisco Boulevard and Driving Association to visit the Board of Supervisors last Monday in relation to road improvements, met with much encouragement, and it is not without the bounds of possibility that the finest continuous roadway on this peninsula will be from the Golden Gate Park to the Ocean via Ingleside. All property owners interested are joining this association, and the outlook is most encouraging. Every horseowner should join, for by their aid and influence we shall have as fine boulevards—free from railroads—as Cleveland, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston or New York. Along the ocean beach to the Cliff House there is much room for improvement, and a more healthful drive cannot be found in the world than the one that will soon be constructed there. Rows of trees on each side of the smooth and well kept road will tend to make this place fashionable, and the value of good horses and vehicles will be considerably enhanced. It is of paramount importance, therefore that the membership in this association should increase rapidly, for there is much good work to be accomplished.

VOLUME XIII of Wallace's American Trotting Register has been published, and copies can be obtained at this office. It contains the names and pedigrees of stallions, numbered from 23,500 to 26,899, and the list of standard mares and geldings covers 557 pages. The pacing department contains the names of a large number of stallions, standard and non-standard mares and geldings. There are 913 pages of closely written matter and a more valuable book or better printed one has not been issued by the Registry Association. The work of Registrar Steiner is well done, and in a critical examination of a large number of pedigrees forwarded from this office to him, we failed to find a single error, and have no doubt the same excellent report will be made by all others interested. No horseman's library is complete without a copy.

THE painters are putting the finishing touches on the new buildings at Ingleside, and when the great day for opening this course occurs next Saturday, a new era for the thoroughbred interests will be ushered in. Flags will be floating from the flagstaffs on all the buildings, giving the place a holiday appearance that will be most inviting; the cars will be running direct to the gates, bands will be playing and a parade of all the great horses that are to battle on the turf there will be some of the features of the opening next Saturday.

WORK is being rapidly pushed on the foundations of the new buildings at the Oakland race track. The stalls at the track are filled and every Wednesday and Saturday the occupants are seen in work outs. The greatest enthusiasm prevails among the horsemen and already the talk of getting up good strings of fast trotters and pacers for next season is heard on all sides.

The P. O. T. H. B. A. Fall Meeting.

The meeting just ended at Los Angeles was, without doubt, the best conducted of any ever held in California. The visiting horsemen were delighted with the people, the climate, the track and the management. The attendance was not as large as the directors expected, but when it is taken into consideration the fact that the meeting given the preceding week was well attended by all the devotees of the light harness sport in the southern portion of California, and this meeting being considered a purely local one, those who attended it did not care to go two weeks in succession. On the closing days of the Breeders Meeting, however, when they read and heard of the excellent manner in which the races were started, they concluded to see just how the northern visitors could make their meeting so popular.

The programme of each day's races was fulfilled to the letter, and the feature of having a well qualified starter to send the horses on their journey, proved a drawing one. Starter McNair's record during that six day's meeting is wonderful when we consider that there were sixty-nine heats trotted and paced and there were only 139 scores allowed, an average of 1.94, and the drivers who recognize the ability of this starter seem to have no words but those of praise for the mild-looking gentleman from the East. His manner of handling fields of horses and getting them away on a line was wonderful, and we, and, in fact, every one who attended that meeting desire to see this starter at every meeting on the circuit in California next season, for we believe a revival in the interest of trotting and pacing will be revived if he is employed.

There were many surprises in the results of many of the races and in nearly every case the best horse won. The report published in this journal is the only complete one given, and shows in detail how the races were contested.

The last day's racing was one caused a feeling of which joy to thrill through the officers and the members of this association, and the saying that the people of Los Angeles love a free-for-all pace above all others was verified. The winner, W. Wood, is one of the phenomenal geldings in California, and his turning the tables on Silkwood, his rival, and Seymour Wilkes, was a fitting ending to one of the most successful meetings ever given by the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association.

The Last Day.

While the long-talked of Horse Show has been well advertised and the date for the closing of entries set for November 9th (to-day), there are many horsemen who will forget the importance of this great exhibition and the benefits they will derive from it just as quickly as they will that entries close to-day. The exhibition last year was an experiment, but a most successful one. People who had looked upon the introduction of the bicycle and horseless carriage were predicting the total annihilation of the equine race for the want of use, and for a time their arguments were incontrovertible, but when the doors of the Mechanics Pavilion were thrown open and the elite of this city and State filled the boxes surrounding the ellipse in which the handsome horses harnessed to vehicles, or ridden by the fair equestriennes and their escorts, followed by the thoroughbred king and queens of the turf; strongly formed trotters, tiny Shetlands, mammoth Clydesdales, Punch and Shire horses, famous broodmares, colts and fillies and magnificent roadsters, besides a large number of stylish Hackneys and coach horses, then, and not till then, did it dawn upon the minds of these croakers that we had not reached the horseless age after all. Owners of choice horses who did not avail themselves of the opportunity of making entries in time walked around the various box-stalls, looked wistfully at the prospective prize winners and regretted their lack of forethought in not having their horses there. The prizes last year were very small compared with those now offered, and the special prize list of silver trophies just issued contains the names of twenty donors, and the beautiful specimens of the jewelers' art which these gentlemen have presented will also be given besides the money prizes to the successful winners.

This horse show will eclipse all others given west of New York, and President H. J. Crocker who is now in New York, intends to offer a programme for each afternoon and evening, which will keep the Pavilion crowded with delightful audiences.

Again sounding the warning, this is the last day to send in entries to the horse show, we hope to hear of the entry list being an immense one.

A Promising Outlook.

The successful auction sales of thoroughbred yearlings this week substantiates the statements frequently made in these columns that the market for first-class thoroughbreds will, in the near future, be San Francisco. There are many reasons for this. The center of racing has shifted from New York and Chicago to this Coast. Owners of thoroughbreds are recognizing the fact that this is the best place in California to raise and race horses, the climate and feed being unsurpassed and the people enthusiastic lovers of racing.

No better evidence was necessary of this being the natural home of horses than the appearance, size and development of the thoroughbreds which were led into the salesring during the three days' sale. The improvement in breeding was also noticeable by their finish and quality.

The blue grass region of Kentucky never turned out finer looking youngsters, and judging by the preceding sales of thoroughbreds here many of these will be record breakers. The outlook for thoroughbreds never was more encouraging than at present, and when the new track opens and long distance racing once more becomes fashionable the interest in running events here, which is now in its infancy, will increase to greater proportions, and the attention of horse lovers in all parts of the world will be attracted to the splendid racing given on this Coast.

Do not forget the auction sale of standard trotters, pacers, roadsters and driving teams at Killip & Co.'s salesyard next Tuesday. The animals listed are all fine-looking, well-bred and very promising and those in need of first-class stock should attend this sale as many bargains may be secured. Catalogues may be obtained on application to Killip & Co. auctioneers, 30 Montgomery Street.

THE date and place of sale of choice thoroughbreds belonging to the estate of Col. H. I. Thornton will be announced in our next issue.

FIVE carloads of horses and nearly one hundred men, owners, trainers and attendants arrived at the Oakland Track last Monday.

The Trotting Meeting Declared Off.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—I see by this morning's Examiner that I am quoted as being in favor of legislation limiting the running meeting in California. To make the matter clearer and define my position I will say that if the running meeting were managed so as not to be antagonistic to the trotting horse interest of California, and were conducted to further the interest of the racing sport generally, I would be against legislative interference, but the continued running meeting during the summer months, while the District Fairs were in progress, was plain evidence that the management cared little for the success of the District Fairs, or the welfare of the trotting horse business. The trotting horse men consoled themselves with the belief that they were to have a large, final meeting at San Francisco under the auspices of the California Jockey Club, as extensively advertised and for which all the trotting horse owners had entered liberally. Now to cap the climax after the trotting horse owners have shipped their horses to Oakland awaiting the opening of the meeting, the C. J. C. yesterday declared the whole meeting off, with the flimsy excuse that the track could not be gotten in condition to trot upon. It rained on Monday night and Tuesday, and instead of the management of the C. J. C. keeping horses off the track, they continued to run every day since and cut up the track, so that the chances for its drying out became more difficult. Mr. Fieldwick, the superintendent of the track, said he could have the track in fair order by Tuesday, and good by Wednesday.

The managers claim a contract with the new track at Ingle-side and they cannot continue with running or trotting later than Friday. This being the case, they would only have four days to conduct the trotting meeting in, the advertised programme covering seven days. This gave them a reasonable excuse to declare off the original programme. I suggested to Messrs. Williams, Ashe and Gunst to enable them to satisfy the horsemen who were here ready to trot and pace, and satisfy the public respecting this meeting, to give a four days' special meeting, over their track, from Tuesday to Friday inclusive. The suggestion was evidently ignored, as it was not acted upon. I then suggested to give the use of the Oakland track to the trotting horsemen to hold a meeting, to enable them to make something to remunerate them for expenses in coming here. This was likewise refused, which made it clearly evident that the C. J. C. did not want the trotting meeting under any circumstances or conditions to interfere with the running meeting. I will say in deference to Mr. T. Williams, President of C. J. C., that I believe could he have had his own way, personally, he would have had the meeting take place, and would have made it a success, but it is undoubtedly different with his associates. Mr. Williams feels badly over the matter, and has agreed to pay transportation charges home on horses and men coming from a distance.

The trotting horse owners, through the action of the C. J. C. are now able to understand their position, and if they are inclined to profit by experience, they are forced to realize that they must act independently and organize for the protection of the business. The enterprise of breeding and raising of thoroughbreds is very extensive, and there is much capital invested in the same, it is yet limited to but few, while the breeding, raising and training of trotting horses extends to almost every farm in this country, and capital invested directly and indirectly is incalculable. JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

DECLARED OFF.—To say that I was surprised when the intelligence came in the daily papers of Friday morning that the trotting meeting under the auspices of the California Jockey Club was declared off is only one phase of the question. Surprise is a faint expression. I might write that indignation was also a portion of the feeling, but above all, sincere regrets that such a course as that pursued by the club was followed. That is from the point of view in which all interests are considered. I have held, and with good reasons for the belief, that great benefits would have resulted to all concerned; a better feeling between those interested in both branches of sport, a desire to aid in whatever was necessary to promote the welfare of trotting and racing.

From the time when the programme was first published I was impressed with the hearing it had upon the interests pending, and when the entries were received was convinced that an unqualified success was guaranteed. Owners of harness horses responded with a liberality which proved that they would do their utmost to make such a showing as would place the meeting in the front rank of all that were held in 1895, and without a question the best were held on this coast. Never before such a list of entries, and the programme bringing in new features which could not fail to attract the public. Four races a day for seven days, scarcely one of which that did not promise a good race.

The long races even bringing out such a number of contestants, and all of them were worthy, that it was as good as decided that henceforth that kind of events would be prominent in future programmes.

But it is useless now to dilate on what would have resulted had the programme been carried out, and speculations as to the effect that will follow are not in keeping with the situation. That the course was ill advised is evident as from present appearances the weather is likely to be favorable, and those who had their horses here would have been willing to wait until track and day were good.

There is a decidedly better feeling on the part of those who have been so grievously disappointed, and where it is taken into consideration that horses were here from all parts of the State, it is not at all surprising that bitter words are spoken. With all the grounds that there are for irritation, I sincerely hope that there will be reconciliation, and that the parties who are now suffering from grievances will not carry on a warfare which can do no good, and be a serious injury to the breeding interests of the State.

Some are now arguing that the racing folk were determined to break up the meeting, and that had there been no rain the result would have been the same.

So far as Mr. Williams is concerned, I am satisfied that no one will regret the declaring off the meeting more heartily than does the President of the Jockey Club. A week ago last Thursday I saw Mr. Williams, and he ordered the printing of the posters, which was done, and he spoke with his usual enthusiasm about the meeting. When the rain came the policy of postponing was not questioned. I saw quite a number of owners and trainers at the Oakland track when the notice of the postponement was received, and all concurred that while it subjected them to inconvenience it was an act of necessity. They also spoke of the favorable opinions expressed in their sections of the country, and that there would be a large attendance from their neighborhoods.

Nothing but the best of feelings prevailed at that time, and I was very much pleased that the action of the California Jockey Club had evolved so much good feeling on the part of the harness folk. As the situation now stands there will be a revulsion, and those who were so ready to applaud strong in their condemnations. It cannot well be otherwise and until it is made manifest that opposition to harness racing had nothing to do with the action of the directors, the feeling will be intensified.

It is too early now for me to write as fully as I would like on this question. Next to Mr. Williams, I am probably the most disappointed over the failure of the C. J. C. Trotting Meeting. For the past eight months I have written in relation to the benefits which would accrue to harness racing from the support of that club, and now that there is such a complication I "am all abroad." Not so greatly disappointed over my individual interests as the future bearing it may have on the horse affairs of California. That out of the general disappointment there may be some light to cheer, is my fervent hopes, and that notwithstanding the gloom that now prevails, have the utmost confidence in the future of harness racing in California.

PALO ALTO AND MAY KING.—The great performance of Bingen in far away Maine, when he showed a public trial in 2:12½, has supplied two of my good friends with ammunition to take a shot at my proclivities. Iconoclast, in the Horse Review, draws a comparison between Palita and Bingen to the advantage of the sire of the last-named, while the editors of the Eastern department of the Horseman takes the same text. Both unite in claiming that May King is intensely trotting bred. This is all very true when the old infusions of thoroughbred blood are classed as trotting strains, though that is not a fair claim.

May Queen, the dam of May King, sire of Bingen, is by Norman, by Morse Horse, the sire of the latter by European, his dam by a son of Bishop's Hambletonian which was at least seven-eighths thoroughbred. The dam of Norman s. t. h. by Magnum Bonum, so that can be left out, just as fair to claim thoroughbred blood in her as trotting strains. The dam of May Queen, Jenny, by Crockett's Arabian, a son of imp. Mokhladi, and the dam of C's A., by imp. Hooton, thoroughbred. The dam of Jenny Evelina, by Davy Crockett, her dam by Whip. As there are five Davy Crocketts in the first and second columns of the American Stud Book it may have been one of them that was the sire, and as the name of Whip was conferred on quite a number of the descendants of Blackburn's Whip, it is a better argument to contend for thoroughbred than trotting blood in these animals.

The Eastern writer credits Palita with twenty-five per cent. of thoroughbred blood, but that is manifestly a case of under-rating. She gets that percentage from her sire's dam. The two Hambletonian (Rysdyk's) being in several more strains of thoroughbred, and the sire of her dam, General Benton, adds materially to the percentage.

I am far from desiring to take away any of the credit of the gallant little horse which has done so well as to get Bingen and the filly which, I believe, has the fastest yearling race record of the season in the East.

In giving Palo Alto the preference it does not decrease his "roll of honor," until he shows as many fast sons and daughters as his illustrious half brother, on the side of his sire, for more than one with a faster mark, a majority will sustain my side of the question.

Were I to assert that Whips was the greatest son of Electioneer on the plea that Azote was the fastest of the family, Iconoclast would be among the first to dispute the assertion, while tenable from one point of view, and I am ready to admit that 2:12½ is decidedly better than 2:16½, still there is a vast difference between Palita and Bingen. She has won every heat she has started in, and, though the defeat of the colt at Fleetwood, in all probability, was a "fluke," taking actual racing for the test, and the filly is superior. The superintendent at Palo Alto, Mr. Frank Covey, firmly believes that if Palita had been prepared for a fast mile entirely, the record of Arion would have been bettered.

This opinion was formed on what the filly had shown in her work, but winning races was the objective point, and, in the anxiety to accomplish that purpose, it may have been that too much was required of her.

I am one of quite a large company who hold that the mark of Arion is about the hardest to equal in the whole category of trotting events, and until a two-year old hauls a high-wheeled sulky on a kite-track in 2:10½, or better, that opinion will not be changed.

ZOMBRO.—That the brown son of McKinney, which carries the above rather queer name, is the best three-year-old trotter of the year, few will gainsay.

A racehorse in the fullest sense of the word, as his races show, and a good looker withal, one that is likely to take a very high place in the trotting temple of fame. Lusty and strong and with a sensible expression or rather a head which a token that this part of his makeup is on a par with his form. Very like his sire, and when I say an improvement on the "old horse" it speaks well for the procreative abilities of the sire. As they were in adjoining stalls at the Oakland track there was a good chance for comparison.

Auction Sale of Trotters.

Next Tuesday there will be offered at auction in this city a choice collection of young trotters and pacers that will pay their new owners to give to a trainer and fit them for the circuit next year. Besides these there will also be sold choice roadsters and carriage horses. The catalogue issued contains the names and pedigrees, but the stock must be seen to be appreciated. There are colts and fillies from the Vioget Stock Farm, Lawrence, Santa Clara County, sired by Wild Boy (son of Gen. Benton and Wildflower, 2:21, by Electioneer); Eros, 2:29½, by Electioneer; Azmoor, 2:20½; Mountain Boy, Primus and Tommy T., out of splendidly bred mares, and are as fine looking as any every offered in this city. R. G. Head, of Napa, sends four excellent driving horses; one of them is by Noonday, 2:30, out of Nellie Steinway, by Steinway, that is very fast.

Thomas Seale, of Mayfield, offers a number of choice roadsters and broodmares, most of them trace to that sire of handsome, pure-gaited trotters and roadsters, Elmo, 2:27. There are some stylish ones among them.

Chas. Kerr, of Bakersfield, is certain to astonish those who attend the sale by the excellence of the stock he is offering. Most of them are by his grandly-bred stallion Sam Corbett (son of Guy Wilkes and Ventures, by Arthurton), out of the finest lot of well-bred mares ever brought to Kern County.

Besides these there are some grandly-bred ones by Dexter Prince, Arthurton and Nephew. These can all be seen at the salesyard, and a cordial invitation is extended to all to come and inspect them. Remember the sale will take place next Tuesday, November 12th.

Simeon G. Reed Dead.

PASADENA, November 7.—Simeon G. Reed died at his residence in this city this afternoon. Mr. Reed has not been in good health for some years, and Saturday he was stricken with paralysis, which terminated in his death to-day.

Mr. Reed was born in East Abington, Mass., in 1830. In 1850 he was married to Miss Amanda Wood of Quincy, Mass., and she survives him. In 1852 Mr. Reed came to the Pacific Coast and settled in Oregon. In 1858 he became a member of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, and a year later was made its Vice-President. He organized the Oregon Iron and Steel Company and held the Presidency of the Convor Creek Mining and Milling Company. In the development of the great Willamette Valley he was a prominent figure, and was perhaps as widely known for business enterprises as any man in the West. He came to Pasadena four years ago and purchased "Carmelita," which is laid out in beautiful landscape effects. He purchased, also, the Oneonta Stock Farm, stocking it with some of the finest horses in the country.

H. C. HUBBARD, Hartford, Ct., writes: "I removed and cured a curb in ten days with your Absorbine without removing the hair or leaving a blemish. It removed the inflammation at once. Cannot recommend it too highly."

J. C. Gray, St. Johnsbury, Vt., writes: "Absorbine removed a windspavin from my colt."

TOGGLES, 2:16, handled by Chas. E. Clark, the young man who developed Athanion, until sold to Ed. Geers, is by Strathway, 2:19, out of Fly, by Pasha, he by Sultan, second dam Hock-Hocking, and third dam by Rifleman. He is a brown horse about fifteen hands, and is one of the strongest made and gamest little trotters ever bred and raised in "raisin land."

KLAMATH never looked finer and is in better condition to-day than he has ever been.

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Sea Spray 1 to 2, De la Guerra 5, Modesto 7, Lady Splendor 8, Prince Devine 15, R. H. 20, Joe Hill 30. Good start. Sea Spray led all the way, and won easily by two lengths. Winner, b g, 3, by imp. Mariner—Maranette. De la Guerra (ch g, 4, by imp. Mariner—Trixy), second, easily; Modesto (br g, 4, by Hyder Ali—Visalia), third. Time, 1:02½.

Third race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Leonville 2½, Happy Day and Model 3, Sleeping Child 6, Rose Clark 12, Lady Jane 20, Navy Blue 30, Monitor 40, imp. Ivy and Umma 50 to 1. Good start. Model led all the way and won by five lengths. Winner, ch f, 3, by imp. Sir Modred—Gypsy. Happy Day (br g, a, by Emperor—Felicity) second driving; Navy Blue (h g, 3, by Blue Wing—Bay Betty) third. Time, 1:41½.

Fourth race—Handicap, at six furlongs, for two-year-olds. Post betting—Treachery 7 to 5, Joe K. 2, Benham 3, Grady 4½, Scimitar 15, Lady Gray 20, Clara Johnson 300 to 1. Good start. Treachery showed first, then Grady took the lead and won galloping by five lengths. Winner, b c, by Three Cheers—Gold Cup. Treachery (h f, 2, by Hanover—Deceit) second driving. Benham (ch c, by Flambeau—Gherhardine) third. Time, 1:13.

Fifth race—Handicap, one mile and three-quarters. Post betting—Fred Gardner 1, Flirtilla 2, Adelante and Raindrop 9 to 1. Good start. Fred Gardner's boy fell off, and Flirtilla won easily. Winner, b f, 3, by Peel—Faustine. Adelante (b c, 3, by El Rio Rey—Ogalina) second, easily. Raindrop (b m, a, by Wildidle—imp. Teardrop) third. Time, 3:05½.

Sixth race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Empress of Norfolk 8 to 5, Contribution 2 to 1, Yeman 7 to 2, America 7, Kathleen 25, Ida Sauers and Morgan G. 50 and Judge 6 to 1. Good start. Yeman led to the last forty yards, then Contribution was brought up and won driving by a head. Winner, b g, a, by Delnacardoch—Retribution. Yeman (ch g, a, by Alarm—Hira), second, easily; Empress of Norfolk (br m, 4, by Emperor of Norfolk—Savannah), third. Time, 1:01½.

Seventh race—Handicap hurdle, one mile and a half. Post betting—Auteuil 9 to 5, Wynadotte 9 to 2, J. O. C. 2, Nellie G. and Lonnie B. 7, Arctic 10, Oold Dust 40 and Guadalupe 50 to 1. Good start. Auteuil won driving by a nose. Arctic fell at the half pole and threw J. O. C. to his knees. Winner, b g, 6, by John Happy—Jess. J. O. C. (ch g, 3, by Apache—Irene) second, easily; Nellie G. (gr m, a, by Sampson—unknown) third. Time, 2:48.

EIGHTH DAY—MONDAY, NOVEMBER 4.

The heavy showers of Sunday saturated the harrowed top of the track, and the wind of this morning dried it out sufficiently to give it a very fair look, but under the loose earth on top there was a slippery track, which upset all "form" calculations and threw the talent into a thoroughly demoralized condition. Lightning struck all around, and but one favorite, who appears to be a pretty good sort of a mud horse, gave the gentlemen a run for their money. The most notable reversal of form, through the condition of the track, was the defeat of the crack Libertine by a Webfoot horse, Oregon Eclipse. Under ordinary circumstances he would have been expected to beat Oregon Eclipse a city block. He was beaten a head. By the way he passed Mainstay in a drive for the finish it looked as though he might have had that head's length to his own advantage if he had been kept going.

New Moon, a good thing, that was backed down from 5 to 3 to 1, won as she liked in the first race. Suffrage, a 6 to 5 favorite, was off in front at the start but gave way to Rejected and Sagatelle, and made a poor showing. Miss Truth, one of "Bone Doctor" Robbins' horses, is a star bad actor and delayed the start fifteen minutes.

The Judge at the very luscious odds of 20 to 1, beat the flag by three lengths in the second race, at five and a half furlongs, and was not headed. Allahabad ran the best race of the two, getting away almost last and finishing one length behind the winner. Dorsey, an 8 to 5 favorite, was third, with Last Chance, a warm second choice, played from 6 to 3½ to 1, fourth. As good as 8 to 1 was offered against Allahabad for the place. Burmah was touted as a fair thing in the soft-going, but was never in the game, was pulled up and finished absolutely last.

Perhaps sustained the reputation of the Kyrle Dalys for a liking to heavy going, and in a very easy manner won from horses that far outclassed him. Charley Boots, the favorite, from another mid-flinging family, was second. Perhaps went to the post at 7 to 1. Marionette and Claude Hill, each at short prices, were both outside the money.

Mary S. won the last race in a ridiculously easy manner. She was twelve lengths ahead of everything else at the finish with her field strung out with daylight between nearly all the horses.

The winning jockeys were Fell, Taylor, Tod and Cash Sloan and Chevalier.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Suffrage 6 to 5, New Moon 3, Rejected 8, Mollie Bawn 9, Miss Truth and Sagatelle 12, Big Chief 50, Clara Johnson 60 to 1. Good start. New Moon won from the head of the stretch by five lengths. Winner, b f, by Hyder Ali—Namonina. Mollie Bawn (ch f, by Sinfax—Shannon Berna), second, easily; Clara Johnson (ch f, by El Rio Rey—Valerie), third. Time, 1:06½.

Second race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Post betting—Dorsey 9 to 5, Last Chance 3½, Burmah 4½, Allahabad 10, Leonatus 15, The Judge and Corrine Buckingham 20, Gypsy Girl and Lady Splendor 25, San Luis Rey 50, Way 75 to 1. Poor start. The Judge beat the flag three lengths and was never headed. Winner, b h, 4, by imp. Loyalist—British Queen. Allahabad (h g, 3, by Hyder Ali—Floride) second, easily. Dorsey (ch g, 3, by Cyclone—Kate Carson) third. Time, 1:14.

Third race—Five and one-half furlongs. Post betting—Libertine 1, Mainstay 8 to 5, Oregon Eclipse 3½, imp. Amario 40 to 1. Good start. Mainstay showed first, then Libertine took command and in the stretch fell back and was beaten by Oregon Eclipse a head. Winner, ch g, a, by Joe Hooker—Lulu Riggs. Libertine (b h, 4, by Leonatus—Falaise) second driving; Mainstay (ch c, 3, by imp. Mariner—Queen Emma) third. Time 1:11½.

Fourth race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Chas.

Boots 11 to 5, Marionette 3½, Claude Hill 4½, Perhaps 7, Encino 8, Cardwell 12, Don Pio Pico and Walter J. 15, La France 25, Veva 40 to 1. Good start. Perhaps led most all the way and won easily by three lengths. Winner, br g, by Kosciusko—May Viley. Charley Boots (b g, by Alto Mio—Constellation), second easily; Encino (ch c, by imp. Brutus—May D.), third. Time, 1:04.

Fifth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Mary S. 2, Leonville 2½, Sleeping Child 4½, Miss Fletcher 6, Scimitar 7, Miss Garvin 15, Elmer P. 25, Soledad 40, Amigo 100 to 1. Good start. Mary S. won all the way, finishing twelve lengths in front of her field. Winner, b m, 5, by Duke of Montrose—Ocean Wave, Leonville (br g, 4, by Leonatus—Villette) second easily; Sleeping Child (ch g, 3, by Child of the Mist—Erin go-bragh) third. Time, 1:47½.

NINTH DAY—TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5.

Bay District track was an unbroken circle of muddy water about three inches deep when the first race was called today, and as the horses plunged through it on the backstretch their hoof beats resounded across the infield to the club house. The jockeys and horses came in splashed with mud so as to be almost unrecognizable, and all had a uniformly saffron hue. The track, however, had a good, solid bottom, was not in the least dangerous, and was considerably faster than the day before. Very good time was made in all the races. The attendance was light, but those on hand were not afraid to assail the bookies and show what they knew about mudlarks. But one favorite won, so the bookies had the best of the argument.

Of the original card of six races, with a total of fifty entries, the blue pencil eliminated one number and fifteen entries out of the remaining five. A further change was the running of the last race at a mile and a sixteenth on the flat instead of over the hurdles.

The storm held out most all the afternoon, and the first two races were run in a pelting rain. The first field was at the post fully fifteen minutes.

Patriot, who made such a good record here last winter in his four starts (two wins and beaten only a head in the other two) all in heavy going, carried the bulk of the talent's coin in the first race, at six and a half furlongs, with Mt. Roy nibbled at quite freely. He seemed to revel in the sloppy going and won with great ease. White Cloud, the pinto sprinter that has recently grown a new hoof, made his reappearance in a thoroughly impressive manner, and in setting a very hot pace into the stretch showed he has not lost his speed and has a liking for such a track. Mt. Roy was second.

Mollie Bawn repeated her very good showing in the mud of the day before by winning in a romp by six lengths from Valiente. Mt. McGregor 11, the favorite, opened at even money, went to 3 to 5 and then was backed down to 6 to 5 again. He was in a good place at the finish, but bolted for the paddock gate and almost dislodged Donahue. Mollie Bawn was at 5½ to 1 at post time.

A good deal of money was played on Tar and Tartar in the third race, at seven furlongs, and his price shortened from three to 9 to 5. Wawona and Centurion were on equal terms for second choice at post time, though the former was the actual favorite for a time. Goodwin 11, the stake horse, was strong and in fine shape, and looked to be a dangerous element, but he went back in the betting by degrees from 3 to 20 to 1. Wawona was from three to six lengths in front of his field from flag to finish, Centurion second two lengths in front of Goodwin, who lead Tar and Tartar four more.

The judges did not approve of the ride Donahue put up on Goodwin 11, and decided he should not ride at Bay District any more. He has ridden with such poor judgment in so many races, and has been such a disturbing element at the post as to call forth the maledictions of all local race-goers. Col. Burns had great confidence in the boy's honesty, and so firmly believed his errors were of judgment, that he has kept him on. Some years ago Donahue received injuries about his head that gave him a morose, taciturn disposition, as well as affecting his bearing, and on this account sympathy has smoothed over many egregious errors. His recent record has been so many bad rides and without any extenuating ones that the judges concluded to protect the betting public.

The fourth race, at five and a half furlongs, was a horse race from start to finish. Potentate, an Eastern mud-eater, Barney Schreiber's crack sprinter Yeman, Realization, who takes mud from few, and Myron, were the field, with Potentate, the favorite, backed from 2 to 1 to even money. Realization receded from 6 to 9 to 5, and Yeman went back from 2½ to 5 to 1. Myron had five and sixes about him all the time. Yeman set the pace but could not get further than a half length from Potentate, and Realization was lapping the latter most all the way. At the last eighth Yeman was in front a half length and Potentate tried to run up on him. There was no sign of a white feather, and a good game race was wound up with a game finish. Potentate slowly gaining on him, but Yeman never faltered and was still a neck in front at the wire. The time, 1:02, fully describes the race. On a fast track the record would have been in danger.

Barcaldine, a 5 to 1 shot, led all the way in the last race, but Cicero made up a lot of ground and almost caught him. Morgan G. had a strong following and was backed down from 11 to 5 to even money. He finished third.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Six furlongs, selling. Post betting—Patriot 6 to 5, Mt. Roy 2½, Ida Sauer 5, De la Guerra 6, White Cloud 10, Huguenot 50 to 1. Good start. White Cloud showed the way to the stretch, where Patriot passed him, winning easily by two lengths. Winner, ch g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Eda. Mt. Roy (b g, 4, by Faustus—Mount City Belle), second, easily; Ida Sauer (ch f, 3, by Joe Hooker—Addie O'Neil), third. Time, 1:19½.

Second race—Five furlongs, maiden two year olds. Post betting—Mt. McGregor 6 to 5, Valiente 4½, Irene 6, Mollie Bawn 5½, Harry O. 10, Amen 20, Diana filly 50 to 1. Good start. Mt. McGregor led to the paddock, where he bolted. Mollie Bawn won easily by six lengths. Winner, ch f, by Sinfax—Shannon Berna. Valiente (ch c, by Jim Brown—Shannon Verna) second driving; Harry O. (br g, by imp. Trade Wind—Dolly S.) third. Time, 1:04.

Third race—Seven furlongs, selling. Post betting—Tar and Tartar 9 to 5, Centurion and Wawona, each 11 to 5, Goodwin 11 8 to 1. Good start. Wawona was never headed, winning by six lengths. Winner, ch g, 4, by imp. Sir Modred—Typhoon. Centurion (ch g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Lizzie P.) second easily; Goodwin 11 (ch c, 3, by imp. The Ill-Used—Little Hope) third. Time, 1:32.

Fourth race—Five furlongs. Post betting—Potentate 1,

Realization 9 to 5, Yeman 5, Myron 6 to 1. Good start. Yeman led all the way. Potentate gave him a hard drive at the finish, but Yeman won by a neck. Winner, ch g, a, by Alarm—Hira. Potentate (b h, 4, by Hayden Edwards—Amelia P.), second, easily; Realization (h h, 4, by Regent—Sadie), third. Time, 1:02.

Fifth race—One and one sixteenth miles, selling. Post betting—Morgan G. 11 to 10, Nellie G. 3, Barcaldine 5, Cicero 9, Silver Lip and Dick O'Malley 15, Sinbad 20 to 1. Fair start. Barcaldine led all the way and won by a head. Cicero forced him to a drive at the finish. Winner, b g, 3, by Ben D'or—Ida Green. Cicero (b h, 6, by Longfellow—Belle Knight) second easily; Morgan G. (br g, 3, by Joe Hooker—Bonita) third. Time, 1:55.

TENTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 6.

Mushy mud was the character of the track to-day, and it was several seconds slower than the day previous. The storm had subsided and the track dried out considerable under the influence of a warm sun, but it will be several days before it is back to normal condition. The attendance was only fair. There were six events on the card, with a very fair list of entries, the maiden event, especially, which had eleven starters and four absentees. The talent has got its mud cap on and picked out four of the six winners. The Fame Stakes, for three-year-olds, at a mile and three-quarters, was one of the numbers, with but two starters. It is the last of the old Blood Horse stakes, which was assumed by the California Jockey Club, and was worth about $800 to the winner, with $200 to the second. Orville Appleby's bay filly Flirtilla had a virtual walkover from Wyatt Earp's chestnut gelding Rogation, and was over a sixteenth of a mile in front at the wire.

Nic Nac was installed favorite for the first race, at five furlongs, for maidens, and won handily from Artemus, after the latter had led to the drawgate. Canvasback showed a very much improved form, and a liking for the soft going and beat out Agrippina and Harry O., both at much shorter odds.

Zeta was the only thing Encino had to beat, was the way it was put before the race, and there was a question as to Encino's going five and a half furlongs. Consequently Zeta was a warm favorite at 2½ to 1. Encino went back from 3½ to 4 to 1, and La France, for some unexplained reason, advanced from 5 to 3 to 1. There was nothing in sight but Encino after the start, and he won by six lengths. Jack Atkins and Last Chance were 2-3, and then came Scimitar, La France and Zeta, all five heads apart.

Three Forks was an even-money favorite in the fourth event at five and one-half furlongs, with Abi P. and Moss Terry played for second choice. Three Forks took up the running after Monitor and Johnny Payne had shown the way to the three-quarters pole, and Chevalier sent him along an easy winner by three lengths. Abi B., in third position all the way, drove Johnny Payne out a neck at the wire for place. Moss Terry ran absolutely.

Minnie was forced down from 30 to 8 to 1 in the bandicap, at five and one-half furlongs, while Mainstay went begging at 2 to 1. Realization, notwithstanding his race of the day before, and heavy impost to-day, was favorite all the time. Soledad was liberally supported for the place. Mainstay showed first, then Realization took up the running and opened such a gap as to look an easy winner. On the turn into the stretch, however, Hennessy sent Mainstay along, and from there he won with comparative ease. Realization was half a length away at the wire and eight lengths in front of Lady Gray. Soledad did not show well and Minnie ran last all the way.

Montana, By Holly's old horse, now the property of J. P. Woolman, was made favorite, by liberal backing, over Mamie Scott, who opened at 6 to 5, and receded to 5 to 2. Montana's opening price was 2 to 1 and closed at 7 to 5. Montana won in a gallop, and Mamie Scott finished second, three lengths in front of Hy Dy.

The winning jockeys to-day were: E. Jones and Chevalier two and Donnelly and Hennessy one each.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Nic Nac 7 to 5, imp. Agrippina 4, Harry O. 5, Artemus 7, Judge Tam 10, Pert Child 12, Eva S. gelding 15, Roadwarmer 30, Canvasback 40, Jonglouse filly 60, Bert 100 to 1. Good start. Artemus led to the stretch, Nic Nac drew away and won easily by half a length. Winner, ch f, by Lake Notice—Picnic. Artemus (b g, 3, by Argyle—by imp. Sir Modred) second, easily. Canvasback (h c, 2, by Fellowcharm—The Teal) third. Time, 1:03½.

Second race—Five and a half furlongs, selling, light welter weights. Post betting—Zeta 2½, Encino 4, La France 4, Last Chance 6, Monarch 8, Jack Atkins 8, Scimitar 12 to 1. Good start. Encino led all the way and won very easily. Winner, ch c, 2, by imp. Brutus—May D. Jack Atkins (h g, 2, by Regent—Miss Sadie) second driving. Last Chance (ch g, 4, by Prince of Norfolk—Vedette) third. Time, 1:11.

Third race—The Fame Stakes, for three-year-olds, one mile and three quarters. Post betting—Flirtilla 1 to 6, Rogation 6 to 1. Good start. Rogation led to the stretch the first time, where Flirtilla took the lead and finished by over a sixteenth of a mile in front. Winner, b f, by Peel—Faustine. Rogation (ch g, by Surinam—Mistletoe) second. Time, 3:20.

Fourth race—Five and a half furlongs, selling, light welter weights. Post betting—Three Forks 1, Abi P. 3, Johnny Payne 3, Moss Terry 3½, Miss Fletcher 15, Monita 40 to 1. Good start. Three Forks led from the head of the stretch and won by three lengths. Winner b g, 4, by Spokane—Trifle. Abi P. (ch m, 6, by Three Cheers—Dairy Maid) second, driving; Johnny Payne (br h, 4, by Egmont—Top o' the Morning) third. Time, 1:11½.

Fifth race—Five and a half, handicap. Post betting—Realization 7 to 10, Mainstay 2, Minnie 8, Soledad 15, Lady Gray 50 to 1. Good start. Mainstay showed first, then Realization led into the stretch, where Mainstay caught him and won by a half length in a drive. Winner ch c, 3, by imp. Mariner—Queen Emma. Realization (b h, 4, by Regent—Sadie) second easily; Lady Gray (gr f, 2, by Suwarrow—Muta) third. Time, 1:10½.

Sixth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Montana 7 to 5, Mamie Scott 5 to 2, Gussie 3, Hy Dy 7, Tar and Tartar 12 to 1. Good start. Montana won in a gallop. Winner, b h, a, by Story—Uga. Mamie Scott (b f, 3, by Canny Scot—Eola) second easily. Hy Dy (br g, a, by Hyder Ali—Addie Warren) third. Time, 1:45.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Duck shooting was very fair at Antioch on Sunday last.

The Ostrander 4 shot repeater is on exhibition at R. Liddle Co's.

Chas. Cate bagged a fine string of mallard on Sunday at Mowry's.

Edgar Forster had his usual good luck on the Sonoma marsh on Sunday.

The Hazard Smokeless Powder Co. will give a big tournament at Cincinnati on May 19 22, 1896.

The tournament of the Sportsmen's Association of the Northwest will be held at Spokane in June next.

Ed. Ladd was at Suisun on Sunday last and bagged five geese, four mallards and three snipe. He says that ducks are quite plentiful.

The Supervisors of San Benito county have prohibited the sale of quail in that country or the shipping of them out of the country for sale.

From all sides we hear of a new flight of ducks. The shooting to-morrow promises to be the best yet. Except perhaps, the opening day.

The grass suits for duck hunting for sale at Clabrough, Golcher & Co's., are said to be better than a blind. They are selling like hot cakes.

Quite a number of salmon and cod have been caught at the Powell St. wharf during the past week. The salmon are caught by still fishing with a worm and strip of shiner for bait. The flood tide is the best.

The third series of Shooting Pictures by A. B. Frost will be out soon. They are published by Chas. Scribner's Sons, and are superb representations of sportsman's outings afield. Every sportsman should have them.

On Monday of last week the mackerel catch at Monterey was enormous. Yellow tail are also biting very freely. Over 250 yellow-tail were caught within a quarter of a mile of the wharf in a few hours one morning recently.

We would like our friends to know that the article published in the Call regarding Gun editor of this paper is almost entirely without foundation. He may possibly have been in mud half way way to the knee but not over that.

The Wheatland Four Corner states that several black bass have been caught at the mouth of Reed's slough. They are thought to be the offspring of the bass that were liberated by Messrs. Sherwood and Bingham, of Marysville, in the Feather river. The bass were returned to the river.

The storm of Tuesday should have driven the ducks from the bay to the inland marshes and provided good shooting for those who are fortunate enough to get out in the middle of the week. It should also have driven a few more ducks down from the north, but the regular winter flight will not arrive until we get a good norther.

The Sportsmen's Protective Association held a meeting on Tuesday evening last and elected the following officers: President, W. J. Ahern; vice-president, F. A. Staples; recording secretary, C. F. Fitzsimmons; financial secretary, S. J. Scovern; treasurer, E. C. Hisgen; directors, H. Battue, G. Biebesheimer, O. Schwane, J. Jones and J. Larsen.

Jud Tomlinson, of Phenix, A. T., has a dead rattlesnake on which there are thirty two rattles and a button. It was killed at Agua Fria, near the Gila river, by G. A. Scarlet, a professional snake hunter. This snake is four feet and three inches long and about six inches in diameter, and judging by the rattles must have been about thirty-five years of age. It is seldom that a rattler, having more than twelve rattles, is killed.

The sportsmen of San Francisco have declared that the law prohibiting the selling of game shall be enforced. The State Sportsmen's Association have taken the matter in hand and Game Warden Mogan will arrest every dealer that he can catch selling game. It will make no difference whether convictions are secured or not: the arrests will continue.

One of the best gentlemen pigeon shots in the country Edgar Gibbs Murphy, of Hollywood, N. J., met with an accident while cleaning his bicycle on Saturday night, which may prevent him from shooting in great matches hereafter. The forefinger of his right hand was caught between the chain and cog and cut off at the first joint. As this is his trigger finger, it will cripple him as a wing shot.

Every market in town has game for sale in open violation of the law. On Tuesday morning 1,000 ducks were received by one house in this city. The principal restaurants will serve duck or quail to those they know. Commissioner Murdock claims that roast canvas-back may be obtained at the Pacific Union Club by those who wish to dine upon that delicacy, and they are purchased in the open market, and now to cap the climax a jury of supposedly intelligent men acquit a firm of commission men that have previously plead guilty.

English sportsmen are particular as to what they shoot at. The Daily Telegraph, having spoken inaccurately of a covey of pheasants, received the following list of correct names for assemblages of birds: "A covey of partridges; a nye, nide or nest of pheasants; a herd of swans; an exalting of larks; a watching of nightingales; a team of ducks; a muster of peacocks; a bevy of quails; a flight of doves; a flock or gaggle of geese; a spring of teals; a fall of woodcocks; a pack of grouse; a sedge of herons; a shoal of rooks; a trip of widgeon; a wisp or walk of snipe."

J. Jones, the hunter, who was arrested recently by Harry Emeric for trespassing on the salt marsh preserve of the San Pablo Shooting Club, demanded a jury trial, and on Saturday last he was acquitted. The Sportsmen's Protective Association fought the case and won. There is a grave doubt as to the constitutionality of the present law, but until it is tested in the higher courts no jury can do otherwise than to acquit. Mr. Emeric has announced that he will have a large number of deputies on hand on Sunday next to keep off trespassers, but several members of the Sportsmen's Protective Association say that they will shoot there just the same.

Sam Duncan, of Lancaster, Ky., is an inventive genius of no mean ability. He has invented a fishing line and pole that will catch fish, and at the same time save trouble in tiring out big game, which often results in the breaking of lines, and it is very simple when explained. He uses a pole similar to those now in use, save that he uses glass loops instead of metal ones, in order that they may act as insulators and supporters at the same time. Through these he runs two fine wires about the size of hairs, and so constructs them as to make a connection at the bend of the hook near the point. The cork is also made of glass, and sinker is a leaden ball incased in glass. At the other end is a small wire connecting the two small ones with a battery of about thirty volts, which he carries in his pocket. When the fish pulls under the cork, all Duncan has to do is to press a button, and the fish is shocked to the extent that it does not recover until landed and on the string. Duncan will have this patented.—Rod, Gun and Kennel.

It is not class legislation. Every marketman and every man who wants a mess of ducks, quail, snipe or rail is at liberty to go out and shoot them, and the sportsman cannot buy game any more than the marketman or the housewife.

To be sure we hear occasionally of a game hog who goes out and kills several hundred ducks in one shoot and claims to be a sportsman, but the market hunter does this thing regularly. There is a class of market hunters who are sportsmen; they shoot from sunrise to sunset, and if they sell their game and make an honest living by so doing, they are as much gentlemen as one-half the so called sportsmen, but there is another class of market hunter that must be legislated against or we will not have any game to shoot. We refer to the man who sows grain on a likely hillside and mows down whole herds of quail at a discharge; the man who shoots a 4-bore gun behind trained oxen at Los Banos and mows down whole flocks of mallards; the man who shoots by moonlight and when he has driven the birds from the marsh moves his ark to fresh ground. These men claim the right to shoot for the market and the present law restricts their destruction to two months. It is a good law and should be upheld.

Unjustifiable Slaughter.

A reader of the American Field sends that paper a clipping from the Chronicle of October 16, showing the slaughter of ducks that took place on the Suisun marshes on the day previous, the opening day of the season there on ducks. The editor comments on the article as follows:

Taking the Chronicle's report, supposing it to be mainly true, the numbers of ducks killed by members of the three or four clubs shooting there was in excess of all reason, and we are indeed surprised to know that men who claim to be sportsmen of the highest type, men, many of them, able to hunt as many days during the open season as their inclination dictates, men who shoot for sport and not for profit, men who cannot otherwise than know that game is growing scarcer and scarcer every year, should permit their passion for shooting to run away with their better judgment and kill ducks in such excessively large numbers, and for no other earthly reason, so far as we can see, than to satisfy a desire to shoot, or so as to be able to say that on such and such a day they killed more birds than certain other members of the club.

Such slaughter cannot be justified, and if persisted in will in a few years make wildfowl shooting a thing to be talked about, but seldom enjoyed; and if continued the men who are doing it now will live to see the folly of it and regret that they were so blind as to actually shoot the sport out of existence.

It is not necessary to call the attention of these men to the annihilation of the buffalo, or the extinction of the wild pigeon, for they know the story by heart; and they know also, as well as anybody else, that this unwarranted killing of wild fowl means ultimate extermination of this species of game. Were they ignorant of it, there would be some excuse for them and we could forgive them for this one act; but they are men of good sense, men of culture, men who are well informed on the rapid decrease of all kinds of game in this country, and they ought to be ashamed of such work.

The Chronicle mentions a few of the bags made, as follows: Two men, shooting from the same blind, killed 234; another, during the forenoon, bagged 71; another, during the day, scored 105, and still another 88, the reporter—evidently not a sportsman and supposing that the man who can make the largest bag in a day's shooting is the greatest sportsman—remarking that the man who killed 88 would have done much better if he had not been disturbed by other shooters.

These men may try to excuse themselves by saying they were shooting on the club's preserve, and therefore had a right to kill just as many birds as they liked. This is legally true, but morally they were as guilty of wanton and unjustifiable slaughter as the much abused market-shooter who shoots as a business and not for sport. Circumstances might possibly justify such work in a poor, half-starved market-shooter, but not in the club man who has not the semblance of a reasonable excuse to offer such shameful butchery.

Until club men learn to be moderate in their demands upon the game that belongs to all alike, we cannot hope to convince the average sportsman that to kill in excess is morally criminal.

Game Protection.

As the "Investigation Meeting" of the Fish and Game Commission was held on Thursday evening of last week. It was impossible for us to give our readers anything but a brief summary of the meeting.

Grave charges were made against the Commission and the honesty of its deputies by the daily press of this city, but no one appeared at the meeting to verify those charges except Mr. J. M. Morrison, a member of the Commission.

Our contemporaries, both daily and weekly, seem inclined to roast the Commission at every opportunity and hide the good done by them, holding only their mistakes before the eyes of the public. We wish to be more fair minded. We desire to see every one have "fair play."

Some of the sportsmen and a portion of the press are calling for the abolishment of the Commission. This we think a grave mistake. There is no denying the fact that the Commission do a great deal of good for the fishing industry of this State. Their work in hatching salmon and protecting the same is fully appreciated by the salmon cannerys and the marketmen. The introduction of bass has been of great benefit to all and their patrol is unquestionably effective, possibly it might be more so, but they are certainly entitled to credit for what they have done.

Deputy Davis made twenty-eight arrests last month and secured twenty convictions. During the same time the deputies made sixteen arrests on the Klamath and failed to secure a single conviction, and yet our would be contemporary says that it is all rot to claim that country juries will not convict. How about the city jury that failed to convict Campodonico and Malcolm?

In the propagation and protection of game they have done very little, practically nothing. They claim that they have not the means to do so.

At the recent, so called "Investigation Meeting" Crittenden Robinson claimed that the commission had a fund of $4000 to draw from for the prosecution of violations of the game law. Mr. Murdoch replied that there were no funds for that purpose and Chief Deputy Babcock read the law on the point, claiming that the Commission had no power to touch that fund.

If the present members of the Commission do not attend to their duties, better men should be appointed, but to abolish the Commission will only make a bad matter worse.

Give the game wardens more power. Make the law read that the Board of Supervisors shall appoint a game warden in place of may appoint a game warden and more good will be accomplished in one year than an inefficient commission will accomplish in ten.

Let the Commission be called and act as a Fish Commission and appoint a State Game Warden whose duties shall be to appoint wardens for every county and see that they attend to their duty and our game will be protected, but as things are now they are very much at sixes and sevens. One-half of the counties have not appointed wardens. Those that have are loud in their praises of the system and declare that the game is already more plentiful.

Wm. Henshaw, W. W. Foote, Emil Nusbaumer and Victor Metcalf accuse Game Warden J. L. Donovan, of Alameda county, in an Oakland paper of trespassing on their preserve at Alvarado, and state that he has only made one arrest.

If he trespassed we believe it to be an unintentional offense, and the statement that he has made but one arrest is false. He has made quite a number of arrests, and one and all have been convictions. They have been recorded from time to time in these columns.

The case of Campodonico and Malcolm, arrested recently for selling game out of season, came up before Judge Low on Monday last. The defendants confessed themselves guilty. The judge charged the jury to bring in a verdict of guilty, but the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. It was their duty to decide upon the case as the law reads, not by their personal ideas of what the law should be.

Attorney Riordan came about as far from the truth as a man ever gets, when he stated that "Every person in the State, with the exception of the State Sportsman's Association, is opposed to the statute." The law was first framed by a convention of ranchers, lawyers, judges, editors and mountaineers from nearly every county in the State. The State Sportsmen's Association called the convention, but the convention framed the law, and every sportsman and every citizen in the State that is interested in the protection of game, knows that the most efficient protection of all is to restrict the market hunter.

Battle Creek Hatchery.

Deputy Fish Commissioner Babcock last week returned from the new salmon hatchery at Battle Creek, Tehama County. The building was finished on October 1st, and the deputies then began taking salmon spawn on October 23d. Mr. Babcock states that the creek below the racks is a moving mass of salmon. The fish are of good size and yield about 25,000 eggs per fish. At the present time there are over 4,500,000 eggs in the hatchery, and at the present rate of gathering the hatchery's full capacity will be tested within ten days.

Working to the Gun.

For the best enjoyment of sports afield the dog must work to the gun. Moreover, it is one of the essentials to a broken dog's education. If he does not work to the gun he is not properly broken. Breaking a dog to point steadily when he points birds, and backing with more or less reliability, is not all of dog training. If the trainer must chase his dog between whiles, following his dog's erratic courses off the main course which he is unable to follow, owing to the dog refusing to keep a course marked out by the trainer, such dog is not broken properly.

Not a few dogs in field trials fail to work to the gun. They range entirely beyond the trainer's control and are only approachable during the few moments they are on point, or they alternately work under control awhile and self hunt awhile.

Wide ranging at high speed at field trials, regardless of whether the dog works to the gun or not, has too often been accepted as the correct exposition of good work. The evil once established is difficult to cure. It is much easier to half train a dog than it is to train him thoroughly.

Now a dog may range wide and still work to the gun. If he is working to the gun, the trainer can serenely keep on the course laid out for him by the judge. The trained dog will keep his trainer in mind, note his whereabouts, and observe him as a point to which to shape his efforts. If he is not broken to the gun, the trainer cannot keep his course and becomes hurried, irritable, warm and prolific in excuses and explanations.—B. Waters, in Forest and Stream.

If report tells the truth Mr. Emeric is going beyond the law in his endeavors to keep the poachers off of his preserve at San Pablo. We believe that a man should be able to control land that is without question his own property and that he is entitled to all the privileges that the land can afford him, but we also believe in upholding the law. It is reported that Mr. Emeric is not only driving off all "poachers" but that he took away some thirty or forty ducks from a boy who was caught shooting on his land recently. Will some one explain to us what right he had to confiscate these ducks.

We have received several inquiries in regard to the San Mateo county ordinance. In 1894 the Board of Supervisors of San Mateo county passed an ordinance prohibiting the killing of rail except between Oct. 1st and Nov. 1st. This ordinance conflicts with the State law which opens the season on October 15th, and is consequently null and void. The Supervisors have declared their intention to pass a new ordinance but have not done so as yet.

Clabrough Golcher & Co. continue to sell the pneumatic sporting boats as fast as received. Their latest novelty in this line is the wading boat, built on the same plan as the regular boat, but with longer legs, detachable footgear and shoulder straps. With this boat a man can walk on the mud and do his own retrieving.

S. N. Lane killed 153 quail in one day at Bakersfield recently. This promises well for the quantity of birds there, but if the Field Trial grounds are not well preserved that kind of slaughter will soon make them scarce again.

Rafael Angeles was arrested on Wednesday en route for San Francisco with a box of live quail. He was brought before Judge Low on Thursday and as he seemed to be ignorant of the law, the judge let him off with a $5 fine.

A reader in St. Helena writes that wild pigeons are very plentiful in the hills on both sides of the valley near St. Helena. They are feeding on madrona berries and are very fat.

THE KENNEL.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

D. L. Williams states that the Columbia Kennel Club is practically "busted."

The Pacific Fox Terrier Club will meet at this office on Tuesday evening next.

The St. Bernard Club of California will meet at this office on Wednesday evening next.

The entries to the All-Age Stake of the Pacific Coast Field Trials will close on December 1st.

Champion Loris, one of the very best pugs in England, the sire of many of America's best, has gone the way of all flesh.

H. W. Lacy, formerly with Forest and Stream, later with the now defunct Kennel News, is now the kennel editor of the American Stock-Keeper.

The Merced coursing meeting promises to bring out a 64 dog nomination. Hares are said to be not plentiful, but just enough for good coursing.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. Rowe, proprietor of the American Field, is nearly well again. He will attend the entire circuit of the Eastern field trials.

S. F. Hughes has sent his well-known English setter bitch Silverplate (Fred W.—Countess Noble) to Geo. T. Allender. She will probably be entered in the All-Age.

J. W. Keene has sold the well-known Irish setter bitch Queen of Kildare 29,265, by Champ. Kildare—Red Rose, to A. B. Truman. She should make a valuable addition to his kennel.

The Tacoma Dog Fanciers' Association has been formed in Tacoma, and there is a fair prospect of a dog show next year. The charter members are C. R. Fitzmaurice, J. E. Thring, G. W. Bowen, E. E. Ellis, A. W. McNaughton, M. K. Snell and M. Dodge.

For strychnine poisoning chloral hydrate is a good antidote. If given in twenty-grain doses directly when symptoms of poisoning appear, to be followed by a few more doses of chloral as the paroxysms come on, the dog's life will invariably be saved.—Our Dogs.

Among our new advertisements this week will be found that of R. W. Reading of Selby, Cal. If we are not mistaken these dogs were owned by Leslie Simpson who is now on his way to South Africa. These hounds are not only well bred but well formed and excellent workers. The pointer is also of the best breeding.

A. P. Vredenberg, Secretary of the American Kennel Club, will arrive in this city on Tuesday. He will make his headquarters at the Occidental Hotel. It has not been officially announced but it is more than probable that a banquet will be given him during his stay here. He intends to start for New York on Friday.

If the next bench show held by the Pacific Kennel Club is not a success it will not be the fault of the Bench Show Committee. With two pointer men, one English setter man, the President of the St. Bernard Club, a Fox Terrier club member and two of the members interested in cocker spaniels and all workers, we should expect a first-class premium list.

Every member of the Pacific Kennel Club and of the specialty clubs should make it a point to be present at the meeting next Thursday, if for no other reason, that they may become better acquainted with A. K. C. matters. We trust Grampa Payne will be there, possibly when he gets a faint idea of what he is talking about he will be less rabid in his utterances.

"The little dear is lost again," she said, as soon as he got home. "Oh, that Pug!" "Yes, that Pug, if you must talk like a brute, and I want you to advertise for him." And this is the ad. as it appeared: "Lost.—A sausage-shaped yellow dog, answering, when hungry, to the name of 'Baby.' A reward will be paid for his return to 37 Blank street, dead or alive."—Our Dogs.

Pacific Kennel Club.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pacific Kennel Club was held on Wednesday evening at the Occidental Hotel. Messrs. Beer, Haight, Barker, Frey, Wakeman, Skafte, Hughes, Dickson, Payne, D'Evelyn, Golcher, Wattson and Crowell were present, President Beer in their chair. The Treasurer reported $685.50 cash on hand. The committee appointed to wait upon General Graham in regard to shooting stray dogs on the Presidio reservation reported progress.

The committee on club rooms reported that as they could not find rooms that, including the incidental expenses, could be maintained for less than $45 per month, and as the receipts from dues were only about $30 per month, they did not think the receipts ample enough at present to justify the expense. Mr. Barker, a member of the committee, stated that he thought that it would be advisable to wait until after the next show, and then if the show was a financial success club rooms could be obtained. The report was accepted and the suggestion of the committee that the club meet in its present quarters in the Occidental Hotel until after the next show was adopted.

Communications were read from A. P. Vredenberg, Secretary of the American Kennel Club, announcing that he would arrive in San Francisco on Tuesday of next week and requesting that the members of the Pacific Kennel Club, Southern California Kennel Club, Columbia Kennel Club of Portland, Alameda County Sportsmen's Association, St. Bernard Club of California and the Pacific Fox Terrier Club meet him on Thursday evening to discuss American Kennel Club matters and the good and welfare of the Coast clubs.

President Beer will meet Mr. Vredenberg up the road and escort him to San Francisco and see that he enjoys life while he is here. Our genial president is well fitted for this office and if Mr. Vredenberg does not return to New York well pleased with San Francisco hospitality we will be surprised.

It was decided to hold the meeting on Thursday evening, November 14th, at the Occidental Hotel, and the secretary was requested to notify the members to that effect.

A bench show committee of five was elected to serve until the close of the bench show of May next. The committee elected was T. J. Wattson, C. A. Haight, J. G. Barker, F. W. D'Evelyn and Howard Vernon, and we say without hesitation that a better selection was never made.

C. A. Haight gave notice of a proposed amendment to Section 3 of Article 6 of the constitution, to be voted upon at the next meeting. It is proposed to change the number that constitutes a quorum, from ten members to seven.

After the regular meeting adjourned the bench show committee got together and elected J. J. Wattson as chairman of the committee and Howard Vernon secretary.

The Crystal Palace Show.

The largest number of entries in any one class at the Crystal Palace Show held last week was 142. St. Bernards carried off the palm. The total number of entries was 2,232. There were 23 judges for the different classes. The entries in detail were as follows: Bloodhounds 56, Mastiffs 27, St. Bernards 142, Newfoundland 50, Great Danes 55, Irish Wolfhounds 15, Deerhounds 52, Borzoi 34, Chow Chows 38, Esquimaux, etc. 14, Foreign dogs 22, Greyhounds 15, Pointers 48, Setters 75, Retrievers 88, Spaniels 115, Collies 136, Old English Sheepdogs 26, Beagles 16, Basset hounds 49, Dalmatians 14, Poodles 25, Bulldogs 70, Bulldogs (Toys) 4, Bull Terriers 93, Whippets 22, Airedale 34, Fox Terriers (Smooth) 130, (Wire) 61, Welsh Terriers 32, Dachshunds 92, Bedlington 8, Irish Terriers 77, Black-and-tan Terriers 15, White English Terriers 21, Skye Terriers 29, Scottish Terriers 70, Dandie Dinmonts 42, Schipperkes 39, Pomeranians 50, Pugs 70, Toy Spaniels 108, Italian Greyhounds 6, Toy Terriers (Smooth) 15, Toy Terriers (Rough) 24, Belgian Griffons 5, Maltese 6.

Breeding English Setters.

SHREWSBURY, ENG.

EDITOR AMERICAN FIELD:—There have been some writers in the American Field of late endeavoring to wake up interest in a well nigh forgotten breed, i. e., the Laveracks, and to institute comparisons between them and the Llewellyns, to the detriment of the latter.

If this was only a matter which concerned myself personally I should just sit still and laugh in my sleeve, for, if it pleases them, it does not in the least hurt me, and from a selfish point of view the more blunders that are made and the more people persuaded to breed false, the better for me, and especially as I can see that these writers are put up to pull chestnuts out of the fire for longer heads than their own; but I have many friends in America, and in their behalf I would like to pen a line with your permission.

Now, the pith of the writing alluded to is that the Laverack was a superior race to the Llewellyn which succeeded it, that it was a mistake to have left the Laveracks and taken up with the Llewellyns, and that the best thing to do is to retrace the steps, to quit the Llewellyns and return to the Laveracks.

Now, I am not going into any argument on this matter; I am not raising any objection to the above theory, but I will merely ask those men one simple, practical question: Where are you going to get the pure Laveracks? It is no use to think of discarding one breed and taking up with another unless that other exist, and exists in sufficient numbers so that you can make practical use of it as a breed, and unless you know where it is to be found.

Another question also will I ask, i. e., how comes it that the pure Laveracks have disappeared from public competitions for the last fifteen years? If they exist as a breed, and are so superior and potent a breed as we are told, how is it that they have disappeared in competing in public for many years? Read the papers and the records and there you will see a total eclipse of the pure Laverack after a certain date. If the breed is so much superior, why is this? Is it that the owners of them suddenly with one consent became too modest and despised the barren glory of conquest against foes not worthy of them, a tame and easy victory, or was it that they degenerated and lost the best qualities they once possessed, and so their owners, being wiser men than those who write about them, and knowing their dogs better, preferred discretion to valor and to keep their dogs at home and not run the risk of public competition? Every cock, they say, can crow in his own farmyard, and it is far better to stay quietly at home and get scribes to crack you up than to show up the rakedness of the land by facing the test of public performance.

The best pure Laveracks who ever gained a name against other breeds for public field performance were Countess, Nellie and Garth's Daisy. This was before the Llewellyns were born. Countess and Nellie I owned, and after some time I also owned Daisy. I thus owned the only three of the breed that were superior in the field. Three does not seem a high average for a breed when we remember the numbers that were bred. The pure Laveracks were bred and held by many men, and hundreds had been bred at the time when those three bitches lived and ran. About that date I formed the Llewellyn by crossing the Laverack, for reasons which, possessing as I did, the best Laveracks, seemed to be sufficient. What has been the result? The celebrated public field Laverack performers were, as I said, three, and that in a day of small competition; how many have been the great performers among the Llewellyns? The Laveracks have disappeared from public competition, whereas the Llewellyns remain, and both in England and America are to be seen well in the front at all times. Is there such a thing as the "survival of the fittest?"

The names of Llewellyns, great performers in America and the same in England, will occur to memory by the score to be placed against the solitary three bitches who alone stand for the Laverack breed. How is this? I say not one word against those three bitches, beauties they were, and pets of mine, but facts are facts, and when we want to measure one breed against another we must place sentiment on one side. If I had been a person of prejudice I should not have originated the Llewellyns—I should have continued to breed the pure Laveracks until I had disappeared together with the rest who did so into the abyss of retirement where they are forced to hide to day.

I bred several good, pure Laveracks, notably Phantom, Princess, Puzzle and Petrel—nice little, pretty pets, but mere toys, as anyone who saw Petrel in America can testify. Which was the finest field dog, Petrel or her son Gladstone? Petrel was a pure Laverack, Gladstone was the cross, i. e., a Llewellyn. Mr. Laverack, himself, dabbled in strange blood before he died, to my knowledge, but it did not save him, because he was too proud to follow my lead and adopt the only cross that would have done him good. This, however, is a subject I am not going to open now.

Some have said the Llewellyns are not known by that name in England. I think those gentlemen had better invest in some new spectacles and read the English papers. But if it were so, what of it? "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet?" What's in a name? It is not the name, but the thing. The dogs are the same, call them what you will, and are the same breed in England that they are in America, only I do not think they are quite as closely inbred in my hands as they are in America, so Americans have told me.

In my hands they keep up the reputation of their relatives in America, and never go to a field trial without getting into the front places, as anyone can see for himself if he reads the papers. Yet in England this breed is kept in my hands alone, and is few in numbers, and but few go to trials where they have to meet all the different breeds of the country. The fact, therefore, that they will so largely, in spite of these disadvantages, would not seem to show that we need knock them on the head just yet.—R. L. Purcell-Llewellyn in American Field.

A marvelous instance of canine scent and sagacity which occurred in Vienna last week, is told by one of the Chronicle's correspondents. A Viennese, named Kohn, traveling in Transylvania, took his dog Caro with him, a large animal resembling the Danish breed of hounds popular in Austria-Hungary. He missed him at Klausenberg, and after ineffectual efforts to find him gave him up as lost. Herr Kohn reached home on Tuesday evening, and on Friday evening he was startled by hearing Caro barking violently at the door. On opening it the dog rushed in exhausted but joyful. He had run alone 450 English miles in three days.

HOOF-BEATS

MISS FLETCHER and Moss Terry do not take kindly to the mud.

HUGH JONES bet $800 with Elie Peres on Flirtilla to win $100.

JACK ATKINS ran a very good race Wednesday, and is a good mud horse.

AS WE prophesied at Nic Nac's first appearance, he did not remain a maiden long.

MAINSTAY gave Realization ten pounds and a good beating Wednesday in the five and one-half furlong handicap.

ZETA, the imp. True Briton filly, was very well liked in the second race, but did not show any great ability as a mud-eater Wednesday.

ENCINO carried a good weight and went the five and a half furlongs in good style Wednesday. The Brutus horses run well in most any kind of going.

MONTANA was up to a good race the first time out and won in a gallop. By Holly, who was always very sweet on the old horse, went down the line on him.

D. J. LYNCH, of the Arizona stables, has purchased Three Forks from Ollie Johnson. The horse ran in his new owner's colors Wednesday for the first time and won.

PORTER ASHE while alighting from a Market street car Wednesday slipped and fell to the ground, seriously injuring his knee; it will be some time before he will be able to walk.

CANVASBACK swam to third place Wednesday, and should be given an extra whisp of hay now. It would take several thirds to keep up with his hay bill, if the colt has not been slandered.

ETHER, bay colt, foaled 1891, by imp. Charaxis, out of Ethie, by Tulus, recently won a stake at San Jose, Guatemala, worth $7,000. Ether is full brother to the good race-horse Hammie, and was bred by Capt. R. J. Hancock at Ellerslie Stud Farm, Overton, Va., where his sire and dam are owned.

HENRY MCDANIEL will train Ed Corrigan's horses in California. This string will include Tyro, Despot, Ducat, Senator Irby, Bedford, The Iron Master, Ottiana, Orrin Rodgers, Olive, Handsome, Junius, Can't Dance, Won't Dance, Moba-laska, Kowalsky, Camelia, Japonica, Jenny Tracy and several others.

THE following well known running mares have been sent to W. L. Whitmore's Stock Farm at Mayview, Wash., to be bred to the celebrated racer Coloma; Token, by Broadchurch—Keepsake; Sirretta, by Joe Hooker—Maggie R., the dam of Tim Murphy; Effie M., by Bob Duff—Carrie P., by Warburn, and Volta.

The judges at the Latonia races, after a thorough investigation which included a trip to St. Louis by Presiding Judge Carter, rendered a decision in the Wild Huntsman case yesterday. The horse is disqualified and the three moneys are awarded to the second, third and fourth horses, Siluria, Momus and Clinton.

THE amount added by the Coney Island Jockey Club to the Futurity Stakes for 1897, which closed on January 2, 1895, with sealed entries, will be $8,750, divided as follows: To the winner $3,500; second horse $1,000; third $500; breeder of winner $2,000; breeder of second horse $1,250; breeder of third horse $500.

FIVE yearlings from the Castleton Stud Farm, Lexington, Ky., the property of J. R. & F. P. Keene, have arrived at Sheepshead Bay, in charge of J. Miller. The Messrs. Keene promise to bold a very strong band in two-year-old events next year, as they have about a score of grandly bred ones, several of which are extra good looking youngsters.

SECRETARY ED. SMITH has secured 115 entries for the Nursery Stakes, which closed on November 1st. Palo Alto, Rancho del Paso and Elmwood Stock Farm made twenty-four, twenty and seventeen nominations respectively. Simeon Reed and Burns & Waterhouse each named eleven. Adolph Spreckels and W. O. B. MacDonald each made six.

W. S. HOBART purchased from T. H. Williams, Jr., the handsome bay filly Princess Flirt, by Racine, out of imported Flirt, by Hermit, which the latter bought at the Palo Alto sale Tuesday night for $1,500. Mr. Hohart is using rare good judgment in his selection of thoroughbreds, and will have a fine string ready when the racing begins at the new track.

DAVID GIDEON will head the list of winning owners of 1895. Up to date he has to his credit the sum of $106,805, which amount was won by eleven horses, says a New York paper. These scored thirty-five races, ran second eighteen times and third nine times. P. J. Dwyer will doubtless land in second place, as his total so far is $59,225, which seven horses put to his credit by winning twenty-six races, being placed nineteen times and capturing third money fourteen times. J. J. McCafferty with $44,596, the Blemton stables with $43,345, Santa Anita stable with $37,355, Del Monte stable with $29,700, J. W. Rogers $26,260, A. H. & D. H. Morris with $20,575, Pierre Lorillard with $19,137 and J. R. & F. P. Keene with $17,816 is the record to date. Of course there will be a slight change between now and next Tuesday, when the local season ends, but the above will about be the order of the finish.

Well, George," said Charley, after a night in which cold eyes and marble hearts played no part, "How are you book-ing?"

"It 'ud be all right," answers George, rather gloomily, "but my card-writer seems to get into a trance occasionally."

"Mebbe he's trying to write heavy editorials on your tick-eta," suggests Charley.

Just at that moment "Rataplan" sbinnies along and his opinion is asked.

"I tell you de trut, Kingsley," says he, "If I could write tickets as fast as Rose can call bets, do you think I'd work for ten per? Not on yer life. I'd make a fortune in a dime museum in one year."

Working for the Horse Show.

Henry J. Crocker, of San Francisco, president of the Horse Show Association of the Pacific Coast, is at the Waldorf on a visit to New York in the interest of his association, whose show opens on December 3d. He was seen by a newspaper correspondent Monday, to whom he outlined the brilliant prospects for a successful exhibition of the best horses and nearest turnouts that have ever got together on the coast.

"Though I have had only about twelve hours to look about me here since my arrival," said he, "I am happy to say that even that brief time has fully convinced me of the success of our coming show. Our judges, Messrs. Pope, Carman, Reeves, Underhill and Bloodgood, will have as fine a lot of horses as they ever looked over to handle. Already I have secured the certain shipment of one carload of the pick of the entries in the horse show here to San Francisco. They will go in palace horse cars attached to passenger trains. I feel positive that this is the only first step and that many others will follow this good example."

"All the horsemen I have so far spoken with predict a great success for us. They say that relatively our $20,000 worth of premiums in San Francisco is equal to the $60,000 hung up in New York, mainly because there will not be so many competitors on the coast as here. I have commissions to buy eight or ten horses here for exhibitors at our own show, and I shall take only the best, depend on that. Personally I shall purchase several horses, principally for exhibition, to coach or drag. I shall probably buy only winners at the show here, though the local dealers have plenty of high-class animals for sale. The carriage-builders and harness-makers here, I am told, have many orders already from San Francisco exhibitors. Altogether, I am most pleased with our future prospects."

"To-night my friend, Mr. Theodore Kearney, told me he may possibly bring a few horses for exhibition to the Coast. If he does he will win many a blue ribbon, because he has some of the best animals in New York. Every new feature introduced at the horse show here I shall take care to have duplicated in San Francisco. Of course, until the show opens and with the short time I have had to get posted in, I cannot say exactly what the new features will be, but I have had inklings of a few that will materially add to the attraction of our exhibition."

Incidentally Mr. Crocker said that while in Chicago he was assured of hearty co-operation toward the success of the San Francisco exhibition by the horsemen there, and some of them may possibly send entries to the coast. He also said that both in Chicago and in New York the racing people were enthusiastic over the coming winter meeting in San Francisco. The pick of the Eastern and Middle States' thoroughbreds will be shipped to the coast, and the best racing that San Francisco has ever seen is assured. Mr. Crocker intends returning to the coast on November 14th.

Sweepstakes in Question.

NEW YORK, November 4—Judges Bischoff and Geigerich, in the general term of the Court of Common Pleas, have disagreed in the suit brought by Henry Judson against the Flushing Jockey Club. It was expected that the decision of the general term would have decided the constitutionality of the Percy-Gray racing law.

The suit was originally brought before Justice Lynn in the First District Judicial Court in a suit brought by Judson to recover a sweepstakes from the Jockey Club. Justice Lynn decided that a sweepstakes was a lottery and threw out the case. Judge Bischoff holds that Justice Lynn's decision should be affirmed. Judge Geigerich holds that it should be reversed.

BURNS & WATERHOUSE, the well-known California racing firm, Wednesday secured the services of Henry Griffin, the most celebrated jockey of all America. Griffin will leave for California inside of two weeks. He contracts to start in riding December 1st. The engagement of Griffin created a mild sensation among the racing men yesterday, and the impression prevailed that the California turfmen had made no mistake. Burns & Waterhouse will have one of the most formidable stables in the West this year. They have over thirty horses in training, and the orange and blue sleeves should be seen in front many times this winter. Griffin's riding here last winter will be remembered as very vigorous. He has ridden two Futurity winners for Gideon & Daly, and won many other rich events. He was recently signed by the Blemton Stable for the season of 1896 at a princely salary. The terms made by Burns & Waterhouse are not known.

It has been stated that "Little Pete," the Celestial plunger, went down the line on Yemen Tuesday. The disciple of Confucious did not like the horse in his last race. It will be remembered that he was beaten by Contribution in 1:01½ on a fast track. The time yesterday, over a very sloppy track, was 1:02. "Little Pete" might give some interesting pointers on the mooted question of "form," but whether he studies the condition of the horse or the impressions of jockeys is the question.

F LIRTILLA has been a very profitable piece of horse-flesh for Orville Appleby. Aside from her other very good wins in the past, in the last two weeks she has won over $1,800 for him.

Rules of Registration.

The attention of the breeders of the country is called to the following notice from the Jockey Club:

Attention is called to Rule 38 of the Rules of Racing, which require that all foals of 1895 must be registered at this office on or before November 1st.

Rule 38—The office of the Jockey Club is designated as the Registry Office.

The Registry Office is established for the purpose of the identification of all race-horses, whether foaled in the United States or in other countries, and the certification of their pedigrees.

Horses foaled in the United States must be registered with the Registry Office by November 1st of the year in which they were foaled.

The registration shall comprise the name, if any; the color and marks, if any; whether a horse, mare or gelding, and the names of its sire and dam. If the dam was covered by more than one stallion, the names or description in full must be stated.

The registration fee shall be $2 for each animal, which will include certificate.

Only horses are eligible for registry under this rule which have either five uncontaminated thoroughbred crosses, or which authentically trace through or to animals recorded in the first six volumes of the American Stud Book or in a recognized Stud-book of another country.

If it be proved to the satisfaction of the Stewards of the Jockey Club that the failure of registration be unintentional or accidental, such registration may be permitted by the payment of a fine of $10 for the registration, provided such application be made on or before December 31st of each year.

FRANCIS T. UNDERHILL, Registrar.

THE best work by a yearling over the Lexington track this year was done last Sunday, by the full brother to Simon W., who belongs to Baker & Gentry and is trained by Charley Patterson. With 106 pounds up he went a quarter in 0:23½, heading several of the best colts at the track and finishing strong. As the track is slow from dust this is a remarkable performance.

"BROADCHURCH" writes: Jockey Garrison says that he will go to San Francisco after the close at Latonia.

About Heaves.

A veterinarian says this is generally termed broken wind by veterinarians, and is a diseased condition of the lungs, in which portions of the air cells are ruptured. Youatt says that in almost every broken winded-horse which he has examined after death he has found dilation of some air cells, particularly toward the edge of the lobes. There has been rupture through the parietes (the membrane which forms the inclosures) of some of the cells, and they have evidently communicated with each other, as the air could easily be forced from one portion of the cells to another. There was also a crepating noise while this pressure was made, and if the attenuated membrane of some of the cells had given way. Where an animal is suffering from heaves or broken wind, there is a peculiarity of breathing which cannot be mistaken, particularly directly after violent exercise. The air is drawn into the lungs in less time by a heave horse than a sound one, and with a perceptible degree of labor. The effort of expelling the air is accompanied by a peculiar difficulty which requires a double effort, in the first of which, as described by Mr. Blaine, the muscles operate, and in the other, auxiliary muscles, particularly the abdominal, are put on the stretch to complete the expulsion more perfectly; and that being done the flank falls, or the abdominal muscles relax with a kind of jerk. From this peculiarity of breathing the name heaves has been given. The disease is generally preceded and accompanied by a peculiar cough, a cough perfectly characteristic, and by which an experienced horseman would detect the disease in the dark. When the disease has become established there is no possibility of a cure, for the ruptured cells can never be repaired.

Much can be done, however, to ward off the disease and also to alleviate it. More depends upon the food and exercise than is generally supposed. Horses that are greedy feeders, and eat large quantities of slightly nutritious food, when worked or driven upon a full stomach, are the ones most likely to be affected, hence the disease is more common among farmers' horses, which are fed mostly upon hay, than among those kept in livery stables and cities, where the ration of hay is limited and grain is fed regularly. Narrow-chested horses are more subject to heaves than deep-chested ones. Many advocate feeding cut hay or chaff to heavy animals. Youatt objects to this, and advises feeding good hay sparingly, with a sufficient quantity of oats to supply the nutriment required. Dusty and mow burnt hay should be avoided. Water sparingly, particularly in the morning and through the day, when the animal is exercised. Green food is always preferable to dry. Carrots are particularly useful. They are rapidly digested, and appear to have a peculiar beneficial effect upon the respiratory system. The horse affected with heaves should have moderate exercise every day. He should never be left standing in a draft of wind, and should always have a blanket thrown over him when standing in harness out of doors or under an open shed. The following mixture will generally be found beneficial, viz: Ground ginger, four ounces; powdered licorice root, two ounces; phosphate of soda, one ounce. Mix and give a teaspoonful in the grain night and morning. It is not advisable to breed from a stallion suffering from this complaint, and the offspring of heavy mares are believed to be much more susceptible to the disease than those from sound ones.—Dr. H. R. Macaulay, V. S.

EVERETT JONES, of Woodside, is the owner of some of the finest looking roadsters and teams in San Mateo County. All of them are well bred and very speedy. He has a four-year-old filly by Alhan, out of Kathleen, by Shannon; a filly by Alban, out of Miss Williamson; one by Liberty Sontag, out of Cuba, by Australian, and a Piedmont colt out of Regina, by Shannon. Mr. Jones is an excellent judge of horses, a good driver, and when he starts to Redwood City he never allows any team to pass him. The home he keeps for his horses is a palatial equine palace.

M. L. HIGGINS, of Helena, has bought of S. E. Larabee, h m Marguerite, by Bay Bird, sire of Dr. Puff, dam Tully York. Patsy Rice, who was trainer of Senator Hoffman's string for several years, will probably next year handle Glen Arthur, Marguerite, Lady Director and Jimmy Collin's Querist.

WHEN Palita, by Palo Alto won in 2:16 at Los Angeles she was six lengths behind Roberto and Claudius at the start, Phippen, her driver, nodding for the word as the others got to the wire. Palita must have trotted in 2:14.

If you want a first-class trotting colt or filly attend the sale next Tuesday to be held at the salesyard, Market and Van Ness avenue, by Messrs. Killip & Co., the well-known auctioneers.

ERASTUS C., that got a record of 2:22 at Los Angeles last Friday, is the latest addition to Palo Alto's list.

JOHN E. TURNER was at the Shults sale on Tuesday, and in speaking of his absence from Grand Circuit battles said that the meeting at Buffalo last August was the first one he had missed in that place in twenty-eight years. He hopes that Mr. Hamlin will give a meeting next August, and states that he will be found in the entry list. Turner remarked that one of the fastest horses ever in his stable was Siglight, 2:22½, owned by Mr. E. H. Chase, of Louisville. This gelding had a world of a speed, but the difficulty was to control it. Siglight is still the property of Mr. Chase, and is driven on the roads at his country place near Brattleboro, Vermont. Turner has made money on the trotting turf and has had the wisdom to keep it. When Roland Rose, a bay colt one year old, by Baron Rose, out of Rosalind Wilkes, 2:14½ was placed under the hammer Turner eyed him critically and finally bought him. Rosalind Wilkes was formerly owned by Mr. Chase, of Louisville, and was campaigned by the veteran Pennsylvania driver.

A MEETING of owners and drivers of roadsters was held in Dr. Leek's office last Thursday and an organization formed. It is called the Golden Gate Park Driving Association. The objects are to have roadster races every month on the speed track in the park. Over one hundred and fifty names are on the list. The dues are $1 a month. Further particulars of this association are thriving. Among those who are prominent: Dr. G. W. Leek, Wm. Roeder, F. N. Woods, Jas. Chesley, W. S. Hobart, C. L. Waugaman, Eugene Cerciat, John Olandt, H. Patrick, J. Simpson, W. W. Brown, H. Duttard, P. Gilleran, Fred Lauterwasser, Gus. Pratt and other prominent road riders.

"I SHOULDN'T think sweethearts would take kindly to bicycling," said a woman observer. "I haven't yet seen two riders who kept side by side and were able to carry on any conversation. Sometimes it is the girl, sometimes the man who is in the lead, and the erratic circles which even the experienced riders disre look queer to the uninitiated. It strikes me that for a confidential chat in the open air, there is no improvement on the old-fashioned horse and single buggy. But possibly sweethearts are more prosaic in these days than when I was young and lovers less talkative."

CONSTANTINE, 2:12½, recently sold for $7,100 to Peter Duryea, is the most strongly inbred stallion living to-day. His sire, Wilkes Boy, 2:21½, is by George Wilkes, 2:22, dam Betty Brown, by Mambrino Patchen 58; second dam Pickles, by Mambrino Chief 11. Constantine's dam is Kincora, by Mambrino Patchen 58; second dam Kitty Tranby, by Mambrino Tranby, son of Mambrino Patchen 58; third dam Betty Brown, by Mambrino Patchen 58; fourth dam Pickles, by Mambrino Chief 11. Here are four crosses of Mambrino Patchen 58, one right on top of the other, and still he is a great horse.

A HELENA syndicate has bought Glen Arthur, a three-year-old, by Glenwood, dam by Robert McGregor, sire of Silver Bow. Glen Arthur was brought to Montana by Pat McEvoy in the summer of 1894 and made a fairly good showing as a two-year-old. This year, however, he was not in very good shape and did not make a showing he is entitled to.

McZEUS, by McKinney is a four-year-old. He has a record of 2:13. So has Zombro, the three-year-old son of this great sire.

SILKWOOD, as a drawing card for the race meetings in Southern California hereafter, is a back number.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—
FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
SECOND It will not cause headache.
THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")
TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

THIS POWDER IS MANUFACTURED BY THE
UNITED STATES SMOKELESS POWDER CO.
No. 13 Pine Street, San Francisco, Cal.

For sale by all dealers in Powder and Sporting Goods.

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:
First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.
Prices and Instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

Training
The Trotting Horse.
BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.
Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develop to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm."
Mailed postpaid for $3.50. Address

SPECIFIC FOR

Cracked Heels and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Root Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a Callus, and will always remove a Callus when caused from a wound.
It removes all Soreness with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.
The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the soreness with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callus remaining."
T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KLAMATH, 2:08 1/4, says: "Have been trying to cure Klamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."
Many horses are unsteady and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.
Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

The Ride With Molly.

The bees were in the blossoms an' the woods were white as snow,
With miles an' miles o' daisies in a springtime long ago;
An' the winds from dreamin' meadows came with kisses sweet an'
kind

When I drove the cows from pastur' an' when Molly rode behind.

I remember all about it—the pathway through the dells,
Where the old mare timed her footsteps to the music of the bells
That clanked the whole way home 'ards to the merry milkin' place,
But mostly I remember Molly's curls about my face.

For, ridin' there behind me, every breeze a-blowin' free
Would catch 'em an' would kiss 'em an' toss 'em over me.
An' sometimes, too, I turned my head to see her bright eyes shine,
An' our faces came together an' her lips were close to mine.

I didn't mind the labor in the fields or in the glades—
The long an' weary furrows where the young corn waved its blades,
For I knew that 'fore the twilight came a sweet reward I'd find—
I'd drive the cows from pastur' an' Molly's ride behind.

An' once the folks got anxious, an' said: "The cows are late,"
An' they looked an' looked for Molly an' the old mare at the gate;
An' the reason was I'd "said the word," an' kinder spoke my mind;
The old mare run away with me an' Molly rode behind.

SIMEON G. REED.

The Peaceful End of a Busy and Useful Life.

No life is a great one unless it be a useful one; and the death of Simeon G. Reed, at Pasadena is a forcible reminder of this self-evident truth. He was a man born in comparative poverty in that bleak and desolate New England climate that has turned out so many active and vigorous brains. Take the growth of the American republic from Plymouth Rock to Cape Flattery and the great cities along the path of progress are all about on a line as straight as the flight of a crow; and the evidences of a thrifty and energetic New England civilization are to be seen, all along the line.

Simeon G. Reed was born at West Abington, Mass., and but little is known of his early life save that he had a good common school education and was trained up to know the dignity of hard work and the true value of money.

Mr. Reed was a born accountant. Few men wrote as handsome a hand or left as neat a page of figures after them. He came to San Francisco in the winter of 1851-52 and for a short time was night clerk at the old Crescent City Hotel on Sansome street, kept by Christy Seitz. He remained there about three months and then went into the produce business on Clay street wharf, in partnership with Charles M. Chase, now of Killip & Co. They had barely been in business three months before potatoes fell to ten cents a sack and that broke up the show. It's better than a circus to hear Chase tell how they sold potatoes to fill in sunken lots.

In June, 1853, Reed went to Oregon and, after about six weeks of looking about him, located at Rainier, forty four miles below Portland. Here he kept a store where everything was sold, relying upon the patronage of the logging camps in that vicinity for the bulk of his traffic. He was very popular with the loggers and, being possessed of a fine, athletic figure, and a rich, manly voice, his popularity has no cause for special wonder.

It was some time in 1855 that he made the turning point in his life. He met William S. Ladd, who was running a grocery business in Portland and he took Reed into partnership. Shortly afterwards they abolished all but the sale of wines and liquors and began to coin money. Reed was a natural judge of good mixtures and had not been in the new firm six months before they owned the bars on six river steamboats.

It was just about this time that John C. Ainsworth, Lawrence W. Coe, Robert R. Thompson and the brothers Bradford, organized the Oregon Steam Navigation Co. with a capital of $200,000 and had to put in one or two boats at considerably above their real value to make up that amount. Reed had his eyes out in every direction for there were small blocks of stock held by engineers, mates, pilots and stewards. How Reed worked it will never be known, but at the first annual election he held enough stock and proxies together to make himself a director and, in the following year, was elected Vice-President, an office he held till the sale of that property to Villard in 1880. Long before that the entire stock was held by five people—Thompson, Ladd, Ainsworth, Reed and the estate of a man named Moulthrop, their holdings ranking in the order named.

The growth of the new corporation was something marvelous and by the third year its net earnings were in excess of $175,000 per month. But with the decline of placer mining in Northern Idaho and Western Montana, the line ran down badly. In 1870 its net earnings were less than $120,000 per year, but in 1875 came the "Inland Empire" boom. In that year the export of wheat from Snake river landings grew from 7,000 to 17,000 tons, and necessitated an increase of tonnage. In 1877 the earnings had so increased that opposition from California was feared. Reed was the only man to see the solution of the problem. It would never do to declare quarterly a dividend of four per cent. nor to declare one of two per cent. and carry over a surplus equally large. "I'll tell you what to do, Ainsworth, we'll rebuild the entire fleet and eat up that surplus."

The consequence was that the Wide West, R. R. Thompson and Harvest Queen were built at a cost of $140,000 each; the Mountain Queen, D. S. Baker and Annie Faxon, at $100,000 each, and ten or a dozen other boats of less value. The usual dividend was paid on "quarter day," and nobody was the wiser for it. In 1880 the entire property was sold to Henry Villard for $5,000,000.

After the sale of the company Mr. Reed organized the Oregon Iron and Steel Works, and purchased the hematite iron ledges near Oswego, eight miles south of Portland. These mines and smelters were closed down in 1884, but Reed was willing to risk his money and go on. He was a public-spirited man in every sense of the word. He brought to Oregon the first herd of short-horn cattle that ever came to that State. He brought out Hambletonian Mambrino, sire of eight in the 2:30 list, and also Autocrat, a great sire of roadsters. In 1888 he mortgaged his Portland real estate to the Hibernia Bank in this city and bought the Bunker Hill mine in Cœur d'Alene. Everybody said "Sim's broke at last," but the truth was he had borrowed this money at six per cent. here, whereas the best terms he could get in Portland was eight. In 1891 he sold out the mine at a profit of $330,000 and removed to Southern California. Having nothing else to occupy his attention, he turned to breeding thoroughbred horses. He went over to England and bought Martenhurst, who ran third in the Derby of 1891, together with six of the best mares that money could buy, being by such sires as Galopin, Scottish Chief, Doncaster and Tyndale. On their arrival he built as neat and elegant a set of stables at Oneonta, adjoining L. J. Rose's place, as ever I saw. Hardly were they completed than Martenhurst died. Here was a clear loss of $12,500, but Mr. Reed felt the loss of the horse more than the loss of the money. He then sent to Ireland and bought Duncombe.

For the past two years my good old friend has just failed from one day to another; and it was hard to sit by him and realize that this bent figure and pallid face was the same athletic and rosy faced "Sim" Reed that I had known only a few years previous. In my belief, he would have died a year ago but for the careful nursing of his good wife who watched over him with ceaseless vigilance. Forty-four years ago, two plain people stood side by side in a little New England church and joined hands for life; and when Simeon Reed and Amanda Wood said "Until death do us part," they meant it. The affluence which came to them in later life did not turn their heads. They were sensible people and knew that any fool could bear adversity but it takes lots of "hard horse sense" to stand prosperity.

I could fill volumes with pleasant recollections of the big and manly man that now lies a mere clod in the valley. He was a good and sincere friend among friends, and a manly foe to those who encountered his opposition. He had an expression that I never heard any one else utter—"You mustn't go to war unless you intend to kill somebody." The sum total of his positive nature was epitomized in this one brief sentence.

But the last lingering word must be said as the last clod of earth falls on the casket; and we now must leave our dearly-prized friend to the ever equal grave. Thus in the mellow sunlight of the sweet Pasadena autumn days, with the maples gleaming in their armor of purple and gold, we bid thee hail and farewell, trusting to the Eternal Goodness that in the ruddy glow of the resurrection morn, we may again hear the genial and cheery voice that now echoes back to us, faintly but fondly, through the mist of the fast receding years.

HIDALGO.

American and Australian Turf Records.

An interesting article in the London Sportsman of a recent date, on the time test as it is in Australia, calls for a few comparisons with our races run on the turf here.

Before going into it thoroughly it must be remembered that the best race horses in America are seldom, if ever, seen in races run on the turf, and there is only one club in America that provides a turf track, whereas in Australia all races are run on turf, and, therefore, all the best race horses there compete against us, and even then our showing from the following table is not very bad, beating them in two instances, tying them in one and being beaten in four.

The following table will explain:

Dis.	United States.	Dis.	Australia.
3/4 mile.....	1:13 1-5	3/4 mile.....	1:14
7 furlongs.....	1:27	7 furlongs.....	1:27
1 mile.....	1:40 3-5	1 mile.....	1:40
1 1-8 miles.....	1:54 4-5	1 1-8 miles.....	1:55 1/2
1 1/4 miles.....	2:07 1-5	1 1/4 miles.....	2:07
1 1/2 miles.....	2:36 4-5	1 1/2 miles.....	2:35 1/2
2 miles.....	3:33	2 miles.....	3:28 1/4

The manner in Australia of timing races is as follows: Each starting post is connected by wire with a chronograph in the judge's box, and when the starter gives the order to move an official at the same time touches a button on the post, which sets the clock in motion, and on the winning post being reached another official, who is stationed in the judge's box, presses a button, which stops the chronograph. The face of the latter is at the back of the judge's box, so that any one in the inclosure can see for himself what time has been made. It may also mention that the electric current not only sets the clock in motion, but also strikes a large bell in the paddock, giving every one warning that the horses have been sent on their journey.

This is an improvement on the methods in use here, and, if it is correct in every way, should be adopted; but there is a question if it will sometimes get out of order, and then correct timing of the race would be lost.

Miss Russell's Trotters and Pacers.

An item has very nearly gone the rounds of the turf paper, recently that the gray horse Slavonic, that has reduced his record this season from 2:23 1/4 to 2:15 1/4, is the only pacer from the famous broodmare Miss Russell. While not a matter of any great importance, such a statement is not true. Pistachio, the chestnut owned at Allen Farm, and a full brother to the great Nutwood, is a natural pacer and nothing else. He took a pacing record at Providence, R. I., Sept. 20, 1894, of 2:29, and was the first of the famous gray mare's produce to take a pacing record of 2:30 or better. About a month later Slavonic took his mark, which was also against time, he making the first heat in 2:25 1/4 and repeating in 2:23 1/4. The past season Slavonic has competed in actual races and has proven quite a good performer.

Miss Russell now has to her credit five trotters, namely, Maud S. (2:08 1/4), Rustique (2:18 1/4), Nutwood (2:18 1/4), Cora Belmont (2:24 1/4) and Russia (2:28). With the pacers Slavonic (2:15 1/4) and Pistachio (2:29) added, Miss Russell has a total of seven performers in 2:30.

In addition to these her daughters Nutula, Lady Russell and Rosina have each produced one or more 2:30 trotters, while Nutwood, Nutbourne, Mambrino Russell and Lord Russell are the sires of some fast trotters while their total in the 2:30 list is now very large, Nutwood leading the list of living sires, with only Electioneer ranking above him.—Vision in Horse Breeder.

Onward's 2:30 Performers for 1895.

Onward's 2:30 list shows a greater number of additions during the past season than that of any other sire. Following are his new performers: Agrippa, 2:26 1/4; Athelia, 2:29 1/4; Barrymore, 2:28 1/4; Dora Reade, 2:18 1/4; Emma, 2:26; Encounter, 2:23 1/4; George G., 2:27; Hubbard, 2:28 1/4; Kingward, 2:25; Lady Tennyson, 2:17 1/4; Lulu, 2:27; Maindee, 2:28 1/4; Obed, 2:22; Pemento, 2:28 1/4; Skillful, 2:17 1/4; Sphere, 2:13 1/4; Tacoma, 2:27 1/4; Tolu Wilkes, 2:27; Victorine, 2:24 1/4; Viola, 2:18.

Onward's 2:15 performers for 1895 are: Carrie Onward, 2:14 1/4; Catherine Leybourne, 2:14; May Morgan, 2:14; North-er, 2:13 1/4; Sphere, 2:13 1/4; Tom Exum, 2:13 1/4.

Onward leads all stallions for the year both in 2:30 and 2:15 performers.

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

Heavy Rains Make Trotting Impossible, and the Meeting Was Declared Off—Running Continued Up to the Date of Opening at the New Track—Details of the Races.

ELEVENTH DAY—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7.

THE track to-day was sticky and heavy, and some slower than the day previous. It dried out very slowly, where the horses run over it, but on the outer edge is now almost dry. A number of trotting-horsemen were at the track to-day, debating over the prospects of the trotting meeting being held. They did not get much encouragement from the looks of the track, and later had all doubts set at rest by an announcement from President Williams that the meeting would be declared off and that running races would be held as usual, till the date set for the opening of the new track, November 16th. All the lovers of the trotter were disappointed in this final announcement, and a number of horse owners urged a meeting next week of even shorter duration than originally intended, to afford an opportunity to start the large number of horses that have already arrived here.

The attendance to-day was very good again, and the weather delightfully pleasant. The talent waded in and picked out three of the winners, which was a very creditable performance.

Gold Dust carried most of the money in the first race, with imp. Trentola, Druscilla and De Groat short-enders. Carrie Shaw, at 8 to 1, was the winner, however, and sprung quite a surprise on the ring. Trentola showed the way to the turn, then Chevalier sent Carrie along and she won easily by three lengths. Trentola was second and Gold Dust third. De Groat and Druscilla showed poorly.

Ross and Myron were warmly supported in the second race, and Hymn, who won with greatest ease, was allowed to go to the post at 2 to 1. He led from the far turn and with out any urging whatever was four lengths in front of Ross at the wire. The latter and Goodwin II. had a drive for the place, which Ross secured by a head. Myron ran absolutely last all the way.

Cicero and Navy Blue opened on even terms for the third race, at one mile, but the latter closed a slight favorite. Favor was warmly supported and hammered down from 6 to 3 to 1. Cicero, Allahabad and Centurion were all played quite heavily for the place. Ivy was seen first, then Centurion showed the way to the last eighth, when Jones sent Navy Blue along and won easily by two lengths. Ivy, who finished second, ran the best of her races. She usually quits in the stretch, but to-day she came again, and after momentarily settling back on the turn, and when Navy Blue drove Centurion out she followed him and beat the last named two lengths. Cicero ran absolutely last all the way, lengths behind everything else. It was a most disappointing performance, and hard to account for.

Perhaps and Monitor closed on equal terms for first choice in the fourth race, a handicap at five and one-half furlongs, with Treachery and Charlie Boots next in favor. Perhaps repeated his performance of Monday and beat Charlie Boots four lengths. Shaw took him out on the dry outer edge of the track and he came down the stretch like a whirlwind. New Moon, the Hyder-Ali filly, made a very good run and was a close-up third to Charlie Boots. Treachery and Joe K. do not like the heavy going and were never in it.

The last race was a good one, a mile and three quarter handicap, with four starters. Little Cripple was a 6 to 5 favorite, with Fred Gardner and Wawona at 3 and Oakland 4 to 1. Wawona, at a good, lively clip, led for the first three-quarters, then blew up. Cripple took up the running, and Oakland passed Gardner, in which position they ran to the wire, where Gardner nipped Oakland out for the place by a neck. Little Cripple was an easy winner by three lengths. Wawona was fifteen lengths behind Oakland. He was thought to be a good thing in the mud, and able to go the route with his light weight of 97 pounds. The others had run in the mud here, but Gardner's ability was not known. He goes well and finished with a strong spurt.

The winning jockeys to-day were: Shaw and Chevalier, two each, and E. Jones one.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Post betting—Gold Dust 9 to 5, imp. Trentola 9 to 2, Druscilla 4, De Groat 5, Carrie Shaw 8, Melisa 10 to 1. Good start. Trentola led to the turn, then Carrie Shaw was sent along and won easily. Winner, hr m, 5, by Bank-Roll—Vina. Imp. Trentola (h h, 5, by Trenton—Gondola), second, easily; Gold Dust (b g, 5, by Oro—Gold Cup), third. Time, 1:13.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Hymn 9 to 6, Ross 11 to 5, Myron 7 to 2, Goodwin II. 8, Modesto 15, Arctic 50 to 1. Good start. Hymn led all the way and won by three lengths. Winner, h g, 4, by Himyar—Una B. Ross (h g, 4, by imp. Sir Modred—Poustina) second driving; Goodwin II. (ch c, 3, by imp. Ill-Used—Little Hopes) third. Time, 1:14.

Third race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Navy Blue 2½, Favyor and Cicero 3, Allahabad 5, Centurion 8, imp. Ivy 12 to 1. Good start. Centurion led to the last eighth, then Navy Blue passed him and won by two lengths easily. Winner, h g, 3, by Blue Wing—Bay Betty. Imp Ivy (h m, 5, by imp. Castor—Veneration) second, easily; Centurion (ch g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Lizzie P.), third. Time, 1:47.

Fourth race—Five and a half furlongs, handicap, for two-year-olds. Post betting—Monitor 2½, Perhaps 2½, Treachery 3, Charley Boots 4½, Joe K. and New Moon 12, Phyllis 100 to 1. Good start. Perhaps led all the way, winning easily by four lengths. Winner, hr g, by Kosciusko—May Viley. Charlie Boots (b g, by Alto Mio—Constellation), second, driving; New Moon (b f, by Hyder Ali—Namonla), third. Time, 1:10½.

Fifth race—One mile and an eighth, handicap. Post betting—Little Cripple 6 to 5, Wawona and Oakland 4 to 1, Fred Gardner 3. Good start. Wawona led the first three-quarters, then Little Cripple took up the running and won easily by three lengths.

Winner hr g, 4, by imp. Pirate of Penzance—Lady Stanhope. Fred Gardner (ch h, 4, by Luke Blackburn—Enfilade), second driving; Oakland (b g, 5, by John A.—Alameda) third. Time, 2:04.

TWELFTH DAY—FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8.

A good card to-day was somewhat marred by the blue pencil, but the talent saw a "cinch" in each event and went at it rough shod. The "cinch" materialized in four of the five events, and the other only went glimmering through the race conditions foisting a phenomenally incompetent jockey upon the owner, Three Forks. Nothing short of a very poor ride robbed the talent of a clean victory. Abi P., the winner of the event, however, was so warmly supported as to leave little of solace in the event for the gentlemen of chamois skin and chalk. It was a genuinely frosty day for the men on the blocks. The varying condition of the track makes form students burn the midnight oil, and is responsible for remarkable reversals. Those who saw Patriot romp through the slushy going on Monday would quite readily concede his superiority over his field to-day, and few, certainly, if there were any, were so hardy as to think he would finish last, and a poor last, at that, as he did. Patriot in the slush and Patriot in heavy mud, are very different horses.

The clear, warm days are having a very beneficial effect on the track, but it dries out slowly, and it will be as late as Monday or Tuesday before it can be called fast again. It was heavy to-day along the rail, but very good in places on the outside, and many of the boys took chances in going the longest way round to get the benefit of the dry strip.

The attendance continues to increase in a way that must be most gratifying to the management and twelve hook-makers cut in yesterday. The newcomers are Clarke & Co., of St. Louis, and The California Club, presided over by "Lame" Hughes, recently from Chicago, and H. L. Jones & Co., of the old guard, were also in evidence. Elie Perles, the quint wit of the ring, attracts as much business as ever.

San Luis Rey was the favorite for the first race, at five and a half furlongs, and won very easily. King Sam, who was thought to be a fairly good thing, showed the way for the first quarter, and then was ready to quit. San Luis Rey passed him in the last three eighths and the race was all over but the shouting. Fin Slaughter, at 12 and 15 to 1 for place, finished second, easily, with Leonatus in third place.

The next race was at the same distance, with six starters, Schnitz at 6 and Patriot 7 to 5. They were sent away quickly, to a good start, with Schnitz first to show. Jones kept him moving, and he led to the wire, winning in a drive by a head. Allahabad was a good second, and Ichi Ban, ridden out on the dry edge of the track, a hang-up third. Patriot showed clearly he could not run in the heavy going, and finished a very poor last. His performance was in very marked contrast to that in the soft mud on Monday.

The third race, at five and a half furlongs, light welter weights, had four starters. Three Forks was the favorite, and Abi P. a warm second. Mr. Ferguson sent them away to a perfect start, and the first eighth was as pretty and even a race as seen in many a day. Then Moss Terry drew away a head, and Three Forks got half a length in front of Abi P. Three Forks slowly gained, and at the head of the stretch was a length in front of Abi P., who had passed Moss Terry on the turn. In the next eighth Three Forks put another length to his advantage, and looked an easy winner, but Jasper Madison on the mare squarely outrode Morris, even though she swerved to the heaviest part of the track, and won in a drive by half a length. Three Forks was ten lengths in front of Moss Terry.

Fannie Louise was the actual favorite in the fourth race, at six and one half furlongs, and carried by long odds the bulk of the money. Contribution and Oregon Eclipse were at short prices. Fannie forged ahead at once at the start and could not be headed, winning easily by two lengths. Contribution held second place from the far turn to the drawgate, and looked to have it secure, but when Oregon Eclipse was asked the word he came on and beat him out half a length.

The last race was at a mile, with five starters, and Sleeping Child touted for a good thing on stable reports. But the talent would have little of him and made Navy Blue an even-money favorite, sending the Child and Warrago to the post at 3 to 1. Navy Blue was not on waiting orders, and every post was a winning post by from four to twelve lengths, crossing the wire under a pull by ten lengths. Warrago was four lengths in front of Sleeping Child. Lady Gray, with the light weight of 72 pounds up, should have made a better showing than she did. She was vigorously ridden by mite Woods, but could not get up and was last all the way.

The winning jockeys to-day were: Chevalier, two, Jones, Madison and Hinrichs one each.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five and one-half furlongs. Post betting—San Luis Rey 11 to 10, Leonatus 7 to 2, King Sam 4, Selkirk 8, Wag 25, Fin Slaughter 30 to 1. Good start. King Sam led the first quarter, then San Luis Rey passed him and won easily. Winner, b g, 4, by Emperor of Norfolk—Mollie McCarty's Last. Fin Slaughter (h g, a, by Gano—Mandy Fortune) second, easily; Leonatus (h h, 4, by imp. Intruder—Linda Connor) third. Time, 1:12.

Second race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Post betting—Schnitz 6 to 5, Patriot 7 to 5, Allahabad 6, Morgan G. 10, Little Flush gelding and Ichi Ban 15 to 1. Good start. Schnitz led all the way and won driving by a head. Winner ch c, 3, by Panique—Illia. Allahabad (b g, 3, by Hyder Ali—Florida), second, driving; Ichi Ban (h g, 5, by Coloma—Sallie Duffy), third. Time, 1:12½.

Third race—Five and one-half furlongs, selling. Post betting—Three Forks 7 to 10, Abi P. 8 to 5, Moss Terry 9, R. H. 100 to 1. Perfect start. Moss Terry led the first eighth, then Three Forks led to the drawgate, where Abi P. caught him and won by half a length. Winner, ch m, 6, by Three Cheers—Daisy Maid. Three Forks (b g, 4, by Spokane—Trifle) second, easily; Moss Terry (ch g, a, by Powhattan—Zuma) third. Time, 1:14.

Fourth race—About six furlongs, selling. Post betting—Fannie Louise 9 to 5, Contribution and Oregon Eclipse 2, Arundel 40, Brown Dick 200 to 1. Good start. Fannie Louise led all the way and won as she pleased. Winner, h f, 3, by imp. Darebin—Nellie Peyton. Oregon Eclipse (ch g, a, by Joe Hooker—Lulu Riggs), second, driving; Contribution (h g, a, by imp. Dainacardoch—Retribution), third. Time, 1:17.

Fifth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Navy Blue 1, Sleeping Child and Warrago 3, Lady Gray 30, Fi Fi 60 to 1. Good start. Navy Blue made a run away race and won by ten lengths, under a pull. Winner, h g, 3, by Blue Wing—Bay Betty. Warrago (h m, 4, by Warwick—Fedalma) second easily. Sleeping Child (ch g, 3, by Child of the Mist—Erin-go-bragh) third. Time, 1:48½.

THIRTEENTH DAY—SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 9.

Three favorites won this bright, balmy afternoon, and two long-shots at 10 and 25 to 1, and a good second choice, so the talent and their friends on the blocks about divided honors. The attendance was very good after the first race, the late arrivals making a slim-looking crowd swell to ample proportions. While the track was about dried out, it is moist enough to be cuppy and is still slow. For a Saturday's attraction, the card to-day was short of features. The event, of course, was looked for in the mile handicap, but it was the worst fiasco of the day. The field looked to have a very good race in it, but from the backstretch home it was an Indian file, with the supposedly best horses away back in the line. Arnette was said to have enough weight on to kill her off, and Flirtilla or Mollie R. would settle the honors between them, but Centurion, a despised 25 to 30-to-1 shot, came on from second place after Arnette had tired herself out and won easily by two lengths. Mollie R. was never better than third and finished fifth, while Flirtilla ran in third place all the way but finished third, ten lengths behind the winner. "Dope" students would do well to throw this race out as the horses certainly were not up to form.

The best race of the day was the third event, at five furlongs, selling. Major Cook was an odds-on favorite, with Morven and Detective each at threes. Mollie Bawn, in very light, was played down from 30 to 20 to 1. Morven won by a length and a half after he had led from the half-pole, with Detective giving him a drive. Major Cook was two lengths behind Detective and ran a very poor race for him. Mollie Bawn was never prominent after the backstretch was left.

Two Cheers, favorite in the first race, at five and a half furlongs, outclassed and outran his field and won very easily by two lengths. Imp. Trentola, in second place from the half, beat Ida Sauer for the place by six lengths.

In the second race Senator Bland was warmly supported, and Franco was at 2 to 1 at the close. Valiente, the winner, was suffered to go to the post at 10 to 1. Irene E. led to the last eighth from the flag, when Hennessy sent Valiente along and won in a drive by two lengths, with Senator Bland hot after him. Franco was a poor third.

Shield Bearer, a 9 to 5 favorite for the fifth race, won cleverly from Rey Alta and Ross, both with threes about them in the betting ring. Toano showed first, but Cash Sloan immediately sent the favorite to the front, where he kept him with ease. Ross and Rey Alta were in second and third positions all the way, but in a driving finish the latter got the place by a half length. The Judge, with "Moose Taylor" up, was expected to do something, but the talent did not get on very heavily. Toano was also well liked, but did not show very well.

In the last race, a mile and a quarter hurdle, J. O. C. was the favorite, with Arctic a very heartily-supported second choice. Gold Dust led the first mile, then gave way to the favorite, who won easily by three lengths from Gold Dust, Nellie G. third, ten lengths away. Arctic was fifth, where he had been for the last half-mile.

Cash Sloan rode two winners and a second, Hennessy, E. Jones, Donnelly and J. Johnson taking the other honors.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five and one-half furlongs, selling. Post betting—Two Cheers 6 to 5, Ida Sauer 3, imp. Trentola 4½, De la Guerra 6, Lady Splendor 40, Bert 60 to 1. Good start. Two Cheers led all the way and won easily. Winner, br g, 4, by Three Cheers—Lady Emma. Imp. Trentola (b h, 5, by Trentola—Gondola) second, easily; Ida Sauer (ch f, 3, by Joe Hooker—Addie O'Neil) third. Time, 1:11½.

Second race—Five furlongs, for maiden two-year-olds. Post betting—Franco 2, Senator Bland 3½, San Marcus 4, Valiente 10, Irene E. 15, Guess 200, Jonglouse filly 250 to 1. Good start. Irene led to the last eighth, then Valiente came on and won in a drive with Senator Bland. Winner, ch c, by Jim Brown—Viola. Senator Bland (ch c, by imp. Iverness—Wood Violet) second, easily; Franco (h g, by Fresno—Filenio) third. Time, 1:05½.

Third race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Major Cook 15 to 20, Morven and Detective 3, Mollie Bawn 20, Gypsy Girl 100 to 1. Good start. Morven led from the half-pole and won in a drive by a length. Winner, h g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Lurline. Detective (h g, 3, by imp. Deceiver—Exile), second, driving; Major Cook (b g, 3, by Bulwark—Sister to Violet), third. Time, 1:03½.

Fourth race—Handicap, one mile. Post betting—Arnette (108) 3 to 2, Mollie R. (90) 8 to 5, Flirtilla (104) 3, Centurion (95) 25, Wawona (100) 30, Josephine (160) 75 to 1. Good start. Arnette led to the stretch, where Centurion passed her and won easily. Winner, ch g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Lizzie P. Arnette (ch f, 3, by imp. Midlothian—Filema), second easily; Flirtilla (h f, 3, by Peel—Faustine), third. Time, 1:45½.

Fifth race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Shield Bearer 9 to 5, Ross and Rey Alta 3, Toano and The Judge 8, Tamalpais and Kathleen 50 to 1. Good start. Shield Bearer led most of the way and won cleverly. Winner, ch c, 3, by imp. Wagner—Mamie Cole. Rey Alta (ch g, 3, by Alta—Fannie D.) second, driving. Ross (h g, 4, by imp. Sir Modred—Faustina) third. Time, 1:03½.

Sixth race—One and one-quarter miles, over five hurdles. Post betting—J. O. C. 9 to 10, Arctic 7 to 5, Gold Dust 11 to 2, Nellie G. 7, Lonnie B. and Wyandotte 10, Wag 40 to 1. Good start. Arctic led for the first mile, then J. O. C. came on and won easily. Winner, ch g, 3, by Apache—Irene. Gold Dust (b g, 5, by Oro—Gold Cup) second, easily; Nellie G. (gr m, a, by Sampson—unknown) third. Time, 2:22½.

FOURTEENTH DAY—MONDAY, NOVEMBER 11.

Monday was an off day at Bay District at one time, as is usually the case at most race tracks, but the card presented to-day was very attractive and excellent sport was afforded the good-sized crowd that attended. The events were all lively hetting affairs, and "cinches" were so hard to determine on as to leave a very wholesome doubt of the result until the winning numbers were announced. Burns & Waterhouse won with two of their four entries. The other two, though very prominent in the betting ring, were outside the money. The event of the day was the very excellent race of the Los Angeles Derby winner, Cahrillo. He was not looked on by the talent to be up to a bruising race with such company as he was entered in, and went to the post at long odds. Mr. Van Brunt, his very popular owner, however, thought enough of this colt to back him liberally, and received the warm congratulations of his friends over his possessing a good colt that did not betray his confidence.

The track is still a little slow, but up to about normal condition again.

There was a long delay at the post in the first race. Ten erratic two-year-olds worried Mr. Ferguson about twenty minutes, then he sent them away to a good start. Von Dunk showed first, then Little Flush filly set the pace till forced to give way to Nic Nac, the favorite, at the head of the stretch. Nic Nac came on and won driving, Little Flush filly holding on to second place, while Jack Atkins outran Walter J. in the stretch and finished third.

Goodwin II. was a very hot favorite for the second event, at five furlongs. Mt. Roy received flattering support and was sent down from 10 to 8 to 1. Empress of Norfolk showed first to a good start, then Mt. Roy took up the running. He held the lead easily to the last sixteenth, where Cahrillo drew away and won handily by two lengths. Ross followed in close order and shoved his neck in front of Mt. Roy at the wire. Cahrillo was suffered to go to the post at 8 to 1, and as high as 30 to 1 was offered against him at one time. He ran a true race and in remarkably fast time for the track, doing the trick handily in 1:01½.

The third race was at seven furlongs, with five starters, with Rosebud a 2 to 5 favorite. Mary S. next in favor at 3 to 1. There was a little play on Josephine, and she was down at one time to 10 to 1, but at post time was back at 25 to 1. Rosebud was soon in front after the start, and opened up a gap of a couple of lengths on the far turn, but coming into the stretch Mary S. came up and it looked as though she would overhaul him. Hinrichs sent Rosebud along, however, and she drew away and won easily by two lengths. Ivy got the place in a driving finish by half a length, with Charmion third. The latter ran a good race for the first time out. Mary S. fell back to fourth place.

The mile race had some very hot stuff in it, and the problem seemed to be what could carry Fannie Louise, the favorite, and heat her out. Oregon Eclipse was saved at the post by Cash Sloan, who refused several breaks. Fannie Louise got the worst of it by several starts. When the flag fell Cash had Oregon Eclipse in a good place, and held second to Sleeping Child, the pace-maker, to the backstretch, where Fannie Louise passed him. Rounding into the stretch Cash sent Oregon Eclipse along at a rattling clip, and he easily passed Sleeping Child and the favorite. Coming down the stretch he held them off easily, and in the last sixteenth they began to fall back, while Happy Day made one of his rushes and almost caught the winner at the wire. Monita was a good third. Fannie Louise and Sleeping Child were four and eight lengths further away, respectively.

Cicero, favorite for the hurdle race, dumped the talent hard, and made a very poor showing for himself. That he will be at lengthing odds hereafter is most certain. Morgan G. won from the last jump, drawing away easily from Soon Enough, who had led all the way, though the winner had steadily gained on him at each hurdle. Nellie G. ran her race and finished third. Cicero ran last to the final jump, then passed Dick O'Malley and Barcaldine, finishing a very poor fourth.

Winning jockeys to-day were C. Flynn, Hinrichs, Burns, C. Sloan and J. Johnson.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs, for two-year-olds. Post hetting—Nic Nac 2½, Audimaire 4, Scimitar 5, Leon L. 6, Corriente 10, Jack Atkins 12, Little Flush filly 20, Don Pio Pico and Walter J. 25, Von Dunk 100 to 1. Good start. Nic Nac won from the head of the stretch in a drive. Winner, ch f, 2, by Take Notice—Picnic. Little Flush filly (ch f, by Torso—Little Flush), second, driving; Jack Atkins (h g, by Regent—Miss Sadie) third. Time, 1:03½.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling. Post hetting—Goodwin II 1, Empress of Norfolk 3½, Ross 5, Mt. Roy and Cahrillo 8, Lolokulani 50, Selkirk and Gypsy Girl 200 to 1. Good start. Mt. Roy led from the half-pole to the last eighth, where Cahrillo came on handily and won by two lengths. Winner, h c, 3, by St. Saviour—imp. Lizzie Hampton. Ross (h g, 4, by imp. Sir Modred—Faustina), second, driving; Mt. Roy (ch h, a, by Faustus—Mount City Belle), third. Time, 1:01½.

Third race—Selling, seven furlongs, for mares and fillies. Post hetting—Rosebud 2 to 5, Mary S. 3, imp. Ivy 15, Charmion 20, Josephine 25 to 1. Good start. Rosebud led from the start and won easily. Winner, ch f, 3, by Tyrant—Rosemary. Imp. Ivy (h m, 5, by imp. Castor—Veneration) second driving; Charmion (ch m, 5, by Tyrant—Una) third. Time, 1:28½.

Fourth race—One mile, selling. Post hetting—Fannie Louise 7 to 10, Oregon Eclipse 3½, Happy Day 9, Sleeping Child 12, Lady Jane 15 and Monita 75 to 1. Good start. Sleeping Child led the first half, then Oregon Eclipse took up the running and stood a drive to the finish. Winner, ch g, a, by Joe Hooker—Lulu Riggs. Happy Day (br g, a, by Emperor—Felicity) second driving; Monita (h g, 4, by St. Saviour—Nighthawk) third. Time, 1:43.

Fifth race—One and one-sixteenth miles, hurdle. Post hetting—Cicero 6 to 5, Morgan G. 14 to 5, Nellie G. 5, Soon Enough 7, Barcaldine 8, Dick O'Malley 30 to 1. Good start. Soon Enough was in front passing the stand, and led to the last hurdle, when Morgan G. drew away and won. Winner, br g, 3, by Joe Hooker—Bonita. Soon Enough (ch g, 3, by El Rio Rey—Sooner), second, easily; Nellie G. (gr m, a, by Sampson—unknown), third. Time, 1:55½.

FIFTEENTH DAY—TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 12.

Morven and Potentate, two of the good things of the talent's selection to-day, were upset in a manner long to be remembered. Lolokulani was sprung in the first race, and went through all right, then Mt. Roy gave the hookies another whack. Things were looking pleasant about that time, and Morven was selected as the next standard-bearer. Perhaps and Three Forks were the principal ones of the balance to receive support. Perhaps took the lead on the start almost and set a hot pace. Morven kept him very close company, and coming into the stretch the brown was only a neck in front. Three Forks moved up to third position as the turn was made. They ran in this order to opposite the saddling paddock, where Perhaps began to swerve over against Morven. He followed him up, and despite Cash Sloan's efforts to keep Morven out of the way, it looked to the spectators as though Perhaps was carrying him along the last forty yards. Morven was forced over to the outer rail, and, close under the judges' stand, the two horses finished, locked together apparently. In the meantime Chevalier had brought Three Forks up on the inner rail, and, in the opinion of nearly every one on the ground, he was the winner. The numbers were quickly given out from the judges' stand, however, giving the race to Perhaps, with Morven and Three Forks second and third as named. This announcement caused a surprise, the general opinion being that Three Forks had been overlooked in watching the other two over on the outer rail. Cash Sloan entered a claim of foul against Perhaps, and while it was under consideration Jim Neil's face was a study in suspended expectancy, but as Morven was sent to the stable his features relaxed in dangerous proximity to a broad grin.

In the last race of the day Potentate shocked his followers by the very poor race he ran. He was a 1-to-2 favorite, with Thelma at 9 to 5. The favorite got away fifth in a bunch of seven, but was never better than third. Thelma led all the way, with America lapped onto her to the stretch, when Chevalier sent Thelma along and she drew away to four lengths by the time the wire was reached. Potentate could not catch America, and the brown filly got the place by a neck. The hookies were busy cashing place tickets on America at from 40 to 50 to 1 after the race.

There were several hot things in the first race that were well supported. Of the lot Lolokulani carried the most money and went down from 10 to 2½ to 1. San Marcus was a hot tip, too, at threes, and Canvasback and Judge Tam were at 4 and 6 to 1 respectively. San Marcus took the lead from Elair soon after the start and held it to the last forty yards, where Lolokulani caught him. Then under a drive San Marcus tried to go out in front again, but the black mare won, with Burlingame sitting still, by half a length. Judge Tam was third.

After a long delay the field, in the second race, was sent away to a good start. Mt. Roy, the favorite, showed the way from the half pole and won easily. Irene got the second money. Rowan put up a very sleepy ride on Irma.

In the fourth race the old favorites, Tim Murphy and Sir Richard, were out again. Notwithstanding the fact that Sir Richard always heats Tim Murphy, the latter was a warm second choice over the gray. Hymn was favorite, closing at 2 to 1, and there was a little play on Contribution. Fly showed the way, after a good start, to the stretch. About an eighth from home Sir Richard swerved to the rail and lost over a length. Shaw put up a very fine ride on Hymn, and brought him out at the right moment and won handily. Sir Richard, Contribution and Fly finished after him in the order named, heads apart. Tim Murphy was never in the race.

Winning jockeys were Shaw two, Burlingame, Donnelly and Chevalier one each.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs, selling. Post hetting—Imp. Lolokulani 2½, San Marcus 3, Canvasback 4, Judge Tam 6, De Groat 8, R. H. 12, Pert Child 30, Elair and imp. Lady Splendor 40, Guess 50 to 1. Good start. Elair showed first, then San Marcus took the lead. Lolokulani came on and won by half a length easily, with San Marcus driving. Winner, h k m, a, by Shenandoah—by Norfolk. San Marcus (ch g, 2, by St. Carlo—Mistake) second, easily; Judge Tam (h g, 3, by Nick of the Woods—Retta B.) third. Time, 1:02½.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling. Post hetting—Mt. Roy 7 to 10, Irene E. 4½, Irma 5, W. L. Munson 8, Ida Sauer 30, Prince Hooker and Skalkaho 60. Good start. Mt. Roy ran in first place from the half and won easily. Winner, h g, 4, by Faustus—Mount City Belle. Irene E. (b f, 2, by El Rio Rey—Ogalena) second, easily; Irma (h f, 3, by St. Saviour—Ella T.) third. Time, 1:02.

Third race—About six furlongs, selling, light-welter weights. Post hetting—Morven 7 to 5, Perhaps 5 to 2, Three Forks 4, Gold Bug 4, The Judge 6, Moss Terry 60 and May Jones 100 to 1. Good start. Perhaps led to the paddock, then swerved against Morven, carrying him to the wire on the outside rail. Three Forks, on the inside rail, looked to be a winner, but the judges placed Perhaps first. Winner, br g, 2, by Kosciusko—May Viley. Morven (h g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Lurline), second, driving; Three Forks (h g, 4, by Spokane—Trifle), third. Time, 1:13½.

Fourth race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Post hetting—Hymn 11 to 5, Contribution 2½, Tim Murphy 3, Sir Richard 5, Fly 10, Miss Ruth 30, Hueneco 40, May Day 100 to 1. Good start. Fly set the pace with Contribution in second place. In the last sixteenth Hymn was sent along by Shaw and won handily, Sir Richard passing Contribution, and Fly falling back, all three named heads apart. Winner, h g, 4, by Himyar—Una B. Sir Richard (gr h, 5, by Stratford or imp. Uhlan—Victress), second; Contribution (h g, a, by imp. Dalmacardoch—Retribution), third. Time, 1:07½.

Fifth race—Five and one-half furlongs. Post hetting—Potentate 1 to 2, Thelma 9 to 5, Imp. Ivy 75, Stromboli 100, Gussie 300, Imp. Autonomy 300, America 300 to 1. Poor start. Thelma led all the way and won easily. Winner, br m, 4, by John Happy—Pansy. America (hr f, 3, by Red Iron—Lou B.) second driving; Potentate (b h, 4, by Hayden Edwards—Amelia P.) third. Time, 1:08.

SIXTEENTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13.

With the natural increase since the influx of Eastern horsemen, and a very attractive card to-day, the attendance was most flattering to the Association. The hetting ring was packed all afternoon, and every one seemed to be there on business. Only two favorites won, so the gentlemen on the blocks had a very pleasant day of it. The great surprise of the day was the defeat of the even-money favorite Model by the 20 to 25-to-1 shot Wawona. The winner was the extreme outsider of the field, which was accounted for by the very poor showing Wawona made on a heavy or sticky track in his last two starts. He won last winter in very heavy going but this year he seems to like a dry track best. Model held on to him into the stretch, where she chucked it, and Navy Blue and Centurion came on and fought it out for the place, after Wawona had won by two lengths easily. Si McClain had his first mount this season here on Navy Blue, and brought him in a very good second, two lengths in front of Centurion. Flirtilla, who was at 5 to 1, came in fourth, and Model and Malo Diahlo, the latter having sulked all the way brought up the rear.

Mt. Roy was a slight favorite over Last Chance and Two Cheers for the first race at five and a half furlongs, but they are sending him to the post a little too often. The good colt, however, made a very excellent showing and led into the stretch by four lengths, when Last Chance was sent along and heat him out a head. The time hung up was 1:07½, which was a very good showing for Mt. Roy on his last start in three successive days.

The talent felt uneasy when it was learned that their favorite in the second race, Castanette, would not warm up, but with a good start and a light weight up, she held her own to the wire and won driving by a length and a half. Don Pedro nipped the place from Clara Johnson on the last stride. There was quite a little play on Leon L., but he does not seem to be up to himself now.

Don Pio Pico, the big Joe Hooker colt that "Bone Doctor" Robbins purchased at the recent Winters' sale, took the fourth race into camp for his new owner, winning by a very scant head on the wire from Little Flush filly, who, by the way, is running in very much improved form now. The winner was at 2½ to 1. Caliente, the favorite, was held up at the post by Hinrichs, and could get no nearer the purse than fourth place. The St. Louis Sphinx was set down for ten days by the judges for his poor ride.

Detective won the handicap at six furlongs easily, while Mamie Scott and Montana, the latter a slight favorite over the winner at post time, had a hammer and tongs drive from the drawgate to the wire for the place, which the mare got by a head.

J. O. C. won the handicap hurdle race at a mile and a half very easily from Auteuil, while Lonnie B. was a good third. Mestor, the favorite, who was hacked down from 3 to 1 to 9 to 5, was in last place from the start. Amigo set the pace for awhile, but relinquished the lead to Gold Dust on the backstretch, where J. O. C. then took command and led to the wire.

The winning jockeys to-day were: Hinrichs, Chevalier, C. Sloan, E. Jones, T. Sloan and J. Johnson.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Post hetting—Mt. Roy 5 to 2, Last Chance and Two Cheers 3 to 1, Allahabad 9 to 2, Juan Bernard 15, Carrie Shaw 20, Fin Slaughter and Patriot 40, Selkirk 60, Rogation 70 to 1. Good start. Winner, ch g, 4, by Duke of Norfolk—Vedette. Mt. Roy (h g, 4, by Faustus—Mount City Belle) second, easily. Selkirk (ch h, a, by Verano—Genovivia) third. Time, 1:07½.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling. Post hetting—Castanette 1, Walter J. 4, Leon L. 3, Don Pedro 12, Corriente 15, Lady Gray 25, Clara Johnson 100 to 1. Good start. Castanette won driving. Winner, ch f, 2, by Duke of Norfolk Carmen. Don Pedro (br c, 2, by imp. San Pedro—Belle W.), second, driving; Clara Johnson (ch f, 2, by El Rio Rey—Valerie), third. Time, 1:02½.

Third race—Five furlongs, selling. Post hetting—Caliente 8 to 5, Little Flush filly 9 to 2, Don Pio Pico 12 to 5, imp. Endymion 8, Audemaire and Easel 12, Jack Atkins 15 to 1. Good start. Don Pio Pico nipped Little Flush filly out on the wire by a head. Winner, ch c, 2, by Joe Hooker—Countess Zeika. Little Flush filly (ch f, 2, by Torso—Little Flush) second driving; imp. Endymion (ch g, 2, by Enterprise—Sapientia) third. Time, 1:02½.

Fourth race—One mile, handicap. Post hetting—Model 1, Malo Diahlo 3, Flirtilla 5, Navy Blue 12, Centurion 15, Wawona 25 to 1. Good start. Wawona led all the way and won easily. Winner, ch g, 4, by imp. Sir Modred—Typhoon. Navy Blue (h g, 3, by Blue Wing—Bay Betty) second, driving. Centurion (ch g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Lizzie P.) third. Time, 1:41.

Fifth race—Six furlongs, selling. Post hetting—Montana 6 to 5, Detective 7 to 5, Mamie Scott 9 to 2, Polaski 20 and Lady Jane 25 to 1. Good start. Detective won easily. Winner h g, 3, by imp. Deceiver—Exile. Mamie Scott (h f, 3, by Canny Scot—Eola) second driving. Montana (h h, a, by Storey—Uga) third. Time, 1:41.

Sixth race—One and one-half miles, over six hurdles. Post hetting—Mestor 9 to 5, J. O. C. 12 to 1, Auteuil 11 to 5, Amigo 8, Gold Dust 10, Lonnie B. 2 to 1. Good start. J. O. C. won easily. Winner, ch g, 3, by Apache—Irene. Auteuil (h g, 6, by John Happy—Jess) second, Lonnie B. (ch m, 6, by imp. London—Luella) third. Time, 2:46.

Grannan Plays "Boston."

NEW YORK, November 13.—Sporting men are gossiping about the "cleaning out" of Riley Grannan, the celebrated turf plunger, by two of the gambling fraternity. The story is that the young plunger was induced to take a hand at "Boston," a game of cards now much in vogue among the members of the hetting ring.

That it was a big game was evidenced by the fact that when the trio adjourned the plunger had lost about $40,000, but, being unable at the time to make good all of this sum, he paid over $15,000 in greenbacks. Subsequently, it is asserted, he declared that as he had had all the worst of the play, he would take his time in paying the balance of his loss, if he paid it at all.

The game was played in private at a well-known "tenderloin" resort, and one of the two winners is said to be Pat Sheedy, probably the best-known gambler in the United States. Of late he has not prospered so well as in the halcyon days of faro and roulette, but he has always been looked upon as a "straight" gambler. To-day Sheedy bad, according to a friend, "money to burn," and was talking of making a tour of the world.

Zombro, the Son of McKinney.

When Chas. A. Durfee purchased McKinney from W. H. Wilson, of Cynthiana, Kentucky, and brought him to Los Angeles, many people there thought he might have purchased a better horse, but this old-time horsemen knew there was no improvement on the blood of Alcyone, and after he had driven the brown colt in the races there and then campaigned him through the California circuit winning races he proved this horse to be invincible in his class. Those who had bred mares to the horse were satisfied they had made no mistake, and among these gentlemen, Geo. T. Beckers, of Phoenix, Arizona, seemed the happiest, for he had sent the handsome two-year-old filly, Whisper, which he had purchased of W. T. Withers, of Kentucky, to this stallion in 1891, and the brown colt that was gambling in the alfalfa fields looked like a trotter and acted like one. He named it after a friend of his who was in a bank at San Bernardino, and when the colt was old enough he gave him to Chas. Durfee to fit him for the circuit of 1895. How well this combination performed during the circuit is shown in the brief synopsis of races given below, but a description of the colt may be of interest.

Zombro is a large dark bay or brown horse without white excepting a small star. He has a clean cut, intelligent head, a fine neck set on to splendid shoulders. He has a short, strong back, heavy loin and hind quarters, which show where his great strength is hidden. His limbs are perfect, although he has not grown out of the awkward colt-like form which colts of his age all have, when trotting he has plenty of knee and hock action and seldom makes any mistakes. Should he leave his feet, he catches quickly, and when coming to the wire he sticks his head out and seems to understand that the decisive point can only be reached by steady work. He is a horse of remarkable intelligence and is docile as a kitten. As an indication of his speed it is only necessary to say that in his race at Los Angeles, in which he trotted a heat in 2:13, he trotted to the half in 1:12 and came home the other half in 1:01 flat. Durfee says he could have given him a mark of 2:08 if necessary. Zombro, from his breeding, size, disposition, pure trotting action and gait will make one of the greatest sires ever foaled.

On July 20th at Portland he made his first appearance, defeating Briarhill and six others, after losing the first heat in 2:22½ which Briarhill won. The time made in the other heats was 2:20½, 2:24 and 2:21, and meeting a little better field three days after, consisting of Briarhill, Lady Thornhill, Eva T., Montana, Mariposa and Vinmont, he won in three straight heats so easily that his fame as a racehorse preceded him to the Breeders' meeting, Sacramento, where he was entered in the races. The time in these three heats was 2:22, 2:22½ and 2:23. Zombro was then shipped to Sacramento. The trip on the cars did not agree with him no more than it did with the rest of the horses that were campaigned in Oregon. The first day of the meeting he started in the 2:40 class against some of the best green horses in California. He met Prince Ira, a good-looking son of Dexter Prince, and although hardly able to stand the work he forced the latter to trot three heats in 2:21 to beat him. He was at his neck in each heat.

Two days afterward in a field of ten he met a three-year-old that would not be defeated, and that was the handsome horse Stam B. In the first heat a collision occurred which almost knocked Zombro down, as it was, it unsettled his driver, Durfee, and the colt ran down the homestretch with the remnants of a sulky dangling at his heels. Undaunted and uninjured the game driver again took his seat, and amid the greatest excitement he drove Zombro to victory, winning by a length in 2:19. Dr. Puff, a son of Bay Bird, getting the place from Stam B., but in the next heat Stam B. trotted in 2:18½, and in order to beat the thoroughly recovered Zombro in the fourth heat, he had to trot in 2:17½, thus establishing a splendid record so early in the year.

At his first race in Vallejo, Zombro did not do well, his fetlock, which was injured in the accident at Sacramento, swelling to an enormous size, and it was only by sheer gameness that he was able to appear in this 2:20 nomination trotting purse. But on the last day in the 2:24 trot he defeated Ethel Downes, Lady O. and five others in 2:20, 2:20 and 2:17½.

The next week at Napa was one long to be remembered by the followers of the circuit, for in the 2:27 class trot Zombro met the Stamboul colt, Stam B., again. The latter won the first two heats in 2:19½ and 2:16. In the latter heat Zombro was at Stam B.'s saddle girth and money flowed into the box on Stam B. like water, as it was a certainty in the opinion of his friends that he would repeat his Sacramento victory, but Durfee had Zombro in excellent shape, and as Stam B. was also in fine fix the battle between these two was the most exciting ever seen on a track. The report of these three heats as given in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will give an idea of the battle:

"In the next heat Zombro took the lead, Stam B. second, Dr. Puff third. These three outclassed their fields, and as they opened a gap of ten lengths in front of the rest, the contest centered in them. Zombro broke and fell back, Stam B. taking the lead to the half; then he broke and Zombro led. It was a hard battle between the two leaders. Delano, behind Stam B., making a splendid drive, while Durfee, with Zombro, was driving as only this veteran can. In the last heat Stam B. gained on Zombro, but the latter won by half a length in the splendid time of 2:10½, the fastest third heat ever trotted by a three-year-old stallion on the Pacific Coast. Dr. Puff was third, Stamboul fourth, Silver Ring fifth and Lottie sixth, Sidney Howard being withdrawn before this heat.

Zombro now took the lead, with Stam B. at his wheel, and these two led all the way. It was a battle between them, both drivers doing their best. The colts were evenly matched, and the excitement became intense as down the homestretch they came. "The record will be broken!" was heard on every side, as, steady as two old campaigners, these faultless-gaited stallions trotted. Nearer and nearer the wire, with Zombro a neck in advance, Stam B. could not gain an inch on his strong competitor and as the former came under the wire in the wonderful time of 2:13½, loud cheering greeted the winner. Dr. Puff was third, Stamboul fourth and Silver Ring fifth. Again was the Pacific Coast record lowered, and the son of McKinney crowned king of three-year-olds. This is the fastest fourth heat ever trotted by a three-year-old.

When the horses were called out for the final heat, the two gladiators appeared to be none the worse for their last work in the preceding heats. Judge Covey sent them away on even terms, Zombro getting his usual advantage a few yards from the wire and retaining it, while the bull dog, Stam B., kept right at his flanks and forcing the son of McKinney to go to the half in 1:07½, and even then did not lose an inch or gain one. To the three quarter pole in 1:41 the two came, both drivers holding their horses well in hand. At the seven-eighths pole Stam B. broke and fell back, Zombro shot to the front, and after Durfee saw he had the race won, he pulled Zombro up, and raising his cap waved it in response to the loud cheering which greeted him from the thousands assembled, and let the great king of three-year-olds jog under the wire in 2:15½. Another great heat and record broken. The consensus of opinion was that a better fought race between three-year-olds or even aged horses was never seen on a race track. The horses Stam B. and Zombro were so evenly matched that it was as the tossing of a copper which was the better, while the bay stallion Dr. Puff was not far out of any of the heats, and he never made a break from start to finish."

Durfee did not take Zombro to Petaluma as he had not made any entries there, so to Woodland the horses were to be seen, where Zombro defeated Letter B., McZeus and Columbus S. in three heats. Time, 2:16½, 2:16½ and 2:14½. And on the last day of the meeting, August 31st, this game son of McKinney defeated his old rivals, Stam B., Jasper Ayres, another great three-year-old and Lottie in three heats, time 2:13, 2:14½ and 2:17, lowering his record to a mark seldom, if ever, attained by a three-year-old in the United States so early in the season.

At the Sacramento fair, a place where Durfee says he never won a race with any horse he ever owned or handled, Zombro met Iago, a bay gelding by Tempest, and forced him to trot in 2:11, 2:12½ and 2:13½ to beat him, while Stam B. was only a little way behind.

At Stockton, two weeks after, Zombro again marched triumphantly past a splendid field of all-aged trotters, consisting of Chico, Irene Crocker, Bruno, Jennie June, Prince Ira and Briarhill in 2:16, 2:15½ and 2:17.

To Santa Ana was a long journey, but the big brown colt did not mind it, for he won the 2:27 class race easily, defeating Native State, Dr. Puff and McZeus in 2:15, 2:14½ and 2:16.

On the following Saturday he won the last race of the meeting in 2:22, 2:15 and 2:19, defeating Jasper Ayres, Carrie C. and Ora Wiles.

At the Los Angeles meeting he defeated Ethel Downes and Boodle in 2:13, 2:15 and 2:14.

At the Breeders' meeting the following week he trotted in a race against his old rivals, Stam B., Jasper Ayres and Dr. Puff, and vanquished them in three heats in 2:13, 2:13½ and 2:14½, and on the day before the close of this great meeting he trotted away from Eva T., Neerut, Knight and Mojave in 2:17½, 2:17 and 2:15.

Zombro started without a record at the beginning of the season and was in seventeen races. He won thirteen of them, was third twice and only once unplaced. His winnings amounted to $5,300, and the average of his winning heats was 2:17. A truly meritorious record and one which stamps him as the greatest three year old that has ever appeared on the California Circuit.

A Leader in Every Line.

The trotting horse world is indebted to John A. McKerron, of this city, for a large number of horse boots that he invented and made to prevent knee strikers and foulgaited horses from injuring themselves. His wonderful success in this line, and the superiority of the goods he manufactures over all others in the United States has earned for him a world-wide reputation. His light harnesses are also models of their kind and their strength, neatness, durability and the excellent manner in which they are made proves conclusively that in these two branches of the harness-making art he is without an equal; and the fact that his goods are used exclusively by every prominent trainer in America and Europe shows that his work is appreciated by those who are competent to be judges. Many claimed that Mr. McKerron did not know how to make heavy carriage harness, but they were in error for he was for many years engaged in this work in Europe and the East before coming to California.

He has been very busy for months supplying the demand for carriage harnesses, and the best "whips" in the country are daily visitors at his emporium at 203 and 205 Mason street, inspecting his goods which are made after the latest approved English and French patterns; single and double sets, that are perfect gems, and as they are manufactured of better material and at lower prices than sets that look like them, can be bought in New York, London or Paris, a cordial invitation is extended to all to come and see what there is in his show cases. Besides harnesses, he has a magnificent collection of whips, blankets, clothing and all the paraphernalia necessary for a horse-show outfit. Such a visit will repay anyone who has an eye for the beautiful. There is no need for prospective buyers to send East or abroad for goods of this description when we have right in our midst such an artist in his line as McKerron. Those who have visited the large harness emporiums of the East declare there are no better goods than those made by him, consequently orders are coming in fast and they are from the leading citizens of this State and the East.

To those who are to make exhibits at the coming horse show a few suggestions will not seem presumptions. Have neat, well-fitting halters, bridles and surcingle and see that everything about the stalls, in the way of linseys, sheets, blankets, rub cloths, etc., are clean and tasty looking. All of the elite of the City and State will visit the stalls and inspect the horses therein, and if a horse is worthy of such an honor his surroundings should be in keeping with his worth. Call on McKerron and he will see that your horse is well furnished with the latest, best and most becoming paraphernalia, and you will take pride in inviting your friends to see your display.

BARNEY SCHREIBER arrived from St. Louis Thursday and put in an appearance at Bay District track in time to back his crack sprinter, Yemen, but the horse met a couple of others that outran him. Of course, nearly every man at the track knows the genial and popular Barney, and his good right arm was shaken almost off. In speaking of the prospects of racing here this winter, Mr. Schreiber said that all the horsemen in the region of Chicago, St. Louis and Latonia are looking toward California, and that there never has been such an influx of owners and bookmakers as will be witnessed this year. Among the bookmaking firms signifying their intention of coming to California are Walter & Hayden, Hoffman & Co., Davis & Co., W. H. Laudeman, Sam Summerfield, Gaines & Co., Captain Titus and Sam Adler. His horses were among the lot that arrived here on Wednesday. The string embraces Service, Servitor, Chartreuse, Theresa Hidalgo, Globe, James, and four others. Walter & Hayden sent out Miss Norma and imp. Piccolo on the same train. Jerry Chorn and C. Slaughter will ride for Schreiber, the former arriving with the horses. Mr. Schreiber is very fond of Slaughter, who can ride at 78 pounds. Chorn had two mounts yesterday, getting two thirds, on Yemen and Faro. Slaughter will arrive to-day. Felix Carr was among the arrivals, but he is too heavy to ride and will take up training. Mr. Schreiber has great hopes for him in this new calling.

The Polo Games at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6, 1895.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—According to your request I send you a short account of the polo match held at the P. C. T. H. B. A. meeting at Los Angeles on November 1st.

As originally arranged, a tournament between Burlingame, Riverside and the Southern California polo clubs was prepared for, and Burlingame should have played the Southern California Club on Wednesday, Riverside playing the winners on Saturday. At the last moment, however, Burlingame stated they were unable to find a team to contest, and the tournament was consequently robbed of a good deal of interest. It was a great pity, as the P. C. T. H. B. A. has gone to considerable expense in the matter, and had also provided a handsome three handled cup to be played for.

Col. John Bradbury, of Los Angeles, also generously donated a cup.

There is no doubt that the match which took place on Friday between the Southern California and Riverside clubs did a great deal to further the interests of polo in the south. It brought the game to the notice of a great many people, and the general verdict was that all of them appreciated it.

The game was a good one, although the score seemed rather one-sided. For the Southern California Club P. D. Martin played No. 1, W. H. Young No. 2, W. R. Ward No. 3 and J. B. Proctor (Captain) back. For Riverside, C. E. Maud played the first and third quarters back, G. L. Waring (Captain) the middle quarter back and the first and third No. 3, A. C. Maud No. 1 and R. L. Bettner No. 2.

To the uninitiated the back and the No. 1, being savers instead of aggressors, seldom get the meed of praise that is their due, Nos. 2 and 3 seeming to be responsible for most of their work. However, in a well-drilled team it is necessary that back must not do too much and No. 1 must confine himself to riding off and must not hit the ball.

The game consisted of three periods of 15 minutes each. In the first period Riverside got 2½ goals; in the second Riverside got 1 and S. Cal. P. C. got 1; and in the third Riverside got 2 more, the score at the end of the game being, therefore, 5½ to 1 in favor of Riverside.

As Riverside has had no practice since last Spring, it was expected by many that they would be in bad shape and might possibly be beaten. In spite of the fact that H. C. Maud (a new member of the team) was on a pony that had never played in a game before, the Riverside team never played better. C. E. Maud at back did not make the least mistake, and always came up when it was safe to do so; H. C. Maud rode off to great advantage, also hitting one of the goals; R. L. Bettner played with his usual brilliance and was applauded time and time again; and, in my opinion, the combination was better than during the first two periods that Riverside played against Burlingame last Spring. Altogether the team as they played was stronger than the team as they played at Burlingame.

The want of practice therefore did not affect the Riversides. For the defeated team W. H. Young hit hard and straight, as he always does; and J. B. Proctor, W. R. Ward and P. D. Martin all worked very hard and played individually well, but the team was certainly lacking in combination, and until they effect some better system, and get the men to keep their places, they will not be able to take the position as a team than they otherwise deserve.

The ground was not so good as it might have been, though a great deal of work had been put on it. In time, however, a good ground could be made and it is to be hoped that matches will take place on it on future occasions.

G. L. WARING.

The National Trotting Association.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 5, 1895.

Notice.—A regular meeting of the Board of Review will be held at the Murray Hill Hotel, New York, at 8 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, December 3, 1895, in accordance with the By-Laws.

M. M. MORSE, Secretary.

N. B.—The President authorizes the announcement, according to precedent, that either an adjourned or a special meeting of the Board will be held at Chicago, Ill., in the early spring of 1896, to accommodate those whose convenience or necessities will be served thereby.

All communications intended for the consideration of the Board at the December meeting must be forwarded to the Secretary not later than November 26th; and all parties who desire that their cases should be acted on at the Chicago meeting should immediately notify the Secretary to that effect.

The Board of Review is empowered to act in place of the full Board, with the same authority and jurisdiction, and at the above meetings will consider business arising in each and all of the districts.

The American Trotting Association

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 4.—Notice is hereby given that the next Board of Appeals of the American Trotting Association will be held at the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago, Tuesday, December 3, 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the transaction of such business as may properly be presented to the Board for its consideration.

All new applications and written evidence must be received at this office not later than November 20, 1895.

I. H. STEINER, Sec'y.

AMONG other horses that arrived with the Schreiber string were Figaro, Willie Shannon and Collins, owned by Dr. Rowell; Ensign, Cirdala, Duke of Milpitas, Foxhall and Silverado, belonging to L. Ezell, who is registered at the Baldwin, and Starling, a bay filly who came in charge of her owner, Joe Flynn, an older brother of Jockey Willie Flynn.

A CABLEGRAM from Australia states that the Victoria Derby, which was run at Melbourne November 2d, was won by Mr. R. W. Wilson's chestnut colt Wallace, by Carbine—Melodius. Mr. D. A. McLeod's brown colt Osculator, by Hotchkiss—Pungawerewere, was second, and Mr. D. James' brown filly Auraria, by Trenton—Aura, was third.

NICK is the best horse that Pat Dunne will race here this Winter. He is a half brother to Requit and Contribution.

Pneumonia in the Horse.

A subscriber having requested that we publish some facts relating to the pathology and treatment of pneumonia in the horse we here produce some portions of a treatise on this disease read by Arthur Salinger, V. M. D., before the Pennsylvania State Veterinary Association:

Pneumonia is one of the most widespread of all acute infectious diseases. There is scarcely an acute infectious disease so frequent in the horse as pneumonia. Climate does not seem to have much influence in the production of this disease; it prevails equally in cold and in hot countries. Cold has been thought to be one of the most important etiological factors, and it is undoubtedly true that the disease sometimes follow a sudden chilling or wetting, but in many cases it will be impossible to obtain any such history. Pneumonia frequently follows traumatism of the chest, when it is known as contusion pneumonia. A change of opinion has recently taken place since the development of bacteriology in regard to the etiology of croupous pneumonia. It is now unquestionably considered an infectious disease depending upon a specific micro-organism. What has furthermore given strength to this opinion among the medical fraternity is the fact that many epidemics of pneumonia have been described.

Morbid anatomy: Since the time of Lænnæc, pathologists have divided the stages of pneumonia into three well-known divisions of engorgement, red hepatization and gray hepatization. The stage of engorgement usually lasts but a short time—from twelve to thirty-six hours. The lung tissue is deep red in color, more solid, and on section the surface is bathed in blood and serum. Crepitation is still present, although not so marked as in normal lung. In the stage of red hepatization the lung tissue is firm, solid and airless. On section the surface is dry, reddish-brown in color, and the deeply congested appearance of the first stage is absent. In this stage the lung is very friable and is readily broken by the finger. Careful inspection shows the surface to be distinctly granular and the air cells filled with fibrinous plugs. The smaller bronchi often contain fibrinous plugs. This stage usually lasts about two days. Stage of gray hepatization is the first stage in the process of resolution. The exudate is softened, the cell elements are disintegrated and are rendered capable of absorption. The grayish appearance is due to the absorption of the hæmoglobin and red blood-corpuscles. A point to which special attention should be called is the almost frequent association of affection of the pleura. It can be stated that in every case of pneumonia where the inflammatory process reaches the periphery the pleura is affected. The pleurisy may be either a dry one, pleuritis sicca, or a pleurisy with effusion may be present. We will have occasion again to refer to pleurisy with effusion in considering the symptomatology and prognosis of croupous pneumonia. It will be noticed that the right lung is more frequently affected than the left one. Symptoms: This disease usually begins with a marked and prolonged chill, with rapidly rising temperature, frequently going from 103 to 106 degrees, with rapid pulse, marked depression, hebetude and anorexia. The extremities will be found to be cold. The pulse may be from 60 to 100 in a minute. In severe cases the conjunctiva may be seen to be jaundiced, due to profound blood alteration. Symptoms referable to the lungs manifest themselves at once. Respiratory movements are quickened and painful, due in the majority of cases to the early involvement of the pleura. The type of breathing is costal. The affected animal does not lie down, or if found in the recumbent position the animal will lie upon the affected side. The standing position of the horse is typical. The front legs are usually held far apart, and the head is extended and carried low. The animal moves as quietly as possible, cautiously preventing unnecessary movements. Cough if present is slight, short and evidently painful. The most important diagnostic points are brought out by physical examination.

Percussion early in the first stage may give you a tympanitic note. This can only be observed if the case be seen early. This tympanitic note soon gives way to dullness on percussion, which shows the beginning of the stage of red hepatization or consolidation. In the third stage the percussion note tends toward clearing up, and in favorable cases returns to normal pulmonary resonance. If the pleura be affected, slight percussion over the affected area produces sharp pain. On auscultation in the first stage we hear an increase of the respiratory murmur, accompanied by crepitant rales. This rale is heard only at the end of inspiration. As consolidation goes on the crepitant rale disappears, giving place to bronchial breathing. In the stage of resolution moist rales return, which are coarser than the rales first heard, and are known as the crepitus redux.

The fever is typical, remaining high from the onset, with very slight morning remissions. It remains so for five or six days, and in favorable cases declines, recovery usually taking place in from ten to fourteen days. The termination is usually abrupt, resembling crisis, the cough becomes looser, the respirations less rapid, the pulse slower and fuller; the animal regains its appetite and shows all the symptoms of returning health. In rare cases the disease may be arrested in the stage of red hepatization. In these abortive cases the disease may last only two or three days. In fatal cases, especially in case of the typhoid variety, symptoms of general blood dissolution manifest themselves. Oedema of the lungs sets in and death, due to heart failure, comes on.

Prognosis: The prognosis of croupous pneumonia is favorable in a large majority of cases. Unfavorable cases are those presenting the typhoid state and those in which complications develop, especially pleurisy with effusion. The termination is either in complete resolution, delayed resolution, in chronic interstitial pneumonia (which occurs either in very young or very old animals—those debilitated by some previous existing disease, as bronchitis), by abscess and by gangrene of the lungs. The latter terminations are rare. Diagnosis: Croupous pneumonia can be readily diagnosed from catarrhal pneumonia by its clinical course. The sudden onset, the high fever, the physical signs, the termination are all essentially different. The course of catarrhal pneumonia is typical; you have a history of a preceding bronchitis or a toxic agent inhaled, or food particles getting into the air passages (deglutition or inhalation pneumonia), the fact that catarrhal pneumonia is a double-sided disease, and the spots of dullness on percussion will be found to be small, difficult to make out, and affect only a lobe of the lung. The rales do not disappear in catarrhal pneumonia, but remain throughout the disease; nor is the breathing distinctly bronchial. In catarrhal pneumonia we have subcrepitant rales heard both on and in expiration, whereas in croupous pneumonia we hear a moist rale, which is heard only at the end of inspiration.

There is no specific treatment for pneumonia. Recent experiments by the brothers Klemperer, of Berlin, on the production of immunity and for the cure of pneumonia with subcutaneous and intravenous injections of large quantities of filtered bouillon cultures or the glycerin extract of the germ have produced some remarkable results. Immunity was produced in animals, lasting for six months, which was transmitted to the offspring born within this time. Still more interesting are their observations upon the cure of experimentally produced disease. They found that the serum and fluids of the body of an animal which had been rendered immune had the property not only of producing immunity when introduced into the circulation of another susceptible animal, but actually of curing the disease after infection had been in progress for some time. In infected animals with a body temperature of from 40 degrees to 41 degrees C. the fever fell to normal in twenty-four hours after the injection of serum of another animal which possessed immunity. They believe that the pneumococcus produces a poisonous albumin (pneumotoxin) which when introduced into the circulation of an animal causes elevation of temperature and the subsequent production in the body of a substance (anti-pneumotoxin) which possesses the power of neutralizing the poisonous albumin which is formed by the bacteria. While these experiments are still immature, it is nevertheless a decided advance in therapeutics, and seems to approach as near as possible to a specific plan of treatment. Further experiments in this line will be awaited with interest by the entire profession. Knowing, then, from our present knowledge of therapeutics, what are the main indications for treatment of this disease? First, the hygienic surroundings and food of the patient, should be carefully looked after, the animal should have an unlimited supply of fresh, cold water from the start, a diet consisting principally of bran mash, scalded oats (grass when in season is preferable if the animal retains an appetite); but if no desire is evinced for food of this particular description, then the animal must be allowed to eat anything that will be taken spontaneously. Corn on the cob is often eaten when everything else is refused. If the horse absolutely refuses to eat, it has been found to be good practice to feed him with oatmeal (preferably Bethlehem oatmeal) and eggs three or four times daily, made in boluses and given in this manner. The comfort and surroundings of the patient must be attended, to pure air is essential. Avoid placing the animal in a stall where he may be exposed to draughts of cold air and sudden changes of temperature. It is considered better practice to blanket the animal than to cut off the fresh air and prevent thorough ventilation.

Locally, mustard, turpentine, etc., have been found useful. In regard to blood-letting, it may be briefly stated that as a systematic course in croupous pneumonia, it should not be resorted to. In young, strong animals of good stock, if the case be seen early, and only early, local blood-letting has some decided advantages, but in older, more feeble animals, and those affected by some chronic ailments (bronchitis, emphysema), it should never be practiced. A symptom that often requires special treatment is high fever. This may be treated either locally or constitutionally. Of the local measures, systematic applications of cold water to the chest will be found useful. Another plan is to give large enemata of cold water by the bowel. This will promptly reduce the temperature without depressing the heart, and should be used every couple of hours until the temperature is lowered. Experiences advise against the use of the analgesic, antipyretics, such as antipyrin, antifebrin, phenacetin, etc., on account of the two depressant effect upon the heart. To add the depressing effect of a powerful drug to the pathological influences already depressing the heart is now recognized as increasing the danger of cardiac failure, which is the most frequent cause of death in croupous pneumonia. While it is true that these drugs unquestionably reduce temperature, they do it at a great risk, and while we have other means of lowering temperature (cold water applications and electrolysis of cold water) they should not be employed. If any of these drugs be given, phenacetin should be chosen, as it has the least depressant effect upon the heart. In reference to the employment of veratrum viride and aconite in the first stage and digitalis at a later period, appears as unreasonable. Cardiac depressants in croupous pneumonia are always of doubtful utility, and digitalis as a cardiac stimulant should be given only in response to special indications. Many of the symptoms of pneumonia are due to a toxæmia, and it is far better to bleed the patient, if he is to be bled at all, into a basin than into his own vessels. Later in pneumonia, when the heart becomes weak, digitalis and alcohol are of decided value. Stimulating expectorants during the third stage have some use. The one having the widest reputation and being by far the most used, is the carbonate of ammonia. If employed the dose should be frequently repeated, as the effect of this drug is soon lost. A powerful respiratory stimulant, when such becomes necessary, is strychnia. This should be administered hypodermatically and in full doses. If the cough becomes distressing and painful, recourse should be had to opium in some form, preferably as Dover's powder. A favorite plan of treatment in human practice consists in giving full doses of quinine early in the disease, followed by a laxative dose of calomel, reduction of temperature, if it becomes necessary, carbonate of ammonia as a cardiac and respiratory stimulant, control of the fever by means that have already been indicated, digitalis and alcohol, if the heart shows signs of flagging, and the treatment of complications as they may arise.—Horseman.

In looking over the article on Pneumonitis, by Salinger, which was published in The Horseman, writes A. McKenzie, V.S., to that journal, I was much impressed by the total neglect of his to mention a most useful agent in treating this disease. In my own experience I have found spiritus frumenti (whisky) to be a sheet anchor. Time and time again have I been enabled to lower temperature and revive horses that seemed on the point of collapse. For the past eight years my treatment of pneumonitis has been dram doses of quinia and grain doses of strychnia every four hours, and from two to four ounces of whisky every two hours, depending upon the severity of the case. The less you blister the sides the better your patients will do. Now, I think that the above simple plan of treatment will aid as many horses to recovery as any I have ever heard of. I would use the quinia and strychnia till the temperature was normal, and there is no need of using the whisky when the animal seems to be recovering. Apples will often start a horse to eating. The acid in them seems to act as a stomachic. I honestly believe that whisky properly given is a most valuable agent. Every medical student knows how, by the alcohol in it preventing oxidation, it prevents the burning up of the body, and thus preserves the animal's strength so that it can stand the crisis of an attack of pneumonitis, which is a most critical moment. Of course it is the alcohol that does the work, and in such cases I have found it a most useful servant.

HOOF-BEATS

JOE ULLMAN has arrived from Chicago.

GARNET FERGUSON'S St. Lee was a starter Thursday.

JOHN O'NEILL, the bookmaker, will be here in a day or two.

SHAW'S winning rides yesterday were very well judged ones.

MOBALASKA has entirely recovered from her recent severe illness.

SEVERAL of the Lorillard horses contracted pneumonia on the trip to England.

NAGLEE BURKE has returned from the East and his string will soon arrive here.

WILLIE MARTIN, one of the clever Western jockeys, well known as the rider of Clifford, arrived on Wednesday.

AL CONEY and Jim Neil yesterday presented Jockey Shaw with a diamond pin for his clever ride on Perhaps the other day.

M. J. BEHAN, L. A. Tayon, C. Norris, M. McFarlane, Mack Burns and J. W. Brooks were among the arrivals Thursday.

HERMANN, the magician, has entered his high steppers at the horse show, and so has Walter Morosco, of the Grand Opera House.

THE name of the Ormonde—Fairy Rose filly has been changed to Rosomonde, as the name of Rosamonde had already been claimed.

POTENTATE cost his owner somewhere near $12,000. He is a good mud-horse, there is no doubt, but he looked "yaller" Tuesday on the dry track.

THE Palace Hotel Stakes, one and one-eighth miles, for three-year-olds, will be run on the opening day of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club meeting.

ACCORDING to Daily Racing Form, Spier has changed his mind about coming to California, and will ship O'Connell, Lizette and the others to New Orleans.

THE track was fast Wednesday, and Wawona's 1:41 in the mile and J. O. C.'s 2:46 in the hurdle race (one half second slower than record time) were notable performances.

VOLUME XIII. of the Register just out, heads its list of corrections and transfers with "George Wilkes, b, h, by Hambletonian 10, dam Dolly Spanker, pedigree untraced."

THE surprise of the day at Lexington Wednesday was the defeat of Prince Lief by Umbrella in the fourth race. Oswego fell just after the start. Jockey Hicks was thrown on his head and had his collar bone broken.

HORSEMEN, turf devotees, jockeys and all the et ceteras that go to make up a race course crowd, are daily arriving from the East. As the meetings on the other side of the Rockies close, westward the equine and his lovers take their way.

AN Eastern paper says: "Griffin will ride at the coming Pimlico meeting, and then will go to California. He will take young Hewett with him, August Belmont being anxious that his promising lightweight should get all the practice possible.

MRS. TOBIN, who brought suit against the Blood Horse Association for $25,000 damages for being ejected from the betting ring, was awarded $300 by a jury Thursday on the second trial of the case. The first trial resulted in a disagreement.

CAPT. JAMES H. REES, who will be presiding judge at the new track, will arrive Thursday. Jos. A. Murphy, who will be in the stand with Judge Rees, arrived with his family yesterday. Mr. Murphy is a newspaper man, and one of the well known Eastern writers.

MR. ROY is a very good colt. He won at five furlongs Tuesday in 1:02, after having finished two lengths behind the money the day before at the same distance in 1:01½. Wednesday he started again and forced Last Chance the five and one-half furlongs in 1:07½ to beat him.

CLAUDE BURLINGAME naturally feels very proud over the victory of Lolokulani on Tuesday. She was the first horse bred on the Sandwich Islands to win in the United States, and she is by Shenandoah, out of a mare by Norfolk. The press smoked with Claude Wednesday.

A CHICAGO dispatch of Thursday says J. N. Burke, "Pittsburg Phil" Smith and George Pope have each sent a carload of horses to San Francisco during the past few days to be entered at the Bay District track for the winter races. Smith sent nine, Pope six and Burke seven horses.

MATT STORN'S three yearlings that he purchased at the late Palo Alto sale—Crescenda, almost full sister to the great Crescendo; Mike Murphy, the youngest of the trio of roans, and Attacus, another Flambeau colt—have been broken to ride and are walked around the inside track daily.

WE have received copies of the weekly issue of Frank Brunell's Racing Form, which covers in a most comprehensive manner all races held within a large radius of the Windy City. The foot notes are of especial value, and the index in each issue covers the performances of each horse for the season.

IVAN HUMMASON has sent his filly, Maggie Murphy, by Humboldt Jr., dam Maggie R, the dam of Tim Murphy to the Bay. Leslie Galbraith has the filly in charge, and has also the four-year-old colt Great Falls, which he is intending to use as a jumper. We expect to hear from this filly before the winter is over, as she is in good hands.—North Pacific Rural.

TURF AND TRACK

THE SULKY.

WILLIAM PENN, 2:07½, is not to be sold at auction after all.

ATHALIE, the dam of Athanio, 2:11½, is safe with foal to 2:09½.

THREE carloads of trotters and pacers returned to Los Angeles last Monday.

VISALIA, 2:12½, holds the record for four-year-old fillies of 1895 in this State.

It is hoped that our large stock farms will be well represented at the Horse Show.

BARON DILLON has won fifteen races - five each at two three and four years of age.

ELECTROPHIL, by Electrottype, won a race at Dallas, Tex., October 30th, and lowered his record to 2:25.

ATHANIO's record of 2:11½ was equalled by the Nebraska three-year-old colt Pat L. in Texas last week.

JAS. DUSTIN says: "You cannot drive me East and make me stay there. California is the only place to live in."

PATHMONT, 2:09½, has been delivered by Winship & Keating to his owner, H. B. Miller, of Portland, Oregon.

The foreign demand for American trotters and roadsters was never so great as at present, and it is still increasing.

JOHN KELLY has a number of yearlings that he is educating at Fleetwood Park. They are by Direct, 2:05½, and show speed.

THE consignment of horses to be shipped from Palo Alto to New York, November 20th, is the best ever seen on the famous farm.

SIDMONT, by Sidney, who set the record for three-year-old pacing colts at 2:10½, in 1894, was not out this year, but will be trained in 1896.

DICTATUS, the well-bred Red Wilkes stallion, retires to the stud of 1896 without a mark, but he has been close up to those that paced in 2:15.

"I DID" is the name of a new comer to the 2:30 list at Bloomsbury, Pa. His brother should be named "So Did I," and the sister "Did We?"

FOUR years ago the 2:08½ of Maud S. stood first in the list of trotting records. To-day the rank of the daughter of Harold is but twenty-third.

McKINNEY, 2:11½, is the sire of Zombro (3), 2:13, McZeus (4), 2:13, Harvey Mac (3), 2:14½, Jennie Mc (2), 2:20½, Sir Credit, 2:25½, and Oseto (2), 2:30.

MR. ISAAC LEONARD, of Lexington, Ky., has bought of Mr. J. E. Madden the two-year-old colt King Guy, by Guy Wilkes, dam Ha Ha, by Nutwood.

ATHADON, the champion yearling until Adhel took his crown, has been bred to over forty mares this year. He has the finest looking lot of youngsters in Fresno county.

STARTER McNAIR left California for his home at Wichita, Kansas, last Saturday. The advent of this talented official on the California tracks next year will be hailed with delight.

FRED P. OLCOTT, of Round Top Farm, is reported to have made arrangements with John Goldsmith whereby his fast mare Alar, 2:11, will be campaigned next year by the great reinsman.

EVERYONE regrets the action of the California Jockey Club in declaring the trotting meeting off, as the track, as we predicted in these columns, has proved to be in splendid condition all the week.

ALL of Winship & Keating's horses will be wintered at Los Angeles. It is said that the horses comprising their stable won more first and second moneys this season than any other in the United States.

THE entries of standard trotters and roadsters for the horse show have surprised the management, and the public will see the grandest aggregation of the highest types of the light harness horse at that show ever gathered.

ZOMBRO was never handled for speed until last April. He is the most wonderful campaigner of the year. McKinney was three years old and Whisper was two when they were bred to produce this grand-looking youngster.

OWNERS of draft horses should not hesitate about entering their best looking ones for the Horse Show, entries close to day. The management postponed the closing of entries one week in order to get a larger list of horses, and especially draft stock.

FRANK S. GORTON, Treasurer of the American Trotting Register Association, reports the racing situation in Illinois as still somewhat mixed, but is of the opinion that the next Legislature will pass a moderate measure permitting fifteen racing days on each track.

MARIN JR., the little gray gelding which Monroe Salisbury brought East will be returned to this Coast and given in charge of his old trainer and driver Pat Farrell, and next year we can look for a vast improvement in the little fellow, if he is not too badly injured now.

W. B. WOODARD, speaking of the Lexington trotting meeting, said: "In addition to it being the greatest trotting meeting of the year, the betting was simply immense. I never saw as much money bet on a running track as I saw put up on the trotters at Lexington."

ELLA T. did not begin the campaign very brilliantly, being unplaced in three of her first four races, but since she has never been behind the money and has won three of her last four. In all she has started in fourteen races, won $3,050, and lowered her record from 2:12 to 2:09—all in all a remarkable showing for a four-year-old filly racing against aged horses throughout.

ALCYONE, 2:27, which died when but ten years old, is now credited with fifty-five sons and daughters, with records from 2:08 to 2:30, and twenty-one of the lot have records of 2:20 or better. No other stallion ever lived that has made such a showing during the first ten years of his life.

ACCORDING to a Buffalo exchange C. J. Hamlin has abandoned the idea of a trip to either California or Europe with the Village Farm string this winter, and it is "dollars to doughnuts" that Geers will winter at Macon, Ga., where there is a fine mile track and spacious stables.

AT Marysville, O., September 25th, a bay gelding called Next got a record of 2:28½ pacing. If he is by our Mohawk Chief of Palo Alto, his name should be changed to First, as he is the drum major to lead the progeny of this handsome-formed stallion into the charmed circle.

THE man who loses his grip, becomes panic stricken and tries to give away his horse stock every time one of his campaigners fails to pay its way or every time he has a spell of the blues, is of no benefit to the breeding interests, and the sooner he quits for good the better it will be for all concerned.

ORRIN A. HICKOK arrived from the East last Monday; he is looking well and appears to be delighted with the improvement in his horses at the Oakland Track. Like all the rest of the trotting-horse drivers he was greatly disappointed about the declaring off of the trotting horse meeting at the Bay District track.

JAS. DUSTIN stopped over at Lexington for a few days en route to California, and the Kentucky papers took it for granted he would remain there all winter, but they were mistaken, for this well-known reinsman, accompanied by Andy McDowell, arrived here Thursday night. The latter has resigned his position with Monroe Salisbury.

THE pacing stallion, Election-Time, by Electrottype, dam by King Rene, did not take a record of 2:18½ at Adel, Ia., as was reported to several turf papers. His record is still 2:20, made at Des Moines, while his heat at Adel was in the same notch. He is owned by Elisha Nichols, Perry, Ia., who thinks him good material for the 2:20 pacing classes of 1896.

EASTERN breeders are delighted that Col. John H. Thayer, of Lancaster, Mass., has bought Baron Wilkes, undoubtedly one of the greatest speed producing sires of the time. He got him cheap at $25,000. Col. Thayer paid $30,000 for Ralph Wilkes when a two-year-old, and had the misfortune to lose him by death three years later. He has got a worthy successor in the Baron.

FOLLOWING is the breeding of Seymour Wilkes, 2:08: He was sired by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, out of Early Bird, by Playmail; second dam by Oddfellow (son of imp. Chloroform); third dam by Williamson's Belmont; fourth dam by Black Hawk 767. Playmail was full brother to Barney, 2:25½, being by Mike 2403, out of a mare said to be of Morgan stock. Seymour Wilkes is only five years old.

ST. JUSTIN, by St. Just, took a mark of 2:28 at Grayville, Ill., on October 4. St. Justin is a bay horse, foaled in 1879, by St. Just, dam Callie, by Caliban, second dam Belle, by Joe Downing, and was bred by E. O. Fretwell, of Paris, Ky. His two year-old daughter, Nellie Justin, one of his first crop of foals, and the only one that has been trained, has started in several races this year and has never been defeated.

AT Lyons, France, a court has recently affirmed the judgment sentencing the owner of a string of trotters to a $300 fine, and the drivers to a fine of $20, for having caused the horse Marabout to be pulled at a recent race in that territory. A bookmaker who was convicted as an accomplice, in the fraud was sent to prison for one year, while the owner of the American horse, Uncle Sam, was fined $60 for his participation in the affair.

NO MATTER how great a driver, how much influence he may have, how much money he may possess, how strong his stable of campaigners, if the man is given to crookedness he is a dangerous person, and the trotting turf is a great deal better off without him. To be pointed, such a man is more dangerous and can do more to injure legitimate horse racing on account of his qualities and influence than a score or more of smaller fry, be they as crooked as possible.

How prone some men are to talk of the present condition of the horse market? While it is an easy matter to state the present condition, how about the future? Can the average person realize the situation and gauge the market five years hence? The fact is that while the farmers in many sections have horses for sale, very few of them can bring out an animal that suits even the buyer of common, everyday horses, and they have reduced their breeding to such a figure that they will have none for sale five years hence.

ANDY McDOWELL, who is a daily visitor at the Bay District track now, has been in Salisbury's employ three seasons since he commenced to bring his California trotters and pacers across the mountains for the annual campaign in the East, and Andy has done well with the Salisbury horses. In 1893 he drove Cricket in 2:10, and the four-year-old filly, Margaret S., in 2:12½, winning a number of important races with these and others in the stable. Last year with Alix, Azote, Directly, Expressive, Miss Kate and Doc Sperry, he won more races and more fast records than any other reinsman on the turf, probably, and it is doubtless no fault of McDowell's that the stable has met with only moderate success in 1895.

W. W. P. covered himself with glory at Lincoln by lowering the two-mile pacing record to 4:22½, chipping off nine and a quarter seconds from the standing record held by Nightingale. W. W. P.'s last mile was turned in 2:07½, which is not bad. W. W. P., who also holds the world's champion pacing record to wagon, is a direct descendant of Vermont Black Hawk. His sire, Ben Lomond Jr., was by Ben Lomond, son of Trojan, by Ward's Flying Cloud, son of Vermont Black Hawk. Trojan's dam was by old Abdallah. Ben Lomond's dam was by Saltram, a son of Webber's Kentucky Whip, out of Seagull, by Duroc; second dam by Blacknose, a son of Medoc, by American Eclipse. W. W. P. was bred by Huntley & Clark, of Helena, Montana, and foaled in 1886. He was brought to Denver in 1888 and sold to W. W. Porter, in whose honor he was named and who owned him until three years ago, when the DuBois brothers purchased him to strengthen their racing stable.

A FEW more successful efforts at record-breaking will make Strathberry the champion pacing stallion of the world. He started at Lincoln, Neb., on the 31st ult., against the watch, and lowered his record to 2:04½, making the first quarter in 0:29½, and the first half in 0:59½. He is a six-year-old son of Roseberry, 2:15½, by Strathmore, and his dam is by Chevalier, a son of Kearsage. The latter was by Volunteer, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian, and his dam was the famous old Clara, which brought Dexter, 2:17½, Dictator, etc. Strathberry is quite closely inbred to Rysdyk's Hambletonian, as the dam of Chevalier was Fanny Hawkins, by Rysdyk's Hambletonian. His second dam, however, was by Bay Richmond, 3d, by Post Boy, thoroughbred, son of Duroc, and fourth by Cock of the Rock, another thoroughbred son of Duroc, that was brother in blood to the famous American Eclipse.

THE breeding interests of the country have sustained a severe loss in the death of that magnificent sire, Ambassador. He was twenty years of age at the time of his death, had a record of 2:21½, and was probably the handsomest son of his mighty sire, George Wilkes. His entire stud career has been at the celebrated Kalamazoo Stock Farm, Kalamazoo, Mich., and he has to his credit over forty in the 2:30 list. He was bought by Messrs. Browne & Co., after he had made his record for $15,000, and when the great trotting boom was on, they were offered and refused $40,000 for him. When on the death of Senator Stockbridge the stock was sold in New York city, Ambassador was bought for $4,000, and again returned to the Kalamazoo farm. It is rather singular that Senator Stockbridge, his partner, Mr. Browne, and the famous stallion should have all gone over to the great majority in a period of a little over a year.

THE study of bloodlines is an interesting one, and the proper mating to produce early and extreme speed is one of the most entrancing phases of it. Eros, for instance, was the only son of Electioneer, bred to mares by Elmo, 2:27, and in the two instances in which he was so bred it has proved a happy nick. Bred to the bay mare Accident, by Elmo out of Cy, by Chieftain, the produce was Wanda, 2:14½; Rinconado, 2:17; Solita, 2:27, and Rex, 2:22½. Eros was bred to Jennie, by Elmo, second dam by Chieftain, and the produce was Iris, a horse that could trot in 2:13, but met with an accident and was placed in the stud. He is noted, however, as the sire of the gamest little mare seen on the California Circuit this year, Visalia, (4), 2:12½, Jasper Ayers, 2:17, and Cecilia (2), 2:23½ pacing. The produce have the best of limbs, and are all game and reliable. Visalia started twelve times and was three times first and nine times got the second place. Jasper Ayers started eleven times; he was seven times first, twice second and got the third place three times, so it can be seen these two won money every time they started.

HENRY PIERCE, the millionaire manufacturer, capitalist and horse breeder of California, arrived in New York from San Francisco to attend the Parkville sale of trotting stock last week. His purchasers in connection with his then partner, Captain Millen Griffith, at the sale of the Hobart estate, in 1892, will be remembered as the occasion of some of the most sensational bidding that ever took place in the old American Institute Building. Mr. Pierce reports the horse business quiet on the Pacific Slope, but says that the more enterprising breeders are fortifying their studs and looking ahead for better times. One of the best horses out on the California circuits this year is the stallion, Boodle, 2:12½, by Stranger, which, he says, is so game a racehorse, besides having got two in the 2:15 list from his first crop of foals, as to convince Californians that Stranger blood is a great trotting element. As all horsemen know, Stranger is a son of the famous old trotting queen, Goldsmith Maid, 2:14.—Western Breeder.

WHAT part of the horse's foot comes first to the ground? Many different answers have been given to this apparently simple question. The majority of unskilled, unscientific observers believe the toe first touches the ground. Others hold that the foot is laid flat down, no one point first touching the ground, and a few have long held that the heel comes down first. Fortunately, says a veterinary authority—who has always maintained the latter opinion, and for many years has made the structure of the horse's foot and the art of shoeing a special study—it is not now necessary to argue this question on a theoretical basis. Instantaneous photography has shown that on level ground, at all paces, the horse touches the ground first with the heel. This fact, he says, gives significance to the structural differences we find between the front and hack portions of the foot. At the back of the foot we have the wall thinner than elsewhere; we have the movable elastic frog, the lateral cartilages and the frog pad. We have, in fact, the whole series of soft and elastic structures so arranged as to provide a mechanism best adapted to meet shocks and avoid concussion. Whilst drawing heavy loads, or ascending or descending hills, the horse may vary its action to suit circumstances, and then we have the exception which proves the rule—sometimes the heel and sometimes the toe is brought first to the ground.

C. N. DICKERSON, who broke and developed Frank Agan, 2:05½, relates an interesting story regarding the first lessons given the now sensational pacer: "I had hooked him probably five times," said the well-known trainer, "when I drove him on the track. Well, it's the truth, a less promising colt never before entered a draw gate than was Frank Agan at that time. He seemed to be dumb; would go sideways, and no matter how I urged him he would do nothing but shackle off at a six minute gait. About this time Mr. Ross came in from the farm, and as he watched Agan and myself trying to go a little faster than a walk, he inquired: 'What's that thing? You'd better turn him out and let him grow until he'll be able to do heavy hauling.' Agan was then a two-year-old, long-legged, and as ragged as a camel, and, as I said before, showed no signs of speed in his make up. Well, I kept at him, and began to think the only thing he was intended for was the plow or some other menial service, when it struck me as a good idea to use the whalebone to sort o' wake him up. He did wake up, as if from a dream, and lit out down the track at as clean a pace as one ever looked at. He passed round the lower turn at a three-minute clip, and on being urged let out link after link. Then it dawned upon me for the first time that Frank Agan was a pacer. The next day he was given another lesson, and in the afternoon was taken to the shop for his first pair of shoes. In the evening, on returning to the track, I thought it a good idea to see how he took to his new footgear, and accordingly gave him a brush. He paced a quarter at a 2:24 gait, and from that time on was the leading prospect of the now great Mikeagan family."

The Saddle.

THE Latonia meeting closed on Saturday.

IMP. TRENTOLA is improving with every race.

CABRILLO was trained by Wilber Field Smith.

THE track was about two seconds slow Saturday.

THE Kansas City races will be continued indefinitely.

MARIGOLD, the great four-miler, has lost her Morello foal.

GALEN BROWN returned Sunday from a flying trip to Chicago.

MOSE GUNST was $3200 winner over Centurion's victory Saturday.

P. MCENERNY, Pat Meany's steeplechase jockey, has been re-instated.

JOCKEY GARNER arrived here with the Honig string Wednesday.

MORGAN G. was named for the little son of Police Commissioner Gunst.

JOE HOOKER, El Rio Rey and St. Saviour were the prominent winning sires yesterday.

THE JUDGE did not show very well Saturday. He carried 117 pounds, five pounds overweight.

By the scissors man—"By golly, this office must get some muckilage; I've got a story to write."

ADOLPH SPRECKELS has lost a very promising yearling by Flambeau, dam imp. Repose, by Apremont.

MORGAN G. won himself out for his owner, J. Johnson, Monday. Johnson rode him in his winning race.

VALIENTE 10 to 1, Centurion 25 to 1, were the despised long shots that took a fall out of the talent Saturday.

LITTLE FLUSH FILLY ran a very much improved race Monday, and Jack Atkins make an excellent showing.

STARTER FERGUSON has remitted the fine of $100 imposed on Steeplechase Jockey Stanford about three weeks ago.

SENATOR BLAND, by imp. Iverness out of that good broodmare Wood Violet ran a good race at his maiden start here.

FRED GARDNER was purchased by F. Taylor for $600, instead of By Holly for $1,500, as incorrectly stated the other day.

"SQUEAK" ALLMARK, the clever steeplechase jockey, arrived Nov. 8th, and Matt Monahan is also back from the East.

THE official time hung out for the mile and a furlong race on Thursday was 2:04. A number of watches made it 2:00.

TWO CHEERS won his first race since his return from the South right off the reel, and outclassed his field by long odds.

MORVEN is a very consistent and reliable horse, and, from his performance on Saturday, a little added weight does not affect him.

JOE DUGGAN, who together with his horse Foam, was ruled off during the Summer meeting at Detroit, has been reinstated.

J. TALBOT CLIFTON has secured Davis, who trained Wildwood so successfully, to handle the string of runners that he is getting together.

SI MCCLAIN, the Santa Anita jockey, was at the Bay District Monday. He can ride at 95 pounds and will be seen in the saddle soon.

THE Fall meeting of the Kentucky Association began at Lexington Monday and lasts two weeks. Indications point to a successful meeting.

W. L. STANFIELD arrived Nov. 8th. with George Miller, the horse that recently broke the mile record at Kansas City over a half-mile track.

WALTER J. almost wore himself out at the post in the first race Monday, yet he had a good run in him and looked dangerous at the wire.

"LITTLE PETE" had some of his cousins out in the betting ring Saturday. If he will elucidate his system we may be beset with almond-eyed plungers.

VALIENTE was not to be longer denied and has forsaken the maiden ranks. He has run a worse race with poorer horses, but was ridden just right Saturday.

MARTY and Mike Bergen arrived here Monday. The former, who brought his family along with him, will do the bulk of the riding for the Corrigan Stable.

THERE is no reason for doubting Oregon Eclipse's ability to go the route. Short bred though he is, he seems to have a very liberal quantity of stamina and grit.

THE Australians all seem to be excellent horses in soft or heavy going. They have made a very creditable showing in all their startssince the track has been slow.

LITTLE STUFFLET, who put up such a good race on Canvassback the other day, rode several winners at New Orleans last season. He can ride at seventy-five pounds.

J. McCORMICK says that two car-loads of horses will shortly leave New York for California. He also says that it will take a regular crackerjack to beat Wernberg in the mud.

LITTLE FLUSH COLT is now surnamed gelding. He has been emasculated since his last appearance, but the operation does not seem to have made him any more docile at the post.

ABE STEIN, who while booking some weeks ago made charges to the stewards that Jockey Chevalier was riding in the interests of certain bookmakers, was unable to substantiate the same with the proofs and the stewards demanded reparation in the way of an apology. Mr. Stein tendered his apologies on Saturday.

THE stable of Louis Ezell is the latest to arrive at the Ingleside track. Kamsen and Dunganven are the stars of the string. Among the others are Sir George and Argenta.

DR. I. E. COHN, formerly superintendent of the Medical Department of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, has been the track physician since the commencement of the present meeting.

CHARLES L. FAIR has been purchasing yearlings at the recent sales, and from the awakened interest he takes in racing matters, he may be seen on the turf with a string of good ones again soon.

THE Westchester stable's very capable trainer, J. B. Ferguson, has disposed of his horse, Fred Gardner, for $1,500. Frank Taylor will handle him, although E. C. Holly is said to be the actual purchaser.

JOCKEY M. FELL, the boy that rides W. D. Randall's horses, is a very consistent and careful rider. He has made a very fair record here in his few mounts, and may develop into a real artist in the pigskin.

SECRETARY SAM LEAKE, of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, last night announced that the dollar admission to the Ingleside track would include transportation to and from the new track on the steam cars.

DIABLO, the winner of the Brooklyn Handicap in 1893, was bought by Louis Stuart at the recent sale of A. F. Walcott's stable for $1,900. Cromwell brought the highest price and was bought by Jack Joyner for $2,750.

CABRILLO's five furlongs in 1:01½ over the track as at present was a very excellent performance. Johnny Coleman had the temerity to offer 30 to 1 against him, but probably did not take much money in at those odds.

PRESIDENT WILLIAMS notified the owners and drivers of the two carloads of trotters and pacers that came north from Los Angeles that the California Jockey Club would defray the expense of their transportation back home.

J. B. EVERS, owner of Charley Wilson, who, together with Jockey C. Johnson and the horse, were ruled off at St. Louis recently, was well known on the Coast. Evers was interested with Phil Archibald in the booking business a few years ago.

It is stated, though not authoritatively, that Adolph Spreckels has engaged Bob Isom to ride for him this winter. The boy recently secured a release from Col. Jack Chinn, and as he was open for engagement the rumor may have a very good foundation.

ATTENTION is called to the advertisement in another column of W. D. Randall, who offers the horses in training here from Marcus Daly's stock farm for sale. The stable contains some very reliable bread-winners. Particulars may be had of Mr. Randall, at the track.

BOOKMAKER H. G. WENDT received a letter from Barney Schreiber on Saturday stating that the genial writer would arrive here not later than the 14th. He will bring along a carload of horses, principally his own. Jerry Chorn and C. Slaughter will ride for Schreiber.

SENATOR GRADY, one two-year-old and four yearlings, arrived at Monmouth Park from Montana Sunday evening. Senator Grady, now a gelding, has been running out since early Spring, and Marcus Daly is in hopes that next season he will show something like his two-year-old form.

It is now likely that Henry of Navarre will stay in America. He would have been shipped last week had Mr. Belmont been able to secure the services of Byron McClelland to act as trainer on the other side, but last Saturday McClelland stated that he would be unable to act for Mr. Belmont abroad.

LONDON, November 9th.—The Hurst Park Club's November meeting took place at Mylesia-Hurst to-day. The Hurst Park November plate of £250 for three-year-olds and upward was won by Captain J. Eakin's bay gelding, Banquet II, formerly the proprietor of M. F. Dwyer. The course was two miles.

WILLIAM McDANIEL, the trainer who will handle one division of the Corrigan string, visited the Bay District track Friday and met many old friends. This is Mr. McDaniel's first visit to California. He has been a most successful trainer, and Boundless, the colt that captured the World's Fair Derby, was one of his handling.

THE yearling sales held here this week were most successful, and very gratifying to the owners, and especially so to Messrs. Killip & Co., who are never tiring in their efforts to build up the home market. Mr. John Mackey, of Rancho del Paso, was so well satisfied with the outlook that forty yearlings from the big ranch will be offered for sale here sometime in December, instead of in New York, as had been intended.

MOBALASKA, the crack two-year-old of the Corrigan string, was taken dangerously ill Sunday morning at eleven o'clock. Dr. Masero was summoned, but her recovery is doubtful, although she was very frisky a few hours before being taken down with inflammation of the bowels. Mobalaska is a California bred filly, being by Chas. Kerr's Apache, out of Trixey, and established a new Western record for two-year-olds at Detroit. She also captured several good stakes.

In an interview at Memphis Nov. 8th Vice President Montgomery of the new Memphis Jockey Club said: "A report has been widely circulated that the proposed Winter meeting at Billings Park in this city is to be held under the auspices of the New Memphis Jockey Club. I wish to emphatically deny any such report. The meeting will not be held under our auspices, and I want the horsemen all over the country to know it. Winter racing in Memphis is prohibited under the Turf Congress rules."

JOHNNY WOODS, who rode Lady Gray in her excellent race on Wednesday, is a very promising lad, and no doubt will make a first-class rider. He has a good, clear head and rides fearlessly. He is thirteen years old and can ride at 66 pounds. He is under contract to Matt Storn for a term of a year and a half, and Mr. Storn thinks a great deal of the boy and has high hopes of his success. Young Woods rides Del Norte, Modesto, and the worst slunkers in the stable in their work, and handles them in a manner that none others can.

A CINCINNATI dispatch of Nov. 8th says: A freight train on the Kentucky Central division of the Louisville and Nashville Railway was wrecked at 3 A. M. to day by an open switch at Morning View, seventeen miles from Cincinnati. William Headson, who was in a box car with Eugene Leigh's valuable yearlings, was killed. The race horses were not seriously hurt.

TRACK gossip is rife that Mr. James R. Keene possesses this fall the most promising yearling yet shown either in the great number he owns or in any that have been shown. The youngster is a half brother to the once famous Tea Tray and is said to have not only outworked anything of the young division in the choicely bred lot bought by Mr. Keene, but to be better in his present showing than any that has been seen this fall. He has been tried at Sheepshead Bay, but the exact time of his trial has not been learned and is probably not known except to Lakeland and Mr. Keene.

JAMES GALWAY's Belmar won the Belmont Stakes this year. It was the twenty-ninth running of the event. It was first run at Jerome Park in 1867, and was won by Francis Morris' Ruthless. Since that time it has been won by General Duke, Fenian, Kingfisher, Harry Bassett, Joe Daniels, Springbok, Saxon, Calvin, Algerine, Cloverbrook, Duke of Magenta, Spendthrift, Grenada, Saunterer, Forester, George Kinney, Panique, Tyrant, Inspector B., Hanover, Sir Dixon, Eric, Burlington, Foxford, Patron, Comanche, and Henry of Navarre. An illustrious list, surely, and one to which the name of Belmar will prove a worthy addition. The improvement shown by this colt recently surprised even his owner.

W. C. VREELAND, one of the most noted turf writers in America and probably the best judge of form connected with a newspaper, arrived here Sunday. For the past three years Mr. Vreeland has been connected with the Daily New York Mercury, the leading turf paper in the big metropolis, and graduated from the New York Spirit of the Times. Mr. Vreeland states that the turfmen in the East are greatly interested in California racing, and that he will telegraph the paper he represents the complete form chart, such as is published in the local morning newspapers. This will involve quite an outlay for telegraphic tolls, but it shows that the eyes of the racing world will be focused on San Francisco for the next sixth months at all events. Judge Burke, Dave Higgins, J. Francis Meagher, George Rose and other old friends helped entertain Mr. Vreeland yesterday, as this is his first visit West.—Chronicle.

AN English contemporary, referring to the famous Hungarian mare Kincem, says that she undoubtedly holds the record for an undefeated racehorse. She was a most extraordinary mare, who ran all sorts of races at all sorts of distances against all sorts of horses, and won fifty-three races without once meeting with defeat. She possessed that lazy almost lethargic—disposition and imperturbable temperament which is so common an attribute of good characteristic of a mare, however good she may be. She had the most even and equable temper imaginable, and was as tame as a pet dog and as quiet as a sheep. She possessed in a marked degree the faculty which was so noticeable in both those great champions, St. Simon and Ormonde, and which possibly in a great measure accounted for their invincibility, as well as it did for hers—to wit, the power to go out and win her race in three or four strides at whatever point of the contest she was called upon to make the effort.

BELOW is a list of yearlings recently purchased by J. J. McCafferty. It is his intention to train and race the first ten of this number and then offer them for sale. He has a very high opinion of the chestnut filly Winged Foot, by Buchanan, dam Longshore, a full sister to Applegate, and feels sure she will develop into a high-class and speedy race-mare. Ch f Winged Foot, sister to Applegate, by Buchanan—Longshore; ch f, sister to Religion, by Buchanan—Sunlight; g f, sister to Grey Goose, by Buchanan—Mocking Bird; b f, sister to Helen Nicholas and Pat, by Buchanan—Highlander Mare; ch c, by Buchanan—Gold Bird; b c, by Buchanan—Mollie McCann; b c, by Buchanan—Spider; ch c, brother to Buckrene, by Buchanan—Irene; b c, brother to Fifield, by Buchanan—Voline; ch c, by Boh Miles—Evelina; b g, brother to Reporter, by Enquirer—Bonnie Meade; br g, brother to Burch, by Enquirer—Brocade; b g by Clarendon—Lee Beils; b g by Sir Dixon—Mattie Amelia.

THE sympathy of all horsemen is tendered to Mr. Macdonough in his misfortune in losing the Ormonde-Getaway colt, which died of inflammation of the stomach at noon yesterday, despite all efforts of Dr. Masero to save the valuable animal. The loss to Mr. Macdonough is a very severe one. It will be remembered that, by a special arrangement, seven of the most fashionably bred broodmares at Palo Alto were to be mated with Ormonde. The condition was that all the filly foals resulting from the union should belong to Palo Alto, while all the colts should be the property of Mr. Macdonough. Fairy Rose and Getaway were the only two out of the seven to have foals. The Fairy Rose youngster proved to be a filly and thus went to Palo Alto. When Getaway had a colt foal on June 2, 1895, there was general rejoicing all round that the two farms had broken even on the deal. The Ormonde-Getaway youngster grew into a robust foal and great anticipations were conjured up when the time should arrive that he would be given his preparatory track work the same as Orestes, the only yearling by Ormonde in the world.

BARNEY SCHREIBER will hold out his two crack colts, Don Carillo and Schiller, for the three-year-old stakes of 1896. Neither are to be campaigned this winter in California. The stable will have twenty-five horses to race in San Francisco. Here is the list: Minnie, ch f, 2, by Red Iron—Miss Mitford; Red Pike, ch g, 2, by George Kinney—Entreaty; Laura F., b f, 2, b Tremont—Sallie Hagan; Ferris Hartman, b g, 2, by Woodlands—Honora; Pearson, h c, 2, by Great Tom—Drift; Sylvia, blk f, 2, by Wagner—Fabecia; Globe; Chartreuse, h m, a, by Emperor—Wauculla; Highland, h m, a, by Col. Hepburn—Edna; Braw Scott, g g, 5, by Midlothian—Helen Scratch; Jack Richelieu, b b, a, by Great Tom—Evoenom; Servitor, b b, a, by Woodlands—Lady's Maid; Service, h b, 6, by Woodlands—Lady's Maid; Zolein, b h, 6, by Zorilla—Fraulein; Yemen, ch g, 6, by Alarm—Hira; Doyle, b g, 3, by Macduff—Miss Laurence; Hiram Argo, ch h, 5, by Saxon—Gold Basis; Theresa, b f, 2, by Duke of Montrose—La Farondole; Felix Carr, ch c, 2, by Jils Johnson—Wigwam; Ida H., blk f, 2, by Ben Ali—by Hidalgo. Besides the above twenty-one are a couple of two-year-old maidens which have never started and two yearlings by Bishop.—Chicago Racing Form.

Our Horse Show Edition.

On the day of the opening of the Horse Show (December 3d), we will publish a special edition of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, replete with illustrations and descriptions of a large number of horses and vehicles to be exhibited there. The cover has been designed by one of the foremost artists in America. Preparations are being made to publish 20,000 copies, and as these will be read by the thousands who attend the exhibition, and as every subscriber will also receive a copy, no better advertising medium can be found in this city.

THE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN is to be found on every prominent farmer's and horseman's table on this Coast, and is considered the only authority on matters of the greatest interest to them. As it will also be read by the leading citizens of America, there should be no hesitancy on the part of business men in sending in their advertisements at once.

On Thanksgiving Day.

The president and directors of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, after consultation with the railroad officials in regard to transportation facilities to the new track at Ingleside, decided to postpone the opening of the new course until Thanksgiving Day, November 28th, and if the programme as arranged is carried out, this will be the greatest day for the thoroughbred interests in California, and the largest assemblage of people ever seen at a race track since the day of the big four-mile race at the Bay District track.

Every train from the East carries visitors who are interested in this meeting, many of them men of wealth who have made arrangements to winter here. One winter on this coast will convert many of these gentlemen to the ranks of Californians, and as they visit the mountains and valleys of the golden slope the determination to make their permanent homes with us will increase the further they investigate and the longer they remain.

The desire of the new Jockey Club to further the interests of the owners and trainers of running horses is to not leave a stone unturned in the path of progress. The owners, breeders and trainers appreciate this favor if we are to judge by the way they are skirmishing around for horses to fill the stalls there, paying good prices at the auction sales and sending orders East for famous sprinters. A new era is dawning for the great industry, and if no foreign books are allowed here and some restrictions made in regard to the pool-rooms which are arousing public condemnation and which will eventually accelerate the closing of the race tracks the same as they have in New York and Chicago, a bright future is in store for the patrons of the thoroughbreds on this Coast.

Where Are We Drifting?

In looking over the list of sires of new performers in California a curious fact will be noticed, and that is there are very few sons of our greatest sires standing for public service in California that are known as sires of speed. Out of forty-six sons of the grand old sire Electioneer, there are only two that figure as sires of 2:30 performers in 1895; viz., Junio, sire of Anita, 2:21, and Richard's Elector, sire of Lady Vestal, 2:21½. Of the sires that have had some of their progeny lower their records there are only three others: Antinous, Woolsey and Will Crocker; the last two being owned at Chino, California. On Palo Alto there are a few sons but they are kept for the exclusive patronage of the mares there. At Rancho del Paso there is the grand old horse Albert W., but he has outlived his usefulness and is barren.

This is a startling statement but these facts cannot be denied. We have not a son of Beautiful Bells, Columbine, Sontag Mohawk, or any of the other great mares here, and in five years from now the California horse breeders will be wondering why they allowed all the sons of this great sire and these great mares to leave this Coast. Of the grandsons of Electioneer the same arraignment of facts are shown, Iris, Dudley and Don Marvin being the only ones of prominence, so the blood of Electioneer will not be so prominent in our fast performers a few years from now as it has been, although there may be a few young horses left that have not yet appeared among the list of sires.

Of Guy Wilkes and his family, outside of the San Mateo Stock Farm, there are not of his sons except Arthur Wilkes standing for service in California that have produced any 2:30 performers and he is at Chico.

Director is better represented with Direct, Waldstein, Secretary, Guide and Live Oak Hero. Steinway and his son, Charles Derby, are at the Oakwood Park Stock Farm, and their progeny are doing well. The only son of the champion two-year-old trotter of his day (Steinway) is at Fresno, and that one is Strathway, and he has one representative this year.

Nutwood left but few sons that have had new performers to their credit in California in 1895, Hawthorne, Cornelius and Robert E. Lee, the last two being kept at the Rancho del Paso Stock Farm.

Sidney, like Nutwood and Director, has been purchased East, but he left no sons here that are known as sires of trotters of new 2:30 performers; Sidmoor, we believe, being sold in the East.

Echo, like Electioneer, has gone to his long rest, but he left Bob Mason and Deputy as sons to keep his memory green in California. Piedmont's only son that is a sire, Ira, was represented this year on the turf in California by Richard Sweasey's grand-looking two-year-old colt, Eureka, but he did not get a record, having to compete against Palita, 2:16 in the races he started in.

Dexter Prince may be considered a private stallion, occupying a commodious stall at Palo Alto.

Altamont, the wonderful Oregon sire, will soon take his place near a turnpike road in Kentucky.

Hambletonian Wilkes can be considered a Californian now as he is owned here, but not one of his progeny have appeared in the tracks here yet. Billy Thornhill is a neighbor of his in the Santa Clara Valley and is rapidly making himself known as a sire.

McKinney, 2:11½, Boodle, 2:12½, Gossiper, 2:14½, Grandissimo, 2:23½, Almont Patchen, 2:15, Atto Rex, 2:21½, Western, Algona, Black Pilot, Ham, Altago, Altoona, Hambletonian Mambrino and Dexter Bradford are only a few of the sires that appear in the new table for 1895, and the balance of the great ones which every one believed would have representatives have had nothing done with their progeny.

There are some sires represented in the new list, however, that are dead and a few of their get may make names for themselves as winners of records. There are others that have been sold to Eastern buyers and will never more nibble the succulent alfalfa tops and rest in our open fields where the snow has never fallen and the fields are green nine months of the year.

In the eagerness of many to get out of the trotting-horse business during the past two years on this coast, a home market for supplying the Eastern buyers for our grand-looking horses has been destroyed, and a serious condition of affairs confronts us. The owners of many of our large stock farms do not develop their colts and fillies, and there are many other breeders who can not afford to. The hundreds of thousands of dollars made by those pioneers in the business of breeding and developing trotters, L. J. Rose, Leland Stanford and Wm. Corbitt have been looked upon as easily made. Nevertheless, there are few to-day who are willing to develop their colts and fillies as these gentlemen were. There are colts and fillies here which are just as good, and a great number better than those bred ten years ago that are not receiving the education they need, hence their sires will never receive the place in the annals of the trotting world that they by their inheritance deserve.

There will be a grand revival here in a little while; it will come very soon. The horse business on this Coast has been gradually drifting into its present condition, and now that the breeders of the East are awakening to the fact that America is NOT the ONLY market for fine, stylish and speedy trotters, the breeders of this State will be "rustling" to prepare their trotters to meet the new and increasing demand.

The stock farm that does not have its best-formed colts developed will go to the wall, and the breeder who persists in mating his mares with a horse that is owned by a man or a firm that never developed the horse or his progeny, is making a great mistake. The progressive breeder is the first to become aware of this fact, and he reserves his mare for a stallion that is developed, or that traces to a horse that is owned by a man who is having the produce developed.

Speaking of this fact reminds us of a story told of Monroe Salisbury. He was importuned to breed a mare to a stallion, but when he looked over the pedigree he said: "I cannot conscientiously do it. The very worse thing about that horse's pedigree is his owner," and in nine cases out of ten this strange affirmation is a correct one.

We want live, progressive men who are not afraid of the bottom dropping out of the business and are willing to develop their horses and attract the attention of every one to what they are doing, men who know the value of printer's ink as well as associations' purses, and in this grand and glorious climate, this equine paradise, if we may use the term, there are thousands of opportunities at present for such energetic men to engage in the business of breeding and developing horses to meet an ever-increasing demand. The world is becoming educated about our California horses, and the one who removes the chapparel and poison oak that have overgrown and obscured the path made by the pioneers in this business on this Coast will succeed as surely as the sun shines and water flows.

The Coming Horse Show.

The Horse Show Association, in postponing the closing of entries until to-day, did a wise thing, for many who had not given the subject of entering for it sufficient consideration, at once took advantage of the postponement, and have sent in enough entries to satisfy the directors.

The great show just held in New York was one of the best ever held there. When the sale of boxes took place prior to its opening over 400 bidders attended it, and Edwin Thaw, of Pittsburg, Pa., paid $500 for the first choice. A New Yorker paid the same amount for second choice, and the aggregate of the sale was $43,000 for a smaller number of boxes than were offered last year and representing an increase of $7,000. The arena boxes, regular price $150, which hold six, brought from $350 to $550; the second row arena boxes, holding nine, and worth $200 at regular rates, brought from $375 to $450, and the tier boxes, regular price $75, which have seats for four, were knocked down at from $80 to $175 each.

When the doors of the Madison Square were opened the President and directors were amazed and delighted at the immense crowds of people that waited to be admitted. The richest people as well as those in moderate circumstances who love a good horse for the goodness they know is in him, jostled each other on the promenade around the oval and watched the parade of stock, beautifully appointed equipages, the cavalry drill, the judging of the various classes and breeds of horses. In the boxes the magnates of the land, with their wives and families, exchanged greetings and enjoyed the animated spectacle of the homage the masses paid to man's best friend—The Horse.

A large number of Californians could be seen moving to and fro gathering knowledge and enlisting the aid of exhibitors for the Horse Show to be held in this city next month, and when the President, H. S. Crocker, arrives here with his carloads of fine horses and vehicles from there, we shall see a "boom" started among these composing the management which will eclipse all their preceding efforts.

MONROE SALISBURY arrived from the East yesterday.

They Close To-Day.

The closing of Horse Show entries has been postponed until to-day (Saturday). Entries are lacking for the following classes: Thoroughbred stallion three years old or over; best yearling thoroughbred mare four years old or over with foal at foot and best foal in this class; three-year-old or under four trotting stallion kept for service. In the driving class (15), filly or gelding two years old and under three, to be shown in harness. Hackney (20) stallion four years old or over to be shown with four of his get to be of any age. Coaching stallions (30, 31), saddle horses (54), mare or gelding 15.2 hands or four years old or over, up to carrying 160 pounds. Ladies' saddle horse not under 14.3 hands and not exceeding 15.3, four years old or over. All the jumping classes. Draught horses, not enough entries. This is a class which should be well represented. This is the last notice, and we earnestly hope breeders will at once send in their entries and help make this grand exhibition a great success. It will redound to their credit and do more to retain the public interest in horses than anything else devised.

THERE is considerable talk of a convention of trotting horse owners, breeders and drivers being held in this city next month, to take action regarding the meetings of 1896. There is much to be done, and a more specific plan in regard to race meetings adopted. A number of prominent horsemen are formulating plans for this convention, which, if adopted, will contribute largely to the success of the light-harness industry on this Coast hereafter. Further particulars of this much needed meeting will be soon published.

ATTENTION is called to the advertisement of the auction sales to be held in this city next month by Messrs. Killip & Co., the well-known auctioneers.

Death of Nenox, 2:27 3-4.

There are many horsemen who will hear with sorrow that Ex-Governor Bunn's famous horse Nenox was killed yesterday, and those of them who can participate—and this is meant seriously—in the feelings of their own animals can sympathize with his grief. Practical details first: Nenox was a son of the stallion Nephew, his dam being Miss Knox. He was raised on the famous California stock farm of Senator Leland Stanford and has been in the procession of Mr. Bunn four years, who purchased him for $1,000 when he was about three years old at one of the Palo Alto sales in New York. Many of you have seen him flying through Fairmont Park, where to other drivers he was known as the "The Black Wonder." He had a record of 2:27½, trial 2:15½. It was not only his equine superiority that endeared him to his owner's heart, but his almost human intelligence caused him to be loved almost as one who possessed super-humane attributes. There was rarely that a morning passed that his owner did not pay him what was really a social visit bringing him an apple or a lump of sugar and fondling him fraternally. A deep affection grew up between them; trim and without exaggeration, a deep affection. He was being trained for the Mount Holly Fair and careless feeding brought him into a state which in human beings is called nervous prostration. Yesterday with kindly hand and through blinding tears Governor Bunn aimed a bullet through the heart of Nenox and brought his body for burial to the magnificent grounds which surround his newly purchased country estate at Burlington, New Jersey. There last night his obsequies were conducted round the most hospitable of boards. Only a horse; but yet a kindly-hearted man had lost a fond companion.—Megargee in Philadelphia Times.

It is stated that Emma D., the fast rean daughter of Jack Brady, is ruled off the turf on account of the crookedness of Andy Davis, who was training her, because he ran Alto Mio with a leaden shoe. The date of this ruling off was the spring of 1894 at the Bay District track. Since then this mare has run at Sacramento State Fair 1894, Red Bluff, Woodland, Ione, Stockton, San Andreas; and this year she ran at Los Angeles, Portland, Oregon, Anaconda and Helena, Montana. She was then sold by John C. Davis to J. P. Woolman, of Helena, who brought her here, and much to his surprise found that she would not be allowed to start. It is very strange that no one ever heard of her being ruled off, as it has never been published. If so, this innocent buyer should not have been made to suffer. We believe in all justice the Board of Stewards should give this subject a thorough and speedy investigation, and if possible draft a set of rules so that all races conducted in California hereafter shall be under its rules; this will prevent a recurrence of this affair. Mr. Woolman's case should be heard and the penalty be lifted from the mare which he purchased. This man, Andy Davis, has nothing to do with the mare whatever, and never owned any share in her, and is in no way connected with her new owner now. Mr. Woolman bought the mare unconditionally and paid a big piece for her, and naturally feels disappointed over the outcome of his purchase. Emma D. was one of the best mares seen at the track and should, under the circumstances, be allowed to run again.

J. K. LAMSON, Liberty, Me., writes: "I received your Absorbine and it is doing a great thing for my colt, better than I could have expected."

Chos. King, Little Falls, N. Y., says: "I find Absorbine will do just what you say."

J. W. FILDEN has opened a training stable at Red Oak, Iowa, where he will winter. He has Ella T., 2:08½.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

SUNSHINE-SHADOW.—The collapse of the intended C. J. C. Trotting Meeting was so little anticipated by me, that when the edict was pronounced that it should not be held, I was grievously affected. It had been a "pet project" with me, ever since it was announced, that a trotting meeting under the auspices and management of one of the leading jockey clubs of the country should be given. When the programme was published there were additional reasons for gratification, and when the entries came in there were still better grounds for good feeling. All through the course of the months which intervened between the closing of entries and a few days of the time set for opening there was small cause for apprehension. A flood of sunshine without the shadow of a passing cloud. The programme was a novelty, nearly all sorts of races, the best horses of the country engaged. It is needless to state that I was exceedingly interested in the long-distance races, at least to those who have read my articles in relation to that part of the bill. In my opinion these kind of contests bid fair to be more beneficial to harness racing interests than any other novelty which has been proposed of late years. The main ground for that belief was that through their influence attendance would be augmented beyond the most sanguine expectations. That would enhance the value of all classes of harness horses, as it is beyond successful contradiction that whatever adds to the receipt of an association increases the amounts which will be offered in premiums.

There was another thing to be proven, that being that these long-distance races were not so disastrous to the horses taking part in them as quite a number of later day horsemen imagine. The result of those which were on the bill I feel positive would have sustained this position, and with that impression removed there would be plenty of horses engaged in them hereafter. Three of the horses named in the heats of four miles, and the same number in heats of three miles were in training on the Oakland track. I watched them very closely in their work and that had progressed so far that practically that work was finished, and not one of them which had gone amiss. And that, too, with fast moves for three miles and the necessary repeats, fast enough to be a token that records would surely be broken.

As nearly as could be learned there would be good fields of starters in each of the long races, in heats of four miles a good chance for seven to take part. In that race the champion five-miler, and to meet him horses with records from 2:10½ to time not a great deal slower. Never such a field in a race of that kind before, so much better, in fact, that it is safe to say that the record would have been lowered a good half minute, and just as safe to aver that a "card" like that he so powerful a magnet as to draw thousands to witness the contest.

It must not be accepted that in claiming so much for the long-distance races that the other part of the programme was weak at any point; Aside from them it was one of the best ever presented in the East or West. The whole so superlatively good, that had it been presented, it would have proved so satisfactory as to insure successful harness-racing meetings here in the future. Good cause for burning regrets that all the sunshine had been of no avail, and with the collapse of this meeting there came gloomy forebodings in regard to trotting sports, and all the interests connected therewith on this Coast.

Not quite so dismal the outlook now. Mr. Williams informed me on Saturday last, and authorized the publication, that the California Jockey Club would give a trotting meeting, on the same liberal scale as that which lapsed, next May or June. That, of course, will be properly appreciated by those who have been so seriously disappointed at the failure of the one they had done so much to sustain, and the argument that at that season of the year "our horses" which make an Eastern campaign cannot participate is far from being as fatal as taking the risks of rain.

With a meeting of the same magnitude as that presented by the C. J. C. in the spring or early summer there will not be the same necessity for making the Eastern trip, and as has proved, by the results of this season, there is little to gain by making arrangements looking for their return. Few which made the Eastern trip get back in condition to have taken a part had the meeting come off.

So far as I know Miss Rita, the only one which was in shape, and though this year has been more than usually disastrous to California horses that have crossed the mountains, the chances are very many against the trip being made without injury.

Then again the horses which stay at home and do what they can to promote home sports have higher claims than those which go away.

No APOLOGIES.—The thought has never been harbored, or a moment's inclination to offer apologies for having so much to present in regard to the question of laying-up heats. Confident that the future welfare of harness racing is dependent on the abrogation of the "pernicious practice" the battle is continued, with a firm determination to struggle and contend, so long as I have the ability to write a line or speak a word in advocacy of fair play. An uphill fight I am ready to acknowledge. From some occult cause the turf papers of the country, at least such a preponderance of them as to be practically all, if they do not denounce, apologize or remain silent, while a few contributors extol, and once in a while an editor who gives quasi support to those who violate the principles which should govern men of honor.

A change is coming, however, and I am much gratified that the editor of the Western Horseman has placed himself on record as being so desirous of correcting the evil as to propose a scheme which would necessitate more rapidity of movement than being the last in the procession, or so well back that the sum of the figures would count in determining "money winners."

The editorial in the Western Horseman under the heading of "Proposed Reforms," is well worthy of attention, although there is the trouble of overcoming the difficulty of giving races to horses which are not first at the winning score. Still there may be a way out of that trouble though in my opinion the adoption of a rule similar to that of the Pacific Coast Blood Horse Association, which makes it imperative to race for every heat is the true solution. Still after the drawbacks of "point scoring and averages" are taken with consideration, and also the restriction of heats in any one race to four, it is a fair inference that it will be an improvement on the present methods.

Dr. McMahan argues: "There is altogether too much fire and fall back" business in our harness races of late to please the public, and what is much needed is some rule that will make it to a driver's financial interest to get the best possible position in each heat of a race, and a system of point scoring seems to be about the only thing that will bring about this very desirable condition. * * *

We maintain that a race of four heats, in which every horse does his best to win, is long enough for any contest, and a rule should be formed providing for the completion of every harness race not later than the fourth heat. * *

Its adoption would greatly lessen the evil of laying-up heats, would insure uniform and interesting racing, and would do away with the long-drawn-out, uninteresting and horse killing six to twelve heat races that are now so frequent and so disgusting to people of finer and cultured feelings."

Logic is entirely banished from the arguments of those who support the fraudulent practice. Commendations of drivers who follow these unfair tactics are of the same stamp as encomiums bestowed on the card-sharp, who can play "advantages" with the greatest skill.

For instance: "Billy Andrews' driving of Bouncer in the Transylvania is conceded to have been a masterpiece of the reinsman's art," is a paragraph in a paper of late date. Wonderful masterpiece! hugely impressive to pull back to 9th and 12th, in place of going on and winning as he could have done, probably in three heats, positively in four heats. Where would the masterpiece have come in had Alto been unable to force the winner of the first and second heats to the half in fast time?

In every race she took part in, Bouncer demonstrated that she was thoroughly game and had a full share of endurance. In this case, admitting that she merely dropped inside the distance, she would trot the first heat in about 2:19, the second in about 2:18, then came 2:10½, 2:10½, 2:10½. What sort of an argument would it be to claim that the race was only won by laying up two heats? Bosh!

And yet the driver of Bouncer can aver that he has the honor of winning the first Transylvania stake in which heats were laid up, and that may be a masterpiece of reinsmanship, while all of his predecessors, who captured that big purse, were "sucker" drivers.

There is one feature of this question which is too prominent to be misunderstood. As the rules now stand, one set of judges will hold that heats can be laid up, another board—and I agree with that opinion—that the practice is forbidden. The same judges, perhaps, will permit one driver to lay-up heats, another is dismounted. Let the rule be amended so that there can be no misunderstanding. Heats can be laid up at the discretion of drivers, unless in a deciding heat, would be to the point, and, to be consistent, writers who applaud drivers for that practice should be strenuous in their advocacy of such a rule. But in order that there can be no mistaken ideas in regard to the public being misled, let there be a premonitory mandate, from the governing bodies, that placards, of such size that the rule can be printed in large type, and these put up in conspicuous situations, at least to the number of fifty copies, on every track where harness racing takes place. There can be no valid objections, on the part of those who uphold the practice, to such a law, though the mandatory clause may not be so well relished.

Only a few months will elapse between now and the assembling of the conventions, and hence it will not be premature to commence the agitation at once. Should it prove that those, who have been so ready to praise drivers for a violation of the ethics of sport, remain silent when there is such a glorious opportunity to vindicate their sincerity, they will have to acknowledge that the "courage of conviction" is not a part of their mental fabric. * * *

ONE BATTLE LOST, even a series of defeats does not absolutely foretell the cause must be abandoned. That harness racing has received heavy blows in California the past season cannot be denied and yet one can believe, and that on good grounds, that it is only a temporary setback. The meetings which have been held have been very satisfactory in the main and is one of the most vital points, eminently so. "Straight" contests has been the award with few exceptions, and though it is beyond reasonable expectations that averse criticisms will be entirely done away with, there are strong hopes that hereafter there will be small cause for complaint on the score of jobbing.

The reports of the Breeders meeting at Los Angeles are so favorable that it may be said, that so far as good management on the part of officers and drivers is concerned it was a model meeting.

Mr. McNair, the starter, informed me that not a single heat was laid up, every driver doing his best to win, and that, too, without tendency to unfair practices. Then nearly every race was a spirited battle, few of them when winners could be determined until the last heat was decided. That meeting in the whole was an "object lesson" which cannot fail to be an educator of those who saw the problem "worked out" and also to those who read the accounts and heard the encomiums bestowed. Had that meeting been the only one held in that lively town, there is no question that the attendance would have been very large, but coming the next week after the annual fair, it was only towards the closing that the people became aware that it was not merely a reproduction of the scenes of a few days before.

More battles will be won than lost in the future when the same reports come from other meetings, and if the harness-racing folk keep up their courage, fight to the end with vim and stubbornness all the lost ground will be regained and new fields added. JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

THE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will pay special attention to the prices offered in the betting at the track, giving the opening and closing odds. The best prices obtainable will be the only ones quoted, and our readers may rely upon them as being absolutely correct.

THE RACES.

Successful Meet of the Kern County Country Club.

Contrary to the general expectations, the race track this afternoon was in fair condition, although a little heavy. The attendance was not as good as might have been desired, the rain of yesterday cresting the impression that there would be very little good sport. On the contrary, the racing was better than was hoped for, considering the day.

To-morrow's programme promises to be an excellent one, and the attendance is sure to increase to-morrow and Thursday, it having been decided to give an additional day's sport. Taylor's military band was engaged for the occasion and added very materially to the enjoyment of the afternoon.

The first race on the programme—a trotting race with seven entries, was indefinitely postponed on account of several of the contestants objecting to the condition of the track.

The first race was a six furlong running race for sweepstakes of $5 each, with $50 added. Pools on this race sold: Geronimo, $5; Red Jacket, $3; Bessie $2. Bessie took the lead at the start, but the race was won by a length by Red Jacket, Geronimo second, Bessie third. Time not taken.

The second event was a mile running race, with six entries, and was won by P. Weber's Hello in 1:50 2-5, Nestor second, Pavilion third. Pools sold: Pavilion $5, Nestor $4.

In the quarter-mile dash there were five entries: Sweet Perfume sold for $5, Nancy Hanks $4, the field $4.50. The race resulted in a dead heat between J. Balfour's Miss Wid, and R. A. Ferguson's John Day Zin, Nancy Hanks second. Time, 0:27. T. H. Dudley's Geraldine was slow in starting and was left at the pole.

The five-eighth mile race had six starters: Jim Bozeman sold for $10, Martinez $5, Pickpocket $4.50, the field $3.50.

Pickpocket took the lead at the start, but was not able to hold it. He was passed by Mrs. E. Starkey's Jim Bozeman, who won in 1:06 2-5. Dreadnought refused to start and his owner allowed the race to go without him.

The last race was the one between R. A. Ferguson's John Day Zin and James Balfour's Miss Wid, which had resulted in a dead heat. It was won by Miss Wid in 0:27 1-5.

Among these present were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Taylor, Mrs. A. T. Lightner, Mrs. Kingsbury, Miss Morrell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Alexander, Mrs. L. V. Olcese, Miss Conway, Miss Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Gwynn, Mrs. James Balfour, Mr. and Mrs. Dr. John Snook, the Misses Mason, Mrs. W. L. Dixon, General and Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Walter Snook, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. A. Harrell, Assessor Scott, W. H. Scribner, Mrs. G. W. Price, Mrs. R. Davidson, E. M. Roberts, Mrs. A. Morgan, B. A. Hayden.

NOTES.

There was no gambling devices on the grounds.

There is considerable complaint of the horses not coming out promptly.

There are an astonishing number of dead heads hanging around on the fences.

Thursday's programme will be given by us to-morrow.

Just before the races, T. H. Dudley sold Geraldine to W. H. McKittrick at private figures.

WEDNESDAY'S RACES.

Contrary to the general expectation, this afternoon turned out to be clear and pleasant. The track, while not perfect by any means, was in much better condition than yesterday.

When the first race was started the attendance was rather slip, but the bright sunshine and a desire to see the hurdle race brought a steady stream of people, which gave the affair an attendance much ahead of that of yesterday.

To-morrow's programme is an exceptionally good one, and should the day be fair, which seems probable, there will be a splendid day's sport.

The first event was the first heat of the trotting race which was postponed from yesterday. There were five starters: Harry Geers, Doc Burwell, John MacGregor, Rowdy Wilkes and Jay Jay; Lucy and Humming Bird not starting. Doc Burwell led at the start and had it till the three quarter pole was reached, when he was passed by Rowdy Wilkes, who won in 3:00 2-5. Harry Geers second, John MacGregor third, Jay Jay distanced.

As soon as the race was finished the jockeys riding Rowdy Wilkes and Doc Burwell came to the stand, Doc Burwell claiming that Rowdy Wilkes' rider had crowded between him and the pole and thrown him to the ground, putting him out of the race. The judges looked into the matter and decided that a foul had been committed and rendered a decision as follows:

Harry Geers first, John MacGregor second, Rowdy Wilkes third, and Doc Burwell allowed to start again. The wheel marks showed that Rowdy Wilkes had no right to crowd Doc Burwell from the pole where he did. Pools sold with $5 offered for Rowdy Wilkes, with no takers.

The first race on to day's programme, a half-mile running race, was postponed until to-morrow.

The second event was the five furlong running race with four entries. Geronimo was considered a sure winner and was not sold in the pool boxes, where the betting with him left out was on "Miss Wid" against the field at $5 to $2.50.

T. H. Dudley's "Geraldine," ridden by her owner, made a false start and ran to the finish without her rider learning that she was alone. He, however, returned and started again. The race was won by Geronimo in 1:12 1-2, Miss Wid second, Fenella third.

The next event was a mile running race between Dr. John Snook's "Daisy" and T. H. Dudley's "Bessie." "Bessie" was ridden by her owner, and "Daisy" by G. Baggott. This race was the one given as number five on the programme. "Bessie" took the lead on the start but was passed by "Daisy" at the first quarter pole, who won in 2:00. "Daisy" was the favorite at 5 to 1.

The next event was the second heat in the trotting race. Rowdy Wilkes led at the start and held it, winning in 2:54, Harry Geers second, MacGregor and Doc Burwell distanced, the latter breaking badly.

The next was the two-mile hurdle race, with four entries, Hello, Mendocino and Lassie being scratched. This race had a double interest, it being the first hurdle race which has ever been run on this track. The hurdles were of the standard height—3 feet 6 inches, with a topping of brush placed four to a mile.

In taking the eighth and last hurdle Pavilion fell, but strange to say, without injury to his rider. The race was won by Nestor in 4:10, Onti Ora second, Pickpocket third. In weighing in it was discovered that Onti Ora had lost her weights, and she was disqualified.

The riding of M. G. Burmester on Onti Ora was particularly good, Onti Ora taking the flights in a much cleaner form than any of the others.

Betting on this race was very lively, B. F. Hobart's Onti Ora being the favorite and selling at $5, Nestor at $4 and the field at $3. Pickpocket took the lead and held it for the first mile, but was passed by Onti Ora and Nestor.

The next was the final heat in the trotting race, which was won by Rowdy Wilkes in 3:04, giving him the heat and the race, Harry Geer second money.

The last event was a quarter-mile running race with three entries, Midget being scratched. Ten Cents was the favorite selling for 19 to 4 against the field. It was won by Ten Cents in 0:25 1-2, Kittie second.

THURSDAY'S RACES.

To-day was the third and last day of the Kern County Country Club's meet. The management is to be congratulated upon the most satisfactory manner in which everything has been conducted. The races have been fairly and honestly run, and the event has been free from the presence of the vast horde of gamblers and gambling devices, which so frequently disgrace racing meets.

The first event was a trotting race, for a purse of $125, best 2 out of 3. There were four entries—Spittler's John McGregor, Abbott's Humming Bird, Reavis' Doc Burwell and Johnson's Jay Jay.

Abbott's Humming Bird broke at the start and ran most of the mile. The heat was won by Doc Burwell in 3:02, John McGregor second, Humming Bird third.

The next event was a six furlong race, 20 pounds above weight for age, seven entries—Jim Bozeman, Hello, Martinez, Onti Ora, Nameless, Monda, Cooper. There were but three starters—Jim Bozeman, Hello and Martinez. Jim Bozeman led at the start, but was passed by Hello, who won in 1:21, Jim Bozeman second.

The next event was a quarter mile pony race, gentlemen riders, with four entries: Miss Wid, ridden by Mr. G. Wright, Nancy Hanks by Mr. Lynn Roberts, John Day Zin by Mr. M. G. Burmester and Geraldine by G. Bagot.

The start was made according to the Gentlemen Riders' rules, viz: practically a standing start. The race was won by Miss Wid in 0:26, Nancy Hanks second, John Day Zin third.

Following this was the second heat of the trotting race with Jay Jay out. Doc Burwell won in 3 minutes, John McGregor second. This gave Doc Burwell the race and first money. John MacGregor took second money.

This was followed by the mile and quarter hurdle race for ponies with gentlemen riders, Dudley Biggs riding John Day Zin, F. D. W. Gwynne riding Fenella and M. Burmester riding Nero Page. Considerable speculation was done as to the abilities of the ponies to take the hurdles in good shape, it being surmised that some of them would refuse to take the flights, but it proved incorrect. The race was won by Fenella in 2:58, John Day Zin second.

This was followed by a half-mile running race for two-year-olds, with three entries, Jim Bozeman, Trilby and Nachez, Jim Bozeman being the favorite. At the start Jim Bozeman's rider pulled him at the pole, allowing Trilby to come in first. On this account all bets were declared off, and the horse was disqualified. Trilby was given the race and Nachez second money.

The jockey was fined $25 and ruled off for the next. It was evident that it was a "job."

The last race was a half-mile consolation race for defeated horses for $10 sweepstake, and $25 added by Secretary Burmester. There were three entries, Pickpocket, Martinez and Mollie Adams. Martinez won in 0:51. Mollie Adams and Pickpocket came under the wire with a bad leg.

The Californian offers its sincere thanks to those in charge of the racing at the track, for the uniform courtesy shown to its representative by them at all times during the meet.—Californian.

An Assured Success.

Secretary Newhall of the Horse Show Association reports a splendid list of entries for all the classes at the coming show. The friends of the trotting horse have contributed largely, while the display of thoroughbreds will eclipse any heretofore given in the world.

President H. S. Crocker will leave New York City on Thursday next with the cream of the Horse Show there, and as he will be accompanied by a number of prominent gentlemen who will assist him in arranging a programme and act as judges at the show, we anticipate a week's enjoyment when the doors of the Pavilion are thrown open, which will surpass anything we have ever had on this Coast. The Committee on Prizes has been actively at work, and the following is a list of cups and prizes which they have secured and which will be given in addition to the money prizes offered by the association.

Solid silver cup, value $200, by Henry J. Crocker, president of H. S. A., for the best polo pony; solid silver cup, value $200, by George A. Pope, for highest jump; solid silver cup, value $200, by Joseph D. Grant, for best team of two or three horses shown to regular fire engine; solid silver cup, value $200, by J. M. Cunningham, for best pair of carriage horses and appropriate carriage, in class 43; Shreve cup, value $200, for best trotting stallion, four years old or over, kept for service; solid silver cup, value $200, by Timothy Hopkins, for pair of mares or geldings, or mare and gelding, and best appointed "road rig," in class 19; solid silver cup, value $300, by Walter Hobart, for best tandem; solid silver cup, value $200, by Lloyd Tevis, for handsomest and best pair of carriage horses, class 39; solid silver cup value $200, by R. F. Morrow, for best thoroughbred stallion; one set of single harness, value $125, by J. A. McKerron, for best mare, stallion or gelding, four years old or over, with a record of 2:30 or better, class 12; one silk plush robe, value $100, and one gold-mounted, ivory-handled whip, value $50, by Main & Winchester, for best pair of mares and geldings, or best mare and gelding, four years old or over, class 13; one set double driving harness, rubber trimmings, value $225, by O. F. Wiley, for best pair of mares or geldings, four years old or over, class 17; a gentleman's complete riding outfit (bridle, saddle and saddle cloth), by J. C. Johnson, value $100, for gentleman's horse winning first prize in class 34; gentleman's complete riding outfit (bridle, saddle and saddle cloth) value $100, by J. O'Kane, for gentleman's saddlehorse winning first prize in class 55.

Additional cups have been offered by several gentlemen, and the classes to which they shall be appropriated will be decided later on.

A GREAT CONSIGNMENT OF SPEED.

Palo Alto's Great Consignment of Young Trotters to Leave Next Week.

On Wednesday, November 20th, there will be shipped from Palo Alto four car loads of young horses to New York to be sold by Peter C. Kellogg & Co., at Madison Square Gardens, December 3d.

The shipment consists of yearlings, two, three and four-year-olds. The consignments from Palo Alto in the past have been full of good material and many fast horses, breed winners, have been purchased for small sums. Cobwebs, 2:12, El Rami, 2:14, Seylax, 2:15 1-2, Paola, 2:18, full brother to Palo Alto, Abeto, 2:10 1-2, Limonero (3), 2:15 1-2, Marston C., (3), 2:19 1-2, Welbeck (3), 2:24 1-2, Norbawk, 2:15 1-2, Answer, 2:14 1-2, all sold for low figures considering breeding and individuality.

To say in the face of the fact that Palo Alto has sent hundreds of horses to its annual sales, that have turned out well, that the consignment about to be shipped outclasses in breeding, individuality and prospective speed any consignment of former years, is to say a great deal and the question will be asked on what is such a broad assertion made, what makes this lot better than all other shipments.

In the first place the broodmares of Palo Alto have been reduced to one-half the number of former years until now all mares are producers except those whose progeny have not reached an age to be developed.

Second, the better results of experience in breeding will be materialized as the mares have been mated with stallions whose blood lines have produced success.

Third, the sons of Electioneer are producing extreme speed, the general average of the individuality of the shipment is better than any previous one, the speed qualities far ahead of any other Palo Alto consignment.

There is a colt in this sale that should attract the attention of breeders as well as those desiring a great race horse, Rio Alto (4) with a mark of 2:16 1-2, by Palo Alto, 2:08 1-2, the stallion king of his day, son of the great Electioneer, his dam that great thoroughbred trotting producing mare, Dame Winnie, by Planet, who has produced Palo Alto, 2:08 1-2; Paola, 2:18; Altivo, 2:18 1-2; Gertrude Russell, 2:23 1-2; Big Jim, 2:23 1-2; and they say at the farm by the Lone Pine that in Gov. Pscheco, the brother to Palo Alto, there is still another one that will add more fame to that great daughter of Planet and Liz Mardis, by imp. Glencoe. The dam of Rio Alto, Elsie, by General Benton, that great broodmare sire, is one of the greatest of young broodmares, but thirteen years old, her first foal in 1887, she has been remarkable in her persistency in breeding speed from all sources. Her foal of 1887 died in August of that year; Salvini, ch c, of 1884, by Piedmont, was sold from Palo Alto at an early age for $1,200.

In 1889 the b f Novelist, by Norval, came and in her two-year-old form trotted to a record of 2:27.

In 1890 Elsie was barren, and in 1891 came Rio Alto, 2:16 1-2, by Palo Alto.

In 1892 came Mary Osborne (3), 2:28 1-2, by Azmoor; this filly has a yearling record of 2:37.

In 1893 came the great two-year-old filly of this year, Palita, 2:16, winner of seven straight races, the queen two-year-old performer of 1895.

In 1894 Elsie produced Ellen Houser, by Truman, 2:12, and in 1895 a bay filly, full sister to Mary Osborne. Elsie is now with foal by Altivo (4), 2:18 1-2, full brother to Palo Alto, the stallion she mated so well with.

This is a grand showing for a mare who only had five possible chances to have performers, and she turns out four by three different sires and they are all in the list at three years old and under with an average speed of 2:21.

The grandam of Rio Alto is the greatest daughter of the mother of Electioneer, Elaine, 2:20, by Messenger Duroc. She is also one of the great broodmares, for besides producing Elsie, she is the dam of Iran Alto (3), 2:19 1-2, Palatine (3), 2:18, Anselma, 2:29 1-2, Norlaine (1), 2:23 1-2, and Norlaine (1), half-mile, 1:27, her only other foals that lived to an age to be trained. She is a producer from several different stallions, and now with foal by Altivo, 2:18 1-2.

The great grandam of Rio Alto is Green Mountain Maid, the mother of Electioneer, a mare that stands pre-eminent as a producer of trotters, whose sons and daughters are producing on from year to year, adding and adding fame to the name of that queen of broodmares, Green Mountain Maid, a name immortal in the history of the turf. Rio Alto is a beautiful horse to look at, in color a rich mahogany bay; in form, of that high standard that he would attract attention in a field filled with fine looking horses. In disposition, perfect for any and all purposes.

That he is a trotter and an improving one his record shows—third beat as a two-year-old, 2:22 1-2; as a three-year-old, 2:16 1-2. For a sire where can we find in his family history an excuse for a mistake?

By Palo Alto, 2:08 1-2, the greatest son of Electioneer, out of Elsie, the greatest daughter of General Benton, and Elaine, 2:20, who is the greatest daughter of Green Mountain Maid, the greatest of all broodmares whose blood intermingles so kindly with the dead daughter of Planet, the great Dame Winnie.

San Jose Track Leased.

It is rumored that Messrs. Burns & Waterhouse, Naglee Burke and Chas. Boots have leased the splendid race track at San Jose for a term of five years, and have made arrangements to put it in first-class condition. So far as situation, climate, soil and appointments are concerned there is no better place in California to train horses, and if the inner course is kept exclusively for runners and the outer is put in first-class condition for trotters, and kept that way all winter, these gentlemen will realize handsomely on their lease. It was on this track that the horses belonging to Messrs. Appleby, Donathan and Boots were prepared, and as there are thirty-seven youngsters there now belonging to Messrs. Burns & Waterhouse, there is no doubt there will be some great ones come from this kindergarten. The infield of this track is of the richest and most productive soil, and will furnish feed for a large number of horses during the year.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

D. McAllister bagged 21 snipe and 1 duck at Alviso on Sunday.

The one trigger double-barrelled shot-gun is becoming quite popular.

J. Olsen and Ernst got a dozen or so ducks at Sears Point on Sunday.

W. Brooks, D. McCrae and J. Lemmar killed 50 ducks at Antioch on Sunday last.

For once the predictions of the sportsmen were right. Quail are unusually plentiful.

J. Bruns and J. Karney got seventeen ducks, including four can's, at Sear's Point on Sunday.

S. F. Hughes was at the Cordelia Club on Sunday and made a splendid bag of canvasback and snipe.

The winter flight of ducks has commenced, and from now on our duck hunters can expect good shooting.

Rolla Heikes averaged 93.9 at the San Antonio tournament, H. G. Wheeler 92, Harvey McMurphy 83.6.

W. J. Hynes had very fair luck at Goodyear's on Sunday last. He bagged 22 ducks, including 6 canvasback.

C. Cate and Parks made a fine bag of teal, widgeon and sprig with a sprinkling of mallards at Mowry's Sunday.

J. O. Cadman, Tom Prather and Judge Henshaw bagged nearly 150 ducks at Alvarado Sunday at the Willows Lodge Club.

Eugene Forster and Alderton found a nice bunch of quail up Sonoma way on Sunday and bagged twenty-three without a dog.

C. A. Haight, H. C. Golcher, M. C. Allen and Howard Vernon were at Point Reyes on Sunday. They bagged three dozen quail.

W. L. Colville, the Eastern agent for Gold Dust powder left for the East on Monday of last week. He will represent the company throughout the East.

As we predicted, the duck shooting was greatly improved on Sunday last. At Alviso, San Pablo, and on both the Sonoma and Suisun marshes the shooting was very good.

F. E. Miller and W. Prather Jr. were at Alvarado on Sunday. They spent most of their time in fixing up their winter quarters but stopped work long enough to kill a few ducks.

The collection of game birds and fishes at the Park museum are well worth the attention of the sportsmen. They are somewhat crowded but are well mounted and well classified. The exhibition is in the gallery of the Midwinter Fair art building.

Among our new advertisements this week will be found that of H. Northup. He offers to ship coal to your club house on short notice at city prices and without extra charge. The sportsmen should patronize those who advertise in the sportsman's paper.

The Examiner's Oakland correspondent says that two Italians were arrested on Monday for selling geese in open market. They may not have had a license or have broken some local ordinance, but geese are not mentioned in the game law and may be sold at any time.

A new exchange that comes to our desk this week is The Avifauna, published in Los Angeles and very ably edited by W. A. Hoffman. The October number contains articles on the California Condor, The California Partridge, The Mexican Raven, The Yellow-Billed Magpie, etc. To the lovers of ornithology this little magazine is invaluable.

Canvasback and other varieties of ducks were at Alviso bridges Sunday in great numbers, but the bags were mostly small. Jessie and Wm. Wetmore were at the Pastime's, but another shooter located within thirty or forty yards of them spoiled their shooting. They got 19 birds, mostly teal.

Thos. Casey got seven caus at Teal on Sunday. Lloyd Eaton and Chas. Deitz bagged eighteen ducks at the same place, including four canvasback. They report seeing a great many canvasback but they come in from the bay late at night and leave with the first ray of daylight in the morning.

Game Warden McKenzie, of Santa Clara county, has arranged for importing seventy-five pairs of Golden and Silver pheasants. He received six pairs of English pheasants on Saturday from Victoria, B. C., and he has already distributed fifty pairs of Mongolian pheasants in various parts of the county.

The Fish Commission held a meeting on Monday last and report the take of salmon eggs at the Battle Creek Hatchery to be over 8,000,000, the largest take ever made on the Sacramento on a fall run. By this time the hatchery is filled to its utmost capacity, viz., 10,000,000 eggs. Deputy Babcock reports that Mr. Mogan denies having told Mr. Robinson that the Commission told him that they had no money for the prosecution of game cases and states that he did not ask for assistance.

There were many threats flying around on Saturday, but on Sunday the shooters that invaded Emeric's preserve at San Pablo were ordered off by the deputies and did not fire a shot. This is as it should be as the law reads this preserve is open to all, but the sportsmen know that Emeric owns this land. It is fenced and posted, and with the single exception of the creek that borders one corner of it, there are no navigable sloughs upon it. Messrs. Emeric, Roos and Murdoch have spent a great deal of money in fixing up the levee and fence, and no gentleman will disturb their shooting.

A gun club was organized at the University of California on Monday. A constitution was adopted and the following officers elected: President, A. W. North; captain, Vance Osmond; secretary and treasurer, Walter Starr. The other members of the club are M. Dozier, Hupp, DeFremery, Chickering, Gage, Bishop, Jones and Williams. Membership will be limited to twenty. The object of the club is to shoot clay pigeons. A range will be put up back of the new mechanics' building, behind the old rifle butts. It is hoped that in the near future a shooting tournament may be arranged with Stanford. Professors Soule, Clapp, Edwards and Plehu were elected honorary members.

Mr. George Work, in a discussion with Mr. Jordan L. Mott Jr., the inventor of a live-bird trap, at the Calumet Club, declared on a wager of $500 to kill eighty-five birds out of one hundred, out of the new Mott trap, sprung with the new electrical device. It was thought by Mr. Work and his friends that he could win easily. The match was shot at the Country Club's grounds at Westchester, being the only grounds fitted with a set of the new traps. Before starting the match the stakes were increased by mutual consent to one thousand five hundred dollars a side, each thinking to win certainly. The rise was thirty yards and the boundary forty yards. Mr. Mott won readily as Mr. Work, to the surprise of many of his friends, only killed eighty birds.—Field.

Early Sunday morning while shooting ducks on the Sonoma marsh near McGill's Station, C. T. Morrison shot at a duck flying before him and two of the number six shot struck his companion, W. E. Lichtenberg, in the face. It was before daylight and Mr. Morrison did not know of the close proximity of his friend. One pellet entered the cheek and the other between the eye and the bridge of the nose. Mr. Lichtenberg thought he was more seriously injured than he was, and Morrison rowed him to Dr. S. E. Knowles, who was shooting near by. The doctor removed the shot from the cheek, but could not locate the pellet near the eye. It is not thought that the eyesight will be injured, but at best it was a lucky escape. Both of the gentlemen are members of the Alameda County Sportsmen's Club.

"I was out hunting quail in a big vineyard near Santa Rosa a few days ago," remarked Superior Judge Dougherty of Sonoma county, "and I got the finest bags of birds I ever shot in my life. When I first went into the vineyard I thought I was shooting at tame quail, for they wouldn't fly till I came near stepping on them, and then they would wobble off through the air in the most erratic way. They would only fly a short distance till they would drop into a grape vine as if their wings had given out. My dog kept bringing me live quail, which I thought I had wounded, but finally when I had three dozen birds and had fired only about a dozen shots, I knew there was something wrong somewhere. Finally I came upon a quail lying on its back and kicking its feet in the air in the most peculiar way. I picked it up and found it uninjured so far as I could see. Then I set it on its legs and it went staggering and floundering over the clods a few feet till it fell on its back again and lay kicking helplessly. For the first time it occurred to me that the quail were drunk. They had been feeding on the frost-bitten grapes that had fermented on the vines and were enjoying the wildest kind of a jag. Some could not move, while the soberest couldn't fly fast enough to get out of the way of a clod."—S. F. Post.

Santa Ana has again won the championship team cups that they won at the Los Angeles tournament on September 21st. The match was shot at Santa Ana on October 19th. The scores:

The One Trigger Double Gun.

There are a great many inventions relating to firearms which are made and cast aside because not presented to the world at the proper time. This to us has always seemed to be the reason why inventions of one period lie dormant for many years, when they are again revived and accepted by the world.

The one trigger double gun is an illustration of this. Sportsmen have recently shown a decided interest in a gun with such a mechanism. But it is by no means new, though we are bound to say that, according to our observation, the one trigger double gun has not found favor until recently because it has been faulty. It is many years ago that the first one trigger double gun was invented in England, and several inventions of this character have been made in America. During the last two or three years one or two of these guns have been shown to American sportsmen, but they found little favor because of their propensity to discharge both barrels at nearly the same instant, the second barrel being discharged by the firing of the first. Those who have watched the gun business of England have seen the one trigger double gun grow more and more in favor, and it is reported that the arm has been so perfected that most, if not all, of the serious faults which for a long time remained uncorrected, have at last been remedied.

One of our esteemed correspondents writes in relation to his gun. He says the idea formerly existed that the concussion of the first barrel was the cause of the premature discharge of the second. This, he says, was not the case. It was the rebound following on recoil from the explosion of the first barrel that made pressure of the finger on the trigger release the lock of second barrel. However that may be, it was formerly a difficult matter to withhold the fire of the second barrel until the desired moment.

It does not seem necessary for us to mention the advantages of a single trigger double gun, if it works satisfactorily. One trigger to discharge both barrels is believed by many practical sportsmen to be decidedly advantageous, for the trigger is always the same in length from the heel plate; the liability of pressing the wrong trigger is overcome, and without doubt the second barrel may be discharged quicker and with greater effect if there is but one trigger to manipulate. We have always regarded the single trigger double gun as a valuable invention, and not to be classed with the numerous inventions in fire arms which have no practical value, and shall not be surprised at some future day to see considerable recognition given to this form of mechanism.

We learn that one of these guns, made by a well-known English maker, is soon to be brought to this country, and in the hands of one of our best known trap shots, its practicability, if it possesses such, will no doubt be clearly demonstrated.—Shooting and Fishing.

A good fishing story used to be told of himself by one of the new peers, Sir Algernon Borthwick. Seven days' fishing with his son, Mr. Oliver Borthwick, at Sir Algernon's Aberdeenshire place, Invercauld House, resulted in the big kill of fifty-five salmon. The information was sent to the London Morning Post, Sir Algernon's paper, and an enterprising sub-editor, in acknowledgment of the receipt of the news, telegraphed to Sir Algernon that it was intended to give the item the heading, "Miraculous Draught of Fishes! Peter's Record Broken."

THE KENNEL.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The United States Field Trials have been again postponed. This time to Nov. 25th.

The Continental Field Trials have been declared off on account of the scarcity of birds in North Carolina.

Billy Tallman will handle the well-known Irish setter Henmore Shamrock in the coming Irish Setter Club's field trials.

There is prospect of a very fair entry in the All-Age of the Pacific Coast trials. It is $5 to nominate $15 to start. Entries close on December 1st.

A. B. Truman has lost his well-known field trial and bench winner, Pattie Croxeth, supposedly stolen. This pointer is so well known, it seems almost impossible that she could be lost for any length of time.

Jas. McLatchie was very unfortunate with his Mission Rival—Dauntless Luzette litter. She whelped seven prematurely and they all died. She got "mixed up" with another bitch and the premature birth was the result.

The Rod's Chaff—Belle Gladstone letter, noted in our kennel registry column, is a litter that should be quickly sold. Belle is one of the few progeny of old champion Gladstone now living and her blood should be of great value. Rod's Chaff is not only a son of Roderigo but is a good worker and is reported to be exceedingly fast. The puppies are strong and well marked.

H. H. Carlton, secretary of the Fox-Terrier Club, adds another to the long list of dog lovers that have been victimized by the dog poisoners. Some fiend attempted to poison his whole kennel recently with strychnine, but by good luck and the prompt assistance of a veterinary, he succeeded in saving them. On Monday, however, he was not so lucky, and one of his cocker spaniel puppies died before he could summon the aid of a physician. We hope he will discover the culprit and give him his just deserts.

The winners of the first Derby of the Monongahela Valley Game and Fish Protective Association Trials were: first, G. W. Lang's b w and t English setter Roger O'Mara, by Roger Boy—Nancy Malroning; second, S. B. Cummings' l and w pointer Tick of Kent, by Spot of Kent—Bow's Fly; third, G. O. Smith's b and w English setter Whyte, by Whyte B.—More's Clara. The All-aged winners were: First, A. C. Peters' o and w English setter Nellie Bly, by Ben Hill—Daisy Hunter; second divided between S. B. Cummings' o and w English setter Galert C., by Duke of Princeton—Ione and W. D. Henry's l and w pointer George Croxeth, by Don Croxeth—Mollie Scott; third, F. D. West's l and w pointer Mex.

Reception to A. P. Vredenburg.

A. P. Vredenburg, secretary of the American Kennel Club, arrived in this city on Thursday morning. A stop of twenty-four hours at Los Angeles delayed his arrival, but if rumor is correct he thoroughly enjoyed himself in the City of the Angels. The officers and members of the Southern California Kennel Club that could be summoned on short notice, met him at the train, and in the evening A. K. C. matters were discussed over a very enjoyable dinner.

Thursday evening a reception was given him at the Occidental Hotel by the Pacific Kennel Club. The Sportsmen's Association, of Alameda County, Pacific Fox Terrier Club, St. Bernard Club, of California, and Southern California Kennel Club were also invited and it is well they attended as the attendance from the Pacific Kennel Club was a disgrace to the club. The Southern California Kennel Club sent a delegate. The Pacific Fox Terrier Club was represented by four members, the St. Bernard Club of California by nine, the Alameda Sportsmen's Association by two and the Pacific Kennel Club with its sixty or seventy local members, by fourteen and half of these were members of the Specialty clubs.

President Beer opened the meeting by introducing Mr. Vredenburg, who immediately addressed the meeting at considerable length. His speech was of the greatest possible interest to the gentlemen present. Coming so late in the week it is impossible for us to give it verbatim this week, but in our next issue we will do so. The subjects of his remarks were: The feeling of good fellowship that exist between the National Body and its members on the Pacific Coast.

The advantages of membership in the A. K. C.
The attitude of the A. K. C. towards the press.
The appeal of Pacific Coast Kennel Clubs and the amendment proposed by the committee on Rules.

A Pacific Coast Advisory Committee and many other subjects of minor importance.

His speech was somewhat lengthy but yet as concise as was consistent with the importance of the matter under discussion. He endeavored to impress upon his audience that the A. K. C. were thoroughly in sympathy with the Coast but through ignorance, owing to the great distance, were not cognizant of our actual needs, and he succeeded in his endeavor. His coming has more strongly welded the chain of sympathy between the local and the parent clubs than any favorable legislation could have done.

When he concluded his opening address President Beer called upon H. T. Payne, the representative of the Southern California Kennel Club for a few remarks. As his speech was longer than that of the guest we can only give the substance of it. He thought that Mr. Vredenburg had not touched upon the most important matter of all, viz., the $500 rule.

Rule V. of regulations governing clubs—As usual he overdid the thing and made a great many statements that cannot be verified, but his main argument was good. His contention that the rule as it stands is the mill stone around the neck of kennel interests on this coast is unquestionably true. We fought against this rule five years ago when we first came to this State, and shall continue to fight it until it is abolished on this coast. Small shows are the feeders of the large ones. Every small show results in a certain number of embryo fanciers that purchase of the breeders and later become exhibitors. Soon the small shows get to be too small for their ambitions and the larger ones get their entries. The small shows must be encouraged. This country is yet, comparatively speaking, very new. In the East it is quite different.

Mr. Haight then asked Mr. Vredenburg why the $500 rule was adopted.

Mr. Vredenburg replied that it seemed unfair that a win in a small show with no competition, to count for as much as at New York, where $8,000 is given in cash prizes.

Dr. D'Evelyn, J. G. Barker and others spoke in favor of abolishing the rule and when put to vote it was found to be the sense of the meeting by a large majority that the rule should be abolished.

The "500 dog rule" was next discussed. H. T. Payne and J. G. Barker thought that it should be changed to 200 dogs. H. W. Orear thought that it should remain as it is. Payne thought he would like to see it made possible for Los Angeles shows to count for championship. H. McCracken moved that the rule be 250 dogs, and the vote was unanimous that it was the sense of the meeting that in the interest of the Coast the rule should be changed to allowed a win in a show with 250 entries to count towards a championship.

W. L. Prather Jr. stated that the Alameda club was yet alive and he thought the Pacific Advisory Board an excellent plan. The Alameda club have elected a delegate. The Southern California Kennel Club have also elected a delegate and it only remains for the Pacific Club to appoint one and the St. Bernard Club to elect one as soon as they are admitted to membership and the Advisory Board will be a fact. The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock.

The Pacific Fox Terrier Club.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pacific Fox Terrier Club was held at this office on Tuesday evening last, Vice-President G. W. Debenham in the chair. The members present were Secretary H. H. Carlton, A. W. Gonzales, Dr. D'Evelyn, Jos. McLatchie and A. R. Crowell.

After the reading of the minutes and other routine business a communication was read from the Pacific Kennel Club inviting the members of the club to attend a special meeting and reception to A. P. Vredenburg, Secretary of the American Kennel Club at the Occidental Hotel on Thursday evening. It was resolved that the club attend in a body.

J. B. Martin's resignation as a member of the club was accepted.

Dominick Shannon and Norman F. D'Evelyn were elected to membership.

The question of holding a specialty show in connection with the St. Bernard Club was discussed, and A. Russell Crowell was appointed a committee of one to confer with the St. Bernard Club in regard to same. If the St. Bernard Club is in favor of holding such an exhibition the two clubs will hold a combined special meeting and discuss the details.

After a lengthy discussion of fox terrier matters the meeting adjourned to the call of the Secretary.

The Black Pointer.

In no other part of the United States has the black pointer come into such prominence as in California. They have held their own here, winning against our best pointers and English setters at the field trials, and are very popular among those who have been fortunate enough to get held of the genuine Pape stock.

But little is known of their origin as the originator of the strain W. Rochester Pape, a gunmaker at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England, never kept any record of them, and never showed them at dog shows or run them in the field trials.

The most authentic account that we have ever heard of the origin of the strain, is that given by J. K. Orr, a well-known sportsman of this city. In 1863, Mr. Orr shot over Pape's dog Tom with Mr. Pape on his shooting on the Duke of Northumberland's estates. Mr. Orr describes old Tom as the perfection of action, nose and intelligence, remarkably well trained and much nearer the present bench show form than are the Pape pointers of to-day. Mr. Pape informed Mr. Orr that the old stock was brought from Spain by his father, who crossed them with an English strain of blacks.

In 1872 Pape presented Col. York, Master of Small Arms, Ordnance Department, Cincinnati, Ohio, with the bitch Meg, and the same year he sent over a dog to be bred to her. From this union came J. K. Orr's dog, Tynne, and a dog pup sent to Richard Ogden at the same time. The older sportsmen remember Tynne well and speak very well of him. Ogden's dog was sent to the keeper of the Golden Eagle Hotel at Sacramento and was destroyed by a sheep rancher. These were the first Pape pointers to reach this Coast, but they left no progeny.

The strain of Pape pointers that have now become so popular were introduced here by Jas. E. Watson.

He first brought out Old Black Joe, in October 1887. He came round the Horn on the ship Kenilworth. A bitch was shipped with him but she was washed overboard near the Cape DeVerd Islands.

Old Black Joe won first in the Derby and first in the All-Age at the Pacific Coast Field Trials of 1889. If we are not mistaken but one other dog has ever accomplished this feat. He defeated at these trials the pointers Lottie B. and Nestor, and the setters Sirius and Sunlit, besides other good ones.

The next voyage of the Kenilworth brought out Jet, another bitch from Pape, but she left no progeny as she was soon after accidentally drowned at Allenders kennels.

Mr. Watson next brought out Old Black Joe II. and Sweep in 1889, and shortly afterwards William Graham, of Belfast, Ireland, sent him the bitch Bess, overland from New York. Bess was bred in Scotland by A. M. McDonald, by Sweep, out of Gloom, said to be of sure Pape strain. Neither Sweep nor Bess were ever run at the trials, but Old Black Joe II. proved a rattling good field dog. He won second Derby and second All-Age, 1891, third All-Age 1892, and second All-Age 1893. In 1891 he beat Petronella in the Derby but was beaten by Lee R. In the All-Age he beat Sankey B., Rose and Queen Croxteth, but was beaten for first place by Patti Croxteth. In 1892 he was beaten by Lady Trippo and Sally Brass II. In 1893 he beat Palham and others, but was beaten by Starlight for first place. The same year three sons of Old Black Joe II. and Black Bess won in the Derby. The prizes were placed as follows: George P. first, Countess Noble (Eng. Setter) second, Doc P. and Jim P. divided third, with Johanna (Eng. Setter.) Rex, another son of Old Black Joe II., and Bess, divided third in the Derby of 1894 with the pointer Adelia, making nine prizes that the strain has won at four trials.

On the bench they have not done as well, in fact the majority of the strain lack style, and in the head qualities of the bench show pointer they are sadly deficient. Old Black Joe won third at the Pacific Kennel Club Show of 1888, Joe M. won second last year in the under 55 pounds class, and Old Black Joe II., George P. and Doc P. have taken several V. H. C.'s and H. C's.

At the dispersal sale of Mr. Watson's kennels Wm. Dormer purchased Old Black Joe II. and Bess. The others of this strain that we know of are: Norman Rideout's (Marysville) George P., W. S. Kittle's Doc P., C. Robinson's Rex, J. Markland's Joe M., L. Thibault's (Butte, Mont.) Booth B., Emil Sutor's Jim P., David Thom's Nick, E. F. Northam's Black Beauty and J. H. Sammi's Rose, all by Old Black Joe II., out of Bess.

Frank McFarland's Sweep, F. D. Atherton's —, by Sweep—Rose, Frank Coates' (Fresno) Black Prince, by Nick—Rose, and Robt. Taylor's Bess, by Nick—Rose.

The St. Bernard Club.

The largest and most enthusiastic meeting held by the St. Bernard Club for many months was held on Wednesday evening last at this office, President J. G. Barker in the chair. The other members present were treasurer O. H. Williams, secretary A. Russell Crowell, Dr. A. T. Regensburger, F. Frey, J. R. Kelly, C. W. Travis, J. R. Dickson, H. McCracken, W. F. Worthington, A. J. Kidd, W. H. Collins, T. S. McGinley, L. G. Rowell, C. J. Adair, W. H. Mudgett.

A communication was read from the Pacific Kennel Club inviting the members of the club to attend a reception tendered to A. P. Vredenburg, Secretary of the A. K. C., on Thursday evening, and it was resolved to attend in a body.

A communication was received from the Pacific Fox Terrier Club requesting the club to appoint a committee to meet the Fox Terrier Club and confer with them in regard to holding a specialty show of St. Bernard and fox terriers for exhibition only. The chair appointed a committee of three, consisting of W. H. Collins, Dr. A. T. Regensburger and O. H. Williams to meet the fox terrier men on Tuesday evening next at the club rooms.

The question of inaugurating a sweepstake was laid over until the next regular meeting of the club.

It was resolved that the club offer a suitable prize at the coming show of the Pacific Kennel Club for the best stud dog owned by a member of the club, to be judged by two of his get out of different bitches. Also a special for best brood bitch owned by a member of the club, to be judged by two of her get out of different litters.

The next regular meeting of the club will be on Wednesday evening, December 11th, but if the committee on specialty show report favorably a special meeting will be called next week.

New England Field Trials.

The New England Field Trial Club held a sweepstake open to all setters and pointers on October 29th at Assonet, Mass. N. Wallace judged. The conditions were $5 to nominate and $10 additional to start. The club added $100 to the purse. The American Field gives the following summary of the running:

Oakland Farm's black, white and tan English setter bitch Our Pet, by The Corsair—Tchula, handled by A. R. Sharp, with P. H. Powell's black English setter dog Dan, by Sport, handled by owner.

W. C. Baylies' black, white and tan English setter dog Tennessee Vandal, by The Corsair—Effie Hill, handled by A. R. Sharp, with H. L. Key's black, white and tan English setter dog Montell, by Mark's Mack—Katie R., handled by H. Tallman.

D. A. Goodwin Jr.'s black and white English setter bitch Gladys, by Bradley—Matchless IV., handled by Ellis, with Hobart Ames' black, white and tan English setter dog Jockey by Chance—Mollie Dale, handled by Trein.

WHELPS.

Wm. Larsen's (San Francisco) English setter bitch Belle Gladstone (Ch. Gladstone—Zell) whelped November 7th fourteen—six dogs—to George Crocker's Rod's Chaff (Rod-erigo—Gladstone's Girl).

J. F. O. Comstock's (San Francisco) bull terrier bitch Twilight (Hinks—Ch. Starlight) whelped November 4th six—three dogs—to same owner's Adonis (Gully the Great—Edgewood Fancy).

Blemlon Spinaway, a fox terrier bitch by Blemlon Victor—Verdict Dana, Spinster, by Dominie—Avon Mag, has just been purchased by Matt Kerr from J. B. Martin, who is disposing of his fox-terrier kennel. Blemlon Spinaway was bred by August Belmont, and cost Mr. Martin quite a large sum. She is in whelp to Blemlon Ræfer, and will be bred to Matt Kerr's well-known dog Dauntless Tyrant. Blemlon Spinaway is a white bitch with a black and tan head. Her size is just about right.

I notice in the South a very general substitution of the word "soon" for "early." Where a New England resident would say he got up early in the morning, the gentleman of Dixie would remark that he got up soon. Or, to perfect the paraphrase: The "early bird" catches the worm, but the "sooner dog" takes the rabbit. Would this be correct?—C. H. in Forest and Stream.

As we go to press we learn that Wm. Larsen's English setter bitch Belle Gladstone, referred to in another column, has whelped another pup, five days after whelping the fourteen mentioned. Rather an unusual occurrence.

R. M. Dodge, the well-known trainer, is still at Kenwood. L. L. Campbell, who has just returned from there, states that he has a great abundance of birds and his dogs are in splendid condition.

STEPHEN FISKE writes in the Home Journal that fai Juliet asked: "What's in a name?" Sometimes a very valuable hint for those who follow the races. The other day I backed a horse named Ananias, and he immediately belied his record and lost an easy race. One of my London contemporaries tells a good story of the last Goodwood. A friend met the lady whom he was to escort to the race course, and noticed that she had prudently brought a waterproof and an umbrella. "Ah," said she, smilingly, "I am one of the wise virgins!" Her companion said: "Wise Virgin is one of the starters for the Steward's Cup; please excuse me a moment, while I put a £10 note on her!" The filly won out of a field of twenty two. At the Futurity, last summer, I placed my modest money upon Requitul, taking the tip from "All's Well That Ends Well."

Be bold! You do so grow in my Requitul
As nothing can unroot you!

But I admit that the colt's victory over Crescendo, at Saratoga, and the fact that Griffin was up, had more to do with my wager. Those who follow this system of playing upon words rather than public form expected Mascot to win the free-for-all pacing race at Fleetwood, but they were disappointed. By any other name a luckily-cognomened horse would run as well.

CHAS. DUFFEE and some friends from Los Angeles visited the San Mateo Stock Farm last week and were delighted with the galaxy of splendid trotters there. Mr. Duffee says "Mary Best is the bandsomest mare I ever saw, and I would want nothing better to campaign than a colt or filly by McKinney out of her. I would feel satisfied that I could not get a better one in the world." He added: "The youngsters there are the strongest made and most highly finished I ever saw, and their dams are as near perfection as that good judge of horseflesh, Mr. Corbitt, could select. I would like to be rich enough to have him select about thirty for me to place on a farm and breed them to McKinney. I know the produce would be as good as a paying gold mine."

THE selection of Byron McClelland as judge of the thoroughbreds at the Horse Show will bring out such an attendance of racing folks as has never yet been seen in Madison Square Garden. Furthermore the exhibitors will know that their horses will be judged purely on their merits, for there is no better man to pass an opinion on a "blooded one," be he foal, yearling, racehorse or stallion, than the shrewd little Kentuckian, who from the time he bought Badge has swept the deck almost every year.—N. Y. Mercury.

ONE evening at the Kinnard, during the Cleveland meeting, Professor Milam, who drives Oakland Baron, went in to supper with Andy McDowell. Before sitting down he brushed the seat of his chair off carefully. "What's the matter, 'Fess?" asked McDowell. "Got new pants?" "No," responded the professor, "it's a habit of mine. I taught a district school for ten years."

QUITE a number of horsemen express themselves as being pleased at the idea of two such prominent owners as August Belmont and M. F. Dwyer clashing on the selling race question. There is altogether too much babying regarding the bidding up or claiming of horses in selling races, and it is time for horsemen to act like men. M. F. Dwyer has had a picnic for years, and must have milked the ring to the tune of at least half a million dollars where he had no chance to lose unless his horses had dropped dead. But Mr. Dwyer is not the only prominent owner who has skinned the ring with high-class horses in selling races. David Gideon has for the last eight years or more milked the ring most beau-tifully, his favorite game being to run high-class two-year-olds in selling races, and getting from even money to 5 and 8 to 1 against what were really 1 to 10 shots. Requitel, the winner of the Futurity, made his first appearance in a sell-ing race. Dr. Rice ran in selling races, and, in fact, almost every good colt Gideon has owned has had to go through the selling race mill. What grinning Mr. Gideon and his clever trainer must have done in the years they have been to-gether! M. F. Dwyer has certainly run horses out of their place, but everybody knows so, wherein he is, if anything, less of an offender than Mr. Gideon. If horsemen would only show a little more manliness they have a remedy in their own hands, and the more they exercise their privileges in this respect the better it will be for all concerned. Harry Reed, the horse that was bid up on Thursday, is one of the most overrated horses in training. When fresh he is un-doubtedly very speedy, but he is a flashy Himyar gelding, and has yet to demonstrate that he can carry weight and go a mile in anything like fairsecond-class company.—N. Y. Mer-cury.

THE Directors of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club Tuesday decided to postpone the opening day of their meeting to Thanksgiving Day. This step was principally actuated by a desire to have better transportation facilities assured. The spur track of the Southern Pacific is completed, and a train run over it yesterday, but there is a doubt as to the popular-ity of that route. The association received assurance yester-day that the Mission-street electric line would be extended immediately and would be in operation to the track by the opening day. The postponement will be an advantage to the horsemen that have lately arrived, giving them time to pre-pare their horses for participation in the opening events, and incidentally will afford the association a chance to give a better card, made up with horses new to most of our race-goers, instead of those we have seen here for months past. Racing will continue at Bay District up to the date of open-ing of the new track.

FRANK COVEY states that Fairy Rose and her Ormonde filly will be exhibited at the coming horse show.

TUESDAY afternoon Green B. Morris arrived with a string of eight horses, all in splendid condition after their long journey. They were taken immediately to the new track. Among the lot are Lobengula, a very clever three-year-old by Hudson—Zulu; Sallie Cliquot, by Salvalor—Widow Cliquot (sister to Dry Monopole), one of the best two-year-old fillies of the year; Sir Play, by Sir Modred—Plaything, a full brother to the great money-winner, Tournament; Dare Dollar, by Darebin—Trade Dollar (dam of Trade Mark, Simmons, Gold Dollar and Daric), who won quite a number of two-year-old races; Strathmeath, by Strathmore, a good handi-cap horse; imp. Star Ruby, by Hampton, a three-year-old, and Miss Maxim, by the dead Rancho del Paso stallion, out of Ventura (sister to Ben Ali and Memento), by Virgil.

It is strange, indeed, how very few of the drivers of trotting and pacing horses have made any money this year, says The Horse-man. Douglas Thomas had made a good winning, and W. J. Andrews must be ahead of the game, as must the Hamlin stable and Howard, who did so well with El Rami. And there are others who have done fairly well but the fact remains, notwithstanding, that the majority have fared poorly. Until the Louisville meeting, that is, the meeting held in the Kentucky capital during the Grand Army reunion, the Hamlin stable was a big loser, but since then things have taken a turn, and the success of the Village Farm horses has been little short of phenomenal. Then, the Hamlins are always ready to play their horses heavily when they think they can win, an excellent illustration of which was had at Terre Haute in the Star Pointer race. The Eastern contingent knew that Frank Agan was good, and brought him all the way from Readville to win the race. Mr. Hamlin al-ways had two dollars for every one they would put up, and finally, it is reported, the Eastern crowd thought the Hamlins were rather trying to "rub it into them." They must have got back all they lost at Terre Haute and elsewhere when Agan won at the second Louisville meeting, the price they got being a long one. Monroe Salisbury is, I should judge, the biggest loser on the season, and perhaps $20,000 will not cover his loss. No one on the trotting turf has a word to say against Mr. Salisbury's methods. When his horses turn for the word they turn to win, and every one knows it. Secretaries say that he is the most straightforward man to do business with, never asks for the best of it, seeks no favors not granted to others, pays his entrance fees on demand, and is most prompt in making settlements. If bad luck necessitates his making a payment to the as-sociation he does so immediately the state-ment is presented to him, and if the balance is in his favor he wants his check. Surely noth-ing could be more satisfactory than this. He has had no such a stable this season as in past years, though his prospects in the spring were as bright as ever; but even little Directly has failed him. However, the balance is against him this year the Pleasanton owner must be a long way ahead of the game since he first began to come East regularly.

MILLER & SIBLEY, of Franklin, Pa., have bought a farm in Kentucky on which they will winter a portion of their horses. Mc-Clelland Walters, superintendent of Prospect Hill Farm, will have charge of the Kentucky establishment.

Shooting Pictures.

Of Interest to the Sporting Fraternity.

Messrs. Chas. Scribner & Sons beg to announce the publication of Mr. A. B. Frost's renowned shooting pictures.

Mr. Frost has long been known to all enthusiasts as the one artist able to portray hunting scenes with the spirit and feeling of the true sportsman; his own great love for shooting, and his familiarity with nature as the hunter knows and sees her, shows itself most strongly in every line of his work.

For many years the artist has been making sketches and studies with the idea of preparing a series of repre-sentative SHOOTING PICTURES, which will be recog-nized as accurate and real in every detail. These eight water colors have been reproduced in fac-simile with the utmost care, and the publishers believe are the most perfect specimens of color reproduction of their kind ever executed. Among the subjects treated are the following:

Ral Shooting, Bay Snipe, Ruffed Grouse, Sum-mer Woodcock, English Snipe, Ducks from a Blind, Quail Shooting, Quail—A Dead Stand.

Each plate is mounted on heavy cardboard, 19x25 inches, so that it may be framed at once if desired.

Mr. Charles D. Lanier who writes the accompanying text, gives an increased interest to the series of pictures, and writes as only the real student of bird life and the woods can. His pages are illustrated by pen-and-ink drawings by Mr. Frost.

To those desiring further information regarding the Portfolios, please call or address

Almont Pacers.

"I am led to send you," writes F. B. Ainger, of Sturgis, Mich., "the following authentic account of a yearling pacing filly's performance, because it strikes me as sensational, and not because I have any personal interest. I am something of a student of horses and have been for quite a number of years, but do not remember to have seen an account of a more creditable performance than this. W. H. Douglas of this city, once a partner, in Kansas, of Chas. Marvin, of Palo Alto fame, is the owner of a yearling filly that yesterday paced an exhibition quarter in 33 seconds, a 2:12 gait. Neither the day nor track were in condition for the performance, but she finished well with her speed. The sire of this filly is Douglass' Almont, by Allie Gaines, by Almont 33. The filly's dam is a fast pacing mare by Highlander, and her second dam is also a fast pacing mare of untraced breeding. Please give me your views of this subject."

This filly comes honestly by her gait. A great many pacers have sprung from the Almont families. There are only two sires in the world that have sired four pacing performers, or, as for that matter, any others below 2:10. There are Brown Hal, whose extreme speed list surpasses all other sires, and the trotting-bred but pacing producing sire, Altamont, who also has four pacers below 2:10, to wit: Doc Sperry, p., 2:09; Pathmont, p., 2:09; Ella T., p., 2:09; and Chehalis, 2:07½, and one trotter, Altai, 2:09½. This is the most remarkable when we consider the fact, as the owner of Altamont recently wrote us, that "Altamont never produced a colt from a pacing-bred mare, or from one with a drop of Wilkes blood, or from a mare with a fast record." Altamont was sired by Almont 33, dam Sue Ford, by Brown Chief, the other dams all thoroughbred. We mention this fact merely to call attention to the strong pacing tendency in the Almont family; there are hundreds of other illustrations which will present themselves to the reader.

Where all these pacers come from is plain enough to my mind. In the first place, in every one of these trotting bred pacers, when tracked back far enough, more or less pacing blood will be found. Often this would not, in my opinion, be strong enough to control the gait of the offspring, were it not that the pacing gait is the easier gait for the animal, and with the least tendency that way, the colt quickly adopts it. We can see no other reason to account for the large number of trotting-bred pacers, many of which have scarcely a modicum of pacing blood in them.

But there is another fact I have often noticed—the strong affinity between the pacing and the thoroughbred. All of the best Tennessee old-time pacers were built in thoroughbred lines, and I notice that those trotting sires now siring the most speed at the pace have a very strong infusion of running blood. Altamont, Almont Boy (sire of Gil Curry, Dallas, etc.), McEwen, the Tennessee sire, are striking illustrations of this. The first great pacing mare of history, Pocahontas, was the first illustration of this kind of breeding. It was discovered long ago in Tennessee that the mixture of pacing and thoroughbred blood made, not runners, but the best kind of pacers. But why a mixture of trotting and thoroughbred, as in the case of Altamont, produces a pacing sire, I cannot explain. In the case of the remarkable little filly presented, she has a clear license to pace fast, as I said, for beside the pacing tendency in the Almont family, both her dams were pacers. The pacing blood is very intense—it is remarkably self-assertive. The trotting-bred pacer of to-day—a grand and glorious type which has but begun a brilliant career—is a living evidence of this fact. And as I said, I believe the secret of its self-assertiveness is the fact that the gait itself is Nature's gait. I wish the owner abundant success in the future education of this little pacer.—Horse Review.

It is now assured that the great stallion Directum, 2:05½, will spend the winter in Kentucky, and make a season there in the spring. Mr. Thomas Green, son of the owner of the king of trotting stallions, was in Lexington last week and made arrangements to place him in charge of Gil Curry. Mr. Curry will care for the horse during the winter months, and when the stud season opens, if Mr. Green does not decide to come here and personally manage him that duty will also fall to Mr. Curry. After the stallion's stud duties are over, it is very probable that Curry will campaign him. Curry will have another one of the kingpins in his charge this winter, and that is Joe Patchen, who is also expected to make the season here next spring. In a letter from his brother Jack last week the latter stated that he would race the great pacer at Richmond, Va., Savannah and Macon, Ga., and at Jacksonville, Fla., and would then in all probability come direct to Lexington. He will not attend the New York Horse Show, as the class for Patchen did not fill. If Patchen stands there, he will be managed by Gil. Directum will arrive here to-morrow and will be sent direct to the Lexington track.

W. J. ANDREWS has selected the following horses from the Empire City Farm, which he will prepare over the Jewettville track for next season's campaign: Culture, h f 3, by Axtell, 2:12, dam Cora S., 2:25½, by Harold; Apt-to, h f 3, by Eros, 2:29½, dam Appoline, by Sidney; Ornate, h g 3, by Eagle Bird, 2:21½, dam sister of Brown, 2:18½, by Comhat; Silatian, h f 3, by Alsatian, son of Sultan and Alma Mater, dam by Alcione; Luninary, b f 3, by Artillery, 2:21½, dam by Hambletonian 10; Bowery Belle, 3, out of the dam of Rachael, 2:08½; Adornment, 2:16½, by William L, dam Susie D, by Alcione; Genuine, h c 3, brother to Bouncer, 2:10½; Fire, h c 3, by Hummer, dam Mattie Marco, 2:25, by Monaco; Silver Miss, h f 3, by Alsatian, dam Silverlock, dam of Silverone, 2:20½; Ahhena, h f 3, by Albert W., dam Mahel, by The Moor, second dam Minnehaha; Crucible, b c 3, by Alcantara, 2:23, dam Czarina, sister of Parri, 2:24, by Jay Gould; Silver Boy, b c 3, by Alsatian, dam the dam of Silicon, 2:15½, by Hambrino.

JOHN H. SHULTZ made a speech from the auctioneer's box to the horsemen assembled in the big training barn at Parkville Farm after Peter C. Kellogg had knocked down to the highest bidder the last of the ninety-nine trotters included in Mr. Shultz's sale. He told them that while prices had been low in comparison with the values in vogue when most of the animals were purchased by him a few years ago, he looked for nothing else, and now that the sale was over he could say that it had not proved to be so much as a slaughter as he expected. Mr. Shultz was plainly gratified. He said he used to think the only way he could get any fun out of the horse business was in buying trotters, but now he believed there was just as much enjoyment to be had by selling them, and maybe a little more. When he wound up by inviting everybody who had bought horses to leave them on the farm, free of cost, until it should be convenient to take them away, the big crowd gave him a hearty cheer.

J. C. SIMPSON, the four-year-old brother to Anteo, Antevolo and Anteros, made his record of 2:27½ in the fifth heat of a race at the recent meeting at Ottawa, Ohio. He finished the last heat clearly within himself, and if driven out would have trotted close to 2:20.

THE hay mare Elite, sister to Elaine, 2:20, Prospero, 2:20, Dame Trot, 2:22, etc., died at Woodburn Farm, Spring Station, Ky., last spring after producing a colt by Expedition. She was the dam of La Haute, 2:24½, and Elita Russell, 2:29½.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—

- FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
- SECOND It will not cause headache.
- THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
- FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
- FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
- SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
- SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
- EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
- NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")

TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

THIS POWDER IS MANUFACTURED BY THE
UNITED STATES SMOKELESS POWDER CO.
No. 13 Pine Street, San Francisco, Cal.

For sale by all dealers in Powder and Sporting Goods.

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

- First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
- Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
- Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
- Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
- Fifth—Recall, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
- Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
- Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.

The Trotting Horse.
BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed and superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters. Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develop to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm. Mailed postpaid for $3.50. Address

The Horse Show and Volunteer.

There is a story told about the late Alden Goldsmith and the early days of the horse show. Mr. Goldsmith, like the great trotting sire that he owned, Volunteer, was of the old school. He prized speed, but he liked the 2:30 trotter that would fight out his heats to the end and repeat in racehorse style better than the 2:20 horse that could not go the route. He knew the points of a genuine good one as well, perhaps, as any horseman of his time, for he had seen them all, from Lady Suffolk to St. Julien, the son of his own horse Volunteer, and he had made a world-beater out of Goldsmith Maid when everybody else thought her a worthless runaway, says the N. Y. Sun.

The Orange county breeder was very proud of Volunteer and his family, and when the horse show was young he brought the old horse and some of his colts down to the Garden for exhibition. They were well bred youngsters, with all of the thoroughbred quality which distinguished the get of Volunteer, but they had been taken up out of an Orange county corn field just a few days before it was time to show them. Their blood-like form was hidden under a rough winter coat and their tails were matted thick with cockle hurs when they stepped into the ring. They were still Volunteers, however, and their owner, who had the advantage of the judges in knowing what was under the hair, never had a doubt about their winning all the ribbons until they were passed by almost without notice for the well groomed youngsters shown by C. J. Hamlin and Arthur Caton.

Mr. Goldsmith was dazed and incensed, but his indignation did not reach the boiling point until a day or two later, when old Huntress, the Nightingale of twenty years ago, was shown against Belle Hamlin and beaten by the flashy daughter of Almont Jr. Huntress was then more than twenty years old and long past her days of usefulness on the turf, but the splendid daughter of Volunteer, who then held the champion three-mile record, had the fire, if not the form of youth, and her certainty of winning was taken as a matter of course by the old turfman. When the judges tied the blue roseate to the headstall of Belle Hamlin that day there was trouble in the Garden.

The elder Goldsmith gave old Volunteer his name on the day that President Lincoln issued his first call for troops at the outbreak of the rebellion, and the way it came about was this: The horse was owned in Brooklyn, and was quartered at the old Union course on Long Island, when Mr. Goldsmith, foreseeing the future greatness of the Hambletonian family, set out to buy a son of the old horse for his Walnut Grove stud, and came down to New York to look at the son who was out of Lady Patriot, and who was then called Hambletonian Jr. On his way he met the late Edwin Thorne, and the latter became a partner in the purchase. When they took their young stallion up to Orange County, William M. Rysdyk objected to the name on the ground that it was an attempt to borrow glory from his horse, Hambletonian. The owners were in a quandary to find a new name for the son of Lady Patriot. At last Mr. Goldsmith picked up a newspaper in which Lincoln's call was printed, and said:

"There's the right name. Let's call him Volunteer."

Volunteer it was, and bravely his sons and daughters bore it to victory on many a hard-fought field. Driver, Huntress, Gloster, Bodine, St. Julien, Amy, Alley, Domestic, Powers and Unalala were among the greatest campaigners of their time. Late in the seventies the old horse ranked as the leading son of Hambletonian, and many efforts were made by Western breeders to buy him, old as he was. They had already taken away from Orange county Happy Medium, Dictator, Jay Gould, George Wilkes, and most of the other prominent sons of Hambletonian, but they could not secure "the great sire of campaigners."

Mr. Goldsmith foresaw the departing prestige of Orange county as a horse breeding district through this policy of selling the best, and he refused all offers for his horse. A prominent Kentucky breeder asked him to name his price or name the terms on which he would lease the old horse if he declined to sell him. His answer, a letter which some time afterward found its way into the turf papers, was full of the jingo spirit. Kentucky had not money enough to buy Volunteer, and the old horse was buried with honors at Walnut Grove when he died in 1888, thirty-four years old and full of spirit to the last.

Horsemen will regret to learn that John A. Goldsmith, who has been under a surgeon's care for almost a year past, is again confined to his bed at the old Goldsmith homestead in Orange county. He was up and about nearly all summer, having officiated as starter at the "Tuxedo Day" trotting races in Goshen, and only a fortnight ago he was well enough to pay a visit to F. P. Olcott and his favorite trotter Alar, 2:11, at the Round Top Stock Farm near Bernardsville. Goldsmith ranks with the best reinsman of the day, and the trotting fraternity had begun to count upon seeing him in the sulky again next year. His style of driving is probably the most peculiar style possessed by any prominent reinsman, and it has often been said of him that he is the only "up-armed" driver of first rank in the fraternity.

The hotter the fight in the homestretch the higher up Johnny's arms go, until they are away over his head. An old-time friend of the noted reinsman tells how he acquired the faulty style. It appears that his father, Alden Goldsmith, used to have a miniature track at Walnut Grove, only he called it "the perfecting circle" instead of the miniature track, and on this course he trained the little Volunteers.

John was a born horseman, and before he had fairly discarded skirts he wanted to drive a horse around this "perfecting circle." They used to rig him out with a soap box on the floor of the cart, so that he could touch bottom with his feet, and thus fixed he would drive for blood, thinking it "big" to get his arms up as he went around the turns. The practice grew into a habit before Goldsmith grew to be a man, and his boyhood races on the old "perfecting circle" had a permanent influence on his style.

The Boulevard.

The directors of the San Francisco Boulevard and Driving Association met at the Baldwin Hotel Monday evening and discussed ways and means for the improvement and extension of Seventh avenue.

President Charles C. Bemis was in the chair, and the following directors were present: Joseph Magner, S. Seymour, R. P. Hammond, W. C. Little, James Hurst, John McCord and Cornelius O'Connor. Thomas U. Sweeney was also present by invitation.

The advisability and feasibility of securing a modification of the grade on Seventh avenue was discussed at length. It has been found that the official grade is not satisfactory, as the slope is too steep, and on motion of Mr. O'Connor a committee of three was appointed to secure the consent of Thomas U. Sweeney, the Spring Valley Water Company and Adolph Sutro to a change of grade. Cornelius O'Connor, W. C. Little and A. B. Spreckels were appointed on the committee.

The committee was also instructed to interview the Spring Valley Water Company with a view to securing the consent and co-operation of that company in a plan to extend the driveway across the wash pond below Lake Honda. The proposition of the association is to macadamize Seventh Avenue to the Park to its intersection with Serpentine road at K Street. Serpentine road runs around the wash pond referred to, and until the new road on the other side of the wash pond is built Serpentine road will be utilized as a part of the thoroughfare. The Park Commissioners have agreed that if the tax levy holds good they will improve the approaches to Seventh Avenue, and the Boulevard and Driving Association hopes to accomplish much work on the proposed boulevard to the county line if property owners along the route evince a proper interest in the enterprise.

As the association will be called upon to spend a great deal of money in building the boulevard, it was decided to start a subscription list, and a committee on subscriptions was appointed to take the matter in charge.

Byron McClelland's Reminiscent.

In discussing the unknown happenings in racing, and their bearing on results, Captain Absolute tells a good story of Byron McClelland and Henry of Navarre's bad race in the Oriental Handicap. Here it is:

"Henry of Navarre shouldn't have been beaten so badly in the Oriental handicap," said McClelland.

"It was the fastest race of the year," I returned.

"A great pace with high weight and in deep going. Yes, but even with all those things he should not have been beaten off so badly."

"Then something happened of which you alone are cognizant?"

"Yes, I made a mistake," said McClelland.

"In what respect?"

"I mistook my horse's colors."

I fairly gasped. "Tell me how it happened, Byron," I asked.

"Well," began McClelland, "it was one of those things that happen once in a lifetime. It never happened me before and I hope won't again, but it only shows how the most careful of us can make a mistake. I had told Griffin to look for me at the head of the stretch, and took my station there. When the field came to me at the end of a mile Sir Walter led, with Clifford at his head, in 1:41½. The pace was terrific. I knew the leaders must crack soon. Sir Excess was third, a short length behind Clifford. I saw the red jacket of Sir Excess and thought it was Henry's, as their colors are so much alike you can hardly distinguish them."

"Yes, both scarlet with black cap, only Sir Excess' jockey wore a sash."

"Well," resumed McClelland, "I didn't notice that in my hurry and held up my hand not to hurry. Of course, Perkins on Sir Excess paid no attention, but Griffin on Henry was looking for me and obeyed. The result was he lost position and he was too late to make up his ground. An instant later I saw my mistake. I had mistaken Sir Excess for my horse owing to the similarity of colors and held him back when I should have let him alone if I had recognized him."

"And you think the mistake lost you the race?"

"I don't know. Clifford was receiving seven pounds and was a great horse that day, but even if Henry could not have beaten him he could have been a great deal closer than he was. You see when I waived him back Griffin was riding easily on Henry just behind Sir Excess, who was going his best. Thinking Sir Excess was my horse I was afraid he was making his effort too soon. Henry was all right, but to ease him then was too near home. Griffin couldn't unders tand it, but did as he was signaled to do. It was my fault."

Griffin, like many an innocent man, has never raised his voice to defend himself from the censure he incurred for the above "erratic ride" in the Oriental.—Chicago Racing Form.

Don'ts For Breeders.

Don't advertise you stallion. All well-posted horsemen know about him now, as he is the only seventh son of a seventh son of old Geo. Wilkes that ever trotted the seventh heat in a race on a half-mile track to old style sulky in the unprecedented time of 2:37½. True, he lost the race, but then everybody knows that it was not his fault, for they all know how the driver pulled him.

Don't feed your colts and broodmares anything. Let them hunt for their living. It not only makes them tough, but the pangs of hunger gnawing at their vitals has a great influence in developing their hull-dog tenacity and staying powers.

Don't breed to the best horse in your neighborhood, for Dame Nature will probably make an exception in your case and produce a good colt by a dunghill sire.

Don't read the turf papers. You know it all now, else what have you been doing all these years. But even if you should condescend to glance at a turf journal now and then, don't pay for it. They ought to be pleased to send it to you free.

Don't breed to any other stallion than the one you started out with when you first decided to breed the two-minute trotter, for to recognize merit in another family would be admitting that your theory was wrong, and that would be absurd. You never made a mistake in your life in regard to breeding problems; how could you, you have given it so much thought.—Trotter and pacer.

Goodwin II Runs a Surprising Race in Record Time—Toano, the Sprinter, Back to His Old Form—Detective and Little Cripple Good and Consistent Performers—Events and Details.

SEVENTEENTH DAY—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 14.

NOTHER good thing was sprung on an unsuspecting public in the third race to-day, and Eva S. II gelding (will he get a name now?) won in a romp by six lengths in very fair time. Imp. Trentola was the talent's selection, and the winner was only a luke-warm second choice, with from 6 to 4 to 1 about him in the ring. The bowling over of favorites was a very regular occurrence to-day, however, Happy Day being the only one that did not betray the public's confidence. He almost gave them palpitation of the heart though, by waiting to make his coup at the wire, and only his head intervened between sweet solace and utter demoralization.

The day was a beautiful one and the attendance very large again. A number of Eastern men arrive almost daily, and very materially add to the interest in the betting ring.

Mr. Ferguson was in good form again to-day, and sent the five fields away so quickly that the last race was run off by 4:30.

Yemen opened a 7 to 10 favorite for the first race at five furlongs, and went to the post at 3 to 4. Fly receded from 2 to 1 to 11 to 5 and 2½ to 1, while Miss Gentry was played down from 10 to 7 to 1. Gold Bug and Soledad were without material support at 25 and 150 to 1 respectively. Chevalier sent Miss Gentry along at a very lively clip from flag fall, and led to the forty-foot post, when Fly, whom Eddie Jones had laid back with, came with a sufficient reserve to beat Gentry a length. Yemen, with Jerry Chorn up, was a poor third, and did not celebrate his master's return to the Bay City by a star performance.

The second race had a good field of eight two-year-olds, and was at five furlongs. Marionette was post favorite at 11 to 5, having been supported over Charlie Boots, St. Lee and Encino. Encino led to the last eighth, when Macklin sent Charlie Boots along and won easily with him by two lengths. Encino was second and Marionette third.

The third race was at welter weight, six furlong, selling, ten starters. Imp. Trentola was installed favorite at 2 to 1 and closed a shade shorter. Eva S. II gelding, Huguenot and Red Root were all played down from opening prices. Eva S. gelding was taken out in front at the flag fall and never headed, winning with great ease by six lengths. Trentola was prominent to the head of the stretch, where he chuckled it. Bob Tucker was sixth into the stretch and finished second a half length in front of Haymarket, who had made the home turn a length in front of Bob. Red Root was well up in front at the half-pole, but died away.

The fourth number on the original programme did not fill, and No. 5, a mile selling affair, was divided into two fields. Olivia was an even money favorite for the first division, with Faro a second choice. Don Pio Pico was in this division and acted strangely at first at the stand. San Luis Rey was taken out in front at the start and opened up a big gap, coming through the stretch with three lengths to the good, and won easily by that distance. Raindrop, in second place all the way, was two lengths in front of Faro for the place. Olivia ran a miserably poor race and finished next to last.

Happy Day was a 7 to 5 favorite for the second race at a mile, the last on the programme. Danny Lynch's Volt opened at two to one, but receded to three at post time, and Leonville was at four all the time. Happy Day, as usual, laid away last till the stretch was reached then mowed everything down and won by a head. Volt looked as though he would win by a block to the head of the stretch, but there he broke down and came in very lame. Leonville headed the field when Volt stopped, and was the second past the wire, a length in front of Arundel, who had been a consistent third all the way. Elmer F. looked prominent for awhile but died away.

The winning jockeys were: E. Jones, Macklin, McClain, Shaw and McIntyre.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Yemen 3 to 4, Fly 1 to 5, Miss Gentry 7, Gold Bug 25 and Soledad 150 to 1. Good start. Miss Gentry led to the drawgate, when Fly came on and won easily. Winner, ch g, 4, by Reveille—Fusillade's Last. Miss Gentry (b m, a, by Chesapeake—Sunshine), second, driving; Yemen (ch g, a, by Alarm—Hira), third. Time, 1:01.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling, for two-year-olds. Post betting—Marionette 11 to 5, Charlie Boots 3, St. Lee 4½, Encino 5, Mt. McGregor 11, New Moon 12, Virgie A. 20 and Mollie Bawn 100 to 1. Good start. Encino led to the last eighth, then was beaten out by Charlie Boots. Winner, b g, 2, by Alto Mio—Constellation. Encino (ch c, 2, by imp. Brutus—May D) second, driving; Marionette (ch f, 2, by imp. Mariner—Maranette) third. Time, 1:15½.

Third race—Six furlongs, selling. Post betting—Imp. Trentola 9 to 5, Eva S. II gelding 4, Red Root 5, Bob Tucker 6½, Huguenot 10, Silver Lip 12, Haymarket 20, Jim Corbett and R. H. 40, Drucilla 50 to 1. Good start. Eva S. II gelding led all the way. Winner, ch g, 3, by Ecuador—Eva S. II. Bob Tucker (br g, 3, by Bob Miles—Sonora) second, driving; Haymarket (b g, a, by Storey—Ultimo), third. Time, 1:15½.

Fourth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Olivia 1, Faro and Raindrop 4½, San Luis Rey and Don Pio Pico 7, Scimitar 12 to 1. Good start. San Luis Rey led all the way and won easily. Winner, b g, 4, by Emperor of Norfolk—Mollie McCarty's Last. Raindrop (b m, a, by Wildside—imp. Teardrop) second, easily; Faro (ch h, 4, by Prince of Norfolk—Avondale) third. Time, 1:42.

Fifth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Happy Day 7 to 5, Volt 3, Leonville 4, Sleeping Child 8, Arundel 10, Elmer F. 50 to 1. Good start. Volt led to the last turn, where he broke down. Leonville then led to the wire, where Happy Day beat him out a head. Winner, br g, a, by Emperor—Felicity. Leonville (br g, 4, by Leonatus—Vilette) second, driving; Arundel (ch h, 4, by Duke of Norfolk—Elaine) third. Time, 1:41½.

EIGHTEENTH DAY—FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15TH.

Four form favorites were blown over yesterday, Little Cripple, one of the most consistent of horses, being the only one to get a winning bracket. The four other winners were at very good prices, ranging from 5 to 12 to 1. The advent of the noted Eastern plungers in the ring made things very lively, and "pikers" followed the swell bettors in their preferences.

Empress of Norfolk took the first race into camp in an impressive manner, and showed such a signal reversal of form that Owner Geo. Rose is said to have announced that Tod Sloan would not ride for him any more.

Imp. Amarino was played for a good thing and went to the post at 2½ to 1, hammered down from 30 to 1 by a flood of coin at the last, but she was interfered with and did not get the money. Riley Grannan did not start very successfully yesterday, and lost on Miss Ruth in the first race. His losses for the day were about $3,000.

Road Warmer was a good thing in the second race and won with great ease over a poor lot of two year-olds. Irene E., the favorite, did not show. The first three horses were at 10, 15 and 15 to 1 respectively.

The third race was at six furlongs, selling, and had eight starters. Imp. Amarino was the post favorite, but was never prominent in the race. Venus was very well thought of, as was Svengali. Soon Enough, the winner, was at 7 to 1. He took command early in the game and won easily, with Arctic a good second and Venus third.

The next race was one of the best betting events on the card for a good many days. Every horse on the board received some support, with the result that the odds changed but slightly while piles of money poured into the boxes. Arnette was installed favorite at two's and closed at three's. Oregon Eclipse and Mainstay both receded a trifle, while McFarlane went down from 5 to 3 to 1. Blue Bell got away poorly, but was soon out in front and ran away from her field, winning easily by three lengths from Huenene, with McFarlane only a nose short of the place. Arnette was fourth away from the post, fell back last and finished there. Oregon Eclipse, in just a little better position all the way, ran a very poor race too.

The last race of the day was at one mile and seventy yards, with six starters, all with a fair chance. Little Cripple was lightly played at even money, and 11 to 10 was offered as a tempter. Mamie Scott was at 2½ to 1, and Duchess of Milpitas at from 4 to 5 to 1. Mary S. was played down from 12 to 6 to 1, but went back to 10 by post time. Quite a little piking was done on the long shots. Mamie Scott got the lead on the first turn and she held it to the stretch, but her pace was slow and did not seem to have any speed in her. Little Cripple kept within striking distance and Chevalier sent him along about half-way through the stretch, and he drew away a four length winner. Duchess of Milpitas was called on about the same time and followed the Cripple, but Hy Dy gave her a very hot argument for the place, which the filly secured by a neck. Winning jockeys to day were Chevalier two, Chorn, Burns and McClain one each.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Post betting—Myron 2½, Nervoso and Miss Ruth 4, Empress of Norfolk 6½, Johnny Payne 8, Selkirk 20, imp. Antonomy 40, Connaught 250 to 1. Good start. Empress of Norfolk won in a drive. Winner, br m, 4, by Emperor of Norfolk—Savana. Nervoso (ch g, 3, by imp. Brutus—Nerva) second; Selkirk (ch h, a, by Verano—Genovivia) third. Time, 1:08.

Second race—Five furlongs, maiden, two year-olds. Post betting—Irene E. 14 to 5, Senator Bland 3 to 1, Moran 7 to 2, Japan, 5, Road Warmer 10, Prince Hooker and Rejected 15, Von Dunk 50, Pearl 60 and Vicksburg 100 to 1. Good start. Road Warmer showed the way and won easily. Winner, b g, 2, by Frank Rhodes—Belle. Prince Hooker (ch c, 2, by Joe Hooker), second, —; Rejected (blk g, 2, by Sobrante—Queen High), third. Time, 1:01½.

Third race, six furlongs, selling. Post betting—Imp. Amarino 2, Venus and Svengali 4, Arctic and Soon Enough 7, Vernon 9, Morgan G. 15, Haymarket 60 to 1. Good start. Soon Enough led most all the way and won easily. Winner, ch g, 3, by El Rio Rey—Soon. Arctic (b h, 4, by Robson—Greenleaf) second, driving. Venus (br f, 3, by Verano—Belindo) third. Time, 1:14½.

Fourth race—About six furlongs, handicap. Post betting—Arnette (104) 3 to 1, McFarlane (96) 16 to 5, Oregon Eclipse (117) 18 to 5, Mostay (112) 4, Blue Bell (94) 9, Hueneme (87) 10 to 1. Poor start. Blue Bell was sent out in front, opened up a big gap at once and won easily. Winner, b m, 4, by Prince of Norfolk—Gem of the Mountains. Hueneme (blk c, 3, by Sid—Dottie Dimple) second driving; McFarlane (br g, 3, by imp. Mariner—Moonlight) third. Time, 1:12½.

Fifth race—One mile and seventy yards, selling. Post betting—Little Cripple 11 to 10, Mamie Scott 13 to 5, Duchess of Milpitas 5½, Mary S. 10, Hy Dy 20, Charmer 25 to 1. Good start. Mamie Scott led to the last eighth, then Little Cripple headed her and won easily. Winner, br g, 4, by Pirate of Penzance—Lady Stanhope. Duchess of Milpitas (b f, 3, by Duke of Norfolk—Ledette) second, driving. Hy Dy (br g, a, by Hyder Ali—Addie Warren) third. Time, 1:45.

NINETEENTH DAY—SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16.

The gentlemen who burn the midnight oil poring over "dop'e sheets; the followers of that erratic something that so frequently loses its tangible shape—"Form" were knocked out to day, and when they had regained their composure had no explanations to offer as to why the shock had been received. Goodwin II was one of four horses in the fourth race, and while Sir Richard, Morven and Hymn were picked at from the start Goodwin went back till twenties were offered about him. Then his price began to shorten under the magic influence of the clinking coin, and at post time 8 to 1 was gingerly offered. This was Goodwin's fourth start here and his performances have been far from notable. His Eastern form, however, was of a higher class, and while he was regarded as a stake horse on his first appearance here his defeat by a mediocre lot had relegated him to the ranks of dogs in the eyes of the talent. He ran second to Lissak at Latonia, May 30th in a mile purse race, carrying 118½ pounds to Lissak's 117, being beaten only three parts of a length, and won the Maiden Stakes at six and a half furlongs at Louisville, May 9th, with 105 pounds up in 1:21½. His first start here was at seven furlongs, on a sloppy track, and he was not in the race, finishing third to Wawona and Centurion in 1:32. In his last race on a sticky track, he ran third to Hymn and Ross, and on his last start previous to this one was behind Cabrillo, Ross and Mt. Roy at five furlongs in 1:01½, on a cuppy track. In the race to day Goodwin II carried 97 pounds. He was taken out in front, and while the spectators were looking for him to stop he kept coming until they began to hold their breath. On the turn Hymn's rider fell. Morven came out in front half a length, then Donnelly called on Goodwin and he came on and won easily in Coast record time of 1:06½.

Beatrice was a 3 to 5 favorite in the first race and won in a swinging gallop. Irene E., on even terms as second choice, looked prominent for awhile, but the latter got the place, with Trentola third. Beatrice, entered to be sold for $200, was bid up $200 by Eddie Sachs, but retained by the owner. Eddie chipped out a notch on his stick of grievances, but has one or two left.

Irma, who ran such a poor race on Tuesday, was favorite at even money for the second race, and cut out in front soon after the start. She led to the drawgate, when Bob Tucker headed her and won by a neck. The winner was at the very nice odds of 5 to 1, having receded from three's. R. H., who had been kept well up all the way, was a poor third. Franco and San Marcus, of whom better was expected, were the last ones in.

Marionette won easily in the third race, although Nic Nac gave her a little drive at the finish. Rev Alta, with 124 pounds up, was a good third. The first three horses finished as they were favored in the betting.

Little Cripple made his record four straight wins by taking the mile and a sixteenth handicap into camp. He did the trick easily, winning from Wawona in the stretch. Model was a fair third. Arundel sulked and ran last all the way.

J. O. C. won the steeplechase over the short course very easily from Mestor, who was fogged out. Haymarket, who goes up and down hill very well, as a rule, could neither run nor jump to-day.

The weather was most delightful at the track, and was even hot in the down-town streets. It must have made the Easterners think they had made a mistake and were attending a summer meeting, instead of one in the middle of November. The attendance was very large—the largest this fall—and everyone in the betting ring was as busy as a bee. The advent of better jockeys and heavier players has had a noticeable effect on the odds. Winning jockeys to day were: Rowan, T. Sloan, McClain, Donnelly, Chorn and J. Johnson.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs. Post betting—Beatrice 3 to 5, Irene E. and Rhaetia 5, imp. Trentola 12, Von Dunk 30, Bert and Pert Child 40 to 1. Good start. Beatrice led most all the way and won in a gallop. Winner, b f, 3, by St. Saviour—Miss Nutford. Rhaetia (b f, 2, by imp. Brutus—Moesta) second, driving; imp. Trentola (b h, 5, by Trenton—Gondola) third. Time, 1:01½.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling. Post betting—Irma 1, Franco and Bob Tucker 5, San Marcus 6, De Groat 20, R. H. 100 to 1. Good start. R. H. showed first, then Irma led to the drawgate, where Bob Tucker caught her and won easily by a neck. Winner, br g, 3, by Bob Miles—Sonora. Irma (b f, 3, by St. Saviour—Ella T.) second, easily; R. H. (ch g, a, by Baywater Jr.—by Oregon Charlie) third. Time, 1:02.

Third race—Six furlongs, selling, light-welter weights. Post betting—Marionette 3 to 2, Nic Nac 11 to 5, Valiente 5, Rev Alta 10, Edgemount 12, Morgan G. 40, Adelante 100 to 1. Good start. Marionette led all the way, and won easily by a half-length. Winner, ch f, 2, by imp. Mariner—Maranette. Nic Nac (ch f, 2, by Take Notice—Picnic), second, easily; Rev Alta (ch g, 3, by Alta—Fannie D.), third. Time, 1:14½.

Fourth race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Post betting—Hymn 13 to 5, Sir Richard 6 to 10, Morven 4½, Goodwin II 8 to 1. Fair start. Goodwin led most all the way. Hymn's rider fell. Winner, ch c, by imp. Ill Used—Little Hopes. Sir Richard (gr h, 5, by Stratford or imp. Uhlan—Victress) second easily. Morven (b g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Lurline) third. Time, 1:09½.

Fifth race—One and one-sixteen miles, handicap. Post betting—Little Cripple 4 to 5, Arundel 5½, Wawona 6, Model 7, Flirtilla 12 to 1. Good start. Little Cripple won easily. Winner, br g, 4, by imp. Pirate of Penzance—Lady Stanhope. Wawona (ch g, 4, by imp. Sir Modred—Typhoon) second easily. Model (ch f, 3, by imp. Sir Modred—Gypsey) third. Time, 1:47.

Sixth race—Steeplechase, short course, about one and one-half miles. Post betting—J. O. C. 8 to 5, Autuil 11 to 5, Mestor 4, Nellie G. 8, Haymarket 10, Gold Dust 15 to 1. J. O. C. won easily. Winner, ch g, 3, by Apache—Irene. Mestor (b g, 5, by Falsetto—Woodlark) second easily; Gold Dust (b g, 5, by Oro—Gold Cup) third. Time, 3:26½.

TWENTIETH DAY—MONDAY, NOVEMBER 18.

To-day was another one of those delightfully balmy days so often experienced in the Golden State in the fall and winter months. The bookies were rushed all day, and laid aside coats and vests as superfluous and hindering accoutrements. One long shot, Morgan G., at 6 to 1, was the only one to break the line of favorites, so the talent felt very happy. The event of the day was the last race, a mile selling affair, with six very well-matched horses, at the weights. Montana, at one time with 25 to 1 about him, was played down to twelves, all the stable boys putting their few beans on with pleasing confidence. If the horse was not pulled, he was ridden by a boy that should never be given a mount again. He was full of run, but was choked back, and made most of the distance with his mouth wide open. The judges have taken Williams' ride under consideration. It was a very bad ride, whatever the reasons were. The race was a pretty one and the finish as close as any ardent lover of the sport could wish. Detective won from Fannie Louise in the last few jumps by a neck, after the filly had set a clipping pace from the hackstretch. Hy Dy came up with a rush and there was so little to spare between them that it required the judges' keen eyes to decide that Fannie had it. The time was 1:40½. Detective got away fourth, so his run will be a good line as to this horse's measure.

The first two races to day were at light welter weights, with jockeys who had not ridden a winner this year on the flat. Selkirk and Allahabad went to the post on equal terms as choice of the talent for the first division, but the former's chances looked very blue after C. Long had let him run his distance on false breaks. Hedgers got their money on Allahabad, and Long d'Or, who looked very well and was a reputed good thing, went from 20 to 12 to 1 at the close. Selkirk ran away from his field when the flag fell and won pulled up. Allahabad was second, with Rogation, driving, third. Long d'Or finished fifth.

Another had lot of boys were on the second division of welter weights, and a long delay was the consequence. Mt. Roy, the favorite, led to the stretch, then Morgan G. was sent along and caught Eva S., who was a good second all the way, and challenged the leader. In the last furlong Johnson got his colt out in front and won by a length, Mt. Roy dropping back third, two lengths behind Eva S. gelding. Morgan G. was at the good price of 6 to 1.

Caliente was a hot favorite for the third race at 8 to 5, with Endymion, second choice, at 4½ to 1. Endymion led from early in the race to the drawgate, where Caliente came on and won easily by two lengths. Jack Atkins was a good third.

There were two races at a mile on the card, a division of the twelve entries for the fourth event. Monita was a slight favorite over Centurion at post time for the first division. Chorn outrode the others and won by a neck from Olivia, who ran a very much improved race over her last performance and passed Centurion at the wire. Charmer led into the stretch, with a slow pace, when the favorite was sent along and Charmer went back and finished fourth behind Centurion.

Grady, at 11 to 5 in the betting, was a slight favorite over Ferris Hartman and Oregon Eclipse for the fifth race, at five and a half furlongs, for all ages. Midlo, the speedy two-year-old, was not liked, principally an account of his jockey, and his price wandered back from threes to sevens. This judgment proved correct, as he was never better than last. Ferris Hartman looked a winner to the drawgate, where Willie Martin brought Oregon Eclipse up and won handily from Hartman by a length. Grady was a close up third.

Winning jockeys to-day were C. Long, J. Johnson, Chorn, Coady, W. Martin and Chevalier.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five and a half furlongs, selling, light welter weights. Post betting—Selkirk and Allahabad 11 to 5, Little Flush gelding 6, Corrine Buckingham 12, Prince Devine, Rogation, Leonatus and Long d'Or 20 to 1. Good start. Selkirk led all the way and won pulled up. Winner ch h, a, by Verano—Genovivia. Allahabad (b g, 3, by Hyder Ali—Floride) second, driving; Rogation (ch g, 3, by Surinam—Mistletoe) third. Time, 1:08½.

Second race—Five and a half furlongs, selling, light welter weights. Post betting—Mt. Roy 8 to 5, Eva S. II. gelding 2½, Morgan G. 6, Bob Tucker 8, Dorsey 9, Josie G. 20, Miss Murphy 40 to 1. Good start. Mt. Roy led to stretch, and Morgan G. won in last furlong. Winner br g, 3, by Joe Hooker—Bonita. Eva S. II. gelding (ch g, 3, by Equador—Eva S. II.) second, driving; Mt. Roy (h g, 4, by Faustus—Mt. City Belle) third. Time, 1:02½.

Third race—Five furlongs, selling, two year-olds. Post betting—Caliente 9 to 5, Endymion 4½, Walter J. 5½, Fireman 10, Little Flush filly, Suffrage and Don Pedro 12 to 1, Jack Atkins 40 to 1. Good start. Endymion led to the last eighth when Caliente came on and won easily. Winner ch c, by El Rio Rey—Hettie Humphrey. Imp. Endymion (ch g, by Enterprise—Sapientia) second driving. Jack Atkins (b g, by Regent—Miss Sadie) third. Time, 1:01½.

Fourth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Monita 13 to 5, Centurion 14 to 5, Chbarmer 4, Olivia 5, Schnitz 6, Elmer F. 20 to 1. Good start. Monita won from the drawgate in a drive. Winner h g, 4, by St. Saviour—Nighthawk. Olivia (b f, 3, by Emperor of Norfolk—Dollie L.) second, driving. Centurion (ch g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Lizzie P.) third. Time, 1:41½.

Fifth race—Five and a half furlongs, all ages. Post betting—Grady 11 to 5, Oregon Eclipse 12 to 5, Ferris Hartman 13 to 5, Midlo 7, Eacino 15, Soon Enough 60 to 1. Fair start. Ferris Hartman took the lead on the far turn and gave way to Oregon Eclipse in the last eighth. Winner, ch g, a, by Joe Hooker—Lulu Riggs. Ferris Hartman (b g, 2, by imp. Woodlands—Honora), second, driving; Grady (h c, 2, by Three Cheers—Gold Cup), third. Time, 1:07½.

Sixth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Detective 1, Fannie Louise 2, Duchess of Milpitas 4, Montana 12, Hy Dy 15, Mary S. 40 to 1. Good start. Fannie Louise took the lead on the back stretch and held it almost to the end. Detective heating her out by a neck. Winner, h g, 3, by imp. Deceiver—Exile. Fannie Louise (b f, 3, by imp. Darebin—Nellie Peyton) second, driving; Hy Dy (br g, a, by Hyder Ali—Addie Warren) third. Time, 1:40½.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY—TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 19.

The card to-day did not hold any very high-class attractions as evidenced by the attendance which was a little thinner than for some days past. The best event on the programme was spoiled by scratches and declared off. Four of the five favorites won, and the talent was in high glee. The mystic and fatal thirteen represented the number of book-making firms that cut in to-day—which, of course, had nothing to do with the results of the day's business.

The weather was delightful and apparently most conducive to speed as fast time was made in most of the races. Toano showed notable sprinting abilities, doing the five and a half furlongs in a quarter second slower than track record time.

There was quite a delay at the post in the first race, caused by Burmah's bad actions. When they got away Gondola, the favorite, showed first, but gave place to Soledad at once, and he led into the stretch by two lengths. In a hard crive in the last eighth Gondola got out in front and won by a length, Soledad getting the place handily from Burmah by three lengths.

Duchess of Towers was made favorite for the second event at five and a half furlongs, with Last Chance a very popular second choice. Another long delay at the post occurred in this race. Toano kicked around like a circus horse, and The Judge took a little spin of a quarter of a mile. When the bunch was sent away Toano immediately assumed the lead and held it with such ease that Hennessy began to grin as he thought of the good thing he was on, and did not get his face straightened out by the time he got back to the judges' stand. Toano went back in the betting from 7 to 12 to 1, and was apparently friendless. Duchess of Towers did not run her race and was said to be sore, finishing three parts of a length behind Last Chance, who was five lengths behind the winner. The surprisingly good time of 1:06½ was hung up, and shows that Toano for once more in his life was full of run.

Laura F., Barney Schreiber's good black filly, was favorite in the third race, at five and a half furlongs for two-year-olds, at 2 to 1, with Perhaps, and St. Lee very well thought of. Perhaps made another one of his runaway races, and won all the way, though St. Lee came up on him at the wire almost. Shaw made a masterly ride and got every bit possible out of the little brown, who was dying away under him after his hard run. St. Lee could not get him, and swerved almost against Perhaps on the wire. The run was made in 1:07½, and both horses were very tired. Belle Boyd ran into third place, three lengths behind St. Lee, Laura F. half a length further back.

Judge Tam, the favorite in the field of eleven two-year-old maidens, won his race in the last few yards, Jerry Chorn outriding Rowan and stealing a race that Irma seemed to hold secure. It was a bad lot, and after the two horses named had got through their battle the others straggled in, fond hopes, as most of them do, going entirely wrong and bringing up the rear of a badly distanced field.

Happy Day, the favorite at even money, won the last race at a mile in easy style, after San Luis Rey had run himself out. Leonville took the lead from the latter at the turn into the stretch, but could not keep out of Happy Day's way, who came on and headed him in the last 100 yards and led to the wire easily. Don Caesar ran up a good third to Leonville, and San Luis Rey died away to next to last. The time was slow—1:42—and Happy Day was piling onto his field all the way.

Winning jockeys to-day were Chorn two, Hennessy, Shaw and McIntyre one each.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Post betting—Gondola 6 to 5, Silver and Soledad 4, Burmah 7, Prince 12, Sindab 50 and Kitty A. 100 to 1. Good start. Soledad led most all the way, then Gondola came on and won in a drive. Winner, b m, 5, by Frank Rhoades—Della. Soledad (b g, 5, by Ironclad—unknown) second handily. Burmah (b g, 3, by Bersan—Fair Lady) third. Time, 1:08.

Second race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Post betting—Duchess of Towers 7 to 10, Last Chance 4½, Toano 12, Hiram Argo 15, Beatrice 15, Sleeping Child 15, Soledad 30. The Judge 25. Good start. Toano led all the way and won pulling up. Winner b g, a, by Longfellow—Salara. Last Chance (ch g, 4, by Duke of Norfolk—Vedette) second, driving. Duchess of Towers (br f, 5, by Algerine—imp. Presto) third. Time, 1:06½.

Third race—Five and a half furlongs, selling, for two-year-olds. Post betting—Laura F., 2, Perhaps 3, St. Lee 4½, Belle Boyd 8, Marionette 10, Virgie A. and Claude Hill 25, Veva 40 and Miss Pollard 100 to 1. Good start. Perhaps led all the way and won in a drive by a half length in front of St. Lee. Winner, br g, 2, by Kosciusko—May Viley. St. Lee (b c, 2, by imp. St. George—Levee), second, driving; Belle Boyd (ch f, by El Rio Rey—Sylvia), third. Time, 1:07½.

Fourth race—Six furlongs. Post betting—Judge Tam 8 to 5, Irma 16 to 5, Ida Sauer and Fond Hope 8, Lady Splendor 10, Valparaiso 12, R. H. 25, Silver Lip and Huguenot 30, Great Falls 80 to 1. Good start. Irma led to the last eighth when Chorn brought Judge Tam up and took the race. Winner, ch g, 3, by Nick of the Woods—Retta B. Irma (h f, 3, by St. Saviour—Ella T.) second driving; Valparaiso (h g, 4, by imp. Cheviot—Verona) third. Time, 1:15½.

Fifth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Happy Day 1, Leonville 11 to 5, San Luis Rey 3, Don Caesar 12, Faro 30, Favory 60 to 1. Good start. San Luis Rey led to the last turn, when Leonville headed him. In the last 100 yards Happy Day got out in front and won easily. Winner br g, a, by Emperor—Felicity. Leonville (br g, 4, by Leonatus—Villette) second, driving. Don Caesar (h c, 3, by imp. Brutus—Bessie) third. Time, 1:42.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 20.

A day of excellent sport had a rather serious ending. Before the last race was called a bank of fog rolled across the track. It was so dense as to leave only the lower half below the grand stand visible to spectators. The last number was a five hurdle race at one and a quarter miles. Few saw the start, but finally one after another of the six horses loomed up and hore down towards the stand. There were three green 'uns in the field and it was a spilling match all the way. Lady Splendor's jockey could not keep her seat and went over her head, balancing on the back of his neck for awhile, finally arising unhurt. Then some one with exceedingly keen eyes announced that the boy was off Tom Clarke on the hackstretch. Some wag gave the cry "All boys off," and it started a little stir among the betting element a t sounded more like "all bets off." When the "leppers" came into sight again Soon Enough, who had been in the lead, presumably all the way, held the race in hand easily, with Amigo a poor second. Dick O'Malley came on riderless—where his rider fell none knew—and then Adelante straggled in about half a city block behind the winner. Soon Enough had been played off most of the boards. When Stanford, the rider of Dick O'Malley was found and brought into the paddock it was found he had sustained a fracture of several ribs and his collarbone. Before the race Stanford declared it would be the last time he would ride Dick O'Malley, or the horse would kill him.

The card proved a most interesting one throughout, and was the best mid-week attraction offered for some time. The attendance was not up to recent form, but the crowd was a most energetic and industrious one. Those who were not trying to get their money out at the best prices were entertainingly employed following the plungers to learn their preferences. The opinions of the big bettors are at times as divergent as the eccentricities of form and do not afford much relief to the weary brained talent.

Governor Budd, Matt Storn's good green colt, showed the stuff that was in him in the first race. He got off last, behind a well-bunched field, and seemed unable to get going. Canvasback led to the stretch, with San Marcus in second place. Prince Hooker took command in the run home, but Willie Martin had brought Governor Budd up from the rear and came within a nose of taking the purse from Hooker on the wire.

Jim Corbett, a long-shot that wandered around from 40 to 75 to 1, and with a boy up that had never ridden in a race before, upset all careful calculations on form and won by a neck in a drive from Ida Sauer. Irma, the favorite, did not last out and was third. Coburn, the rider of Corbett, showed he was a lad of rare judgment. He knew enough to sit still and let his horse win.

The third race, a five furlongs handicap for all ages, had five hot ones in, and all were played. Considerable money went in on Potentate after his price had been allowed to lengthen, then after he had been hammered down again each of the others had a little turn. Potentate and Fly were about on even terms at post time at 2½ to 1, with Star Ruby, Green B. Morris' Hampton—Ornament colt, very much liked at 3½ to 1. Blue Bell was at 4 and Robin Hood II the outsider at 8 to 1. Fly showed the way into the stretch, when he was beaten off, and Potentate, big, strong and magnificent, came on and won in a gallop in 1:00 flat. Star Ruby was short of a hard race, but came through the stretch and nipped the place from Fly. Blue Bell was a very tired filly. Potentate ran a dog like race on his last appearance, on a good track, and finished behind Thelma and America at five and a half furlongs in 1:08. To-day with seven pounds more weight he runs like a race horse and could have gone dangerously close to the record.

McLight and Model were equal favorites at post time in the mile handicap, at 2½ to 1. McLight never looked better and ran a very excellent race in the good time of 1:40½. Model showed the way beyond the half-pole, then Chorn, who rode a well paced race, began to move up with McLight. He came on easily and won by a length from Model, who was two lengths in front of Wawona. Imp. Ivy was thought to have a very good chance in this race, with only ninety pounds up, but C. Slaughter got her cut off three times and lost all hopes.

Rosebud won the selling race at six furlongs from Charmion by three lengths, after heading Yemen coming into the stretch. Charmion stood a hard drive and nipped Yemen out by a head for the place. The distance was not to Yemen's liking, and he tired badly.

Winning jockeys were Chorn two, Coady, Coburn, Donnelly and Hennessy.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five furlongs, selling, maidens two years old. Post betting: Prince Hooker 9 to 5, Governor Budd 5 to 2, San Marcus 6, Moran 10, Skalkaho 12, Canvasback and Mabel L. 20, Vicksburg 40, Diana filly 100 to 1. Good start. Prince Hooker won through the stretch, Governor Budd almost catching him at the wire. Winner ch c, by Joe Hooker—Princess Norfolk. Governor Budd (b g, by Fresno—Rosa G.) second driving; Moran (br g by Patten—Louise Forrest) third. Time, 1:02.

Second race—About six furlongs, selling. Post betting—Irma 35, Ziragozi 4, April 7, Ida Sauer 10, Silver Lip 25, R. H. 30, Al. Broeck and Jim Corbett 100 to 1. Good start. Irma led to the stretch, then Ida Sauer headed her. Jim Corbett won on the wire by a neck. Winner, b g, 4, by Wild-Idle—Rachel. Ida Sauer (ch f, 3, by Joe Hooker—Addie O'Neil) second driving; Irma (b f, 3, by St. Saviour—Ella T.) third. Time, 1:14½.

Third race—Five furlongs, handicap, all ages. Post betting—Potentate (115) 2½, Fly (107) 11 to 5, Star Ruby (110) 3½, Blue Bell (100) 4, Robin Hood II (104) 8 to 1. Good start. Fly led into stretch, then Potentate came on and won easily. Winner, b h, 4, by Hayden Edwards—Amelia P. Star Ruby, b c, 3, by Hampton—Ornament) second, driving; Fly (ch g, 4, by Reveille—Fusillade's Last) third. Time, 1:00.

Fourth race—One mile, handicap. Post betting—McLight (110) and Model (92) 2½, Wawona (97) 16 to 5, Remus (105) 6 and imp. Ivy (90) 8 to 1. Good start. McLight won easily from Model in the stretch. Winner, ch h, 4, by McDuff—Longalight. Model (ch f, 3, by imp. Sir Modred—Gypsy) second, driving; Wawona (ch g, 4, by Sir Modred—Typhoon) third. Time, 1:40½.

Fifth race—Six furlongs, selling. Post betting—Rosebud 4 to 5, Yemen 9 to 5, Charmion 6 to 1. Good start. Rosebud headed Yemen on the last turn and won easily; winner ch f, 3, by Tyrant—Rosenary. Charmion (ch m, 5, by Tyrant—Unit) second, driving; Yemen (ch g, a, by Alarm—Hira) third. Time, 1:14½.

Sixth race—One and one-quarter miles over five hurdles. Post betting—Soon Enough 1 to 2, Amigo 5, Adelante 6, Tom Clarke 10, Dick O'Malley 15, Lady Splendor 50 to 1. Good start. Soon Enough led all the way and won easily. Riders fell from Lady Splendor, Dick O'Malley and Tom Clarke. Winner ch g, 3, by El Rio Rey—Sooner. Amigo (b g, a, by Joe Daniels—Partisana) second, easily; Adelante (b c, 3, by El Rio Rey—Ogalena) third. Time, 2:18½.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 21.

Ordinary would not express the class of horses that were sent to the post-to-day at Bay District track. Five of the events were with selling conditions, and they called out only a very ordinary lot of platers. The weather changed from hot to cold, and the horses did not run up to fast time. The attendance showed a slight improvement over the past few days, and a number of new faces were seen in the ring. The old-time two and three dollar plungers are overshadowed and instead of holding solemn conference between races over "dope" sheets are wearing out shoe leather trying to keep pace with the plungers. The first event was taken into camp quite cleverly by Empire, the favorite. He was poorly ridden turning wide into the stretch, but he passed Rogation, Burmah and Modesto, who were all together close to the wire. Rogation was second and Burmah third. Empire had not been out for several months and did very creditably, considering the way he was handled.

Zeta, an odds-on favorite, and Veva ran head and head to head to the stretch in the second race, a five furlong dash for two-year-olds. Then Slaughter sent Tiny, a 15 to 1 shot, along and by dint of superior riding got the purse by a nose from Veva, who had gotten away from Zeta. Spry Lark was a very warm second choice, but did not give her backers a run for their money.

Red Root was an odds on favorite and was a veritable cinch in the third race, a selling event at one mile, and won in a gallop from the head of the stretch. Sheridan was a poor second, with Haymarket a close-up third. Long d'Or led to the stretch, but died away.

Laura F. was the even-money favorite for the next race, at five furlongs, with five speedy ones in. Midlo was next in favor at 9 to 5. Midlo raced out in front from flag-fall and held the lead with apparent ease, but when it came to the final struggle at the wire Chorn, who had kept Laura F. within easy striking distance, outdrew Donnelly and got the judgment by a nose. It was a neat finish, but one in which jockey and not horse was entitled to all the honors. Monitor third, five lengths away, did not run his race.

Strathmeath was scratched out of the fifth race, a six furlong dash for three-year-olds and up, leaving it a three-cornered affair. Thelma was a prohibitive favorite, closing at 9 to 20, with Montana 2 to 1, and Linville at most any price. Thelma was the only thing in the race from the start. Montana had no speed and could not get anywhere near the brown mare, though she did not go the distance faster than 1:14. He was not even a good second, as he was only two lengths in front of Linville in a drive.

Detective was rubbed off most of the boards in the last race, and 2½ and 3 to 1 posted for the field. Not better than 1 to 4 was taken, and not wanted at that. Olivia, on her recent good race, was a warm second choice over the balance. Ike L. was at 50 to 1, with quite a little play on him for place, and Josephine received considerable support also for place honors. Detective did not suffer anything to get near him after the bunting swished, and won galloping by two lengths from Ike L., who had kept him closest company all the way. Olivia ran last all the way, just passing Josephine at the wire. Charmer, with Tod Sloan up, was thought to be very sure for the place, but was a half length behind Ike L., the mare coming with a rush too late to be effective.

Winning jockeys were Chorn two, Chevalier two, Slaughter and Burns.

SUMMARIES.

First race—Five and a half furlongs, selling. Post betting: Empire 3½, Hiram Argo and Talhot Clifton 4, Modesto 7, Burmah and Carina 10, Trentola 15, Rogation 20 to 1. Good start. Empire won in a drive at the wire. Winner b g, a, by Chester—Queen of the Nation. Rogation (ch g, 3, by Surinam—Mistletoe) second, driving; Burmah (b g, 3, by Bersaa—Fair Lady) third. Time, 1:09½.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling, two-year-olds. Post betting—Zeta 9 to 10, Spry Lark 11 to 5, Veva 9, Nevare 12, Tiny and Lotta 15 to 1. Good start. Tiny won in a drive by a nose. Winner br f, by Fresno—Varona. Veva (ch f, by imp. Greenback—Lillie W.) second, driving; Zeta (b f, by imp. True Briton—Cosette) third. Time, 1:02.

Third race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Red Root 4 to 5, Haymarket 3½, Silver Lip 8, Long d'Or and Alliance 15, Sheridan 20, Joe Hill 60 to 1. Good start. Red Root won in a gallop. Winner, ch g, a, by imp. London—Cameo. Sheridan (ch h, a, by Young Bazar—Lost Girl), second, driving; Haymarket (b g, a, by Storey—Ultimo), third. Time, 1:44½.

Fourth race—Five furlongs, selling, for two-year-olds. Post betting—Laura F. 1, Midlo 9 to 5, Monitor 8, Easel 25, Isabelle 50 to 1. Good start. Laura F. won by a nose in a drive at the wire. Winner, blk f, by Fremont—Sallie Hagen. Midlo (b g, by imp. Midlothian—Electric Light) second, driving; Monitor (ch g, by imp. Sir Modred—Visalia) third. Time, 1:01.

Fifth race—Six furlongs. Post betting—Thelma 9 to 20, Montana 2, Linville 80 to 1. Good start. Thelma won pulling up. Winner, br m, 4, by John Happy—Pansy. Montana (b h, a, by Storey—Uga), second, driving; Linville (b g, 5, by Warwick—Shasta), third. Time, 1:14.

Sixth race—One mile, selling. Post betting—Detective 1 to 4, Olivia 8, Charmer 9, Ike L. and Josephine 50 to 1. Good start. Detective won in a gallop. Winner, b g, 3, by imp. Deceiver—Exile. Ike L. (ch c, 3, by Major Ban—Miss Flush) second, driving; Charmer (ch m, 5, by Wildidle—Turban) third. Time, 1:42.

JOHN GOLDSMITH is again confined to his bed at the old homestead in Washingtonville, N. Y. He had a severe siege of it last Winter, and but recently left the surgeon's care. The physicians forbade him to mount a sulky again, and his failure to heed their advice has probably brought about a relapse, which it is hoped will not prove serious.

The great stallion Directum, 2:05½, arrived at Lexington last Saturday morning, and is now comfortably quartered in Gil Curry's barn at the Lexington track. The stallion is in excellent condition, harring his legs, and looks as fine as can be. He will be fired in both hind legs, and it is thought that he can be gotten in shape for a campaign after his stud season is over.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

INGLESIDE RACECOURSE.—Last Monday morning I accompanied Mr. Seymour, who was the popular landlord of The Russ House for so many years, on a trip to the new course of the Pacific Jockey Club. As beautiful a morning as the most exacting sybarite could desire, and the other essentials to a pleasant trip not wanting. In the first place, just the right sort of a "team." A pair of chestnut mares of medium size, so perfectly broken that words were all that were necessary to control them, and so handy that where there was room for the wagon one could depend upon them getting it through safely. Among the vehicles on the crowded streets, over piles of macadam—where the way was broken to lay a continuation of the rails over which the electric cars will soon run on the route to the course—across the gutter and on to the sidewalk where there was no other way to avoid obstacles and between electric and cable cars with as much equanimity as a man would display in the same situation.

Not at all surprising that Mr. Seymour is proud of them, as he "got them together," and practically broke them while he has been their only teacher in the way they should go. A thirty miles' drive the day before had not taken off even the edge of their readiness to take a very lively clip when the road was favorable for speed, and that rate kept up without any tendency to leave their feet though the reins were loose.

As Mr. Seymour scarcely allows a day to pass without driving every street in the city, appears to be as familiar to him as those of a country village to the residents, and from the St. George Stables on Bush street to the end of the drive every foot of the ground known. Through byways and lanes to escape cobbles, a turn into a street which as yet was free from the traffic of a big city, in fact, whenever an advantage could be secured it was taken.

Then as guide and companion Mr. S. was invaluable. Every point of interest shown and the history related, and I must acknowledge a gruesome feeling when Emanuel Church was passed and thoughts came of the two glad young lives ruthlessly ended within its walls.

As stated before the street was broken up where the electric road will run, and if the number of teams and men at work can be taken as a token, hard as the job appears, it will be completed in time for the opening of the course on Thanksgiving Day. I was informed that the contractor averred that the task would be completed by Saturday night, and should it prove that he is not over sanguine in his expectations, there will be a throng of passengers from to-morrow on.

We drove through the carriage entrance gate, which is not far from the far turn of the track, skirted that semicircle, or rather followed the edge of the upper part of the cut, and that first sight convinced one that drainage had been duly attended to, as the cut was very much lower than the base of the course, so that the pipes which ran through would never be obstructed with back water.

The stables are grouped on the hillside to the south of the backstretch. An admirable location, high and dry, segregated so that should a fire occur in one it could be confined to the building it originated in. Without leaving the wagon it was readily seen that these prime essentials to race courses are of the very best pattern, and I am told that beside provisions for the horses those, for their attendants are equally good.

We drove out on the track around the "first turn" and so far as could be told from the wagon seat that, too, is decidedly first class. The body of the track is material taken from the cuts, the top dressing a black loam, and from the footprints of the horses, and the markings of the wheels something of the same kind of soil as the prairies of Iowa. Should it have the same properties it will be well adapted for the purpose, and though it looks as though it might be slippery in wet weather the reports are that the heavy rains of two weeks ago did not show that to be the case.

My only intention in this brief visit was to get a general idea of the course and the improvements, as matter for a detailed account would require a thorough survey, and to describe it properly a great deal of space. Therefore, there was only a cursory examination of the grand stand and adjoining buildings, a glance from the "winning score" up the stretch, a "long, fond look" at the general characteristics, greatly disappointed, however, that there was a haze which hid the ocean, as, to the best of my recollection, there must be a grand marine view from the stand.

Nearly twenty-one years since I was in that neighborhood, and since then have grown forest of pine, cypress, eucalyptus and other trees, which add greatly to the beauty of the country. The grand stand is a model so far as utility is concerned. By no means without beauty, though evidently adaptability for the intended uses was the first consideration, and admirably has that been carried out. It stands at such an angle that spectators will not be in each other's way and at every point of the course, after the first quarter, there will be a clear view to the occupants. Seats and passages between them are commodious, and the only drawback is that facing southerly, the afternoon sun may be somewhat troublesome. And then again, not entirely a disadvantage, as in winter time the rays of the God of the Fire Worshipers are oftentimes very welcome, and then when its course is low it does not blaze with the fervor of midsummer. Until the trial is made I shall not go on record as denouncing this feature, as it may prove a grand boon indeed, adding to the pleasure of witnessing the races that of being bathed in sunbeams of just the right temperature to bring thorough climatic enjoyment.

Under the upper story of the stand it seems to me the arrangements are perfect, and so far as could be told before the finishing touches are put on nothing has been left undone to further the comforts of those who seek the lower story. Elliptical counters where crowds can be waited on with exceeding despatch, and where hunger and thirst can be allayed without the jangle and crash which usually prevail. The bourse, to use a foreign term, the exchange, where coin or notes of the realm can be transferred with the least discomfort to people who would fain "swap" for tickets bearing cabalistic signs, some of which will be carefully treasured until the time of redemption, others cast away with a sigh from one division, a growl from another, while others will tear the pasteboard with a snap and an exclamation in words of high flavor—is so well planned as to merit encomiums from bookmakers and their patrons. Thorough ventilation, well lighted, as, in addition to the open front and the windows behind, the roof is mainly glass. There is plenty of room between the two tiers of boxes, twelve on each side, so that this important part of modern racing has been given due consideration.

The saddling paddock is a great improvement on those I have seen. In place of stalls, where the attendants of the horse are bothered by the crowding of spectators, there are boxes, the upper part of which is formed by a screen of heavy wire netting. The horses are in full sight, and at the same time protected from intrusion, while undergoing the finishing part of their toilets, and also lessening the dangers of the lookers on. The room for jockeys is at the far end of the saddling paddock, so that they are removed from influences which are none too good. "Real cute" the stands for judges and timers, placed, of course, as is now the custom, on the main racecourses of the country.

It took a great deal of persistency to overcome the prejudice in favor of placing the judges stand on the inside of the course. Nearly thirty years ago I battled for the change, and when I had almost full scope on the track at Chicago could not prevail on the club to make the change.

Mr. Theodore Winters was the first to put the judges' stand on the right side of the course in California, and the Oakland track the second. These stands on the course of the P. C. J. are good patterns to follow, the only improvement that I could suggest being a sinking of the floor of the weighing-in room, thus giving a chance to lower the judges' apartment and thereby bringing them nearer the level of the horses. Still the elevation gives a better view of jockeys and horses, and at the finish the position of the judge can be changed at will by standing on the steps below.

Very little chance for adverse criticism, from what I saw, of the Ingleside course. That all of the late Eastern improvements have been introduced is more than probable, and should there be minor defects, shown by practical workings, these, unquestionably, will be rectified.

Notwithstanding the array of imposing buildings in the foreground, the handsome course, and beyond that the blocks of substantial stables on the further side, there was an air of loneliness. It seemed queer that in so well appointed a racing ground there should be no signs of life. True it was in the middle of the day when horses and their attendants would be taking a siesta, and a few hours later the evening walk would give life and color to the scene. Then the haze which hid the ocean and veiled the summits of the hills narrowed the prospect. There was not breeze enough to shiver the leaves of the eucalyptus trees or sough through the branches of pines and cypress. A strange, wierd stillness, when associated with so finished a race course, grand stand and other buildings in all the glory of new paint, the P. J. C. ensign fluttering from the stall on the summit. Like the building of King Solomon's temple "neither sound of axe, hammer, saw or tool of iron heard," as the workmen engaged in completing the work were eating their lunches in the lower story of the stand. When the steam and electric cars come puffing, sputtering, whizzing through the pass to the eastward, where thousands are crowding their way to seats and filling up the huge space in the bourse and thronging the esplanade between stands and course it will be anything but lonely. Livelier yet, far more exhilarating when the horses are marshaled on the course, and, with a background the most effective to give distinctness to the colors, what a kaleidoscopic blending of "silks and satins" as the "high mettled racers" rush through the stretches and fly around the curves. In the stillness of Monday one could fancy that the rubbing of stirrups, the rustle of the jackets and the cadence of the footfalls in the soft earth could be distinctly heard at the furthest point. Far from that when the actors are on the stage and the spectators gathered. The upper part of the stand a mass of gay colors, or rather a contrast of grave and gay costumes. The lower section not so brilliantly arrayed but fully as much eagerness and excitement. What a contrast! still further heightened as the horses draw towards the end of the struggle. When the starting flag falls a shout to indicate that the contest has begun; then a hum, a mingling of undertones as positions change, all too much absorbed, however, in the varying changes, the shiftings of the figures in the moving picture to give loud utterance to their feelings. The pent up emotions cannot be restrained when the real issue is at hand. The time for cheers has not come. Words of encouragement, as though jockeys and horses could be animated when far beyond the reach of their voices, and thousands, perhaps, joining in the fervent exordiums. The horses are past the goal, and then huzzas that a squadron of Cossacks might emulate but not excel.

The drive from the course was over better ground than that traversed on the outward journey. The same road traveled a score of years ago but the growth of trees already mentioned a great improvement over the barrenness of that day. A cozy looking retreat the road house which also bears the name of Ingleside, and then another at the head of a glen at the foot of which horses and cattle were grazing. So near a big city and yet not a sight or sound to denote its proximity.

The road smooth for the most of the way and the cheery mares anxious to go faster than my inclination, with so much to see and admire.

Through Golden Gate Park to the speed drive and then Mr. Seymour very kindly drove to the summit of Strawberry hill. Glimpses of bits of rare scenery through the haze which still overhung the ocean. That warm sort of envelopment somewhat like that of Indian summer in the East, though in a measure tantalizing, hiding so much I was fain to see.

We left the St. George at 11 A. M. and after the team was duly domiciled at Dickey's we were in time to see the first race of the day on the Bay District course. Therefore less than three hours were occupied in a journey which had so many sights to observe and which gave such a good return in the way of enjoyment. And the races, too, were full of interest, a favorite of mine winning the first race, one of the "old stock," Caliente, setting a capital race to his credit, and then one of the best rated races for a mile, and so well contested, that of the six horses engaged five "were in it" till the winning score was close at hand.

Still more gratified to meet Captain Rees, presiding judge at the new track, his associate Mr. Murphy, the starter Mr. Caldwell and other gentlemen from the East, among them Senator McCarren from Brooklyn, N. Y., who tells one of the best stories anent his defeat in that burg I ever heard.

The evidence of the cordiality between the officers of the two clubs was exceedingly pleasing to me, and those prophets of evil, who take so much pleasure in predicting wars and tribulations, will surely be disappointed in this case. When all of the people—or the best portion of the people, who are interested in the horse interests of California “pull together,” “give and take” with proper appreciation of what is due to each other, compromise in place of clashing, to be brief, help each other in a brotherly, warm-hearted way I have no fears of the future. Had that been the ruling motive there would be a happier state of affairs than now exist in many sections, and surely there is good sense enough here to avoid the dangers which were too lightly regarded elsewhere.

CHANGE THE PROGRAMME.—Although the appended letter was not intended for publication, I trust my old friend will pardon me for using it in that way, inasmuch as it is a question of vital importance to trotting interests.

I am well satisfied that “the public” will hail a method which will tend to do away with the “intolerable prolongations” which are now so frequent. A majority of horsemen are also in favor of a change and therefore the natural conclusion would be that there was nothing in the way of inaugurating an improved system.

I have said a majority of horsemen, and this will require explanation. That a large number will be in favor of what might be called a mixed programme, viz, a bill combining two in three, three in five dash races and etc., is almost assured, and that nearly all can be picked out of the rut after a few trials is also certain. The main objections come from associations as the longer races, or rather those which are likely to be “long-drawn-out” are “linked sweetness” for them, one race in place of two, or it might be a whole afternoon used-up without the finish of a race.

Then when there is pool-selling or book-betting the profits are generally sustained, that appreciation not entirely due to legitimate changes but also from the laying-up heats and other offensive methods of prolonging contests.

When associations pay more attention to attracting attendance than making the most out of “of privileges,” look more towards increasing gate and stand receipts than entrance fees and inside profits, then there may come the conviction that livelier, “snappier” races will pay better than the tedious affairs which now so often prevail.

That the owners of very fast horses should be unanimously in favor of abolition of three in five races seems to be so evident that opposition from that quarter can scarcely be expected. Many of the aged horses which went from California East this year, and some of the younger, have gone wrong, and from what the papers say not a few of the Eastern division have likewise suffered. A far greater strain these very fast three in five races than longer distances. One great effort is a severe trial, a repetition of that still harder, when it comes to a succession of them it is little wonder that the strongest succumb.

Conversing with one of the most prominent drivers of the country, one that has been in the very front rank for twenty-five years, on this question, he signified his approval of two in three, and at the same time expressed his opinion in favor of the occasional three in five races. His plea was that there were horses which would not have much of a chance in an abbreviated number of heats and yet win in the longer. Granting the force of that argument, it does not follow that others should be punished for his deficiencies, and even with all the admiration that superior endurance excites, it is not right that races which should be placed on the obsolete list be continued for his benefit.

As I have written in another article, I believe that the general introduction of longer distance races than those of a “mile at a time” will be an immense benefit to harness racing. With the longer distances horses which have not speed enough to contend in their classes when “mile and repeat” is the test, will have a place in the longer.

It is unnecessary to present arguments to show that the modern system of racing cannot be adopted in trotting contests. Nothing less than a mile admissible, and even dashes at that distance confined to youngsters. But it is also beyond the field of sensible controversy to contend that many of the modern racing methods cannot be followed to advantage in harness racing, especially that part of the management which gives life to the scene.

STANFORD, Conn., October 21, 1895.

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON, Esq., Oakland, Cal.—

Friend Simpson: It occurred to me some time ago to ask you what you think of changing trotting races from three in five to two in three? I was opposed to the change five or six years ago, but I am now convinced that we must do something to shorten the contests between trotters. The horses cannot long remain sound and trot as many heats at the high rate of speed that a first or second-class horse is often required to go in these days. I think the public want races that can be decided in less time than the three in five races can be. I will grant you that men who have the innate love of the horse born in them are willing to sit all the afternoon and look at a race drawn out through seven or eight heats, but the great majority of the public that support the meetings want races that can be sure to be finished the same day. Those interested in the thoroughbred race horse learned that some time ago.

I am much pleased to note that you have retained your love of the trotting horse, and that your health continues so good that you still enjoy your daily drive in your beautiful climate. At your leisure I will be most pleased to hear from you. Believe me,

Very sincerely yours, DAVID BONNER.

ONCE MORE—Again I must correct an erroneous impression in regard to Bonnie Scotland.

In the Eastern letter which appears in The Horseman of November 14th, it is stated: “Bonnie Scotland did not succeed at all until late in life, as he got Bramble at twenty-one, Luke Blackburn at twenty-three and George Kinney at twenty-five.” Now in his first seasons in Ohio he got Malcolm, Ontario, Regent, Scotland, Surprise, Dangerous, the last named in the race won by Idlewild ran four miles faster than the time of his dam, 7:32½, which for so many years stood “the best on record.” He was still young when he got Frog-town, who, if my recollection is correct, ran the fastest three miles ever ran in Kentucky, and there are several others which in such racing as is now the fashion would have made a high mark, as there were some very speedy ones among them.

Taking opportunities into consideration, and the class of mares he had in his earlier years, few of them at that, and the comparison will not justify the assertion that he “did not succeed at all.”

COMPARATIVE ENDURANCE.—At regular intervals attempts are made to prove that the trotting-bred horses have more endurance than thoroughbreds. Not much in the way of proof, however, as, outside of those who advocate that side of the question, there are few believers, none that have a slight acquaintance with horses put any faith in so absurd a claim. The arguments are based on the ground that thoroughbreds “quit” in races even when these are over courses of less than a mile, and while this view may appear logical to people who have slight information regarding thoroughbreds, a little consideration will show its falsity. Coupled with that charge, there must necessarily be the assertion that trotters do not quit in 3 in 5 races, or, at least, a proportion of them prove such endurance as to remove the stigma in a measure, if not entirely.

Were the tests the same the argument would be valid, and that trotting bred horses had more endurance than thoroughbreds sustained by the proof presented. But there is no equality in the trials which are said to determine the relative merit. A half mile at the rate of 1:40 for the mile is a more severe trial than miles in 2:10. “The pace kills” has been so long established that it may be considered an axiom, and hence sustained speed is the real measure of endurance. There is not a horse in the world that can keep up its best rate for half a mile provided it has speed enough to win among fast classes. When Wagner and Grey Eagle met in their memorable contests on the Louisville course it was conceded that Grey Eagle had the “foot” of his antagonist, and when the “brush” was for a quarter of a mile the Kentuckian had the best of it. Wagner, however, could hold it longer and being able to keep up his clip for six hundred yards turned the scale in his favor. For high rates of speed over a distance of ground there is no question that thoroughbreds—as a breed—have more endurance than any other race, and that near strains of that blood in fast trotters will increase the endurance and gameness. Even that proposition may need qualification. There are trotters who have so much of the “old-fashioned, hard bottomed” blood of the old-time race-horses, that the characteristics of the race are predominant, and while I cannot agree that “fresh infusions” would not be beneficial to them I am quite ready to concede that they are “worthy and well qualified,” endurance as well as speed being the requirement.

MISS RITA THE TROTTER.—All who keep posted on the doings of the harness racers are aware that Miss Rita has the record for three-year-old fillies pacing, and a joint share in the double-team mark. More than that, her single performance was in a race and the 2:09½ made with so much ease that it is a “dead moral” she could knock off quite a margin of the time already made, enough, in fact, to give her the championship without regard to sex. Few, however, are aware that she is a “born trotter” and only requires practice at the way of going to emulate, maybe equal, her lateral victory. The other day when Hickok was driving her to her stall he told me that she could surely show a fifty gait at a trot, so that when I noticed her going around the turn trotting I “timed” her through the backstretch. When the second furlong of the quarter was evidently so much faster than the first I supposed that she had struck a pace, and when the watches showed 38 seconds felt that at that distance the eye had failed to detect the change of movement.

She came around the turn slower, and then from the half-mile in 1:21, still trotting, so that it was beyond dispute that a mile in 2:30 was within her capacity. Mr. Hickok said all that is required is to start her on trot and keep “clucking,” and with an increase of chirrups she will increase her speed, without endeavoring to change, and when pacing the same rule prevails. This strengthens my belief, a belief held for many years, that pacing is a natural method of progression, and that when horses are forced to the limit of their speed not allowed to run, but suffered to pace as well as trot, a great number of them will adopt that method of progression. The number of trotting-bred pacers is further corroborative.

STARTER McNAIR.—If there is a single person who does not give Mr. McNair the very highest eulogy on his starting the horses at the late Breeders’ meeting I have not met him. I have anticipated such reports from what has come from the East in regard to the faculty he has for getting horses off in good shape and without the perplexing procrastinations which are so oftentimes a part of the proceedings. From the favorable showing at Los Angeles it is nearly certain that Mr. McNair will secure employment from all the prominent associations, and should that prove a correct prediction it will be a good thing for owners, drivers and associations.

PALO ALTO SALE IN NEW YORK.—Without a dissenting voice those who have seen the young Palo Alto bred trotters which are to be sold in New York by Peter C. Kellogg & Co., on December 3d, are said to be the finest lot ever sent from that famous breeding farm. To equal former consignments is high praise, apparently as much praise as could be given with truth, though those who use the superlative are such good judges of form that the report may be accepted as substantially correct. The breeding does not require further commendation than they trace to grand sires and dams.

It would have given me much satisfaction to have seen them before they started on their long journey, especially the sons and daughters of my greatest favorite of all the great sires of the rancho, but I cannot overcome the feeling of sadness which even the thought of a visit awakens. Only once since the death of Governor Stanford has the trip been made, and that was partially perfunctory, though that one trial intensified the feeling.

It may seem like carrying sentimentalism to the extreme limit to be thus impressed, and doubtless regrets would become less intense by a frequency of visits, though as long as it exists, and unless there is urgent necessity that trip will be deferred until time accomplishes a partial change of the feeling, there will be regrets through life.

TEMPEST IN A TIN CAN.—The jangle over the Sixth District Agricultural Society can safely be called a “great cry over little wool.” Simply this, that if the directors had acted contrary to law in voting themselves pay for work done, on proper notification the money would have been returned. As I understand the matter this was not at the Fair but for a supplementary exhibition in which Mr. Salisbury’s horses played a prominent part, and the mistake made was giving it the sanction of the association.

If the newspaper reports are true—and they are very full—our Governor is not free from censure.

In place of threats of compelling them to “discharge,” and that on a repetition of the fracas, the smallest of the fighters should be “bodily thrown through the window,” a less offensive word would have been more proper; and disgraceful as the “scrap” was, the participations of the executive—as implied by the language used—would not be an improvement.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

FROM whatever standpoint one may view the racing situation in the state of New York at the present time, only one conclusion can be arrived at, and that is that the prospects for the future welfare of legitimate sport were never brighter. Never before in its history in this country have the internal affairs of the turf been in a more satisfactory condition, is the way the New York Advertiser sizes up the situation. The relations existing between the Jockey Club and horsemen are particularly cordial. There has been no friction of any kind. This state of affairs is due in no small degree to the conservative and business like methods adopted by the Jockey Club in the administration of turf law. As a consequence racing has been placed upon a higher plane, and has taken its true place as the foremost outdoor amusement of the American people. The best classes of citizens have been attracted to its support, both as patrons and as spectators. All the elements which have heretofore been in the slightest degree objectionable have been permanently eradicated, and a structure which is well nigh perfection has been built upon a foundation which will last for all time.

A NEWSPAPERITE of Cincinnati, who claims to have studied the Covington pool-room game, writes as follows about it: “Statistics have been compiled here showing the enormous amount of money pool-rooms take away from race tracks. The rooms that are operated in Covington, Ky., alone pays in telegraph tolls $600 a day, counting off days, this figures $215.00 a year. The rents average $200 per month, which for the five rooms is $12,000 a year, and each room pays $300 in salaries to their employees, making another $100,000 a year. In fines to the City Court each room pays $72 per week, or an aggregate of $18,000 per annum, and another $20,000 a year is spent in paying fines and fighting cases under indictment. Outside expenses foot up $40,000 a year, so the rooms have to make over $400,000 on the public before they can divide up a cent of profit. Still, all the proprietors have grown rich, after beginning the business poor. From a financial point of view the pool-room interest is something enormous. Even now there are 200 pool-rooms in the country, and from them the telegraph tolls are over $20,000 per day or over $6,000,000 per annum.

THE day before he left for San Francisco Jockey Bergen got into a talkative mood on various subjects, and let himself loose when referring to starters and starting, his remarks, too, smacking of the pointed and plausible. “Pettingill,” said he, “has a hundred-dollar fine tacked up against me, and if he does not remit it he and I will part had friends. Let me tell you, the starters are radically wrong, all of them, in their methods of starting. Owners hire good jockeys for their ability to get off well and ride good races. And just think of it, starters fine capable jockeys for doing just what the owners hire them to do. The trouble is that the starter, yes, and a section of the public, expect good jockeys to wait for the hunglers and bad ones. And it is these green boys who cause nearly all the trouble, while the good jockeys come in for the fines. Now, an experienced jockey should not be handicapped by being made to wait for the had ones. Yes, a reform is badly needed in connection with the starting business.”—“Broadchurch” in Spirit of the Times.

THE Board of Stewards Tuesday informed Claude Burlingame, the jockey, to stay on the ground hereafter and let some one else ride his horses or those belonging to any other owner, as the public in general would be better suited. They also vested Starter Ferguson to use his own judgment in delaying starts at the post through the actions of some fractious brute. So in future the chances of the good horses will probably not be spoiled by some sulking “dog” cutting monkey shines at the post. Neither will horses ridden by incompetent boys put up on horses to get big odds be handled at the post with kid gloves, for the starter will be told to leave them at the post if they cannot manage their mounts. It’s too bad these stewards did not give Mr. Ferguson this power before. There would not have been such a lot of money incinerated by the dropping of the flag.

A ST. LOUIS dispatch of November 19th says: Clem Creveling, the well-known race track judge, and H. C. Brown (“Curly”), of San Francisco, had an interesting fistic encounter at Finney and Vandeventer avenues to-day. They fought all over the street for fully ten minutes, and both were pretty badly used up. Brown pulled a revolver, but was prevented from using it by friends, who interfered. Both men are well-known horsemen. Creveling is presiding judge at Rohy, Ind., and at Kansas City, and Brown is well known in California. The latter is known among horsemen as “Man-eater,” and their friends fear bloodshed will follow. The trouble had its origin in a decision recently rendered by Creveling at Kansas City to which Brown objected. This is their first meeting since. No arrests were made.

DIABLO, 2:09½, was fit to pace against anything in California when the meeting to be given by the California Jockey Club was declared off. What a pity it was that he did not meet W. Wood, 2:07; Seymour Wilkes, 2:03 and several other good ones this year. Had he not been taken sick at San Jose there is no doubt he would have rendered a good account of himself at Santa Ana and Los Angeles.

JOHN UTTON, Morrisville, Vt. (Trainer and Driver), writes: Send me one-half dozen Absorbine at once. I am pleased with results derived from its use.

C. R. HARSTON, Coopertown, N. Y., says: I like Absorbine very much.

TURF AND TRACK

THE SULKY.

GRANDISSIMO, 2:23½, will be seen on the California circuit next season.

A HORSELESS carriage was literally hissed off the track at the recent fair at Mineola, L. I.

ROCKWOOD 1464 has had two additions to his list this year, viz., Little Maid (pacer), 2:18 and Sadie B., 2:28.

THE stallion owner, if he would be successful with his horse, must constantly keep him before the public.

GEO. MISNER has bought the fast roadster Frank O'Neill, 2:27, and will probably put him on the turf next year.

SILVER BOW, 2:16, and Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, are to meet on the same ground and in the same classes at the Horse Show.

THE Horse Show in New York City was the greatest success financially of any ever held in the Knickerbocker city.

THE Pacific Coast Board of Appeals of the National Trotting Association, will hold a meeting in this city this afternoon.

A NUMBER of carpenters are busily engaged at the Pavilion erecting stalls for the horses to be exhibited at the Horse Show.

THE black colt out of a Director mare, by Russia, on the Two-minute Farm at Cleveland, is said to be a sensational trotter.

PRINCE IRA, 2:19, has been gelded and Col. Alviso of Pleasanton, his driver, is sure he will make a great record next season.

DAWN, 2:18½, was to be entered in certain classes in the Horse Show but on account of sickness he was withdrawn at the last moment.

DAN LAWRENCE is driving the youngsters at the Pleasanton Stock Farm. Dan did remarkably well on the Eastern circuit this year.

AT the sale of the Todhunter's thoroughbreds in this city, December 11th, there will be two handsome yearlings by Silver Bow, 2:16, offered.

BELLE MEDIUM, 2:20, the dam of Stam B., 2:15½, is heavy with foal to Dictatus. The produce ought to be very valuable. This mare is for sale.

THE idea of holding a convention of drivers, owners and directors of associations in this city in the near future is meeting with favor everywhere.

PATHMONT, 2:09½, has been sent to Pleasanton. Andy McDowell has him and will soon collect a string of good ones for the circuit of 1896 in California.

THERE have been several inquiries at this office for the pedigree of a horse called Speedaway. He must have been a trotter for his progeny trot very fast.

THE day is not far distant when the horse-loving public of San Francisco, Alameda and Oakland will have their own race track for their trotters and pacers.

JASPER AYRES, 2:15½, now holds the world's record for three-year-old trotting geldings. He is by Iris, son of Eros, 2:29½, by Electioneer, and his dam is by Altamont.

THE editorial last week in this journal regarding the few sires left in California has set breeders and owners of good mares to wondering where sires are to come from.

B. O. VAN BOKKELEN, the driver who piloted Boodle last season, is getting a splendid string of trotters ready for next season. Van is a capable conditioner and reinsman.

MESSRS. CLAWSON & KILLIP, who have the salesyard at Market and Van Ness avenue, have a number of very choice roadsters, carriage teams and Shetland ponies for sale.

THE Alameda Driving Association has decided to hold a race meet on the Boulevard speed track, December 14th if sufficient entries can be obtained to make it interesting.

THERE are more roadsters to be seen in Golden Gate Park at present than at any other time during the year. The wet weather will drive the bicycle boys and girls to shelter.

WM. FRAZIER, of Portland, Ore., was awarded the contract for furnishing thirty head of artillery horses for the government at San Francisco. These horses must all be black.

It would not surprise us if Chas. A. Durfee purchased the well-bred McKinney four-year-old McZeus, 2:13, as Mr. Gardiner, his owner, has signified his intention of selling him.

AZOTE is by no means a has-been. Before entering on his sensational career in Mr. Salisbury's charge Azote was in a great deal more hopeless condition than he is at the present time.

MONROE SALISBURY returned every horse to its California owner that he brought East. He left his own horses at Chicago, among them being Directly, Alix, Azote and Too Soon.

MONROE SALISBURY will never start East with a big string loaded with entries again. He will take a few select ones and not try to stock every racetrack in the East with horses.

THE race track at Hotel del Monte has been regularly watered; rolled and harrowed and will be in excellent condition all Winter. Every warm evening it is thronged with fine teams.

THE San Francisco Boulevard Association will soon have a number of first class roads in readiness for those who love to ride and drive. The Board of Directors is composed of workers.

JIMMY SULLIVAN has his string of campaigners at the track at Willows, and if he receives all the horses promised him for next season he will have one of the best strings on the circuit.

HAHN BROS., of this city, have bought a full sister to Thompson, 2:15, by Boodle, 2:12½, from Chas. Vanina last week. They will send her to J. M. Nelson, at the Oakland track, to-day.

THE Hambletonian-Clay stallion, Dauntless 3158, has twenty nine standard performers to his credit, will be twenty-nine years old next season, and is doing active stud duty at Muscatine, Ia.

NINETEEN horses came down from Vina to Palo Alto and were placed in the Palo Alto horse cars with the others Wednesday and shipped to New York. Superintendent Frank W. Covey was in charge.

THE stock at the San Mateo Stock Farm never looked better, and when Cope Stinson gets up behind some of the youngsters he will say there's something besides climate in San Mateo worth boasting about.

R. I. ORR, of Hollister, has sent his two-year-old colt by Guy Wilkes, dam by Sultan, to Pat McCartney, Salinas, to be handled during the winter and prepared for his engagements in his three-year-old form.

GOVERNOR BUDD's attention has been called to the disputes that are wrecking the Sixth Agricultural Association of Los Angeles, and he has had a lively time. The result of the quarrel has not been decided yet.

THE handsome bay filly Amazon, by Chas. Derby, 2:20, out of Ramona (dam of W. Wood, 2:07), by Anteeo, has been sold to A. H. Cohen of Alameda. Amazon will be seen on the Alameda speed track next spring.

GEN. B. F. TRACY, the prominent New York horseman, is reported at work on a bill to be presented to the next New York legislature that will permit of speculation on trotting tracks during fifteen days of the year.

ALL horsemen agree that they never before saw so large a proportion of the trotting and pacing campaigners lame as this season. There was never before a time when they had to exert themselves so severely to win.

NATHAN STRAUS, of New York, has a full brother to Azote in his stable. He is a good roaster, but has never been trained for speed. President Cleveland drove the horse in Washington, but traded him back to Mr. Straus.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, Abraham Lincoln, William Shakespeare, J. Caesar, C. Columbus, N. Bonaparte and other noted people were arrested in a pool-room raid in Chicago last week. At least they so registered at the police station.

REMEMBER this fact, if you want to be up to date in regard to harnesses, clothing, etc., for your horses there is only one place in this city to get the information you seek and the articles you want, and that is at McKerron's, 203 and 205 Mason Street.

L. SHAFER, ex-Chief of Police, of Oakland, has some of the best bred youngsters (trotters and pacers in California), among them being the pacer Della S., 2:20½, and a Monbars three-year-old, out of the dam of Arthur L., 2:15½, that rumor says is a corker.

H. W. CRABB is driving Topsy, 2:26½, and her full sister, Bellocra, as a team, and there are few, if any, in Napa County that can pass them. They are alike in size, color and gait, and are perfect in disposition. Topsy is five and her sister three years of age.

ARTHUR L., 2:15½, by Direct and Baywood, 2:10½, are in J. M. Nelson's string of horses at the Oakland track. This capable driver who brought the pacer Golden West so often to the front this season, will have a collection of good ones ready when the hell rings.

J. W. PAIVETT, of Walla Walla, has removed to Vancouver, Wash., where he will winter and train his stable of trotters, consisting in part of Caution, 2:25½, Warwick Maid, Dr. Stanley, by Caution, dam by Jerome Eddy, Greeting (2), by Sable Wilkes, dam Warwick Maid.

AT no time during the past ten years was there a better opportunity for breeders to get fast, well-bred trotters at auction in the East than the present, and Californians who are gifted with a little foresight should purchase some of the gilt-edge stock now catalogued for sale there.

THERE is a two-year-old black filly by Grandissimo, 2:23½, out of Alida (dam of Directa, 2:28), by Admiral, on the Vine-land Stock Farm near St. Helena, Napa County, that is the making of a record breaker. If nothing happens her she will be heard from next year. She is a beauty.

THE suspension list in the office of the secretaries of the National and American associations is probably larger now than in any five years before, and unless the parent associations take some extraordinary action this Winter many a familiar face will be missing on the circuit next Summer.

A STANDING advertisement of your stallion is the best evidence in the world that you are in the business to stay, and that your confidence in the future condition of the industry is unlimited. So don't hide your lamp under a bushel, but place it in the window and see that it is trimmed and burning.

THOMAS S. GRIFFITH, of Spokane, Wash., has sold his yearling filly, Alateil, full sister to Chehalis, 2:07½; Del Norte, 2:14½; Touchet, 2:15; Ccquetta, 2:30, to B. P. Shawhan, of Payette, Idaho, for $350. Mr. Shawhan got a great bargain in this filly, and we congratulate him on his good luck.

THERE will be more famous drivers on the California circuit next year that we have seen here for years and the search for likely "prospects" for the season is beginning. A large number of fast horses were knocked out and many reached their limit of speed on our tracks, hence their places must be taken by others.

BEMBO 16322, bay stallion, four years old, by Clay, 2:25, dam Tillie Patchen, by Ethan Wilkes, second dam Ritta Patchen, by Mambrino Patchen, third dam Sting, by Strathmore, took a pacing record of 2:17½ at Belton, Tex., October 12th. He is owned by J. E. Whiteselle, Corsicana, Tex., who purchased him in the spring of 1895 at Woodard & Shanklin's sale.

It is not often that any one farm has a colt so good that he is barred from the races for youngsters of his age and finds that it has another good enough to go on and win. This was the case with Palo Alto this year. Adbell was barred from all the purses and stakes for two year-olds in this State, but the filly Palita was named in seven and took down first money in all of them.

MARCUS DALY, the copper king, soured on the trotters because he did not win all his races. He has put a thousand dollars in thoroughbreds where he put one dollar in a trotter, and yet his costly stable has been the most conspicuous failure on the turf within the past two years. Ben Kenney took a stable of trotters out for him this year, gave Rachael a mark of 2:08½, Lady Wilton one of 2:11½, and won some money for the Bitter Root ranch.

WALTER MABEN has a thoroughbred at the Bay District track, and will no doubt get quite a string of good ones at the new track. His arm is getting strong, but it is doubtful if it will be in condition to handle a lunk-headed trotter next year. At the track there is quite a collection of old-time trotting horsemen besides Maben: Frank Van Ness, Billy Donathan, Geo. Bayliss, Dick Havey, Billy Fieldwick, Dan Dennison, J. Green, J. Nolan and John Gooby.

K. O'GRADY, of the Laurel Creek Stock Farm, has fitted up a number of large paddocks for stallions at his beautiful place near Belmont. Mr. O'Grady had a large number of thoroughbreds at his place last winter and their owners were so well pleased with their improved condition that they have sent more to him this year. Mr. O'Grady is a very careful and conscientious horseman, and believes in taking the best of care of everything he has anything to do with.

JAS. DUSTIN, the well-known horseman, has been engaged by the Palo Alto Stock Farm, and will be seen in the sulky behind a number of the best trotters on the circuit next year. Mr. Dustin has a national reputation as a reinsman, and in his new position will no doubt add laurels of victory to the fame of the Farm by the Lone Pine. J. Phippen will also have a string of trotters, and the number of good ones these two knights of the sulky will pilot to victory will arouse some of our old horsemen to new life.

MESSRS. MILLER & SIBLEY, of Franklin, Pa., have made an arrangement with Col. R. P. Todhunter, of Lexington, Ky., to locate sixty head of trotting stock on a farm about six miles from Lexington. The lot will include the two Electioneer-Beautiful Bells stallions, Belsire and Electric Bell. The remainder will be broodmares, colts and fillies. They will be kept on a different place from that on which Col. Todhunter keeps his thoroughbred stock. Messrs. Miller & Sibley have not purchased a place in Kentucky, so far as we can learn, as stated by a contemporary.

VATICAN, 2:29½, son of Belmont and Vara, sire of Vassar, 2:07, pacing; Bell Vara, 2:08½, and other well-known performers, died November 8th, from a ruptured blood vessel, caused by sudden exertion while rolling in his paddock. Vatican was bred at Woodburn and owned for years by B. H. Neale, Richmond, Ky. When sold at auction Louis Brodhead bid him off for J. Malcolm Forbes at $11,500. When placed in the stud at Massachusetts the fact developed that through excessive stud duties the horse was partially impotent, and he was sold in a New York auction sale for some $750. He was owned by David Tuers, of Montclair, at his death and was seventeen years old.

OAKLAND BARON, 2:14½, the winner of the three-year-old Kentucky Futurity, is now nibbling grass on a paddock at Oakland Farm, near Paris, Ky. He still holds the two-year-old record that is next to Arion's, 2:10½. His breeding is of the kind that great youngsters come from, by Baron Wilkes, 2:18, dam by Silverthreads, son of The Moor; second dam Fleetwing (dam of Stamboul, etc.), by Hambletonian 10; third dam by Geo. M. Patchen, 2:23½; fourth dam by Abdallah I. Why shouldn't he make a great sire? He is now over sixteen hands high and will round out and make a large horse. He will not wear harness next year, but will serve all of Col. Stoner's mares, except his own dam. In his five-year-old form his owner expects him to heat all the stallion records now existing. He was bred to four Baron Wilkes fillies last spring, three of which are believed to be in foal.

THE time honored Stonyford trotting stud is to be disbanded. Charles Backman, its founder and owner, has be-spoken a place for the first installment of eighty head in the sale to be held by Peter C. Kellogg & Co. at Madison Square Garden the first week in December. The remainder of the horses will be sold a few weeks later and this famous breeding stud will have become a thing of the past. Few trotting studs have left as marked an impression upon the stock of the country. Its famous bands of broodmares by American Star, Harry Clay and Hambletonian were the envy of all other breeding establishments during the latter '70s and until the earlier '80s. Probably its most famous broodmare was Green Mountain Maid, and its greatest horse, her son Electioneer. The latter established the success of the great Palo Alto stud in this State. But hundreds of other horses bred at Stonyford have added to the trotting wealth of the country.

THE great brood mare Emblem, died at Oradell Stock Farm, Oradell, N. J., on Monday, October 28, 1895, aged twenty-four years. Emblem was a bay mare foaled in 1872, the property of Mr. David Bonner, who presented her to go to a daughter of Mr. Peter K. Knapp, of Sparkill, N. Y. She was bred by a Mr. Minchin and was got by Minchin's Tom Moore, out of Lady Stanford (dam of Jay Gould, 2:21½) by American Star 14; second dam Old Sorrel, by Exton Eclipse. She was first bred in 1875, and in all produced thirteen foals. Her produce in the 2:30 list are Nannie K., 2:27½, h m, by Deucalion; Alley K., 2:29½, b g, by Deucalion; Lizzie K., 2:26½, by Deucalion, and Blauvelt, 2:29½, h s, by Deucalion. To the cover of Messenger Duroc, she threw the bay mare Janette, who is the dam of Cheyenne, 2:14½; Newbold, 2:27½; and Jean Wilkes, 2:29½. Emblem also produced several others that showed speed. Her last foal was a bay colt by Alcylene, that had to be raised on a bottle. It is said that Emblem was so weak after her last colt was foaled that it was thought she would die; but she rallied, however, and was this year bred again to Alcylene for the second time, and was thought to have been carrying a foal by him at the time of her death. Emblem has proved her worth, and taking her opportunities into consideration, she will pass into trotting-horse history as one of the greatest broodmares.

The Saddle.

McINTYRE rides very successfully on Happy Day.

JUDGE TAM left the maiden ranks in very fair time.

CHARLEY QUINN was a heavy winner on Toano Tuesday.

CLAUDE BURLINGAME's horses were ridden by Shepherd Tuesday.

WILLIE MARTIN rode Oregon Eclipse, his first winner here, Monday.

SVENGALI, br c, 2, by Volcalic—Alacrity, is running in the East.

RILEY GRANNAN has not got an accurate line on the local horses yet.

BYRON McCLELLAND has signed Soup Perkins to ride for him in 1896.

OLD PICKPOCKET has been fired for a "bow" and will be used for jumping.

FIREMAN, who has not been out for some weeks, looked big and fat Monday.

EARL COCHRANE made his reappearance in the pigskin here Friday on McFarlane.

JOCKEY WILLIE SIMMS has decided to remain with the Dwyers for the season of 1896.

THE brick foundations for the new grand stand at the Oakland track have been made.

HAPPY DAY seemed a little lame at the post Tuesday but he was fit enough to head his field.

JOCKEY H. REIFF has sued Charley McCafferty for $694 riding fees in the Cincinnati court.

Mr. Roy's 133 pounds was very heavy for him and he could not carry it five and a half furlongs.

Judge J. J. Burke has decided to take a home in Oakland and will soon be joined by his family.

J. JOHNSON won with his Morgan G. again to-day. Stewart, on Eva S. gelding fooled away the race.

W. O'B. MACDONOUGH lost one of his imported English broodmares last week. She was by Isonomy.

PERHAPS won his fourth straight race Tuesday, and did it in an impressively game manner and in fast time.

C. SLAUGHTER, Barney Schreiber's light-weight jockey, had his first mount here on Ferris Hartman yesterday.

REY ALFONSO STABLE sent their first entry to the post for sometime to-day, and go, the show in the maiden race.

THE three year-old colt Algiers, by Alarm, belonging to the Bashford Manor Stable, died from pneumonia recently.

DORSEY showed very well with heavy weight up, at five and a half furlongs, and may be able to go over five at a winning clip.

DR. E. F. McLEAN has sold the Tennessee Derby winner of 1894, Jamboree, to H. Smith, and he won for his new owner next day.

MIDLO's price went back steadily from the opening. Wallace was a poor stick on his back, and did not get the good colt out of last place.

THE Toronto, Canada, papers are vigorously fighting a scheme to open up the old Newmarket track in that city and run a forty-day race meeting there.

TUPTO, who won at Lexington at long odds, a half brother to Faraday, cost Byron McClelland $2,500 and was given away by him as a hopeless case.

McNally, the trainer, and Williams, the jockey who rode Montana, have been indefinitely suspended by the Board of Stewards of the California Jockey Club.

DR. C. W. ABEY is going around on a crutch, the result of a bad fall he had from a Sutter street car a week or ten days ago. He knee was badly injured.

SAM DOGGETT will not ride for the Brookdale Stable after all. Jimmy Rowe tried hard to get him, but Doggett has decided to remain with the Oneck Stable.

THE two year-old filly, Au Revoir, belonging to Byron McClelland, died at Lexington, Thursday, of enteritis. She took cold while being shipped home from New York.

SALVATOR, Tenny, Water Cress, Golden Garter, Midlothian, Sir Modred, Firenze, and a large number of other thoroughbreds will be seen at the coming Horse Show.

GOOD time was made in all the races Tuesday. Toano ran his race in 1:06 3/4, quarter of a second slower than track record time, and Perhaps his game race in 1:0 1/4.

THE Board of Stewards held a meeting after the last race to consider the worse than bad ride put up by Williams. They took no action, but may reach a decision to-day.

JOHN MADDEN's yearling filly by Strathmore, out of a sister to Bob Miles, worked a quarter with 90 pounds up Friday at Lexington in 0:24 1/4, three furlongs in 0:36 1/4 and half in 0:50.

LITTLE CRIPPLE is a thoroughly reliable and very consistent performer. He is always battling for the purse at the end of the journey, no matter what the distance might have been.

NEIL & CONEY have cause to feel very kindly towards Jockey Shaw. He rode their horse Perhaps to his last three victories, and Tuesday, under a less vigorous boy, he would have lost his race.

ALTHOUGH Dave Gideon heads the list of winning owners for 1895, he claims to be as bad a poor year. Forfeits, trainer and jockey fees and expenses of a large stable have not left much for himself. Mr. Gideon will take a trip to England soon, but will not take any horses with him. His stable next year will be a small one, principally platers.

WILLIE MARTIN rode a good race on Oregon Eclipse Monday. Cash Sloan said he must have more speed than he had the last day he rode him to win, but he played the old horse on chances.

THE winnings on the turf of the horses owned by the Prince of Wales amounted to £7,870 during the past season. This is better than the Prince has ever done at racing before. His betting gains were also large.

JOE HOOKER sired two of the six winners Monday, the only Hookers to start, by the way, and El Rio Rey had Caliente's win and The Emperor of Norfolk, a half brother, Olivia's second to their credit.

MARTIN & Co. withdraws from the Memphis Winter meeting and Stover & Reinhard go on with it. Starter Hatch is also retired and threatens to sue Martin & Co. for damages, one of the humors of the season.

EMPRESS OF NORFOLK 6 to 1, Roadwarmer 10 to 1, Soon Enough 7 to 1, Blue Bell 9 to 1, were the four long-shots that gladdened ye bookies' hearts Friday. Little Cripple was the lone favorite of the day to win.

IT seems that Allen L., who won at St. Louis last Thursday, started at St. Asaph early in the year and while eligible on Jockey Club, he was not on Turf Congress tracks and will lose the purse, which goes to King Michael.

"BONE DOCTOR" ROBBINS and Barney Schreiber hooked up in the fifth race Monday, and the "Doctor's" good horse, Oregon Eclipse got the money. Hartman gave him a go, though, if it was his first time out here this season.

C. LONG would have killed off any but a lead pipe cinder by his poor judgment at the post Monday. He was at the bat on all of the half-dozen false breaks his mount made, and allowed his horse to run the distance before flag fall.

B. C. HOLLY recently presented the thoroughbred stallion Major Ban to John F. Boyd of the Oakwood Park Stock Farm. Mr. Boyd has a small collection of well-bred thoroughbred mares to mate with this grand-looking sire.

EDDIE JONES flies to the bat at the slightest shadow of provocation. He lambasted Faro in the last race Tuesday from the first turn to the backstretch. Few boys know the value of a whip or its uses, and Eddie Jones least of all.

THE difference between a jockey and a shoemaker was amplified in the fourth race yesterday when Chorn stole a march on the sleepy Rowan and beat Irma out half a length. Rowan rides some races very well, and others in a most listless manner.

THE brown gelding Ross, owned by the Arizona stable, wrenched himself internally while rolling in the sand at the ocean beach Tuesday and died within an hour. He was one of the get of imp. Sir Modred and a very useful horse in any kind of going.

THE Horseman says that Mr. Belmont gave $37,000 for Hastings "that has never won a race." Hastings' price was made by three straight victories—a maiden race June 15th, a purse race June 10th and the turf stakes June 26th, all at Coney Island.

MAGGIE MURPHY, the roan half sister of Pat, Tim and Mike, by Humboldt, out of Maggie R., made her maiden start here Monday. She did not show any inclination to break at first. She piked along last all the way, and did not show any sprinting ability.

J. JOHNSON, on Allahabad, had much to do with the short price against the horse, as C. Long, on the favorite, did not have such a good look. After Selkirk's break quite a little plunge was made on the Montana horse. A wooden man could have won on Selkirk Monday.

DR. MASERO's new infirmary at the Ocean Beach is filled with thoroughbreds being treated for sickness and injuries. He has determined to erect another building to contain fifty more stalls or the accommodations of his patients. This surgeon stands at the head of his profession.

ORRIN A. HICKOK has a thoroughbred yearling at Oakland which came direct from St. Petersburg, Russia, and is from the Czar's stables. It is a good looking dark chestnut colt and will be seen at the races here next spring. This is the first Russian thoroughbred ever brought to California.

THE Sporting World is the name of a new daily sporting paper issued by Benny Benjamin, sporting editor of the Chronicle, and Doc. Weatherly, formerly of the California Turf, with "Professor" Newman as chief assistant. It made its first appearance Monday evening, and will no doubt meet with all the success it deserves.

"BONE DOCTOR" Robbins and Henry Peppers have both done well with their recent purchases at the Theodore Winters sale. Don Pio Pico won for Robbins the first time out, and Peppers has secured a second money in a hurdle race and won a $200 purse with Soon Enough in his two starts since the change of ownership.

RECOGNIZING the value of the blood of Musket, Theodore Winters recently sent some of his best mares to the Merriwa Stock Farm to be bred to Foulshot, son of Musket and Slander. Foulshot, Clieyeden and Merriwa will be seen at the Horse Show and the three leading types of the Australian thoroughbred will thus be seen.

LONDON, November 15.—To-day's feature of the Derby November meeting was the Derby Cup of 2,000 sovereigns, a handicap event for three-year-olds and upwards. The course was one mile straight. Twenty-two horses started. W. W. Fulton's Laodamia won, Lord Cadogan's Court Ball second, Colonel North's Red Heart third.

THE first races of the day seem to come in for most of the bad actors and poor jockeys. Tuesday the start for the first race was delayed several minutes by bad actors and the second was not called till 2:40. Then Toano did a good bucking act, and Hennessy made him crazier by hitting the brute over the head. "Moose" Taylor had a somnolent fit and sat motionless when a perfect start was possible. The Judge broke away and, with a broken bridle, ran a full quarter of a mile. In all, the delay at the post was about fifteen minutes. Starter Ferguson should exercise his prerogative and leave the ill-acting skates at the post. He gave "Moose" orders to stay on the ground till further notice.

It is reported that Joe Terry, the Sacramento millionaire, is going into the race horse business on an extensive scale. He has just purchased seven youngsters from the Rancho del Paso ranch, and, according to rumor, Mr. Terry will have one of the most extensive stables in California. It is also said that Ab Stemler has been secured as trainer.

MR. LANGFORD had a very severe fall from a bicycle while wheeling in Golden Gate Park on Sunday. He was rendered unconscious by his fall and did not regain consciousness for several minutes. His face was badly bruised and he looked yesterday as though he had had a lively set-to with a buzz saw. He was on duty, however, as sheet-writer for Geo. Rose.

JOS. A. MURPHY, who will be one of the judges at the new track, visited Judges Burke and Trevathan at Bay District yesterday. He is a very young-looking gentleman to have acquired the full knowledge of turf matters he is acknowledged to possess. The keen interest he took in all the events shows him to be a very close observer—of inestimable value to a racing judge.

THE McNaughton & Muir's stable have arrived at Ingleside, with Basso, Semper Lex, Pollock and Judge Denny. Andy Godfrey also sent Lismore along in the same car. Trainer McNaughton is delighted with the new track, and reports a pleasant trip across the continent. Basso is the horse that ran second in the Kentucky Derby. Semper Lex has been a frequent winner this year.

GREAT BRITAIN exported 14,384 horses for the nine months ending September 30th, an increase of 3,326 over the corresponding time last year. The value was $2,031,110 as against $1,648,350 for last year. Great Britain imported 25,812 horses—nearly twice as many as were exported and an increase of 8,550 over last year. They were valued at $3,412,025. Six hundred and twenty-six of the number were stallions.

THE first race at the new track is to be a mile race and the Palace Hotel stake at one and an eighth miles is down for decision on the same day. The purse for the mile race is $600. There will also be a three-quarter mile race for three-year-olds for a purse of $400, a five and a half furlong dash for two-year-olds and a seven-eighths mile dash for all ages. This is a very attractive programme, and should secure the best horses in training in this State.

CALIENTE came from the rear all right in his race Monday. He dropped back absolutely last at the half pole, began to overhaul and pass his field on the turn into the home stretch, and drew away from Endymion strongly at the draw gate and was an easy winner. It may have been some satisfaction to those who saw their money burned up on his last start to think what might have been. It will be remembered that Hinrichs was set down for his ride on Caliente on that occasion.

CAPTAIN JAMES H. REES, of Memphis, Tenn., who will officiate in the stand as presiding judge at the new Ingleside track, arrived from the East Friday. Captain Rees is a man of wealth and position, and it is for his love for the "sport of kings" more than for pecuniary gain that he follows his chosen calling. Captain Rees is a member of the license committee of the Turf Congress, and by his impartial rulings in the stand has earned the respect and admiration of all horsemen.

GEORGE ROSE says he laid against Leonville in the last race Tuesday because he knew Leonville never saw the day when he could beat Happy Day in a fast sprint down the stretch. Mr. Rose was quite a loser up to that race, and saw a great chance to recoup himself. He would probably have done so but for the fact that one or two of his customers wanted Happy Day, and they were, of course, accommodated. The result was Mr. Rose won but a trifle over one hundred dollars to the race.

IT is very seldom that so many of the produce of a mare appears in one day as was noticed last Friday, taking those of Marion for instance. In the first race Empress of Norfolk, by a son, Emperor of Norfolk, won; in the second Irene E., by El Rio Rey, another son, ran unplaced; in the third Soon Enough, by El Rio Rey, won; in the fourth Blue Bell, by Prince of Norfolk, another son, won; and in the last race Duchess of Milpitas, by Duke of Norfolk, another son, ran second. In the judges' stand, as a guest, stood Jos. Cairn Simpson, the breeder of Marion, and one whose life history has been identified with the greatest turf winners in America.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 12.—Special Telegram.—Tattersall's sold thirty-seven head of thoroughbred yearlings at auction here to-day for $8,000. The best price was paid by William Wallace for a colt by Tenny—Queer Girl, knocked down for $1,000. The best sales were: Orion, ch c, by Hanover—Blessing, by Onondaga, McClesney & Co., Lexington, $575; bay colt by Pirate of Penzance—Alberta, Kinzia Stone, Georgetown, $300; chestnut filly by Woodlands—Minnehaha Belle, T. W. Coulter, $350; bay colt by Pirate of Penzance—Tampette, Smith & Ferguson, Lexington, 475; bay colt by Harry O'Fallon—Fanny; J. H. Darnell, $325; Parmure, h c, by Tenny—Queer Girl, W. M. Wallace, Lexington, $1,000.

STRATHMEATH, winner of the American Derby years ago, who arrived here recently, is still a racing factor, albeit not what he used to be, and partly because he is not entirely sound on his pins. His last start was on Friday, when he came in last in a field of four. At that, his owner, Green Morris, backed him to win and beat such good ones as Simon W., Egbert and Grannan. A week before that he ran a very good race, coming in second to Buckwa. The old fellow, with his front legs always in bandages when he races, has had a very creditable career, with over fifty races to his credit, and winnings amounting to $110,000. He has done very well the present season, having won ten races, nearly all of them at St. Louis.

"HIDALGO" in a recent letter to an Eastern paper, says: "It is a pleasing circumstance to note that both our San Francisco clubs are endeavoring to increase the money in races for the all-aged division and doing nothing to encourage the craze for racing equine babies to death. Next year the Pacific Coast Club will have the most attractive programme ever offered outside of the big New York tracks, and its chief features will be a two-mile handicap, for all ages, on the principle of the great Melbourne Cup, with another race for five years old and upward, to be known as the Veteran Stakes, at one mile and three furlongs. This will have a tendency to keep old horses on the turf a year or two longer."

San Francisco, Saturday, November 23, 1895.

Hail to Thanksgiving Day!

New horses, trainers and exercise boys are seen entering the gates of the new track at Ingleside every day, and the splendid course is the scene of life and animation every morning, for the horses that are to appear in the opening races of this new place on Thanksgiving Day are being carefully prepared to make an excellent showing.

A new era is dawning for the breeders and owners of these children of the winds, and as the management is determined to give those who furnish the entertainment for the thousands an opportunity to make a living, their efforts will receive the endorsement of every devotee of the sport on this Coast. The abolishment of the entrance money is a boon to those who own and train horses, and as the breeder who believes there is nothing to be compared with short horses, will have to keep his skates in the stalls, those who have spent large sums of money for well-bred mares and used discretion in breeding them to the best sires obtainable, will have many opportunities of seeing their horses compete with the best that could be procured in the United States.

Great preparations are being made for the opening day, and as the cars will be running direct to the gates of the course, we expect to see the largest assemblage ever gathered inside the limits of a race course on that day. The programme offered is a good one, and with a new starter, new judges and new officials all in their places on the new track, the day's racing will go down in turf history as one of the best ever seen on the Pacific Coast. In years to come it will be pleasant to say: "I was there on the opening day of the new track at Ingleside."

THE need of a convention of light harness horsemen was never more urgent than at present, and if one was called we believe it would be productive of good for all interested. Many lessons were learned during the campaign of 1895, and the deductions drawn may be of great benefit to associations as well as to breeders, owners and trainers. A longer circuit is needed on this coast. The trotting meetings must begin earlier, and as there will be no race meetings at the tracks in this city during the time the trotting-horse meetings are being held throughout the State, a larger attendance will be assured at the latter than was noticeable during the season of 1895. The questions of entering, amount to be paid with entry, rates of transportation and a greater consolidation of the interests of all the associations, are some of the subjects which will be discussed. The convention must be held during the day and be on a similar plan to those held by all other organizations united for a common good, and this one is as important to the farmers, breeders and the public in general as any ever held.

The Turn of the Tide.

Where are we drifting? Many who read the article last week in this column under this caption have been brought to a realization of the fact that the supply of first-class trotting material on this Coast is decidedly limited, and the hard campaign of 1895 will be remembered by every one who took an active interest in it. The endeavor to lower records was as earnest among the drivers as the desire to win the races, and with this ambition to do-or-die, a number of horses that were hardly fitted for the strain at once to break down. Some that were stronger constituted, had better limbs, and were gifted with more race-horse qualities, survived the ordeal and retired to their well-earned wintry rest with splendid reputations, and the bank account of their owners increased. Many of these campaigners reached their limit and will have to go in classes where the fields will, necessarily, be small and composed of horses older in years, consequently the opportunities for making a great amount of money with them on a circuit as select and isolated from the East as the one in California are limited. To take them East may or may not pay, for the risks are so much greater and the class of horses there being the pick of all the States in the Union with the exception of California (even a few of the "natives" may also be met there) makes it difficult to win much money with those that may be termed record-breakers. The expenses absorb the profits, and the climatic changes are so sudden that in nine cases out of ten after the first few races, the Californian is forced into retirement.

So much for the campaigners with fast records, but where are we to get horses that will take their places in the 2:30 class and have the ability to get records of 2:15 if necessary? They are not as plenty as they were in the winters of 1893, 1894 and 1895, and the reason is plain. With the exception of a few, our largest horse owners have refrained from breeding for the track and road. Some old back number of a horse breeder who never reads a turf journal and lives as he did in the spring of '50, may have a band of mares and bred them to supply the demand for car horses, has kept right at it with a persistency that, to say the least, is commendable. This man has never given his horse a rest and has on his mountain or valley farm a band of cayuses that are waiting for the buyer from the city (who used to come regularly) to pick out for the car lines; a "bunch" of horses, but that man will never come, so it is with sorrow the breeder looks over the old fence at the useless, long-haired, half-bred horses and says: "Darn 'em, people don't keer to take 'em away and I'll be gol durned if the bottom isn't knocked clear out of the horse market." Outside of characters like this, who have never looked but for one market for their stock, there are very few who have sought to breed the grandly-bred mares they purchased for big prices, a few years ago and when they see a great colt or filly win fame and money then, and not till then, do they say: "I wish I had bred my mare to a good horse, for I know she would produce a money winner even if I never trained it. I know some one would be attracted by its breeding and individuality and purchase it." As it is, our horsemen are scouring the country for first-class material to prepare for the races and are not meeting with success.

The fabulous prices received for colts in the past may never be reached again, but the large increase in the number of meetings, as well as the purses offered, the lessening in the rates of transportation, the decrease in the salaries of trainers and employees, the adoption of laws to protect horse owners and the wide-awake interest taken in the march to success by members of the various associations that manage the meetings have placed light harness horse racing on a sounder business basis than ever.

The breeder who knows this and is well versed in the turf literature of the day will take advantage of the low ebb in the trotting horse business and try and supply horses which, if not suitable for the track, will meet the ever-increasing demand for first-class roadsters. A well-matched team will sell for a good price to-day, while a green trotter endowed with phenomenal speed will bring a splendid figure.

In California, we must admit we are behind the age in many things. Our market being so limited and the cost for transportation to the Eastern tattersalls so great, breeders have not received the encouragement they deserve, but there's a great change coming; with the advent of a new railroad (which is not a fairy dream,) there will be many visitors here who will select our horses and send them East at reasonable rates, and if our breeders would only use a little judgment and foresight and breed horses that will suit the market a glorious financial future awaits them.

While admitting the fact that we have very few really famous sires here at present—sires that have many to their credit in the 2:30 list—nevertheless, there are many untried ones in our paddocks which are destined by the laws of inheritance to become even greater than their illustrious sires in producing a better class for the purposes for which they will be used. Then, again, there are dispersal sales in the East taking place every week at which many great horses and mares may be secured "for a song." These should be brought here and bred, for horses can be raised here cheaper than in any country in the known world, and in a few years our shipments of horses East will be on a par, numerically speaking, with those that were sent over the Rocky Mountains a few years ago. Individually, we have no hesitancy in asserting that they will be far superior to them. Breeders are beginning to realize this, and are being encouraged to use better judgment in breeding while studying the merits of every family now considered fashionable in the turf world, so there's a bright prospect before every one who remains in the entrancing business for a few years. This is the opinion of every observant horseman in the United States to-day.

The Palo Alto Sale.

The fact that there are few sons or grandsons of Electioneer in California has been shown in these columns. It was not a pleasant acknowledgment, for of all the horses that have achieved great fame none have approached the immortal Electioneer. His fame extends as far as civilization is known and his name will live as long as that of the Godolphin Arabian, Herod or Eclipse in the annals of the racing turf. He can never be replaced, for the conditions surrounding his career were peculiar. He was selected, purchased and set at the head of one of the largest stock farms in the world by a man who was years in advance of his time, a pioneer whose ideas were new to the world, and in the fulfillment of his views of breeding he lived to enjoy the fame which all true lovers of the trotting horse accorded him. Electioneer founded a family destined to be greater than that of Hambletonian, his sire. Bred to mares of every breed his progeny became noted for their beautiful forms, pure color, frictionless gait, kindly dispositions, soundness and early and extreme speed. His sons and daughters have carried on the good work he established; so every thoughtful and progressive breeder in the East, who had been trying to breed horses that would trot early and fast, recognized the value of the new family, the Electioneers, and the result of their purchases is well known. Success followed success, and the table of record-breakers and money-winners glisten and gleam with their bright names which stand out like diamonds among the other gems that are there. Californians have allowed these horses to scatter throughout the United States, thinking there were always chances to get what they want and that the market here, was overstocked with Electioneers but they have lived long enough to learn they were mistaken, for there are very few great sons or daughters outside of Palo Alto, and the sale which is to take place in New York City, December 3d, will be also overlooked by many who fail to understand how important it is that they secure some of the sons and daughters of "Palo Alto, the King," "Advertiser, the beautiful," "Azmoor, the invincible!" or the other great campaigning sons of Electioneer out of the world-famed great broodmares that have nicked so happily with this sire and his sons.

There are many in this consignment which will appear on the trotting tracks of the East, and in glancing over the synopsis of the sale at which the talented auctioneer, P. C. Kellogg, will preside, we venture the assertion that the proportion of race winners in it is greater than any ever sent into a salesring in the East.

California horsemen should not neglect this opportunity of purchasing some of these royally-bred youngsters. It will pay them handsomely to do so, for they will pay for themselves in a few years, and as the services of the stallions on this farm are kept exclusively for private use, and breeders cannot do better, in fact, cannot get better mares than those that are there. Knowing this, they should not hesitate, but send a commission to purchase a few of the best and have Mr. Covey bring them back to the Golden Slope.

AB STEMLER, who will be one of the timers at Ingleside, is down from Sacramento.

THE Lexington meeting will be extended one week.

ON and after December 10th, Messrs. Killip & Co., the well-known auctioneers, will sell at public auction the choicest lot of thoroughbred broodmares, colts and fillies ever offered in this city. There are famous broodmares whose produce have won and are winning thousands of dollars on the turf. These mares are all with foal to the royal bred stallions imp. Mariner and So-brante, to be sold. Besides these there are yearlings by Apache, Midlothian and imp. Martenhurst. These horses belong to the estate of Col. H. I. Thornton, one of the best judges of thoroughbreds in California. The catalogues which have been issued are very comprehensive and are worthy of being kept in every horseman's library. Everyone interested in horses should own a thoroughbred, and we do not know of a better opportunity than this sale to secure a first-class one. On the following Tuesday a consignment of royally bred yearlings and two-year-olds from Rancho dei Paso will be sold and on the next day, December 18th, James B. Chase's lot will be disposed of, together with all the thoroughbreds belong to W. P. Todhunter.

ENTRIES to the Horse Show closed most satisfactorily to the management, and preparations are being made for the grandest exhibition ever held west of New York City. The directors are working night and day, and on Tuesday, December 3d, the public will have an opportunity of learning more of the growth of the horse interests on this Coast than they ever dreamed of. The greatest horses on this Coast will be there, and the most magnificent equipages ever brought into a ring will be shown. Besides these features, a programme of exercises for each day and evening will be prepared that will be interesting from the beginning to the end. No money will be spared to make it all that has been promised, and everyone who attended the initial horse show last year is waiting anxiously for the opening of this one.

ON Saturday, December 7th, our Horse Show number will be issued. It will contain a full account of the great exhibition, its most interesting features; list of awards; etc.; pictures of many of the prize winners; biographical sketches of the owners; gossip overheard around the ellipse; description of the great horses there, and interesting articles contributed by the foremost writers on this coast, besides our regular reports of the current events of the day. Taking it all in all, it will be one of the best numbers ever issued by this journal. Advertisers should send in their notices before December 4th to insure a proper place in the business columns.

St. Saviour Wins the Prize.

A New York Special says of the thoroughbred ring of the New York Horse Show last Tuesday:

There were seven thoroughbred stallions in the ring when the crowd began to thin out and hurry home for dinner. Saxony was poor and in no condition for the show ring, but the balance looked remarkably well. Pierre Lorillard's Rancocas Stud was represented by Emperor, son of Enquirer, and Vesper Light and imp. Simon Magnus, by St. Simon, and Wheel of Fortune. Fred Gebhard sent St. Saviour, a crack son of Eolus and War Song and a brother to Eole, Eon and other champions in their day. S. S. Howland had the Brooklyn Handicap winner Judge Morrow, by Vagabond, out of Moonlight, while Thompson & Bland sent imp. Likely, by Harvester, out of Katrine.

It took Byron McClelland, the judge, half an hour to make his decision, and then the premier award went to St. Saviour, second to Judge Morrow and third to Derotee. Emperor was highly commended.

J. H. Outhwaite's Stock Sale.

NEW YORK, November 20—At a big sale of trotting stock at Madison Square Garden to day, thirty head from J. H. Outhwaite's California farm should have started the sale, but they were delayed in transit between here and Buffalo and did not arrive until nearly noon.

The gem of the lot was Daghestan, son of Stamboul, and he sold for the longest price, the only four-figure sale of the day. A competing bidder was representing a Vienna buyer, but at the price of $1300 the promising son of Stamboul goes to Cleveland. The best sales of other stock belonging to the Outhwaite consignment were Lady Clare, 2:18½, by Elyria, out of Lou, by Mambrino Sterling, $445; brown colt by Daghestan—Lady Clare, $300; Crescent, bay colt by Daghestan—Trousseau, 2:28½, $425; La Honda, bay mare, 1892, by Red Wilkes—Trousseau, $475. The others brought an average of $110.

THE Bitter Root Stock Farm property of Marcus Daly, Hamilton, Montana, reports the following deaths during the present year: Hyder Ali, bay horse, foaled 1872, by imp. Leamington, dam Lady Duke, by Lexington; Sonata, bay mare, foaled 1889, by imp. Darebin, dam Sezodant; Meekness, bay filly, 1892, by imp. Inverness, dam Mohallah, by Kingfisher; The Nude (imported), chestnut colt, foaled 1893, by St. Gatien, dam imp. Petticoat, by Doncaster, and chestnut colt, yearling, by imp. Inverness, dam Yolande, by Joe Daniels.

JIM WINGFIELD, the front flagman of Starter Pettingill, and Charles Shanton, a sheet writer, formerly in the employ of Sam Emory, were ruled off the turf at the Latonia meeting for being connected with a phony ticket game played on a Madam Green recently.

Stranger and Alix.

I notice a communication in your paper headed "The Stamp of Goldsmith Maid," in which Stranger's merits, as a sire, are placed exclusively to the credit of Goldsmith Maid. I do not pose as all wise in horse lore or horse breeding, but I do know that Stranger owes something to his sire Gen. Washington, son of Lady Thorn. The writer speaks truly when he says "There is probably no stallion to-day that transmits the characteristic power of Abdallah's blood with more force than Stranger, who gives his foals a genuine racing disposition." But I fancy he would have spoken the truth with greater accuracy and power, had he said: There is probably no stallion living or dead, that inherited the dead game qualities of two greater mares than Lady Thorn and Goldsmith Maid; or one that imparts these qualities to his offspring with more certainty than Stranger. It would seem needless to correct the writer of the Goldsmith Maid error, but inasmuch as he has omitted an important fact, there appears sufficient reason that I should do so.

Stranger is a brown horse bred by N. H. Smith, Fashion Stud Farm, Trenton, N. J., sired by Gen. Washington (son of Lady Thorn, 2:18½), dam Goldsmith Maid, 2:14; second dam Abby, by Long Island Black Hawk; third dam Lady Kate, by an Arabian. Abby, the dam of Goldsmith Maid, was also the dam of Daniel Webster, a horse of some prominence in years gone by. The sire of Gen. Washington was Gen. Knox, 2:30½, by Sherman Black Hawk, and the dam of Gen. Knox was by Searcher, a descendant of imported Diomed; second dam also a descendant of imported Diomed; and the dam of Lady Thorn was nearly, or quite thoroughbred. Long Island Black Hawk was also nearly thoroughbred, so that, if the writer of the article referred to had attributed the "genuine racing disposition" which Stranger gives to his get, to the thoroughbred, rather than to "The Stamp of Goldsmith Maid," he would have hit the mark of truth nearer.

When compiling the Dunton Register, I came across a good many errors in important pedigrees, and among them that of Goldsmith Maid, her dam being by Long Island Black Hawk, instead of Abdallah I, as the Wallace Register has it. And when we remember that Alexander's Abdallah (sire of Goldsmith Maid) had for a dam a mare by Bay Roman, the thoroughbred supposition receives added luster. And to cap the climax, the dam of Sherman Black Hawk was nearly or quite thoroughbred, as was the sire of Sherman Black Hawk. In fact, while the Trotting Register has done immeasurable good, it has done great harm, in some cases.

And so I wish to emphasize that fact, by the remark, that if breeders had examined the pedigrees of the early day trotters more carefully, and had taken their lessons in breeding from the facts therein, the 2:00 harness performer would have found his way here long ago. For example, Gifford Morgan—the sire of Beppo, the first horse to trot in 2:23—was by Woodbury Morgan, dam by Henry Dundas; second dam by True Briton (sire of Justin Morgan); third dam by Delaney's imported Wildair. And if we accept the supposition that the dam of Woodbury Morgan was a thoroughbred, then the case becomes quite clear that Beppo was nearly thoroughbred. And the case of the famous mare Lady Suffolk, 2:26½, is even a better illustration that thoroughbred horses could trot. Beppo was foaled in 1830, and Lady Suffolk in 1839, and why breeders did not imitate the example of those who bred Beppo and Lady Suffolk is more than I can understand. In fact, in every age since trotting began, the greatest performers at that way of going have had a large percentage of the blood of the thoroughbred. I will name a few such in alphabetical order: Almonarch, 2:24½; Alta, 2:23½; Amigo, 2:20½; Ansel, 2:20; Azmon, 2:17½; Brignoli, 2:29½; Catchfly, 2:18½; Centella, 2:21; Charlie Champlin, 2:21½; Cleora, 2:18½; Day Dream, 2:21½; Dick Moore, 2:22½; Direct, 2:18½; Early Rose, 2:20½; Edna, 2:29½; Edwin Forrest, 2:18; Ella Doe, 2:23½; Ella Earl, 2:25; El Monte, 2:29; Elvira, 2:18½; Earnest Maltravers, 2:22½; Express, 2:21; Fairlawn Medium, 2:25½; Favonia, 2:15; Favorite, 2:25½; Fleety Gold-dust, 2:29½; Flossie G., 2:18½; Gazelle, 2:21; Gen. Wilkes, 2:21½; Geo. M. Patchen, 2:23½; Geo. Wilkes, 2:22; Gift Jr., 2:27½; Goldsmith Maid, 2:14; Grafton, 2:22½; Grand Sentinel, 2:27½; Hambrino, 2:21½; Honest Allen, 2:17½; Hour, 2:17; Indicator, 2:23½; James G., 2:20; Jay-Eye-See, 2:10; J. B. Richardson, 2:17½; Jenny, 2:22½; Jerome Eddy, 2:16½; Jim Porter, 2:28½; Joe Davis, 2:17½; John H., 2:20; John W., 2:24½; Kenilworth, 2:18½; Kentucky Wilkes, 2:21½; Lady Mills, 2:24½; Lady Prewitt, 2:30; Lady Suffolk, 2:26½; Lady Thorne, 2:18½; Latitude, 2:15; Laura C., 2:29½; Leah H., 2:24½; Legal Tender, 2:27½; Lightning, 2:29½; Lizzie R., 2:23½; Lockheart, 2:08½; Lulu, 2:15; Lucy, 2:18½; Magenta, 2:24½; Mambrino Boy, 2:26½; Mambrino Pilot, 2:27½; Medoc, 2:24; Melrose, 2:27; Minnie R. (with running mate), 2:03½; Miss Redmond, 2:29; Misty Morning, 2:21; Molly, 2:27; Morning, 2:30; Music, 2:21½; Nancy Hanks, 2:04; Norval, 2:14½; Nutmont, 2:22½; Opal, 2:23; Orange Girl, 2:30; Patron, 2:14½; Phallas, 2:13½; Pickard, 2:18½; Pocahontas, 2:26½; Prince, 2:27; Quaker Boy, 2:18½; Queen of the West, 2:26½; Revenue, 2:22½; Royal George, 2:25½; Rumor, 2:20; St. Arnaud, 2:29½; Secret, 2:20½; Sentinel, 2:29½; Silver Duke, 2:23½; Silverone, 2:19½; Sir Walter Jr., 2:18½; Smuggler, 2:15½; Sunol, 2:08½; Tattler, 2:26; Tom Allen, 2:22; Venture, 2:27½; Voltaire, 2:20½; Whips, 2:27½. As I have not the latest records up to date, I may have erred as to records, and may have omitted animals that would add materially to the case; but I trust this will convince some that thoroughbred blood in the trotter does no harm. And I think the list of great broodmares, that have a strong admixture of thoroughbred blood, would help to convince some breeders. For example, Abhess, Alma, Alma Mater, Bay Fanny, Belle Brandon, Black Rose, Bland Temple, Blink Bonnie, Columbine, Dame Winnie, Dolly, Dolly Varden, Dolly Wicks, Ella, Ella G., Emeline, Fanny Jackson, Flora, Four Lines, Gray Goose, Gussie Wilkes, Heires, Iodine, Irene, Jenny, Jessie Pepper, Jewell, Widow, Machree, Lady Abdallah, Lady Fulton, Lady Morgan, Laura, Little Fortune, Lualaha, Madam Temple, Mary, Mattie West, Midnight, Miss Russell, Molly, Molly Whitefoot, Ned, Nellie Post, Primrose, Puss Prall, Santa Maria, Sapphire, Silence, Sister, Sprite, Sue, Susie, Vanity Fair, Woodbine, Yoland, Young Saline. The case in which the same writer speaks of Alix, as another representative of Abdallah I, is equally misleading, as Alix was by Patronage, a brother of Patron, 2:14½, son of Pancoast, 2:21½, son of Woodford Mambrino, 2:21½, son of Mambrino Chief, son of Mambrino Paymaster, etc. The dam of Alix was Atlanta, by Attorney, pacer, son of Harold (sire of Maud S., 2:08½), son of Hambletonian, son of Abdallah I; second dam Flirt, by (Gen. Hatch, son of Stranger's Clay, son of Henry Clay; third dam Dolly (dam of Fleta, 2:28, Envoy, 2:28, and Attorney Jr., 2:12), by Iowa, a thoroughbred son of imp. Glencoe; fourth dam Dolly Aldrich. The dam of Patronage was Beatrice, by Cuyler; second dam Mary Mambrino (dam of Elvira, 2:1½), by Mambrino Patchen; third dam Belle Wagner, by Embury's Wagner; fourth dam Lady Belle, by Bellfounder Jr.; fifth dam Multiflora, by Monmouth Eclipse. The dam of Pancoast, 2:21½, was Bicara (sister to McCurdy's Hambletonian 2:26½). The dam of Woodford Mambrino, 2:21½, was also the dam of Wedgewood, 2:19, by Woodford, a thoroughbred son of Kos-cinko. Now, then, if all these record-makers are to be ignored, when we are breeding for a record breaker, we might as well go back to the dark ages, in breeding for speed. And then again Alix looks no more like Abdallah I, than she does like a kangaroo. And why should she?

To call things bad which are bad, may do good; but to call things good which have no merit does immeasurable harm. And an error once having obtained a mile the start, it takes a fact a long time to over it. Fortunately, however, this is an age when breeders begin to look for themselves, and when they see a thing, they know it. In fact, few of them could be made to believe that Goldsmith Maid, Maud S., Alix, or any one of the great campaigners were such, because they happened to have a drop of the blood of Abdallah I in their veins. The facts are, that Stranger and Alix possess rare combinations of speed-producing capacity; and when these combinations are multiplied, their power is intensified.—Frank H. Dunton in Horse Review.

Runners at San Jose.

At the race track at Agricultural Park carpenters are busily engaged in fitting up a long line of stalls in a first-class manner for a stable of running horses owned by Dan Burns and Clarence Waterhouse. Their quarters are west of the grand stand and are in a very advantageous situation. Wide sheds are being erected in front of the stables, and grading and graveling is in progress to perfect the drainage. The improvements at this point and in other portions of Agricultural Park are under the direction of Messrs. Burns & Waterhouse and C. T. Boots, who have secured the use of the track from the Agricultural Association. The terms upon which the track and stables were leased are that 50 cents a month be paid for each stall in use, the lessee to pump all the water required to keep the track in fine shape.

Twenty three running horses belonging to Burns & Waterhouse came to San Jose from Sacramento last Tuesday. The stable is in charge of Ben Timmons. He has eighteen stable men and boys under him to care for the horses. The stable was moved from Sacramento for various reasons. Mr. Burns has stated that he liked climate here better, and besides, San Jose is more convenient to San Francisco. The track at Sacramento is always so crowded with trotting animals that the gallopers have little or no show. The stable will remain here this winter and a good portion of next summer. Burns & Waterhouse now have control of the Oakland track, the Bay District track, and, jointly with Mr. Boots, of the San Jose track.

The stable that is now quartered in San Jose is composed of twenty yearlings and three two-year-olds. The string is worth over $60,000. A number of the youngsters were purchased in New York recently for $3,750 apiece. There are also among them some very fine animals that Messrs. Burns & Waterhouse bred themselves. These yearlings will be broke to run on the San Jose track. Of the two-year-olds there is a filly out of Fairy Rose, a brother to Cadmus. Of the yearlings some are Midlothians and others Darebin stock. It is agreed to be the finest and most promising string of runners ever got together in a stable on the Coast.

In the Boots stable there are at present twenty-six runners. Mr. Boots will take six of these to Ingleside to take part in the Thanksgiving Day events there.

Other important stables are expected to arrive at the San Jose track soon. The new managers promise to put it into as good shape as any track in the State. No saloon will be allowed on the grounds. As far as possible the tramps that have endangered the buildings by sleeping in the places where the hay is stored will be kept out. Mr. Timmons and others who have charge of the horses express themselves as being highly pleased with the track.—Mercury.

The Plungers are Arriving.

Betting will assume a more exciting air hereafter at the track, for Riley Grannan, Edward Purser, Peter Gaffney, Gene Porter, Geo. W. Wheelock, Fred Corwin, "Pittsburgh" Phil, Harry Hoffman, Frank Eckert, Johnny O'Neill and William Beverley will soon be seen mingling with the crowd of bettors and ready to back their opinions with sacks of coin and long green rolls. They are unanimous in giving their opinions about the race meeting to be given at Ingleside next month, and declare there will be the largest crowd of prominent Eastern turfites here than was ever seen at any track in the United States. The hotels are rapidly filling, and with the advent of new horses, famous riders and more capital to throw into the ring, and the closing of the city pool-rooms, the race meetings here will receive a boom that will be felt wherever thoroughbreds are bred and raised, and an increased interest will be taken in the resources of this State for the raising of fine horses.

NEARLY all the big Eastern stables have gone into Winter quarters. The Oneck Stable, Erie Stable and the stables of Matt Allen, Col. J. Ruppert, Eph Snedeker, J. W. Rogers and the Madison Stable are among those that will winter at Morr is Park. August Belmont's lot will be sent to the farm at Babylon; Matt Byrne's to Monmouth Park; David Gideon's to Holmdel, N. J., and Mr. Galway's to his Preakness Farm, in New Jersey. Duke & Wishard's horses will probably go either to Saratoga or to Mr. Duke's farm in the northern part of the State after the Pimlico meeting, P. J. Dwyer's and M. F. Dwyer's horses will winter at Gravesend, as usual and Mr. Keene's at Brighton Beach.

SAM SUMMERFIELD, one of the best-known of the book-makers, arrived here yesterday, and will probably cut in today. Like all who have recently come from the East, he predicts a great season of racing in California.

The Largest Winning Stable of 1895.

The most formidable string of light harness horses that has appeared for years on the California circuit is that of Winship & Keating. Up to date they have won more money than any stable out this season. Every animal in this aggregation, except Mariposa, is a big winner, and she has been a disappointment throughout. She was bought for $400 at an auction sale at San Jose from Henry Timmerman, of Pleasanton, her splendid breeding being by Guide, out of a mare by Monroe Chief (sire of Chico, 2:14), coupled with good action, making her seem a good purchase at the time. In her preparations for the campaign she showed up well, but she unaccountably went wrong on the trip to Portland in the early summer, and has not redeemed herself since, although she stole a heat in 2:20½ from Our Lucky on the second day of the Napa meeting.

She will be bred to McKinney next spring and the union is expected to result in a foal of exceptional merit.

The uniform success that has attended the tour of this stable has been due not only to the excellent judgment with which the various animals have been selected, but likewise to the careful and painstaking training which they have received at the hands of Mr. Keating than whom there is no better conditioner in California. Besides as a knight of the sulky Mr. Keating is readily conceded to be at the top of his profession, and in many close contests only his superior skill and ability as a driver were the factors that contributed principally to the capture of the purse. This was forcibly demonstrated at Santa Ana where Ethel Downs had a bitter struggle with Visalia. The latter won two heats in the first time of 2:12 and 2:13, the second heat being lost by a scant nose, but with excellent judgment Keating rated the Boodle mare so cleverly that she won the next heat in a close finish and had there been a less experienced reinsman behind her, it is extremely doubtful if she would emerge a victor.

The star of the string, if speed is a criterion, is Patbmont, a speedy sidewheeler that was discovered by Messrs. Winship & Keating on the Oregon trip. He has never been behind the money, and his debut in California was made at the summer meeting of the Breeders' Association at Sacramento where in a hard-fought race of six heats he beat Phenol, Javelin, Ruby M. and others. He ran up against Chehalis at Vallejo and had to be contented with the third section of the purse, and at Petaluma he again encountered the Oregon wonder, but was awarded second honors. At Woodland he was an improved horse, and wrestled the first two heats from Chehalis in 2:11 and 2:09½, the black stallion getting the remaining three in 2:11½, 2:09½ and 2:13. During the meeting he again had to succumb to the black phenomenon, but at Sacramento he got the long end of a $1,000 purse by beating Hanford Medium, Phenol, Belle, Del Norte and Edna R. in straight heats, the fastest being 2:10½. In the free-for-all pace at the State Fair he gave a good account of himself, beating Waldo J., W. Wood and Seymour Wilkes in the second heat in 2:11½—the fastest heat that was paced in the race, which was finally taken by the gray. At Fresno he met the cracks of the Coast, Waldo J. and Chehalis, and though they traveled four heats respectively in 2:03, 2:03½ and 2:09, he got a good slice of the coin, Hanford Medium and Fred Mason being behind him. At the Breeders Meeting he was an overwhelming favorite in the 2:13 pace, winning easily off the reel from Belle, Hanford Medium and Ketchum, but he showed the public a good taste of his quality on the closing day in the free-for-all pace, in which he captured the second heat from Seymour Wilkes, W. Wood and the ever popular Silkwood, the mile being covered in 2:10½. That he will be even a better horse next year goes without saying. He gets his speed from his sire, Altamont, while he is splendid bred on the dam's side, being out of a mare by Cassius M. Clay Jr.

The stable has another star pacer in Ottinger, 2:11½, by Dorsey's Nephew, and he has also been unfortunate in running amuck of Chehalis. However, out of six starts he has two wins to his credit, two seconds and one fourth.

The point of performance, the game mare Ethel Downs, 2:13, heads the list. She is the property of Mr. Thos. Montgomery, the real estate agent of San Jose and was leased to Winship & Keating for the season. Her history has already been recited in these columns, but her career has been with out a parallel of any harness horse that has appeared on the California circuit for many years. Out of eleven starts she has corralled nine purses, and been second twice, her defeat in each case being by the sensational Zombro. This remarkable mare is a handsome black, and of symmetrical conformation; she is game to the core, her stamina being derived not only from Boodle, her sire, but also from her dam, a mare by Nutwood, second dam by Williamson's Belmont.

The particular pet of the stable, however, is Lady Grace. She is by Raymon, out of a thoroughbred mare by Hock-Hocking, and is an aristocrat in appearance from the tip of her nose to her long flowing tail. She has been winning coin all through the circuit, but has improved so rapidly during the past few weeks that she had no difficulty of disposing of Native State in three heats at the recent Breeders' meeting, lowering her record in the last trip to 2:15½, and could have gone faster had she been forced to do so.

Jasper Paulsen is a handsome colt that has proven a bonanza. He was a veritable pick-up, as he was bought for $40 at the Palo Alto sale a year ago, but under the skillful administration of Mr. Keating he has got a record of 2:16½, not to speak of a couple of thousand dollars in purse money.

A recent acquisition of the partnership is the fast two-year-old pacer Agitato with a record of 2:18. He was purchased from Millard F. Sanders at a low price because of his crippled condition, and has not been started since he passed into the hands of his new owners. He is a picture in motion and, a natural pacer, being another of the illustrious family Steinway has produced.

The gentlemen composing the partnership are always on the lookout for good horses and do not hesitate to pay a proper price for anything in horseflesh that takes their eye, and when they appear on the circuit next year, their string will doubtless be reinforced by several additional members, the result of which will doubtless be a repetition of the success that has crowned their efforts in this, their inaugural year.

St. Louis, November 20.—President Maffit, of the St. Louis Fair Grounds Association, announced to-day that, owing to the sudden change in the weather, it was decided to call to-day's races off, and close the track for the season.

A Very Attractive Programme.

The Pacific Coast Jockey Club has issued its programme covering the dates from the opening day, November 28th, to and including December 7th, in pamphlet form, which is gotten up in the neatest style. The list of officials is given as follows:

Officers—A. B. Spreckels, president; Henry J. Crocker, vice president; W. S. Leake, secretary.
Directors—A. B. Spreckels, Henry J. Crocker, Edward Corrigan, W. S. Leake, S. N. Andrews.
Racing department: Judges—Captain J. H. Rees, Joseph A. Murphy; patrol judge, J. W. Wilson.
Stewards—Captain J. H. Rees, Joseph A. Murphy, Henry J. Crocker.
Starter—James F. Caldwell.
Official timers—Orrin Hickok, A. J. Stemler.
Clerk of scales—Reuben H. Clarke.
Superintendent of the course—A. M. Allen.
Secretary—W. S. Leake.

The purses are for $400 and $500, and many of the races are at from six furlongs to a mile and an eighth. Two stakes are included in the programme. The Palace Hotel Stakes, for three-year-olds, at a mile and a furlong, is set down for the opening day, and the Horse Show Association Stakes, for two-year-olds, at seven furlongs, on Saturday, December 7th. The entries in each of the above named events give promise of very interesting contests. Handicaps will be of frequent occurrence. The programme in full for the opening day is as follows:

First race—Purse $500, of which $60 to the second and $40 to the third. For three-year-olds and upward. Non-winners this year of $1,500 allowed 5 pounds; of $500, 10 pounds; non-winners since October 1st allowed 5 pounds additional. Allowances cumulative. One mile.

Second race—Purse $400, of which $50 to second and $25 to third. For three-year-olds. Stake winners in 1895 to carry five pounds penalty. Other horses that have started this year and have not won a race of the value of $700 allowed five pounds; $300, ten pounds; beaten maidens allowed fifteen pounds. Six furlongs.

Third race—The Palace Hotel Stakes, closed.

Fourth race—Purse $400, of which $50 to second and $25 to third. For maiden two-year-olds. Five and one-half furlongs.

Fifth race, hurdle—Purse $400, of which $60 to second and $40 to third. The winner to be sold at auction for $1500; if entered to be sold for less, three pounds allowed for each $100 less to $1000, and two pounds for each $100 less to $500. Mile and one-half, over six hurdles.

Horsemen and interested parties can obtain programme books upon application at the secretary's office.

California Jockey Club Stakes.

The California Jockey Club has decided to run off two of the two-year-old stake events before the opening day of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club. The Produce Exchange stake will be run next Saturday, while the Lissak selling event is scheduled for next Tuesday. The entries for these two races are as follows:

The Produce Exchange Stakes for two-year-olds that have not won a race at the time of closing entries, five and a half furlongs—Irene E., Glen Queen gelding, Nic Nac, Cornelia colt, Montgomery, Salisbury, Mt. McGregor II, Zio Zio colt, Wyoming, Camelia, Japonica, Cloverdale, Modesty colt, Jenny Tracy colt, Catherine the First, San Marcus, Charlotte filly, Valiente, La Flecha, Terranet, Little Eyes, Teragnes, Maximilian, Sister to Lottery filly, Lotta, Casta-oette, Cutlass, Marie, Adalade, Turban filly, Carrara, Mohave, Big Chief, Jim Budd, Rejected, Ursula gelding, Nellie Post gelding, Eda gelding, Merry Go Round, Pizetto, Audubaire, St. Aignan, Hagar, Road Warner, Jim Bozeman, Red Pike, Globe, Theresa, Also, Mumie, Ensenada, Montallade, El Primero, Caliente, Snowdown, Vicksburg.

The Lissak selling stakes for two-year-olds, five and one-half furlongs—Belle Boyd, Riot, Treachery, Glacier, Montgomery, Midio, Mt. McGregor II, Palomacita, Sam Leake, Kowalsky, Cloverdale, Mobalaska, Joan, Monitor, Isabelle, Benham, Don Gara, Cardwell, Phyllis, Kamsin, Encino, St. Lee, Jack Atkin, William Pinkerton, Unity, Terrify, Terranet, Marionette, Maximilian, imp. Endymion, Edgemount, Rey del Bandidos, Leon L, Charlie Boots, Cutlass, Theresa K, Tinv, imp. Miss Brummel, imp. Santa Bella, Miss Maxim, Rejected, Grady, Peel gelding, Nevare, Merry Go Round, Josephine, Jim Bozeman, Ferris Hartman, Laura F., Pearson, La Vienta, Ramiro, El Primero, Caliente, Snowdown, Governor Budd, Gratify, Summertine and Rebellion.

Chehalis, 2:07 1 2.

Chehalis, 2:07½, will winter at Santa Ana in the care of Mr. Raymond, the owner of Klamath, and will be placed in the stud in the spring season. He certainly takes the prize as the champion bread winner this year on the Pacific Coast, for he has placed $5,000 in purses alone in his owner's pocket since he started on his victorious career this summer at Portland, Oregon, and $1,100 of that amount was won at Los Angeles. Chehalis must certainly be accorded a phenomenal horse, for his record prior to the racing season was 2:24½, and although it now stands at 2:07½, there is no question of his ability, when sound and fit, to slice off a second or so off of that mark. He has won every race in which he started except one, and that was the occasion when he met Waldo J. and after capturing two heats, in one of which he made his present mark, his lameness, which had first manifested itself at Stockton, so handicapped him that the Ventura "ghost" annexed the succeeding three heats and race. That the horse is game to the core cannot be denied by anyone who has watched him when he was pitted against a horse of calibre, and this was especially noticeable in his last race at Los Angeles, where he had a desperate struggle with Ottinger in the first heat. Despite the fact that he was suffering pain so intense as to force him once to leave his feet, his courage never faltered, and shaking the bit in his mouth vindictively, he pertinaciously set sail for Ottinger and caught him within 160 yards, just in time to be first to catch the judges' eye. Mr. Frazier believes that the lameness will disappear with this winter's rest, and if such be the case, there is a strong probability that the stallion will be taken East next year to win fresh laurels.

Salisbury and His String.

Catching Mr. Salisbury in an agreeable humor at the dinner table one day last week, I turned the conversation to his own horses with the hope of eliciting from him a few stable secrets, which might interest your readers. In reply to a question as to why so many of his horses lost their form the past season, he said: "It's an off year. I do not remember a year when horses went wrong as easily as they did the past season. I suppose my horses got off for the same reason that McHenry's big stable dwindled down to one horse, Jack Curry's carload to one. Hamlin's two or three carloads shrunk from week to week until he had but a very few that could beat anybody. Splon, Gil Curry, Doble, Hickok and lots of others wound up without one that could race. I never had a stable so full of lame horses before as I have this year and most of them were made lame by some very slight accident. Azote caught his foot in the platform in loading him in the car at Omaha. Arthur L. got frightened at the cars at Galesburg, jumped, and threw out a curb; Directly slipped and sprained a leg at St. Joseph; Marin Jr., had corns—and so on through the list."

I suggested that he get R. Boylston Hall, the alleged expert to straighten 'em out. "Once was enough for me," replied the old gentleman. Mr. Salisbury is more than ever convinced that the secret of making extreme speed lies in the shoeing. He attributes Azote's wonderful improvement in speed and form all to shoeing, and the great form displayed by Ella T. this fall dates from a change he made in the method of shoeing her. Altos is probably the most curiously shod horse in the string and I will have something to say about him another time.

"I think pretty well of the roan stallion Alamito," said Salisbury, "and think he would make a good race horse next year, as I have just got him going to suit me."

"What about Alix, is she to be bred?" I asked.

"No, she will trot again, and I expect her to go as fast as she ever could. Azote I will send to Chicago and leave him awhile in the care of a good veterinary I know of."

"I suppose you will come East with another string next year?"

"Well, it's too far away to say, but it's quite probable that I will not, but still, if the youngsters show me they can win I might show up again."

Andy McDowell has parted company with Salisbury for keeps and it would not be much of a surprise if McHenry sat on Azote's tail next season. Salisbury devoted Sunday forenoon to his horses and picked out a bunch to be fitted up for the New York sales. These will be kept in London a short time. The balance were shipped home to California. Ella T. has been turned over to John Tilden, who will winter her, and a number of others which he intends to campaign, at Red Oak.

Mr. Salisbury smiled as the waiter brought him a plate of shrimps and said, "That reminds me of a story. In company with a friend from the rural districts I went into a restaurant in San Francisco and ordered fried oysters. The waiter brought us a small plate of shrimps as a side dish. My friend carefully sized up the shellfish and said to the waiter: 'No, you don't; I may be pretty green, but you can't palm off no cooked grasshoppers on me for oysters. Take 'em away.'"

Flying Jib was among the horses left at Galesburg this summer in charge of John Tilden, with instructions to devote some time on this horse, teaching him to score if possible. Tilden put a rig on the Jib's head, which enabled him to punish the horse very severely with the lines, and after a few lessons, in which Jib nearly lost a jaw, he concluded to give it up and score as a pacer should. Upon the old gentleman's arrival he was told that the Jib would score as well as any horse. "Hitch him up," was the order, and the horse was brought out and scored a few times without any trouble. But after the horse was put up Salisbury was still skeptical and in a short time he came around to the stable and said: "Show me again." So the Jib was brought out once more and gave a correct imitation of a well behaved pacer at the score, and his subsequent performance at Lincoln was one of the surprises of that meeting, as he did not delay the start a minute in any heat. Salisbury considers John Tilden the greatest speed maker he ever knew, and John will train a public stable at Red Oak. I look for his horses to get their share of the 1896 money.—Horse Review.

The Ordinance Must Be Adopted.

The ordinance in regard to city pool-rooms to come up for passage before the Board of Supervisors is one of the strongest ever framed, and it will, if adopted, be impossible to find a flaw in it whereby it may be broken. The Judiciary Committee of the Board has done its work well, and there should be no hesitancy on the part of the Board in adopting it, for the salvation of the racing industry depends upon it, for then the morals of the habitues of these eye-sores on our public thoroughfare will be elevated above the depths to which they have fallen. There never was any need for these betting kindergartens, and if those who wish to bet cannot afford to attend the races, they should not have any opportunities for wagering their money where they are entirely at the mercy of a number of commissioners who are always on the alert to take every advantage they can.

The existence of city pool-rooms in New York City did more to cast odium on racing than any other cause, and the people, in righteous indignation, showed their disapproval of the business on election day by killing racing altogether. The same fate was apparently hanging over the race meetings here, and in the name of all lovers of pure racing and lawful methods for conducting the same, we desire to see this new ordinance adopted. Betting will be confined exclusively to the race track where the races are being run. There should be a provision in it, however, in regard to betting on foreign races, also, and, no doubt, when the attention of the authorities is called to the evils of it, the city fathers will act quickly and with good results.

THE Stewards of the Jockey Club will surely receive a waste paper basket full of applications for the official starter-ship of next season. From the North, South, East and West they are coming, and will come. Among the applications is Col. L. S. Hatch, who has shown very good work with the flag through the West. Col. Hatch will have powerful backing. Another applicant is Capt. F. G. Johnson, who had a lot of practice in India, and was well known as one of the most successful starters ever seen there. The Captain will command all the Canadian backing.—N. Y. Mercury.

THE KENNEL.

Special Meeting of the P. K. C.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14, 1895.

A special meeting of the Pacific Kennel Club was held at the Occidental Hotel this evening, to meet and confer with Mr. A. P. Vredenburg, Secretary of the American Kennel Club.

The members present were President H. Beer, Vice president E. H. Wakeman, Financial Secretary C. A. Haight, Recording Secretary H. W. Orear, H. C. Golcher, Sam Mack-Franz Frey, W. H. Collins, J. G. Barker, Thos. Higgs, Herbert Spencer, H. T. Payne, J. H. Potter, S. E. Fischer, F. W. D'Evelyn and A. Russell Crowell.

The following delegates and members of other kennel and specialty clubs were present by invitation: W. L. Praiber Jr., F. E. Miller and A. Russell Crowell representing the Sportsmen's Association of Alameda County; H. T. Payne, representing the Southern California Kennel Club; G. W. Debenham, A. W. Gonzales, H. H. Carlton and F. W. D'Evelyn, representing the Pacific Fox Terrier Club; J. G. Barker, O. H. Williams, A. Russell Crowell, Franz Frey, W. H. Collins, C. J. Adair and Hugh McCracken, representing the St. Bernard Club of California.

The meeting was called to order by President Beer, who in a few brief remarks introduced Mr. A. P. Vredenburg.

Mr. Vredenburg then addressed the meeting as follows:

Recognizing the expediency and mutual advantages derived from a bond of union between the Kennel clubs of the Pacific Coast and that of the national body, the American Kennel Club, in its desire to foster and keep alive the kennel interests of this great country, has conferred upon me the honor to represent it, and has sent me out upon this long journey of nearly 4,000 miles to meet, and to become better acquainted with its members in this section, to confer with, and ascertain from the views expressed by the representatives of your local clubs and from personal observation, what it can do to be of service to and to advance the best interests of that fraternity to which we all belong, and I therefore wish to thank you, gentlemen, for this very pleasant meeting—at least it is so to me—and I will ask your kind attention to a few remarks I wish to make upon the different subjects on which I believe I am safe to say we are all more or less interested.

In the first place, ever since the organization of the American Kennel Club in September, 1884, the object of that body has been to elevate the tone and purify the morals of the kennel affairs of the country.

To adopt and maintain such measures as shall tend to the mutual benefit and protection of its several members, at the same time guaranteeing protection to the exhibitor or owner, be he the owner of but one dog or many. The dog owner knows that a complaint lodged with the club, if proven, means the suspension or disqualification of the guilty party, and such penalties carry with them ample punishment. It not only prevents the guilty from exhibiting anywhere in this entire country under the Kennel Club rules, but it likewise debars that person from all the privileges of the Stud Book, and, practically, deprives any of his dogs from entry in that book, no matter to whom they may have been conveyed; therefore, it certainly behooves a person to be honest and honorable in his dealings, if not from his or her innate desire in that direction, than to save them from living under a punishment that is so hard to bear in so many instances.

With this power, it is fully appreciated by the club that in exercising it the utmost discrimination and consideration must be used, and I can truly say that the members have always used the greatest care possible to protect the innocent from charges that appear to be instituted in a spirit of persecution.

In like manner, should the different kennel clubs carefully consider all cases of protest that come before them. In such cases the kennel clubs are always courts of original jurisdiction, and too much care cannot be given to such matters, so that your decisions may be just and as a sequence, carry the weight that is such a desideratum.

In case of any appeal from your decisions to the kennel club, it rarely investigates beyond the regularity of your previous proceedings, and therefore it is all important that your action shall have been thorough and the matter before you fully investigated before rendering a decision. You will find that you are fully backed up by the kennel club. Take for instance the case of a recent expulsion by one of your clubs, notwithstanding numerous appeals for reinstatement, the Kennel Club rendered a decision that upon the recommendation of the club where original jurisdiction was bad, the man would be re-instated. Let me say right here, that different degrees of misconduct should be disciplined by different degrees of punishment. A man committing a capital crime is put to death, while a man stealing a loaf of bread receives but a trifling sentence.

The Kennel Club relying as it does upon the fairness of its members in all of their dealing with such cases, expects from those members the utmost care and deliberation in all matters coming before them.

Referring to our attitude towards the Press—I cannot be too emphatic. We have been oftentimes misquoted, misrepresented or misinterpreted, I won't say intentionally so, but will let it go as an honest expression by the kennel editors, of their interpretation of our debates and action. The Kennel Club puts itself on record as acknowledging the thorough and entire independence of the press, its right to criticize and say whatever it pleases, so long as it is honest in its criticism. Its privilege as a free lance is undisputed, and there is no doubt but that the Kennel Club has, in many instances, profited by the criticisms it has seen in the sporting papers. We have no desire in the least to dictate to, nor to attempt to "muzzle" the Press. Even had we the inclination to do so, we certainly have not the power, and had we the power we certainly have not the inclination. The Press is a powerful factor in all public matters, and in a great measure leads public opinion. This is as it should be, provided it is conservative, and its policy honest, and not confined to the narrow lines of personalities and abuse, but even on that basis, its freedom is undisputed and acknowledged, and its power for good or ill depending upon the support it receives from the public. Where the remarks of the delegates have been misunderstood by the gentlemen of the Press, is not that those remarks were directed against the Press or its reporters, but were intended to apply to our undoubted constitutional right to control the pen of our delegates on Kennel Club matters so long as they remain delegates. Every person representing one of our members, is not only invited to attend our meetings, but is urged to do so, and he has the right, and privilege to express his views upon any subject before us, on the floor of the meeting, and further, can place on record his vote for or against any measure under consideration. Further than that, we do object to that delegate rushing in print, and taking the Club to task, because the majority did not agree with him. We do object, and by all precedents, intend to control the privilege of a delegate from perverting the truth, should that delegate happen to be an editor or reporter. He has his say on the floor, and has the privilege of seeing his name in type as having expressed this or that opinion, and there it should stop. We expect that the family of delegates are all working together for the advancement and good of kennel matters over this broad land of ours, and object to carrying a grievance to the public press, when the opportunity is always afforded him upon the floor of the meeting.

In plain words, we accord the Press freedom and liberty to criticize or not to criticize, just as it pleases, and in a like manner reserve to ourselves the right to control our delegates in their criticisms of the acts of the club, in that Press. Personally, did I occupy the position of delegate, I would decline an appointment as kennel editor of any paper for fear that in my desire to get ahead of other journals I might be induced to use my knowledge and prostitute my office as a delegate for the benefit of the paper; per contra, were I a kennel editor I would decline to serve any club as its delegate for fear I would handicap that paper, for fear that I might overstep the bounds of what I considered my duty to the club.

In my opinion the two offices are not compatible.

For the first time in my recollection two of the clubs on this coast have appealed to the Kennel Club for relief from certain hardships forced upon them by the bench show rules, which militated against the benefits that should accrue to exhibitors at your bench shows. I refer to the difficulties experienced by the dog owners in this section to earn a championship for their dogs. Your appeal was promptly referred to the Committee on Rules, which as promptly recommended an amendment giving greater relief than was asked, and the amendment will come up for adoption at the meeting to be held next month. In my opinion there can be no good reason advanced why the amendment should not carry. As a coincidence, let me relate a circumstance:

Early last January a committee was auditing my accounts, and while at luncheon we naturally talked on kennel club matters; the question of the almost impossibility of a Pacific dog winning a championship under the existing rules, came up and was discussed. We then discovered that the auditing committee were also members of the Committee on Rules, and after debating the pros and cons, we finally parted with the understanding that Mr. Webster, one of the committee should evolve the scheme whereby the Pacific dogs could benefit, and to bring the matter before the club at its next meeting, but when that meeting came around our good intentions were rudely dashed by the reception of your communication on the subject. Well, you stole our thunder, and I don't know whether it matters or not so long as the relief comes to whom the credit belongs, yet we feel that we can conscientiously claim a small portion of it from what we were going to do.

Now, gentlemen, no doubt you are perfectly familiar with the bench show rules, or certainly you are familiar with such rules as may press particularly hard on you in this territory. If so, let us hear from you, and I can promise a careful consideration of the subject. We are banded together to promote kennel interests; not confined to the Atlantic States, nor to the Middle States, nor to the Western States, but for the whole country, and therefore your interests in this far West must necessarily be our interests. Whatever works for good here must benefit the National body, and if for no other reason than that of self-interest, the Kennel Club stands ready to help you and to give you such relief as wise legislation will dictate. This subject now rests with you.

Granted then that our interests are mutual and your clubs become affiliated with the American Kennel Club, you certainly do so because you find it to your interests to be members. Why and how is such membership of value to you? I answer by saying you receive protection, you have fair rules under which you can hold your shows, you offer the greatest inducements to exhibitors to patronize you. Your supporters, by winning under these rules, make a value for their dogs, or for their services, you have your say in the formulation of the rules, you are protected from men who have been blacklisted for misconduct, you have at your back a body who has reorganized the entire kennel world in these United States into a disciplined, orderly and well-behaved class of men. A body that has brought order out of chaos. Do its members owe anything in return? Most decidedly yes. They owe it their loyal support, and their hearty co-operation. The best way to support it is to do as some of the clubs on this coast have done, to hold shows annually, and if the balance is finally posted on the wrong side of your book to keep up the work, and after, by your unselfishness and persistency you have educated the people of what a dog is and should be, and in what measure breeders have improved the different breeds, you will surely feel repaid for the costs, and your shows will soon be fully appreciated and demonstrated by increased gate receipts. We all have to engage in missionary work of some description or other, and trying to make bench shows profitable is decidedly one branch of missionary work. To co-operate with the Kennel Club is to have good delegates to represent you, to keep in touch with current affairs, no matter at what distance you may be from the club. When questions of importance are to come before the Club, for the local clubs to meet and discuss these questions, and get a fair consensus of opinion for or against the measure and then instruct your delegates how to vote. Take, for instance, the question of the cropping of dogs that has been before the public since last May. It is a vital question to some of the breeds, and why should not the different clubs throughout the country take some action on it and instruct their delegates as to the wishes of the majority. Otherwise, when the vote is taken, if a delegate acts simply in accordance with his own idea of what is best, the club is open to the charge that the vote did not reflect public opinion. Save the club by all honest means in your power from the least possible chance of being adversely criticised by the disgruntled element.

As you have already been informed, the Kennel Club at its May meeting, passed a resolution providing for the establishment of a kennel club sub-committee, composed of representatives from the several clubs located west of the 110 meridian and your cooperation was invited.

We feel that justice can hardly be done by the National body, to the affairs on this coast, situated as it is at the other extremity of this continent, and therefore hope that such a committee can be formed, and believe that the end will justify the means. We find that even at the Home Office, an Advisory Committee is necessary, and if a necessity there, how much more valuable will such an adjunct be to the club, is operated out here. The suggestion is the formation of what would practically be a Pacific Advisory Committee. The duties of such a committee would naturally be the same as the duties now performed by the present committee, except that its supervision would be limited to affairs in a territory peculiarly your own. All charges of misconduct in that territory, would be referred to your committee for investigation appeals from decisions of any of your club show committees or managers, would naturally be reviewed by you, and after such investigation or review, it would then be your duty to forward the result of your investigation, together with all papers, and your recommendations, to the American Kennel Club for its final action, precisely the same as our present advisory committee does. By this means the American Kennel Club could feel that its actions would be a far more intelligent one, than it could possibly be under the existing state of affairs. It would also be within the province of such a committee, to inaugurate reform, if found necessary, to recommend any measure that in its opinion, would be of a benefit to the interests of your clubs, or to dogdom in general, in your section. By such means, your action would be a concerted one, and would naturally carry more weight than legislation asks for, by any one of your members. As a rule, special legislation is dangerous, and the kennel club is and has always feared to take a step in that direction. In my opinion, by the formation of such a committee, our Pacific members would feel that they were in closer touch with the National body, that with the additional responsibilities would become much more important factors in the affairs of dogdom, and would add still more dignity to their standing, and wield a greater power for good in this community—a dignity and power that cannot be assumed by any single association. In union there is strength, and it does not require any great stretch of the imagination to feel that an organized committee representing five clubs, can make its influence felt in a much greater degree, than that exerted by the five clubs in their individual capacities. It requires concert of action to show strength, and strength is necessary to command respect, premising that that strength is never used for personal aggrandizement, but is put into operation for the general good, the advancement and protection of the cause for which it was created.

Gentlemen, we invite your cooperation. You have ever been loyal members, and I confidently believe you will give it.

No association exists that is more democratic in its organization than the American Kennel Club. It is made up as you know of the different specialty and bench show clubs scattered throughout this country. Each club is entitled to a delegate, and each club is urged to send one. In this country of distances, where it would be impossible to send a delegate from the headquarters of his club, it is not only proper, but a duty to appoint some person to represent you, who, residing within convenient distance of New York, can and will attend the four stated meetings of the Kennel Club, and care for your interests by stating his opinion and casting his vote on the different subjects coming before us from time to time. As I said before, on all matters of amendments where ample public notice must be given, the different clubs should instruct their delegates, and then if any of our members lose their opportunity to be heard, or to vote on any matter that may be of vital importance to them, they can only blame themselves for their own negligence, and not the organization of which they are a part.

It appears to me, that from the very nature of our make-up, that every action of the club must be an honest one, and prompted by a desire to benefit the kennel interests of the whole country. A delegate receives no remuneration for his services; he gives his time, thought and labor for love, solely. He gains no credit for his efforts, but on the contrary, in many instances, receives abuse for doing what his conscience dictated.

Men, as a rule, do not like abuse, and it has often been an enigma to me, why they will continue to occupy a position which affords anyone the opportunity to vilify and abuse them in the public newspapers, while they have really nothing to gain by continuing in such positions. The only answer that I can give, that, it being necessary for some one to exercise the power to dominate the good over the evil, that they fell it an incumbent duty, to serve the cause, at no matter what cost to their personal ease and comfort.

Notwithstanding the fight the American Kennel Club has had for its very existence, from the time of its organization to the present day, waged by all sorts of men, organizations and even newspapers, it has gone on in its quiet way, has grown in power and is a successful organization. It has a history, it has done a work, it has forced itself into power so that it is respected by friend and feared by foe; the large majority of men are its supporters, because it has commanded respect, and has been fearless in doing its work, the few opposed to it, I sincerely believe respect it, although they do not allow any opportunity to pass without assailing it and attacking it for what it has done, and for what it has not done, for what it ought to do, and for what it ought not to do, yet with all kinds and manner of attacks by the few disgruntled ones, they have, so far, failed to suggest anything better to take its place.

If a better organization can be proposed, let us by all means adopt it, but until that happens the American Kennel Club will continue to move with the world, and continue to do its self-imposed work.

Gentlemen, I hope I have not wearied you, but if I have I can only plead as my excuse my regard and zeal for the continued success of the club that has honored me for ten long years as its Secretary, and as such, thank you most kindly for your courtesy to me, your most cordial reception, and your loyalty in the past to the club to which you belong.

Mr. Beer then called upon H. T. Payne as representative of the Southern California Kennel Club, who responded in substance as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, our guest and gentlemen, it seems to me that it would have been more appropriate to have had an expression of opinion from the Pacific Kennel Club. However, when it comes to any question of the advancement of kennel interests, the interest of the dog owners of this Coast especially, I am ever its willing conscientious servant. I have listened to our distinguished guest with great interest, but I think that he has not touched upon the most important subject of all. I refer to the $500 rule that has prevented the organization of seven kennel clubs, and has killed several others.

"Before the adoption of this rule the Southern California Kennel Club whom I represent, was giving successful shows, successful financially and otherwise. At that time their prizes were nothing but diplomas and small specials, yet at the same time their entries were greater than they have been since cash prizes were adopted. There are two reasons for this: Our breeders are not professionals; they breed for love and to teach others to love and respect the dog, to regard them as personal property and to teach the poison fiend to respect property rights. We have no monetary interests. The fact of winning $5 or $10 cuts no figure.

"Another reason is that the clubs have had to use money for cash prizes that they formerly used for advertising and other expenses incidental to holding shows. As a result, entries are falling instead of increasing.

"The President of the Southern California Club writes to tell the club members assembled here to-night that unless this rule is repealed the Southern California Kennel Club cannot hold any more shows.

The Seattle fanciers organized a club but on account of this rule they passed out of existence.

The Alameda club contains a lot of earnest workers, men who have the doggy interests at heart. At the close of their show they had to put their hands into their pockets and now if not dead they are at least asleep.

F. E. Miller, of the Alameda Club, interposed the remark that they were still alive and that at that time it was the popular opinion that the Pacifics were dead. (Applause.)

Mr. Payne continued: The Columbia Kennel Club of Portland intended to give a show, but the $500 rule proved a mill stone around their necks and they gave it up.

Stockton intended to give a show in connection with the District Fair, but when they came to figure up expenditures and receipts, the $500 rule stared them in the face and they, too, had to give it up.

The Tacoma has recently organized a club and would like to show under A. K. C. rules but the $500 rule prohibits.

San Diego, Redlands and Riverside would also hold shows but for this rule that has done more to retard progress than all others put together.

He then stated that the Los Angeles and Alameda clubs had requested the A. K. C. to abolish this rule, but Mr. Vredenburg denied it. He (Mr. Vredenburg) stated that the Los Angeles and Pacifics had asked to have the 500 dog rule changed, but that he had not heard from the Alameda Club on the subject and the Los Angeles club did not mention the $500 rule.

Mr. Miller stated that the petition was mailed to the A. K. C. from the Alameda Club and Mr. Payne stated that as he framed the petition he was positive that the Los Angeles Club had asked for it.

Mr. Payne: However, the fact remains the same. The P. K. C. cut out the $500 clause from self interest, and one member present said: "Let the outside clubs take care of themselves." I believe the P. K. C. should assist the outside clubs as it would work to their benefit.

The small clubs are the kindergartens where first converts are made. They become full-fledged fanciers later.

The single dog man shows at the small shows for the first time and champions are the next thing thought of.

This is an important question to us and we want the secretary to go back and tell his confreres that it is a vital question to us.

San Francisco is the only show that can spend $500, and even then the last one was $260, or about that sum behind. Los Angeles and San Francisco are all that is left.

In regard to the championship rule a man sometimes asks for a thing and gets more than he wants. Exemption from the rule for the entire coast is as great an error as the 500 dog rule.

Championships should be earned I think it a mistake to throw it open to all and would favor 250 dogs which would possibly let in Los Angeles. This is a large country with a possibility of great kennel interests. The climate is great, our horses beat the world and our dogs should do ditto.

There is more interest in the St. Bernard at present than in any other breed, and I think the breeders of this breed are using the most intelligence in breeding. Their young dogs are fine and considering the short time they have been breeding they are exceptional.

The same thing is possible in other breeds. It is even possible that we may be sending our dogs East some day to compete.

We ask of the A. K. C. not favors, not privileges, only our rights, only justice. California could not ask for anything that is not right.

We ask Mr. Vredenburg on his return to the East to report that the wild and woolly West has shed its coat, there are no six-shooters any more; our Durants and the belfry of the Emanuel church are no worse than the tales told in Eastern chancel houses.

Mr. Haight: I would like to ask Mr. Vredenburg the question, why was the $500 rule adopted?

Mr. Vredenburg: Because wins were too cheap. A win at a small show counted as much as a win at New York, with its $8,000 in cash prizes. Professionalism undoubtedly had some weight. It is the business of a few to go from one show to another with large strings. The handler gets $5 a dog for each show and all the dogs' winnings. Where cash prizes were offered, the cash show got all the entries and the show that gave only diplomas got left by the handlers, although the small show wins counted just the same.

When the Committee on Rules was first organized the appointments were made by the president. Mr. Belmont appointed me on the committee, as in my official position I handled all the correspondence and was better fitted to inform the committee of what was going on. I am opposed, personally, to the $500 rule. Although I have never yet discussed the matter with the committee, I infer that the other four are in favor of the present rule. If it is the sense of the Pacific Coast clubs that this rule should be abolished, I will do my share in concurring with your wishes. Amendments are proposed, then published in the Gazette and then brought before the regular meeting. A special meeting has been called for December 19th to act upon the different amendments now before the club. Any proposed amendments given to me now will be published in the Gazette for December. This is in short the object of my visit. The A. K. C. has the kindest feelings toward the coast clubs. We have no differences to abridge, and any amendments to the rules proposed by you will receive due consideration. In regard to the 500 dog rule I would say that I looked into the matter a little at Los Angeles and I find that they never had 250 dogs there. I would propose a rule that a dog to earn a championship must have won at least once in a show where there were three dogs in competition.

Mr. Payne: I have no instructions from L. A. re the 500 dog rule and speak from my personal opinion only.

Mr. Barker then moved that it was the sense of the meeting of kennel men here assembled that $500 prize rule be repealed in so far as it applies to this Coast: referring to Rule V of regulations governing clubs. Mr. Payne seconded the motion.

In speaking to the question Mr. Barker said that he considered it as faulty to abandon the 500 dog rule as to let it stand. He would place the number at 200 to 250, but in his opinion the $500 rule should be abolished.

Dr. D'Evelyn: We cannot fail to appreciate Mr. Vredenburg's visit. Our wishes are common, the best interest of the dog. Our youth and isolation necessitates an annihilation of existing rules. It is for our best interests and we think it not illogical to ask for such. From Mr. Vredenburg's opinion I gather that the East is ignorant of our capabilities. Once this is cleared away it will be all plain sailing. As regards the $500 limit, this is a dollar limit country, Mr. Payne has covered the ground well. This opportunity should be accepted. The motion should be worded as the majority thinks. The present rule means ruin to our very existence. This is the Fox Terrier Club's little growl.

Mr. H. W. Orser: It seems to me that those who favor the 500 dog rule all own challenge dogs. I am in favor of Mr. Vredenburg's idea.

Mr. Payne: The motion is simply the $500 rule.

President Beer: As the Pacific Kennel Club has already acted upon this question, I do not think I can entertain any motion as this is a special meeting of the P. K. C.

Mr. Payne: The meeting has been called to meet Mr. Vredenburg. I move you that a recess be declared.

Mr. Beer: I declare a recess of fifteen minutes.

On motion of Mr. Payne, Mr. Barker took the chair.

Mr. Barker then called for the sense of the meeting on the motion previously put and there were but four dissenting voices, Mr. Barker declared that the motion prevailed.

The 500 dog rule was then discussed. Mr. Payne stated that he would like to see it made possible for the Los Angeles show to count towards a championship and made the motion that Mr. Vredenburg be instructed that it was the sense of the meeting that the 500 dog rule should be changed to 200 dogs.

H. McCracken proposed an amendment that the number be made 250. Seconded, accepted and carried unanimously.

Mr. Pratber: As representing the "sleeping" association I would like to say that I concur with these amendments and that if they prevail the Alameda Club will wake up and hold shows every year. The next question is the Advisory Committee business. I am strongly in favor of that plan and would like to hear some discussion on that subject.

Mr. Barker: I had concluded that the various clubs were either dead or asleep, but if Mr. Vredenburg gets the proposed amendments through, the Advisory Committee should be a go.

Mr. Vredenburg: It is not necessary for Portland and Los Angeles to send a delegate here, they could be represented here in San Francisco. No rule will apply to the whole United States. The A. K. C. have not understood your needs on account of the distance. Had you had an advisory committee these amendments proposed here to night would have been suggested to us long ago.

Mr. Haight: I think there are too many dead clubs and do not think it advisable to inaugurate the advisory committee at the present time.

Mr. Payne spoke briefly in favor of the committee.

Mr. Vredenburg stated that the Alameda Club and the Southern California Kennel Club had already appointed delegates and that it only remained for the Pacifics to appoint one. He understood that the St. Bernard Club would join the A. K. C. shortly and was informed by Mr. Crowell, the Secretary of the St. Bernard Club, that he would receive the application at once.

After considerable informal talk the meeting adjourned.

Respectfully submitted, A. RUSSELL CROWELL, Secretary-protem.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

J. G. Barker has presented to T. C. Grant of this city a St. Bernard dog pup by California Bernardo—Lady Bute II.

Secretary Vredenburg's request that the Pacific Coast clubs pay more attention to A. K. C. matters should be heeded. Delegates very rarely receive any instructions whatever.

C. W. Travis thinks that some of his puppies will be heard from later. One of them by California Bernardo—Nellie Bland, weighs 140 pounds at 7 months and 10 days and is straight and strong.

We note that Payne not only leaves out half of Vredenburg's address and prints the whole of his own but he adds fully one-half to his own in his report of the proceedings at the recent reception to Mr. Vredenburg.

T. H. Terry, vice president and acting chairman of the American Kennel Club, has resigned. Isn't it about time that a New England man was elected for this important position? The honor is certainly due to that section.

Nominations for the Merced Coursing meeting must be in the hands of the Secretary (J. R. Dickson) by 8 o'clock on Friday, the 6th of December. Coursing commences at Merced on Monday, the 9th. The sportsmen will leave the city on Sunday at 9 A. M.

Should the proposed amendments be carried, kennel interests on this coast will boom. The first thing to be thought of will be a circuit of shows. Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Tacoma and Portland for a spring circuit and Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento for a fall circuit would be about all that this State could support at present.

The committee from the St. Bernard Club of California met the Pacific Fox Terrier Club Tuesday evening at 313 Bush street, and after considerable discussion concluded that the time for preparation was too short to get the dogs into condition for a specialty club exhibition, and also that it might militate against the spring show of the Pacific Kennel Club. Consequently they concluded to drop the matter for the present.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Grey ducks are very plentiful at Antioch.

De Pue bagged forty-nine ducks at Tubbs Island Sunday.

Wild pigeons are still very plentiful in the hills near St. Helena.

Ed. Ladd bagged five snipe, seven ducks and a goose at Saison Sunday.

Grilse are said to be running at the mouth of Austin Creek in goodly numbers.

Many local duck hunters took advantage of the blow on Thursday and made splendid bags.

J. Bruns and J. Karney got seventy ducks at Sears Point Sunday. G. G. Billington got sixty more at the same place.

Parties who have come down the river this week report one long string of canvasback from San Pablo to Sherman Island.

J. G. Messner and A. H. King shot a 100-bird match at Pittsburg on November 8th that resulted in a tie on 88 birds each.

One of our local duck hunters has been heard to remark this week that it is a good idea to push up the safety before attempting to shoot into a flock of canvasback.

Lloyd Eaton and D. McCrae got seventeen ducks, eleven of them cans, at Teal Station Sunday. Chas. Deitz and Vic Harrier got eighteen, including six mallard, at the same place.

Deputy Fish Commissioner W. R. McFarland arrested Geo. M. Cathey near Los Banos on Monday last for shooting ducks with a 6-bore gun. Cathey demanded a jury trial and the case will be tried at Los Banos to-day.

This is the best year for duck hunting that we have had in this vicinity for many years. The ducks are here in countless thousands, and the hunter that misses the first stormy day will miss the shoot of his life. They are everywhere from Alviso to Antioch. Some excellent bags have been made already, but these hot, calm days are anything but good duck weather.

D. C. Beaman, just returned from White River country, confirms the report of Deputy Game Warden Clark, that United States army officers and troops have been violating the State game laws themselves, instead of driving the Indians back to their reservation in Utah. The slaughter of deer has exceeded that of any year since 1887, the number killed being estimated at 7,000 to 10,000.

A. Fordera, recently found guilty of selling wild duck out of season, appeared before Judge Low on Saturday last for sentence. Low was very busy and deferred the matter until Monday. On Monday Fordera's attorneys moved for a new trial and Judge Low requested F. D. Riordan, attorney for the defense and Attorney Jackson, who represents the Attorney-General, to present their briefs on December 6th. The Fish Commissioners have several other cases on hand, but will not prosecute them until after the case is decided.

There were no less than forty shooters at the Alviso draw-bridges on Sunday and they all made fair bags. These were thousands of birds there, and had there been a storm the boys would have made big bags. R. Hubbard, of Alameda, got twenty-nine birds including four mallard. H. Hosmer got nineteen including two mallards. Seven members of the Pastimes were down and jointly they bagged 120 birds. Fred Miller had the largest bag of the lot. He had twelve ducks and twelve rail. Frank Harden stopped over until Monday and got sixteen rail and twelve ducks. Otto Feudner and Crowell got sixteen cans, widgeon and sprig and three rail. Quite a number of cans were killed on this marsh.

HOOF-BEATS

MATT STORN played in hard luck Wednesday. His green colt Gov. Budd, got the worst of the start, but came very close to the money. Willie Martin made a very good race.

At Latonia last week Ireland Bros. purchased of Fleischman & Son the black horse Domingo, by imp. Darebin—Gondole. Terms private. Domingo is a noted mud horse.

IMP. STAR RUBY, who started Wednesday, is a grand type of race horse, and was admired by everyone who saw him. He is by the great English sire Hampton out of a sister to Ormonde.

FRANK WINER, the well known Chicago hookmaker, who, with his parents, Sam Summerfield, hooked at the track last winter, arrived in the city Tuesday. Mr. Summerfield is due in a few days.

At the Board of Supervisors' meeting Monday the new pool room ordinance was read. It was on motion referred to the Judiciary, Health and Police Committees to be considered at joint session.

DAME WINNIE is the only thoroughbred mare with three of her produce in the 2:20 list, these being Palo Alto, 2:03½; Paola, 2:1½, and Altivo, 2:18½. These three of her five performers are by Electioneer.

M. STORN has claimed the name Rastus for the roan colt by Flambeau, out of Maggie R. (dam of Tim Murphy), and for the filly by Flambeau, out of Amelia (dam of Janet N.), he has claimed the name Bohemian Lass.

W. C. VREELAND, "San Juan," paid us a visit yesterday. He is, like all other Eastern newspaper men, head and heels in love with California and its people. Mr. Vreeland is one of the leading turf authorities in America.

ADOLPH SPRECKELS has shipped all the trotters and pacers he had at the Oakland track to his beautiful farm at Aptos, Santa Cruz county, where he has a number of others which he will have handled for the circuit next season.

THANKSGIVING DAY has always been a prominent day on the turf in California. Katie Pease defeated Thad Stevens at the Bay District track in a four-mile race many years ago, and the crowd that saw her shatter the California idol was estimated to be 10,000 strong.

THE Breeders' Gazette calls Beuzetta a plunging gaited little thing, and wonders how her trainer ever got her balanced. When Beuzetta trotted her great race at Buffalo, taking her record of 2:06½, she did not impress one as being one of the plunging-gaited sort. When trotting at a 2:39 gait she is not the smoothest-gaited trotter imaginable, for the reason that she is continually taking hold of the bit and begging to go faster. When she is given her head and permitted to extend herself she is a grandly gaited mare. In speaking of her performance in the second heat of her Buffalo race, Monroe Salishbury said: "I have seen some fast trotters in my time; but I never saw one trot as fast as Beuzetta was trotting when she got the word in that heat." And those who saw the chestnut mare trot around her field as though it was play for her, and from the outside position capture the pole before she was hardly past the eighth pole, will be inclined to agree with the Californian regarding his estimate of the filly's speed. The Gazette expresses the belief that in Hickock's hands Beuzetta will be of no account, but in that it may be mistaken. The daughter of Onward is the best piece of material that even Hickock has ever had, and his success with many a trotter shows that his experience with Directum is not to be taken as an example of what he may be expected to do with other horses.

PLENTY of people are making money out of the horse business to-day, but the majority of those who are securing a fair proportion of the coin of the realm are breeders who pay particular attention to breeding and developing trotting horses into handsome park and road horses, for which animals there is a demand at present which cannot be supplied. Too many of the breeders expect to breed in every instance sensational race horses, and pay too little attention to the carriage horse or the one for which there is a never-ending demand.

WATCHING the horses that are led into the sale ring one is impressed with the fact that a gray or a cream-colored horse invariably sells for a lower price than a horse of the same quality of any other color. White markings, however, on bay, brown, chestnut or black horses seem to have no appreciable effect on the price. Roan horses, either red or black, sell as well as solid colored horses, indeed, many a buyer acknowledges a liking for roans. The smallest defect on the limbs means a difference of from $10 to $20 on the price a horse will bring, even though some of the defects are plainly but of a temporary character.

AMONG the many remarkable things which the English explorer, Mr. Jackson, has to tell in his account of the Harmsworth Polar expedition must be classed the success of that absolutely new experiment—the use of horses in a Polar expedition. Experience has conclusively shown that not only can horses be most useful employed, but that they can even eclipse that most capable and admirable colleague of the Arctic explorer—the dog. Mr. Jackson writes that he is now convinced that if any great or extended journey is to be made into the unknown north in that part of the world, it can only be achieved by the use of sturdy horses accustomed to the rigorous climate and draught work over snow.

SAM LUTTRELL, the "thoroughbred pacer" by Spendthrift, out of a Longfellow mare, that is used as a roadster by C. L. Hooper, Lincoln, Neb., won the 2:30 pace at the last Lincoln half-mile track meeting in 2:20½, 2:24½, 2:22, the time of the first heat being Sam Luttrell's record.

DR. G. W. STIMPSON, the well-known veterinarian, has one of the finest-looking three-year-old stallions in California. He was sired by Simmocolon, 2:13½, out of Sybil, 2:27½, by Sidney, 2:19½, second dam Maud R., by Whipple's Hambletonian. We understand this youngster is for sale at a bargain.

SLAUGHTER, who has a fair reputation as a jockey, used the worst kind of judgment Tuesday. He pocketed Ivy twice, then took her hack and finally had to send her around her field. Peoples seemed to get the best ride out of the speedy little mare, but Starter Ferguson has set him down for incivility.

A CARLOAD of race horses arrived from the East Tuesday. They belong to George Smith, known as "Pittsburg Phil," and Ed, Purser. The string includes Wernberg, Applause, Derfargille, Ed Kearney, Sweet Faverdale filly, Yankee Doodle, Silver Thorne and Lilly Ellis. The three latter belong to Ed Purser, two of whom are maidens.

THE California horses will have to be content with place and show hereafter in a good many races for the Eastern stables are composed of very high-class horses. The erstwhile high-class jockeys, who have received the plaudits of the grand stand, will be among the also-ran contingent. They will have no chance to look backward hereafter.

NAGLEE BURKE's stable, including the crack two year-old Crescendo, that ran second in the Futurity, has arrived and the horses are at San Jose, resting up. They stood the trip splendidly. Crescendo won more money than any California representative this season. His winnings were a few hundred more than those of Rey el Santa Anita.

MR. WILLIAM EASTON will leave shortly for California. He will spend the winter on the Pacific Coast, and expects to conduct a number of thoroughbred sales during the racing season at Bay District and Ingleside. "At any rate," said he, "if any thoroughbreds are to be sold I will be there ready to take a hand if my services are wanted.—Spirit of the Times. [We have an excellent firm of auctioneers in Killip & Co. here and know that the people hold them in high esteem.—Ed.]

A NEW YORK paper says that out-of-town breeders and horsemen are learning the importance of having their horses in show-ring condition when they are sent to the metropolitan market. A few years ago it was no uncommon thing to see good horses almost given away at the big combination sales in New York simply because their owners sent them into the sale-ring low in flesh, long-haired and looking like scarecrows. In talking about this matter a few days ago, W. B. Fasig, who has had a long experience in selling harness horses at auction, gave it as his opinion that twenty-five per cent is a conservative estimate of the difference in prices between well-kept and poorly conditioned trotting stock when sold under the hammer in New York. The National Horse Show has been a great educator in this direction, but there are still a good many breeders who do not attend the horse show and who do send their rough-coated trotters to the metropolitan market with the usual disastrous results.

ONE hundred and eleven sires got the 153 animals in the 2:10 list. Altamont and Brown Hal head the list with five each, the latter leading with average speed—2:06½; eight sires follow with three performers each, Director standing at the head, his three performers having an average speed of 2:06½. Eighteen stallions have produced two performers each. Mikagan leading this section, with an average of 2:06 3-8. Eighty-three sires have one each in the 2:10 list, and Hartford leads with Robert J., 2:10½, to his credit.

Palo Alto Trotting Stock at Auction in New York.

THE ESTATE OF LELAND STANFORD,
MENLO PARK, CALIFORNIA, HAS CONSIGNED TO

PETER C. KELLOGG & CO., AUCTIONEERS,
For Sale Tuesday, December 3, 1895, at Madison Square Garden, New York,
Commencing at 10 o'clock A. M.

About fifty head of very choice trotting stock, including the remarkable young trotting stallion Rio Alto, 2:16 1/2 (3), believed by the stud manager, Mr. F. W. Covey, to be prospectively the greatest trotting horse ever bred on the famous Palo Alto Ranch. The list is believed to be quite up to the standard of any former consignment from this breeding establishment, in high-class material for the track and stud. Catalogues will be ready November 23, for which address the Auctioneers at 107 John Street, New York.

FOR SALE.

A FINE DOUBLE TEAM OF FAST TROTTERS.

A splendid pair of roadsters, one of the finest buggy teams in the city, is offered for sale. They are well-bred, fast, stylish, and perfectly gentle—safe for a lady to drive. In breeding they cannot be excelled, being of the most fashionable strains. Any gentleman wanting a fast team will find a bargain in this pair of trotting mares. They are only four years old, and, being untrained, will continue to develop speed by careful handing. They are slightly below medium size, but of strong conformation and perfectly sound. This team may be seen at the Dexter Prince Stable, 1509 Grove Street, near Baker. They will be sold at a low price.

ALSO FOR SALE

Fast Roadsters, Race and Business Horses

NAPA STOCK FARM,

Napa, Cal. By purchasing directly from the breeder one ensures getting sound and serviceable animals at lowest prices. Colts and fillies are offered for sale by that great young sire, FULTON BERRY, also by Dexter Prince, St. Louis, Victor, 2:22, Grandissimo, 2:23 1/2, George Washington, 2:16, El Benton, 2:23, Don Marvin, 2:22, etc. These have all been bred at the Napa Stock Farm and are out of first-class mares.

Promising colts of tried speed lines will be supplied to trainers at very low prices. A large number now ready for track work are offered for sale.

Broadmares are also offered for sale by Woodnut, 2:16, Dawn, 2:18 1/4, Grandissimo, 2:23 1/4, Dexter Prince, Hawthorne, Arthurton, Naubuc, etc.

A feature is also made of supplying good livery and business horses for city use.

Shooting Pictures.

Of Interest to the Sporting Fraternity.

Messrs. Chas. Scribner & Sons beg to announce the publication of Mr. A. B. Frost's renowned shooting pictures.

Mr. Frost has long been known to all enthusiasts as the one artist able to portray hunting scenes with the spirit and feeling of the true sportsman; his own great love for shooting, and his familiarity with nature as the hunter knows and sees her, shows itself most strongly in every line of his work.

For many years the artist has been making sketches and studies with the idea of preparing a series of representative SHOOTING PICTURES, which will be recognized as accurate and real in every detail. These eight water colors have been reproduced in facsimile with the utmost care, and the publishers believe are the most perfect specimens of color reproduction of their kind ever executed. Among the subjects treated are the following:

Rail Shooting, Bay Snipe, Ruffed Grouse, Summer Woodcock, English Snipe, Ducks from a Blind, Quail Shooting, Quail—A Dead Stand.

Each plate is mounted on heavy cardboard, 19x26 inches, so that it may be framed at once if desired.

Mr. Charles D. Tanager, who writes the accompanying text, gives an increased interest to the series of pictures, and writes as only the real student of bird life and the woods can. His pages are illustrated by pen-and-ink drawings by Mr. Frost.

To those desiring further information regarding the Portfolios, please call or address

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—

- FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
- SECOND It will not cause headache.
- THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
- FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
- FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
- SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
- SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
- EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
- NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")
- TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

THIS POWDER IS MANUFACTURED BY THE

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

- First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
- Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
- Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
- Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
- Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
- Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
- Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.

Training The Trotting Horse.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters. Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develop to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm. Mailed postpaid for $3.50. Address

OPENING DAY AT INGLESIDE

Semper Lex Wins the Initial Race on the New Track.

OVER 8,000 PEOPLE PASS THE GATES.

Eastern Horses in Good Form—Honors About Even Between Them and Our Own Favorites—The Races in Detail.

OPENING Day at the Ingleside track has become a part of history, and in turf annals it will always be a bright page. In every respect wherein the association could control matters, every promise has been kept. They cannot be held accountable for the rainy weather, and consequent slippery track, which were the only features that marred an otherwise perfect day's sport, unless we also except the matter of transportation facilities, which were not as perfect as they should be, and, no doubt will be in a few days. In fact every one connected with the, association in official or business capacities seemed to be especially interested in the fulfillment of all the anticipations of a grand opening day.

The personnel of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club from the President down is: A. B. Spreckels, President; Henry J. Crocker, Vice-President, and W. S. Leake, Secretary. These three gentlemen and Edward Corrigan constitute the Board of Directors.

In the racing department are: Judges—Captain J. H. Rees, Joseph A. Murphy and Patrol Judge J. W. Wilson.

Stewards—Captain J. H. Rees, Joseph A. Murphy and Henry J. Crocker.

James F. Caldwell will do the starting.

Official timers—Orin Hickok and A. J. Stemler.

Clerk of scales—Reuben H. Clarke.

Superintendent of the course—A. M. Allen.

It would be unfair to publish anything about the Pacific Coast Jockey Club's bow to the public on the Ingleside track without mentioning Secretary Leake, Mr. Cullen and Capt. Merry, the three gentlemen who have arranged all those minutiae which are so annoying to the heads of departments and to the public when not carefully handled by competent people prior to the opening of any race meeting.

Mr. Leake, the present postmaster of Sacramento, is thoroughly conversant with the machine end of a racing club, and, as secretary of the Jockey Club, he has piloted its meetings through without a hitch and with a foresight that is showing itself now, on the opening day, when it can be seen that nothing has been left undone. He has a magnificent assistant in Mr. Cullen, the essence of politeness and tact, and who can do more work than anybody else with less labor.

Captain Thos. B. Merry was born in New York in 1834 and came to California in 1853. He has reported races longer than any man living at the present time, having begun in 1856. Not even Joseph Cairn Simpson is longer in the field than the Captain, who, however, is a younger man. Captain Merry was master of steamboats on the Oregon rivers and served as United States commissioner at the World's Fair at Melbourne in 1888 under Hon. Frank McCoppin. He is now the good friend of newspaper men in the office of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club.

James F. Caldwell is one of the oldest and best-known starters in America. There is a great deal in the way of a recommendation when the riders have no "kick" regarding the starter. It means simply that he is known to be fearless and severe, although not a martinet, and willing to give the starters an even chance regardless of stables. Everybody in the racing business will remember "Polo Jim," Caldwell's assistant, who died about two years ago. His fame was almost world-wide, and to this day it seems as though Caldwell is not himself when on the track unaccompanied by his faithful assistant. Caldwell is in demand on every race track in the United States, but the Pacific Coast Jockey Club has secured him at a salary equivalent to more than the President of the United States received before the latter was "raised."

The programme was well filled with Eastern horses, and native-bred ones that have not been seen for several months took a prominent part. No less important than the noble animals themselves are their midget pilots.

There has never been such a great number of good jockeys on this coast as there is at present, and two more celebrated ones—Fred Taral and Sam Doggett—are to arrive here next week. Those already housed at the track are: Andy Blakely and McCullough, the well-known steeplechase riders; Marty Bergen, W. Martin, Jerry Chorn, Tod Sloan, Macklin, Cochran, Garner, C. Flynn, Riley, Rowan, J. Johnson, Swift, Stanford, Coady, Chevalier, E. Jones, C. Slaughter, Shaw, Donnelly, Hennessy, McIntyre, McClain, Buras and Hinrichs.

These jockeys and their valets have an immense room under the grand stand, where each is furnished with a separate locker for his colors, whip, boots and the usual paraphernalia. The place is furnished with lavatories and every other convenience. The exit from the room is through a door leading into a narrow passageway; on the other side is the room where the lads are weighed before mounting. In this manner they are kept away from the annoying throng of people that usually surround them. From the weighing-room it is but a step to the saddling-paddock.

The first train left Third and Townsend streets at 12 o'clock, and long before that hour passengers began to arrive at the depot, and a train of ten or a dozen cars went down to the track loaded. This was followed by three others, and in the meantime the new electric line was overtaxed, as well as a large number going by the Guerrero-street line. By 1 o'clock the immense grand-stand was well filled, and the betting ring a scene of animation. By 2 o'clock the ring was packed, and there were not many vacant seats in the stand. The attendance was estimated at over 8,000. Attendants were everywhere to respond to one's wishes in the way of refreshments of all kinds, and everyone's comfort was carefully considered. A band discoursed sweet music in the stand all afternoon.

Sixteen bookmakers cut in, for the first two days, as follows: Wheelock & Co., San Francisco Club, Hughes & Co., H. G. Wendt, J. C. Humphrey, Joe Rose, Clarke & Co., Eckart & Co., Stuyvesant Club, H. L. Jones & Co., Summerfield & Co., Sellers & Co., Davis & Shepherd, George Rose, Wallace & Co., and Doyle & Co. The Brooklyn and Baldwin Clubs each had on a dollar book, and W. T. Barnett & Co., and Payne & Co. looked after the combination players.

The track was sloppy next the rail, but not deep, and on the outside looked good and dry. Promptly at 2 o'clock Judges Rees and Murphy were in the stand, the timers were on the qui vive, Starter Caldwell stood opposite the stand with his official bunting under his arm waiting for the horses in the first race, who were quickly brought out in response to the post bell. With only a few minutes' delay they were sent away to an even break, and the first race over the new track was on. There were ten starters.

Of the field, Semper Lex was made favorite by weight of coin, going down from 4 to 2 to 1. Ferrier was installed favorite at 2 to 1, but receded to 4. Candid and Cadmus, coupled in the betting, were at three most of the time, and Little Cripple had three about him at first and receded to sixes. One, two, three betting was inaugurated and Little Cripple was played heavily for a show. Installator was at 3 to 1 early in the betting but as good as 7 could be had at post time against him. Moderocio took the rail on the turn, and Chevalier took Little Cripple out wide in the slippery going and tried to go around his field. It was about the only way he could have lost the race. On the backstretch Cripple was last and could not get out of the ruck. Moderocio held the lead into the stretch, but Montana headed her on the run home. In the last eighth Semper Lex, who came around the turn fourth, got through as the leaders spread out and was rushed in an easy winner by 4 lengths. Moderocio was a fair second, and Installator, taken on the outside, a good third. Time, 1:45½.

A beautiful floral horseshoe was in readiness for the adornment of the first winner over the new track, but Semper Lex did not take kindly to the notion of having it around his neck, and that part of the programme was foregone. Semper Lex, the winner of the initial number is a chestnut horse, 5, by Falsetto—Lady Sylphide, and the property of McNaughton and Muir. This was his first start here, and he was up to a good race. He won eight out of his last nine starts in the East, at varying distances and in good company, so his fitness was the only question of his ability to make a good showing here yesterday.

The second race was at six furlongs, and quite a little delay was made at the post before a good send-off could be secured. Of the seven starters Potentate was favorite all the time, and Oregon Eclipse and Magnet next in choice as named. Potentate could not run in the mud, and when he got to the stretch Chorn took him over on the outside and he slipped all over the track. Pat Murphy showed the way nearly to the wire. In the last sixteenth Oregon Eclipse, who had turned for home fifth came up with a tremendous rush and mowed down everything. He won by a good length from Potentate, he two lengths in front of Montalvo. Time, 2:18½.

The Palace Hotel Stakes, at a mile and an eighth, was the next on the card. Just before post bell Roma, whose entry seemed to be an error somehow, was withdrawn, and all bets declared off. Bright Phoebus, the Realization winner, and noted for reveling in the mud, was a foregone conclusion, and was at even money, 2 to 5 the place. Victor was at 2, and the Spreckels pair, Foremost and Gallant coupled at 4 to 1. G. B. Morris was at 8 and Junius, at one time 50, backed down to 15 to 1.

Mr. Caldwell got them away quickly, with Foremost first to show. Victor took the pole on the first turn and held the lead easily up to the last two hundred yards, when Marty Bergen made his move and brought Junius up an easy winner by five lengths. Victor was second, two lengths in front of Gallant. Bright Phoebus, who had began to move up while on the backstretch, dropped back and finished last. Time, 1:59. The old Southern custom of hanging the purse on the wire to be cut down by the winner, was followed in the race, and Marty climbed up and got the purse after he had weighed in.

Junius, the winner of the stakes, is owned by John Carrol, manager of Mr. Corrigan's string, and was trained by Bob Campbell. He is a bay colt, 3, by Longfellow—Modesty. In his two last starts East he ran second and third.

Mr. Spreckels had another pair in the next race, at five and one-half furlongs, and the stable was made favorite. Pique took the lead from Adolph Spreckels (Jennie Treacy colt) before the half pole was reached and gave way to her stable companion on the turn for home. Ravelstone then came and won with great ease by four lengths, La Flecha second a length in front of Pique. Time, 1:12½.

The last race was over six hurdles, at one and a half miles. Of the eight starters J. O. C. was an 8 to 5 favorite, with Col. Weightman second choice at 2 to 1. The only feature of the race was the finish between the two named from the last hurdle. Every jump was a struggle for blood, and the two horses ran to the wire head and head. Wightman had just a trifle the best of it till the last stride, when J. O. C. came up to him and made it a dead heat. April was third. Time, 2:55½.

Marty Bergen had the very honorable distinction of winning the first race over the new track, and also of taking the first stake event. William Martin rode a very excellent race on Oregon Eclipse. Piggott rode a winner and Hennessy and T. Murphy the dead heat.

The winner of the Lissac Stake race, selling, Wednesday, was a bay filly called Joan, by St. Carlo, out of Bagatelle, by Jim Brown; second dam Virginia, by Revenue; third dam Corinne, by Glencoe. This filly was sold at one of the Rancho del Paso auction sales in this city last fall for $65. There will be another sale from this farm next month at which a number of good ones at low prices will be sold at low figures. Oakland was the cheapest horse sold at the Shippee sale two years ago. He brought the magnificent sum of $65 also.

CAPTAIN JULES CALLUNDAN and a corps of twenty special men will patrol every portion of the race track night and day, insuring the right kind of people against abuse, insult or even inconvenience.

THE INGLESIDE RACE TRACK

Everything in Readiness Now for the Opening Day.

THE APPOINTMENTS ARE MOST COMPLETE

Transportation Facilities Will be Ample—A Description of the Track and Buildings—Horses Now at the Track.

[From the DAILY BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of November 26.]

On Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 28th, the new racecourse at Ingleside, which has just been completed by the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, an association of California and Eastern men of wealth, will be thrown open to the public. As everything has been done on a most generous scale since the inception of the new association, it goes without saying, that the opening day will be in a blaze of glory, and the event one to be long remembered. Everything will be in perfect order. As an evidence of the thorough manner in which every thing has been done it is related that when Mr. Corrigan arrived here, and was asked if there was anything further he would suggest, he answered, there was nothing; that everything was as perfect and satisfactory as could be wished.

To those who have not taken the time to visit the new track and are not familiar with the work that has been done there in the past few months, the following brief description will not be out of order. In the first place, the question of transportation seems to be the most important, at least it is the one most frequently asked. In answer, the association has sent out cards with the following information:

"Take Mission Street electric line, connections made with this line at Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Twenty-second and Twenty-ninth Streets. Transfers issued at Third, Ninth, Tenth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Twenty-second and Twenty-ninth Streets.

"Take Southern Pacific Trains at Third and Townsend St. Depot, leaving at 12:00, 12:30, 1:30 and 2:00 P. M., stopping at Twenty-Sixth and Valencia Streets. Fare for round trip, including admission to Grand Stand, $1.

"Fare for round trip, for parties holding Official Badges of Pacific Coast Jockey Club, twenty-five cents.

"Parties in private conveyances, will find it a delightful drive through Golden Gate Park to the Beach, and along the Ocean to the Ocean House Road; also through the Park to Seventh Avenue, thence by the Alms House Road."

The spur track of the Southern Pacific has been completed several days and trains can be run to within a few hundred feet of the grand stand, and a covered way is now being erected from the gates to the main building. On the other side a similar covered way is about completed, under which passengers, by way of the Mission Street Electric Line, may reach the grand stand. The electric road is not completed yet. Large gangs of men are at work night and day, and construction Superintendent Lynch assures everyone interested that there need be no fears on that score. Those who know what has been accomplished within the past ten days, do not doubt his ability to make his word good.

Reaching the track by either line one enters the main building at the rear, stepping into a large area. From this point broad steps on the right and left lead up to the grand stand or down into the betting ring. Going into the stand first, as one reaches the upper landing a picture of beauty is presented. Below lies the double circle of tracks, one a black girde, the other without a top-dressing, showing in strong contrast the natural red of the soil. The tracks are inclosed in neat fences, those just in front of the buildings being very tasty in design and constructed of iron. The natty and ornamental judges' and timers' stands add to the attractiveness of the picture.

The infield, excepting the bare cuts and fills, presents a green bed to view. Across the tracks on rising ground are the stables and kitchens, arranged in attractive and uniform order, and the slope will be sown to grass and kept in its trim order. In fact, the beautifying of the grounds will have special attention. It is the purpose to so fit the whole place that comparisons will be out of the question, and Ingleside will be the high standard set for others to follow.

After the first exclamation of surprise and delight at the prospect one turns to inspect the grand stand. It is grand in its conception and must be admitted to be the best adapted to the comfort and convenience of the track patrons of any in the country. In the first place it will comfortably seat 4,500 people, and in tiers of seats so pitched as to raise each one above any obstruction of view from those below. The main feature, however, and which visitors never tire of expatiating over, is that from whatever point one is seated an unobstructed view of any part of the track may be had. There need be no rising in the seats or confusion as the horses circle the course, for each and everyone will have as perfect a view as the others. The seats are very comfortable, and the whole arrangement will be most liberally praised. Especial attention has been given to the comfort of the ladies. On the landing back of the seats is a wide promenade, extending the whole length of the building, and off from this are dining rooms, dressing and retiring rooms. Beyond these is another promenade and also a dining room on the glass enclosed balcony, from which a splendid marine view may be had.

The betting ring is 200x110 feet and extends under the grand stand almost to the saddling paddock without a post to obstruct the view. It is spacious, easily accommodating 4,000 people. It is open on the south, plenty of windows on the north side, and the roof is well supplied with skylights. Twenty-four neat and commodious "blocks" are ready for as many bookmakers and their assistants. At the west end of the ring are refreshment counters, of ample dimensions, and in such shape as to accommodate with comfort a large number of the hungry and thirsty patrons of the ring.

From the betting ring to the paddock on the east another covered passage way offers protection from rain, and passing between the Secretary's office and jockeys' rooms one enters the tan-bark area. The Secretary's rooms will be fitted with all the appointments necessary for the conduct of his business, and the jockeys' room is fitted with lockers, lavatories and every convenience for the midgets.

The paddock is a marvel of neatness and utility. Sixteen stalls are ranged in double tiers down the center, but they are built of wire so one can see through from one to the other. They are roomy, and are provided with sliding doors, so the intruding public may be kept out, but at the same time the attendants and horses are always in sight. In front of the paddock a lawn has been sown, and is already looking green. Before all the other buildings a pavement on a good pitch has been laid.

At the west end of the grandstand the club house is to be erected, and on the high ground back of the stand, handy to reach, ample accommodations for teams has been provided in sheds 600 feet long. There are twenty-one stables at present, twelve containing forty stalls each, and the others thirty-two, each uniformly 11x9-6. These buildings are detached so as to leave little danger of one building igniting another in case of fire, and are arranged in attractive and uniform order. Back of the stables, next the inclosure fence, are ranged thirteen buildings, containing double kitchens in each. The slopes before the stables and kitchens are sown to grass, and will be kept in neatest order. Two more large stables will be erected soon for Mr. Corrigan and Mr. Spreckels' horses.

The track is in first-class condition, and it is believed will prove a fast track at once. Sunday morning two horses were timed in their workouts by a new corner. The first event the mile in 1:45½, and the next in 1:43½, the latter not being sent at high speed and finishing well within himself. A third was timed five-eighths in 1:02.

To look at the track (or tracks, rather, as there will be two) as it is now, one must admit it was a herculean task. Taking, for instance, the turn into the stretch for a starting point, it begins at grade, and the fill increases gradually but regularly till a depth of sixty-nine feet is reached at the quarter turn, which has been built over a ravine. From the center of the turn to a point about opposite the grand stand the fill grows less till the only other point of grade or the course is reached. Then a gradual cut increases to one of at least twenty feet at the far turn, and again lessens to grade at the starting point. An inside track is being built, which will be used for working horses over and during wet weather. The main track is covered fifteen inches deep with loam. The turns are wide and thrown up so as to enable a horse to negotiate them with great ease. At the first view up the track from the stretch turn, one is treated to an optical illusion, the track appearing to be quite a stiff up-grade to the wire. With the ocean for a horizon, a sloping bank on one hand and the receding level of the infield on the other, the visual deception is quite natural. Unless it had been demonstrated to the contrary one would hardly believe such a mistake possible.

An addition to the features of the new grounds will be a kindergarten track a quarter of a mile around, for the babies to be trained on. It is staked off and will be laid out in the southwest corner of the inclosure. If one point more fully attracts attention than others in the way the work has been accomplished, it is the very thorough precautions taken against storm-water. Trenches and culverts, drain pipes and outlets are in every place needed, and it looks as though an unprecedented fall of rain would be required to damage any part of the whole.

The work accomplished has been the marvel of all who have kept up with the progress of construction. Ten weeks ago not a shingle had reached the grounds, yet every one of the large buildings have been thoroughly covered.

Many of those who have recently come West with strings of horses, say they were almost led to change their plans through reports of the unfinished condition of everything pertaining to the new course. Since arriving here they are more than pleased with the arrangement of everything, and are most generous in praise of the liberal management of the track and its appointments. Everything reasonable is accorded with a cheerful willingness that is most pleasing. As to the prospects of this year's racing, there is but one answer, and that is we will have a grand Winter meeting, and it is but the precursor of many more and even better. The possibilities of a California winter as a season for racing, will be shown in such a manner and to such men as will surely bring very large returns in numbers and money. As this is accomplished, the market for our thoroughbreds widens, and the State will take the proud position it is so justly entitled to, the premier in the breeding of fine and fast stock.

So liberal has been the response in entries to the new club's stake events, and demands for stable room, that the ample provisions made have already been taxed and contracts for other buildings have been let. In the meantime everything will be crowded. There are many stalls vacant yet, and to the casual observer it would look as though there was room and to spare, but every space has been engaged, and all of the now vacant stalls will be filled by Wednesday night. Of those that are already on the ground, the subjoined list of horses, together with names of owners, trainers and jockeys, will be of interest. It was complete up to Monday of this week:
